RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE POLYGLOTT BIBLE.

The following is an extract of a recommendation of several clergymen of Philadelphia, to the small edition of this work.

'We are satisfied, after a careful review of this work, that the marginal references and readings are more correct and useful for all common purposes, than any other Bible extant. Those of Canne, Scott, Brown, Blaney Osterwald, and others, are too numerous, and many of them entirely useless to the Christian in the closet, or the scholar in the class; while those of the Polyglott are few, yet containing all that is highly important, and by a very ingenious arrangement, are placed without confusion in a small middle column, without injuring or obscuring the face of the page."

Gentlemen,—That a Bible for daily use be accompanied with marginal references, and those helps with which you propose to furnish your contemplated edition, is surely a high advantage. The references which have been prepared for the English version of the Polyglott Bible, so called, appear to have been selected with attention and skill. Of the value of the other proposed accompaniments, we think very highly; and cannot therefore but wish success to the publication, and desire that this edition of the Sacred Scriptures may have a wide circulation.

PREFACE TO THE ENGLISH VERSION

OF THE

POLYGLOTT BIBLE.

THE greatness of the advantages that must accrue to a sincere and diligent reader of the Sacred Pages, from having constantly before him a Reference to similar and illustrative passages, carefully investigated, and suitably applied, must be obvious to every one; and has been well understood by many pious and able men, to whose diligent and useful labours the Public is unspeakably indebted.

* * * * * * *

The Chronology is always placed at the top of the middle column, where it denotes the Date of the writing or transaction contained in the text, at the beginning of the page.

The Marginal Readings contained in the folio and quarto Bibles are all introduced; the idioms of the original languages which are preserved in many of them, and also the various senses of particular words or phrases, being in most instances instructive, and in all worthy to be known. But it has not been thought necessary, in giving these readings, to insert such words as are repeated in the text, and which would therefore have fruitlessly occupied a portion of the space allotted to references.

The Various Readings are referred to by small figures placed immediately before the words for which they are to be substituted; and the References by Italic letters, which are generally placed after the first or second word of a verse, or clause of a verse, when they are intended to illustrate the whole of that verse or clause: but when the principal force of the illustration rests on a single word, the letter reference is placed immediately after that word. This has been the general rule; and the exceptions have either been unavoidable, or are quite immaterial.

In referring to several relations of the same facts, by different Writers in the Sacred Volume, (as in the histories recorded by the Four Evangelists, and in those contained in the Books of Kings and Chronicles,) the corresponding chapters, or parts of chapters in each, having been once noted at the beginning of the history or subject, it has not been thought necessary to repeat those references in the subsequent verses, except where something material is to be noticed. Thus also in the prophecy of Obadiah, which relates chiefly to the destruction of the Edomites, the prophecies of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Amos, on the same subject, having been once pointed out at the commencement, are not again referred to. And so in the history of our Lord's temptation, given in the fourth chapter of the Gospel by St. Matthew, reference being made from the first verse to the fourth chapter of that by St. Luke, where the same history is recorded, no further reference is made to that chapter in the subsequent verses; the connexion of the whole being obvious, and the comparison easy. More space has been thus retained for the illustration or confirmation of the subjects or sentences individually, which are comprised in the particular parts of the history or discourse.

For a similar reason, where the same identical words, or nearly so, might be found in a great number of texts, a few of these only have been selected; —illustration, not repetition, having been the object in view.

The References, therefore, which fill the middle column, have all been diligently considered and applied with a particular attention to this specific end, that none which were superfluous might be introduced, while the most material purposes to be answered by References might nevertheless be effectually secured.

WHETHER the latitude or the limits of such an undertaking be considered, it is proper that the principles on which it has been conducted should be so far explained, as that the Reader may be apprised of what he is to expect from it, and in what branches of religious inquiry it may most materially assist him.

In that grand enunciation of the dignity and design of the Sacred Volume, which is given by the Apostle Paul, (2 Tim. iii. 16, 17,) we are told, that "ALL SCRIPTURE IS GIVEN BY INSPIRATION OF GOD, AND IS PROFITABLE FOR DOCTRINE, FOR REPROOF FOR CORRECTION, FOR INSTRUCTION IN RIGHTEOUS NESS; THAT THE MAN OF GOD MAY BE PERFECT, THOROUGHLY FURNISHED UNTO ALL GOOD WORKS." But it must be evident, that the Scripture could not be effectually profitable for these great ends, nor make the man of God PERFECT,* if it were not perfect itself; if its different parts were at variance with each other: if, notwithstanding all the variety of matter, and multiplicity of detail, which such a book required, the doctrines revealed, and the moral duties enjoined, were not substantially and essentially the same throughout; and if all the parts did not concur in the plan of the whole. To exhibit, then, the harmony of the Sacred Writers, on the subjects of which they treat, has been the primary design of this selection. And as there are some subjects of leading importance, in which all the rest are included, and by means of which the harmony and perfection of the Inspired Pages are written, as with the beams of the sun; to these, especial care and attention have been devoted.

I. It has appeared an object of the first magnitude, that the reader of the Holy Scriptures should be assisted by references from text to text, to have constantly in view the connexion of all the divine attributes, and the holy uniformity of God in his government, both of his Church, and of the world. A display of the true character and perfections of God is, without dispute, one chief design of the Inspired Volume. Here, as in Isaiah's miraculous vision, may Jehovah be seen, sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up; his train fills the temple, and the Sacred Writers, like the Seraphim, cover themselves, and cry one to another, and say, HOLY, HOLY, HOLY IS THE LORD OF HOSTS, THE WHOLE EARTH IS FULL OF HIS GLORY. It is this which gives to the Scripture its superlative grandeur. By it, God is known; his will is promulgated; his purposes are revealed; his mercy is announced; and he is every where exhibited as worthy of the supreme adoration, love, service, and praise, of all his intelligent creatures. Little do those who neglect their Bibles think what refined delight they lose, by thus turning away their eyes from the most sublime, the most glorious, and the most beatifying object of contemplation, that the whole universe affords.

II. But this manifestation of the Divine character and government is not presented to us as a matter of mere speculation, in which we have no immediate and personal interest. The Holy Scriptures are designed to promote the Glory of God BY THE SALVATION OF MAN. The peculiar purpose of the whole is, to turn men from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan to God; to raise them from the ruins of the Fall, and to put them in possession of the blessings of Redemption; to lead them from sin to holiness; to conduct them through a state of conflict and trial on earth, to a state of rest and felicity in heaven; and so to assist and direct them in all possible conditions in life, that they may not fail of these great ends, except by their own wilful rejection of the counsel of God against themselves. The salvation of his own soul should therefore be the grand concern of every reader of the Scripture. Here the immortality of the soul is brought to light, and placed in unquestionable evidence. Here, its defection from original purity is clearly demonstrated; the means of its restoration are set forth; and its future destiny is declared. It is an awful responsibility which they incur who wilfully neglect this holy book, and devote all their time, and the powers of their minds, to terrestrial, and subordinate objects. They slight the pearl of greatest price, which is no where else to be found; and seem as if they were determined to frustrate, as far as respects themselves, all that Divine wisdom and goodness have done to rescue the immortal mind of man from spiritual ignorance, error, vanity, vice, and ruin. Those, however, who are seeking to enjoy the blessings which the Gospel reveals, will, as they are able, search the Scriptures; and such persons will receive great help from having references at hand to assist their inquiries. "It were to be wished," says Bishop Horsley, "that no Bibles were printed without References. Particular diligence should be used in comparing the parallel texts of the Old and New Testaments.... It is incredible," he adds, "to any one who has not made the experiment, what a proficiency may be made in that knowledge which maketh wise unto salvation, by studying the Scriptures in this manner, WITHOUT ANY OTHER COMMENTARY, OR EXPOSITION, THAN WHAT THE DIFFERENT PARTS OF THE SACRED VOLUME MUTUALLY FURNISH FOR EACH OTHER. Let the most illiterate Christian study them in this manner, and let him never cease to pray for the illumination of that spirit by which these books were dictated: and the whole compass of abstruse philosophy, and recondite history, shall furnish no argument with which the perverse will of man shall be able to shake this learned Christian's faith."† So great and perfect is the coincidence of every part of the Word of God in the grand and merciful design of the whole!

III. This is more apparent, and the harmony and perfection of the Holy Scriptures are rendered more peculiarly evident and distinct, by the constant reference of all its writers to our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. TO HIM GIVE ALL THE PROPHETS WITNESS. Acts x. 43. The things which were written in the law of Moses, and in all the Prophets, and in the Psalms, concern HIM; (Luke xxiv. 27, 44;) and would come to nothing if he were separated from them. He is the bright and morning star; the true light that must lighten every man who comes to see the glory of Divine Revelation. Rev. xxii. 16. John i. 9. It has therefore been a chief design of this Work to connect and to exhibit the testimony which all the Sacred Penmen bear to the adorable Immanuel; to the proper and unequivocal Divinity of his nature, the necessity of his mediation, the reality and design of his incarnation, his spotless and exemplary life, his unparalleled sufferings, his vicarious death, the verity of his resurrection and ascension into heaven, the sufficiency of his righteousness, the prevalence of his intercession, the spirituality of his kingdom, his sovereignty in the Church, his constant care and love of his people, and the certainty of his second coming to raise the dead and judge the world in righteousness;—grand and sublime truths, in which every individual of the human race is deeply and eternally interested.

IV. The chief purpose of Christ's mission being that such as believe on him might be saved from sin, which is the transgression of the Divine law, and from the punishment due to it; it has been thought important frequently to connect those texts which speak of transgressions, with those in which the law concerning them is to be found, and in which punishment is threatened; and sometimes with those in which the atonement is set forth, and pardon is proclaimed; or in which sanctification is promised, or enforced; and these again with such as relate to the future happiness and glory which is promised to the faithful, or punishment and misery denounced against the impenitent. A small body of divinity is sometimes comprised in a few texts connected together in this way. Thus, from those words in Eze. xxiii. 49. Ye shall bear the sins of your idols, the Reader is referred first to Numb. xiv. 34, as a parallel passage, shewing God visiting sin upon the transgressors themselves; then to Numb. xviii. 23. to shew the typical visitation of it upon the Levitical priesthood; then to Isaiah liii. 11. to shew the prophetic declaration of its being laid on Christ; and, lastly, to 1 Pet. ii. 24. to shew the actual fulfilment of that prophecy, and the end to be answered by it: for there we are told, that He that judgeth righteously, "his own self, bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sin, should live to righteousness."

V. The concurrence of the Old and New Testament with each other, and the relation of the types before and under the Mosaic law, to their completion under the Gospel, have been studiously regarded, so as to render it evident, that whatever variations may have been made in the form and administration of external worship, true religion, under the former dispensations, was always essentially the same as true religion under the present; that "he is not a Jew which is one outwardly; neither is that circumcision which is outward in the flesh: but he is a Jew which is one inwardly; and circumcision is that of the heart, in the spirit, and not in the letter; whose praise is not of men, but of God. For in every nation, he that feareth God, and worketh righteousness, is accepted of him." Rom. ii. 28, 29. Acts x. 35. In this, the revelation made before the institution of the Levitical priesthood, that made during its continuance, and that which has been made since its termination, all agree. The Mosaic ritual was the shadow of good things to come; so were the priesthood and kingdom of Melchisedec: and the body is Christ, who is essentially the same, both in his person and in his government, yesterday, to-day, and for ever. Heb. xiii. 8.

VI. But the instruction diffused through the Scriptures, respecting the gracious and indispensable operations of the Holy Ghost the Sanctifier, has not been forgotten: and the references on this article will shew, that, as to his sacred influence on the minds of the Inspired Penmen, we are indebted for all the truths they have taught us; so to his influence on the minds of those who receive and regard them, must such persons be indebted for all they have learned, or can learn, of them. His work completes the great design of the whole; and his assistance and blessing are distinctly promised to all who sincerely ask them.

VII. As the Scriptures harmonize in their primary and general objects, so do they with regard to the particular subjects comprehended in their plan. Historical accounts are verified by other coincident ones, or by accounts of the persons or places to which they refer. The prophecies of one Prophet, concerning events which were to take place, relating either to kingdoms, families, individuals, or the world at large, are consistent with those pronounced by other Prophets. The accounts of the Jewish polity under its various vicissitudes, are confirmed by the writings of the Prophets who lived during or after those vicissitudes; while the former tend reciprocally to establish the authenticity of the latter. The histories of the Four Evangelists have a regular connexion and parallelism, especially those of Matthew, Mark, and Luke. The recital of the transactions of the Apostles, after the ascension of our Lord, strongly authenticates the Apostolic Epistles: and Archdeacon Paley has well shewn the confirmation which the Epistles of St. Paul derive from the circumstances recorded by St. Luke, in his book of the Acts. Prophecies are connected with their accomplishments, as far as those accomplishments are included in the Scripture History. Promises and threatenings are connected with their respective fulfilments; precept with example, and with supplication; and the prayers of believers with the answers they have received. All these relations have been carefully regarded in this compilation.

VIII. Further, the Scriptures are not merely intended to lead men to godliness: they are intended also to exemplify it. Repentance, Faith, Hope, Charity, and Devotion, are here exhibited in the most perfect models; and it has therefore entered into the design of this Work to shew the corresponding emotions and conduct of the Saints, both of the Old Testament and the New, when under the influence of those dispositions, contemplations, and emotions, which are most peculiarly characteristic of true piety; and also to connect the devotional parts of Scripture with the occurrences which gave rise to them, as far as they can be ascertained. Thus is Religion known by its fruits: not as a thing merely of times and circumstances: but a living principle in the mind, which times and circumstances call into action, and contribute to display.

IX. The aphoristic and poetical parts of the Sacred Writings are also connected, so as to illustrate and enforce each other; that the Reader may be constantly impressed with those momentous truths, and that sublime language with which they abound, and which afford perpetual food for the best exercises of the understanding, and the finest emotions of the heart; at once furnishing materials for the most rational entertainment, and the most solid instruction. In this respect, the Scriptures will be found to resemble the garden of Eden, in which the Lord God has made to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for spiritual food. But no Cherubim or flaming sword are here to prohibit access to the Tree of Life. The children of the second Adam may freely, and without fear or interruption, now put forth their hands to its soul-reviving fruit, and take, and eat, and live for ever.

X. The agreement of the Sacred Writers with each other will be found not only to exist in the subjects on which they treat, but to extend to their own individual characters. It will appear that they were all animated by the same Spirit; that they were all holy men, speaking as they were moved by the Holy Ghost, calling men to holiness, as the indispensable requisite to the enjoyment of everlasting happiness;—men, nevertheless, of like passions with ourselves, conscious of their own natural infirmity and sinfulness, and of the mercy of God through Christ Jesus, as their only refuge from his just displeasure. In short, they were men fearing God, loving God; loving his character, his laws, his will; admiring his great and wonderful purposes, and voluntarily, deliberately, and determinedly devoting themselves to his service, whatever it might cost them, and to whatever it might expose them. On all these accounts, they are held forth as examples, whose faith, patience, and practice, Christians are to follow. 1 Cor. xi. 1. Heb. xiii. 7. Ja. v 10

It is thus that the Scriptures are PROFITABLE to all the purposes for which they are destined, and are calculated to make the man of God PERFECT, and thoroughly furnished unto all good works. To the Inspired Pages at large may be applied the remarks of the excellent Bishop Horne (on the Psalms.) "Indited under the influence of Him, to whom all hearts are known, and all events foreknown, they suit mankind in all situations, grateful as the manna which descended from above, and conformed itself to every palate. The fairest productions of human wit, after a few perusals, like gathered flowers, wither in our hands, and lose their fragrancy; but these unfading plants of Paradise become, as we are accustomed to them, still more and more beautiful; their bloom appears to be daily heightened, fresh odours are emitted, and new sweets extracted from them. He who hath once tasted their excellences, will desire to taste them yet again; and he who tastes them oftenest will relish them best."

Happy in having labored to facilitate the acquaintance of the Christian with this invaluable treasure, the Editor has now only to implore the blessing of Him by whom its exhaustless stores have been bestowed on sinful man; and to hope that his feeble endeavours may be instrumental in advancing the Reader's edification, and, in their humble measure, tend to promote that happy state of things, so long foretold, and so ardently to be desired, in which THE EARTH SHALL BE FILLED WITH THE KNOWLEDGE OF THE GLORY OF JEHOVAH AS THE WATERS COVER THE SEA. Heb. ii. 14. Is. xi. 9.

A CONCISE INTRODUCTION

TO THE

STUDY OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

THE scriptures of the Old and New Testament claim to be a perfect and authoritative rule of faith and practice; and to be such a rule, because they are the declarations of the will of the Creator and Moral Governor of the world. The validity of these claims, then, cannot but be an interesting and important subject of investigation;—it must be an important inquiry to which to furnish a satisfactory answer, Are the writings contained in the Bible really a revelation from God? Before we attempt to furnish such an answer, there are some previous questions which need to be disposed of; for example, Is a Revelation from Heaven possible? Is it likely that such a revelation would be afforded to his creatures, by the Creator? Is there any necessity for such a communication from God to man? Then, supposing these questions to be answered affirmatively, the next will be a question of fact, Whether such Revelation has been indeed made to man? When this question shall be settled affirmatively, another will arise in the mind of the mere English Reader; Whether his Bible, the English translation, may be relied on as the word of God? It will be our object in this Introduction, to reply to these several inquiries; and to endeavor to prove the affirmative of them, viz. That a Revelation of the Divine will is possible;—That it is highly probable that such a Revelation would be given;—That such a Revelation is necessary;—That such a Revelation has been given;—and that our English translation, in what is called the authorized version, contains the imparted Revelation.

CHAPTER I.

A Revelation of the Divine will is possible.

Any person who believes in the existence of a God, possessing the attributes usually ascribed to him in Christian countries, and particularly Omnipotence, must at once admit that He can, if he see fit, make a communication of his will to man. for Omnipotence is the power of doing whatever does not imply a contradiction; and no contradiction is involved in the supposition of such a communication from God to man. He can communicate other knowledge than men have the power to acquire in the ordinary modes of intercourse with each other; and also can impart, in a manner different from that in which men usually obtain it, knowledge, which is attainable by ordinary means. He can preserve those to whom he makes his communications, from those errors into which they would, without such special assistance, be liable to fall; and he can render them capable of exertions in the apprehension and expression of truth, to which their unaided powers are altogether inadequate. Now all that is claimed for the inspired writers, is, That they make known truths the knowledge of which cannot be attained in the ordinary way,—that they were sometimes, in an extraordinary way, instructed in things, the knowledge of which is attainable by common means;—that they were, by special divine superintendence, preserved from error;—that their powers were, sometimes, specially enlarged and elevated; and that they were thus, in the ordinary exercise of their faculties, operating in an elevated degree, capable of efforts to which, under ordinary circumstances, they were not equal. All therefore which is claimed for them is conceded as possible, by him who admits the existence of an Almighty Governor of the Universe, and with others we have, here, no argument.

Moreover, An Almighty being is able so to communicate his will to his rational creatures, as to make it certain to them, that it is HE who converses with them. Can it be that men have the means of intercourse with each other, and also the means of knowing, certainly, who it is with whom they hold this converse; and yet, that the Almighty is without the power of convincing his servants that it is HE who converses with them? Is his power circumscribed within limits narrower than theirs? If not, it is possible for him to accredit his communications to those to whom he originally makes them; and to deny this, and admit Omnipotence in God, is a glaring contradiction

CHAPTER II.

A Revelation of the Divine will is probable.

Every enlightened Deist is ready to admit the Divine Being to be possessed of infinite wisdom. He admits also that this All-wise Being has created, and placed man upon the earth. Now such a Being would not call man into existence, and place him on the stage, without a purpose which he designed to accomplish by so doing. Nor would he place man upon earth in any other circumstances, than those best calculated to secure the end he proposed in man's creation and location here; for infinite wisdom must choose the best means to accomplish its purposes. Now is it more probable that while our Creator designed us to accomplish his will, he should leave us in ignorance of that will, or that he should make to us a communication of it? Every man's reason and common sense at once answers this question, that the communication of a revelation is a more probable event than the withholding of it.

Again, The Deist admits, that God is a being of equal justice, and boundless benevolence; and, that man is the subject of God's moral government, and accountable to his Maker for his actions. Now, if man be accountable for his actions, they must be examined by some standard; that standard is the rule of actions, —the law of conduct. But a law is an exhibition of the will of the law-giver; and, such an exhibition, from God to man, is a revelation. Now is it more probable, that God will call men to account for their actions, as corresponding, or disagreeing with his will, when he never imparted to them that will; or that as they are accountable, he will furnish to them a rule of conduct, and a standard of duty? Which course would most nearly accord with even-handed justice, and boundless benevolence? Benevolence desires the good of its object; Which, then, is most likely to promote men's good, and their happiness; the destitution of that rule, by observing which happiness may be secured? or, the possession of it? If the possession of it, then is it probable, that under the government of an infinitely benevolent being, a Revelation would be imparted.

Again, What we actually witness and experience of the benevolence of God, would render it probable, that he would afford to man a revelation of his will. We see the world every where furnished with remedies for the diseases to which mankind are liable. It is God who has thus produced, in abundance, the means of alleviating natural evil; and his benevolence appears in these provisions. Now moral evil exists, as the Deist will readily admit, and its ravages are committed on the more noble part of man's nature, especially,—his soul. Is it probable, that for the evils suffered by our inferior part, our Creator should make such varied and abundant provision; while, yet, for the nobler, and ever enduring spirit, under its far more serious sufferings, no remedy should be provided? Is it probable, that for the diseases of the body, which must soon, at all events, drop into the grave, remedies should be furnished; while, yet, for the deeper maladies of the deathless spirit, (e. g. ignorance of God, the chief good,—and distaste to his service, the highest felicity) the whole range of this lower world should contain no intimations of a healing balm? Whoever admits a God, sufficiently benevolent to regard the miseries of his creatures, and sufficiently wise, to proportion his regard to the nature and magnitude of these miseries, must admit, that there is a greater probability that a revelation should be imparted, than that it should be withheld.

CHAPTER III.

A Revelation of the Divine Will is necessary.

The truth of this position may be shown, from various considerations.

1. From the moral state of the ancient Heathens. On this subject we have testimonies in abundance, and the difficulty lies only in selection. Sacred writers, considered merely as historians, may be properly introduced here as witnesses. On religious and moral subjects, these writers declare the heathen to have become "vain in their imaginations" or "reasonings," and that, "their foolish heart was darkened:" they were "given over to vile affections, and to work" or practice "all uncleanness with greediness:"—that being "without Christ," they were "without hope and without a God" deserving of the name or worship of one.

The moral state of the ancient heathen may be learned also, and the testimony of the sacred writers, respecting them, confirmed by that of heathen writers themselves. Crimes, the most flagitious, were countenanced both by the arguments and example, of their moralists and Philosophers. Plato taught the expediency, and the lawfulness of infanticide by exposure; and Aristotle, of procuring abortion Lycurgus, a man whom Plutarch has eulogized, as a perfectly wise, or good man, allowed the exposure, or murder of weak and imperfectly formed children in his republic, as also of theft; for which itself no punishment was inflicted, but only for the want of adroitness in the practice of it. The public baths of Sparta, also, were for the indiscriminate use of both sexes, and both were compelled to bathe together: and this model of perfection, Lycurgus, ordered, that females, as well as males, should appear naked in the public exercises, and in that state, should dance with them at the solemn festivals and sacrifices. The task were easy to produce, from heathen writers, evidence of the most revolting and flagitious wickedness, in the practice of the communities of those times; but we must not pollute our pages with the details. Such persons, as are desirous of perusing the sad particulars of their moral degradation and pollution, are referred to the Biblical Repositc ry, Vol. 2. p. 441. et. seq. Enough has here been said, to evince the necessity of a Revelation, from the moral state of the heathen generally; for, laws tolerating such enormities, and far less enjoining them, could not have been enacted by legislators, even the most abandoned, had not public sentiment accorded with them; and, in a measure, invited their enactment. But, lest it should be supposed that this was the morality of merely the common people, the profanum vulgus, and that the enlightened and refined among the ancient heathen, were persons of correct and pure morals, we must proceed another step in our argument, and prove our position,

2. From the moral state of the refined and educated among the heathen;—the practices of their Philosophers, Legislators, and Poets. We must, of necessity, be brief, in the notices we introduce, and also in the catalogue of names we mention; we shall, therefore, make our selection from among the least exceptionable of their distinguished men; from those whom classical scholars universally admire, and whom Deists are the readiest to quote, in their endeavors to show the sufficiency of reason and the needlessness of a revelation in matters of morals and religion.

Socrates, the first among the Greeks who made morality the proper and only subject of his philosophy, and introduced it into common life, recommended divination, and was addicted to incontinence and fornication. Plato, the great disciple of Socrates, encouraged by his practice, unnatural lusts and vices; and if his practice may be estimated by his precepts, would not hesitate, on what he would call a fit occasion, to dissemble, deceive and lie; for he teaches in his Republic, that, to lie, is often καλον, honorable; and that "he may lie who knows how to do it, on a fit, or needful occasion." Cicero, as favorable a specimen of heathen excellence as we can readily find, commends, and justifies, and at length practised suicide; and warmly pleads for fornication; as having in it nothing censurable; and as being universally allowed and practised. Cato of Utica, (who has been extolled as "a perfect model of virtue,) actually prostituted his wife to Hortensius; was an habitual drunkard; and advocated and practised self-murder. It has been said of some of the ancient philosophers, and particularly of Socrates, that the morality he taught was pure and elevated; and, especially, that the great Christian duty, of love to enemies, and forgiveness of injuries, was inculcated by him, and that, therefore, there is no "necessity of Revelation" to teach us even this exalted branch of morals. But if the whole scope of the passage be duly observed, it will be seen to be otherwise. It is one thing to abstain from inflicting punishment, either with our own hands, or by the hands of the minister of justice; and another thing to forgive and love the offender. The former, Socrates approves and enjoins; but not the latter; so far from it, indeed, that he assigns his desire of the highest and most refined vengeance, as a reason why he would not prosecute an enemy at the tribunals of his country. The following is the substance of his reasoning:—"You allow that moral excellence is the greatest good. You allow, also, that the punishment of offenders is one means of reforming them. If then our enemy has injured us, the greatest good we can bestow upon him, is to bring him to a court of justice, and inflict the vengeance of the laws. Then by no means punish your enemy for having injured you; for so you defeat your own purpose of revenge. Leave him to the whole, uncontrolled, uncounteracted influence of his moral depravity, because that is the greatest evil which can be endured."

As to the morality of the poets of pagan antiquity, if by their works, we may estimate their ways, it was as utterly objectionable as that of the other classes. The creations of their fancy, laid the foundation of the popular theology; and who can wonder that the people became enormously wicked, when the very evils which they practised, were recorded and celebrated as those of their deities, in the songs of those who were their prophets? It is saying sufficient of the morals of the poets, to observe, that the works of most of them, as Anacreon, and Juvenal, and Ovid, and Martial, and Horace, &c. we cannot put into the hands of youth, except in a purified edition, lest we should excite the passions of their animal nature, and inflict injuries which could never be repaired. And what better morality could be expected in the practice of teachers whose creed, given to the world by the trumpet of fame, admits no state of future rewards and punishments, and declares death an everlasting sleep? Seneca speaks, substantially, the language of them all, when he says, "There is nothing after death; and death itself is nothing: do you ask what will be your condition after your decease? It will be even that of those unborn."

3. From the sense entertained by the great men of antiquity, as to the necessity of a revelation. They witnessed the efforts, and felt the strugglings of giant intellects, to acquire some knowledge of man's ultimate destiny; and some scintillations of light were occasionally elicited —as in Socrates, in the Phædo of Plato: but, was there a confidence, thus inspired, of immortality? No: after stating arguments in its favor, the best he could devise, he adds, "That these things are so as I have represented them, it does not become any man of understanding to affirm." Again, "If the things which are told us are true, those who live there," (i. e. in a future state of being,) "are in other respects happier than we, and also in this; that for the rest of their existence they are immortal." Does this hesitating language exhibit a satisfaction with the decisions of reason, and a conviction of its sufficiency? Who does not see, in every sentence of it, a proof of the necessity of revelation to cast a radiance over the gloom of the grave? He shall speak once more;—When about to die, he said, "I hope to go hence to good men; but of this I am not very confident: nor is it fitting for a wise man to be confident, that these things are true. I shall now die, and you will live; but which of us shall be in the best state, God only knows." Cicero also, after having enumerated the opinions of philosophers respecting immortality, concludes as follows, "Of these opinions, which is the true one, a god may perceive;" q. d. it is past the power of a mortal to discern. What a contrast to this uncertainty, is presented in the language of an apostle. "I KNOW whom I have believed, and am PERSUADED that he is able to keep that which I have committed to him against that day." "WE KNOW that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, WE HAVE a building of God; a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." "Henceforth there IS laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord the righteous Judge SHALL give me at that day." The judgment of the wisest heathens on the necessity of Revelation cannot be more fully and satisfactorily exhibited, than in the following sentence from Plato. "IT IS NECESSARY that a lawgiver be sent from heaven to instruct us;" such a lawgiver he did, at least, faintly expect; and "O," says he, "How greatly do I desire to see that man, and who he is." Nay, he goes farther, and says, "He must be more than man; for since every nature is governed by another nature superior to it, as beasts and birds by men, he infers, that this lawgiver who was to teach man, what man could not know by his own nature, must be of a nature superior to man, that is, of a divine nature." But, farther still, he, in another place, gives as lively a description of the person, qualifications, life, and death of this celestial teacher, as if he had been acquainted with the predictions of Isaiah respecting him. He says, "This just person must be poor, and void of all recommendations but that of virtue alone; that a wicked world would not bear his instructions and reproofs; and therefore, within three or four years after he began to preach, he would be persecuted, imprisoned, scourged, and at last put to death."

From these observations it will be seen that, as far as the ancient heathen are concerned, whether we look at the community in general, or at the refined and cultivated in particular, on all the most important subjects, as God, and religion, and human happiness, their reason was asleep; and if some of its dreams had about them a striking resemblance to reality and truth, yet, without the guidance of revelation, they invariably wandered into the mazes of error. What is the tendency, and what the efficacy of the sentiments of any one philosopher, or moralist, or legislator? or what is the aggregate efficacy of them all, to impart correct conceptions of the character of God, to purify the affections, subjugate the will, subdue the passions, or reform the life? Absolutely nothing. They never established, beyond doubt, one principle in theology, nor one rule in morals. Not one of the whole number of intellectual giants of Greece or Rome, held all those propositions, which are now considered as integral and essential parts of natural religion, viz:—"That there is one God; That God is nothing of all those things which we see; That God takes care of all below, and governs all the world; That he alone is the great Creator of all things out of himself:" and very few of them held any one of these propositions firmly. None of them ever attempted a solution of the question, "How can an offender appear before the God whose laws he has broken?" and none of them has given a single precept of human conduct, which bears even a distant approximation to that simple, admirable, and comprehensive one of the Christian Legislator, "Do unto others as ye would they should do unto you." From the utter failure, then, of the master spirits of antiquity, to give precepts of either religion or morals, which are perfect in nature, or powerful in motive; and from the imperfection, and, often, gross immorality of their conduct, who undertook to be legislators for others; as well as from their acknowledgment of the need of a heavenly Instructer, we argue the truth of our position, that a Revelation of the Divine will is necessary. But we may here be met by the deistical philosophers of modern times; who assert the needlessness of revelation, and maintain that reason is now able to discover all the obligations of morality, without the aid of revelation. It is, however, a fact, that nearly all which modern deists have said wisely and truly, on the obligations of morality, are drafts made, indirectly from that very revelation which they refuse to embrace; and without which they could NEVER have been able to deliver such truths. Since our duty has been clearly revealed to us we can not only perceive its agreement with reason; but can also deduce its obligations from reason; but this is a widely different thing from deducing the rule of duty, in all points, from the light of nature. But the contradictory and discordant speculations of the philosophers in question, are so great and glaring; and the precepts delivered by them as a rule of life, so utterly subversive of every principle of morality, as to render it certain that whatever reason unaided by revelation is ABLE to accomplish, she has not, in fact, exhibited all the obligations of morality: the works of her votaries evince it. We therefore, derive another argument for the necessity of a revelation of the Divine will,

4. From the recorded theological opinions, and from the moral precepts of modern Deistical writers.

First, Let us examine the recorded theological opinions of some of the more distinguished of these writers.

LORD HERBERT of Cherbury, has, among other inconsistencies and contradictions, laid down the following positions; viz. That Christianity is the best religion, and that the religion of Nature agrees wholly with Christianity, and contributes to its establishment;—that yet all revealed religion, by which he means Christianity, is absolutely uncertain, and of little or no use:—that the principles of his universal religion are clearly known to all men; and yet, that they were nearly unknown to the Gentiles, who comprise nearly all men. He believes in the unity of God, in his mercy to the penitent, in a future state of rewards and punishments; (all of them, points in theology, which are not discoverable by the light of nature) and yet accuses all pretences to revelation, of folly and unreasonableness; and contemptuously rejects its fundamental doctrines.

Mr. Hobbes, the celebrated author of Leviathan, affirms the Scriptures to be the voice of God; and yet that they derive their authority from the civil power:—He admits inspiration to be a supernatural gift, and the immediate result of Divine Agency; and yet that all pretence to the possession of it is a sign of madness:—he admits that God exists; and yet that what is not matter is nothing:—that honor and worship are due to God; and yet that all religion is ridiculous.

Mr. Blount maintains that prayer is a duty we owe to God; and yet objects to prayer as a duty;—he believed in future rewards and punishments, and therefore in the immortality of the soul; and yet argues that the soul of man is probably material, (and of course therefore mortal.)

Shaftesbury affirms that a weak and unsteady faith in future rewards and punishments is fatal to virtue, i. e. that a firm belief in this doctrine is a powerful motive to virtue; and yet that this belief takes away all motives to virtue:—that the hope of rewards cannot consist with virtue; and yet that so far from being derogatory to virtue, the hope of rewards proves that we love virtue:—that those are to be censured who represent the Gospel as a fraud; and yet that the Scriptures were a mere artful invention;—that virtue is not complete without piety; and yet he labors to make virtue wholly independent of piety.

Dr. Tindal declares that all the doctrines of Christianity plainly speak themselves to be the will of an infinitely wise and holy God; and yet that the precepts of Christianity are loose, indeterminate, and incapable of being understood by mankind generally, and give unworthy apprehensions of God, and are generally false and pernicious:—that natural religion is so plain to all, even the most ignorant, that God could not make it plainer; and yet that almost all men have had very unworthy notions of God, and of natural religion:—that the principles of natural religion are so clear that men cannot possibly mistake them; and yet that almost all men actually have grossly mistaken them.

Mr. Chubb declares that men are accountable for all their conduct, and will certainly be judged according to truth and rectitude; and yet that men will not be judged for their impiety or ingratitude to God, nor for their injustice and unkindness to each other; but only for voluntary injuries of the public; and that even this is unnecessary and useless:—that God may kindly reveal to the world his will, when greatly vitiated by error and ignorance; but yet that such a revelation would, of course, be uncertain and useless.

Bolingbroke declares that God made all things; and yet that he did not determine the existence of particular men; i. e. particular persons exist, and they owe their existence to God, and yet he has produced them without determining to produce them, or without design; that is to say, He is a God of wisdom, and yet acts as none but foolish men act,—without an end or object. He affirms that God is just, and that justice requires that rewards and punishments should be measured to particular cases, according to circumstances, in proportion to the merit or demerit of each individual; and yet that God does not so measure out rewards and punishments, nor concerns himself with the affairs of men at all:—that self-love is the great law of nature, and yet that universal love is the great law of nature.

David Hume asserts that there is no perceptible connexion between cause and effect: and yet that every effect is so precisely determined, that no other effect could, in such circumstances, have possibly resulted from the operation of its cause:—that it is folly or flattery to ascribe to God any perfection which is not perfectly discovered in his works; (and as no perfection is thus discovered, it is presumption or flattery to ascribe to him any perfection.) That it is unreasonable to believe God to be wise and good;—that what we believe to be a perfection in God may be a defect; (i. e. Holiness, Justice, Wisdom, Goodness, Mercy and Truth may be defects in God) consequently their opposites Sin, Injustice, Folly, Malevolence, Cruelty and Falsehood may be excellences, in his character, or might be so if they existed there; and Satan in whom, as Christians believe, they do exist, may be the more estimable character of the two.

Such are a few only of the various, contradictory, and impious theological opinions promulgated by the most celebrated champions of modern Deism. With some or other of these, most infidels of our own age and nation symbolize; but so diversified are the shades of Infidelity that no description would be likely to include them all. Some disbelieved the Nature, some the Providence, and, some the very existence of God; but all are unanimous in rejecting the divine testimony in the Scriptures, and in disbelieving the God of the Bible. How loudly, how intelligibly, how irresistibly, do the inconsistences, and contradictions, and absurdities of these Apostles of the Religion of Nature, say in our ears, that Reason is dark, amid, even, her brightest coruscations; and that, as a guide to theological truth, Revelation is necessary! Secondly, Let us briefly advert to the Moral Precepts of the distinguished adversaries of Revelation

Digitized by Google

Lord Herbert taught that the indulgence of lust and anger is no more to be blamed than the thirst occasioned by the dropsy, or the drowsiness produced by lethargy.

Hobbes asserted that the civil or municipal law is the only foundation of right and wrong; and that where civil law does not exist, every man's own judgment is the standard of action; —that every man has a right to all things, and may lawfully get them if he can.

Bolingbroke resolved all morality into self-love; and taught that ambition, sensuality, and avarice, may be lawfully gratified, provided it can be done safely:—that the chief end of man is to gratify the appetites and propensities of his animal nature;—that polygamy is a part of the religion of nature;—that adultery is not a breach of the law of nature; and that there is no wrong except in the grossest lewdness.

Hume taught that self-denial, self-mortification, and humility are not virtues; but are useless and mischievous:—that adultery must be practised if we would obtain all the advantages of life;—that if generally practised, it would, in time, cease to be scandalous; and that if practised secretly, and frequently, it would, by degrees, come to be thought no crime at all!

Helvetius advocated the unlimited gratification of sensual appetites, and taught, that it is not agreeable to policy to regard adultery as a vice, in a moral sense; and that if men will call it a vice, they must acknowledge that there are vices which are useful in certain ages and countries; i. e. that under certain circumstances the nature of actions entirely changes, and a vice becomes a virtue.

Rousseau made his feelings the standard of morality. "All that I feel to be right, is right; what I feel to be wrong, is wrong," says this writer.

This is the morality of those, who, in the last century, on the eastern Continent, claimed to be the masters of reason; the High Priests in the temple of the Goddess. And what was the effect of these doctrines on those who embraced them? Did they evince, by the happiness they diffused through the bosoms which gave them a resting place, or among the people who almost universally adopted them, that they were sufficient, and adapted to guide men's doubtful footsteps aright? Let the records of the French Revolution answer. There the rejecters of Revelation possessed the supreme power, and attempted to dispose of human happiness according to their own doctrines and wishes. The consequences have been written as it were in blood; and the world has even now scarcely dried the tears she shed over the millions of the slaughtered. And shall it,—can it be still asserted, in the face of these facts, and with the moral precepts before us, from the adoption of which they followed, that the light of nature is sufficient to lead men to virtue and happiness? and that Reason is now able to discover all the obligations of morality, without the aid of Revelation? On the contrary, the precepts and the facts alike proclaim the Necessity of Revelation.

CHAPTER IV.

A Revelation of the Divine Will has actually been given.

The Scriptures of the Old and New Testament advance three claims to be a Revelation of the will of God; which, if they can all be substantiated, will prove the proposition now before us, viz. that they are genuine, or the real writings of the persons by whom they profess to have been written, so far as professions to authorship are made in them;—that they are authentic, or that the facts which they record actually did occur;—and that they are inspired, or written by special divine impulse; and under peculiar, and infallible guidance and instruction It will not be sufficient that they are genuine; for many books are genuine, which are not authentic; that is they are the real productions of the writers whose names they bear, but the facts which they profess to record never had a real existence. Thus, the "Sentimental Journey" is known to be the genuine production of Sterne, whose name it bears; but the incidents and conversations it records, never, in reality, occurred. It is not sufficient that they be authentic; for many books are authentic; that is, record events which actually took place, while the real author is another than the person whose name they bear. Anson's Voyages is an authentic book, containing records of real occurrences; but it is nevertheless not genuine; for it professes to be the work of Walters; while, in fact, its true author was Benjamin Robins, the Mathematician. Now, admitting the facts recorded in Scripture to have really occurred; yet, if the several books were not written by the persons whose names they bear, it is evident that their claim to be a Revelation from God is without foundation; for the God of truth cannot utter, or sanction falsehood; and the ascription of the several books to their respective authors, is part and portion of the volume itself; of course, unless they really were the authors, the writings are not a revelation from God. But once more it is not enough that these writings be both genuine and authentic; for the world abounds in books which unite both these characteristics; and yet are not, and do not claim to be of divine origin. Robertson's History of America, and Irving's Life of Columbus are books which are at once authentic and genuine;—they are the works of the writers whose names they bear; and they narrate events of actual occurrence; but they have not, and they claim not inspiration. But if the writings of the Old and New Testament unite all the characteristics they claim, viz. genuineness, authenticity and inspiration, then are they what they profess to be, a Revelation of the Will of God. Whether they really possess them all, will now be the object of our inquiry

SECTION I.

On the Genuineness of the Scriptures.

The Bible is divided into two principal portions, the Old and the New Testaments, and it will be convenient in the prosecution of our inquiries to consider them separately. The proofs of their genuineness, also, may be classed under two heads; external and internal proofs.

Of the Old Testament Scriptures.

I. EXTERNAL proofs of the genuineness of the Old Testament Scriptures.

We shall not here enter into any minute details, relative to the authors of the several books; but, for satisfaction on this point, refer our readers to the introductory remarks prefatory to each book. In this place we would only observe, that the Old Testament contains, as we divide them, thirty-nine books; and that the following is a general account of their authorship, and collection together.

The Pentateuch was written by Moses; and was collected, and a very few supplemental additions made by Samuel, the prophet;—and the books of Joshua, and Judges, and Ruth, together with the first part of the first book of Samuel, were collected by the same prophet. The latter part of the first book of Samuel, and the whole of the second book, were written by those who succeeded Samuel in the prophetic office,—probably Nathan and Gad. The books of Kings and Chronicles, are extracts from the records of their own times, which succeeding prophets kept; and also extracts made by Ezra from the public genealogical tables which he made. The books of Ezra and Nehemiah are collections of similar records, some written by Ezra and Nehemiah, and some by their predecessors. The book of Esther was written by some eminent Jew; but, by whom, is not certain; though the probability is, that either Mordecai or Ezra was its author. The book of Job was most probably written by Moses, the Psalms, by David, Asaph, and other distinguished and pious persons, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Canticles, by Solomon; and the prophetical books by the persons whose names they respectively bear.

1. The unbroken, uncontradicted tradition among the Jews that these books are genuine is a strong presumption that they are so. Those persons who lived at the same time with any Hebrew writer, and who transcribed his works, having received them from his own hands for the purpose of transcribing, or who delivered them to others for this purpose, knew, positively, both who was the writer of any such book, and the age in which he lived. And as these persons delivered these writings to their children, as the works of such writers, those children would, also, have satisfactory evidence of their genuineness: the same holds good, also, of the next, and every succeeding generation; provided the transmission is unbroken, and the tradition uncontradicted, and the joint testimony of these successive generations, may properly be regarded as traditionary proof of the truth of what they affirm.

2. The small number of books in existence at the time when the first books of the Old Testament were written, rendered the preservation, in an uncorrupted state, of those they had, more easy; and their propagation more faithful, than would have been practicable under other circumstances; as, also, the tradition of their origin more easily remembered.

3. The absence of motive to corrupt the sacred books, and the existence of powerful motives to transmit them unaltered, affords still further assurance of their genuineness. As a people, the Jews had before them the fear of God, above any people; and they would, therefore, tremble at the thought of forging, as the writings of his servants, productions of their own minds, and hands. Moreover if the Scriptures which have come to us, from the Jews, are forgeries, they are the most unaccountable of all forgeries:—forgeries of what dishonors their nation by recording, on almost every page, the stubbornness, rebellions and follies of themselves and their ancestors; and uttering to them repeated, and almost incessant, reproofs and censures, as an unteachable, stubborn, wayward people; and placing the character of the whole nation in a most unattractive, and unamiable point of view. Now all this testimony being actually borne, and borne by the Jews themselves, against themselves, is unexceptionable evidence that the books which record it, and which Jews declare to be their sacred books, are the writings of those to whom they are ascribed; i. e. that they are genuine. If a man were accused of forging some document, or history, while no evidence, either presumptive, or positive, could be adduced of his guilt, could he be convicted? And, especially, how impossible would it be to believe him guilty, when the scope and tendency of the document in question was to reproach his family and nation, his principles and conduct; and was inconsistent with his known character; and, moreover, could in no way promote his present advantage, and it was known he believed it would endanger his endless ruin. This is just the case with the Jews; we may, therefore, without fear of refutation, say, they could not,—it is morally impossible that they should, have forged their sacred books; they were without all motive to do it; and had the most powerful ones in operation against it. National pride must be mortified in a Jew, by every perusal of the severe censures the Scriptures utter on their national manners:—the love of fame would prompt them if they should forge, to extol and flatter the nation; and the love of wealth could furnish no motive, for nothing was to be gained by the forgery.

4. Not only was the preservation of these books uncorrupted, a point easily attained; but, on the other hand, it was by no means an easy matter to corrupt them. One whole tribe, a twelfth of the nation, were specially designated.

among other duties, to the watching over, and preservation of these historical documents; and, moreover, there were, in the other tribes, numerous individuals jealous for the uncorrupted preservation of the books, because they were, themselves, the posterity of the authors.

5. The genuineness and integrity of the Old Testament Scriptures, may be certainly inferred, also, from the silence of Jesus Christ, as to any corruption of them; though he so unsparingly reproaches the Jewish rulers of his day for rendering void, by their traditions, the obligations of the law of God. It is incredible that had the Scriptures been corrupted, he would have allowed so flagrant a crime to pass uncensured; yet, on this point, he utters not a word. It also affords an additional argument for the integrity and genuineness of these writings, that even the unprincipled Pharisees never dared to interpolate, nor corrupt them; though, could they have succeeded in this, they would have been able to allege a written sanction for their opinions and practices. They had, indeed, the temerity to promulgate what they called an unwritten law; and, by its means, to subvert the authority of the true, or written one; thus tacitly claiming, for their traditions, an authority higher than that of the law; but yet they did not dare to put forth their sacrilegious hands to interpolate, or corrupt the records. What an overwhelming reverence for these writings must that have been, which could deter such persons, and under such circumstances, from an attempt to corrupt them; and if they were deterred from the attempt, it is less likely that those less abandoned would make it; we have therefore the most satisfactory evidence of the integrity and genuineness of these writings, down to the days of Jesus Christ; and, since his days, Jews and Christians have been mutual checks on each other on this point.

II. Internal proofs of the genuineness of the old Testament Scriptures.

These proofs might be comprised under the heads of language, style, manner of writing, and circumstantiality of narrative. But, as this introduction is principally intended to afford satisfaction to such persons as have neither ability nor inclination to enter upon such critical inquiries as would render necessary the knowledge of any other language than the English, we must afford only a passing notice to most of these sources of evidence. The language in which the Old Testament was written, was that of a people whose intercourse was very limited with the nations which surrounded them; and therefore it was but little likely to change: at least, the changes in it would be, both less numerous, and less striking, than those in the language of commercial nations; or those where science and the arts are in a state of considerable advancement. Yet, even in the language of this insulated nation, some changes must necessarily have taken place in the long period from the days of Moses to those of Malachi, about 1070 years; or certainly, not less than 1050 Accordingly, critical Hebrew scholars have actually discovered differences, such as render it certain that the different books of the Old Testament were written at different, and distant, intervals; and hence arises a strong internal argument for the genuineness of these books, for they come to us professing to have been written at different periods through a long succession of ages. The same Hebrew scholars assure us, that the style of these writings is so various, that it is impossible they can be the production of any one person; and the use, in the former parts, of some words which were obsolete when the latter was written, and of some, in the latter parts, which were not in use when the former was written, makes it evident that the whole were not written by any contemporary set of writers. If, then, they are forgeries, they must be the works of successive impostors. The position, that part are forged and part genuine, cannot, for a moment, be sustained; for there are so many references of one writer to another, as a divinely commissioned messenger, and these references are so interwoven among all the writers, that, on this supposition, the true men and the impostors, mutually attest to the authority of each other.

Again, as the Hebrew ceased to be spoken, as a living language, soon after the Babylonish captivity, and as it is next to impossible to forge anything in a language after it has become dead, all the books of the Old Testament must be nearly as ancient as the period of that captivity. But since the changes in language &c. referred to above, require the lapse of many ages to effect, of course, the date of the earlier of the Old Testament writings must be many ages antecedent to the Babylonish captivity;—so many as to carry them back to the times of their reputed authors. If, therefore, these writings be not the work of the persons to whom they are ascribed, they are those of persons who were contemporary with them; and they present to the world the unheard of spectacle of fictitious writings, fabricated in the life times of their professed authors, and descending to posterity without one accompanying protest from these supposed authors, against the use of their names, by the impostors who composed the books; or one warning not to be deluded into a religious veneration for their fabrications.

A powerful argument for the authenticity of these writings, arises from the minutely circumstantial narratives they contain. The narrations of impostors never abound in circumstances:—they are always found to be vague, general, and indefinite. To multiply circumstances, in a fictitious narration, is to put into the reader's hands, criteria whereby to detect the imposture. Moreover, it is next to impossible for an impostor to furnish them; it would be a most prodigious effort of the mightiest genius, to invent and intersperse such an endless variety of particulars of time, place, persons, circumstances, &c as these sacred writings contain; and yet none of them to appear in con flict with the records of histories which are acknowledged as true. Now, in fact, there is scarcely a single book in the Old Testament which does not contain more or less of history; and the books from Genesis to Esther abound in narratives; and these, some of them, most minutely circumstantial. Of course then, every book, and especially the earlier ones, upon which all the others are based, contains the means of its own refutation, if it be false. Yet the result of the most severe scrutiny into their authenticity, and of the examination of the histories they contain, by the light afforded by uninspired profane history, is, that like gold, the more it is tried, the purer it becomes; and that in proportion as other histories are unquestionably authentic, their testimony corroborates the proof of the authenticity of these.

Yet, conclusive as is the argument for the authenticity and genuineness of the Old Testament, attempts have been made to call it in question, by undermining the genuineness and antiquity of particular books; and as the Pentateuch is that portion of the sacred volume on which all the others are based, inasmuch as they make frequent references to it, the principal hostility has been directed against this. But at all the attempts to invalidate its antiquity and genuineness, "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh:"—for both are attested by a weight of testimony, such as is not, and cannot be, afforded in favor of any writing of profane antiquity whatever. To say nothing, in this place, of the arguments above employed, for the genuineness of the books of the Old Testament generally, and which might here be repeated in support of the antiquity of the Pentateuch in particular, we may observe that these writings of Moses contain a system of moral and ceremonial laws, which, if any history is to be believed, were, in the main observed by Israel, from their departure from Egypt, to the overthrow of the Jewish polity by Titus. The Jews in each succeeding age, believed that these laws were received from Moses by their ancestors; and they were the basis of their political constitution, and of their theological system. Now CAN the laws and constitution of a whole country, containing millions of people, be counterfeited? Can even a conventional observance, which has existed for a few years merely, be transferred to any other event, as its origin, than that in which it did indeed originate? For instance, the celebration of the Fourth of July amongst ourselves, is merely a conventional affair; it has, moreover, been annually celebrated only a little over fifty years:—but can it ever be made the memorial of any other event than the declaration of our National Independence? Can Americans, for example, be persuaded that it is the memorial of the discovery of America by Columbus, or of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth? Let the attempt be made, and we shall soon be furnished with an answer. Yet this were easy, compared with the attempt to forge a constitution and laws, for a single state of the Union, and much more for the United States: and, be it remembered, that Israel was a confederation of twelve states, united under a Theocracy; their religion and their civil policy were amalgamated; and it was the special and divinely appointed office of one of these twelve states, to guard and transmit, uninjured, the whole, to the posterity of all the twelve. How then, we ask triumphantly, is forgery POSSIBLE?

The enemies of Revelation, however, without a shadow of evidence, and in the face of the strongest evidence to the contrary, tell us, that there is a probability that Ezra is the author of the Pentateuch. Now Ezra himself testifies to the contrary, Ez. vi. 18—iii. 2 as does Nehemiah his contemporary, Neh. xiii. 1. and Malachi, also a contemporary, Mal. iv. 4. In each of these passages the law of Moses is referred to, as a document, well known, and of acknowledged authority in the nation. Moreover, we have evidence of the existence of this book before the days of Ezra, by Daniel, ch. ix. 11. 13. before half the period of the captivity had passed: viz. B. C. 537 or 538; and, long before the captivity, it was extant; for mention is made of it, in the reign of Josiah, (2 Chron. xxxiv. 15.) B. C. 624. Prior to this too, it was extant, viz. in the days of Hoshea king of Israel, B. C. 678; for a priest of Samaria was sent from among the captives in Assyria, to teach the inhabitants of Bethel the religion which it enjoins. It was extant in the days of Jehoshaphat, B. C. 912. 2 Chron. xvii. 9. Now as both the ten tribes, and the two tribes, received the Pentateuch, and allowed its authority, it must have been the common rule of conduct in civil and religious matters, before the separation of the kingdom under Rehoboam; for, had it been forged in a later age, by either nation, the other would not have received it. It is plain, then, that it must have been written either by Moses himself, or by some person who lived between the time of the death of Moses and that of Solomon. But the whole current of Jewish history, from the settlement in Canaan, to the building of the temple at Jerusalem, presupposes that the book of the law was written by Moses. All the temple service was regulated by Solomon, B. C. 1004, according to the law contained in the Pentateuch, as was the tabernacle service by David, B. C. 1042. I was extant, and in general honor, as a book of divine origin, in David's time, as is plain from the numerous and reverential allusions to it in his writings;—and Samuel could not have been its author, for he did not personally possess such a knowledge of Egypt as it is quite certain its author must have had. Indeed it was known hundreds of years before his days, for Joshua (ch. viii. 31—xxiii. 6.) speaks of it, as, in his days already extant. Indeed the book of Joshua expressly ascribes the Pentateuch to Moses. The Pentateuch was termed by the Jews, "The book of the Law;" now in Josh. i. 7. 8. we have a distinct, explicit recognition of its existence, and also of Moses as its author. "Only observe to do all according to the law which Moses my servant commanded thee—this 'Book of the law' shall not depart out of thy mouth;—thou shalt do according to all that is written therein." It is true that in the face of all this evidence for the antiquity, authenticity, and genuineness of the Pentateuch, there are some to be found who will make objections against it; but they are generally so frivolous and unimportant that it is not necessary to specify them. The above argument is abundantly sufficient to prove that the genuine text of that portion of the sacred writings issued from the hand of Moses; and if it now contain a few sentences, (as the record of the death of Moses) by another hand, it is no more than might be expected, and is nothing which can, in the least, invalidate the book. Now since the authority of this portion of the scriptures is established, that of the other Old Testament scriptures follows of course, for they are immediately dependant on it.

Of the New Testament Scriptures.

I. EXTERNAL evidence of the genuineness of the New Testament scriptures.

Michaelis, a celebrated German critic, enumerates six reasons, either of which, and especially two or more of which united, would induce a critic to doubt the authenticity of an ancient writing; viz. 1. When doubts have been entertained from its first appearance in the world, whether it really proceeded from the person to whom it is ascribed.—2. When the immediate friends of the pretended author, who were able to decide as to his writings, have denied it to be his production.—3. When a long series of years has elapsed since his death, in which the book has been unknown; and in which it must, unavoidably, have been mentioned and quoted, had it really existed.—4. When the style is different from that of his other writings, or, if no others of his writings remain, different from what might have been expected of him.—5. When events are recorded which happened later than the time of the pretended author.—6. When opinions are advanced which are at variance with those he is known, from other sources, to have entertained. This last, however, alone, can weigh but little; inasmuch as men are liable to change their opinion. Thus Professor Stuart was once of opinion, that the Hebrew points were not only useless, but even injurious; and wrote in support of that opinion; yet it is well known that further inquiry and reflection, have led him to consider them highly useful, if not absolutely necessary. Of course, in future ages, no objection would be of force against the genuineness of Professor Stuart's work against the Hebrew points, from the fact that he now approves them. Now of all these grounds for objection against the genuineness of a work, not one can be applied with justice to the New Testament: for, 1. There is no evidence that any one doubted their genuineness, in the period in which they appeared.—2. No writings of the contemporaries of the professed authors, have descended to us denying their genuineness.—3. The several books of the New Testament were known to be in existence, either during the lifetime of the professed authors, or, at least, very shortly afterwards; and are mentioned, and alluded to, and quoted, by writers contemporary with the apostles and evangelists; and still more numerously, by those of the following century.—4. The style of these writings, though it cannot be compared with other writings of the same authors, (because no others of their writings are known to exist) is, yet, exactly such as might be expected from persons in their age, and station, and circumstances, and writing in the Greek language; viz. it is not Attic, but Jewish Greek.—5. No facts are recorded by any writer of the New Testament, which occurred after the supposed writer's death.—6. No doctrines are maintained, which are in opposition to any known to have been entertained by the sacred writers; for, as above observed, no other of their writings are preserved: and, on the contrary, in the several writings of the same author, there is a remarkable harmony on this point. Thus we perceive that we have irrefragable negative proof of the genuineness of the New Testament scriptures; but our persuasion rests not exclusively, nor even principally, on this: we have direct and positive evidence, the most satisfactory and the most abundant, in support of our belief. This evidence has been classed under two heads: The Impossibility of Forgery arising from the nature of the thing itself: and Direct Historical evidence of their genuineness.

1. The Impossibility of Forgery arising from the nature of the thing itself.

Forged writings can never be passed off as genuine in a place where there are those who are inclined and well able to detect the fraud. Now the writers of the New Testament were Jews, and lived among Jews;—those who were around them were, as a nation, unbelievers in Jesus Christ, and bitterly opposed to the apostles for their attachment to him:—they had crucified the founder of the Christian religion, and were intensely desirous to stifle it in its infancy. If the writings of the New Testament had been forgeries, would not the Jews then, have impeached them? Could four individuals, (the evangelists,) by any possibility, impose on the world a history, against the testimony of a whole nation, and would a historian of that nation testify substantially to the truth of that history, as Josephus does, if it were all a fabrication? It were as easy to prove the revolutionary war of this country never to have occurred; and the records of it to be the inventions of impostors!

Moreover the numerous marks of simplicity, fidelity and integrity, which everywhere pervaed these writings, make it incredible that their authors would fabricate falsehoods; and had they attempted it in the apostolic age, every one must have been sensible of the forgery. There are professedly eight authors to the New Testament; now it cannot be an imposture, because, if they wrote in concert to deceive the world, there would not have been those apparent discrepancies in the slight circumstances of the narrative, which we see actually to exist among them, and which might easily have been avoided; and had one person written the whole, there could not have been such a diversity of style as the different pieces present. If these writers were good men they would not deceive others; and if they were bad men they would not direct all their efforts to make men radically holy. If part were honest, and part were otherwise, then should we find some testifying against others; and these latter, again, justifying themselves, and recriminating their accusers; but we find, in fact, nothing of the sort. It was morally impossible therefore, from the nature of things, that these writings should be forged. But we have

2. Direct Historical evidence of their genuineness.

The following remarks of Dr. Paley, on the importance of historical evidence, and its conclusiveness for the purposes for which it is adduced, are earnestly recommended to the attention of the reader. "This sort of evidence is, of all others, the most unquestionable, the least liable to any practices of fraud, and is not diminished by the lapse of ages. Bishop Burnet, in the History of his Own Times, inserts various extracts from Lord Clarendon's History. One such insertion is a proof that Lord Clarendon's History was extant at the time Bishop Burnet wrote,—that it had been read by Bishop Burnet,—that it was received by Bishop Burnet, as the work of Lord Clarendon, and also regarded by him as an authentic account of the transactions which it relates; and it will be a proof of these points a thousand years hence, or as long as the book exists." This simple illustration may serve to show, to those who are unaccustomed to such investigations, the nature and importance of the evidence of historical testimony.

We shall, however, in this place, be less copious, in our exhibition of evidence of this kind, than would be otherwise necessary, because we have elsewhere cited the writers of the early ages of the Christian Church, as testifying to the genuineness of particular books.* For a very satisfactory and somewhat extended list of these testimonies we refer our readers to Horne's Crit. Introd. vol. 1. pp. 75, et seq: where many witnesses are adduced, and the evidence afforded by them of the correctness of the canon of the New Testament Scriptures as we have it, is most satisfactory; because the testimony borne is indirect in most instances, and incidental. It was evidently not the professed intention of the writers adduced, to ascertain, for future generations, the canon; yet they have actually done so, by their quotations from the several books which the New Testament now contains; or by their explicit references to them, as the authentic Scriptures, received, and relied on, as inspired oracles, by the whole Christian Church; for they describe them as "Scriptures," as "Sacred Scriptures," and as "the Oracles of the Lord."

But we can derive historical evidence of the genuineness of the writings of the New Testament from another source; viz. from that of ancient heretical writers. These, being hostile to the doctrines contained in the sacred oracles, were under a strong temptation, had it been possible, to call their genuineness in question. Yet we find this never to have been done: they questioned the infallibility of the Apostles, and therefore altered, and expunged, and added, as they saw fit; and then adopted the mutilated and altered writings, for the use of their followers; but they never question that those wrttings which the church in general, in their days, received, were the real productions of the persons to whom they were ascribed. Thus Cerinthus denied that Paul was an inspired Apostle, because his doctrines were not in accordance with those held by Cerinthus; but he never questioned that Paul was the writer of those epistles which inculcate the unwelcome doctrines. Marcion also, who lived in the second century, was excommunicated by the Orthodox Christians, and was extremely exasperated with them for their treatment of him. He had the best opportunities for knowing whether the sacred writings received by his opponents were genuine; and, if not, would, of course, eagerly seize the opportunity to prove them spurious. He actually asserted that some of the books of the New Testament, as the Gospel of Matthew, the Epistle to the Hebrews, and those of Peter and James, were writings for Jews, and not Christians; and he published a new edition of the Gospel of Luke, and of the first ten of Paul's epistles, altering such portions as suited not his views; but evidently his whole conduct here, proves the existence, in his days, of the books he impugned, and of those which he altered; and, consequently, that these books, as we possess them, are genuine. The evidence of the genuineness of these books, derived from the indirect testimony borne to it by other heresiarchs, might be vastly augmented; but it is not necessary, and our limits forbid needless amplification.

We now come to the consideration of evidence on the point in hand, derived from Jewish and Heathen adversaries of Christianity, in the early ages: evidence, at least, as important as that of the founders of heretical sects. But as we shall afterwards have occasion to adduce the testimonies of Jewish opponents, in proof of the facts which the New Testament history relates. i. e. in proof of the authenticity of those historical portions of the sacred volume, we shall here confine ourselves to the testimonies of Heathen adversaries.

Celsus, who flourished near the close of the second century, mentions by name the books of the New Testament, and makes many quotations from them. It is true, he accuses the Christians of altering the Gospels; but his reference is to the heresiarchs, Marcion, Sabellius &c. In no one instance did he question the Gospels, as books of genuine history; nor did he, in any case, derive his objections from writings confessedly spurious.

Porphyry (born A. D. 233) was the most acute, learned, accomplished, and severe adversary, that Christianity, in the early ages, was called to encounter; and of course, testimony borne by him, to the genuineness of our sacred writings, must be of the highest importance. He was best qualified of all the adversaries of Christianity to inquire into the genuineness of the New Testament Scriptures, since he was able to study Syriac, as well as Greek writers. Yet not a whisper has descended to us, in those portions of his works preserved in Origen's reply to him, indicative of a doubt as to their genuineness; nor does it appear to have ever occurred to him that they were, even possibly, spurious. Now is it credible that so sagacious an enemy of Christianity should fail to detect a forgery in those writings which were the foundation of it, had a forgery existed? Or, if he had detected it, should fail to perceive that it put into his hands a weapon which must be fatal to the system he labored to destroy? Yet, in fact, he never denies the truth of the Gospel history; but considers the miracles of Jesus Christ to have been really wrought.

Julian often called "the Apostate" because, after ascending the Imperial throne, he renounced the profession of Christianity, flourished A. D. 331—363. As a writer against Christianity he was by no means Porphyry's equal, though he was an artful and virulent political opponent of it. He quotes, at length, many of the sayings of Christ, in the very words in which we find them in the Gospels; he also quotes the Acts of the Apostles. Now, in quoting these, he directly testifies that these historical books existed at the time in which he lived; and that they were received by Christians as their historical books. He, moreover, indirectly testifies, by mentioning none but these, that no other historical books were deemed, by Christians, to possess authority, and perhaps that none even claimed it. But, further, he expresses his own views of the genuineness of these records;—he expressly states their early date;—he calls them by the names they now bear;—he, throughout, supposes their genuineness, and authenticity; nor gives the slightest intimation of a suspicion that they were forgeries.

II. INTERNAL evidence of the genuineness of the New Testament Scriptures.

The evidence on this point may be classed under two heads.

1. The characters of the writers. It is very plain, from an investigation of these writings themselves, that the writers were Jews by birth, that they were brought up in the Jewish religion, and that they were the immediate witnesses of what they wrote; i e. were present, generally, when the facts they record occurred. All this is plain from the strain of their narratives,—from the complexion of their thoughts, —from their allusions to Jewish ceremonies,— from the employment of Hebrew terms, and from the prevalence of Hebrew structure in their sentences. Moreover, their narratives embrace so many particulars of time, place, persons, and circumstances, and all is related with the very air of persons who witnessed what they record, and who wrote for their contemporaries, that their assertions may be considered as proofs of all they relate. This is as evident as that Clarendon's History of Charles I. was written by one, himself concerned in the transactions he relates.

2. The Language and Style of the New Testament. These afford an indisputable proof of the genuineness of these writings. None but Jews could have written them; and even Jews could not have written them in any age but that in which they profess to have been written. It is true that the language is Greek, and that others beside Jews, could, therefore have written in it; but it is just such Greek, as none but a Jew could write. It is not pure, or elegant Greek, but is corrupt and idiomatical; which at once betrays its writers not only not to be native Greeks, but to be native Hebrews It was necessary to have lived in the first century, and to have been educated in Judea or Galilee, or some neighboring country, to be able to write just such a compound language as that of the Greek Testament: a language instantly distinguishable from that of every classical Greek author. All the writers of the New Testament must have lived in the same age; for the same peculiarities, on the points in question, appear in them all, notwithstanding the diversities of their style. Judea itself could not have furnished, in the second century, compositions such as the New Testament contains; for on the destruction of the Jewish polity new forms of language were introduced, as well as new political relations. Jews who remained there would not attempt to imitate the style of bygone days, for the accommodation and pleasure of Christians whom they hated; and the only Christians who remained there were such as used only one Gospel, and that in Hebrew; and they rejected Paul's epistles, not as spurious, but as teaching doctrines to which they were opposed: of course they would not forge epistles containing the repudiated doctrines. Now if Judea could not have produced these writings in the second century, certainly no other country could. And if no country whatever could produce them in the second, much less could any country, in a subsequent century, produce them

We are, then, brought to this conclusion; that the writings of the New Testament are the productions of the age in which they profess to have been written, and that they have this evidence of genuineness.

But there is internal evidence from the style of these writings, that they were written by the persons whose names they bear, and this when made out, completes the proof of genuineness. The historical books, especially the Gospels, are evidently the writings of Jews, and that, in not the elevated walks of society, nor among the literati of the nation. The style is devoid of ornament; the transitions are not elegant, delicate and polished: but often abrupt, and such as by no means to gratify a cultivated taste; and the same may be said of the structure of the sentences, which are not smooth, flowing, and harmonious. In short, we find here the simplicity of writers, who were more intent on things, than words; and concerned only to tell the things they knew, in a plain and unvarnished strain. And these are just the characteristics we should expect to find in the writings of such persons as the evangelists. They were these honest, simple, uneducated writers, from the lower walks of life, who knew little else than what here they testify; but who give ample evidence of a perfect acquaintance with that. But in the writings of Paul we find a style entirely different; and yet, such a style as can belong to no one so properly as to the individual whom the book of Acts describes under this name. He is evidently learned; but he displays the erudition of a learned Jew; he was trained not in a school of heathen learning; for his arguments, powerful and irresistible as they are, do not bear the impress of such a school; being destitute of their form and method. He reasons like a convert from Judaism; and labors to confute the men of his own nation, on their own admitted principles. Who can fail to recognise here a Jew, born at Tarsus, but educated in Jerusalem? Compare also the style of the books of the New Testament, with the recorded conduct and character of the writers. Can any one fail to recognise in the writings of John, the gentleness and loveliness of the disciple whom Jesus loved? Or in the epistles of Peter the ardent impetuous temperament of that apostle. This was the projector of the three tabernacles, the walker on the sea, the defender of his master with the sword, and, generally, the mouth of the whole college of Apostles in reply to the questions of their great Teacher. And what do we discover in the style of his Epistles? The very same constitutional ardor and impetuosity. Each is almost one unbroken sentence from end to end. The writings ascribed to Paul are different from both; but are yet in equal keeping with the recorded character of the man. Thus we may consider the internal evidence for the genuineness of these holy writings, as complete.

SECTION II.

On the Authenticity of the Scriptures.

Strictly speaking, authenticity is an attribute which belongs only to the historical writings of the sacred volume: for, according to the definition given of the term, it can apply to no others. Yet as in both the great divisions of the Scriptures, the portions, not historical, are intimately connected with those portions, at the commencement of each testament, which are so, (viz. The Pentateuch, and the Gospels and Acts) and absolutely dependant on them; it is of immense and vital importance to Christianity that these historical books be shown to be authentic; viz. that it be rendered certain, beyond all reasonable doubt, that the facts which are recorded in these historical books did really occur. It will be seen by the reader that in proving the genuineness of these writings, much ground has been gone over, which has a direct and irresistible power to prove their authenticity; (indeed it is usual, because of the similarity of the arguments by which both are proved, to consider them together) we shall, therefore, on this part of our argument, be more brief than would, otherwise, be necessary. But because of its vast importance, and also the exclusive bearing of some of the evidence on the point of authenticity, we have determined to afford it a distinct place in the discussion.

There are two principal sources whence we may derive arguments in proof of the authenticity of the sacred records: viz. Reason, and Testimony. We shall then endeavor to establish the authenticity of these records from these sources.

I. Reason furnishes us with conclusive evidence that the facts recorded in Scripture, and particularly in the Pentateuch, and the historical books of the New Testament, did actually occur. There are four criteria, which, when they meet in support of any matter of fact, constrain Reason to believe that fact to have occurred. and these criteria do meet in support of the facts on which the religion of the Bible is founded.

1. They were such as men's outward senses, their eyes and ears may estimate. Take, as an instance here, the wonders wrought by Moses on behalf of Israel. These were all of a nature which their bodily senses could appreciate. He could not, possibly, have persuaded the men of the age in which he lived, to believe that he had brought them, 600,000 in number, out of Egypt, and through the Red Sea, and fed them on manna, 40 years, and brought water out of the rock for them, if he had not done so: their own outward senses would have testified against him. For the same reason it was impossible for them to receive his writings as truth, which told of all these things as done before their eyes, if they had not seen them done. Yet how pointed, and positive is his appeal to the evidence of their senses, for proof of all that his books record: "I speak not with your children which have not known and which have not seen the chastisement of the Lord your God..... but your eyes have seen all the great acts of the Lord which he did, &c." Deut. xi. 2—8. It is evidently, then, impossible, that, if the Mosaic history be an imposture, it could have been invented, and palmed upon the people who were alive when the things recorded are said to have been done.

The same is true of the events recorded in the New Testament. Jesus never could have persuaded 5000 men at one time, and 4000 at another, that he had fed them with a few loaves and fishes, if no such fact had ever occurred;—nor would he, afterwards, have recurred to the fact in an appeal to themselves as to the reason of their following him, had they not indeed "eaten of the loaves and been filled." Nor would the books containing the records of these transactions have been believed in the days when many of the persons who had participated in the provision were yet alive, had they not really partaken of it. Yet, as we have shown in another place, these records were extant in the very age when it is alleged that the facts occurred, and their veracity never was impeached.

2. The facts recorded were done openly, in the light of day, in the face of the world, and some of them were of such a nature that the fame of them extended to distant nations, even during the days of those who witnessed the facts. Ten successive scourges were brought upon Egypt, prior to the departure of Israel; and to these reference is repeatedly made, as having been witnessed by Israel, and reported even in Canaan; as also of the final overthrow of Pharaoh in the Red Sea. Josh. xxiv. 7. &c. These things were not done in a corner, and the record of their occurrence was written in the very age itself, and never has been impeached: reason therefore pronounces it true. So also of the miracles of Jesus Christ, and of his apostles. They were wrought in public, in the face of day, in the presence of enemies. Jesus says of his teaching, "I sat daily teaching with you in the temple"—"In secret have I said nothing," "Ask them which heard me; behold they know what I said;" Matt. xxvi. 55. Jno. xviii. 20. 21. and the same is true of his miracles. Even enemies testified to the reality of the miracles; "that indeed a notable miracle hath been wrought by them, is manifest to all them that dwell in Jerusalem; and WE CANNOT DENY IT." Acts iv. 16. The reality of the resurrection of Jesus too, was admitted by those most concerned to deny it; when, on receiving the testimony of eye witnesses to the fact (the guards) they bribed them to make a false report. This bribery is directly charged on them in the history; the history was published in their lifetime, and the charge has never been repelled. Can reason, then, doubt the truth of the history?

3. There were standing monuments of the facts on which the religion of the Bible rests. The feast of Passover was such a monument among the Jews, of the fact that they were brought out of Egypt;—the very existence of the tribe of Levi, as the ministers of the sanctuary, was a standing monument of the giving of that law which separates them to this service:—the existence of circumcision is a standing monument of the truth of the history which records its origin. So, also, Baptism and the Lord's Supper, are standing monuments of the truth of the records which contain the laws of their institution. Those laws purport to have had force from the very time of their enaction; but, were the Gospel history a forgery, no matter of what age, then, at the time the forgery was made, and first promulgated, there was no practice of the rites which these laws enjoin. But to suppose this, were to resist the evidence of all testimony; for all history shows us that they have been uninterruptedly observed from the time of their professed enactment: and the same is true of circumcision among the Jews. The existence of these monuments is of irresistible force in establishing the truth of the history which records their origin: as may be seen in the following illustration of the subject by Leslie.* "Suppose I should now invent a story of a certain thing said to be done a thousand years ago, I might, perhaps, get some to believe it; but if I say that not only such a thing was done, but that from that day to this, every man at the age of twelve years, had a joint of his little finger cut off, and that every man in the nation did actually want a joint of that finger; and that this institution was part of that matter of fact done so many years ago, and vouched for the truth of it.... I say it is impossible I should be believed in such a case, because every man could contradict me as to the mark of cutting off a joint of the finger: and that, being part of my original matter of fact, must demonstrate the whole to be false." In this illustration the author has included the remaining criterion, viz.

4. Such monuments were instituted at the time when the recorded facts are said to have occurred, and, have been continued to the present time. Such is the real state of the case, with reference both to Jews and Christians at the present hour. Circumcision is still practised among the former, and there never has been a time when it was not practised; and among the latter, it is universally notorious that Baptism and the Lord's Supper exist, and ever have existed, among the disciples of Jesus, from the very period of their institution. With these criteria clearly before us, we may challenge the world to furnish us with a single imposture, either of Heathenism, Mohammedism, or Papacy were they all united:—indeed, it is impossible, that, in any imposture, they ever should meet. What, then, is the inference of reason, seeing that they all do unite in proof of the authenticity of the Old and New Testaments, but that they are undoubtedly AUTHENTIC RECORDS?

* Short and Easy Method with the Deists.

II. Testimony. The testimony of witnesses, whom even the opponents of revelation will admit to be unexceptionable, furnishes us with evidence of the authenticity of the scriptures. We must of necessity confine our remarks to only one or two points; or we shall be drawn into a more extended consideration of the subject than our limits will admit. We take therefore, the authenticity of the New Testament, and adduce some of the testimonies of profane writers in support of it. The New Testament scriptures have numerous, and often, circumstantial references to persons, whom it may be supposed, other writers would mention, if they really existed;—they mention, sects, morals, and customs of the Jews;—characters and pursuits of heathen nations, &c. &c. If then, the statements made by the sacred writers, are corroborated by the testimony of faithful Jewish or heathen writers, we are justified in receiving their narratives as authentic. Now, in fact, this corroboration of the statements of the sacred writers is found to exist.

1. Josephus, and various heathen writers, mention Herod, Archelaus, Pontius Pilate, and other persons whose names occur in the New Testament; and the differences between their narratives and those of the sacred writers, are, comparatively, inconsiderable. Matthew tell us that Jesus was born in Bethlehem, in the days of Herod; and Josephus says, that this prince reigned over all Judea for thirty-seven years, even till the time of Augustus, the Roman emperor. He tells us further, that before his death, he divided his kingdom by will, among his three sons, Archelaus, Herod Antipas, and Philip; and Luke incidentally mentions the last two of these princes, in the fifteenth year of Tiberias Cæsar, as filling the very posts to which they were assigned by their father's will, and that Pontius Pilate was governor of Judea. This is accounted for, by the fact that the will of Herod was only partially confirmed by Augustus; that part which related to Archelaus possessing Judea, with the title of "King," being set aside. In like manner the narrative which the sacred writer has given of the Herod who "stretched forth his hand to vex certain of the church," is confirmed in all the particulars which relate to the occasion and manner of his death; and subsequently of the marriage of his youngest daughter to Felix, by Josephus.

2. Tacitus and Josephus confirm the account given in Acts, of the licentiousness of Felix, and his adultery with Drusilla; and thus justify, and render reasonable and credible, the record of Luke, that "as Paul reasoned of righteousness, and temperance, and of a judgment to come, Felix trembled." They record his avarice also; and thus confirm the scripture narrative that he hoped money would have been given him for Paul's liberation. See Acts xxiv. 25. 26.

3. Seneca confirms Luke's account of Gallio's justice, impartiality, prudence, and general amiableness. Acts xviii. 14—16.

Not less remarkably striking is the correspondence between the writers of the New Testament, and profane writers, relative to the sects, morals, and customs, of the Jews. Thus Josephus tells us that they possessed the free exercise of their religion, might accuse and prosecute, but not execute, offenders against their laws;—how exactly does this correspond with what the evangelist has recorded as the Jews' own language, Jno. xviii. 31. "We have no power to put any man to death." Josephus, Philo, and other writers, tell us, that prior to the destruction of Jerusalem, the Jews were scattered abroad through many nations. Accordingly we find, in Acts, a proof of this and of the former statement, as to the free exercise of their religion. For at the feast of Pentecost, one of the occasions of general concourse to the nation, "there were dwelling in Jerusalem, Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven;—Parthians, Medes, Elamites, &c. &c. &c." Acts ii. 5—11.

The correspondence is equally remarkable between the sacred and the profane writers, relative to the character of the heathen nations. Paul says of the Greeks, that "they seek after wisdom;" and Herodotus says, that Anacharsis, who was sent by the Scythian monarch into Greece, on his return, declared, that "all the Greeks were occupied in scientific pursuits, except the Lacedemonians." Paul says of the Athenians that they were greatly addicted to religious ceremonies; and all history testifies to the crowds of their deities in every street. Luke says, "The Athenians spend their time in nothing else than either to hear or tell some new thing;" and Demosthenes had long before censured them for this very evil; Paul testifies to the mendacity of the Cretans, as being well expressed by a poet of their own; and addresses a strain of exhortation to Titus, relative to the inculcation of Christian doctrine among these people, exactly suited to those of such a character.

4. Pilate is himself a witness to the life and character of Jesus Christ; and such a witness as testifies powerfully to the authenticity of the sacred volume. Governors of Roman provinces were required to send to the emperor accounts of whatever was remarkable, which occurred under their administration; and these accounts were preserved in the archives of the empire. Accordingly, Pilate kept memoirs of all which was remarkable in the Jewish nation, and transmitted it to Rome, to Tiberius. His records were called "Acta Pilati," or "Acts of Pilate." Such was the account these records contained, that the emperor suggested to the senate, to admit Jesus among the number of the gods; and sent his own prerogative vote in favor of the measure. This is no legend; but a matter of serious and faithful history; for Justin Martyr, in his first apology for the Christians, says, "And that these things were so done (viz. as the Gospel History records them) you may know from the Acts made in the time of PONTIUS PILATE." Again, after mentioning numerous miracles of the Lord Jesus, he adds, "And that these things were done by him, you may know from the ACTS made in the time of PONTIUS PILATE." Here then is testimony sent by a heathen governor, to a heathen emperor of facts, of which he never saw a record, because none was then written; and of which he knew not that any record, but his own, would ever be made:—his record, too, was placed in the archives of the Roman Empire, where none but those at the head of the government could gain access to them; and consequently where the Evangelists could not go to copy them; and this record contained particulars of the life, and miracles, and sufferings, and death of Jesus, so circumstantial and correct, that a christian apologist, having attested to them from the gospel history, appeals for the conviction of his readers to documents in their own possession! Can any thing more fully prove either the fact that such documents existed; or that the record in the evangelical history is true?

We might enlarge our list by quotations from Suetonius, Tacitus, the younger Pliny, &c. among heathen writers; but our limits forbid. We might also cite Celsus and Porphyry and Julian; but their testimony having been given for the Genuineness of the New Testament scriptures, and that testimony having a nearly equal bearing on the authenticity of those scriptures, we shall not repeat the citation. We may surely consider the position abundantly sustained that the writings of the Sacred volume are authentic.

SECTION III.

On the Inspiration of the Scriptures.

The preceding sections in this Chapter have shown, that the writers of the Old and New Testament were persons of unimpeachable integrity, and well acquainted with the facts they severally record; or certain that the sources whence some of them (as Ezra) derived their information relative to facts which they did not witness, were entirely worthy of confidence: and, consequently, that the writings they have transmitted to us, are entitled to the fullest and most implicit credit. But these writings come to us with authority; they do not merely propose themselves for our assent; but they demand it. Whence do they derive their warrant thus to address us? It is not enough that the writers were persons of pious life, and a mind superior to prejudice and passion, in order to entitle them to demand, for their productions, the homage the scriptures actually do require. They must possess another claim to homage, viz. Inspiration:—such a degree of influence, assistance, and guidance, must have been imparted to the writers, as should enable them to communicate religious knowledge to others, without error or mistake; whether the subjects of such communications were things then immediately revealed to those who declared them, or those with which they had previously, and by ordinary means, become acquainted. Such Inspiration the writers of the Scriptures profess to have possessed; but a prudent man will not believe this on a mere assertion; because many such assertions have been made without foundation. The God who has put into our hands these scriptures, has, in doing so, treated us as rational and intelligent beings; and having endowed us with capacities for collecting and comparing evidence, has clothed the revelation he has afforded to us, with evidence of its divine origin, which is suited to our capacities of observation, collection, comparison, and inference. He does not acknowledge the dogma as His, that "Ignorance is the mother of Devotion;" but bids us "Prove all things;"—"Not believe every spirit; but try the spirits" professing to be from Him, "whether they be of God." It is Reason's proper office to examine the pretences of a professed revelation, to a Divine origin; to ascertain what are the criteria by which a truly Divine Revelation may be known; and whether the pretensions of any productions to be such a Revelation, really possess those criteria. Let us then, briefly, direct our attention to the evidence that the Bible is Divinely inspired.

It is reasonable and necessary that the scriptures should be inspired. It is reasonable, because the information they contain has relation to subjects every way worthy of God to reveal; subjects intimately, and essentially connected with the everlasting interests of mankind; calculated to stimulate to holiness, to preserve from error, and to guide to happiness. It is necessary also, not (as was before shown) from the state of the world, and the testimonies of antiquity; but the matter of the scripture revelation is such as could not have been imparted otherwise than by inspiration. The subjects of scripture are, some of them, such as render this Inspiration necessary; for they are often such facts as could not have been known, had not God revealed them:—others again are recorded as future, which none but God could foreknow, and which, yet, came to pass, exactly in accordance with the prediction:—and others still, are far above human capacity, and could not have been discovered by mere human sagacity; and hence, must have been delivered by divine inspiration. Furthermore, since we have shown the veracity of the writers to be beyond question, they must have been truly inspired, or they would not have said, "Thus saith the Lord" when they were delivering only the results of their own lucubrations. It is, moreover, impossible, that the scriptures should be the work of men, either good or bad. Good men could not be the authors; for, as we have just seen, the authors claim to utter the words of God; which, unless he spake by them, they did not utter; so that the supposition involves them in guilt, incompatible with the supposition that they were pious. Wicked men could not be its authors, because it is the book, of all others, most opposed to their inclinations and practices; and denounces the most tremendous judgments against them; and it is impossible that such men should compose a book which should consult, so eminently and uniformly, the honor of God, the happiness of men, and the interests of vital holiness. It is incredible that such men should sacrifice worldly interest, friends, and even life itself, for the Bible. When did bad men ever pursue a course like this? When did they devise the greatest good, and suffer and die to accomplish it? There is, then, no alternative; the Bible is, and must be inspired.

Writers on this point, have enumerated several kinds of inspiration; or several kinds of influence on the minds of the writers of the sacred volume, and have thus distinguished them.

1. Inspiration of Superintendency; which preserves from error in a greater degree than would be possible in the ordinary use of men's natural faculties.

2. Plenary Superintendent Inspiration; which excludes every mixture of error from the writing thus inspired.

3. Inspiration of Elevation; where the faculties of the inspired person act in a regular and common manner, but are raised in an extraordinary degree.

4. Inspiration of Suggestion; in which the use of the faculties is, for the time superseded; and God speaks immediately to the mind of the writer.

Some portions of the Bible are considered to have been written under one of these kinds of inspiration, and other portions under another; according as the nature of the subject might render necessary. For example, "the inspiration of suggestion" is altogether unnecessary in recording facts of which the writers were themselves witnesses; and therefore, for such records, would not be imparted: and the "Inspiration of Superintendency" would be insufficient to enable the writers to foretell future events; and, therefore, in Prophecy, other and superior inspiration is afforded.

That the writers generally exercised their own judgment and reason is evident from their own declarations. Ps. xlv. 1. Mark xii. 36. Luke i. 3. Acts. i. 1. 1 Pet. i. 11. all which passages plainly intimate the operation, freely, of these faculties. Yet it no less clearly appears that the Spirit of God stirred them up to write, 2 Tim. iii. 16. and appointed to each writer his own particular burden. 2 Pet. i. 21. Their minds were distinctly informed of the truths they were to deliver, Ezek. iv. 1—8. Dan. viii. 15—19.—ix. 22. Zech. i. 19—21. Jno. xvi. 13. Eph. iii. 34. 1 Pet. i. 10. 11. Their memories were strengthened supernaturally to recollect events and sayings long past. Luke i. 3. Jno. xiv. 26. They were instructed to select some facts from many; and precisely such facts as should conduce to the edification of the church to the end of time. Jno. xx. 30. 31. Rom. iv. 23. 24.—xv. 4 1 Cor. x. 6—11. They had those images and ideas excited afresh in their minds, which had been previously treasured up in their memories; and they were applied to other purposes, than, probably, they ever would have been, by the writers, left to themselves. This is true of Paul's quotations from heathen poets, Acts. xvii. 28. 1 Cor. xv. 32. Titus i. 12. Many matters were suggested to the minds of the inspired writers, which could never have been known but by pure Revelation: such, for example, as relate to the creation, Gen. chaps. i. ii. and such as are strictly speaking Prophecies. Isa. xli. 22, 23 In a word each particular writer was so superintended as to render him infallible in his matter, words, and order; especially when relating those facts, discourses, or doctrines, which it is the peculiar object of the Scriptures to communicate. 2 Pet. i. 19. 21.

When we say, therefore, that the Scriptures are divinely inspired, we mean They are written under special divine superintendence and suggestion: so that the writers were preserved from error into which they might otherwise have fallen, and made acquainted with truths of which they must otherwise have continued ignorant. This then is the point now to be proved; for as was before observed, we are not to take even the pretensions of Scripture to inspiration, unquestioned, and without proof; but to "prove all things" and "try the spirits:"—when this is done, we shall, if consistent, be prepared to believe without scruple all which it reveals, and to obey without hesitancy or exception, all which it enjoins. Evidence of the Inspiration of the Scriptures is of two kinds, External, and Internal. The former is specially calculated to convince those who do not yet believe; and the latter to strengthen the faith of those who do. External evidence may be embraced under two heads, viz. the evidence of Miracles, and the evidence of Prophecy.

I. The evidence of Miracles. A miracle is an effect, or event, contrary to the established constitution, or course of things; or a sensible suspension, or controlment of, or deviation from the known laws of nature; and wrought, either by the immediate act, or by the assistance, or by the permission of God, and preceded by some notice, or declaration that it is so performed, for the proof, or in testimony of the truth of some particular doctrine; or in attestation of the truth of some person's pretension to be authorized, and commissioned of God

The laws of nature are invariable; but he who imposed these laws, can, of course, suspend or control them: and he may be expected to control or suspend them whenever, by so doing, the highest interests of his moral creatures, and the honor of his own character, render it necessary. It has been said, indeed, that a miracle is beyond comprehension, and that it is, therefore, contrary to reason. But this is by no means the case; many things are beyond the grasp of reason which are yet not contrary to it. A child is a subject of reason; yet many things are beyond the power of a child's reason to comprehend, which, yet, are intelligible to the reason of a cultivated man. Why then may not things entirely incomprehensible by the most cultivated among men, be matters perfectly intelligible to beings of a higher order than man? Whatever cannot be shown to be contrary to reason, cannot, philosophically, be asserted to be so; and whatever can be shown to be inconsistent with reason, is, thereby, shown to be untrue. But many things are known and felt to be true, which are, yet, admitted to be above the comprehension of man in his present state; therefore many things which are above the comprehension of reason, are yet known to be not contrary to reason. For example, It is true that what philosophers call "gravitation" exists in all bodies; yet can no philosopher tell what gravitation is: Again, It is true that whiteness is a property of snow, and verdure a property of grass; yet no one can tell what whiteness or verdure is, further than to say it is "the property of being white or green." That is, It is beyond or above reason to tell what is the ultimate nature, the final essence of gravitation, or whiteness, or greenness; but it is not contrary to reason to suppose there is some final essence in them; because in fact they exist in nature. The same train of reasoning applies to miracles; they may be true, though they be incomprehensible; the reality of the miracle rests not at all on any power in man to conceive how the effect is produced. It is a fact that I have written the page before me; but how the volition of my mind operates to produce those muscular contractions and extensions which have resulted in the formation of the letters, I know not. No real and solid objection then, can possibly lie against the reality of miracles; for they are interferences of divine power, for purposes in accordance with divine wisdom and benevolence.

But supposing the abstract possibility of miracles, how shall we know the reality of their having been performed? This is an inquiry into the credibility of miracles; and admits a very satisfactory answer. In nature we admit the truth of some things which we cannot comprehend:—as the power of contraction in the muscles at the will of the living man. But why do we believe it? Because we have evidence of its truth —the evidence of our senses. Evidence then can render credible what is, yet, incomprehensible. But evidence is not of one kind only; nor do we believe on the evidence of our senses only. The evidence of testimony may be so clear, and strong, and unquestionable, as to ensure a belief as strong as that we give in assent to the evidence of our senses. Who doubts the existence of Cairo or Pekin? Yet how few persons in this country have seen either? And how few of us have seen even those who have seen these places. Who doubts that Alexander existed, and overthrew the Persian Empire? And yet there is not a person living, who lived in Alexander's days. Why then do we believe such a man ever to have lived? On evidence: evidence which we are justified in admitting as conclusive —the evidence of testimony,—the testimony not of living persons; but of historians, long since dead: and should we question the truth of their testimony on the principal facts of his history, we should expose ourselves to the merited censure and contempt of all rational men. In like manner the credibility of miracles is sustained by evidence;—not that of the senses; for miracles are not now wrought; but that of testimony; the testimony of witnesses whose writings we have proved to be genuine, and authentic; and who are sufficient in numbers, and such in character and opportunities for knowing that which they testify, and so remote from all temptation to attempt to deceive, as to render them, in all respects, competent to establish the truth of the facts they declare.

1. As to the number of the witnesses. Having proved the authenticity of the Scriptures, we might adduce thousands of witnesses of some of them: viz. of the deliverance from Egypt, the passage through the Red Sea, the sojourn in the wilderness, sustained by manna and water miraculously produced, &c. &c. in the Old Testament; and of the feeding of multitudes with a few barley cakes, and small fishes, in the New Testament. But we will bring the matter to a smaller compass; and ascertain that the witnesses are more than sufficiently numerous to establish the facts to which they testify. In all cases which can be affected by testimony, two or three independent witnesses whose testimony agrees together, are considered sufficient to establish a fact to which they testify. But, to say nothing of the testimony for the reality of the miracles recorded in the Old Testament, those of Jesus are established by eight independent witnesses (i. e. persons all equally credible, because separately competent to testify) whose writings have descended to us in the New Testament.

2. As to their character. The writers of the sacred volume have been most severely scrutinized, by the enemies of the religion they taught; but the most sharp-sighted malice could never suggest a reason why their testimony should be disbelieved.

3. As to their opportunities for knowing that to which they testify. They were competent judges in the case, for the facts occurred before their eyes;—and they could be under no temptation to deceive us, by asserting facts to have occurred which never had an existence. Moreover,

4. Their testimony possesses the proper mark of that of independent witnesses, viz. complete agreement as to the principal facts to which they testify, united with variety, or diversity at least, in their manner of relating the same occurrences.

It would extend this Introduction beyond all the bounds we can allow ourselves, were we to enter at large into an investigation of the evidence for the Inspiration of Scripture, which miracles present We must plan ourselves on some small point, and afford our readers rather a specimen, than an array of this evidence. We will take the illustrious miracle of the resurrection of Christ, and give an outline of the evidence by which it is established. There is a manifest propriety in this selection; because he frequently predicted the event, and distinctly rested on it, his claims to be received as the Saviour. If therefore this fact really occurred, Christianity stands on a steady base; and the Christian Scriptures are proved to be inspired, as far as evidence of their inspiration is derivable from miracles.

There can be no reasonable doubt that Jesus really died on the cross; the language of the chief priests to Pilate when they requested the guard, in order to make sure the sepulchre, implies their conviction of it;—the testimony of the centurion, who was entrusted with the execution of the sentence, satisfied Pilate that he was dead;—and, had he received no other wound, that inflicted by the soldier with the spear in his heart, must have effected it; for that his heart was pierced, is evident, from the discharge of the water of the pericardium from the wound. See Matt. xxvii. 63—66. Mark xv. 43.—45. Jno. xix. 34, 35. If, therefore, he were really seen alive after his crucifixion, he was truly raised from the dead.

That on the third day, the body was missing from the sepulchre is not questioned; but how came it to be missing? The Jews reported that his disciples stole it away while the guards slept; and candour, perhaps, requires us to spend a moment in examining this point before we come to the consideration of the direct evidence for the fact of his resurrection. It is worthy of remark, that Matthew, who records this story, appears to consider it so manifestly improbable and self-refutatory, that he says not a single word in the way of refutation. Several things, however, may be just hinted at, as showing the unreasonableness of such a supposition.

1. The disciples were so timid that when a mixed multitude came to apprehend their master, they forsook him, and fled: and could they be supposed to plan either an attack, or a surprise, of sixty Roman soldiers, accustomed to conflict, and familiar with watching?

2. Suppose the guard all to have slept at once, yet as Jerusalem contained at the period of the Passover, nearly or quite a million of people, it is improbable that the place of the sepulchre was, at any time, without some persons present besides the guard; for many strangers probably passed the night in the open air; and the place was only just without the walls.

3. At the Passover the moon was full; so that nothing could be done by the disciples in the way of removing the body under the cover of darkness.

4. It is altogether incredible that sixty men accustomed to the strictness of Roman discipline should all, at the same time, jeopardize their lives by sleeping on guard.

5. If they were all asleep, how could they testify to what was done during their slumber? Would they not have been awakened by the noise of rolling away the stone? This must have been done, for the sepulchre had only that entrance; being hewn out of a rock. Hence the disciples had no alternative but to go and perform the theft in the very midst of the guards, who were all, of course, in front of the sepulchre.

6. Would thieves, in a hurry, have folded the napkin which was bound around the head of the Saviour, or would they not rather have hastily removed it, or perhaps not have remained even to do as much as that, seeing that an armed guard was within a few feet of them, and a moment's delay would ruin their enterprise and forfeit their lives?

7 Would not the Apostles have been seized, had the charge against them been even believed to be true by the rulers? Would not the soldiers have been punished, as those sixteen were, to whom shortly after, Peter was committed by Herod, when he was not to be found? This would, at least, have vindicated the rulers from the suspicion of collusion with the guards. Would no judicial investigation have been instituted? No accusation of the apostles laid, even when they directly charged the rulers with his murder, and asserted in the same breath his resurrection? (Acts ii. 23, 24.) How naturally, from this charge, would the retort on themselves arise, of having stolen the body, had it been true! and how impossible that it should not be made!

A specious objection against the reality of Christ's resurrection has been sometimes made, founded on Acts x. 40, 41. "Him God raised up the third day and showed him openly; not to all the people, but to witnesses chosen before of God, &c." It is here asked, Why "not to all the people?" Why were the witnesses of his resurrection to be picked men? Does it not look like collusion? Is there not the appearance, at least, of fear to bring the matter to public and general investigation?

In answer to this we observe, The objection takes for granted that God chose the witnesses, or that they were chosen, to favor the deception; whereas, in fact, they were chosen to prevent the possibility of deception. The witnesses chosen of God, were such as had been, for three and a half years, the companions of Christ, and the members of his family;—they had often eaten and drank with him, and could not but be eminently qualified to testify to his personal identity. The people generally had indeed, seen Jesus prior to his suffering death; but most had only a passing, and distant view of him: could these, then, be competent witnesses to the identity of his person? And if he had been shown "openly to all the people" after his resurrection, they must have had only a distant view of him, and could not, therefore, testify to more than having seen, living, a man said to have been Jesus who was crucified; but this would have been insufficient. But the witnesses "chosen of God," "ate and drank with him," and were invited "to handle him," "to thrust their fingers into the print of the nails, and their hand into his side;" and, fully, by every means, to satisfy themselves that he was their very Lord Jesus himself. These then are truly competent witnesses: let us examine their testimony.

1. Their number is more than sufficient to testify satisfactorily to any matter of fact whatever; and the fact to which they do testify, they witnessed a considerable number of times. The witnesses are seven; viz. Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Paul, Peter, and James;—These writers record eleven distinct appearances of the Lord Jesus after his resurrection, and prior to his ascension; viz.

(1.) To Mary Magdalene alone, (Mark xvi. 9.) who saw Jesus standing. (Jno. xx. 4.)

(2.) To the women returning from the sepulchre to the apostles with the tidings of his resurrection. (Matt. xxvii. 9, 10.)

(3.) To Simon Peter alone. (Luke xxiv. 34.)

(4.) To the two disciples going to Emmaus. (Luke xxiv. 13—31.)

(5.) To the apostles at Jerusalem, Thomas excepted. (Jno. xx. 19, 20.)

(6.) To the apostles, eight days afterwards, Thomas included. (Jno. xx. 26—29.)

(7.) To seven of the disciples at the sea of Tiberias, when he ate with them. (Jno. xxi. 1—15.)

(8.) To the eleven on a mountain in Galilee. (Matt. xxviii. 16, 17.)

(9.) To "Five hundred brethren at once" (1 Cor. xv. 6.)

(10.) To James after the last mentioned appearance. (1 Cor. xv. 7.)

(11.) To all the apostles on Olivet, where they witnessed his ascension to heaven. (Luke xxiv. 51. Acts i. 9.

Of nearly all these appearances, it may be remarked, that those to whom they were made, did not expect them; and therefore could not be excited to illusion, by a heated imagination. Furthermore, they were made at such seasons as were calculated to guard against all probability of such illusion; as, also, of dreams being mistaken for realities. It was in "the morning," or in broad day, or in the evening before they retired; but, in no single instance, was it in the darkness and silence of midnight. In addition to these appearances, he was seen by Stephen at the moment of his martyrdom; and by Saul near the gates of Damascus.

2. The condition of the witnesses was not such as to give currency to their report, had it not been strictly true.

They were men of no opulence or reputation, of no learning or eloquence, of no influence or authority; but plain unlettered men, testifying to a plain matter of fact; and had they been disposed, they were among the most incapable of palming a falsehood on the world.

3. They were, themselves, remarkably incredulous of the fact, to which, when convinced of it, they so consistently and steadily testified They did not believe he would die, even after he had predicted it five or six times. Mark tells us, "They understood not that saying." Mark ix. 32. Neither when they saw him dead, did they believe that he would rise again, though he had distinctly foretold this also; for "they questioned one with another what the rising from the dead should mean." Mark ix. 10. The report of the women, that they had seen a vision of angels, who announced his actual resurrection, was by the apostles treated as "an idle tale:"—they were "terrified and affrighted," when they first saw him; whence evidently they did not expect to see him.

4. It is morally impossible that they should attempt to palm an imposition upon the world We have seen ample evidence of the integrity, and fidelity of the apostles, so that there is not any shadow of reason for suspecting them of making the attempt. It is inconceivable indeed that any man, and especially that such men, should expose themselves to all kinds of punishments, and even to death itself, to testify to what they knew to be a lie; and if Christ be not risen, they must have known this. Further if one person might be so lost to principle as to do this, it is incredible that numbers should unite in it. But suppose many persons should have agreed together in the falsehood, yet, must they be, of all others, those very persons who consider perfidy and falsenood as endangering their eternal salvation? And such was the steady belief of every Jew. Can it be believed, moreover, that of all the persons concerned in such a scheme to cheat the world, none would be found, who, to avoid punishment, or obtain reward, would disclose the truth, and expose the cheat?

5. These witnesses testify to facts; and not to conclusions drawn from metaphysical reasoning, or long and difficult calculations. The facts to which they testify were such as their senses could test; viz. that they had seen, and heard, and handled, and conversed, and eaten with, that very Jesus after his resurrection, who was crucified, dead, and buried. They could not have been deceived on these points.

6. Their evidence is also, remarkably concurrent; and hence, the testimony of each, is corroborative of that of all the rest. Is it not strange that among five hundred false witnesses, (upon the supposition that Christ rose not) containing as they must, persons of a variety of tempers, capacities, and dispositions, some timid and some bold, there should yet be, on the point to which they falsely testify, unbroken unity of evidence? None of the witnesses ever contradicted himself; none impeached his accomplices; none ever discovered the pretended imposture.

7. Their evidence too, was subjected to the most competent and rigid scrutiny. It was examed by innumerable multitudes of people; by Jews and Heathens, Rabbies and Philosophers; for circumstances were so ordered, that men of almost all countries heard the testimony; and it was borne before judicial tribunals, and in presence of courtiers and counsellors, expert in the investigation and sifting of evidence: yet, no one of them ever pretended to have discovered the fraud.

8. The time when this testimony was borne is also to be taken into the account. Only three days after his crucifixion, do we find them affirming his resurrection: impostors would never have done this.

9. Consider also the place where this testimony was borne. Not in distant countries, beyond mountains and seas:—this, because of the difficulty to the hearers, of obtaining exact information, might seem to afford some facility to the establishment of the falsehood, had it been one;—but He who had chosen the apostles to witness his resurrection, bade them "begin at Jerusalem." Here, if anywhere, the fact of his resurrection could be disproved; and here, in the very face of his murderers,—in the public streets, in the temple, before the Sanhedrim, did they erect the standard of their Master's Cross.

10. By what motive, let us ask, were these men actuated in the testimony they bore? Was it to acquire reputation, favor, wealth, or honor? None of them; but the opposite of them all. They exposed themselves to sufferings and death: they were hated, calumniated, despised, persecuted from city to city, imprisoned, scourged, stoned, and crucified; yet, glorying in all their labors, and all their sufferings, and still uttering the same unvarying testimony to the resurrection of Jesus. It devolves on the Infidel to tell us what was the motive of these men, if not the love of truth, and to show the consistency of the course they pursued with the motive which actuated them.

11. These witnesses themselves wrought miracles in confirmation of what they testified: these miracles themselves, are God's testimony to the veracity of the apostles. Heb. 2. 4. Would the God of truth, then, affix the broad seal of heaven to an infamous falsehood? If not, then that to which this seal is affixed is true: but it is affixed to the testimony of apostles that Jesus rose from the dead, therefore that testimony is true; and we are permitted triumphantly to say, "Now IS CHRIST RISEN.

II The evidence of Prophecy. God only can foreknow the events of a distant futurity: but men have, in various ages, appeared, uttering predictions of events, at the time, very distantly future; and events, many of them, extremely unlikely to come to pass; which events, nevertheless, occurred in exact accordance with the prediction. It follows, therefore, that these men were inspired of God to utter their prophecies; and that all which they wrote under such inspiration, is, indeed, the word of God. Prophecy, in itself, could afford no evidence of its divine inspiration, to those to whom it was immediately uttered; because being a prediction of events, future at the time it was uttered, until the events occurred, the prophecy could be no evidence of his inspiration who uttered it. But yet the men of the age in which the prophets lived, were not left without evidence of their inspiration; for it was furnished in the miracles they wrought: for a miracle was always considered as God's testimony to the truth of his words who wrought it. There is a wide difference between the Prophecies of the Bible and the Oracles of ancient Heathenism. The latter are few in number, and vague, general, indefinite, ambiguous in language; and never reaching to remote futurity. The prophecies of Scripture, on the contrary, are so numerous, that it is extremely difficult to tell the number of them; they are, it is true, sometimes invested with a measure of obscurity; but only such as shall render it impossible for the perverseness of the human will to lay plans to prevent their accomplishment. They are particular, definite, and, often, even minutely circumstantial; and some of them reaching forward through the vista of thousands of years. The lapse of time then, evidently increases the evidence of inspiration, derived from prophecy; because it increases the number of instances in which the appeal, in its support, can be made to fulfilled prophecy. The history of the past, and the state of the world at present, furnish us with a mass of evidence in favor of the inspiration of the Bible, which it would require numerous volumes to present at length. We cannot here give even an epitome of it. It has relation to Noah's sons and their descendants, Ishmael and his posterity, Jacob, Esau, the Tribes of Israel, Nineveh, Babylon, Tyre, Egypt, the Babylonian, Median, Grecian, and Roman Empires, the destruction of Jerusalem, the Papal Antichrist, &c. &c. The circumstantiality of some of these prophecies, is unaccountable upon any other supposition than that the writers really believed themselves to be under the influence of the Spirit of inspiration, and the circumstantiality of the fulfilment, can only be accounted for, by the supposition that they really were under his influence: for it is incredible that we live under the government of a Being, wise, powerful, true, and benevolent; and who can, therefore, and is disposed, to dissipate all deception, by which his rational creatures are injured; (especially when it is practised in His name,) and yet that events have occurred under his administration, eminently calculated to constrain us to believe the inspiration of these writings, if they be not actually inspired. We can only, as in the case of miracles, present a specimen of the evidence which Prophecy affords, of the Inspiration of the Scriptures; referring such of our readers as are disposed further to prosecute the study of the subject, to the various larger works extant. We take first the remarkable prophecy of Moses, the Lawgiver of Israel, relative to the overthrow of the Jewish polity, and the present condition of that people. It may be seen at length, Deut. chap. xxviii. Bishop Newton has noted seventeen distinct particulars in the prophecy, all of which are remarkably fulfilled.

1. That the nation which should overthrow them should come from far, from the end of the earth, swift as the eagle flieth, and that their language should be unintelligible to the Jews. Now in fact, of all the enemies of Israel, none was so remote, none so rapid in their conquests, none so well compared to the Eagles, which were their standards, as the Romans; and none whose language bore so little affinity to their own.

2. "A Nation of fierce countenance, which shall not regard the person of the old, nor show favor to the young." How exact this prediction was, will not be questioned by any who know the preëminently warlike character of the Romans, or the records of history as to their procedure towards the Jews. At Gadara, "they slew all, man by man, showing mercy to no age, out of hatred to the nation." At Gamala, "nobody escaped except two women; and they concealed themselves:—they did not spare so much as young children; but every one, at that time, snatching up many, cast them down from the citadel." Josephus.

3. They were to be besieged in fenced, and strongly fortified places: (ver. 52.) and we are told that when Titus had succeeded in taking the city, he was astonished at his own success; so impregnable did the natural and artificial fortifications appear.

4. Excessive sufferings were to be endured by them during the siege; and especially from famine, the brother envying his brother, the husband his wife, and parents their children, the scanty and unwholesome morsel by which life could be sustained. (ver. 54.) Accordingly, Josephus tells us, that "if in any house the semblance of food was seen, a battle ensued; and the dearest friends fought with each other, snatching away the miserable provisions of life."

5. They should eat their own children: ver. 53. 56. This last verse was fulfilled in the last siege of Jerusalem by a woman of high rank, killing and eating her own sucking child. Moses says that this should be eaten secretly in the siege; and Josephus says that, having eaten half of the babe, she covered up the remainder in a secret place for another meal.

6. Great multitudes were to be destroyed:—"ye shall be left few in number." (ver. 62.) In truth no nation under heaven has been exposed to so numerous, and unrelenting persecutions and massacres, as they. At Jerusalem, and other parts of Judea, in the last war, there fell a million and a quarter, besides nearly a hundred thousand prisoners who were taken.

7. They were to be carried in ships to Egypt, and sold as slaves, until there were no buyers. (ver. 68.) This, we are assured by Josephus, was most exactly fulfilled. "The markets were quite overstocked with them;—they were sold with their wives and children, at the lowest price, there being many to be sold, and but few purchasers."

8. They were to be rooted out of their own land. (ver. 63.) A modern traveller (Sandy) says, "It is inhabited mostly by Moors and Arabians; Turks there be few; but many Greeks and other Christians of all sects. Here be also some Jews; but they inherit no part of the land but, in their own country, do live as aliens"

9. They were to be dispersed into all the kingdoms of the earth. (ver. 25. 64.) And what is the nation under the whole heaven, but contains some of the children of Abraham?

10. They were still to subsist as a distinct people. (Lev. xxvi. 44.) And the Jewish nation has been like the bush of Moses, continually burning, yet never consumed. They are, indeed, in this respect, a standing miracle. After so many wars, battles, sieges, fires, famines, pestilences, so many years of slavery, captivity, and misery, they still subsist a distinct people, yet scattered among all other people.

11. They were to find no rest, or ease, in their dispersion. (ver. 65.) History accordingly informs us, that they have been banished from city after city, and country after country;—from England they were banished by Edward I. and were not permitted to return and settle till Cromwell's time. From France they were banished by Charles VI; from Spain by Ferdinand and Isabella; and from Portugal by Emanuel.

12. They were to be "spoiled evermore." (ver. 29. &c.) Their property has been seized, and confiscated, in almost all countries; they have been fined and fleeced by almost all governments, on the very slightest pretences, and, indeed, almost without pretext.

13. Their "sons and daughters should be given to another people." (ver. 32.) Thus in several countries, and particularly Spain and Portugal, the children of Jewish parents have been taken from them, and educated in the Popish religion. See Basnage, and Mariana's Histories.

14. They should "be mad for the sight of their eyes which they should see." (ver. 34.) And into what madness, fury and desperation has the cruelty of their persecutors driven them! Josephus tells us of nine hundred and sixty, who, being besieged by the Romans in the castle of Misada, first slew their own wives and children; then selected from their number ten men to slay the rest; and these ten selected one to kill the other nine; and the last, having set fire to the place, then stabbed himself. Instances of this desperation might be multiplied, did our limits permit.

15. They should "serve other Gods, wood and stone." (ver. 36. 64.) This would, at first sight, appear to be a prediction not fulfilled in the case of modern Jews. Indeed, they have, since the return from Babylon, been remarkable for their exemption from idolatry; an evil to which, previously, they had been most obstinately attached. But the consequence of the policy pursued towards them in Popish countries mentioned above, (13.) has been to introduce large numbers of those of really Jewish race, into the population; and many, very many of the Monks and Nuns, Canons, Bishops, Inquisitors, &c. &c. are persons of this nation. Such is the testimony of Orobio to Limborch, and he was himself one of these persons.

16. They should become "an astonishment, and a proverb, and a by-word among all nations." (ver. 37.) And what do we see and hear on the subject of the fulfilment of this prediction? Where is not the very name of a Jew identified with all that is hateful or contemptible? Mahomedans, Heathens, and Christians, widely as they differ in other respects, yet agree in this, that Jews are to be vilified, abused, and persecuted.

17. Their "plagues should be wonderful; even great plagues, and of long continuance." (ver. 59.) And eighteen hundred years have rolled away and their plagues have not ceased, nor has their captivity been turned. Former captivities were, comparatively, short; and their situation tolerable; but this has been long, and unmitigated.

Here now is a single prophecy selected from a very large number; and this prophecy presents seventeen independent particulars, in every one of which we have seen that it was fulfilled, or is fulfilling, at this day. This prophecy was delivered above three thousand years since; and at a time when Israel was just about, victoriously, to take possession of the country of its enemies; and consequently, at a time when there was scarcely a shadow of probability, that it would ever be fulfilled; so far, at least, as probabilities can be calculated. Now, in order that we may see the measure of evidence which this prophecy alone, affords of the inspiration of him who delivered it, let us take such a view of it, as Mathematicians take of the doctrine of chances, in their calculations on probabilities. Here are seventeen particulars, in this prophecy; the chances, therefore, against the concurrence of them all in any lapse of time, is as the 17th power of 2 to unity, i. e. It is 131,072 to 1, against its ever being fulfilled. Yet we have seen that it has actually been fulfilled in every particular; can we attribute this to political foresight in Moses? It is plainly impossible. Can we ascribe it to some lucky hit? No: for, on that supposition, God has given up the government of the world; and this supposition is irrational. Can we, then, suppose, that God has so remarkably operated, in his providence, as to seem to put the seal of inspiration on what, nevertheless, is only a blind conjecture, or the raving of an enthusiast? This cannot be supposed; for, on that supposition, God, the God of truth, has put the broad seal of heaven on a palpable lie; and this, when its manifest tendency was to mislead and ruin his rational creatures. There is only one other alternative, viz: that Moses was inspired to utter this prediction. This we are bound to believe, because, as we have just seen, this single fulfilled prophecy, presents 131,072 times as much evidence of being inspired, as can be brought against it. But, if Moses was inspired, then the Levitical dispensation was of Divine origin and authority: and the subsequent portions of the Old Testament, dependant on the Pentateuch, have an ample base on which to rest;—a foundation which earth and hell may in vain attempt to overthrow.

We will now, very briefly, advert to another subject of prophecy immensely more fruitful, in evidence of the inspiration of the scripture, than that which we have considered: viz: the Messiahship of Jesus Christ. It is far too large a subject to enter upon, except in the most general and cursory way: the writers are numerous, the prophecies which they have recorded, still more numerous; and the independent particulars, under these prophecies, it were extremely difficult to enumerate. When we consider, however, that they embrace his descent from Abraham, by Judah, in the line of David, his place of birth, its time, his teaching, miracles, character, treatment, rejection, death, &c. &c. &c. and remember that "to him give all the prophets witness," we must be convinced that there are really hundreds of particulars embraced in the prophecies, which have relation to Christ. The 53d of Isaiah, which touches only the subject of his final rejection, embraces not far from twenty particulars; and other portions of Scripture, of not larger extent, might be named, where nearly an equal number are clustered together. But, as we cannot enter on any thing like an induction of particulars, we will make a supposition, far, very far, within the truth; and see what is the amount of evidence, for the inspiration of the prophecies, which is thence derived. Suppose that among all the prophets, we could only obtain fifty independent criteria by which to recognize the Messiah, when he should appear; and that only this number were distinctly discoverable in Jesus; then, upon the principle before laid down, the evidence in favor of Jesus being that Messiah, to whom these prophets witnessed, or the evidence in favor of their proper inspiration, would be, the fiftieth power of 2 to unity, i. e It would be more than 1,125,900,000,000,000 to 1, or above Eleven hundred and twenty-five millions of millions, and nine hundred thousand millions to one. For, supposing there to be an equal chance for the happening, or the failure of any one of these particulars, it is so many as above named to one, that they never all occur in any way. This computation, however, is independent of the consideration of time; it is conducted upon the principle, that if any one of the specified particulars occur, it may be the day after the prophecy is delivered, or at any period from that time to the end of the world. But the prophecies are not delivered in such a way as this; those respecting the Messiah, were not only to occur, but to concur in one person; he was to live at a specified time; all, therefore, of the specified particulars, must concur in the same individual, and within the lapse of a very few years from the time, when it was declared he should live. This consideration augments the improbability of the concurrence of all the particulars, beyond all the power of numbers correctly to express: i. e. Since they all did concur in Jesus Christ, their concurrence presents evidence in favor of the inspiration of the prophecies, Eleven hundred and twenty-five millions of millions, and nine hundred thousand millions of times as strong, as can be brought against their inspiration!

Yet, here, we have presented only a sample of this evidence; to present the body of it, we must take every fulfilled prophecy the Bible contains, and ascertain the number of particulars in each;—then calculate the numerical probability which each furnishes of its inspiration; and finally, add together all the numbers thus obtained; and the difference between this sum and 1, would express the preponderance of evidence which prophecy affords, that the Scriptures are divinely inspired! Imagination staggers at the thought; it is far too mighty to be grasped: under even a partial conception of the evidence thus presented, we subscribe to the truth of an inspired Apostle's declaration on this subject, "We have NOT followed cunningly devised fables." 2 Pet. i. 16.

We have thus presented, under the two great heads of External evidence for the Divine origin of the Scriptures, (i. e. miracles and prophecy) one or two particulars, and the evidence they afford of the inspiration of the Holy Oracles. But there is another, and, to Christians, a more satisfactory source of evidence, than that which is external; viz: that which arises from the Revelation itself. To such persons, the internal evidences of inspiration are often more within their power to appreciate, and hence they believe, like the men of Samaria, not for the word of the witnesses, but because their own eyes, so to speak, have seen him, and they have heard him themselves. It is to this source of conviction,—this species of evidence, that the Apostle refers, when he says, "He that believeth, hath the witness in himself." 1 Jno. v. 10. Infidels never feel the force of this evidence, because the very conditions of feeling it, in all its force, require that they should cease to be Infidels. But there is yet, a degree, and that, not an inconsiderable one, in which even they might appreciate Internal evidence. If, instead of deriving their opinions of Christianity from the writings of men, (as has been the case with a great majority of them,) they would derive them from the Scriptures themselves, we might hope that even they might relinquish their skepticisms, and become humble believers.

A calm and candid investigation of the Bible itself is eminently calculated to convince the reflecting unbeliever, that it comes from God. It does not come within the range of our plan, to enter at any length into this branch of evidence; yet, we cannot with propriety quit the subject, without just enumerating the sources of internal evidence.

The Scriptures were written by a succession of men, during the period of 1600 years, and contain the Revelations made under the Patriarchal, Mosaic and Christian dispensations. Yet do we find the same essential truths taught in them all, relative to God and his perfections; and man and his duties, and destinies. So perfectly excellent too, are the doctrines and precepts of the Bible, that they could not have originated in a source so corrupt as mere human nature, even in its choicest specimens. Every part is, also, so admirably adapted to the nature of man, as an organized, rational, moral and accountable being; and so ignorant were all mankind on these subjects, in the days when the Bible was written, that, evidently, the writers must have been instructed by some one who perfectly understood man's whole nature, and adapted his laws and revelations to it. Who then could possess this knowledge and impart it; and lead the writers to embody it, and pourtray it, and this, whilst they, in common with the species in general, were profoundly ignorant of the details of man's physical, and intellectual, and moral nature? Who but "He who made" man, "could" thus "make his sword to approach unto him?" The preservation of the Scriptures is also a strong presumption in favor of their being from Heaven. Not the mere fact that they are preserved, (for this would equally prove the divine origin of any work of antiquity,) but the many manifest interpositions of God to preserve them, when the most determined enmity was arrayed against them, and the mightiest efforts put forth to destroy every copy.

The tendency of the Scriptures to render men happy, here, and hereafter, affords additional internal evidence, that they are from God. That such is their tendency, is evident from the effects produced wherever they are cordially received. Witness for example, the effect produced by the religion of the Bible on the South Sea Islanders;—the brutal has become humanized, and the devilish, divine. See also its effect in countries where it prevails, on society in general, on the political state of nations, on literature and the arts, which tend to refine and elevate, and bless the species. These are some of the principal sources of internal evidence that the Scriptures are from God; and the more deeply they are studied in the docile and obedient spirit of a learner, the more strong will the confidence become, that God is their author; for "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine whether it be of God." Jno. vii. 17.

SECTION IV.

On the Manuscripts and early printed editions of the Sacred Writings.

We have thus gone through a very brief exhibition of the evidence by which the Genuineness, Authenticity, and Inspiration of the Bible are supported. But we may, perhaps, now be met by some who will say, "We admit the soundness of your reasonings and the force of your arguments on these points; but they really prove no more than this; viz. That inspired books do exist, and that, perhaps, portions of these books may have descended to us, and become amalgamated with the books now called the Original Scriptures. But we want more than this: it is incumbent on you to show that what are called the "Original Scriptures" in the present day, are really such, i. e. that they are faithful copies of those writings which were penned by inspired men." Believing that this is no more than a reasonable requirement, and feeling assured that such a requirement can be satisfactorily met, we now address ourselves to the task of proving, to a moral certainty, that such is the fact.

On the restoration of Israel from the captivity in Babylon, the canon of Scriptures then extant, was settled by Ezra, who was specially qualified, and divinely assisted to do so. From the days of Ezra to those of our Saviour, copies of the Scriptures, as revised by Ezra, were very extensively multiplied. A synagogue was erected in all places where there were found ten men of full age and free condition to attend its service; and, of course, in large cities there would sometimes be several synagogues: in Jerusalem there were 460 or 480. One indispensable part of the furniture of a synagogue, was, a copy of the Law and the Prophets, or of such of the sacred writings as were then in existence. Now Jews were to be found, not only in the East, but in Egypt, and in various cities of Asia Minor; and were, in these places, very numerous. Of course synagogues were numerous also, as were copies of the Scriptures. So scrupulously careful, too, were they to guard against the corruption of the Scriptures, and to preserve their integrity, that every copy used in a synagogue was required to be compared with the standard copy which was carefully preserved at Jerusalem, and corrected by it. Add to this, that wealthy and pious individuals would desire to possess themselves of a copy, and that this desire would operate greatly to multiply the number of copies. Such was the state of things for about five hundred years, till the standard copy was taken by Titus; which having been carried in triumph to Rome, was laid up within the purple vail in the palace of Vespasian. The great number of the copies of the Jewish Scriptures in the days of Antiochus Epiphanes, may be inferred from the mighty efforts of that persecutor to destroy them all. After the coming of Christ, the Christians as well as the Jews, had numerous copies of the Old Testament writings; and thus, the preservation of the Scriptures uncorrupted, was rendered more certain, through the mutual jealousy of Jews and Christians: for both held them sacred, and of course each would vigilantly observe the other,—immediately detect any attempt at either mutilation, or interpolation, or addition, and instantly promulgate it. After the destruction of Jerusalem there was, indeed, no established standard of the Hebrew Scriptures; yet, those then in existence in various places, (and there were very many) had all been corrected by that copy which was now removed to Rome; and, hence, afforded great facilities for the further multiplication of correct copies, and for the detection of any errors into which subsequent transcribers might fall; and, moreover, the minute, and apparently trifling regulations made for their guidance, had a powerful tendency to prevent errors and to preserve, in purity, the holy writings. From the many copies scattered abroad, distinguished men in the nation formed exemplars, of undoubted correctness, which served as standards, by which the rulers of synagogues, and others, corrected their copies. These exemplars were

1. The copy of Rabbi Hillel, who is supposed to have lived about the year 1000; but as there were many persons of this name, there is no certainty as to this matter.

2. The copy of Rabbi Ben Asher, one of the celebrated doctors of Tiberias, and president of the academy in that city; he flourished about A. D. 1034. This manuscript was kept during many years at Jerusalem as a standard copy; and was that from which Maimonides assures us he transcribed his copy of the law. All the printed copies of the Hebrew Scriptures, and also, nearly all the manuscripts of the western Jews, are derived from transcripts of this celebrated copy.

3. The copy of Jacob Ben Naphtali, who flourished at the same time as Ben Asher, and was president of the academy at Babylon. His text was generally received by his countrymen, and the Oriental Jews, beyond the Euphrates. The "various readings" or differences between this and the preceding one have been transmitted to our own times, and are printed in the larger editions of the Hebrew Bible.

The copies of Jericho and Sinai also, are greatly celebrated for their accuracy, as also is another, called Sanbouki, but of the last, nothing is certainly known, respecting, either its date, or author.

In addition to these, may be mentioned, another; viz. that procured by the late Dr. Buchanan from the Black Jews in Malabar: for though nothing certain can be said as to the date of it, there is satisfactory evidence of its antiquity; and it consists of fragments of copies purely Oriental, and entirely unconnected with the MSS. of the western Jews.

These several independent copies furnish invaluable means for testing the genuineness of those Hebrew Scriptures which we possess; for since they (these copies) are independent of each other, if our Hebrew Scriptures correspond on all important points with all these, there is ample evidence that all have one common origin; and that that origin is the standard copy once laid up in the temple in Jerusalem Immense care has always been taken in transcribing the Holy Scriptures; yet, as might have been expected, many errors have crept into transcripts, and this fact has been magnified and misrepresented by designing men, so as to alarm the fears, and unsettle the confidence of the uninformed. But such persons need feel no alarm: an overwhelming majority of various readings are mere orthographical diversities, of as little importance to the contents of the books themselves, as it would be to the art of painting should a work be written, in some parts of which the word "color" should be spelt without a U, and in others, with it, or to the safety of a nation, if, in a treatise on military tactics, we should sometimes read, in the old-fashioned orthography, of "the defence of a position;" and at others, of its "defense," after the modern Websterian orthography. "All the various collations of versions, manuscripts, and fathers, prove the integrity of the Scriptures which we possess; all coincide, notwithstanding the thousands of various readings, in exhibiting the same Histories, and Prophecies, and Poems, and Gospels, and Acts, and Epistles; all contain the same doctrines; all inculcate the same duties. All the omissions of the ancient manuscripts put together, would not authorise the omission of one essential doctrine of the Gospel, relative to faith or morals; and all the additions countenanced by the whole mass of manuscripts yet collated, do not introduce a single essential point beyond what may be found in the most imperfect editions."

The following early printed editions of the Hebrew Scriptures, or parts of them, deserve to be noticed in this place.

1. A Hebrew Psalter, or Book of Psalms, with a commentary, by Kimchi. This is the earliest printed Hebrew book extant; and indeed the first ever printed.

2. A copy of the Hebrew Bible, containing, originally, it is probable, nearly the whole of the Hebrew Scriptures. It is printed on vellum, in two large folio volumes; and was printed at Naples, in 1487. It was presented by Dr. Pellet, to whom it belonged, to the Library at Eton College, England. It contains many readings peculiar to itself, among printed copies; and often, contrary to the Masoretic ones

3. The Hebrew Bible with points printed at Soncino, a small town in Italy, near Cremona; A D. 1488, and edited by Abraham Ben Chayim. This is the first edition of the entire Hebrew Bible ever printed, and is so extremely rare, that only nine copies are known to be in existence; one of these is in the Bodleian Library, and another in Exeter College, Oxford. This edition and the two preceding ones are allowed to be equal in value to manuscripts.

4. The edition of the Hebrew Bible edited by Gerson, son of Rabbi Moses. It was printed at Brescia, Italy, A. D. 1494. It was from this edition that Luther made his German translation; and it is the basis of the Hebrew in the Complutensian Polyglott, and of several other Hebrew Bibles

5. Bomberg's Hebrew Bible, Venice, 1525, and 1526, folio; edited by Rabbi Jacob Ben Chayim. He gave to the text the Masoretic punctuation; and this edition is the basis of all the modern pointed editions of the Hebrew Bible.

6. The Complutensian Polyglott; the Old Testament in four languages; viz. Hebrew, Chaldee, Greek, and Latin. This great work was printed under the direction, and at the expense of Cardinal Ximenes, and was completed in 1517, but not published till 1522.

7. The Antwerp Polyglott, printed at Plantin, 1569—1572. It was undertaken at the suggestion of Philip II. of Spain, who also sustained the expense of the publication; and it was edited by Arias Montanus. Besides the whole Complutensian Polyglott, it contains a Chaldee paraphrase of part of the Old Testament, which Cardinal Ximenes omitted; a Syriac version of the New Testament; and the Latin translation of Santes Pagninus, corrected by the editor.

8. The Paris Polyglott in ten vols. fol. 1628—1645, edited by Michael Le Jay and associates. This embraces all included in the two last mentioned; and, besides, Syriac and Arabic versions of the greater part of the Old, and the whole of the New Testament, together with what had never before appeared, the Samaritan text and version of the Pentateuch.

9. The London Polyglott, edited by Brian Walton, D. D., afterwards Bishop of Chester. This was published A. D. 1657, and though it may be behind the two last in splendor and elegance, it surpasses them in the more important particulars of completeness and accuracy. The Chaldee paraphrases are more complete; a version of the Hebrew text is interlined; and some parts are printed in the Ethiopic and Persian; none of which were in the others. Castell's Lexicon Heptaglotton is also appended in two volumes; a work expressly composed as an appendix to this edition. We might very properly, add here

10. Bagster's London Polyglott, 1820; but that not being an early printed edition comes not properly within our design. For particulars respecting it, we refer our readers to Horne's Critical Introd. to the study of the Scriptures, vol. ii. p. 119.

There are several hundreds of MSS. of the Greek Testament extant, of various ages, written in various characters, and on various substances; of very different value as regards authority; some mutilated and imperfect; and some interpolated and corrupted; a mere catalogue of these would carry us far beyond our limits. We make the following brief selection of the most valuable and important among them, and which constitute the principal basis of our present Greek Testament.

1. The Codex Alexandrinus, or Alexandrine Copy, so called because it was brought from

Digitized by Google

Alexandria, where also it was probably written. It was sent by Cyrillus Lucaris, Patriarch of Constantinople, as a present to Charles I. of England. By Cyrillus it was brought from Alexandria, and he states, in a schedule annexed, that it was written by Thecla, a noble Egyptian lady, about 1300 years previous to the date of the said note: (1628) consequently this celebrated copy is now 1505 years old: (i. e. 1833 —328=1505.) It must not be concealed however, that this very high antiquity is not universally conceded to it: some have contended for placing it in the fifth, sixth, seventh, and even tenth, century. At all events, it is one of the most ancient, if not the most so, of which we have any knowledge. Besides the New Testament, it contains the Septuagint version of the Old, formerly edited by Dr. Grabe. It is preserved in the British Museum.

2. The Codex Vaticanus, or Vatican Copy: so designated, because it is deposited in the Library of the Vatican, at Rome. This copy contests the palm of antiquity, with the preceding; and is, by some, supposed to have been written in the fourth, though by others, in the fifth, and even sixth, century. This also contains the Greek version of the Seventy.

3. The Codex Bezæ, or Copy of Beza; sometimes also called Codex Cantabrigiensis, because deposited in the Library of the University of Cambridge, England, to which it was presented by Beza. It contains the Gospels and Acts, with the Old Itala version, or that which preceded the version of Jerome, commonly called the Vulgate. Dr. Kipling who published a fac simile of this Manuscript n 1793, fixes its date as early as the second century, though Wetstein and Marsh are of opinion, that it was not written till the fifth.

4. The Codex Ephræmi is also extremely valuable. It derives this name from the fact, that over the first part of the Manuscript (which originally included the whole of the Greek Bible) some of the works of Ephraim Syrus are written. It is also called by another name, Codex Regius, or Royal Copy, from its being deposited in the Royal Library at Paris; numbered 9.

5. The Codex Claromontanus, or Regius. This is a Manuscript of the Greek text of Paul's Epistles, with the Itala version; written in the sixth or seventh century, and found in the monastery of Clermont, in the diocese of Beauvais, and now deposited in the Royal Library in Paris, and numbered 107.

The whole number of Manuscripts which are known to have been wholly or partially collated is nearly five hundred: but these form only a small part of the whole number known to exist in public and private libraries. Yet the result, from the comparison of these five hundred, is extremely satisfactory, and confirmatory to our faith in the integrity of the Scriptures, as we possess them. It was said above that some of these Manuscripts were interpolated and corrupted; but, let not the fears of the reader be alarmed by these expressions;—nothing is intended by them, like the introduction of any new fundamental doctrine, or precept of morals;—nor, when it is stated that some are mutilated, do we mean that from any copy professing to contain, either the whole Scriptures, or the whole of any book of Scripture, there are withdrawn any of the essential truths which the entire Scriptures, or a perfect copy of such book of the Scriptures contains. The addition of a jot or tittle is an "interpolation" and a "corruption" in the severe language of those who scrutinize Manuscripts of the sacred writings; and the omission of a jot or tittle is, in like manner, a "mutilation" Only, therefore, let the terms be understood, and even plain Christians will not have their faith in the Holy Oracles unsettled, by the outcry made by infidels; nor by the concessions which pious critics are constrained to make, that perhaps 30 to 40 thousand various readings are known to exist, among the Manuscripts already collated. Yet what do they amount to? As far as the essential doctrines of Revelation, or the duties of piety and morality are concerned, ABSOLUTELY NOTHING. The various readings found in the Sacred Writings should no more weaken a man's faith in the Divine word, than the typographical errors in some printed editions.

The principal printed editions of the Greek Testament, of early date, are the following:

1. The edition of Erasmus, to whom belongs the honor of publishing the first edition of the entire New Testament. It was printed at Basle, in Switzerland, by Froben, in 1516. This was a hasty, and, of course, a faulty production: it was the work of only five months; and was prepared from Manuscripts of no great antiquity, which are still preserved in the public library at Basle. Three years afterwards, (1519) he published a second edition much improved and corrected;—in 1522 a third, in which was inserted the controverted passage, 1 Jno. v. 7; in 1527, a fourth edition; and in 1535, a fifth edition; all these editions are highly valued, notwithstanding their faults, and in some respects are considered equal to Manuscripts

2. The edition which forms the fifth volume of the Complutensian Polyglott. This bears date 1514; but as it was not published till 1522, it can be entitled to the second place only in our catalogue The manuscripts used for this edition are characterised as very ancient; but there is very satisfactory reason for believing them to be comparatively modern: for where the Greek Manuscripts of the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth centuries differ from those of greater age, the Complutensian edition follows the former; and though the editors boast of having been favored with the loan of some ancient manuscripts from the Vatican Library, it has been shown by Birch, that they made no use whatever of the justly celebrated Codex Vaticanus.

3. The edition of Colinæus, printed in Paris, in 1534, from the text of Erasmus, but enriched with a copious list of various readings, taken from a laborious collation of ancient manuscripts. It is highly esteemed for its elegance and correctness.

4. The edition of Robert Stephens, chiefly taken from the Complutensian Polyglott, and the fifth edition of Erasmus, together with fifteen ancient Manuscripts in the Royal Library in Paris; collated for him by his son Henry, at that time a mere youth of 18 years. This edition is remarkable for its correctness; there having been only twelve errata detected in it. Four subsequent editions were published of which the third, published in 1550, is the most valuable, as it contains a collection of various readings from fifteen or sixteen manuscripts.

5. The edition of Beza; first printed in 1565, and again in 1576, 1582, 1589 and 1598, which last was adopted as the basis of the English version of the New Testament, published by authority, in 1611. The materials at his command were, for the most part, the same employed by Robert Stephens; to which may be added, the valuable ancient Manuscript above mentioned, which bears his name, the Codex Claromontanus, and the Syriac version which had then lately been published by Tremellius, with a literal Latin translation.

6. The Elzevir edition, first printed at Leyden, in 1624, the editor of which is not known. The text is copied from Beza's edition, except in about fifty places, where the readings are unimportant; and, in these, Stephens' margin, or some preceding editions have been borrowed from. This edition is followed as the Textus Receptus, or Received Text, from which all the common copies of the Greek text have been printed.

To these might be added the celebrated editions of Bengel, Wetstein, Griesbach, and others; but, as they are of recent date, they do not, of course, come under the description of early editions. Other editions also, of earlier date, do not merit a distinct notice here; because they are, in fact, little more than mere transcripts of those above named, or some others. Such are the editions of Curcellæus, Arias Montanus, Plantin, and others.

SECTION V.

The Samaritan Pentateuch and Ancient Versions.

The principal of these which merit notice, are the following:

1 The Samaritan Text of the Pentateuch. This in fact cannot be termed a version with strict propriety; for it is precisely the same with the Hebrew Text, except that it is written in the Samaritan character, which is supposed to be the ancient Hebrew. It is somewhat fuller than any of the Hebrew copies with which we are acquainted; containing some letters, words, and even sentences, not contained in them. It was known and cited by the early fathers; yet it fell so entirely into oblivion afterwards, for above a thousand years, that its existence was really doubted. Joseph Scaliger, however, called the attention of the learned world to it, as still existing in the east; and after much labor and expense, six copies were procured and brought into Europe, at the expense of Archbishop Usher; and soon afterwards another copy also was brought by M. De Sancy, from which Father Morinus printed the Samaritan Pentateuch, for the first time, in the Paris Polyglott. This was afterwards reprinted in the London Polyglott, by Dr. Walton, who corrected it from the Manuscripts obtained by Archbishop Usher. The value of this document is preëminently seen in the irrefragable proof it affords of the authenticity and integrity of the books of Moses: for though an irreconcilable enmity subsisted between the Jews and Samaritans, and the latter were held in such abhorrence by the former, that they would have deemed it a profanation to transcribe anything from the Holy Volume which contained all the articles of the Samaritan creed; yet the two copies of the Pentateuch, after the lapse of so many ages, agree in every essential particular.

2. The Samaritan Version, is a literal translation of the Hebræo-Samaritan Text, into the Samaritan dialect, which is intermediate between the Chaldee and Syriac languages. The high antiquity of this version is universally admitted; but when, or by whom made, is unknown: its date is however allowed to be considerably prior to the Christian era. Le Jay, who first printed this version in the Paris Polyglott, supposes it was translated before the schism between the Jews and Samaritans. There is also an Arabic version of the Samaritan Pentateuch extant in Samaritan characters by Abu Said, A. D. 1070, who very closely follows the original.

3. The Chaldee Paraphrases, or Targums, are translations of the Hebrew Scriptures or portions of them into the Chaldee language. They are ten in number, and are designated as follows: The Targum of Onkelos; The Targum of Jonathan Ben Uzziel; The Targum on the Law, (sometimes called The Targum of the Pseudo-Jonathan, because it is falsely ascribed to that eminent man) The Targum of Jerusalem; The Targum on the Kethuvim or Hagiographa; The Targum on the Megilloth, The three Targums on the Book of Esther; and The Targum on the Books of Chronicles. Of all these, the two first are justly the most highly esteemed; and the Jews, in fact, consider them of equal authority with the original text. They are highly useful in the interpretation of the Scriptures, both as it respects words and phrases; and also, especially as it regards rites, ceremonies, laws, usages, manners, customs, &c. and they establish the genuine meaning of particular prophecies relative to the Messiah, in opposition to the explications of modern Jews and others; i. e. They prove that the interpretations put by these latter on such prophecies, are at variance with the standard interpreters of their own nation; and are such as they have been forced to invent, to justify themselves in their continued unbelief.

4. The Septuagint Greek Version derives its name, probably, from the Seventy, (or more exactly, Seventy-two) elders of the Alexandrian Sanhedrin, who examined, approved, and allowed it as a faithful translation. The story invented perhaps by Aristæus, or, at least, by him and others circulated, is evidently a fable; viz. That it was accomplished by seventy interpreters, who were confined separately in cells, in the island of Pharos, in the space of seventy-two days; and that they were so aided and inspired of God, that when their translations were compared, there was found an exact correspondence, even to word and letter between them all. The real state of the case appears to be, that the five books of Moses, the most accurate portion of the whole work, were translated in accordance with the command of Ptolemy Philadelphus, king of Egypt, about 280 years B. C. by five learned Jews; and afterwards approved by the Alexandrian Sanhedrin; and that the other books of the Old Testament were translated subsequently, by various persons, as necessity required, and the providence of God indicated. That the whole was completed many years before the Christian era appears plain, from the fact that it was used in the Jewish synagogues, wherever the Greek language was spoken; and that it is exactly quoted, in many places, by Apostles and Evangelists. Of all the ancient versions, the Septuagint, from which many of them have been derived, is certainly the most interesting and important; especially, as being an important source of interpretation to the New Testament, which is written in the dialect of the Septuagint, and is conformed in some measure, to its style.

5. The Version of Aquila, who, from heathenism was converted to the profession of Christianity, and afterwards apostatized to Judaism. After his Apostasy, and to please the Jews, this version was executed, and its principal characteristic is a servile closeness to the Hebrew text; an adherence so close, that it has been said to be a good dictionary by which to learn the genuine meaning of the Hebrew words.

6 The Version of Theodotion, a Christian of the Ebionite sect, was made about A. D. 160, and is, in character, between the servile closeness of Aquila, and the unjustifiable freeness of Symmachus. His version of Daniel was even preferred to that of the Septuagint; but only a few fragments have descended to us.

7. The Version of Symmachus;—he was an Ebionite Christian, and executed the version which bears his name, about A. D. 200. His translation is too free to be termed faithful:—he gives his own views of the sense of the original, rather than a real translation of the words.

8. The Syriac Versions; of which there are two, viz:

(1.) The Peshito, i. e. literal or correct; which is doubtless the most ancient and most important. Its date has not been entirely settled by critics; none however, assign it a later date, than the second century; and the prevailing opinion is, that it was executed about the close of the first. In this version the second and third Epistles of John, the second Epistle of Peter, the Epistle of Jude, and the Revelation, are wanting.

(2.) The Philoxenian, executed in the beginning of the sixth century, (A. D. 508) by Polycarp, at the suggestion of Philoxenus or Xenyas, bishop of Mabug. It was afterwards corrected by Thomas of Charkel, or Heraclea, about A. D. 616, and is, hence, sometimes called the Heraclean. It contains all the books omitted in the Peshito; and though inferior to that, both in accuracy and style, is yet of high importance, in restoring the genuine text of the Greek original. This version was published from Dr. Ridley's manuscripts, by Dr. White of Oxford, in 1778.

9. There are several Arabiac Versions, of parts of both the Old and New Testaments, none of which, however, are very ancient The most elegant, faithful, and consequently, valuable edition of the New Testament in the Arabiac language, is that published by Erpenius, at Leyden, in 1616; and taken from two manuscripts, one of the Gospels, written about A. D. 1271, and another, of the Acts, Epistles, and Revelation, dated A. D. 1342. To the labors of the same individual, also, we are indebted for an Arabiac version of the Pentateuch, executed, apparently, about the 13th century, by an African Jew, who has very closely adhered to the Hebrew. The edition referred to, was published in Leyden, A. D. 1622.

10. The Persian Version includes only the Pentateuch and the Gospels: both of which are printed in the London Polyglott. The former was faithfully executed in the eleventh, or twelfth century, by a Jew named Toozee, from the Hebrew text; but the latter from the Syriac, by a Roman Catholic named Tabreezy, who was, as Dr. Clarke shows, sadly warped by his religious creed. The date of this version is 1341.

11. The Ethiopic comprehends only the New Testament, the book of Psalms, some of the minor Prophets, and a few fragments of the remaining books. The translations were made (of the New Testament) from the original Greek, and (of the other portion) from the Septuagint. Its date is supposed to be the fourth century, and its translator, Furmentius, a Christian Bishop. Its various readings are considered valuable.

12. The Coptic Version, is a translation into the dialect of lower Egypt;—it includes only the Pentateuch, the Psalms, and the New Testament. Its probable date is between the third and fifth centuries.

13. The Sahidic Version; or that of the dialect of upper Egypt, is confined to the New Testament, (of which, however, it contains, in fragments, only about one third) and was made probably, about the beginning of the second century. It is one of the oldest versions known, and extremely valuable.

14. The Armenian Version is universally ascribed to Miesrob, the inventor of the Armenian alphabet;—its date is usually placed about the close of the fourth, or the beginning of the fifth century. It was twice translated from the Syriac, and at last from the Greek. Great value is attached to the various readings which it affords.

15. The Itala, Italic, or Ante-Hieronymian Version, is a name given to the Old Latin Version, in use before the time of Jerome. Only fragments of this exist; and they have been carefully collected by Sebatier at Rheims, and published in 1743; and by Blanchini Rom: 1749. It is highly valuable; containing many readings which agree, not only with Greek manuscripts, but, also, with the most ancient and best versions; particularly, the Syriac, and Coptic.

16. The Vulgate Latin Version, was executed by Jerome, at the request and under the patronage of Pope Damasus, A. D. 384. It was intended as a revision, and to correct the growing corruptions of the Itala; but it ended in a new translation of nearly the whole Scriptures. It was introduced into the church by degrees, from a regard to the prejudices of weak consciences; but after awhile it obtained high celebrity, and finally was exclusively adopted, by the Catholic Church. Copies of it were greatly multiplied; and in the multiplication many corruptions crept into the text. Stephens the father, was the first who endeavored to remedy this evil; and he was followed in the same praiseworthy course by John Hentenius, and Lucas Brugensis, two Louvanian, divines. But Sextus V. not quite approving of their efforts, published a new edition in Rome, A. D. 1593. This however, though sanctioned by infallible authority, was found to be grossly incorrect; and Clement VIII. published another edition, widely differing from that of his predecessor; and this in its turn was infallibly authorized. But even this is found to be far from correct, though it is the basis of all those in common use at the present time. It is, without doubt, a version of great importance; and is judged of equal value with a manuscript of the fourth century.

17. The Sclavonian or Old Russian Version, is of considerable importance in Biblical criticism. It has not received that measure of attention which it merits. It was executed from the Greek, of which it is a literal translation, in the ninth century, by CYRIL the inventor of the Sclavonic letters, and his brother METHODIUS. The Pentateuch was first printed at Prague, in 1519; andthe entire Bible in 1570; and again at Ostrog, n 1781. From this last all the modern editions are derived. Ancient and valuable Greek manuscripts appear to have been made use of in preparing it.

18. The Gothic Version was made from the Greek, by Uphilas, a Cappadocian by birth, a bishop of the Mæso-Goths. He was the inventor of the Gothic character, and accomplished the version of the Scriptures into that language, about the middle of the fourth century. Of this venerable version only a mutilated copy of the Gospels, and a few of the chapters of the Epistle to the Romans, remain; the former being preserved in the Codex Argenteus, now in the University of Upsal. Three fine editions of the four Gospels have been published; one at Dort, A. D. 1665, one at Oxford, in 1750, but the best by far, at Weissenfels, in 1805. The fragments from the Epistle to the Romans, have also been printed at the end of Dr. Lye's Saxon and Gothico-Latin Dictionary.

CHAPTER V.

The authorized English version of the Scriptures contains the Revelation God has given.

Having proved the Genuineness, Authenticity, Inspiration, and Preservation of the Sacred Scriptures; and, moreover, having given a brief history of Manuscripts, and Early printed Editions of the Sacred Writings, as also of some of the principal Translations, the way is prepared for the consideration of the question upon which the above proposition is founded; viz: whether the English translation may be relied on as the word of God? (See p. 3. of this Introduction.) This is a question of great importance; and one which we feel ought to be fully and satisfactorily met; especially in a Critical Introduction to the Study of the Scriptures, which is principally designed for such as are acquainted with only the English language. The first and most important consideration, in estimating the value of any version of the Scriptures, is the character of the text upon which it is formed, or of which it is the translation. If this should be imperfect or corrupted, it is manifestly impossible that any translation of it should fairly, and fully, represent the author's meaning. If one word be inserted, or transposed, and the translator do not deviate from his copy, it is evident that his version must be proportionably false, as compared with the original and pure text. If error should prevail, to any great extent, in the copy or copies forming the basis of the translation, its value will of course, be diminished in the same proportion. It was a conviction of the truth of these remarks, which induced us to give the preceding outline of the ancient manuscripts, early printed editions, and principal versions, of the sacred volume; and we presented it, that our readers might perceive, not only the means possessed by the learned, for ascertaining the true reading, in any particular case, by a comparison of the manuscripts and ancient versions with each other; but, also, the sedulous care, and almost boundless labor, actually bestowed by them, on the correction of the sacred text. The result of such labor must, almost of necessity, be, the presentation to us, of the true original text on all points of vital importance, or which regard the salvation of men

Digitized by Google

If then it be admitted that we possess the true original, there remains only, to the reader of our English version, these inquiries, in order to satisfy him that his bible contains the imparted revelation: What were the qualifications, moral and literary, of the translators? What were their facilities and advantages for their work? To what revision was it subjected? For, if they were well qualified, and really disposed, to exhibit truly, the sense of the original, it may be concluded that the version is faithful, and may be relied on. We shall, therefore, examine the qualifications and facilities of the translators, and such other points as may place the subject sufficiently before our readers, to satisfy then on these particulars. But, before we do this, we shall attempt a brief exhibition of the history of those translations of the Scriptures into the English language, which preceded that now in common use

Of the early English Versions.

We are unable to ascertain, with absolute certainty, either the precise time when, or the persons by whom, the Scriptures were first translated into the language of the people of England. That the Saxons read them in their own language is certain; some parts of them having been translated by Adhelm, Bishop of Sherburne, A. D. 706, and, at his earnest request, Ecbert, or Eadfrid, Bishop of Lindisfarne or Holy Island, soon after executed a version of the four Gospels, the manuscript of which is now deposited in the Cottonian Library in the British Museum. Within a few years of this event, the venerable Bede, who died A. D. 735, translated the whole Bible into the Saxon language. The version of the four Gospels is supposed to have been made from the old Itala. Less than two centuries afterwards, the illustrious King Alfred executed a version of the book of Psalms;—he is, also, said to have translated the greater part of the New Testament. He died A. D. 900, when it was about half finished. In the tenth century, Elfred or Elfric, Archbishop of Canterbury, translated the Pentateuch, Josnua, Judges, part of Kings, Esther, Job, and one or two books of the Apocrypha. This translation was executed from the Vulgate:—many verses and even chapters, indeed, are omitted; and the book of Job is only a sort of abstract, embracing but about five pages in Thwaites' printed edition of it. (Oxford, A. D. 1698.) In 1571, the four Gospels were printed in Saxon, (from manuscripts now in the Bodleian Library, Oxford,) under the care of Fox, the Martyrologist, encouraged and assisted by Mathew Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury. In addition to these translations, there were various glosses or commentaries, upon select parts of the sacred writings, in the vernacular tongue, circulated among the people.

About the year 1390, John De Wycliffe, sometimes called the Morning Star of the Reformation in England, completed his translation of the entire Bible; and though the multiplication of copies was then attended with immense labor and expense, (the art of printing being unknown,) the version of Wycliffe, and especially his New Testament, obtained a very extensive circulation. Various attempts were made, by the Romish clergy and their agents to suppress this edition of the Scriptures in the vulgar tongue; but for a long time without success. At length, in 1408, Thomas Arundel, Archbishop of York, ordained in convocation, "That no book, nor treatise, composed by John Wycliffe, or by any other in his time, or hereafter to be composed, should be read by any one, unless approved by the universities, &c. under pain of being punished as a sower of schism, and a favorer of heresy." This declaration was followed by another, "That no one should, by his own authority, translate any text of Holy Scripture into English, or any other tongue, by way of book, libel, or treatise; and that no one should read such book, libel, or treatise, now lately set forth in the time of John Wycliffe, or since, or hereafter to be composed, in public or private, in whole or in part, under pain of the greater excommunication; until the said translation be approved by the diocesan of the place, or, if occasion require, by a provincial council. Let him that acteth contrary, be punished as a favorer of error and heresy." These decrees were enforced with rigor; and several persons were burnt, for having read the New Testament and the ten commandments in Wycliffe's translation; and for refusing to abjure their principles. The following passage from the "State Trials" may serve to enkindle our gratitude to God, that we live in other days, and under other laws, than our ancient English progenitors. "In the said Parliament, (held at Leicester, in the second year of Henry V.) the king made this most blasphemous and crue act, to be a law for ever:—That whosoever they were, that should read the Scriptures in the mother tongue, (which was then called Wycliffe's learning) they should forfeit land, cattle, body, life, and goods, from their heirs for ever; and so be condemned for heretics to God, enemies to the crown, and most arrant traitors to the land. Besides this, it was enacted that never a sanctuary nor privileged ground within the realm should hold them, though they were still permitted to thieves and murderers. And if in case they would not give over, or, after their pardon, relapsed, they should suffer death in two manner of kinds; that is, they should first be hanged for treason against the king, and then be burned for heresy against God; and yet neither of both be committed." But notwithstanding the severity of these measures "the word of God grew and multiplied:" —the disciples of Wycliffe, were not to be intimidated by them; but many of them labored diligently to promote the reading of the vernacular scriptures, and to this end transcribed and circulated them among the people.

The version of Wycliffe was, doubtless, made, not from the original Scriptures, but from the Vulgate. This was done, not because he conceived that translation to be of equal authority with the original; but because he was conscious of possessing no very profound critical skill in the original languages. Having also translated literally, without regarding the idioms, or peculiarities of the languages, and addressing the readers of his version in their own idiom, there is sometimes difficulty to persons unacquainted with the Latin, in receiving the idea.

The next translation which we feel called upon to notice, is that of Tyndal. This was a translation of the New Testament only. It was executed at Antwerp, and published in 1526. It was a small duodecimo, without a name, or a title page, of any kind. Soon after its publication, the zeal of Bishop Tonstal prompted him to buy up the whole edition, (except a single copy which by some means escaped him) and commit it to the flames, which he did at Paul's Cross. His object was to prevent the multiplication of the copies of the Sacred volume, and its being generally read by the people; but God "takes the wise in their own craftiness, and brings the counsels of the prudent to nothing:"—the very means he employed to defeat the design of the translator, enabled him, more perfectly to accomplish it. With the very money which the zealous persecutor had expended in the purchase of fuel for the fire at Paul's Cross, Tyndal published a second, and improved edition in 1530. This, too, was almost entirely purchased by its enemies, and burnt,—a fate which afterwards overtook the translator; but not till he had given to the world a third edition of his New Testament, and translations of the Pentateuch, and the book of Jonah. He was strangled, and afterwards burnt, in Flanders, A. D. 1536. But the work Tyndal had commenced was not stopped by his death. It advanced under the conduct of Miles Coverdale, a coadjutor of Tyndal, who, in 1535, completed the translation of the entire Bible, which was afterwards published in one folio volume, and dedicated to Henry VIII. This translation is said to have been Tyndal's from Genesis to Chronicles, inclusive, with also the book of Jonah; and the whole of the New Testament, with the remaining part of the Old, to have been Coverdale's. A year after its publication the royal patronage was obtained for this Bible, through the united influence of Lord Cromwell and Archbishop Cranmer, with the King, who ordered that the choir of every church should be furnished with a copy, that any one who pleased might read it.

The next edition of the Bible was that of John Rogers, who published it under the assumed name of Thomas Matthews; and it is, hence, always called Matthews' Bible. This bible appeared in 1537. In the year following appeared a New Testament, bearing the name of Johan Hollybushe. In 1539, the whole Bible was reprinted by Grafton and Whitchurch, under the authority of Archbishop Cranmer, who wrote a preface for it. This was called "Cranmer's Bible," and experienced strange caprices of fortune. In 1540, Henry VIII. ordered it to be read in every parish church;—in 1542, he revoked this order. In 1550, Edward VI. restored it; and "it subsequently shared the fate of the religion it was intended to elucidate."

During the reign of Edward VI. no new translation of the sacred volume was undertaken; though several previous editions of it were reprinted. But in the succeeding reign of Mary, Bishop Coverdale, having been compelled to leave England, took up his abode in Geneva; and there, together with some other Protestants, whose religion had exiled them from home, undertook the publication of an amended edition of the Bible, with notes. This was called the Geneva Bible. The entire Scriptures were not published till 1560; but the New Testament was given to the world in 1557.

There is one other of the early editions of the English Bible which deserves notice; viz. that printed in 1568, and called The Bishop's Bible. It derived its name from the fact, that Archbishop Parker had the principal care and management of its publication; and he was assisted by other dignitaries of the church. The Archbishop reviewed their performances in the several departments allotted to them, and gave such finishing touches to their labors as, in his judgment, they required.

These are the principal early editions of the Holy Scriptures in the English language; and when we consider the circumstances of the times, the bitter and determined opposition shown to the circulation of divine truth, and the relentless persecution to which its advocates were exposed, we cannot but afford to them the praise of having been "valiant for the truth upon the earth," in making such efforts, as they did, to secure its circulation. It ought, however, to be observed here, that, though these several editions are spoken of as so many translations of the sacred volume, they were not, in fact, such. They were rather, so many revisions of Tyndal's and Coverdale's translation. It is true, that the Geveva Bible purports to be a new translation from the original languages; but the comparison of it with Tyndal and Coverdale's translation, will evince that that translation was taken as its basis; to say nothing of the inadvertent admission, in the preface, that the New Testament, at least, was not an independent translation; for it is said to have been "conferred diligently with the Greek." Of the accuracy and general excellence of Tyndal and Coverdale's translation, competent critics have always spoken in terms of high praise. The following testimony from a Roman Catholic, and a severe critic, may be considered as highly creditable to it. "The violent opposition it met with seems to have arisen more from the injurious reflections contained in the prologues and notes on the then established religion, than from any capital defects in the version itself. It was far from being a perfect translation, it is true; but it was the first of the kind; and few first translations will, I think, be found preferable to it:—in point of perspicuity, a noble simplicity, propriety of idiom and purity of style, no English version has yet surpassed it. The criticisms of those who wrote against it are generally too severe, often captious, and sometimes evidently unjust." Geddes.

We have now brought the history of the English translation of the Scriptures down to the days of Queen Elizabeth. From that time till the days of James I. no translation or revision of the Scriptures of any importance was undertaken.

SECTION II.

Preparations for the publication of the present or "Authorized Version" of the English Bible.

In the year 1604, King James I. determined on the execution of as perfect a translation as possible of the whole Bible into the English language, and took the necessary steps to secure it. He nominated fifty-four learned men, chiefly professors and divines in the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, to whom he committed the business of "retranslating, revising, or correcting preceding versions, so as to produce as perfect a translation as possible. Of these persons, forty-seven were actually engaged in the work; the remainder having either died, or declined the undertaking; or, perhaps, they were merely appointed as overseers of the rest.

As this is the only version of the sacred oracles which is accessible to thousands of Christians, and indeed to millions of readers, and they are of course deeply concerned in the question of its fidelity, we shall not be thought to misappropriate our space, if we treat, rather extendedly, of this version of the Bible.

It must not be concealed that there has been some controversy as to the competency of James' translators, to discharge the duties to which they were appointed; and Mr. J. Bellamy, in his preface to an intended new translation of the Scriptures by himself, has concentrated nearly all the objections which had previously been urged against them. The principal allegation made by him against the authors of the "Authorized Version" is that there was not one critical Hebrew scholar among them; the Hebrew language having been, in the reigns of Elizabeth and James I. most shamefully neglected. If this charge against the literary qualifications of the translators could be sustained, of course the confidence of the mere English reader, in his own Bible, must be sapped. But it cannot be sustained; on the contrary, it can be, and has been, most satisfactorily repelled: and we cannot but be surprised that any one should so sadly commit himself before the world on a question of fact, for the settlement of which such abundant means are at hand. That the Hebrew language was not so neglected at this period as Mr. Bellamy would have his readers believe, is a fact so notorious, that it is surprising that any person possessing only the ordinary means of information should deny it; and that it should be denied by one who comes forward professing to supply, from his own stores of Hebrew learning, the lack of the Translators, betrays a very censurable ignorance of a subject on which he undertakes to pronounce judgment; or what is worse, a disposition, by a sweeping assertion of their ignorance, in the face of evidence before him to the contrary, on the ruins of their literary reputation, to raise the splendid fabric of his own. But this is a question of fact, and is to be determined upon evidence: we therefore proceed to present such as may be sufficient to determine it.

In the time of Elizabeth, the Oriental languages were among the ordinary philological studies at the two Universities; and Fulke, in particular, speaks of "many youths at Cambridge who were intimate with Hebrew and Chaldee." Defence of Translations p. 340. Moreover, that in public schools emulation in these studies was excited, is exemplified in a notice of Examinations in the Merchant Tailors' School, in 1572, where it is said that the Bishop of Winchester "tried the scholars in the Hebrew Psalter." At that time the master of the school was "the famous Richard Mulcaster;" and under his instruction was trained the celebrated Dr. Lancelot Andrews, who was one of the first scholars of the age, and in languages, a prodigy. Now this same Andrews was the first on the list of the translators nominated by the King: and among his associates may be noticed Dr Adrian Saravia, who was a profound scholar, and tutor of the celebrated Oriental scholar, Nicholas Fuller:—Dr. R. Clarke, who thoroughly understood the Hebrew, Greek and Latin languages;—Dr. Sayfield, to whose Hebrew criticisms the learned and acute Gataker often refers with confidence;—Mr. W. Bedwell, tutor to the celebrated Dr. Pocock; Dr. John Rainolds, who was illustrious "in all kinds of learning and most excellent in all tongues." To these may be added Drs. Holland, Kilby, Miles Smith, and Richard Brett, all of whom have left, in their published works undoubted proofs of their critical skill in the Hebrew, Chaldee, Syriac, Arabic, Ethiopic, Greek and Latin languages: and Mr. John Bois, who at five years of age had read the whole Hebrew Bible; and at six or earlier, could write Hebrew in an elegant hand. For ten years was he chief Greek lecturer in his College. We will only add to this list Sir Henry Savile, the celebrated editor of Chrysostom's works in Greek, and founder of the professorships of Astronomy and Geometry at Oxford. These names, we presume, will be sufficient, to show the above mentioned assertion of the ignorance of the translators, rash and unfounded; and that, if the reputation of these venerable men for literature were known to Mr. Bellamy, and he yet denied them the character of critical scholars, his own opinion of himself in proposing to execute a new translation and amend theirs, cannot be characterised by "all lowliness."—As far, then, as the learning of the translators was concerned, we are fully sustained in pronouncing them entirely competent to their undertaking.

There has been much unprofitable discussion of the question whether the "Authorized Version" of the Scriptures should be considered as an independent translation, or as only a revision of preceding ones. To determine this question it will only be necessary to refer to two documents, which are happily within our reach; viz. The King's "directions to the translators;" and the translators' "Address to the Reader."

'"His Majesty recommended the following rules, by them to be most carefully observed:—

'"1. The ordinary Bible read in the church, commonly called the Bishops' Bible, to be followed and as little altered as the original will permit.—2. The names of the prophets and the holy writers, with the other names in the text, to be retained as near as may be, accordingly as they are vulgarly used.—3. The old ecclesiastical words to be kept, viz. as the word Church not to be translated Congregation, &c.—4. When any word hath divers significations, that to be kept which hath been most commonly used by the most eminent Fathers, being agreeable to the propriety of the place, and the analogy of faith.—5. The division of the chapters to be altered either not at all, or as little as may be, if necessity so require it.—6. No marginal notes at all to be affixed, but only for the explanation of the Hebrew or Greek words, which cannot, without some circumlocution, so briefly and fitly be expressed in the text.—7. Such quotations of places to be marginally set down, as shall serve for the fit reference of one scripture to another.—8. Every particular man of each company to take the same chapter or chapters; and, having translated or amended them severally by himself when he thinks good, all to meet together, confer what they have done, and agree for their part what shall stand.—9. If any one company hath despatched any one book in this manner, they shall send it to the rest, to be considered of seriously and judiciously; for his Majesty is very careful in this point.—10. If any one company, upon the review of the book so sent, shall doubt or differ upon any places, to send them word thereof, note the places, and therewithal send their reasons: to which, if they consent not, the difference to be compounded at the general meeting, which is to be of the chief persons of each company, at the end of the work.—11. When any place of special obscurity is doubted of, letters to be directed by authority, to send to any learned in the land, for his judgment in such a place.—12. Letters to be sent from every bishop to the rest of his clergy, admonishing them of this translation in hand; and to move and charge as many as, being skilful in the tongues, have taken pains in that kind to send his particular observations to the company, either at Westminster, Cambridge, or Oxford.—13. The directors in each company to be the Deans of Westminster and Chester for that place; and the King's professors in Hebrew and Greek in each University.—14. These translations to be used, when they agree better with the text than the Bishops' Bible itself, viz. Tindal's, Matthews', Coverdale's, Whitchurch's, Geneva.—15. Besides the said directors before mentioned, three or four of the most ancient and grave divines in either of the Universities, not employed in translating, to be assigned by the Vice-Chancellor, upon conference with the rest of the heads, to be overseers of the translations, as well Hebrew as Greek, for the better observation of the fourth rule, above specified."

'That these directions were faithfully attended to by the learned men employed in the work, is evident from their address to the reader, prefixed to the larger editions of the Bible. Thus, speaking of the earlier translators, they say,

'"Therefore blessed be they, and most honoured be their name, that break the ice, and give the onset upon that which helpeth forward to the saving of souls. Now what can be more available thereto, than to deliver God's book unto God's people in a tongue which they understand? Since of an hidden treasure, and of a fountain that is sealed, there is no profit.—Yet for all that, as nothing is begun and perfected at the same time, and the latter thoughts are thought to be the wiser; so if we, building upon their foundation that went before us, and being holpen by their labours, do endeavour to make that better which they left so good; no man, we are sure, hath cause to mislike us; they, we persuade ourselves, if they were alive, would thank us."——

'"Therefore let no man's eye be evil, because His Majesty's is good; neither let any be grieved, that we have a prince that seeketh the increase of the spiritual wealth of Israel: but let us rather bless God from the ground of our heart, for working this religious care in him, to have the translations of the Bible maturely considered of and examined. For, by this means it cometh to pass, that whatsoever is sound already, the same will shine as gold more brightly, being rubbed and polished; also, if any thing be halting or superfluous, or not so agreeable to the original, the same may be corrected, and the truth set in place."

'Having answered the objections of the Roman Catholic party, and retorted the charges preferred by them upon themselves, they remark—

'"But it is high time to leave them, and to show in brief what we proposed to ourselves, and what course we held, in this our perusal and survey of the Bible. Truly, good Christian reader, we never thought from the beginning that we should need to make a new translation nor yet to make of a bad one a good one (for then the imputation of Sixtus had been true in some sort, that our people had been fed with gall of dragons instead of wine, and whey instead of milk;) but to make a good one better, or out of many good ones one principal good one, not justly to be excepted against; that hath been our endeavour, that our mark.

"'If you ask what they [the translators] had before them, truly it was the Hebrew text of the Old Testament, the Greek of the New. These are the two golden pipes, or rather conduits, wherethrough the olive branches empty themselves into the gold. St. Augustine calleth them precedent, or original, tongues; St. Hierome, fountains. The same St. Hierome affirmeth, and Gratian hath not spared to put it into his decree, That as the credit of the old books (he meaneth of the Old Testament) is to be tried by the Hebrew volumes; so of the new, by the Greek tongue, he meaneth by the original Greek. If truth be to be tried by these tongues, then whence should a translation be made, but out of them? These tongues, therefore, (the Scriptures, we say, in those tongues) we set before us to translate, being the tongues wherein God was pleased to speak to his church by his prophets and apostles. Neither did we run over the work with that posting haste that the Septuagint did, if that be true which is reported of them, that they finished it in seventy-two days; neither were we barred or hindered from going over it again, having once done it, like St. Hierome, if that be true which himself reporteth, that he could no sooner write any thing, but presently it was caught from him, and published, and he could not have leave to mend it: neither, to be short, were we the first that fell in hand with translating the scripture into English, and consequently destitute of former helps; as it is written of Origen, that he was the first, in a manner, that put his hand to write commentaries upon the Scriptures, and, therefore, no marvel if he overshot himself many times. None of these things: The work hath not been huddled up in seventy-two days, but hath cost the workmen, as light as it seemeth, the pains of twice seven times seventy-two days, and more. Matters of such weight and consequence are not to be speeded to maturity: for in business of moment a man feareth not the blame of convenient slackness. Neither did we think much to consult the translators or commentators, Chaldee, Hebrew, Syrian, Greek, or Latin; no, nor the Spanish, French, Italian, or Dutch; neither did we disdain to revise that which we had done, and to bring back to the anvil that which we had hammered: but having and using as great helps as were needful, and fearing no reproach for slowness, nor coveting praise for expedition, we have, at length, through the good hand of the Lord upon us, brought the work to that pass that you see."

'The length of these extracts will not, I persuade myself, displease intelligent readers; for there is certainly no method of determining the question at issue, at once so short and so decisive as that which has here been adopted. Of the competency of the translators for the task that was assigned to them, there has been exhibited the most conclusive evidence; and the passages just quoted from their "Instructions" and "Address," show, beyond all reasonable doubt, that they were neither required nor disposed to follow, with servility, any previous translation. That they were laid under some restrictions cannot be denied; and that, in some instances, their translation has suffered from them is equally true; but the nature of these restrictions should not be overlooked. They were required to depart from the BISHOPS' BIBLE as little as possible, consistently with a regard to the original text; and, when they were on this ground compelled to abandon it, they were to adopt the earlier English versions—doubtless, under the same limitation. To the retention of the old ecclesiastical words they were expressly bound; in this they had no alternative; but in every other respect they were left to the unfettered exercise of their own discretion. We may, therefore, confidently affirm, that the authorized English version is an independent translation of the sacred text, and neither a servile copy of any previous version, nor "a compilation of second-hand translations."

'It should be stated, that the first edition of this translation was printed in 1611. It has been subsequently revised three times.' Carpenter's Guide to the practical reading of the Bible. Ch. II.

SECTION III.

Moral qualifications of the Translators, and Character of the Translation.

Of the moral qualifications of the Translators, internal evidence is furnished in their excellent "Address to the Reader" some extracts from which are given in the preceding section. It is next to impossible for any candid man to read that address throughout, without feeling that he has been conversing with learned men, whose chief praise, however it is, that they "feared God:" nor can he doubt that such men are superior to temptations "to walk in craftiness, or handle the word of God deceitfully." We accordingly find, from all we can learn of these venerable men, that they were generally esteemed, in their day, as distinguished for probity and piety, as they were for learning. Such men, then, were incapable of attempting to corrupt the word of God, in a translation they should execute;—prejudices, without doubt they had, and they might, probably, be warped by them;—embarrassments, also, they doubtless felt, arising from the prohibition to change established "ecclesiastical words" for others more appropriate; but these did not at all affect the essentials of religion; neither, yet, could they therefore, affect the fidelity of their translation.

But we are not left to probabilities as to the character of the work which they performed That character is a matter of fact; and is, therefore, capable of examination and proof. We shall, therefore, cite, as witnesses to the fidelity of our authorized version, a few out of many persons of unquestionable erudition, sound judgment, and established reputation, who have given to the subject that consideration which its importance demands.

'In the year 1652 an order was made in the Parliament, that a bill should be brought in for a new English translation of the Bible, out of the original tongues, and after having suffered the project to slumber for four years, that is, till bishop Walton had nearly completed the publication of his splendid polyglott, "the grand committee for religion" passed the following order: "That it be referred to a subcommittee to send for, and advise with, Dr. Walton, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Castle [Castell], Mr. Clark, Mr. Poulk, Dr. Cudworth, and such others as they shall think fit, and to consider of the translations and impressions of the Bible, and to offer their opinions therein to this committee." In pursuance of this order, the subcommittee, which was composed of some of the most learned men of the time, often met, and consulted with others of great attainments in the oriental tongues. In these conferences were made "divers excellent and learned observations of some mistakes in the translations of the Bible in English; which yet was agreed to be the best of any translation in the world." Such is the narrative of the lord commissioner Whitlock, who had the care of the business, and who took great pains in the design; which became fruitless by the dissolution of the parliament. Johnson, in his account of the English translations, relates, that the committee and their learned associates "pretended to discover some mistakes in the last English translation, which yet they allowed was the best extant." That this was the judgment of bishop Walton himself, is certain, from the prolegomena to his polyglott, where he places our version in the highest rank of European translations, and in his "Considerator considered," he affirms that it may justly contend with any now extant in any other language in Europe. This judgment was delivered at a time when "the nation," as Dr. Walton himself has told us, "had more men of eminent skill in languages than ever heretofore." And his contemporary, Pocock, the prince, as it were, of oriental learning, has thus subscribed to the decision: "That translation of our own, which we follow, is such and so agreeable to the original, as that we might well choose among others to follow it, were it not our own, and established by authority among us."

'But to come nearer to our own times.—Dr. Geddes, whose profound learning and extensive acquaintance with biblical literature entitle his judgment to great respect, while his theological opinions render his testimony the more independent and valuable, thus speaks of the authorized version: "The means and the method employed to produce this translation promised something extremely satisfactory; and great expectations were formed from the united abilities of so many learned men, selected for the purpose, and excited to emulation by the encouragement of a munificent prince, who had declared himself the patron of the work. Accordingly, the highest eulogiums have been made on it, both by our own writers and by foreigners; and indeed, if accuracy, fidelity, and the strictest attention to the letter of the text be supposed to constitute the qualities of an excellent version, this of all versions must, in general, be accounted the most excellent. Every sentence, every word, every syllable, every letter and point seem to have been weighed with the nicest exactitude, and expressed, either in the text or margin, with the greatest precision. Pagninus himself is hardly more literal, and it was well remarked by Robertson, above a hundred years ago, that it may serve for a lexicon of the Hebrew language, as well as for a translation."

'Of the great learning and critical acumen of Dr. Adam Clarke, it is not necessary that I should speak. Notwithstanding his eccentricities of opinion, upon a few subjects, he is allowed to be one of the first biblicists of the age, and to have largely contributed, by his indefatigable labors on the Holy Scriptures, to the advancement of divine truth. After having himself translated every word from the originals, which he has made his constant study for more than half a century, and diligently collated the common printed text of the English Bible with all the manuscripts and collections from manuscripts to which he could obtain access, he thus speaks of this version:—"Those who have compared most of the European translations with the original, have not scrupled to say, that the English translation of the Bible, made under the direction of King James I., is the most accurate and faithful of the whole. Nor is this its only praise; the translators have seized the very spirit and soul of the original, and expressed this almost every where, with pathos and energy. The original, from which it was taken, is, alone, superior to the Bible which was translated by the authority of King James.... This is an opinion, in which my heart, my judgment, and my conscience coincide."

'To these testimonies I will add but one more, that of the Rev. William Orme, whose learning and judgment have secured for him a high rank among contemporary writers. Speaking of the English version of the Scriptures, he says: "Like every thing human, it is no doubt imperfect; but as a translation of the Bible, it has few rivals, and as a whole, no superior. It is in general faithful, simple, and perspicuous. It has seized the spirit, and copied the manner of the divine originals. It seldom descends to meanness or vulgarity; but often rises to elegance and sublimity. It is level to the understanding of the cottager, and fit to meet the eye of the critic, the poet, and the philosopher."—"It has been the companion of our princes and our nobles, and prized by many of them as their most invaluable treasure. It is the birthright of our numerous population, and has proved the means of knowledge, holiness, and joy to millions; and we trust it is destined for ages yet to come, to be the glory of the rich, and the inheritance of the poor; the guide to the wayworn pilgrim, and the messenger of peace to many a dying sinner." ' Carpenter ut supra Ch: III.

Thus we conceive our argument is completed: we have shown the possibility, probability, necessity, and reality, of a Revelation from heaven; that the Scriptures of the Old and New Testament contain that revelation; that these Scriptures have been preserved entire, and translated faithfully into various languages; and among others, into the English language, and that that Bible which is, in this land, in the hands of the million, is, indeed, the pure word of God; so that, on all points which concern life and godliness, we have, in our translation, "a light shining in a dark place." Let us then unite in thanksgivings to its Divine Author, for having preserved the purity of his word in our language, and secured to us, on all points of vital importance, the genuine revelation of his will.

SECTION IV.

Defects in the English Translation of the Scriptures.

Having said thus much on the general character of the authorized version, and having adduced so large a mass of testimony to its excellence, it becomes our duty to point out some things, which may properly be considered its defects. That it has defects, cannot, and must not, be either denied, or concealed. A translation is a human work; and imperfection must characterise all such works. Were we to labor to conceal the fact that defects exist, we should be chargeable with want of candor, and should subject to suspicion the foregoing expressions in its praise. To direct attention to defects in the English Bible, which its readers had not the means to remedy, or avoid, would not, it is true, confer any positive benefit; but rather the reverse. Happily, however, this is not the case. Those imperfections by which it is marked, are, for the most part, of such a kind, that persons of ordinary intelligence, and having only the common means of information and observation, may generally ascertain their nature, and succeed in their removal. It becomes important, therefore, to ascertain their extent, and suggest such methods as appear calculated to effect their removal. Candor, then, constrains us to acknowledge the existence of the following intrinsic blemishes in the English translation of the Scriptures.

1. There is a want of uniformity in the translation of some portions, and it has relation both to single words and also to phrases.

As it regards single words;—Besides a great number of instances of words, which, in English, are almost strictly synonymous, as, "dwelling-place," and "habitation," "to wail," "to mourn," and "to lament;" there are many cases in which the same original word is rendered by "locust," and by "grasshoppers;—by "wormwood" and by "hemlock"—by "owl," and by "ostrich;"—by "cormorant,"and by "pelican;"—by "coat of mail," by "habergeon," and by "breast-plate;"—by "fort," by "strong hold," by "castle," by "munition," and by "bulwark;"—by "nations," by "gentiles," and by "heathen," &c. &c. This incongruity will be readily admitted to be a blemish in the excellent translation of the holy volume which we possess.

Again as to phrases. Sometimes our translators have preserved the Hebrew idiom, and transferred it into their version; but at others, they have not only given us "English words," but also, (and which in a translation is desirable,) "English phrases." This has been done by them also in many cases, with the very same idiomatical expression, and thus the incongruity becomes more sensibly felt. To mention here a single instance, "To lift up one's feet" for "To remove," is surely not a peculiarity of the Hebrews, more harsh in English ears than "To lift up one's eyes" for "To look up;" yet they every where retain the latter idiom; and in only one instance throughout the Bible, have they retained the former, viz: Ps. lxxiv. 3. where the meaning is "come" or "visit" for the purpose of restoring, or repairing these long continued desolations. Other similar instances of want of uniformity might easily be specified but we propose to give rather a sample, than a catalogue of them.

A "son of Belial" sounds harsh in the English ear; much more so than "sons of valor," "sons of righteousness," or "sons of iniquity;" yet have our translators, except in one or two instances, retained the harshness of the former expression, and softened down that of the latter ones into "valiant men," "righteous men," "wicked men," and in those one or two cases, have followed the latter analogy, and translated the phrase accordingly, "a wicked man."

"To lift up ones hand" is "to swear;" because, as is the case in this land, a man lifts his hand towards heaven, and thus appeals to God who dwells there, for the truth of what he affirms. Accordingly the Hebrew phrase is so rendered in Ex: vi. 8. Num: xiv. 30. Neh: ix. 15. But in Gen: xiv: 22. Ezek: xx. 5, 6 and Deut: xxxii. 40. the form of expression which belongs to the Hebrew is retained.

2. Our translators have sometimes adopted in their version, modes of expression incompatible with the English idiom. This has resulted, doubtless from their scrupulous conscientiousness, which prompted them intensely to desire to furnish a literal translation of the original into English. This desire has, however, resulted in their presenting us, in some cases, with phraseology not purely English; and such as, in fact, has never to this day, been able to force its way into common use, though sanctioned by the sacred volume itself. It is needless to mention particular instances, as the reflection of every reader will supply them.

3. They have sometimes enfeebled the sense by introducing without necessity, words in the

Italic character. Their object was to render the sense of the original more clear to the English reader; and yet by the change of character, to notify him, when they in the least departed from the sacred original: (a fine instance, it must be admitted, of conscientiousness and reverence for God's word,) but in so doing they have often evaporated the spirit of holy scripture, without at all increasing the plainness of the sense. As an instance of this we will mention only one passage;—It occurs in the 15th chap. of Corinthians, ver. 26, which in our version reads, "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death;" but, as Dr. Macknight observes, this language seems to imply, that there are some enemies which shall not be destroyed. This, however, is not the meaning of the Apostle; but, that every enemy, even the last shall be destroyed. This sense would have been brought out if the translators had omitted the Italic letters, even had they done no more; but more was certainly within their province; they might have changed slightly the collocation of the words, and then their version would have read, "The last enemy—death—shall be destroyed." Here is the idea of the Apostle exactly, and forcibly expressed. Archbishop Secker is said to have run his pen through some thousands of italicized words in the Bible which he ordinarily used; and scarcely ever without manifest improvement to the expression.

4. The translators were probably warped by their own prejudices in favor of episcopacy; and certainly must have been embarrassed by their instructions as to the retaining of certain "ecclesiastical words" in their version. These things have operated to produce a less perfect translation, than, under other circumstances, would have been presented to us.

But after all that candor requires us to say of the defects of this translation, what do those defects amount to? What one doctrine of religion, or what one precept of morality is affected by them? They are merely like the small dust of the balance, which yet by no means affects its faithfulness; or like the inequalities on the surface of the earth which is, yet, notwithstanding them, well worthy of the appellation "a globe." So faithful have the translators been, to God and to their fellow creatures, in the work they have performed, that though there are blemishes in the performance, they are, like spots on the sun, lost in the surrounding effulgence; and we may say without fear of contradiction that "WE DO READ IN OUR TONGUE IN WHICH WE WERE BORN, THE WONDERFUL WORKS OF GOD."

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS ON THE PENTATEUCH.

THE first five books of the Old Testament are in common speech, often included together under the name of the Pentateuch. It is compounded of two Greek words signifying respectively, "five," and "a volume," or "book;" and hence, probably, was the name given to those books, (all of which were written by the same person, Moses,) by the Alexandrian Translators of he Septuagint Version, into the Greek language.

This division of the sacred volume comprises an account of the creation of the world, of the fall of man, the outlines of the early annals of the world, and a full recital of the Jewish law, and of the events which befell Israel, from the time of their becoming a distinct people, to their departure from Egypt, and arrival on the confines of the promised land of Canaan,—a period, according to some writers, of 2515 years; and according to others, especially Dr. Hales, of 3765 years. "It is a wide description" says Dr. Gray, "gradually contracted:—an account of a nation, preceded by a general sketch of the first state of mankind. The books are written in pure Hebrew, with admirable diversity of style, always well adapted to the subject; yet characterized with the stamp of the same author: they are all, evidently, parts of the same work, and mutually strengthen and illustrate each other. They blend revolution and history in one point of view; furnish laws, and describe their execution; exhibit prophecies, and relate their accomplishment." Moses is generally admitted to have been the author of these books, and by some writers of eminence, he is also considered to have written the book of Job. On this latter subject the evidence will be exhibited in the prefatory notice to that book. For an outline of the evidence in favor of the Genuineness and Authenticity of the Pentateuch, we refer our readers to the "Introduction to the Study of the Scriptures."

THE BOOK OF GENESIS.

The name of this book is Greek, and signifies "Generation" or "Production." The first book of the Sacred Scriptures is so called, because it contains the history of the generation or production of all things. The Jews name the books of the Old Testament, either from their authors, or from the principal subject on which they treat, or from the first Hebrew word in the books themselves. Thus, the book of Genesis, is, by them, named from its initial word; which signifies, "In the beginning."

Although nothing is more certain, than that this book was written by Moses, yet the learned are by no means agreed, as to when he wrote it. Some have advocated the opinion that it was while he kept the flocks of Jethro, his father-in-law, in the wilderness of Midian: others, that it was written after the departure of Israel from Egypt, and the promulgation of the laws on mount Sinai. These latter, allege, in support of their opinion, that previous to his receiving the divine call, related in Ex. iii. Moses was only a private individual, and was not imbued with the spirit of prophecy. This, however, is by no means certain: for we learn in the New Testament, (Acts vii. 25.) that Moses, long prior to the call recorded in Ex. iii. "supposed his brethren would have understood how that God, by his hand, would deliver them." Now how should he entertain this supposition, unless God had intimated it to him? If it be admitted that such an intimation had been given him, then it follows that he might have been qualified by the Spirit of Inspiration, to write the book of Genesis in the wilderness of Midian. That the writer was inspired when he wrote it is obvious: for, without inspiration, he could not have recorded, so accurately, the history of the creation, and the subsequent occurrences, down to his own days; nor could he have foretold the events then future, which have relation to the Messiah, and those respecting the descendants of Ishmael, and the posterity of Jacob: the fulfilment of which depended on circumstances which had not, and could not have occurred, at the time the history was written; but which in fact did occur precisely according to the predictions.

Besides the history of the creation, this book contains an account of the original innocence of man, and his fall; the multiplication of the species; the rise of religion; the general corruption of the world; the deluge; the restoration of the world; the division and peopling of the earth; the call of Abraham, and the divine covenant with him; together with the history of the first patriarchs, to the death of Joseph. This book comprises some important prophecies respecting the Messiah. See ch. iii. 15.—xii. 3. —xviii. 18.—xxii. 18.—xxvi. 4.—xxviii. 14.—xlix. 10. 18.

The Jews divide the book of Genesis into twelve Parasches or larger sections; and forty-three siderim, or smaller sections; in our Bibles it consists of fifty chapters, the general contents and leading divisions of which, may be thus exhibited.

I. The origin of the world. (chs. i. and ii.)

II. The history of the old or antediluvian world. (ch. iii. to ch. vii.) i. e. the fall of man and his expulsion from Eden: (ch. iii.) the history of Adam and his posterity to Noah; (chs. iv. and v.) the increase of wickedness in the world, and its destruction by the deluge. (chs. vi. and vii)

III. The general history of the world after the deluge. (chs. viii. to xi.) embracing, The restoration of the world; (ch. viii.) The intoxication of Noah; (ch. ix.) The peopling of the world by his descendants; (ch: x.) The confusion of tongues, and dispersion of mankind; (ch. xi.)

IV. The particular history of the Patriarchs: (chs xii. to l.) embracing

1. The history of Abraham and his family; 'chs. xii. to xx.) The birth of Isaac; (ch. xxi.) trial of Abraham; (ch. xxii.) the death of Sarah; (ch. xxiii.) the marriage of Isaac; (ch. xxiv.) and the death of Abraham; (ch. xxv.)

2. The history of the Church under the Patriarch Isaac; (chs. xxv. and xxvi.)

3. The same history under the Patriarch Jacob; (chs. xxvii. to xxxvi.)

4. The same history under the Patriarch Joseph; (chs. xxxvii. to l.) In this last history is found one of the most remarkable instances of a particular superintending Providence, any where recorded; and the beauty, and simplicity, and, in some parts, the pathos of the narrative, can only be equalled by some few other portions of the same sacred volume.

Evidence of the authenticity of this book, relative to the facts it records is almost daily accumulating, e. g. in the frequent discoveries of fossil shells in places remote from the sea; and in the discovery of skeletons of tropical animals in high latitudes, as also, those of arctic animals in equatorial regions. Moreover the variety of languages in the world, is in no way, so easily accounted for, as by admitting the truth of the Mosaic narrative, of the confusion of tongues at Babel. But if the narratives of these events are authentic, why should we question other narratives written by the same person?

THE BOOK OF EXODUS.

The title of this book is derived from the Septuagint Version, and is expressive of the principal transactions it records; viz: The Exodus, or departure of the children of Israel out of Egypt. This book has most satisfactory testimony to its divine authority, in the fact that, by our Lord and his apostles, it is quoted expressly in words, twenty-five times; and there are, moreover, nineteen allusions to the sense, in the New Testament. The author of this book was evidently an eye and ear witness of the facts which he records; it must be admitted, then, generally, that it was not written till after the events which it records had occurred, i. e. not till after the giving of the Law and the erection of the Tabernacle:—yet the precise time when it was written is not certainly known

The design of this book is to preserve the memorial of the departure of the children of Israel out of Egypt; and to exhibit the people of God, afflicted, yet preserved; the special care of God towards them, and his interference on their behalf, and for the punishment of their enemies. It records events which are the fulfilments of promises and prophecies, which God had given to Abraham, of a numerous posterity, and that they should be afflicted, in a strange land, whence, in the fourth generation, they should depart, in the possession of great wealth. (See Gen. xv. 13—16. and compare Ex. xii. 35, 40. 41.) Thus, as soon as the Church on earth possessed a written revelation of the Divine will, she was also favored with the evidence that the professed revelation was from God; in the fulfilment of its predictions before their own eyes, and in their own existence and condition.

Paul has shown in his Epistles to the Corinthians and Hebrews, that the events recorded in this book, prefigured, and, are applicable to the Christian Church.

In our Bibles this book extends through forty chapters, the contents of which are as follows:

I. An account of the actions previous to the departure of Israel from Egypt: as, The oppressions they endured; (ch. i.) The youth and early transactions of Moses at the court of Pharaoh (chs. ii. to vi.) The hardening of Pharaoh's heart, and the infliction of the ten plagues. (chs. vii. to xi.)

II. The narrative of the departure of the Israelites. (Chs. xii. to xiv.)

III. Events subsequent to the departure; as, The miraculous passage of the Red Sea, and the overthrow of the Egyptians: (chs. xiv, and xv. 1—22.) The narrative of various miracles wrought in behalf of Israel (chap. xv. ver. 23 to ch. xvii. fin.:) The arrival of Moses' wife and children, with his father-in-law, Jethro. (ch. xviii.)

IV. The promulgation of the law on Mount Sinai: the preparation of the people for that event; the event itself, including the moral and judicial law. (chs. xix. to xxiii.) The ceremonial law including the erection of the tabernacle (chs. xxv.—xxxi. and xxxv.—xl.) In the intermediate chapters (xxxii. to xxxiv.) are related Israel's idolatry in the matter of Aaron's calf, the breaking of the tables, the chastisement of the idolators, and the renewal of the tables of the covenant.

THE BOOK OF LEVITICUS.

The third book of Moses is thus designated in our Bibles, not because it describes the ministry of the Levites, strictly so called; for this is more fully detailed in the book of Numbers; but because it principally contains the laws relative to the ceremonial worship of Israel, the performance of which was committed to Aaron the Levite, and to others descended from the same father or patriarch: and whom, collectively, Paul therefore calls a "Levitical priesthood."

There can be no question of the authorship of this book belonging to Moses; for it is, in several books of the Scripture, cited as his production. By comparing Exod. xl. 17. with Num. i. 1. we learn that the period embraced in the historical details of this book extend only to one month: i. e. from the erection of the tabernacle to the numbering of those Israelites who were able to bear arms.

The scope or tendency, and the design, doubtless, of this book was, to make known to the Israelites the Levitical laws, sacrifices, and ordinances; and, by those "shadows of good things to come," to lead them to the Messiah; (comp. Heb. x. 1. with Gal. iii. 24.) and some of them, we are led to hope from the argument of Paul, had an idea of the spiritual import of these various institutions. This book is of great use in explaining numerous passages in the New Testament; and indeed without it, our ideas of the meaning of the epistle to the Hebrews would be extremely vague and indistinct. In interpreting the book of Leviticus, however, we must be careful not to spiritualize too extensively.

Leviticus contains twenty-seven chapters, and consists of four leading themes or topics.

I. The laws having relation to the several kinds of sacrifices; and in which the rites to be observed in the presentation of each, are enumerated. As,

The burnt-offering, (ch. i.) which prefigured the full, perfect, and sufficient sacrifice of Christ, "to put away sin;" and who, "by his one offering, hath forever perfected them that are sanctified."

The meat offerings (ch. ii.) The peace offerings, (ch. iii.) which represented Christ's oblation of himself, and our oblation of praise and thanksgiving. (Eph. ii. 14—16. Heb. xiii. 15.) The sin-offering, for offences of ignorance;—this was consumed without the camp. (chs. iv and v.) see also, Heb. xiii. 11—13. The trespass offering; or sacrifice for sins knowingly committed, (chs. vi. and vii.) in which the guilt was considered as transferred to the victim; and the offerer as redeemed. Thus it is said to have made his soul an offering for sin. (Isa liii. 10. 2 Cor. v. 21.)

II. The institution of the priesthood, in which the consecration of Aaron and his sons, is related; as also, the punishment of Nadab and Abihu. (chs. viii. to x.)

III. The laws concerning the purification both of priests and people. (chs. xi. to xxii.)

IV. The laws concerning sacred festivals, vows, things devoted, and tithes. (chs. xxiii. to xxvii.)

Chapter xxvi. contains various prophetic promises and threatenings which have been signally fulfilled among the Jews. (compare ver. 22. with Num. xxi. 6. 2 Kin. ii. 24. and xvii. 25. with Ezek. v. 17.) The preservation of the Jews as a distinct people to this day, is a living comment on ver. 44.

THE BOOK OF NUMBERS.

This is the appellation of the fourth of the Mosaic books; and it is derived from its containing the records of two numberings of the people by divine command. (chs. i. ii. iii. and xxvi.) It appears from ch. xxxvi. 13. to have been written by Moses on the plains of Moab. Besides the numbering and marshalling of Israel for their journeyings, several laws, in addition to those delivered in Exodus and Leviticus, are here recorded; as well as several remarkable events. It contains a history of the Israelites, from the beginning of the second month of the second year after their departure from Egypt, until the beginning of the eleventh month of the fortieth year of their journeyings;—that is, a period of nearly thirty-nine years. (compare Num. i. 1. and xxxvi. 13. with Deut. i. 3.) Most of the transactions here recorded took place in the second, and thirty-eighth years:— the dates of the facts recorded in the middle of the book cannot be precisely ascertained. This book may be divided into four parts.

I. The census of Israel, and the marshalling of them into a regular camp; "each tribe by itself, under its own captain, or chief, distinguished by his own particular standard, and occupying an assigned place with reference to the tabernacle." (ch. i. ii.) The sacred census of the Levites, the designation of them to the sacred office, and the appointment of them to various services in the tabernacle, are related (chs. iii. and iv.)

II. The institution of various legal ceremonies, as, The purification of the camp from unclean persons;—the trial of the suspected adultress, by the bitter waters of jealousy:—the institution of Nazaritism;—oblations made by heads of tribes to the tabernacle;—consecration of the Levites;—celebration of the Passover;—regulations concerning the advance and the halting of the camp. (chs. v. to x.)

III. The history of their journey from Mount Sinai to the land of Moab, which may be described and distinguished by their eight remarkable murmurings in the way; every one of which was followed by severe chastisement. (chs. xi. to xxi.)

IV. A history of the transactions which occurred on the plains of Moab: including Balak's endeavor to induce Balaam to curse the Israelites; the second numbering of the people, and the appointment of Joshua to succeed Moses, together with regulations concerning sacrifices, and the partition of the promised land (chs. xxii. to xxxvi.)

THE BOOK OF DEUTERONOMY.

This book derives its name among us, from that given to it by the translators of the Septuagint version; and which signifies "the second law," or "the repetition of the Law;" because it contains an epitome of the preceding books, at least such parts of them as have relation to God's dealings towards Israel. From a comparison of ch. i. 5. with ch. xxxiv. 1. it appears to have been written by Moses in the plains of Moab, a short time before his death: and this circumstance accounts for the affectionate earnestness with which he addresses the Israelites. The period of time comprised in this book is five lunar weeks; or, according to some Chronologers, about two months; viz. from the first day of the eleventh month of the fortieth year after the departure from Egypt, to the eleventh day of the twelfth month of the same year, A. M. 2553, or B. C. 1451.

From the account of the death of Moses, recorded in ch. xxxiv. and the insertion of some explanatory words in other parts of Deuteronomy, some persons have insinuated that Moses could not have been its author. But there is little weight in the objection. It is true indeed that Moses could not record his own death; but it is also true, that the Spirit by whom he was inspired could have enabled him to foretell it with all its particulars. But even this supposition is unnecessary;—it is evident that the words of Moses end with the thirty-third chapter, and that the following one was added by some other hand,—probably Samuel, or Ezra. The first eight verses are generally supposed to have been added by Joshua, immediately after the death of Moses; and whoever added the last four, Ezra, acting under divine guidance and direction, approved them as authentic; and left them in the canon, and we have no reason to question the fidelity of this account. This Book consists of four parts.

I. A repetition of the history related in the preceding books; i. e. the history of the events which occurred from leaving Mount Horeb, until the division of the territories of Sihon and Og, among the Reubenites, Gadites and Manassites; together with an exhortation to avoid idolatry, and to obey the Lord. (chs. i. to iv.)

II. A repetition of the moral, ceremonial, and judicial laws. (chs. v. to xxvi.)

III. The confirmation of the Law: for which purpose the law was to be written on stones, and set up on Mount Ebal; and prophetic promises, and threatenings, together with exhortations and admonitions, eminently calculated to impress on the mind the importance and advantages of obedience, and the terrible consequences of rebellion. (chs. xxvii. to xxx.)

IV. The personal history of Moses, until his death: comprising his appointment of Joshua as his successor, and his charge to the newly appointed leader; the recital to the whole people (perhaps in their representatives) of Moses' prophetical ode; his prophetical blessing on the twelve tribes; and the account of the death and burial of Moses. (chs. xxxi. to xxxiv.)

THE BOOK OF JOSHUA.

The book which immediately follows the Pentateuch both in our Bibles, and also, in all copies of the Old Testament, is called the book of Joshua, because it principally records the achievements of Joshua, the son of Nun, in effecting the overthrow of the Canaanites, and the settlement of Israel in their land. Some distinguished critics have been of opinion that Joshua was, himself, the writer; but others have ascribed it to various hands, as Jeremiah, Samuel, &c. However, there can be no doubt but that this book was always received by the Jews as a part of their sacred canon, and there is internal evidence, notwithstanding here and there a few words may have been added by a later hand, that the book itself is as ancient as the days of Joshua. Of the authenticity of the book, i. e. the truth of the facts which it relates we have the testimony of profane history. A Phenician inscription cited by Procopius, contains a sentence to the following purport, "We are they who flee from the face of Jesus" (the Greek name of Joshua) "the robber,—the son of Nave." And Suidas cites the same inscription thus (perhaps quoting from memory) "We are the Canaanites, whom Jesus, the robber expelled." This document proves that the fable of the Phenician Hercules, originated in the History of Joshua. There is evidence, moreover, that the Carthaginians were a colony of Tyrians, who fled from Joshua; and that the inhabitants of Leptis, in Africa, came originally from the Sidonians, who abandoned their country on account of the calamities with which it was overwhelmed.

The book of Joshua comprises a period of about seventeen years, or, as some chronologers suppose, of twenty-seven or thirty years. It is, in fact, the continuation and completion of the Pentateuch; the latter being a history of the acts of the Jewish legislator, and the laws upon which the Jewish Church was to be established; and the former a history of Israel, under the successor of their great legislator;—of the conquest of Canaan, and its subsequent division among the tribes of Israel; together with the provision made for the establishment of the Jewish Church in that country.

The book of Joshua may be conveniently divided into three parts.

I. The history of the occupation of Canaan by the Israelites, (chs. i. to xii.) comprising all the transactions from the Divine call of Joshua, to the defeat of Jabin and his confederates; and concluding with a brief recapitulation of the conquests of the Israelites, both under Moses, and under Joshua.

II. The division of the acquired territory; both general and particular; the appointment of cities of refuge; and the dismissal of the forces belonging to the two tribes and a half, who had their possession on the east of Jordan: together with the transactions resulting from their erection of an altar at the passage of Jordan. (chs. xiii. to xxii.)

III. The assembling of the people; the dying address of Joshua; his death, and burial. (chs. xxiii. and xxiv.)

In this book (ch. x. ver. 13.) mention is made of the "Book of Jasher." Among the various opinions entertained relative to this book, the following one is, perhaps, the most probable; viz. that it was a poetical, but not inspired book, and was no longer extant, when the books of Judges and Samuel were written.

THE BOOK OF JUDGES.

This book probably derives its name from the fact that it records the history of Israel during those years, in which they were governed by individuals specially raised up, and influenced, and commissioned by God, for the performance of special services. These persons were called "Judges;" they were thirteen in number. Few of them exercised a jurisdiction over the whole of the tribes, and some of them over only, perhaps, a single tribe. This accounts for the fact, which is pretty generally admitted among chronologers, that some of these Judges were contemporaries; for, on such a supposition, they could easily, and harmoniously, govern different districts at the same time

These men were raised up from time to time to deliver the nation from distresses, into which their sins had brought them, and they acted under special divine impulse; and sometimes, perhaps, under mere natural impulse, but controlled by divine superintendence, so as to secure the accomplishment of his gracious purposes towards his covenant people. This supposition appears the more probable, because there are some of their recorded actions, which it is difficult to reconcile with the obligations of morality; and such acts we cannot, of course, refer to divine suggestion. (See Jos. i. 13.)

Some persons have supposed the date of the Book of Judges, to be posterior to the Babylonish captivity; and they based their opinion upon Jud. xviii. 30. This, however, is evidently an error; the captivity referred to in that verse, was a partial one, and affected the tribe of Dan only. Moreover, the total absence of Chaldee words in this book, makes it certain that it could not have been written after the language of the nation became corrupted with that dialect, which it did during the Babylonish captivity. It is indeed, certain, from internal evidence, that it was written before the second book of Samuel; for, in that book is found a reference to a fact, recorded in this, as a matter of general notoriety: (compare 2 Sam. xi. 21. with Jud. ix. 53.) and before the capture of Jerusalem by David. (Compare 2 Sam. v. 6. with Jud. i. 21.)

Some diversity of opinion also prevails as to who was the author of this book. The most probable opinion is, that it was written by Samuel, the last of the Judges; and in this opinion the Jews themselves coincide. The book of Judges forms an important link in the history of Israel, and is very properly inserted between the books of Joshua and Samuel, as the Judges were the intermediate governors of Israel, between Joshua, and the succession of sovereigns. "It abundantly verifies the frequent warnings and predictions of Moses: according to which, the people, being under the immediate government of God, were, in a most exemplary manner, to be rewarded for obedience, and punished for disobedience; and especially for their conformity to the religion of the surrounding nations, whom God had devoted to destruction for their polytheism and idolatry."

This book comprises a history of about three hundred years; it consists of three parts, which however, are not chronologically arranged.

I. The history of the Elders who ruled Israel after Joshua's death, and of the subsequent transactions to the commencement of their troubles. (chs. i. to iii. ver. 5.)

II. The history of the Judges from Othniel to Eli. (ch. iii. 5. to ch. xvi.)

III. The history of several memorable actions which were performed not long after the death of Joshua, and which are thrown in at the end of the book, to avoid, perhaps, the breaking of the thread of the narrative.

Besides the internal evidences of the authenticity of this book, the classical scholar will re-fail to recognise in the Roman Vulpinaria, or feast of the foxes; and in the story of Nisus and his daughters, who cut off those fatal hairs on which the victory depended; external confirmations of the inspired record respecting Samson's destruction of the Philistines' corn, and his betrayal to his enemies by Delilah.

THE BOOK OF RUTH.

The book of Ruth has, not improperly, been considered as a sort of appendix to the book of Judges and an introduction to those of Samuel; and hence, appropriately occupies a place between them. It derives its name from its narrating the events which introduced Ruth the Moabitess, among the people of Israel; an event sufficiently important to introduce into the sacred record, because from her descended the Saviour of the world.

Various conflicting opinions have been held, as to the date of this book; some writers referring it to the days of Eli, and some even as late as those of the regal government: but the most probable date is that assigned to it by Bishop Patrick, viz: during the period in which Gideon judged Israel. His conclusion is drawn from Ruth i. 1. compared with Jud. vi. 3. 6. In the first named passage the famine which occasioned Elimelech's removal, is said to have occurred "in the days when the Judges ruled;" and in the latter, that in Gideon's days, prior to his deliverance of Israel, the oppressions of the Midianites "had left no sustenance for Israel."

The book of Ruth has been ascribed to various pens; as Hezekiah, Ezra, and Samuel. The most probable opinion is, that Samuel was its author; and it is certain, from the genealogy recorded ch. iv. 17.—22. that this history could not have been reduced to its present form, at an earlier period than his days.

The design of this book was to delineate part of Christ's genealogy in David's time. (compare Ruth iv. 18.—22. with Matt. i. 5. 6.) It had been foretold to the Jews that the Messiah should be of the tribe of Judah; and it was afterwards further revealed, that he should be of the family of David. It was therefore necessary, for the full understanding of these prophecies, that the history of that family in Judah, should be written before these prophecies were revealed, to prevent all suspicion of fraud or design: and thus this book, these prophecies and their accomplishment serve to illustrate each other.

The four chapters of this book may be divided into the three following sections.

I. An account of Naomi, from her departure from Canaan into the country of Moab, with her husband Elimelech, to her return into the land of Israel, with her daughter-in-law Ruth. (ch. i.)

II. The interview of Boaz with Ruth, and their marriage. (chs. ii. to iv. ver. 12.)

III. The birth of Obed, the son of Boaz by Ruth, from whom David was descended. (ver. 13, ad fin.)

THE TWO BOOKS OF SAMUEL.

Both these books form but one in the Jewish Canon of Scripture, and the same is true of those of Kings and Chronicles. Of these books respectively, therefore, we shall give only a joint introductory notice.

The book of Samuel doubtless derives its name from 1 Chron xxix. 29. where the transactions of David's reign are said to be "written in the book of Samuel the seer." It is, manifestly, impossible from the events recorded, that the whole book should have been written by the prophet whose name it bears, as it extends to near the close of David's reign. The prevalent opinion appears to be, that the first twenty-four chapters of the first book of Samuel, were written by Samuel himself; and that the last seven chapters, together with the whole of the first four chapters of the second book, and part of the fifth, were written by Gad; and that the remaining chapters of the second book were committed to writing by Nathan. This opinion is certainly not without warrant, from the sacred volume; for in the passage above quoted, all these writers are united. "Now the acts of David, first and last, behold they are written in the book of Samuel the seer, and in the book of Nathan the prophet, and Gad the seer." The records made by these holy men appear to be here referred to as distinct books; but it would be natural for Ezra, who compiled the canon of Jewish Scriptures, to include them all in one volume, and that it should receive the designation which the Jews give to it, viz. "the book of Samuel."

The FIRST book of Samuel, is a continuation of the book of Judges, at least through thirteen chapters of it, after which is given the narration of events under the regal government of Saul, and terminating with his death. The following is an outline of it:

I. The history of Israel under the Judicature of Eli. (chs. i. to iv.)

II. Their history under the administration of Samuel. (chs. v. to xiii.)

III. The record of transactions under the government of Saul, the first king of Israel, from his investment with the regal dignity, to his death on mount Gilboa. (chs: xiv. to xxxi.)

The SECOND book of Samuel contains a history of David, the second king of Israel, during a period of nearly forty years. i. e. from A. M 2948 to 2988. This book consists of three principal divisions, recording the triumphs and the troubles of David, and his doings subsequently to the recovery of the throne, whence he was driven by his son Absalom.

I. The triumphs of David:—his tender, elegant, and pathetic eulogy over Saul and Jonathan:—his triumphs over the house of Saul, over the Jebusites, Philistines, Ammonites, and other neighboring nations. (chs. i. to x.)

II. The troubles of David and their cause; together with his repentance, and reinstatement in the Divine favor. (chs. xi. to xix.)

Digitized by Google

III. His restoration to the throne after Absalom's rebellion, and the remaining acts of his life; as, the suppression of the rebellion of Sheba, and destruction, at the Divine admonition, of the sons of Saul; together with his successful wars against the Philistines; his numbering the people, &c. (chs. xx. to xxiv.)

THE TWO BOOKS OF KINGS.

These two books are intimately connected with those of Samuel. They are in fact a continuation of the same history;—those relating the origin and gradual increase of the united kingdom of Israel, under its first two kings; and this detailing its unexampled splendor under Solomon, the division of the kingdom through the indiscretion of Rehoboam; the consequent decline, and final subversion of both the kingdoms;, that of Israel, or the ten tribes, by Shalmaneser, and that of Judah by Nebuchadnezzar.

There exists a great diversity of opinion in the writings of the learned, as to who is the author of these books; or whether they are to be ascribed to various authors. Some have ascribed portions of them to David, Solomon, Hezekiah, Nathan, Gad, Isaiah, Jeremiah, and others. We are inclined, however, to adopt the opinion which ascribes the whole of the two books to Ezra. He lived both during the captivity, and subsequently to it; and might probably have access to documents, from which to derive his history, which are now entirely lost to us.

The divine authority of these books is attested by the many predictions which they contain: they are cited by the Lord Jesus, in his celebrated sermon at Nazareth, as authentic and authoritative; (Luke iv. 25. 27.) and also by the Apostles, (Acts vii. 47. Rom. xi. 2—4. Jas. v. 17. 18) and both the Jewish and Christian Churches in every age have always received them into the Canon.

The FIRST book of Kings embraces a period of one hundred and twenty-six years;—from the anointing of Solomon, and his admission as a partner in the throne with David, A. M. 2989, to the death of Jehoshaphat, A. M. 3115. It may be divided into two parts.

I. The history of Solomon's reign: containing a narrative of the latter days of David, while Solomon reigned jointly with him; the reign of Solomon alone after David's death; his erection of the temple, and his own palace; the dedication of the temple; Solomon's commercial enterprise, celebrity, splendor;—his defection to idolatry through the influence of his wives, and the adversaries who were permitted to oppose him. (chs. i. to x.)

II. The history of the two kingdoms of Israel and Judah: comprising the accession of Rehoboam, and the division of the kingdom between him and Jeroboam; the reigns of these two monarchs; those of Abijam, Asa and Jehoshaphat, kings of Judah, and the contemporary kings of Israel, Nadab, Baasha, Elah, Zimri, Omri, and Ahab, and the commencement of the reign of Ahaziah. (chs. xi. to xxii.)

The SECOND book of Kings continues the contemporary history of the two kingdoms of Israel and Judah, from the death of Jehoshaphat, A. M. 3115, to the destruction of the city and temple of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, A. M 3416, a period of three hundred years. The last three verses of the preceding book belong, of right, to this; which carries forward the joint history of the two kingdoms;—this history may be thus divided; viz.

I. The contemporary history of the two kingdoms till the subversion of the former, by Shalmaneser. (chs. i. to xvii.)

II. The history of the decline of the kingdom of Judah, till its fall by the capture of Jerusalem, the destruction of the temple, and the removal of the people to Babylon. (chs. xviii. to xxv.) These books contain internal evidence of their authenticity; for, had not the writers been actuated by the most strict integrity, impartiality, and regard to truth, they would have concealed, or softened, some of the facts which they have recorded;—facts which, because they are dishonorable to their nation, and recorded by those who sought its prosperity, attest, strongly, to the veracity of the writers. They also furnish historical verifications of ancient declarations, as to the justice, and yet the long suffering of God; and the certainty that sin will, sooner or later, be followed by punishment

THE BOOKS OF CHRONICLES.

These books, like the preceding ones of Samuel and Kings, are, in the Jewish catalogues of Holy Writings, comprised in one. They are called, in the Septuagint, by a name which signifies "The things which were omitted;"—probably, because they may, in some sense, be said to be supplementary to the other histories. In the time when that translation was made, those books closed the sacred Canon; and, hence, very appropriately received the above mentioned appellation. Their present name "Chronicles" was given them by Jerome; and he thus named them, because they contain an abstract, in the order of time, of the whole sacred history to the time when they were written.

These books are not original documents or records, (for such records must have been more copious than these) but are, as above intimated, mere abstracts, and a sort of epitome of such records. They were compiled from others which were written, some before, and some after, the Babylonish captivity; and moreover, they contain frequent references to the documents from which they are derived.

No certain information is possessed as to who was the author of the books of Chronicles. Some have supposed the author to have been the same who wrote the books of Kings; but there are some strong reasons against the adoption of this opinion. The Jews ascribe them to Ezra, who, say they, composed them after the return from Babylon; and was aided, in the work, by Haggai and Zechariah who were contemporaries of Ezra. But neither is this opinion without serious difficulties opposed to its adoption: for he carries the genealogy of Zerubbabel to the twelfth generation; but Ezra did not live till that time, and consequently he could not be the writer of that genealogy: that, at least, must have been added by another hand. We must be content to remain in ignorance as to who the writer was; but we are sure he lived after the captivity, and derived his materials from the writings of men who were contemporary with the events they recorded; but who flourished many of them at least, long before his days. The general mass of external evidence abundantly proves the authenticity of these books; as, also, do the indirect attestations of our Lord and his apostles. (Comp. 1 Chron. xxiv. 10. with Luke 1. v. 2 Chron. ix. 1. with Matt. xii. 42. and Luke xi. 31.)

The principal design of these books appears to have been, to exhibit, with accuracy, the genealogies, rank, duties, and order of the Priests and Levites; that, after the captivity, they might more easily assume their proper ranks and re-enter on the duties of their ministry. Another object, also, was contemplated;—to show how the lands had been distributed among the tribes before the captivity, that, on the return from Babylon, each family might, as nearly as possible, occupy the possession of their fathers.

The period of time embraced in the books of Chronicles, is about 3468 years; and may be conveniently divided into four parts.

I. The genealogies of those persons through whom the Messiah was to descend, from Adam to the captivity, and the time of Ezra: (1 Chron. chs. i. to ix. ver. 34.)

II. The histories of Saul and David; (1 Chron. ix. 35. to ch. xxix. ver. 22.)

III. The history of the United Kingdom of Israel and Judah under Solomon. (1 Chron. xxix. 23. to 2 Chron. ch. ix.)

IV. The history of the Kingdom of Judah, from the revolt of the ten tribes, under Jeroboam to the conquest of the capital by Nebuchadnezzar. (2 Chron. ch. 10. to ch. 36.)

THE BOOK OF EZRA.

This book and the following one, of Nehemiah, were formerly reckoned by the Jews as one volume, and were designated the first and second books of Ezra. What is called the third book of Ezra, (and which is, by the Greek church, received as canonical,) is only the book which properly passes under the name of Ezra, interpolated. The Apocryphal book called the fourth book of Ezra or Esdras, is manifestly a forgery; it is not now extant in Greek, and never was extant in Hebrew.

It is plain on the face of the narrative that the writer of this book was present at the occurrence of the events he records: for he speaks in the first person; and moreover no person but a witness of the transactions would, or almost could, have wrought in so many particulars of time, place, persons, &c. But whether the author of the book were really the person whose name it bears, is not quite beyond question. The Jews ascribe the whole book to Ezra; and in this opinion they are followed by the generality of Christian commentators. That the last four chapters were written by him cannot be doubted; as he particularly describes himself in the beginning of the seventh chapter; and also frequently introduces himself in those which follow. But as the writer of the first six chapters appears, from ch. v. 4. to have been in Jerusalem in the reign of Darius Hystaspes; and as, from the beginning of the seventh chapter, it appears that Ezra did not go there till the reign of Artaxerxes Longimanus, (a distance of sixty years,) it has, by some persons, been supposed impossible for Ezra to have written the first six chapters. This however is not certain; for though chap. vii. does state that Ezra went to Jerusalem in the reign of Artaxerxes, it does not state that to have been his first journey thither. And as to the interval of sixty years rendering it improbable that it was the same person who was at Jerusalem on both occasions, it weighs but little. Ezra is said to have died at the age of a hundred and twenty years; he might, therefore, easily, have been the writer of the former portion of the book as well as the latter. There is, therefore, a strong probability that Ezra was the author; as well because there is no serious objection against it, as because there is considerable internal evidence of the fact:—the sixth and seventh chapters are intimately connected; he pursued the same kind of method in the narration of both parts, (quoting documents in the Chaldee language in which they were issued) and finally, the historical sketch is so short, in the whole work, that it is not likely more than one hand was employed in it.

This book harmonizes admirably with the prophecies of Haggai and Zechariah, which it materially elucidates. It evinces the care of God over his people the Jews, whose history it records from the issuing of the edict of Cyrus to the twentieth year of Artaxerxes Longimanus, a period of at least seventy-nine years; and, according to some chronologers, of one hundred years. It contains two principal divisions.

I. A narrative of events from the return of the Jews under Zerubbabel to the rebuilding of the temple. (chs. i. to vi.)

II. The arrival of Ezra at Jerusalem, and the reformation effected under his agency. (chs. vii. to x.)

Ezra's memory is tenderly cherished by the Jews, who consider him second only to Moses.

THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAH.

It has been already mentioned that this book was formerly called the second book of Ezra; and some distinguished fathers of the Christian Church entertained the opinion that Ezra was its author; among whom were Athanasius, Epiphanius, and Chrysostom. But there cannot be any reasonable doubt that its real author was Nehemiah the cup-bearer to Artaxerxes Longimanus, the whole of it being written in his name, and (which is very unusual when compared with the preceding sacred historians,) in the first person. It is not, on the whole, probable, that the whole of the register recorded ch. xii. 1.—26. was inserted by Nehemiah himself; perhaps, indeed, no part of it was written by him; but as Ezra, in the process of his labor, in completing the canon of Scripture so his own days, supplied, from the public registers, such genealogical information as was needed, so some successor in the same honorable employment (perhaps Simon the Just, who completed the Canon of the whole Old Testament) inserted all the verses from the first to the twenty-sixth of the chapter under consideration.

Some writers have supposed Nehemiah to have been of the tribe of Levi; and others that he was of that of Judah, and of the royal family; but we have no certain knowledge on this subject. His arrival in Jerusalem was thirteen years after that of Ezra; and he came with the rank of governor of the province; which office he filled for twelve years, when he returned to the Persian court; but, subsequently, obtained permission to return to Jerusalem; where, it is probable, he died. His book may be divided into four parts:

I. The departure of Nehemiah from the court of Persia, with a royal commission to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, and his arrival there. (chs. i. and ii. 1—11.)

II. The narrative of the progress of the work, notwithstanding the opposition of Sanballat. (chs. ii. 12. to ch. vii. 4.)

III. The first reformation accomplished by Nehemiah. (ch. vii. 5. to ch. xii.)

IV. The second reformation effected by Nehemiah, subsequently to his second arrival at Jerusalem; and his correction of the evils which had grown up during his absence. (ch. xiii.)

His administration lasted thirty-six years. The scripture history closes with the book of Nehemiah.

THE BOOK OF ESTHER.

This book derives its name from the person whose history is the principal subject of it. The history it contains would come in, in a continuous narrative, between the sixth and seventh chapters of Ezra. Its authenticity was questioned by some of the fathers, because the name of the Supreme Being does not even once occur in it;—an omission so much the more remarkable, because the inspired writers generally, will sometimes seem to overlook second causes, for the sake of the introduction of the divine names, and the attributing to the agency of God, every event which occurs under his providence. This omission being so remarkable, we can hardly think it was undesigned; and if it were designed, we can see, in the very omission, a reason for receiving this book into the sacred canon. The object of the writer was to record a very remarkable providential interference on behalf of Israel; and by this means, probably, to win some over to the worship of the God of Israel, who were opposed to the belief of the doctrine of a Superintending Providence. Had his object been avowed, it would have tended to excite prejudices, and prevent conviction. He therefore goes on with the narrative of facts as they occurred; but says not a word of the superintendence of Him who directed and overruled them; and makes the narrative itself to proclaim, in the ear, and to the heart of every reflecting reader, "Verily there is a God that judgeth in the earth." The Jews it is certain have always held this book in the very highest estimation; even placing it on a level with the law of Moses; and as to the authenticity of it, the institution, and observance, to this day, of the feast of Purim among that people, is an irrefragable argument in proof of the facts it records having really occurred. It is inconceivable that a nation should institute and observe, through a long succession of ages, a solemn festival, merely because one of their nation had written an agreeable romance.

It is not possible to determine who was the author of this book; and the conjectures of the learned have been extremely various on the subject. The greater probability is, that Ezra was the writer; for the transactions recorded, occurred in the time of Artaxerxes Longimanus, the same who filled the Persian throne in the times of Nehemiah and Ezra: and upon this, it is, that Augustine rests his opinion, that the book of Esther is the work of that celebrated scribe.

The book consists of two parts.

I. The promotion of Esther, a Jewish captive maid, to the throne of Persia; and the service rendered by Mordecai to the King, in detecting a plot against his life. (chs. i. and ii.)

II. The advancement of Haman; his designs against the Jews; and their frustration, and Haman's overthrow. (chs. iii. to x.)

THE BOOK OF JOB.

This book has derived its title from the venerable patriarch Job, whose prosperity, afflictions, and restoration from the deepest adversity are here recorded; together with his exemplary, and unequalled patience under all his calamities. Considerable doubts have existed in the minds of some celebrated critics, as to the real existence of such a person as Job;—they have thought the book to be a work of imagination, the design of which was, to convey moral and religious instruction under a parabolic representation. The first advocate of this opinion was Maimonides, a celebrated Jewish Rabbi; and he has been followed by Leclerc, Michaelis, Semler, and others. The real existence of the patriarch, however, appears to be placed beyond reasonable doubt, by Ezekiel (ch. xiv. 14.) and James; (ch v. 11.)

both of whom introduce his name as that of a real character; and if either of these passages be stronger than the other, in evidence of this point, it is the former; for there, Job is associated with Noah, and Daniel; of whose real existence there never was any doubt.

The age to which, in the close of the book, Job is intimated to have arrived, renders it certain that he lived in the patriarchal times; and Dr. Hales has, by astronomical calculations, (which we cannot, here, particularize) rendered it extremely probable, that he lived above 180 years before the birth of Abraham. His place of residence was Uz, or Idumea; afterward called the land of Edom. Various and conflicting opinions have been advocated as to the author of the book of Job. It would carry us too far, to attempt an exhibition of them, and of the reasons by which they are sustained: we must, therefore, be content to present the reader with that opinion which appears best entitled to our acquiescence;—the opinion of Archbishop Magee; viz: That it was originally written by Job; but subsequently transcribed by Moses, and applied, by him, to the use of the Jews; and having been sanctioned by his authority, it became enrolled among the sacred books of that people. It has been quoted by almost every Hebrew writer, from Moses to Malachi. In its form, this sacred poem approaches, somewhat, to the Mekama, or philosophical discourses of the Arabian poets.

The common division of this poem, into chapters and verses, has contributed, not a little, to render it obscure. By this means, not only is the unity of the general subject broken, and its beauty destroyed; but often also, that of single paragraphs, and even clauses.

This poem may be divided into six parts; viz;

I. The exordium, or narrative part, which is written in prose; and embraces chapters i. and ii.

II. The first debate or discussion between Job and his friends. This extends from chapter iii. to xiv.

III. The second debate or controversy. (chs. xv. to xxi.)

IV. The third dialogue or discussion. (chs. xxii. to xxxi.)

V. The summing up of the argument on each side, by Elihu, who, by silent attention to the whole of the preceding conversations, had attained a much more correct idea of the merits of the case, than either Job, or his other friends possessed. (chs. xxxii. to xxxvii.)

VI. The decision of the controversy by Jehovah himself, from the whirlwind; upon which Job humbles himself, and is accepted, and restored to health and prosperity. (chs. xxxviii. to xlii.)

This sacred poem is specially interesting to us, not merely on account of the important instruction and benefit which a devout perusal of it may afford; but because it contains a considerably full delineation of the doctrines of the patriarchal religion, particularly the existence of a God, who is the rewarder of them that diligently seek him; access to him by a Redeemer, Mediator, or Days-man; the resurrection of the body; a future judgment, and final retribution

THE BOOK OF PSALMS

This book is, in the Hebrew, called by a name the signification of which is "The book of Songs or Praises;" because the praises of God constitute the chief subjects of the book They were, however, calculated not merely to be sung; but to be accompanied, in the singing, by instruments. They derive the name they hold among us (Psalms,) from the Septuagint version; and they are cited (Luke xx. 42.) by this name.

The right of the book of Psalms to a place in the sacred canon, has never been questioned, they are frequently alluded to in the Old Testament, and are often cited by our Lord and his Apostles, in the New Testament, as the work of the Holy Spirit. They have generally been styled "the Psalms of David;" not that all were written by him; but because he was the writer of many more of them, than any other individual; and the occasions on which they were written, were remarkable incidents in his life,—his dangers, afflictions, and deliverances. Some, and indeed, many of them, are properly prophetical of the Messiah; of whom David was, in many of the circumstances of his life, a very remarkable type. Some of these sacred poems were composed during the reign of Solomon; and some during the Babylonish captivity, or subsequent to it. When these compositions were collected into a volume, is not certainly known. Fifteen of them, viz: from Ps. cxx, to Ps. cxxxiv, inclusive, are called "Songs of Degrees," or "Gradations," or Stages of progress;" and are supposed to have been such as were sung by the pious Israelites, when on their journeys, three times in the year, that they might worship at Jerusalem. There were, probably, appointed stages, or resting places on the way, from the several parts of the land: and when, at night, they halted on their journey, these psalms were their "songs in their houses of pilgrimage," or resting places; and it was in the singing of these, that they went "from strength to strength," or from one resting place or stage of their journey to another, "till every one of them, at length, appeared in Zion," or Jerusalem, "before God." (See, and compare Ps. cxix. 54. and Ps. lxxxiv. 7. where there appears to be an allusion to this practice.)

The Book of Psalms being written in Hebrew verse, it would seem almost indispensable that they should be studied according to the laws of Hebrew poetry; but so admirably faithful is our common English version, that the mere English reader will find little difficulty in doing this: it is desirable, of course, for him to acquaint himself with these laws, which he may find in his own language. (Horn Crit. Study of Scripture, abridged, p. 144—148.) Attention to the following hints, also, will enable him to enter into their force and meaning: Let him

1. Endeavor for himself to analyze each Psalm. It is true that the argument is generally given, or at least, intimated, in the prefixed title: but these titles are not always genuine, and it will be decidedly preferable to deduce the argument for ourselves, from a diligent perusal of the Psalm itself.

2. With this view, examine the Historical origin of the Psalm, and the circumstances which led the sacred Poet to compose it. Much advantage may be derived from studying the Psalms chronologically, and comparing them with the historical books of the Old Testament; particularly those which treat of the Israelites or Jews, from the origin of their monarchy, to their return from captivity.

3. Attend to the structure of the Psalms. These compositions, being originally designed for the national worship of the Jews, are adapted to choral singing;—attention to this circumstance will enable us better to enter into their spirit and meaning.

The following Table may be useful to the reader, in enabling him to read the Psalms in connexion with the history of the events which gave occasion to their composition. The passages are not referred to; but merely the events; and a student of the sacred volume can be at no loss for the reference.

THE BOOK OF PROVERBS.

This book has usually been styled The Proverbs of Solomon, as the preceding one has been designated The Psalms of David; not because every portion of it, was the production of the person whose name it bears; but because a majority of the compositions are from his pen. There are features discoverable in the book of Proverbs, which render it unlikely that all the maxims of the book were inserted by himself. These features are variations of style in different portions of the book;—the repetition in a subsequent part, of what had been inserted in a preceding one; and some others. It is certain that Solomon is nowhere said to have made a collection of his aphorisms, and as in chapter twenty-fifth, the men of Hezekiah are spoken of as having been engaged in this work, it is at least probable, that this book is a collection by another hand, of those wise and pithy sayings, which, from time to time, fell from the lips of the wise man. This, however, if proved, would not at all invalidate the authority or inspiration of this portion of the sacred volume: for, as Ezra was infallibly guided by the Spirit of God in his revision of the canon, so may these "men," or prophets, "of Hezekiah" have been in the selection and preservation of Solomon's aphorisms: and the strongest probability exists, that they were so guided: for Ezra, who certainly was so, recognised this book among the sacred writings of the Jews, after the captivity, and they have, ever since, regarded it as of divine authority. This book is frequently cited by the apostles; its scope is to instruct men in the deepest mysteries of true wisdom and understanding; the height and perfection of which is, the true knowledge of the divine will, and the sincere fear of the Lord, impelling to universal obedience. (Prov. i. 2—7.—ix. 10.) It may be divided into five parts, viz.

I. The Exordium or introduction, in which the Teacher gives his pupil a series of admonitions, directions, cautions, and excitements to the study of wisdom. (chs. i. to 9.)

II. Proverbs, strictly so called: i. e. unconnected sentences, expressed with much neatness and simplicity. These it has been remarked, though not, like some other parts of the holy volume, connected and dependant on each other as the links of a gold chain; are, yet, all intrinsically valuable, like a casket of gold rings. (chs. x. to xxii. 16.)

III. Connected admonitions to the study of wisdom; in which the sententious style is dropped, and the pupil addressed by his instructer as present. (ch. xxii. 17. to ch. xxiv. inclusive.)

IV. Selections;—probably from some larger collection of the sayings of Solomon. These were made "by the men of Hezekiah," or prophets whom he employed to restore the service and writings of the Jewish Church. (See 2 Chron. xxxi. 20. 21.) This part like the second, consists of detached sentences, and extends from ch. xxv. to ch. xxix. inclusive.

V. The instructions of Agur the son of Jakeh, to his pupils Ithiel and Ucal, and the precepts of the mother of Lemuel to her son. We have no certain knowledge respecting either of these persons:—it has been supposed that the mother of Lemuel was a Jewish woman married to some neighboring prince; but it is only conjecture. THE BOOK OF ECCLESIASTES.

The title of this book in our Bibles is derived from the Septuagint version, and signifies a preacher, or one who addresses a public congregation. The Hebrew book is named, as many of them are, from the initial words; and the name, in that language, signifies, "The words of the Preacher." This book does not bear the name of Solomon; yet it is evident from several passages in it, that he was its author. (compare ch. i. 12. 16.—ii. 4—9. with ch. xii. 9. 10.)

The scope of the book is explicitly announced ch. i. 2. and ch. xii. 13. viz. to demonstrate the vanity of all earthly objects; and to draw off men from the pursuit of them, as an apparent good, to the fear of God, and communion with him, as to the highest, and only permanent and satisfying good in this life; and to show that men must seek for happiness beyond the grave. It is generally supposed to have been written by Solomon in his old age, after his recovery from that Idolatry which stained his glory: when having seen and observed much, as well as enjoyed every thing which his heart craved, and experienced its emptiness, recorded this his dying testimony to the vanity of every thing except piety towards God.

It consists of two parts; viz.

I. An exhibition, somewhat in detail, of the vanity of all earthly conditions, occupations and pleasures. (chs. i. to vi. 9.)

II. A Similar Exhibition of the nature, excellence and advantages of Wisdom or Religion. (ch. vi. 10. to ch. xii.)

THE SONG OF SOLOMON.

Perhaps there is no portion of the sacred volume respecting which more difficulty has been felt, or a greater variety of opinions expressed, than the Song of Solomon: and though the writings of modern critics have done much towards the elucidation of its character, design, and import, yet the learned are by no means agreed on these points. Some, and indeed the majority, consider it an inspired book; whilst others affirm it to be a mere human composition. The former regard it as a sacred allegory; the latter, as a mere amatory effusion.

The voice of all antiquity ascribes it to Solomon; as, indeed, does the very first verse of the poem itself; but some critics, and particularly Dr. Kennicott, was of opinion that it is not so ancient as Solomon's time, by many ages; his reasonings are not, however, considered conclusive; nor, indeed, very powerful; and Solomon may be safely considered as the author.

The character of the book itself, has been the principal source whence objections have been derived against its Inspiration; and we esteem it right to present our readers with such evidence, on this subject, as is within our reach. If Ezra settled the Canon of Old Testament Scripture, down to the period of the return from the Babylonish Captivity, (as there is good reason to believe was the case) we cannot indulge any reasonable doubt of the canonical authority of this book; for he wrote, and most probably acted on this occasion, by divine inspiration. Such a man would not have placed any book which was not sacred, in the same volume with the Laws and the Prophets. Moreover, a Greek translation of it is extant, which, it has never been questioned, is the work of the translators of the Septuagint version, and it still forms a part of that version. Josephus, also, enumerates it (in his answer to Apion) as belonging to the sacred writings of his nation: and it has descended, through all the ages of the Christian Church; with scarcely a single doubt of its divine original.

Yet that original has been questioned, and this with some, at least, specious objections; principally, however, such as arise from the character of the book; this, it is said, presents internal evidence that it is not inspired. But it should be remembered, that the subject is one in which allusions may naturally be expected, which are by no means in accordance with the general scope of Scripture. It is a nuptial poem; such is evidently its character, on what occasion soever it was written; and whether it be, or be not, an allegory. Bearing this character of the poem in mind, and also remembering how much more liberty of expression oriental poetry, especially of that remote age, allows, than would be admissible into our own; and, moreover, how much warmer the physical temperament of the orientals is, than our own, we shall be scarcely prepared to pronounce the expressions to be not in suit with the occasion and age of the poem, and with the general temperament of the nation in which it originated. Add to this too, that we read it in a version, and not the original language in which it was written; and what might be entirely chaste and pure in one language, if rendered into another, not by equivalent expressions, but in a mere verbal construction, might lose, at once, both its purity and elegance. This has actually been the case in the book before us. Our translators, faithful to the letter of their text, caught not here the spirit of the original; and, of course, could not transmit it to us in their version. That spirit has, to some good extent, been caught by a subsequent translator, (Dr. John Mason Good,) and his chaste and elegant version of this book is free from the objections brought against the common one. But it should be further remarked here, that if the contents of this book, even as they stand in our version, are reasons sufficient for its rejection from the holy volume, we may make the same objection to various other portions of the bible; and especially, to such as exhibit God in the relation of a husband to his people, the Jews, and them as unfaithful to this relation; or, literally, as relapsing into idolatry. See especially Ezek. xvi. and xvii. chapters; and also Jer. ii. 2.—iii. 1. &c. Isa: liv. 5. 6. and lxii. 5. These are only a small portion of the Scriptures in which similar representations are made The writers o the New Testament have adopted them; and even we, with all our fastidiousness, do not scruple to speak of the Redeemer as the "Bridegroom" of his Church, nor of the Church as the "Bride, the Lamb's wife." Until we can find more weighty and conclusive arguments than these, we must not cast this book out of our Bibles; unless we are prepared, also, to eject the Psalms, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Hosea, the Evangelists, and Epistles (of Paul, at least) and the Revelation. If we are not prepared for this, let us pause, and well survey the ground, before we take a single step in this course of repudiation.

As to the occasion on which this allegory was written; many commentators have supposed it to have been that of the marriage of Solomon with the daughter of Pharaoh. This however is improbable. That marriage was probably, one of political expediency and interest; but this was evidently one of pure and ardent affection. There are, moreover, internal evidences, which completely overthrow this supposition, and prove that instead of being of Egyptian origin, she was a native of Sharon, a canton of Palestine. (Song ii. 1.)

Learned writers are greatly divided as to whether this is to be considered as one Song or several; whether it is to be divided into as many parts as there were days devoted to a marriage festival among the Jews; or whether it should not be divided into twelve Idyls after the manner of the Arabians. Each opinion has its advocates, and between their arguments it is difficult to decide. Those arguments we shall not, in this brief sketch, be expected to exhibit. According to these several schemes, the poem has been divided by Bossuet, into seven parts, according to the days of a wedding feast, by Jahn into eight songs; and by Dr. Good, as observed above, into twelve Idyls.

With respect to the reading of this book, it may be observed, that though the Jews always admitted it into their canon, it was an exception to the manner in which the scriptures generally were inculcated on their children; none it is said, were permitted to read this poem, until they were thirty years of age. On this point the following sentence from Scott, will commend itself to the judgment and heart of every pious reader. It "should be read with great abstraction of mind, from outward things, and with much prayer: lest the carnal passions should be kindled, instead of the spiritual affections invigorated. And, as it is impossible for any one to enter profitably into the full meaning of the inspired writer, who has no spiritual experience of the subject; so an ungodly man will seldom read it with advantage, or indeed without detriment:" for he will be apt to wrest it to his own destruction.

GENERAL REMARKS ON THE PROPHETICAL BOOKS

The prophetical books are sixteen in number, (the Lamentations of Jeremiah, being usually considered as an appendix to his predictions,) and in all modern editions of the Hebrew Bible, they are divided into two classes; the Greater, and the Lesser Prophets. The former class contains Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Daniel; to these is given the appellation, "Greater Prophets" not because they or their writings are deserving of more respect, or invested with greater authority than the rest; but merely because their writings were more voluminous. The latter class or the "Minor Prophets," include Hosea, Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Micah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi. The writings of these prophets were anciently contained in one volume or roll, lest any of them should be lost, some of their writings being very short.

Much of the obscurity with which the prophetic writings are invested, may be removed by reading them in the order of time in which they were probably written. The precise time in which some of the prophets delivered their predictions, it is, perhaps, impossible to determine; yet, probably the following Table from Horne (Crit. Introd.) somewhat altered, may be sufficiently correct for the right understanding of their predictions.

We shall present our brief notices of the Prophetic books in accordance with their supposed Chronological order; and would recommend the student of these books, to read them in connexion with the histories of their times, in Kings, and Chronicles; as a course likely, amply to reward him, by the light it will shed over the prophetic page.

THE BOOK OF JONAH.

This book derives its name from the prophet who wrote it,—Jonah the son of Amittai. He is generally considered to have prophesied to the ten tribes, towards the close of Jehu's reign, or the beginning of that of Jehoahaz. Such is the opinion of Bishop Lloyd; but others place him forty years later; viz. in the reigns of Jehoash or Joash and Jeroboam II. The scope of this book is to show the long forbearance of God towards a sinful people, in the striking case of Nineveh, which on the penitence of its inhabitants was spared from threatened overthrow.

The book of the prophet Jonah consists of two parts; viz.

I. His first mission to Nineveh, and his attempt to flee to Tarshish, and its frustration; together with his delivery from the stomach of the great fish which had swallowed him. (chs. i. and ii.)

II. His second mission, and its beneficial results to the Ninevites; who repented in dust and ashes; (ch. iii.) and the prophet's discontent; who, dreading to be thought a false prophet, was grieved that God had spared the city, whose destruction he fully expected. (ch. iv.) The time of Jonah's continuance in the body of the fish, was a type of the time during which our Lord should continue in the grave. (Luke xi. 31.)

This prophecy affords a striking evidence of the fidelity of the sacred writers; inasmuch as the prophet has recorded his own faults, as simply, and unequivocally, as any writer of the sacred volume has committed to writing the faults of another person. It also affords a strong presumption, that true prophets did not always understand, fully, their own predictions. Jonah, plainly, expected the destruction of the city, and sat down to see its overthrow; but seems not to have understood, what all, in these days, admit to be a necessary principle of interpretation; viz That threatenings are only conditional; and that they are not designed to be executed if those against whom they are uttered shall repent. Had Jonah thus interpreted his own prediction, he would have seen that the sparing of the city, (since its inhabitants repented) did not at all reflect on his veracity, and integrity, as a prophet of the Most High.

THE PROPHET AMOS.

Amos is the third of the Minor Prophets, according to the arrangement of them in our Bibles. He is supposed to have been a native of Tekoa, a small town in the kingdom of Judah, about four leagues from Jerusalem: we are not, however, in possession of positive evidence as to his birth-place: but Tekoa was, evidently, his residence. (ch. i. 1. comp. vii. 10. 13.) That he prophesied at the time stated by himself in the first verse of his prophecies, is evident from internal evidence; for he describes the state of the kingdom of Israel, particularly in ch. vi. 12—14. to be exactly that which the historian has recorded. 2 Kings xiv. 23 et. seq. Amos was contemporary with Hosea, and Jonah, and, not improbably also, with Joel. The design of this book is, to certify to the twelve tribes, the destruction of the surrounding Gentile nations for their sins; and hence to lead them also, to reflection and repentance for their own sins, by an assurance, that impartial heaven would not overlook the rebellions of a specially privileged people, who continued impenitent. The book had also a further design; viz. to cheer the truly penitent with the promise of deliverance from the future captivity, and of the increased prosperity of the Messiah's Kingdom. It consists of three parts.

I. The judgments of God denounced against the neighboring nations; as, the Syrians; (ch. i. 1—5) for a fulfilment of which, see 2 Kings xvi. 9. the Philistines; (ch. i. 6—8.) a record of the accomplishment of which is found 2 Kings xviii. 8. Jer. xlvii. 1. 5. and 2 Chron. xxvi. 6. the Tyrians, (ch. i. 9. 10.) the Edomites, (ch. i. 11. 12. compared with Jer. xxv. 9. 21.—xxvii. 3. 6.) the Ammonites, (ch. i. 13—15.) and the Moabites, (ch. ii. 1—3.)

II. The divine judgments denounced against Judah and Israel. Those against Judah (ch. ii. 4. 5.) received a literal fulfilment about 200 years afterwards; as also did those against Israel in the appointed season. These last prophecies are found, ch. ii. 6. to ch. ix. 10.

III. Consolatory promises to the Church, or the really pious among them, describing the restoration of them by the Messiah. (ch. ix 11—15.) These blessings are set forth first under the type of raising up the fallen tabernacle of David; and secondly, under the promise of rich and extensive temporal blessings, all of which were types of the spiritual blessings which were to be bestowed under the reign of the Messiah.

THE BOOK OF HOSEA.

Of the family of Hosea we have no further certain information than that he was the son of Beeri; or as some Jewish commentators suppose, of Beerah, a prince of the Reubenites, who was carried away with the ten tribes in the captivity, by Tiglath-Pileser, king of Assyria. He prophecied in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and during the reign of Jeroboam II. king of Israel. He was most probably an Israelite, and dwelt in the kingdom of Samaria, as his predictions are chiefly directed against their wickedness and idolatry. But though faithful ever to severity, he yet announced mercy to the penitent. The writings of this prophet extend through fourteen chapters, and they have been divided into five discourses or parts.

I. Under the figure of the supposed infidelity of the prophet's wife, is represented the spiritual unfaithfulness of Israel to their relation to God: they are exhorted to forsake their idolatrous practices: and some promises are given of the general conversion of the twelve tribes to Christianity; and the gracious purposes of God towards the ten tribes, are intimated, by the prophet taking back his wife on her return to the path of virtue. (chs. i. ii. and iii.)

II. A reproof of the bloodshed and idolatry of the Israelites; against which the inhabitants of the land of Judah are exhorted to beware. With this discourse are interspersed promises of pardon to the penitent. (chs. iv. to vi. 3.)

III. The prophet's exhortations to repentance proving ineffectual, God complains by him of their obstinate iniquity and idolatry; (ch. vi. 4 to vii.. 10.) and denounces that Israel will be carried into captivity by Sennacherib notwithstanding their reliance on Egypt for aid. (ch. vii. 11. to ch. viii.)

IV. The captivity and dispersion of Israel are further threatened; (ch. ix. x.) they are reproved for their idolatry, yet it is declared that they shall not be utterly destroyed; but that a remnant shall return to their own land. (ch. xi.) Further denunciations are uttered on them on account of their idolatry. (ch. xii. and xiii. to ver. 8.)

V. After a terrible denunciation of divine punishment, intermixed with promises of restoration from captivity, and future mercy, (ch. xiii. 9—16.) the prophet exhorts the Israelites to repentance, and furnishes them with a beautiful and expressive form of prayer, for their adoption as their own; (ch. xiv. 1—3.) and foretells their reformation from idolatry, together with the subsequent restoration of all the tribes from their dispersed state, and their conversion to God by the Gospel. (ch. xiv. 4—9.)

This small book contains some passages of the boldest and most animated poetry, to be found in any writings, in any language. Chapter ii. 21. 22. is one of these passages. Here Israel, at length rendered penitent by repeated chastisements, and last of all by famine, is represented as seeking the supply of his natural wants, in the ordinary productions of the earth; —soliciting, as it were, "the corn, and wine, and oil," to administer to his necessities. These, in their turn, are represented as living, and conscious; and as pointing the applicant to "the earth," as their source; and soliciting, of the earth, their multiplication and increase. Earth, again, points upwards to the heavens, from whose showers and dews its fruitfulness arises; and asks the showers requisite for its productiveness. But the heavens themselves, whence descend the fructifying showers, are under the government of Jehovah himself; and can distil no rain without his permission; they therefore direct their petition to him on whom their operations depend: and, since the chastened child, Israel, is now penitent, what is the effect? "I," says the Lord, "will hear" the application of "the heavens; and they shall hear the earth; and the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil; and they shall hear Jezreel," or Israel. Here, the whole frame of nature is rendered animated, and vocal, and intelligent, and sympathetic, and intercessary for the penitent, by the magic of a sanctified and inspired imagination.

THE BOOK OF ISAIAH.

This prophecy stands first in the list of prophetical writings in our Bibles, probably because of the superior importance of the subjects of it; or, perhaps, because it is alone larger than the whole twelve of the minor prophets, united. We are not in possession of certain information as to the family connexions of the prophet Isaiah; we know, only, that he was the son of Amoz, according to his own statement; but there is a tradition that he was of the royal line, and that Amos or Amoz, his father was the son of Joash, and consequently brother of Uzziah, king of Judah. The time of his discharge of the prophetic office is by himself declared in the first verse of his prophecy, to have been the reigns of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah. The field of his labors, appears to have been Judea, and not the land of Israel or the ten Tribes; and their period at least forty-eight, and according to some persons as great as sixty years.

Isaiah has been sometimes called the "Evangelical prophet;" because of the character of many of his predictions, which so clearly predict gospel times, that it would almost appear as if his writings were rather narratives, than prophecies. His name, too, is singularly appropriate to a prophet whose messages are of so cheering and gracious a character. Its signification is, "Salvation of Jehovah." Isaiah was contemporary with the prophets Amos, Hosea, Joel, and Micah; but of the time and manner of his death we know nothing with certainty; though it appears probable that he lived at least till the fifteenth or sixteenth year of the reign of Hezekiah.

The scope or design of this writer appears to have been threefold;

1. To detect, reprove, and condemn the sins of the Jewish people in particular; but by no means theirs exclusively; accordingly, the iniquities of the ten tribes, and the abominations of various Gentile nations are, in some places, themes of his discourse; and he denounces the severest judgments against persons of all classes and characters, whether Gentiles or Jews.

2. To invite persons of every rank, and condition, and nation, to repentance and reformation, by the exhibition of promises of divine forgiveness. To this remark, however, there is one exception, viz. Babylon; with the denunciations against which, no such invitations or promises are mingled.

Digitized by Google

3. To console the truly pious with promises of the Messiah's advent. These prophetic promises are so specific, minute, circumstantial, numerous, and various;—embracing his character, miracles, peculiar qualities and virtues, rejection, sufferings, death, burial, resurrection, and final glory; and the establishment, increase, and perfection of his kingdom:—that its inspiration stands on a rock absolutely immoveable. (See General Introduction on the Inspiration of the Scripture:—Argt. from Prophecy. pp. 23–26.)

This book has been divided into six parts, as follows.

I. A general description of the state and condition of the Jews, in the several periods of their history; the promulgation and success of the gospel, and the coming of the Messiah to Judgment. (chs. i. to iv.) These discourses were delivered during the reign of Uzziah.

II. The predictions delivered during the reigns of Jotham and Ahaz. (chs. vi. to xii.) These appear to comprise four discourses: the first is embraced in chapter vi.—the second, in chapters vii. viii. ix. as far as, and including verse 6. —the third, in chapters ix, from verse 7 to the end; and x, to the end of the 4th verse: and the fourth, from chapter x, verse 5, to the end of the twelfth chapter.

III. The predictions against the Babylonians, Assyrians, Philistines, Egyptians, Tyrians, &c. These extend from chap. xiii. to chap. xxiv. and we cannot afford the space necessary for a synopsis of them.)

IV. A prophecy of the great calamities which should befall the people of God, his merciful preservation of a remnant, and their restoration to their country, and conversion to the Gospel; together with the destruction of Antichrist. (chs. xxiv. to xxxv.)

V. The historical part of this prophetic book. (chs. xxxvi. to xxxix.)

VI. A series of prophecies, delivered, probably towards the close of the reign of Hezekiah. (chs. xl. to lxvi.)

This portion of Isaiah's prediction, constitutes the most elegant part, not merely of his writings, but, of the whole Old Testament. The chief subject is the restoration of the church; and this subject is prosecuted with admirable regularity. These prophecies are introduced with a promise of the restoration of the kingdom, and of the return from the captivity in Babylon: while the redemption from this captivity, is employed as an emblem of one infinitely higher and more important. The prophet beautifully blends the two together; and scarcely ever intimates any thing relative to the former, without affording some intimations of the latter; and, sometimes, appears so fully possessed with the contemplation of the redemption, and final glory of the church, that he can scarcely advert to the restoration of the nation of Israel to its own land, which was the immediate subject of his prophetic commission, and the shadow of the other, more glorious deliverance.

THE BOOK OF JOEL.

Concerning the family, condition and occupation of this Prophet, we are in possession of no certain information; for the conjectures and fancies of writers on the subject, afford us nothing which we can call knowledge, nor even probability. From himself we know that he was the son of Pethuel, and this is all we know.

As to the date of the prophecy, there is good reason to believe from internal evidence, that it was written during the reign of Uzziah; and consequently, that Joel was contemporary with Amos and Hosea; if indeed he did not prophesy at an earlier period than the time of Amos. His book consists of three chapters, and has been considered to comprise three parts or discourses.

I. An Exhortation, both to the priests and people, to repent of their sins:—the occasion of this exhortation was the famine under which they labored, in consequence of the palmer worm and other destructive insects having eaten up their means of subsistence. This is followed by a denunciation of still greater calamities, if they continued obdurate. (chs. i. and ii. 1—11.)

II. An Exhortation to keep a public and solemn fast; with a promise that God would remove their calamities, on their sincere repentance; and also, that he would pour out upon them generally, his Holy Spirit; (ch. ii. 12 ad fin.) a promise which was fulfilled on the day of Pentecost. See Acts ii. 17—21.

III. A prophecy of the general conversion and restoration of the Jews, and the destruction of their enemies; together with a prediction of the glorious state of the Church which is to follow. (ch. iii.)

The style of Joel is highly poetical: it is elegant, perspicuous and copious; and at the same time nervous, animated, and sublime. The full force of his poetry appears in his description of the plague of the Locusts, in the second chapter; and that also, of the deep repentance of the nation, and of the happy state of the Church in the last days of the Gospel, are happily conceived, and beautifully and forcibly expressed.

THE BOOK OF MICAH.

The writer of this book was a native of Morasthi, a small town in the southern part of the territory of Judah; and he prophesied during the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah. He was, consequently contemporary with Isaiah, Joel, Hosea, and Amos.

The object of the Lord in raising up Micah, appears to have been to confirm by him, the predictions of Isaiah, against Jews and Israelites, on account of their numerous, aggravated, and continued rebellions against God; rebellions which were then just bringing on Israel the Assyrian captivity; and which, not long after, brought that of Babylon, on Judah. With his denunciations, however, he mingles many promises of forgiveness, in case they repent, and many invitations so to do.

The prophecies of Micah are contained in seven chapters, and are divided into three parts: viz. after the Introduction, ch. i. ver. 1.

I. The prophecies delivered in the reign of Jotham, king of Judah, (with whom Pekah, king of Israel was contemporary,) in which the divine judgments are denounced against both Israel and Judah, for their sins. (ch. i. 2—16.)

II. Predictions delivered in the reigns of Ahaz, king of Judah, (with whom his son Hezekiah was associated in the government, towards the close of his life,) and Pekah, king of Israel, who was also contemporary with him. (chs. ii. to iv. 8.)

III. The prophecies delivered during the reign of Hezekiah, king of Judah; the first six years of whose reign were contemporary with the greater part of the reign of Hosea, king of Israel,—he in whose reign Israel was carried captive into Assyria. (chs. iv. ad fin. v. to vii.)

The style of Micah is, generally, forcible, pointed, and concise; not unfrequently approaching somewhat to the obscurity of Hosea: in many parts it is animated and sublime.

THE BOOK OF NAHUM.

This prophet, from his designation of himself, ver. 1. is supposed to have been a native of Elkosh, or Elkosha, a village in the territory of Simeon. The time when he lived is matter of great uncertainty: but it is most probable he lived between the times of Israel's and Judah's captivities.

The reformation in Nineveh, consequent upon Jonah's preaching, being but of short continuance, and its inhabitants relapsing into evil, of which they had appeared to repent, God commissioned Nahum to denounce the utter, and irretrievable ruin of that guilty place, and of the Assyrian Empire, by the Chaldeans.

His prophecy is one entire poem, which, opening with a sublime description of the justice and power of God, tempered with long suffering, (ch. i. 1—8.) foretells the destruction of Sennacherib's forces, and the subversion of the Assyrian empire, together with the deliverance of Hezekiah, and the death of Sennacherib. (ch. i. 9—15.) The destruction of Nineveh is then predicted, and is described with surprising minuteness. (chs. 2 and 3.) In boldness, ardor, and sublimity, Nahum is superior to all the minor prophets. His introduction to his poem, is majestic beyond what can be expressed. The preparation for the destruction of Nineveh, and the description of its downfall and desolation, are expressed in vivid colors; and by images the most pathetic and sublime.

THE BOOK OF ZEPHANIAH.

Although this prophet gives us his genealogy through five generations, we are not in possession of any certain information as to his family, or the tribe of which it formed a part. He lived and prophesied in the reign of Josiah; and prior to that celebrated reformation, which this pious monarch was the means of effecting in the kingdom of Judah.

His prophecy consists of three chapters, and has been divided into four parts, as follows; viz.

I. A denunciation against Judah for their idolatry. (ch. i.)

II. A declaration that nothing but repentance can avert the impending storm of ruin. (ch. ii. 1—3.)

III. Prophecies against the Philistines, Moabites, and Ammonites, Ethiopia, and Nineveh, (ch. ii. 4—15.)

IV. The captivity of the Jews by the king of Babylon, foretold; together with their future restoration, and the ultimate prosperity of the Church. (ch. iii.)

Zephaniah was the last of the prophets, who lived and wrote prior to the captivity; and he was commissioned to perform the duties of the prophetic office, because the voices of his predecessors had failed to recall Israel to obedience; and because God was still unwilling to give them up to the consequences of their own sins. But divine forbearance has a limit; and that limit, rebellious Judah overstepped. "The Lord God of their fathers sent to them by his messengers, rising up betimes and sending; because he had compassion on his people, and on his dwelling-place. But they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his words, and misused his prophets, until the wrath of the Lord arose against his people, and there was no remedy." 2 Chron. xxxvi. 15. 16.

THE BOOK OF JEREMIAH.

The prophet Jeremiah was, as he tells us, (ch. i. 1.) one of the priests who dwelt at Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin; a city appropriated out of that tribe to the use of the priests, the sons of Aaron, (Josh. xxi. 18.) and situated, as Jerome informs us, about three Roman miles north of Jerusalem. He appears to have been called to the prophet office at a very early age;—so early, as that he endeavored to excuse himself from undertaking the duties of the office, as being yet a child. In the discharge of the office of a prophet, he experienced much of ill treatment from his countrymen; who mocked him, (by apparently respectful applications to know what was the will of the Lord, while in reality, they had predetermined the course of conduct they would pursue,) imprisoned him, and endeavored to compass his death even in Judea. He prophesied during the space of at least forty-two years; and followed the remnant of the Jews, on their retiring into Egypt, and there it is said, that his fidelity brought upon him the vengeance of his nation, and procured him the honor of a martyr's crown. His predictions are not arranged in the chronological order in which they were delivered; though we are not now able to state by what means they became transposed. Dr. Blayney, who favored the world with a translation of Jeremiah's prophecy, and also a commentary on it, has endeavored with great judgment, to restore the proper order, by transposing the chapters wherever it appeared to be necessary. And as the right understanding of this book depends, in great measure, upon its correct and orderly arrangement; and as we consider Dr. Blayney, very probably at least, to have made the correct arrangement of it, we shall make that arrangement the basis of our synopsis of them. The predictions of Jeremiah then, according to this writer, are to be placed in the following order:

I. The prophecies delivered in the reign of Josiah; containing chapters i. to xii. inclusive.

II. The prophecies delivered in the days of Jehoiakim; comprising chapters xiii. to xx. xxii. xxiii. xxxv. xxxvi. xlv. to xlviii. and xlix to verse 33.

III. The prophecies delivered in the reign of Zedekiah; including chapters xxi. xxiv. xxvii. to xxxiv. xxxvii. to xxxix. xlix. from ver. 34—39, and chs. l. and li.

IV. The prophecies delivered under the government of Gedaliah, from the taking of Jerusalem, to the retreat of the people into Egypt, and the prophecies of Jeremiah, delivered to the people in that country: comprehending chapters xl. to xliv. inclusive.

The writings of Jeremiah do not so abound, as those of Isaiah do, with prophecies relative to the Messiah; yet do they contain some of remarkable distinctness; and such as are strikingly evangelical in their character: particularly ch. xxiii. 5. 6. where He is called "the Lord our Righteousness." Again, in ch. xxxi. 31—36. and in xxxiii. 8. we have clear exhibitions of the efficacy of the Atonement; the spiritual character of the New Covenant, and the inward efficacy of the Gospel. In ch. xxxi. 22. also, we have a remarkable prediction of the miraculous production of the Saviour's body. The style of this prophet, though in some places elegant and sublime, and in many places highly tender and beautiful, will, yet, not bear comparison with that of Isaiah: but it is difficult, if not impossible, to substantiate the charge made by some writers against it, viz. that it is characterized by rusticity of expression.

The last chapter of Jeremiah's prophecy, appears to have been added after his time, and subsequently to the return from the captivity, of which it gives a brief account, and forms a proper introduction to the Lamentations of Jeremiah.

THE LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIAH.

The argument and style of this book, to say nothing of uninterrupted tradition, prove that Jeremiah was its author, for it corresponds exactly in these particulars, with those of his prophecies. This book contains five chapters, forming as many elegies or mournful songs; in the first four of which, the prophet bewails the various calamities of his country; and the first is an epilogue to the preceding four. Dr. Blayney considers it as a memorial, representing, in the name of the whole Jewish body of exiles, the calamities under which they groaned; and humbly supplicating God to commiserate their wretchedness and restore them to his favor, and to their ancient prosperity.

THE BOOK OF HABAKKUK.

Of the tribe and birthplace of this prophet we have no certain information. He has, by some commentators, been supposed to have prophesied in Judea, in the days of Manasseh; but Usher, with greater probability, supposes him to have written in the time of Jehoiakim; and that, consequently, he was contemporary with Jeremiah. His writings are comprised in three chapters, the subject of which is the same with that of Jeremiah; viz: the captivity of Judah, and the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar. His prophecy consists of two parts; viz:

I. A sort of Dialogue or Conference between the prophet and the Lord, in which the captivity is announced as approaching, by the latter, in reply to the prophet's complaint of the growth of iniquity among the Jewish nation. This annunciation is, however, accompanied by a promise of deliverance, by Cyrus, and of the destruction of the Babylonian power. In this promise, there is a remote reference, also, to the more important deliverance to be effected by the Messiah. (chs. i. and ii.)

II. The prayer or psalm of Habakkuk, in which he implores the Lord to hasten the deliverance of his people. (ch. iii.) Here he takes occasion to recount the wonderful works of the Almighty on behalf of his people; from a review of which, he derives confidence to himself; and labors to excite it in others.

THE BOOK OF DANIEL.

Daniel is the fourth of what are commonly called, the greater prophets. If he were not of royal blood, (which the Jews affirm,) he was of noble descent, of distinguished personal beauty and intellectual power, and of a remarkably lovely natural disposition. He was removed to Babylon at a very early age, in the fourth year of Jehoiachin, king of Judah, in the 606th year before the Christian era, and seven before the removal of Ezekiel into the land of captivity.

Having been instructed in the language and literature of the Chaldeans, he afterwards held a distinguished office under the government. An honorable testimony is borne to his wisdom and piety by the prophet Ezekiel; (Ezek. xiv. 19. 20.) and the former, even at that time (and Ezekiel was his contemporary,) had become, it would appear proverbial. Daniel was in high esteem with the kings of Babylon, and especially with Nebuchadnezzar; and after the conquest of the royal city by the Persian arms, he appears to have enjoyed the same distinction in the courts of Darius and Cyrus. He lived throughout the captivity; but he does not appear to have returned to his own country, when the return of the Jews was permitted by the decree of Cyrus: and the time of his death is not known.

Although the name of Daniel is not prefixed to this book, there is abundant evidence that he was the author of it:—he often speaks of himself in the first person, and records addresses made to him by name

His writings may be comprised in two parts, the historical and the prophetical.

I. The Historical portion of his writings; containing a record of the circumstances which led to his elevation, and the various schemes of his enemies to effect his destruction. (chs. i. to vi.)

II. The prophetical portion of his writings; comprising predictions and visions of things future, till the coming of the Messiah, and the ultimate conversion of the Jews and Gentiles to the faith of the gospel. (chs. vii. to xii.)

This is a most amazing series of prophecy, extending through many successive ages, from the first establishment of the Persian empire, upwards of 530 years before Christ, to the general resurrection, and consummation of all things. His predictions relative to the four great Monarchies, have been most remarkably and circumstantially fulfilled; and so also have those relative to the time of the Saviour's appearance, the duration of his ministry, and the beneficial consequences of his death. We might safely take our stand on the writings of Daniel, and prove the Inspiration of the Scriptures, against the world. He has declared the things which (now) have been; and declared them hundreds of years before they came to pass; and this is a pledge to us, of the truth of the declarations which he has made, relative to things which, yet, are to be hereafter.

THE BOOK OF OBADIAH.

Considerable difference of opinion has existed among commentators as to the author of this book. Some have supposed him to have been that Obadiah, who, in the days of Ahab, fed a hundred prophets with bread and water. Others have thought he was that individual of this name, mentioned 2 Chron. xxxiv. 12. who was appointed by Josiah, to be overseer of the works of the temple. The time in which he lived, however, and the family to which he belonged, are matters not, now, to be satisfactorily determined. Archbishop Newcome, has advanced the most probable opinion as to the period of this prophet's labors; viz: that he prophesied between the taking of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, and the destruction of the Idumeans, by the same monarch. Consequently he was contemporary, partly at least, with Jeremiah. It is highly probable that he had read the writings of the pensive prophet, and a large portion of his own prophecy appears like little else than an echo of one of Jeremiah's predictions on the same subject. Compare Obad. 1.—9. with Jer. xlix. 14. 15. 16. 7. 9. 10.

The prophecy of Obadiah comprises only one chapter, and has been thus divided.

I. A Threatening against Edom of utter overthrow, for their pride and carnal security; and for their cruelty in insulting the Jews, because of the destruction of their city. (verse 1—16.)

II. A Consolation addressed to the Jews; in which the prophet foretells their restoration; (ver. 17.) their victory over their enemies, and their consequent flourishing condition. (18–21.)

This prophecy is considered, by some writers, to have been accomplished by the victories of the Maccabees;—by others, by the return of the Jews from Babylon; and by yet others, as not yet fully accomplished. For, though both the above events partially fulfilled the predictions of this prophet, the last verse of his writings will never be fulfilled, till the kingdoms of this world become the kingdom of the Lord, and of his Christ: then and only then, will "the Kingdom be the Lord's."

THE BOOK OF EZEKIEL.

The writer of this book has always been admitted to be the prophet whose name it bears: and there has never existed any doubt among Christian critics and commentators, as to its canonical authority. But considerable hesitancy was felt by the great Sanhedrim of the Jews about admitting these writings into the canon, because it appeared to them that some parts of this writer's language were at variance with the declarations of Moses. But a further and more close examination of the writings both of Moses and Ezekiel, convinced them that there is no inconsistency between them; and therefore, it was concluded to admit Ezekiel's writings among the canonical Scriptures.

Ezekiel was the son of Buzi, as he himself informs us, and was of the race of the priests. He was one of those captives carried by Nebuchadnezzar to Babylon, with Jehoiachin, king of Judah. It appears not from his writings that he was the recipient of the spirit of prophecy, till he had been removed to the land of captivity; though, frequently afterwards, he was conveyed away in spirit to Jerusalem; and Judea was the scene of his prophetic visions. His place of abode, in Chaldea, appears to have been somewhere on the banks of the river Chebar; which emptied itself into the Euphrates, about two hundred miles to the north of Babylon. The prophetic career of Ezekiel commenced when he was thirty years of age,—about the same period, therefore, when, according to the law, he was permitted to enter on the discharge of the duties of the priesthood. (Num. iv. 3.) Some writers, however, suppose, that the time at which he entered on his prophetic office, was the thirtieth year from the renewal of the covenant with God, by the people, in the reign of Josiah: and this answers to the fifth year of Ezekiel's and Jehoiachin's captivity. (Ezek. i. 1.—xl. 1.) He continued to prophesy during twenty or twenty-one years. In the detail he has given us of his predictions, he has interwoven the events of his life subsequent to his call to the prophetic office; but we are entirely ignorant of the time, place, manner, and circumstances of his death.

His writings form in our Bibles, forty-eight chapters; and so exact has he been in dating his several predictions that there is no difficulty in arranging them in chronological order. An extended outline of the subjects of these predictions, may be found in Horne's Introduction to the Critical Study of the Scriptures, vol. 4. pp. 196—205. We must here content ourselves with presenting the following principal division of these writings.

I Ezekiel's call to the Prophetic Office; (ch i. ver. 1. to the first part of ver. 28.) his commission, instructions, and encouragements for executing it. (ch. 1. 28 last clause, to ch. iii. ver. 21.)

II. Denunciations against the Jewish people, for their enormous sins, repeated provocations, and abuse of the divine forbearance exercised towards them. (ch. iii. 22. to ch. xxiv.)

III. Predictions uttered against various surrounding nations; the Ammonites, Moabites, Edomites, Philistines, Tyrians, and Egyptians, —enemies of the Jews. (ch. xxv. to ch. xxxii.)

IV. Exhortations and consolatory assurances and promises addressed to the Jews. The subjects of these are, first, the deliverance from captivity by Cyrus; but chiefly, the final restoration and conversion of the Jews under the kingdom of the Messiah. (ch. xxxiii. to xlviii.)

THE BOOK OF HAGGAI.

Of the tribe or birthplace of Haggai, nothing is known with certainty. His writings are arranged the tenth in order, in our Bibles, among the minor prophets; and he is the first of those three prophets, who addressed the Jews in the name, of the Lord, after their return from the captivity in Babylon. The occasion of the delivery of this prophecy appears to have been as follows. In consequence of the proclamation of Cyrus, (Exra i. 1.) many of the Jews returned to the land of Judea, and commenced rebuilding the temple. In this pious work they were interrupted by the governors of neighboring provinces, who contrived so to prejudice the Persian monarch, that for fourteen years the work was intermitted. But in the second year of Darius, God, having disposed his heart to favor the Jews, influenced him to confirm the decree of Cyrus by one of his own. To encourage the Jews in the prosecution of the work, Haggai was raised up; and in consequence of his exhortations the work was completed in a few years.

The book of the prophet Haggai comprises three distinct discourses or prophecies.

I. A Severe Reproof of the people, and particularly of those who ruled them, for their unbelieving persuasion that the appointed time was not yet come to build the Lord's house, while yet they were themselves residing in comfortable, not to say splendid habitations. To their disregard of God's holy habitation, the prophet attributes their distress from drought, and consequent scarcity. (ch. i. 11.) He then relates the obedience of the people and their governors, to his message. (ver. 12—15.)

II. The Consolation addressed by the prophet to the aged men, who when young, had beheld the splendor of the first temple, and wept to perceive how far behind it, the second was in magnificence. He assures them that its glory should, in reality, far exceed all that the temple of Solomon had ever been able to boast: a prediction fulfilled by the second temple having been honored with the presence of Christ, "in whom dwells all the fulness of the Godhead bodily." The prophet then predicts a fruitful harvest as a reward for resuming the building of the temple. (ch. ii. 1—19.)

III. The prophet foretells the setting up of the kingdom of the Messiah, under the name of Zerubbabel. (ch. ii. 20—23.)

The style of this prophet is generally plain, and prosaic; but when he reproves he is energetic and vehement;—he is occasionally somewhat sublime and pathetic.

THE BOOK OF ZECHARIAH.

Zechariah was one of the captives who returned from Babylon in consequence of the decree of Cyrus; (Ezra i. 1. et seq.) but of what tribe or family he was, we are not able to say, though he has given us the names of both his father and grandfather. He commenced the prophetic work in the second year of Darius, whence it is evident that he was contemporary with Haggai; and doubtless contributed much to strengthen his hands in urging the people to resume the building of the temple.

The prophecy of Zechariah consists of two parts; viz:

I. That which has relation to the events which were then taking place, viz: the restoration of the temple, &c. With this part of the prophecy are interspersed predictions relative to the coming of the Messiah. These prophecies were delivered in the second year of Darius, the king of Persia:—they extend through six chapters. (ch. i. to vi.)

II. That which has relation to more remote events; particularly the advent of Jesus Christ, and the war of the Romans against the Jews. (chs. vii. to xiv.) These prophecies were delivered in the fourth year of the reign of Darius.

Some writers have doubted the genuineness of some parts of this book, particularly the 9th, and two following chapters. Mede, Hammond, and others, have ascribed these chapters to Jeremiah, partly, because in their opinion, they form one prophetic discourse; and partly because in Matt. xxvii. 9. 10. where this prophet's words are quoted, the Evangelist declares himself to quote from the book of Jeremiah. In reply to this it has been imagined, that the name of Jeremiah crept into the text of Matthew, in that passage, by the mistake of some early transcriber, instead of that of Zechariah. But there is another conjecture on this subject, that may perhaps merit some attention: it was first advanced by Dr. Lightfoot, and is substantially the following. Formerly, all the prophets were included in one roll, or volume; and Jeremiah's name stood first, or his writings were placed first in this roll. Hence it was the opinion of Lightfoot, that the volume might be called laxly, "the book of Jeremy the prophet;" though it contained, also, the writings of the other prophets. This has been objected to, by Doddridge, as unnatural; but why should this be more unnatural than that, in a similar case, a volume or roll, should be designated "The Psalms," which contained, beside the Psalms, strictly so called, the books of Proverbs and Ecclesiastes, and the Song of Solomon? and this last is beyond all question.

THE BOOK OF MALACHI.

This prophet was the latest of those whom the Lord commissioned to make known his will under the Mosaic dispensation. We know very little respecting him; so little indeed, that it has been questioned whether his name be that of an individual, or whether it be not a generic name, derived from the office of a prophet, which is, to be the messenger or angel of the Lord, to those to whom he is sent: for the name Malachi signifies my "messenger or angel." The prophecies of this book were delivered while Nehemiah was governor of Judea, and particularly after his second return from the Persian court. His cöoperation in the great work of reformation with the pious governor, contributed, doubtless, in a great degree, to the accomplishment of the objects which Nehemiah had in view.

The occasion of the writing of this book appears to have been this: After the rebuilding of the temple, and the death of Zerubbabel and Joshua, the Jews relapsed into irreligion, through the negligence of the priests. From this state of relapse they were recovered through the instrumentality of Ezra, and Nehemiah, at his first visit to Jerusalem: but they again relapsed after the death of Ezra, and during Nehemiah's absence in Persia. Malachi was therefore commissioned to reprove the priests and people, (after the second return of Nehemiah, especially,) for their sinful practices; and to invite them to repent and reform. These invitations are enforced by promises of the great blessings which the coming of the Messiah should confer on them.

The writings of Malachi consist of four chapters; and they contain two distinct prophetic discourses.

I. The Prophet reproves the Jews for their irreverence of God their great Benefactor, whom he declares them to treat with a disrespect, which a parent, a master, or a magistrate, would not endure. He also threatens in the name of God, the punishment of their sins, by the visitations of his vengeance. (chs. i. and ii.)

II. He foretells the coming of Christ, and that of his forerunner, John the Baptist, to purify the priesthood, and to smite the land with a curse unless they repented. (chs. iii. and iv.)

"The great and terrible day of the Lord," (ch. iv. 5.) denotes the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, A. D. 70; though the expression may be also applied to the general conflagration, and final judgment, according to the usual mode of speaking among the prophets

MACKNIGHT'S ESSAY

CONCERNING THE RIGHT INTERPRETATION OF THE WRITINGS IN WHICH THE REVELATIONS OF GOD ARE CONTAINED.

THE revelations of God being designed to give mankind the knowledge of his counsels respecting their salvation, the right understanding of these revelations, must appear to every religious person a matter of great importance. This Essay therefore, having for its object to explain the phraseology of the writings in which the revelations of God are recorded, it will meet with attention from the reader, in proportion to the value which he puts on religious knowledge.

SECTION I.

Of the original Language of Mankind, and of the Method in which Language was at first formed.

The books which contain the revelations of God, being more ancient than any books now extant, are written in the language which mankind used in the first ages, or in a language nearly allied to it. Wherefore, the style of these writings being very different from that of modern compositions, to interpret them as modern compositions are interpreted, is without doubt to misinterpret them. Accordingly, persons ignorant of the character of the primitive languages, have, by that method of interpretation, been led to fancy that the Scriptures contain sentiments unworthy of God, whereby they have not only exposed these venerable writings to the scorn of infidels, but have formed to themselves false notions in religion, which have had a pernicious influence on their morals.

For avoiding these evils, the nature and character of the language first spoken by mankind must be well understood: and for that purpose the best method seems to be, to consider in what manner language was originally formed.

The first ideas which come into the human mind, being those which enter by the senses, it is reasonable to believe that names for expressing sensible objects would be invented before any others; and after them, terms for expressing those operations of the senses, by which the ideas of sensible objects are acquired.—And because the operation of the senses have some resemblance to the operations of intellect, to express the operations of intellect, mankind would naturally have recourse to the words by which they expressed the operation of the senses. Thus, many words of the primitive language of mankind must have had a two-fold signification. According to the one signification, they denoted ideas of sense, and according to the other they denoted ideas of intellect. So that although these words were the same in respect of their sound, they were really different words in respect of their signification: And to mark that difference, after the nature of language came to be accurately investigated, the words which denoted the ideas of sense, when used to express the ideas of intellect, were called by critics metaphors, from a Greek word which signifies to transfer; because these words so used, were carried away from their original meaning to a different one, which, however had some resemblance to it.

Metaphorical meanings being affixed to words in the ancient languages to remedy the poverty of these languages, it is plain that the more ancient any language is, it will consist of the fewer words, consequently the more numerous and bold its metaphors will be. Accordingly, we find that the primitive languages, and even the languages of savage tribes, which may be ranked with the primitive languages, are all of them highly figurative. On this subject it is proper to observe, that even after a language has become sufficiently copious, if the people who use it possess a vigorous and warm imagination, and are favorably situated for enjoying sensual gratifications, as is the case with most of the eastern nations, being by these circumstances peculiarly disposed to relish the sensible pictures exhibited in metaphorical and other figurative expressions, such a people, instead of retrenching, will rather multiply these expressions. Hence the language of that people will be more figurative than the languages of nations whose imagination is languid, and whose situation does not permit them to be occupied in sensual gratifications. This is the reason that the language of the Hebrews, and of the other eastern nations, by the multitude, the variety, the boldness and even the extravagance of its metaphorical expressions, is distinguished from the more temperate speech of the nations in the western parts of the world, whose imagination is not so warm, and whose climate and soil are not so favorable to luxury as theirs.

Of the bold metaphors used by the ancient Hebrews, the following examples are all taken from their sacred books.—Gen. iv. 10. "The voice of thy brother's blood, crieth to me from the ground."—Gen. xix. 26. "His wife looked back from behind him, and she became a pillar of salt."—Gen. xlix. 11. "He washed—his clothes in the blood of grapes," to signify that Judah was to inhabit a country fruitful in vines.—Ps. v. 9. "Their throat is an open sepulchre."—Ps. lx. 3. "Thou hast made us to drink the wine of astonishment."—Ps. lxxviii. 25. "Man did eat angels' food: he sent them meat to the full."—Ps. lxxix. 3. "The plowers plowed upon my back, they made long their furrows."—Isa. xxxiv. 3. "The mountains shall be melted with their blood."—Ver. 4. "And all the host of heaven shall be dissolved, and the heavens shall be rolled together as a scroll."—Ver. 6. "The sword of the Lord is filled with blood, it is made fat with fatness.'—Isa. xiv. 23. "I will sweep it with the besom of destruction, saith the Lord of hosts."—Jer. xx. 7. "O Lord thou hast deceived me, and I was deceived."—Isa. v. 1. "My well beloved hath a vineyard in a very fruitful hill." In the original it is On a horn, the son of oil: The horn being the highest part of horned animals, it is used to denote the highest part of a country; an hill. This horn, or hill, is called, the son of oil, because the olive which produces oil is one of the valuable fruits of the earth. See Lowth on the passage.—Isa. xi. 15. "The Lord shall utterly destroy the tongue of the Egyptian sea.'

Having in the Scriptures these, and many other examples of bold metaphors, the natural effect of the poverty of the ancient language of the Hebrews, why should we be either surprised or offended with the bold figurative language in which the Hebrews expressed their conceptions of the divine nature and government? Theirs was not a philosophical language, but the primitive speech of an uncultivated race of men, who by words and phrases taken from objects of sense, endeavored to express their notions of matters which cannot be distinctly conceived by the human mind, and far less expressed in human language.—Wherefore, they injure the Hebrews who affirm, that they believed the Deity to have a body, consisting of members of the like form and use with the members of the human body, because in thei sacred writings, the eyes, the ears, the hands and the feet of God, are spoken of; and because he is represented as acting with these members after the manner of man.—Gen. iii. 8. "They heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day."—Gen. ix. 16. "And the bow shall be in the cloud, and I will look upon it."—Ex. xv. 3. "The Lord is a man of war."—Ver. 6. "Thy right hand, O Lord, hath dashed in pieces the enemy."—Ver 8. "With the blast of thy nostrils the waters were gathered together."—Ps. xviii. 8. "There went up a smoke out of his nostrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured; coals were kindled by it."—Ver. 9. "He bowed his heavens also and came down, and darkness was under his feet."—Ver. 10. "And he rode upon a cherub, and did fly upon the wings of the wind."—Ps. ii. 7. "Thou art my Son, this day I have begotten thee."

In like manner they injure the Hebrews who affirm, that they thought God was moved by anger, jealousy, hatred, revenge, grief, and other human passions, because in their Scriptures it is said, Gen. vi. 6. "It repented the Lord that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart."—Ex. xv 7. "Thou sentest forth thy wrath which consumed them as stubble."—Ex. xx. 5. "I the Lord thy God am a jealous God."—Num. xi. 33. "The wrath of the Lord was kindled against the people."—Prov. viii. 13. "The evil way and froward mouth do I hate."—Is. xxxiv. 2. "The indignation of the Lord is upon all nations, and his fury upon all their armies."—Nah. i. 2. "God is jealous, and the Lord revengeth and is furious. The Lord will take vengeance on his adversaries, and he reserveth wrath for his enemies."

They also injure the Hebrews who affirm, that they believed the Deity subject to human infirmity, because it is said, Gen. ii. 2. "God rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made."—Gen. viii. 21. "The Lord smelled a sweet savor."—Gen. xviii. 19. "Because the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous, 20. I will go down now and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it which is come up to me; and if not, I will know."—Ps. ii. 4. "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh; the Lord shall have them in derision."—Ps. lxxviii. 65. "Then the Lord awaked as one out of sleep, and like a mighty man that shouteth by reason of wine."

These and the like expressions are highly metaphorical, and imply nothing more but that in the divine mind and conduct, there is somewhat analogous to, and resembling the sensible objects and the human affections, on which these metaphorical expressions are founded. For if any one contends that the Hebrews themselves understood these expressions literally when applied to the Deity, and meant that they should be so understood by those who read their Scriptures, he must likewise contend that the following expressions were understood by them in their literal meaning.—Ps. xvii. 8. "Hide me under the shadow of thy wings."—Ps. lvii. 1. "In the shadow of thy wings I will make my refuge, until these calamities be overpast."—Ps. lxi. 4. "I will trust in the covert of thy wings."—Ps. xci. 1. "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High, shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."—Ver. 4. "He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust."—I say, If from the passages of Scripture in which the members of the human body are ascribed to the Deity, it is inferred that the ancient Hebrews believed the Deity hath a body of the same form with the human body, we must, from the last mentioned passages of the same Scriptures, conclude, that they believed the Deity to be a tree with spreading branches and leaves which afforded an agreeable shade; and a great fowl with feathers and wings; and even a rock, because he is so called, Deut. xxxii. 15. Ps. xviii. 2. 31.

Such are the bold metaphors by which the ancient Hebrews expressed their conceptions of the attributes and operations of God. To prevent, however, those who are acquainted only with modern languages from being shocked with the boldness of these figures, modern critics have distinguished them by the appellation of Anthropopathia; concerning which Lowth on Is. i. 24. Ah, I will be eased of mine adversaries, I will be avenged of mine enemies, thus writeth: "This is a strong instance of the metaphor called Anthropopathia; by which, throughout the Scriptures, as well the historical as the poetical parts, the sentiments, sensations, and affections; the bodily faculties, qualities, and members of men, and even of brute animals, are attributed to God; and that with the utmost liberty and latitude of application. The foundation of this is obvious, it arises from necessity: We have no idea of the natural attributes of God, of his pure essence, of his manner of existence, of his manner of acting: When therefore we would treat on these subjects, we find ourselves forced to express them by sensible images. But necessity leads to beauty: This is true of metaphor in general, and in particular of this kind of metaphor; which is used with great elegance and sublimity in the sacred poetry; and, what is very remarkable, in the grossest instances of the application of it, it is generally the most striking and the most sublime. The reason seems to be this: When the images are taken from the superior faculties of the human nature, from the purer and more generous affections, and applied to God, we are apt to acquiesce in the notion; we overlook the metaphor, and take it as a proper attribute: but when the idea is gross and offensive, as in this passage of Isaiah, where the impatience of anger and the pleasure of revenge is attributed to God; we are immediately shocked at the application; the impropriety strikes us at once; and the mind casting about for something in the divine nature analogous to the image, lays hold on some great, obscure, vague idea, which she endeavors in vain to comprehend, and is lost in immensity and astonishment. See Lowth's De S. Poesi Hebr. Prel. xvi. sub fin. where this matter is treated and illustrated by examples."

From the above ingenious remarks it appears, that notwithstanding metaphors and other figures derive their origin from the poverty of language, they infuse both strength and beauty into any discourse where they are judiciously used. By exhibiting sensible pictures of our conceptions accompanied with pleasant images, they make a strong impression on the mind of the hearers: for which reason they have found a place, not in the ancient languages only, but in all the modern tongues also; not excepting those which are the most copious and the most refined: insomuch that it hath become the business of poets and orators, to ransack the whole compass of nature in search of resemblances between sensible and intellectual objects, on which to graft metaphors. And, not satisfied with natural and apparent likenesses, the most remote and disparate resemblances, nay resemblances founded merely on popular opinion, local prejudices, and national customs, have been made the foundation of metaphors.—Hence that diversity of figurative expressions observable in the languages of nations living at a distance from each other. Hence also, the figures, which to one nation appear natural and expressive, to others appear unnatural, tumid, and ridiculous.

SECTION II.

Of Picture-writing; and of its influence in the Formation of the Primitive Languages.

In the early ages, after men had acquired any branch of useful knowledge, either by research or by observation, they naturally wished to communicate that knowledge to their contemporaries, and even to transmit it to posterity. But this they could not do effectually, till they contrived a method of making speech the object of sight. When this was accomplished, the knowledge which they conveyed to the ears of a few by pronounced speech, it was in their power to convey to multitudes, even in the most distant countries, by the eye.

The first method of rendering speech visible, was that which history informs us was practised by all the ancient nations we have any knowledge of, from the Chinese in the east to the Mexicans in the west, and from the Egyptians in the South to the Scythians in the north. All these, taught by nature, formed images or pictures, on wood, or stone, or clay, of the sensible objects for which they had invented names, and of which they had occasion to discourse. By these pictures they represented not only the things themselves, but the articulate sounds or names also by which they were called. Thus to express, in that kind of writing, a man, or a horse, that is, to express both the name and the thing, they drew its picture on some permanent substance, whereby not only the thing itself, but its name, was immediately suggested to those who looked on its picture. But this method being tedious, the Egyptians, who it is supposed were the inventors of picture-writing, shortened it by converting the picture into a symbol, which, as Warburton, to whom I am indebted for many particulars in this section, observes in his Divine Legation, they did in three ways. 1. By making the principal part of the symbol stand for the whole of it, and by agreeing that that part should express the character of the thing represented by the symbol. Thus, they expressed a fuller by two feet standing in water; and a charioteer by an arm holding a whip. This is what is called the Curiologic Hieroglyphic.—From this, the Egyptians proceeded to a more artful method of rendering speech visible and permanent; namely, by putting the instruments, whether real or metaphorical, by which a thing was done, for the thing done. Thus, they expressed a battle, by two hands, the one holding a shield, the other a bow: a siege by a scaling ladder: the divine omniscience, by an eye eminently placed: a monarch by an eye and a sceptre. Sometimes they represented the agent without the instrument, to show the quality of the action. Thus a judge was expressed by a man without hands looking downwards, to show that a judge ought not to be moved either by interest or pity. This method was called The Tropologic Hieroglyphic.—3. Their third, and most artificial method of abridging picture-writing, was to make one thing stand for another, where any resemblance or analogy, however far-fetched, could be observed between the thing represented and the thing by which it was represented, whether that resemblance was founded in nature, or in popular opinion only. Thus a serpent, on account of its vigor and spirit, its longevity and reviviscence, was made the symbol of the divine nature: a mouse was used to represent destruction: a wild goat, uncleanness: a fly, impudence. an ant, knowledge: a serpent in a circle, the universe: and the variegated spots of the serpent's skin, the stars. This method of writing was called, The allegorical, analogical, or symbolical Hieroglyphic. And being formed on their knowledge of physics, the marks of which it was composed increased in number, as the Egyptians, the inventors of picture-writing, increased in science.

But, in regard there are many qualities and relations of things which are not objects of sense, and many complex moral modes and other mental conceptions, which cannot be likened to any object of sense, consequently, which cannot be expressed by any picture, natural or symbolical, it became necessary, in all kinds of picture-writing, to introduce arbitrary marks for expressing these qualities, relations, and modes. Yet even with this aid, picture-writing was still very defective and obscure. The Chinese, therefore, to improve the method of rendering speech visible and permanent by writing, threw away the images or pictures altogether, and substituted in their place new marks, formed, it is said, from the images. However, as in this way of writing every word required a distinct character or mark, and as the greatest part of these characters were arbitrary, the difficulty of acquiring the knowledge of the meaning of such a multitude of characters was so great, that very few could attain to it. Meanwhile, the Chinese method of denoting the separate words of which speech consisteth, by separate marks, is supposed by some to have suggested to the ingenious in other nations. the idea of expressing, by separate marks, the distinct articulate sounds of which words are composed. Hence, the alphabetical or literal method of writing arose, which, on account of its great facility and utility, hath come into general use among all civilized nations except the Chinese themselves.

The literal method of writing is generally said to have been first practised by the Phenicians. But whether they, or whoever else first used that method of rendering speech visible, were the inventors of the art; or whether, as Plato and Tully thought, De Leg. lib. iv. sec. 4. they were supernaturally assisted in the invention, is hard to determine. This however is certain, that the books of Moses were written in the literal method. And some learned men have thought, the first specimen of literal writing was that which God himself engraved on the two tables of stone, and gave to Moses on the Mount; who being taught the meaning of the characters by inspiration, communicated the knowledge of the same to the Israelites, from whom it passed to the Phenicians. Perhaps it may be some confirmation of this conjecture to observe, that the Chinese, though they have long possessed the art of writing by characters, have never been able to attain the method of writing by letters.

I have given the above account of the art of rendering speech visible and permanent by picture-writing, not as a matter of curiosity, but to show the influence which the hieroglyphical manner of writing had on the ancient languages. For the symbols used in that kind of writing, denoting the names of things, as well as the things themselves, in speaking, men would naturally give to the things represented, both the name and the qualities of the symbol by which it was represented. Hence arose a new species of metaphor, altogether unknown in the speech of modern nations, and forming a kind of language which, though it may appear to us fanciful and dark, was well understood, and made a strong impression on those who were accustomed to it.—This higher kind of metaphorical language claims particular attention, because it is that in which the divine revelations, especially those concerning future events, were communicated to mankind, and in which they still remain recorded in Scripture. Wherefore, to show the influence which picture-writing, particularly of the symbolical kind, had to introduce into the ancient languages the boldest, and in the opinion of modern nations, the most extravagant metaphors, the following examples are proposed to the reader's consideration.

1. A supreme ruler being represented in symbolical writing by a man with four wings, and his lieutenants or princes by one with two wings; and the stretching out of wings signifying action or design, (Divine Leg. b. iv. sec. 4.) the names of these symbols were naturally used in the ancient languages for the things signified by them. Hence Isaiah, predicting the invasion of Judea by the king of Assyria, hath termed it the stretching out of his wings so as to cover and desolate the whole land, Is. viii. 8. "The stretching out of his wings shall fill the breadth of thy land, O Immanuel."—By the like metaphor, Jeremiah predicted the desolation of Moab, ch. xlviii. 40. "He shall fly as an eagle, and shall spread his wings over Moab."—In the same highly figurative language, Isaiah denounced destruction to a kingdom which oppressed other countries by the greatness of its power, ch. xviii. 1. "Wo to the land shadowing with wings."—This use of the symbol shows the propriety of giving the wings of a fowl to two of the four beasts, which in Daniel's vision represented the four great monarchies. By that symbol, the devastation which these monarchies were to bring on other nations, and the speed and force with which they would act, were strongly and beautifully represented to those who understood symbolical picture-writing.—It shows us, likewise, how the power of God in protecting his people, came to be termed his feathers and his wings; and the confidence of his people in his power to protect them, by their trusting in the covert of his wings.

2. A crocodile was one of the symbols, by which in the ancient picture-writing the kingdom of Egypt was represented, Div. Leg. b iv. sec. 4. Hence the Egyptians are called, Ps. lxxiv. 13, Dragons in the waters; and, ver. 14 their king is called leviathan.—And, "The great dragon that lieth in the midst of his rivers," Ezek. xxix. 3.—So also, Is. xxvii. 1. "In that day the Lord with his sore, and great, and strong sword, shall punish leviathan the piercing serpent, even leviathan that crooked serpent, and he shall slay the dragon."

The king of Ethiopia was termed a fly, and the king of Assyria a bee, probably because in picture-writing they were represented by these symbols, Isa. vii. 18. "The Lord shall hiss for the fly that is in the uttermost part of the rivers of Egypt, and for the bee that is in the land of Assyria," that is, the Lord shall call the Ethiopian and Assyrian kings to avenge his quarrel.

3. In the picture-writing, a sword and a bow being symbols of war, the prophets use the names of these warlike instruments to denote great warriors; and arms in general, to denote a powerful warlike nation, such as the Romans, Dan. xi. 31.—And gigantic stature, for a mighty leader of an army;—and balances, weights and measures, for a judge or a magistrate.—In like manner, because in picture-writing a sceptre denoted the administration of government, the word is used in that signification by Jacob in his prophecy, Gen. xlix. 10. "The sceptre shall not depart," &c.—and the annihilation of the power of Moab, by the breaking of his sceptre, Jer. xlviii. 17. "All ye that are about him, bemoan him; and all ye that know his name say, How is the strong staff broken, and the beautiful rod!"

4. The figure of a star being used in picture-writing as a symbol of the Deity, that word was used by Balaam to denote the Jewish Messiah, of whose divine nature and government he seems to have had some obscure conception. Num. xxiv. 17. "There shall come a star out of Jacob, and a sceptre shall arise out of Israel."—Also, a star in picture-writing, denoted the image of a God. Thus Amos v. 26. "The star of your god, which ye made to yourselves," means the material image of your God.—Lastly, the sun, moon, and stars, were used in picture-writing as symbols of the founders of nations, and of the fathers of tribes, and as the symbols also of mighty kings. Thus the king of Babylon is called, Isa xiv. 12. "Lucifer, son of the morning." Thus also, in ordinary discourse, the sun, moon, and stars, were used to denote patriarchs and princes.—Accordingly, when Joseph, Gen. xxxvii. 9. "said, I have dreamed a dream, and behold the sun, and the moon, and the eleven stars made obeisance to me," his father understanding his words in their symbolical and true meaning, "rebuked him, and said to him,—Shall I and thy mother and brethren indeed come to bow down ourselves to thee, to the earth?"—But as the heavenly bodies mentioned by Joseph, could not appear, even in a dream, as making obeisance to him, we may believe that he saw in his dream, not the heavenly bodies, but a visionary representation of his parents and brethren making obeisance to him; and that in relating this to his father, he chose from modesty to express it in symbolical rather than in plain language. Besides, as there was never any collection of stars called the eleven stars, the application which Jacob made of that appellation to Joseph's eleven brethren shows clearly that the word star, in common speech, was used to signify the father of a tribe.

5. That the use of ensigns, for distinguishing tribes and nations, was very ancient, we learn from Moses's command, Num. ii. 2. "Every man of the children of Israel shall pitch by his own standard, with the ensign of their father's house." What the ensigns of the Israelitish tribes were, Moses hath not told us. But, because our Lord who sprang from Judah is called, Rev. v. 5. "The lion of the tribe of Judah," it is conjectured that the tribe of Judah had for its ensign, a lion: that Judah assumed that device because Jacob in blessing his children before his death had termed Judah a lion's whelp; and that the other tribes assumed for their ensigns, the pictures of the animals and trees to which Jacob had likened them. But be this as it may, it is probable that in the ensigns, by which tribes and nations anciently distinguished themselves, they painted the figures of such animals, trees, &c. as were emblematical of the qualities, circumstances, and events, by which they thought themselves most honored. Hence it was natural in picture-writing, to represent a nation or tribe by the thing which it carried as its ensign; and in speaking of a nation or tribe, to call it by the name of its ensign. Accordingly, Jeremiah likens Egypt to a very fair heifer, chap. xlvi. 20. either because the Egyptians carried in their ensigns the image of a heifer, which was the symbol of Isis their tutelary divinity; or because they were represented in sculpture by that device. And this perhaps is the reason that in Pharaoh's dream, Egypt was symbolically represented by kine.—In like manner, because the Roman armies had for their ensigns the image of an eagle, they are called in our Lord's prophecy of the destruction of Jerusalem, Eagles, Matt. xxiv. 28. Wheresoever the carcass is, there will the eagles be gathered together.—Since then it was customary to call a nation by the name of its ensign, "The burden of the beasts of the south," Isa. xxx. 6. means, the prophecy concerning the destruction of the nations of the south, who had beasts for their ensigns.—And since the Assyrians are called by the prophet Isaiah, chap. viii. 7. The waters of the river, it is not improbable that their armies carried in their ensigns a picture of the Euphrates, not only on account of the advantages which their country derived from that river, but because it was a fit emblem of the irresistible force of their armies. Wherefore, the Assyrians being represented in picture-writing by the waters of the Euphrates and Tigris, the great whore, who is said, Rev. xvii. 1. "To sit upon many waters," signifies an idolatrous power which ruled over many populous nations.

6. The symbols, by which nations and cities were anciently represented in picture-writing, were commonly formed on some remarkable quality belonging to them. Thus, because the laws, institutions, and discipline, peculiar to a city or nation, were intended to form the manners of their people, it was natural to consider that nation or city as a mother. This I suppose was the reason that, on coins and in sculpture, nations and cities were symbolically represented by a young woman sitting on a throne, magnificently attired, and surrounded with emblems, expressive of the qualities by which that nation was distinguished. Hence the Jewish prophets, in the discourses which they addressed to nations and cities, termed them daughters, and virgin daughters, in allusion to the above described symbol. Is. xxii. 4. "I will weep bitterly,—because of the spoiling of the daughter of my people." Zech. ii. 7. "Deliver thyself, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon."—Jer. xiv. 17. "Let mine eyes run down with tears night and day,—for the virgin daughter of my people is broken with a great breach."—Jer. xlvi. 11. "Go up into Gilead and take balm, O virgin, the daughter of Egypt. In vain shalt thou use many medicines, for thou shalt not be cured."

7. In the ancient picture-writing, it would seem, that persons and things were represented by the figures of the things to which they were metaphorically likened. Hence, in speaking of them, they were called by the names of these things. For example, because anciently men were metaphorically likened to trees, (Cant. ii. 3. v. 15.) princes and great men, in the animated language of the eastern nations, were called by the name of such trees as were remarkable for their magnitude and beauty; and had the properties of these trees ascribed to them. Thus, the great men of Judah were called by Sennacherib, the tall cedars of Lebanon, and the common people, the choice fir trees thereof. Isa. xxxvii. 24. "By the multitude of my chariots am I come up, to the sides of Lebanon, and I will cut down the tall cedars thereof and the choice fir trees thereof."—Zechar. xi. 1. "Open thy doors O Lebanon, that the fire may devour thy cedars. Howl fir trees, for the cedar is fallen; because the mighty are spoiled! How, O ye oaks of Bashan." See also Isa. ii. 13,—16.—In like manner, Jeremiah calls the whole people of a country a forest, chap. xxi. 14. "I will kindle a fire in the forest thereof, and it shall devour all things round about it."—The same prophet speaking to Judah, saith, chap. xi. 16. "The Lord called thy name a green olive tree, fair and of goodly fruit."—Hence Messiah is foretold under the idea of a branch of a tree. Jerem. xxiii. 5. "Behold the days come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous branch."—Zechar. vi. 12. "Behold the man whose name is the branch, and he shall grow up out of his place, and he shall build the temple of the Lord." Suitably to the same idea, the place out of which this branch was to grow, is thus described.—Is. xi. 1. "There shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a branch shall grow out of his root, and the Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him."

8. Anciently Princes were metaphorically called shepherds, and their subjects sheep, because the care which they took of their people resembled the care which shepherds take of their flocks. 2 Sam. xxiv. 17. "I have sinned, I have done wickedly; but these sheep, what have they done?"—Homer likewise often calls his princes, shepherds of the people.—Among the Jews, the priests also were called shepherds, because it was a part of their office to teach the people the law. Ezek. xxxiv. 2. "Wo to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves; should not the shepherds feed the flock?"—This phraseology passed from the Jewish into the Christian church. For Christ is called the chief shepherd, and the ministers of the Gospel are considered as subordinate shepherds employed by him to take care of the people. 1 Pet. v. 2. "Feed the flock of God," ver. 4. "And when the chief shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive the crown of glory which fadeth not away."

9. Because it is usual, in all languages, metaphorically to ascribe to men the qualities of beasts, and to call them by the name of such beasts as they resemble in their dispositions, the Psalmist in predicting Christ's suffering, termed his enemies, strong bulls of Bashan, the country most famous for its breed of kine. Psal. xxii. 12. "Many bulls have compassed me: strong bulls of Bashan have beset me round about. They gaped upon me with their mouths as a ravening and roaring lion." In like manner the prophet Amos, to mark the stupidity and brutality of the great men of Samaria who oppressed the people, reproved them under the name of Kine of Bashan, chap. iv. 1. "Hear this word, ye Kine of Bashan, that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppress the poor," &c. Upon the same foundation, the Israelitish nation is spoken of as a beast of prey in Balaam's prophecy: and hath the actions of a beast of prey ascribed to it, Numb. xxiv. 8. "God brought him forth out of Egypt; he hath as it were the strength of an unicorn. He shall eat up the nations his enemies, and shall break their bones, and pierce them through with his arrows. 9. He couched, he lay down as a lion, and who shall stir him up?"

SECTION III.

Of the Allegorical Manner of Writing.

When the custom, described in the preceding section, of substituting the symbol, the device, and the metaphor, for the things signified thereby, took place, and the thing signified obtained the name of the thing by which it was signified, it was natural to describe the condition, the qualities, and the actions of the thing signified, by the condition, the qualities, and the actions of its symbol. Hence arose that species of composition which is called Allegory, because therein one thing was expressed, and another entirely different from it was meant; and which, for reasons to be mentioned immediately, was of great fame and use anciently among the eastern nations. In mentioning metaphors as the foundation of allegories, I am authorized by Quintilian, who thus writes, lib. viii. c. 6. Ut modicus atque opportunus translationis usus illustrat orationem, ita frequens et obscurat et tædio complet: Continuus vero in allegoriam et ænigmata transit.

The Egyptians, who are supposed to have invented picture-writing, are thought also to have invented the allegorical method of communicating their sentiments. But, by whomsoever invented, it came early into general use, and was greatly delighted in by the orientals, for the following reasons:—1. A well formed allegory, by its striking images and vivid coloring, never failed, when understood, to make a strong impression on those to whom it was addressed.—2. Being a narration of things which are objects of sense, and between which there is a natural or supposed connexion, it was easily remembered, and could be translated from one language into another with the greatest precision.—3. Professing to contain an important hidden meaning, those to whom it was proposed, were led by curiosity to search out that meaning.—4. The discovery of the meaning of an allegory, as an exercise of one's mental powers, afforded great pleasure to the discoverer, especially if it contained a moral lesson useful for regulating life and manners: For a person, by the discovery, being led to instruct himself, he was spared the pain of having instruction forced upon him.—5. Allegory being a kind of speech which none but the learned understood, it was an excellent vehicle for conveying to them the knowledge of such matters as were thought improper for the common people to know.—These reasons led the priests, with whom the whole learning of Egypt was lodged, to teach their religion, their laws, and their politics, under the veil of allegory, both to their own countrymen, and to those strangers who came to be instructed in the wisdom of Egypt. And such well-informed strangers, on their return to their own country, in imitation of their teachers, communicated the knowledge which they had acquired in Egypt, to their disciples in allegories: by which means allegory came in a little time to be the most approved method of instruction, all over the east.

Allegories being in great repute, when the Jewish prophets were commissioned to instruct the people, and to foretell future events, it need not surprise us to find them delivering most of their prophecies in allegories; especially when we consider, that at the time these were delivered, it was proper to conceal the events foretold under the veil of allegory, that they might not be understood till they were explained by their accomplishment. — But, notwithstanding the ancient Egyptian allegory was attended with the advantages above mentioned, its extreme darkness occasioned it to be laid aside, after the gift of prophecy ceased. A new species, however, hath been substituted in its room, better fitted to convey instruction, because it is formed on symbols more obvious than those used in the ancient allegory. Of this new species, the writings of the moderns furnish many beautiful examples, none of which need be mentioned here, in regard they are generally known.

Of the ancient allegory there were four kinds. 1. The proper allegory.—2. The apologue or fable.—3. The parable.—4. The enigma.

The proper Allegory was a discourse, in which the condition, the qualities, and the actions of a person, or thing, were represented by the condition, the qualities, and the actions of the symbol, device, or metaphor, by which it was represented in picture-writing. It was therefore a representation of real matters of fact, under feigned names and feigned characters.

The Apologue, or Fable, was a narration of speeches and actions attributed, sometimes to men, sometimes to brute animals, and sometimes to things inanimate, according to their natural or supposed qualities. But these speeches and actions had no existence, except in the imagination of the author of the fable, who contrived them in the manner he judged fittest for conveying the moral he had in view to inculcate.—Of this kind was Jotham's fable of the trees going forth to anoint a king, Judges ix. 8.—And Joash's fable of the thistle, which desired the cedar to give his daughter as a wife to his son. 2 Chron. xxv. 18.

The Parable, or Similitude, was a discourse in which one thing was compared with another which had a resemblance to it, so that the thing compared was more clearly understood, by means of the qualities of the thing to which it was compared, and made a strong impression on the mind of the hearers. Of this kind were many of our Lord's parables.—But although the apologue and parable were thus distinguished, we find them sometimes confounded with each other.

Lastly, The Enigma or Riddle, was a mysterious assemblage of different symbols, set forth, either in a verbal discourse, or by presenting the symbols themselves to the eye. Either way exhibited, the meaning of the assemblage was so dark, that it required the greatest ingenuity to discover it.—Of the verbal enigma, Samson's riddle is an example.—Of the symbolical enigma, Herodotus hath recorded a remarkable instance, Hist. lib. iv. 128. 130. where he tells us, that when Darius Hystaspes invaded Scythia, the Scythian king sent him a present of a bird, a mouse, a frog, and five arrows. This, Gobyras, one of Darius's generals, considering as an enigma, interpreted in the following manner: That unless the Persians could fly through the air like birds, or hide themselves in the earth like mice, or swim through the lakes like frogs, they should not return to their own country, but be slain by the arrows of the Scythians.

All allegories have two senses. First, the literal sense exhibited in the verbal description, or in the visible symbol.—Secondly, the remote sense concealed under the literal sense, or under the visible symbol. Wherefore, in every allegory, the first, or literal sense is itself the sign of the second, or hidden meaning, called the figurative sense of the allegory. And this figurative sense should be as distinctly represented by the literal sense of the allegory, as the literal sense is exhibited, whether by the verbal description, or by the visible symbol. Properly speaking, therefore, the first, or literal sense, constitutes the body of the allegory, and the second, or figurative sense, its soul. In compositions of this kind, if rightly formed, the literal sense ought to be perfectly plain, and the only exercise of one's ingenuity ought to lie, not in understanding the literal sense, but in finding out its concealed meaning.

Some of the ancient fables and parables exhibited such striking representations and reproofs of the common follies of mankind, that by their frequent application they became proverbs. In allusion to this use of the parable, Habakkuk saith, ch. ii. 6. "Shall not all these take up a parable against him, and a taunting proverb against him?"—And Micah ii. 4. "In that day shall one take up a parable against you, and lament with a doleful lamentation."

In the beginning of this section the proper allegory was said to be that in which persons and things, together with the accidents befalling them, are set forth by the name of the symbol used in picture-writing to represent them; and by such accidents as may naturally be supposed to befall that symbol. According to this account of the proper allegory, the symbols of which it was composed, together with the accidents befalling these symbols, might be set forth in a verbal description addressed to the ear, or by presenting the symbol, either to the eye of a person awake, or to his imagination while asleep. Hence, of the proper allegory there were three kinds, of which it is proposed to treat separately

A. Of the proper Allegory, as set forth in a verbal Description.

When the allegory set forth in a verbal description was intended to convey immediate information to the persons to whom it was addressed, it was commonly formed on a symbol which was well known to belong to the persons or things which were the subjects of the allegory; and the circumstances and qualities of the symbol, together with the accidents befalling it, were such as naturally suggested the designed information.—Of this species of allegory we have an example, Ezek. xxxii. where, because the dragon or crocodile was one of the well known symbols by which Egypt was represented in the ancient picture-writings (Sect. 2. No. 2.), the pride of the kings of Egypt, and the mischiefs which their insolence brought on the neighboring nations, are allegorically represented by the actions of a dragon or crocodile; and the destruction of the kingdom of Egypt is represented by the taking and killing of a dragon, and by the bringing it to land, and filling all the fowls of the air, and the beasts of the whole earth with its flesh. Ver. 2. "Son of man, take up a lamentation for Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and say to him,—Thou art as a dragon in the seas, and thou camest forth with thy rivers, and troubledst the waters with thy feet, and fouledst their rivers. Thus saith the Lord God, I will therefore spread out my net over thee with a company of many people, and they shall bring thee up in my net. Then will I leave thee upon the land.—And will cause all the fowls of the heaven to remain upon thee," &c.

Because nations and cities anciently were represented on coins and on sculptured stone, by the image of a young woman splendidly attired and seated on a throne, (Sect. 2. No. 6.), the prophet Isaiah hath formed an allegorical prediction on that emblem, in which he hath described the judgment and punishment of the Chaldeans for oppressing the Jews, by the pulling down of a tender and delicate virgin from a throne, and stripping her of her ornaments, and making her a slave, and forcing her to perform the offices of a slave, and treating her with the utmost indignity. Is. xlvii. 1. "Come down and sit in the dust, O virgin daughter of Babylon. There is no throne, O daughter of the Chaldeans; for thou shalt no more be called tender and delicate. 2. Take the millstones and grind meal; uncover the locks; make bare the leg; uncover the thigh; pass over the rivers. 3. Thy nakedness shall be uncovered, yea thy shame shall be seen. I will take vengeance, and I will not meet thee as a man. As for our Redeemer, the Lord of hosts is his name.—5. Sit thou silent, and get thee into darkness, O daughter of the Chaldeans, for thou shalt no more be called the lady of kingdoms —8. Therefore hear now this, thou that art given to pleasures, that dwellest carelessly, that sayest in thine heart, I am, and none else besides me, I shall not sit as a widow, neither shall I know the loss of children," &c.

Upon the same symbol Ezekiel, to make the Israelites sensible of their sin in forsaking the true God and worshipping idols, hath formed an allegory, in which he represents God's choosing the Israelites to be his people, and his giving them his statutes, under the idea of his taking up a female infant, which when born had been exposed naked and helpless; his nourishing it till it grew up; his making her his own by marriage, after her breasts were fashioned and her hair was grown; Ezek. xvi. 4,—8. And then clothing her with fine raiment, and adorning her with costly jewels, so that the fame of her beauty went forth among the heathen, ver 9,—14. But this beloved married wife, forgetting her obligations and vows, played the harlot, by making images of men, which she worshipped with the flour, and the oil, and the honey, wherewith her husband fed her, ver. 17. 19. and by sacrificing the sons and the daughters which she had brought forth to him, ver. 20.—This adultery she committed with the Egyptians, the Assyrians, and the Chaldeans, ver. 26. 28.—Wherefore, in the same figurative language, God thus addressed the Israelites. Ver. 35. "O harlot, hear the word of the Lord.—38. I will judge thee as women that break wedlock and shed blood are judged; and I will give thee blood in fury and jealousy.—39. They shall strip thee also of thy clothes, and shall take thy fair jewels, and leave thee naked and bare. —40. They shall also bring up a company against thee, and they shall stone thee with stones, and thrust thee through with their swords."

On the other hand, in allusion to the same symbol, the prosperity of a city or nation after great affliction, is represented by a woman's cleansing herself from filth, and adorning herself with beautiful garments. Is. lii. 1. "Awake, awake, put on thy strength, O Zion, put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the holy city.—2. Shake thyself from the dust: arise, and sit down, O Jerusalem, loose thyself from the bands of thy neck, O captive daughter of Zion."—In like, manner a nation expressing its joy for being delivered from oppression, is represented by a woman's singing, and shouting. Zeph. iii. 14. "Sing, O daughter of Zion, shout, O Israel, be glad and rejoice with all thy heart, O daughter of Jerusalem.—15. The Lord hath taken away thy judgments, He hath cast out thine enemy: the king of Israel, even the Lord, is in the midst of thee; thou shalt not see evil any more."

In allusion to the same symbol, Isaiah foretold the restoration of Tyre to her former wealth, and pride, and wickedness, under the image of an harlot's resuming her former manners. Is. xxiii. 15. "After the end of seventy years shall Tyre sing as an harlot.—16. Take an harp, go about the city, thou harlot that hast been forgotten, make sweet melody, sing many songs, that thou mayest be remembered.—17. The Lord will visit Tyre, and she shall turn to her hire, and shall commit fornication with all the kingdoms of the world upon the face of the earth."

In the ancient picture-writing, (Sect. 2. No. 4.), the sun, moon, and stars, being used as symbols to denote cities and kingdoms as well as princes and great men, the temporary disasters of cities and kingdoms, in allusion to these symbols, are, in the prophetic writings, represented by the extinction of the sun and moon; and the destruction of cities and states, by the falling of the stars from heaven. Thus Isaiah, foretelling the destruction of Babylon by the Medes, saith, ch. xiii. 10. "The stars of heaven, and the constellations thereof, shall not give their light: the sun shall be darkened in his going forth, and the moon shall not cause her light to shine." —Ch. xxxiv. 4. "All the host of heaven shall be dissolved, and the heavens shall be rolled together as a scroll, and all their host shall fall down as the leaf falleth off from the vine, and as a falling fig from the fig-tree."—In like manner, the destruction of Egypt is thus allegorically described, Ezek. xxxii. 7. "When I shall put thee out, I will cover the heaven, and make the stars thereof dark, I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon shall not give her light.—8. All the bright lights of heaven will I make dark over thee, and set darkness upon thy land, saith the Lord."—Joel also, upon the same symbols, hath formed an allegorical prophecy concerning the overturning of the Jewish state, and the destruction of the heathen idolatry. Ch: ii. 30. "I will shew wonders in the heavens, and in the earth blood, and fire, and pillars of smoke.—31. The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and the terrible day of the Lord come.—32. And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be delivered."—These grand events our Lord hath foretold in the same allegorical language, Matt. xxiv. 20.

On the other hand, national prosperity is allegorically represented by an increase of the light of the heavenly bodies, Is. xxx. 26. "Moreover, the light of the moon, shall be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun shall be sevenfold, as the light of seven days, in the day that the Lord bindeth up the breach of his people, and healeth the stroke of their wound."

In picture-writing, tribes and nations being represented by the figures of the things which they carried in their ensigns, (Sect. 2. No. 5.) various allegorical prophecies were formed on these symbols. Thus, because the Assyrians, it is supposed, had the river Euphrates painted on their standards, Isaiah foretells their invasion of Judea by an allegory formed on that symbol. Is. viii. 7. "Behold the Lord bringeth up upon them the waters of the river strong and many, even the king of Assyria, and all his glory, and he shall come up over all his channels, and go over all his banks. 8. And he shall pass through Judah, he shall overflow and go over, he shall reach even to the neck."

Sect. 2. No. 2. In picture-writing, a crocodile being one of the symbols by which Egypt was denoted, Ezekiel upon that symbol hath formed the following beautiful allegorical prophecy, ch. xxix. 2. "Son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and against all Egypt. 3. Speak and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold I am against thee Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great dragon that lieth in the midst of his rivers, which hath said, My river is mine own, and I have made it for myself. 4. But I will put hooks in thy jaws, and I will cause the fish of thy rivers to stick unto thy scales. 5 And I will leave thee thrown into the wilderness, thee and all the fish of thy rivers: thou shalt fall upon the open fields, thou shalt not be brought together nor gathered: I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the field, and to the fowls of heaven," &c. to ver. 17.

Sect. 2. No. 7. In the ancient picture-writing, men being represented by the figures of the things to which they were metaphorically likened, the Jewish prophets have raised many allegories on that foundation. Thus, because princes and great men were likened to trees, the power of the Assyrian kings, and the greatness of their empire, are represented by Ezekiel in an allegory, formed on the qualities and circumstances of a tall cedar tree with fair branches, among which all the fowls of heaven made their nests; and under which all the beasts of the field brought forth their young; and under its shadow dwelt all great nations, Ezek. xxxi. 3,—9.—Moreover, the destruction of the Assyrian empire, is in the same allegory represented by the breaking of the boughs and the falling of the branches of this cedar, and by the departing of the people of the earth from its shadow, ver. 10,—14.

In like manner, nations being metaphorically compared to a forest, their desolation and destruction are represented by the burning of a forest; as in the following allegory, Ezek. xx. 46. "Son of man, set thy face towards the south, and drop thy word towards the south, and prophesy against the forest of the south field; 47. And say to the forest of the south, Hear the word of the Lord, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold I will kindle a fire in thee, and it shall devour every green tree in thee, and every dry tree: the flaming flame shall not be quenched, and all faces from the south to the north shall be burnt therein. 48. And all flesh shall see that I the Lord have kindled it: It shall not be quenched. 49. Then said I, Ah Lord God! they say of me, Doth he not speak parables?"—On this allegory our Lord's expression, Luke xxiii. 31. If they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry? seems to have been founded.

In allusion to the symbolical meaning of trees in picture-writing, the introduction of the Israelites into Canaan, and their becoming a great nation in that land, are represented under the allegory of a vine brought from Egypt and planted in Canaan, which took deep root, and filled the land, Ps. lxxx. 10. "The hills were covered with the shadow of it, and the boughs thereof were like the goodly cedars. 11. She sent out her boughs from the sea, (the Mediterranean Sea,) and her branches to the river (Euphrates.) Why hast thou then broken down her hedges, so that all they which pass by the way, do pluck her? The boar out of the wood doth waste it," &c.

Sect. 2. No. 7. b. Because in ancient times kings, and magistrates, and priests, were metaphorically called shepherds, on account of their care in governing, defending, and instructing their people, the prophet Ezekiel hath, upon this metaphor, formed a beautiful allegorical discourse, in which he severely reproved the Jewish princes, magistrates, and priests, for their negligence in the execution of their offices; for their enriching themselves and living luxuriously at the expense of their people; and for their being at no pains to promote their happiness. Ezek. xxxiv. 2. "Thus saith the Lord God unto the shepherds, Wo be to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves! Should not the shepherds feed the flocks? 3. Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wool, ye kill them that are fed: but ye feed not the flock." For this unfaithfulness God threatened to punish the Israelitish princes, and priests, severely, ver. 10. "Thus saith the Lord, Behold I am against the shepherds, and I will require my flock at their hand, and cause them to cease from feeding the flock—For I will deliver my flock from their mouth, that they may not be meat for them."—The people, thus neglected and spoiled by their rulers, God comforted in the same allegorical language, ver. 12. "I will seek out my sheep, and I will deliver them out of all places, where they have been scattered in the cloudy and dark day.—ver. 14. I will feed them in a good pasture, and upon the high mountains of Israel shall their fold be, there shall they lie in a good field." In the meantime, to prevent the wicked among the Israelites, from fancying themselves the objects of his love, God reproved them in the same pastoral dialect, ver. 17. "As for you, O my flock, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I judge between cattle and cattle, between the rams and the he goats. 18. Seemeth it a small thing to you to have eaten up the good pasture, but ye must tread down with your feet the residue of your pastures? And to have drunk of the deep waters, but ye must foul the residue with your feet? 19. But as for my flock, they eat that which ye have trodden with your feet, and they drink that which ye have fouled. —21. Because ye have thrust with side and with shoulder, and pushed all the diseased with your horns, till ye have scattered them abroad; 22. Therefore will I save my flock, and they shall no more be a prey, and I will judge between cattle and cattle. 23. And I will set up one Shepherd over them, and he shall feed them, even my servant David, a prince among them," &c. On this allegory our Lord seems to have formed his parable of the sheep and the goats, in which he hath described the general judgment, Matt. xxv.

B. Of the proper Allegory, as set forth in a Dream, or in a Vision.

Having treated of verbal allegories, it remains to treat of those allegories which were set forth in symbols, actually presented to the imagination of the prophet in a dream while asleep, or in a vision while awake. These allegorical dreams and visions, the persons who were favored with them communicated to their contemporaries by word of mouth, and sometimes committed them to writing, for the instruction of posterity.—In these, as in other allegories, the persons or nations who were the subjects of them, were designed, sometimes by their known symbols, whose figure was presented to the imagination of the person who dreamed, or who saw the vision, and sometimes by arbitrary symbols, whose character, however, and attending circumstances, were so formed as to lead to their meaning.

Of allegorical dreams formed on symbols which were generally known, that of Pharaoh, Gen. xli. 17. is a signal example. For, one of the symbols by which Egypt was designed being an heifer, the seven years of great plenty which were to be in Egypt, were represented in Pharaoh's dream by seven very fat and well-favored kine, which came up out of the Nile, and fed in an adjoining meadow; and the seven years of famine which were to succeed the years of plenty, by seven other kine lean and ill-favored, which also came up out of the river after the former; and the greatness of the famine, by the lean kine eating up the fat kine, and remaining as lean and ill-favored as at the beginning.—Nebuchadnezzar's dream, Dan. iv. is another example of an allegorical representation formed on a well known symbol. For, princes and great men being represented in picture-writing by trees, the greatness of Nebuchadnezzar's kingdom, and the benefits which the nations over which he reigned, derived from the power of his kingdom, were represented by a tree which in his dream he saw growing in the midst of the earth, "whose height reached to heaven, whose leaves were fair, and its fruit was much, affording meat for all. The beasts of the field had shadow under it, and the fowls of the air dwelt in the boughs thereof."—In the same dream, the punishment which God was to inflict on that proud prince for his impiety and other sins, was allegorically represented by the hewing down of that great tree, the cutting off of its branches, the driving away of the beasts from under it, and of the fowls from its branches. On this symbol, our Lord formed his parable of the grain of mustard seed which a man took and sowed in his field, whereby he allegorically represented the wide spreading of the kingdom of heaven, or gospel dispensation, and its beneficial influence on the happiness of mankind, Matt. xiii. 32. "Which indeed is the least of all seeds, but when it is grown it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree; so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof."

Of the allegorical dream formed on an arbitrary symbol, we have an example in the great and terrible image which stood before Nebuchadnezzar in his dream, recorded Dan. ii. 31. and which, by the different materials of which it was composed, represented the four great empires which were to rule the nations of the earth in succession.

The head of this image, which was of fine gold, signified the Babylonian empire; its breast and its arms of silver, signified the Medo-Persian empire; its belly and its thighs of brass, the Grecian empire; and its legs of iron and its feet part of iron and part of clay, the Roman empire in its different states. And whereas this great image was broken in pieces by a stone, which was cut out of a mountain without hands, and which afterwards became itself a great mountain and filled the whole earth, that accident signified the utter destruction of these idolatrous kingdoms, to make way for a kingdom which the God of heaven was to set up, and which was never to be destroyed. The order in which these four empires were to arise, and the peculiar qualities by which they were to be distinguished, were showed to Daniel himself, ch. vii. 2. in an allegorical vision formed on the arbitrary symbols of four beasts which arose out of the great sea, after it was violently agitated by storms, and whose forms and qualities were different from any beasts known to exist. See an interpretation of that vision in my Truth of the Gospel History, p. 219.

The living creatures which Ezekiel saw in his vision, ch. i. were still more monstrous and unlike any thing in nature, than the beasts in Daniel's vision. Each of them had four faces, namely, the face of a man, of a lion, of an ox, and of an eagle. Their feet were straight with soles like those of calves' feet. They had the hands of a man under their wings, and their appearance was that of burning coals of fire, from which went flashes of lightning. They were accompanied with wheels of the color of beryl. Each wheel had a wheel within it, and their rings were so high that they were dreadful, and had eyes round about; and when the living creatures went, the wheels went; for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels. The likeness of the firmament, which was stretched over the heads of the living creatures, was as the color of crystal. And above the firmament was the likeness of a throne as the appearance of a sapphire stone; and upon the throne the likeness of the appearance of a man above upon it. His loins downward had the appearance of fire, like the bow that is in the cloud in the day of rain.

This allegorical vision not being accompanied with an interpretation, its meaning cannot be determined with any certainty. Only as the prophet in the conclusion of his account of it says, ver. 18. This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the Lord; and insinuates, that the things spoken to him, which are mentioned in the following chapters, proceeded from this appearance, it may perhaps be conjectured that the vision was an enigmatical representation of the attributes of the Deity exerted in the government of the world: and that that representation was formed by the union of a number of symbols, whose meaning those who understood the ancient picture-writing knew, but which we, whose knowledge of that sort of writing is extremely imperfect, cannot pretend to explain.

It remains to observe, that in foretelling future events, especially those which were of an extensive nature, and at a great distance in point of time, the Spirit of God thought proper to make use of allegorical dreams and visions rather than of plain verbal descriptions, for the following reasons: These dreams and visions, whether formed on known or on arbitrary symbols, were naturally so dark, even when accompanied with an interpretation, as not to be distinctly understood, till they were explained by their fulfilment. This darkness I think was necessary to prevent unbelievers from pretending that the prophecy, by exciting persons to do the things foretold, occasioned its own accomplishment.—2. The images of which these allegorical dreams and visions were composed, being all objects of sight, they made a much more lively and forcible impression on the minds of the prophets, than it was possible to do by words; consequently they could be more distinctly remembered, and more accurately related to others, than if the qualities and actions of the persons represented by the symbols in the dream or vision had been expressed in a verbal description.—3. The facility with which the representations in an allegorical dream or vision could be remembered, and the precision with which they could be related in all their circumstances, rendered the transmission of them to posterity as matters of fact easy. And although the meaning of these dreams and visions was not understood by those to whom they were related, yet being of such a nature as to make a strong impression on all to whom they were related, when they came to be explained by their accomplishment, the inspiration of the prophet who had the dream or vision was rendered undeniable, and the sovereignty of God in the government of the world was raised beyond all possibility of doubt.

SECTION IV.

Of the Method of conveying Instruction by significant Actions.

To render speech forcible and affecting, mankind, in all ages and countries, have been in use to accompany their words with such gestures and actions as indicated the sentiments and feelings of their mind. This was the custom more especially in the first ages of the world

when the primitive languages were not sufficiently copious, and men's passions were under little restraint. Hence the eastern nations, whose imaginations were warm, and whose tempers were lively, early delighted in this method of communicating their sentiments and feelings; and even after their language became so copious as not to need that extrinsic aid, they still continued to express their sentiments in the same way. Nay, all savage nations at this day express their strongest feelings by accompanying their words with significant actions, which shows that the custom is founded in nature.—The scriptures furnish many instances of this custom.—For example, to render promissory oaths more solemn and binding, the person who sware the oath, put his hand under the thigh of him to whom he sware, Gen. xxiv. 2. "Abraham said unto his eldest servant of his house,—Put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh: 3. And I will make thee swear by the Lord the God of heaven and the God of the earth, that thou wilt not take a wife unto my son of the daughters of the Canaanites."—In like manner, Jacob before his death, required his son Joseph to put his hand under his thigh, and swear, that he would not bury him in Egypt, but in Canaan with his fathers. Gen. xlvii. 29.

To express extreme affliction and grief they rent their clothes, and covered themselves with sackcloth. Thus it is said of Jacob when he saw Joseph's coat, "He rent his clothes and put sackcloth upon his loins, and mourned for his son many days."—1 Kings xxi. 27. when Ahab heard Elijah's words, "he rent his clothes and put sackcloth on his flesh, and fasted, and lay in sackcloth and went softly."

Moses having constrained his wife Zipporah to circumcise her son, she to express her detestation of the action, and her displeasure with her husband for having commanded it, cast the foreskin of the child at his feet, and said, "Surely a bloody husband art thou to me." Ex. iv. 25.

Anciently the significant actions with which any kind of information was accompanied, were commonly of the typical kind; that is, they were so contrived as to express the information conveyed by the words. Thus, when Moses saw an Egyptian smiting an Israelite, he slew the Egyptian, to show, by action, that God would by him deliver the Israelites from the bondage of the Egyptians. So Stephen assures us, Acts vii. 25.—Thus also, 1 Kings xi. 30. "The prophet Ahijah caught the new garment that was on Jeroboam, and rent it in twelve pieces. 31. And he said to Jeroboam, take thee ten pieces; for thus saith the Lord the God of Israel, behold I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give ten tribes to thee."—1 Kings xxii. 11. "Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah made him horns of iron: and he said, Thus saith the Lord, with these shalt thou push the Syrians until thou have consumed them."—2 Kings xiii. 18 "Elisha said unto the king of Israel, smite upon the ground. and he smote thrice, and staid. 19. And the man of God was wroth with him, and said, thou shouldest have smitten five or six times, then hadst thou smitten Syria till thou hadst consumed it. Whereas now thou shalt smite Syria but thrice." The king's fault was, that knowing his smiting upon the ground was typical of his smiting Syria, he ought to have smitten it oftener than thrice.—Neh. v. 13. "Also I shook my lap and said, so God shake out every man from his house, and from his labor, that performeth not this promise, even thus be he shaken."—Ezek. xxi. 6. "Sigh therefore thou son of man with the breaking (beating) of thy loins: and with bitterness sigh before their eyes. 7. And it shall be when they say unto thee, Wherefore sighest thou? that thou shalt answer, For the tidings, because it cometh; and every heart shall melt, and all hands shall be feeble," &c. —Ver. 14. "Thou, therefore, son of man, prophesy, and smite thine hands together."

In later times likewise, the Jews accompanied their discourses with significant actions, to give their instructions the greater force. Matt. xviii. 2. "Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them. 3. And said, Verily, I say unto you, except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. 4. Whosoever, therefore shall humble himself as this little child," &c.—Mark xi. 12. "On the morrow when they were come from Bethany, Jesus was hungry. 13. And seeing a fig-tree afar off having leaves, he came, if haply he might find any thing thereon; and when he came to it he found nothing but leaves. Now the time of (gathering) figs was not yet. 14. And Jesus answered and said to it, No man eat fruit of thee hereafter for ever. And his disciples heard it.—20. And on the (next) morning, as they passed by, they saw the fig-tree dried up from the roots. 21. And Peter calling to remembrance, saith unto him, Master, behold the fig-tree which thou cursedst is withered away." Peter called his Master's declaration, in consequence of which the fig-tree was destroyed, a curse, agreeably to the phraseology of the Hebrews, who considered land absolutely sterile as cursed. Heb. vi. 8.—By the typical action of destroying the barren fig-tree, our Lord intimated to his disciples, the destruction which was coming on the Jewish nation on account of their wickedness.—John xiii. 4. "Jesus riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments, and took a towel and girded himself. 5. After that he poureth water in a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded.—12. So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments and was set down again, he said to them, know ye what I have done to you? —14. If I your Lord and Master have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet." Ye ought to do the meanest offices to each other, when they are necessary for pru moting each other's happiness.—Luke ix. 5. "Whosoever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, shake off the very dust from your feet for a testimony against them."—Matt. xix. 13. "Then there were brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray.—15. And he laid his hands on them."—1 Tim. iv. 14. "Neglect not the spiritual gift which is in thee, which was given thee according to prophecy, together with the imposition of the hands of the eldership."—Matt. xx. 34. "Jesus had compassion on them, and touched their eyes; and immediately their eyes received sight."—John ix. 6. "He spat on the ground and made clay of the spittle, and he anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay. 7. And said to him, Go wash in the pool of Siloam."

These examples show that our Lord's taking Peter's wife's mother, who was sick of a fever, and Jairus's daughter, who was dead, by the hand; and his touching the eyes of the two blind men mentioned Matt. ix. 2. with other things of the like nature, were merely significant actions, by which he intimated to the persons themselves, and to those who were present, that he was going to work a miracle in their behalf. So also, before he said to his apostles, John xx. 22. Receive ye the Holy Ghost, He breathed on them, to intimate that by the invisible operation of his power he would confer on them the gifts of inspiration and miracles.

Another remarkable instance of enforcing information by a significant action, we have, Acts xxi. 11. Agabus "took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and said, Thus saith the Holy Ghost, So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles."

Lastly, it is well known that baptism and the Lord's Supper were instituted by Christ, and appointed to be continued in the church, for the purpose of setting before the people by significant action, some of the greatest articles of their faith.

Since then it was common in the eastern countries to give instruction by symbolical actions, as well as by words, the many extraordinary things done by the Jewish prophets, for discovering to the Israelites God's purposes concerning themselves, and concerning the neighboring nations, cannot be matter either of astonishment or of offence to us. They were all of them done at the commandment of God, and agreeably to the manners of the times; and were admirably adapted to convey, in the strongest and most forcible manner, the information intended.

Thus, Isaiah was commanded by God to walk three years, not only barefoot but naked, that is, without his upper garment; namely, the hairy mantle commonly worn by the prophets, Zech. xiii. 4. And this he was to do as a sign and a wonder upon Egypt and Ethiopia, Isa. xx. 2. 3. that is, as it is explained ver. 4. to show by action, that the king of Assyria would lead away the Egyptians prisoners, and the Ethiopians captives, young and old, naked and barefoot, even with their buttocks uncovered, to the shame of Egypt.—B. Lowth, in his note on Isa. xx. 3. thinks it probable that Isaiah was ordered to walk naked and barefoot three days, to show that within three years after the defeat of the Cushites and Egyptians by the king of Assyria, the town should be taken. For he thinks the time was foretold, as well as the event; and that the words three days may have been lost out of the text at the end of ver. 2. after the word barefoot, a day being put for a year according to the prophetic rule

In like manner Jeremiah was ordered, chap. xix. 1. to get a potter's earthen bottle, and with the ancients of the people and of the priests, ver. 2. to go to the valley of Hinnom, and prophecy in their hearing that Jerusalem was to be destroyed. And that his prophecy might make a strong impression on the imagination of the men who were with him, he was ordered, ver. 10. "To break the bottle in the sight of these men. 11. And to say unto them, Thus saith the Lord of Hosts, even so will I break this people and this city, as one breaketh a potter's vessel that cannot be made whole again."

The same prophet was ordered, Jer. xxvii. 2. to make bonds and yokes, and put them on his own neck, and to send them to all the neighboring kings, by the messengers whom they had sent to Jerusalem to persuade Zedekiah to enter into the confederacy which they had formed against the king of Babylon: and by that symbolical action the prophet was to signify to them, that the issue of the confederacy would be certain captivity to them all.—But we are told, ch. xxviii. 10. That the false prophet Hananiah, took the yoke from off the prophet Jeremiah's neck and broke it, and spake in the presence of all the people, saying, "Thus saith the Lord, Even so will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, from the neck of all nations, within the space of two full years."

Once more, Jeremiah having written in a book, his prophecy concerning the destruction of Babylon, recorded, Jer. li. he gave it to Serajah, ver. 60. and ordered him when he came to Babylon with Zedekiah, to read it, and having read it, to bind a stone to it, and cast it into the midst of Euphrates. Ver. 64. "And thou shalt say, Thus shall Babylon sink, and shall not rise from the evil that I will bring upon her."

With the same design of speaking by significant actions, Ezekiel was ordered to delineate Jerusalem upon a tile, and to besiege it by building a fort against it, raising a mount, and setting a camp with battering rams against it round about. This siege the prophet was to continue four hundred and thirty days, and during the continuance thereof he was to eat and drink by measure: and his bread was to be baked, that is, prepared, ver. 15. with dung; the fuel with which he was to prepare his bread was to be dung. By these symbolical actions, the prophet showed that Jerusalem was to be besieged, and that during the siege the inhabitants were to be punished with a grievous famine, Eze. iv.—In the following chapter the prophet was ordered, ver. 1. to shave his head and beard, and with a balance to divide the hairs thereof into three parts, and ver. 2. when the days of the siege were fulfilled, he was to burn with fire a third part of the hairs in the midst of the city: next he was to take a third part, and smite about it with a knife: and the remaining third part he was to scatter in the wind, except a few hairs which he was to bind in the skirts of his garment. The meaning of these symbolical actions God explained to the Israelites, as follows, ver. 11. "Because thou hast defiled my sanctuary, with all thy detestable things, and with all thine abominations; therefore will I also diminish thee; neither shall mine eyes spare, neither will I have any pity. 12. A third part of thee shall die with the pestilence, and with famine shall they be consumed in the midst of thee; and a third part shall fall by the sword round about thee; and I will scatter a third part into all the winds; and I will draw out a sword after them. 13. Thus shall mine anger be accomplished, and I will cause my fury to rest upon them, and I will be comforted.—15. So it shall be a reproach and a taunt, an instruction and an astonishment, unto the nations that are round about thee, when I shall execute judgments in thee, in anger, and in fury, and in furious rebukes. I the Lord have spoken it."

For the illustration of the foregoing allegorical action, I will here transcribe B. Lowth's note on Isa. vii. 20. In the same day shall the Lord shave with a razor that is hired, namely by them beyond the river, by the king of Assyria, the head and the hair of the feet: and it shall also consume the beard. "To shave with the hired razor the head, the feet, and the beard, is an expression highly parabolical; to denote the utter devastation of the country from one end to the other, and the plundering of the people from the highest to the lowest, by the Assyrians, whom God employed as his instrument to punish the Jews. Ahaz himself, in the first place, hired the king of Assyria to come to help him against the Syrians, by a present made to him of all the treasures of the temple, as well as his own: and God himself considered the great nations whom he thus employed, as his mercenaries, and paid them their wages. Thus he paid Nebuchadnezzar, for his services against Tyre, by the conquest of Egypt, Ezek. xxix. 18—20. The hairs of the head are those of the highest order in the state; those of the feet or the lower parts are the common people; the beard is the king, the high priest, the very supreme in dignity and majesty. The eastern people have always held the beard in the highest veneration, and have been extremely jealous of its honor. To pluck a man's beard is an instance of the greatest indignity that can be offered, Isa. l. 6 The king of the Ammonites, to show the utmost contempt of David, cut off half of the beards of his servants; and the men were greatly ashamed: and David bade them tarry at Jericho till their beards were grown," 2 Sam. x. 4. 5. &c.

Once more, God ordered Ezekiel, ch. xii. 3. to prepare stuff for removing, and to go forth with it at even in the sight of the people, as they who go forth into captivity, and having digged through the wall in their sight, to carry his stuff out thereby upon his shoulders in the twilight, with his face covered that he might not see the ground.—The prophet having performed these actions in the sight of the people, when they said to him, What dost thou? God ordered him to reply, ver. 11. "I am your sign: like as I have done, so shall it be done unto them: they shall remove and go into captivity. 12. And the prince that is among them shall bear upon his shoulder in the twilight, and shall go forth: they shall dig through the wall to carry out thereby: he shall cover his face that he see not the ground with his eyes. 13. My net also will I spread upon him, and he shall be taken in the snare: and I will bring him to Babylon, to the land of the Chaldeans, yet shall he not see it though he shall die there 14. And I will scatter towards every wind, all that are about him to help him." &c.

From these examples of significant actions, concerning which God declared that they were commanded to be done for the purpose of prefiguring future events, we may conclude, that those uncommon actions, which he commanded without declaring the purpose for which they were commanded, had, like the others, a typical meaning. This conclusion is warranted by the inspired writers, who in after times have pointed out the things signified by these actions. For example, when God ordered Abraham to sacrifice his only son, although he did not tell him the purpose for which that difficult command was given to him, yet from the apostle's terming the suspension of that command a receiving of Isaac from the dead for a parable, Heb. xi. 19. we learn, that by the command to sacrifice Isaac, and by the suspension of that command, the death and resurrection of God's only Son was prefigured. In like manner, when the sacrifice of the Passover was instituted, although no intimation was given of its having a typical meaning, we know that it prefigured the sacrifice of Christ, together with the influence of that sacrifice in procuring the salvation of believers. For we are told expressly, John xix. 36, that when our Lord hung on the cross his legs were not broken, that the command concerning the paschal lamb, Ex. xii. 46. "Neither shall ye brake a bone thereof," might be fulfilled. Besides, in allusion to the typical meaning of the Passover, Christ is called, 1 Cor. v. 7. Our Passover; and is said to be sacrificed for us. Farther, when God ordered Moses to lift up the image of a serpent on a pole, that the Israelites in the wilderness who were stung with serpents might be healed by looking at it, although nothing was said concerning its having a typical meaning, yet that it had such a meaning we learn from our Lord himself, who thus explained it, John iii. 14. "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life." Wherefore, the lifting up of the brazen serpent was a type of Christ's being lifted up on the cross; and the health which the Israelites obtained by looking to it, represented the salvation of those who believe on Christ as the Saviour of the world. Hence, in allusion to the typical meaning of the brazen serpent, Isaiah introduces Messiah saying, ch. xlv. 22. "Look unto me and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth."

Upon the whole, it appears, that the uncommon actions performed by the Jewish prophets, were all of them significant; both those whose meaning was declared, and those whose meaning was not declared; and that they were commanded by God for the purpose of prefiguring, in a symbolical manner, future persons and events.—It is true, the long duration of some of these symbolical actions, the labor with which they were performed, and the pain which they occasioned to the persons who performed them, have afforded infidels a pretence for speaking of the prophets as fanatics and madmen, who by such doings debased the prophetic office. For which reason, to vindicate the character of these holy men, some of the learned Jewish doctors have given it as their opinion, that these uncommon actions were transacted only in visions, in which the prophets seemed to themselves to do them. But this supposition is contradicted by the Scriptures, which represent the actions under consideration as done in the presence of the people, for the purpose of drawing their attention to the informations with which these actions were accompanied: an effect which the relation of a vision could not produce, because the incredulous and profane would naturally consider such a vision either as a fiction or as an illusion. The character, therefore, of the Jewish prophets will be more effectually vindicated, if we recollect what they themselves constantly affirmed; namely, that all the uncommon things which they did, they were commanded by God to do: and that, after the events prefigured by these actions came to pass, no doubt could be entertained of their being commanded by God to do them.—Next, if we remember, That in the early ages it was usual to convey instruction by symbolical actions, we shall be sensible, that the things for which the prophets have been censured as madmen, did not appear to their contemporaries in the light in which we moderns view them: that they excited the curiosity of the people among whom they were transacted, and led them to inquire of the prophets what they meant by them, as in the instances mentioned, Ezek. xii. 9. xxi. 7: That being addressed to the senses of mankind, they must have conveyed the instruction with which they were accompanied in the most forcible manner. And that instruction thus forcibly conveyed, making a strong impression on the mind of the spectators, must have been long remembered, and could be communicated to others with great accuracy. Thus it appears that in the early ages, when the art of writing was little known, the most effectual method of communicating and diffusing knowledge was to instruct the people by significant or symbolical actions, and that in fact this method was commonly practised, especially among the eastern nations Wherefore, the Jewish prophets are not to be ridiculed for the symbolical actions with which they accompanied their predictions. The importance of the end for which they performed these actions, and the success with which they accomplished that end, are a sufficient vindication both of the wisdom of God in commanding them, and of the good sense and piety of the prophets in performing them. For which reason, I think, we cannot be mistaken in believing they were all performed exactly as related in the scriptures.

SECTION V.

Of Instruction conveyed by some Actions and Events happening in the ordinary Course of Things.

I. It is now time to proceed to the consideration of a method in which God communicated the knowledge of things future, which though different from that described in the preceding section, and more removed from common observation, was nearly allied to it. For, whereas the prophets, by the divine direction assumed characters not naturally belonging to them. and performed actions altogether out of the common course, for the purpose of prefiguring future persons and events, the characters and actions and fortunes of some eminent persons, whose distinguished stations placed them in the view of the world, were so ordered by God as to be exact representations of future persons, who, when they arose, by the likeness of their characters, and actions, and fortunes, to those of the persons by whom they were represented, would make mankind sensible that the inspired teachers spake truly when they declared that the one had been prefigured by the other. In some instances, the persons whose characters and actions prefigured future events, were declared by God himself to be typical, long before the events which they prefigured came to pass But in other instances, many persons really typical were not known to be such, till after the things which they typified happened.

1. Of the first mentioned sort we have a remarkable example in Abraham, whom God declared to be a typical person by constituting him the father or type of believers of all nations; and by making with him as their father, a covenant in which he promised to be a God to him and to his seed in their generations, and to give to him and to his seed the land of Canaan for an everlasting possession; which promises had not only a literal but a typical or second meaning; as was showed at large in Ess. v. sec. 1, 2, &c. consequently the covenant with Abraham was an allegory.

2. A second example of a typical person we have in Melchizedec, who in his character of a king and priest united, was declared by God himself to be a type of his Son's becoming a king and a priest in the human nature; and who, by blessing Abraham, prefigured the efficacy of the priesthood and government of the Son of God in procuring for believers the pardon of their sins. Ps. cx. 4. "The Lord hath sworn, and will not repent, Thou art a priest forever after the similitude of Melchizedec."

3. Jacob likewise and Esau were typical persons; For their struggling together in their mother's womb, prefigured the wars which the nations who were to descend from them were to wage with each other: And Jacob's taking hold of Esau's heel in their birth, prefigured that the descendants of Jacob would subdue the descendants of Esau. So God told Rebecca Gen. xxv. 23. "Two nations are in thy womb; and two kinds of people shall be separated from thy bowels: and the one people shall be stronger than the other people; and the elder shall serve the younger."

4. Joshua, who was the high-priest of the Jews during the rebuilding of the temple, was an eminently typical person. For he prefigured our great high-priest Christ, as we learn from the vision in which the prophet Zechariah, ch. iii. 3. saw him standing before the angel of the Lord in filthy garments, to represent the iniquity of the many which was to be laid on Christ. These filthy garments the angel commanded to be taken away from him, and said, ver. 4. "Behold I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment. 5. And I said, Let them set a fair mitre upon his head: So they set a fair mitre upon his head," such as the high-priests wore when they officiated, "and clothed him with garments." Then to show the emblematical meaning of the vision, the angel of the Lord said, ver. 8. "Hear now, O Joshua, the high-priest, thou and thy fellows that set before thee, for they are men of wonder," Typical men. So the phrase signifies, Is. viii. 18. "For, behold I will bring forth my servant the Branch." Wherefore, Joshua in his character as high-priest, and his fellows the high-priests who preceded him, were all of them types, or prefigurations of God's servant the Branch, in his character as high-priest; which also the author of the epistle to the Hebrews hath proved at great length.—Farther, to show still more clearly that Joshua was a type of Christ, the prophet was ordered by God to take silver and gold and make crowns, and to set them on the head of Joshua in the house of Josiah, and to say to him, ch. vi. 12. "Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying, Behold the man whose name is the Branch, He shall grow up out of his place, and he shall build the temple of the Lord,—and he shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne, and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.' But the man whose name is the Branch, and who is here foretold to grow up out of his place, was, according to Isaiah, to be a descendant of Jesse. Ch. xi. 1. "And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a branch shall grow out of his roots." Wherefore, Joshua being a descendant of Aaron, was not the person whom Isaiah foretold under the idea of a Branch growing out of the roots of Jesse. Consequently, when God ordered the prophet to say to Joshua and the witnesses, after putting the crowns on Joshua's head, Behold the man whose name is the Branch, his meaning certainly was, that Joshua was a type of the man whose name is the Branch, in his two offices of a king and a priest, and as the builder of the true temple of the Lord. Accordingly, that this symbolical transaction might be remembered, and that Joshua in after ages might be known to have been a type and a pledge of the coming of the Man whose name is the Branch, the two crowns which the prophet had put on Joshua's head as symbols of the two offices in which he was a type of Christ, were, by the command of God, delivered to the witnesses to be laid up in the temple as a memorial, ver. 14.

If, because Zerubbabel at this time was the prince of the Jews, any one suspects that he and not Joshua was called the Man whose name is the Branch, he ought to consider that, of the man whose name is the Branch, it is said, ver. 13. not only "that he shall build the temple of the Lord,—and shall sit and rule upon his throne," but that "he shall be a priest upon his throne." For this could not be said of Zerubbabel, who was not a descendant of Aaron. We may therefore conclude, that the things said and done to Joshua by the prophet Zechariah, were said and done to him as a type of Christ.

5. Of typical persons who were not declared to be such, till the persons of whom they were types appeared, Adam deserves to be first mentioned. For in respect of his being the author of sin and death to all his posterity, he is said by the Apostle, Rom. v. 14. to be by contrast, τυπος, "the type or figure of him (Christ) who was to come" for the purpose of being the author of righteousness and life to mankind. See Rom. v. 14. notes. Hence Christ is called, 1 Cor. xv. 45. The last Adam.—Adam was likewise a type of Christ in this respect, that Eve, who was an image of the church, was formed of a rib taken from Adam's side while he was in a deep sleep. For this transaction prefigured the formation of the church the Lamb's wife, by the breaking of Christ's side on the cross, while he slept the sleep of death, as the apostle insinuateth, Eph. v. 32. See the note on that verse.

6. Of persons who in their natural characters and fortunes were types of future persons and events, Abraham's wives and sons are remarkable examples. His wives Hagar and Sarah, were types of the two covenants by which men become the people of God, and his sons Ishmael and Isaac were, in their characters and state, types of the people of God under these covenants. So the apostle Paul assures us, Gal. iv. 22. "It is written that Abraham had two sons; one by the bond-maid, and one by the free woman. 23. But he verily who was born of the bond-maid, was begotten according to the flesh; but he who was born of the free woman was through the promise. 24. Which things are an allegory: For these women are the two covenants: The one verily from Mount Sinai bringing forth children unto bondage, which is Agar. 25. For the name Agar denotes Mount Sinai in Arabia, and she answereth to the present Jerusalem, and is in bondage with her children. 26. But the Jerusalem above is the free woman, who is the mother of us all." See Gal. iv. 24. notes 1. 2. and ver. 25. notes, where, and in the commentary, this allegory is explained.

7. The third typical person I shall mention is David, who was raised by God to the government of the natural seed of Abraham, that in his office as their king, and in his wars against their enemies, he might be a type of Christ the ruler and saviour of Abraham's spiritual seed. This appears from what the angel who announced our Lord's birth said to his mother, Luke i. 32. "The Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David, and he shall rule over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there shall be no end." For in what sense could our Lord's spiritual dominion be called the kingdom of his father David, unless David's kingdom was a type thereof? In fact, the power and success with which David governed the natural seed, and subdued the neighboring heathen nations, their enemies, was a fit prefiguration of the power and success with which Christ rules the spiritual seed, and subdues their enemies.—That David was a type of Christ appears from this also, that the prophets who foretold to the Israelites the coming of Christ, named him David, and David their king: by a common metonymy giving the name of the type to the person typified. See Jer. xxx. 9. Ezek. xxxiv. 23. xxxvii. 24. Hosea iii. 4. 5. and Is. lv. 3. Acts xiii. 34. particularly the last mentioned passage, where the benefits which the spiritual seed derive from the government of Christ, and in particular their safety from their enemies, are termed, The sure mercies of David.—In short, unless David in his government of the natural seed was a type of Christ in his government of the spiritual seed, no just interpretation can be given of the divine revelations and promises which were made to him, and which are recorded by Ethan, Ps. lxxxix. 19.—37. Whereas, if these things were spoken to David as an image or type of Christ, the whole is plain, and hath received a complete accomplishment.

8. The fourth typical person whose history is given in Scripture is Solomon, who in his ruling the natural seed, and in his building the temple, prefigured Christ the ruler of the spiritual Israel, and the builder of the Christian church, the great temple of God which in its perfect form will subsist in the heavenly country. For as David's government was so ordered by God, as to be a striking representation of the powerful government which Christ now exercises, for protecting his people, and subduing their enemies, so God raised up Solomon a peaceful king, and made Israel enjoy peace and prosperity under his government, and appointed him to build the temple of God at Jerusalem, 1 Chron. xxii. 9. 10. to prefigure the peace and happiness which the spiritual Israel shall enjoy after all their enemies are completely destroyed, and they themselves are introduced into the heavenly country, and formed into one great church or temple for the worship of God This appears from Ps. lxxii. where Solomon's character and actions as a king are delineated, and the happy effects of his government are described. For in that Psalm things are spoken of him which do not belong to him, unless as a type of Christ: particularly ver. 5. "They shall fear thee as long as the sun and moon endure, throughout all generations."—Ver. 11. "All kings shall fall down before him, all nations shall serve him. 12. For he shall deliver the needy when he crieth, the poor also, and him who hath no helper.—14. He shall redeem their soul from deceit and violence; and precious shall their blood be in his sight.—Ver. 17. His name shall endure forever; his name shall be continued as long as the sun: and men shall be blessed in him: all nations shall call him blessed."—This last circumstance indisputably proves Solomon to have been a type of Christ, for it was one of the distinguishing characters of Christ, Abraham's seed, That, "in him all the nations of the earth were to be blessed."—Moreover, Ps. xlv. cannot be interpreted of Solomon, unless on the supposition that he was a type of Christ: for in his natural character, it could not be said to Solomon, ver. 6. "Thy throne, O God, is forever and ever; the sceptre of thy kingdom is a sceptre of rectitude. Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated wickedness; therefore, O God, thy God hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy associates." See Heb. i. 8. note 1.

9. The fifth allegorical or typical person spoken of in Scripture, is the Son of the prophetess whose birth was foretold, Is. vii. 14. "The Lord himself shall give you a sign, Behold a virgin shall conceive and bear a Son, and shall call his name Immanuel. 15. Butter and honey shall he eat, that he may know to refuse the evil and choose the good. 16. For before the child shall know to refuse the evil and choose the good, the land that thou abhorrest shall be forsaken of both her kings."—B Lowth says this passage should be translated in the following manner. "Behold this virgin shall conceive, and bear a Son, and thou shalt call his name Immanuel: butter and honey shall be eat when he shall know to refuse evil and choose good. For before this child shall know to refuse evil and choose good, the land shall be desolate, by whose two kings thou art distressed." On Isaiah, page 63. Lowth adds, "Harmer has clearly shown, that these articles of food (butter and honey) are delicacies in the East; and as such denote a state of plenty, see also Josh. v. 6. They therefore naturally express the plenty of the country, as a mark of peace restored to it." And in confirmation of his opinion, he cites Jarchi, "Butyrum et mel comedet infans iste, quoniam terra nostra plena erit omnis boni." He then proceeds thus, page 64: "Agreeably to the observations communicated by the learned person above-mentioned (Harmer), which perfectly well explain the historical sense of this much disputed passage, not excluding a higher secondary sense, the obvious and literal meaning of the prophecy is this, That within the time that a young woman, now a virgin, should conceive and bring forth a child, and that child should arrive at such an age as to distinguish between good and evil, that is, within a few years (compare viii. 4.) the enemies of Judah should be destroyed." And to show that this prophecy actually hath a higher secondary meaning, that learned expositor reasons as follows: "But the prophecy is introduced in so solemn a manner; the sign is so marked, as a sign selected and given by God himself, after Ahaz had rejected the offer of any sign of his own choosing out of the whole compass of nature; the terms of the prophecy are so peculiar, and the name of the child so expressive; containing in them much more than the circumstances of the birth of a common child required, or even admitted; that we may easily suppose, that, in minds prepared by the general expectation of a great deliverer to spring from the house of David, they raised hopes far beyond what the present occasion suggested: especially when it was found, that in the subsequent prophecy, delivered immediately afterward, this child called Immanuel is treated as the Lord and prince of the land of Judah."—(Ch. viii 8.) To the things mentioned by Lowth, I add, that the account of the character and actions of this child given, Is. ix. 5. is by no means applicable to the Son of the prophetess, unless as a type of the divine person who was to be the deliverer of the people of God. "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given, and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called wonderful, counsellor, the mighty God, the everlasting father, the Prince of Peace. 7. Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David and upon his kingdom to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice, from henceforth, even forever: the zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this."

That the prediction of a virgin's conceiving and bearing a Son who was to be called Immanuel, was at that time understood to be a promise of the birth of a great and even a divine person, B. Lowth says, "may be collected with great probability from a passage of Micah, a prophet contemporary with Isaiah, but who began to prophesy after him; and who, as I have already observed, imitated him, and sometimes used his expressions. Micah having delivered that remarkable prophecy, which determines the place of the birth of Messiah the ruler of God's people, whose goings forth have been of old from everlasting, that it should be Bethlehem Ephrata; adds immediately, that nevertheless in the meantime God would deliver his people into the hands of their enemies; he will give them up, till she who is to bear a child shall bring forth, Micah v. 3. This obviously and plainly refers to some known prophecy concerning a woman to bring forth a child; and seems much more properly applicable to this passage of Isaiah, than to any other of the same prophet, to which some interpreters have applied it. St. Matthew, therefore, in applying this prophecy to the birth of Christ, ch. i. 22, 23. does it not merely in accommodating the words of the prophet to a suitable case, not in the prophet's view, but takes it in its strictest, clearest, and most important sense, and applies it according to the original design and principal intention of the prophet."

10. The sixth allegorical or typical person mentioned in Scripture, is the prophet Jonah, whose preservation in the belly of the whale during three days and three nights, and his being after that vomited up alive, Christ himself declares was a type of his own continuance in the grave, and of his subsequent resurrection from the dead. Matt. xii. 39. "An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign, and there shall no sign be given to it but the sign of the prophet Jonah. 40. For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the whale's belly: so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." Farther, by saying, Luke xi. 30. "As Jonah was a sign to the Ninevites, so shall also the Son of Man be to this generation;" our Lord insinuated, that as the miraculous preservation of Jonah in the whale's belly, when related to the Ninevites, induced them to give credit to the message which he brought to them from God, so Christ's resurrection from the dead, preached to mankind by his apostles, would induce many to believe on him as the Son of God. Wherefore, in both these particulars, Jonah was a type of Christ.

II. Having said thus much concerning persons, who in their natural characters, and actions, and fortunes, are declared to have been types of future persons and events, it remains to speak of events happening to the ancient church and people of God, which, by the circumstances wherewith they were accompanied, are showed to have been typical of greater events that were to happen to the people of God under the Gospel dispensation. Now concerning these I have two observations to make.

Digitized by Google

The first is, that the things respecting the ancient people of God, which prefigured the greater things to happen to the people of God under the Gospel dispensation, were in some instances foretold before they happened to the ancient people. My second observation is, that the prediction of these figurative events were also predictions of the events which they prefigured. Of this double sense of prophecy various instances might be given. Suffice it, however, to mention one instance only; namely, the deliverance of the Jews from the Babylonish captivity, and their restoration to the land of Canaan. These, though natural events, prefigured the much greater and more important deliverance of mankind from the captivity of sin, and their introduction into the heavenly Canaan. For, in the writings of the evangelists, passages of the prophecies which foretold the deliverance from Babylon, are applied to that greater deliverance. For example, Is. xl. 2. 3. is said by Matthew, ch. iii. 3. and by our Lord himself, Matt. xi. 10. to have been fulfilled by John Baptist's preaching in the wilderness of Judea. Yet these verses in their first and literal meaning, evidently relate to the return of the Jews from Babylon. For Isaiah, in the end of ch. xxxix. having foretold that all the riches of his palaces, which Hezekiah had from pride shown to the messengers of the king of Babylon, should be carried away to Babylon, and that his sons should be carried thither captives, and made eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon, the prophet in this xlth chapter mitigated the severity of that prediction, by foretelling, that whilst the Jews were oppressed with the miseries of their captivity, God would order his prophets who were among them to comfort his people, by assuring them that their captivity would at length come to an end; because, considering their sufferings as a sufficient punishment for their sins as a nation, he would pardon and restore them to their own land, ver. 2. "Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned, for she hath received of the Lord's hands double for all her sins." The people in Babylon being thus assured that they were to be brought back to Judea, "the first thought," as B. Lowth observes, "which would occur to the captives, would be the difficulty and danger of their passing through the deserts of Arabia, where the nearest way from Babylon to Jerusalem lay." Wherefore the prophets in Babylon, to remove the fears of the people, were ordered to assure them, that by whatever road they should return, it would be made commodious for their safe passage. And this assurance the prophets would give them in language taken from the custom of the eastern princes, who, when they were about to march with their armies through difficult roads, sent pioneers before them to widen the narrow passes, to fill up the hollows, to level the heights, and to smooth the rough ways through which they were to march, ver. 3. "The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord; make straight in the desert an high way for our God 4. Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low, and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain." By these images the prophets intimated, that God was to march from Babylon at the head of his people, to protect them during their journey, and to bring them safely into Judea. These things are more plainly expressed, Is. lii. 12 "Ye shall not go out with haste, nor go by flight; for the Lord will go before you, and the God of Israel will be your re-reward."

But although this whole prophecy, in its first and literal meaning, evidently related to the deliverance of the Jews from Babylon, the application of the above cited passage to the preaching of John Baptist by the evangelist Matthew, and by our Lord himself, showeth plainly that the prophecies concerning the deliverance of the people of God from the Babylonish captivity, had a second and higher meaning, of which the literal sense was the sign. By foretelling the deliverance of the Jews from Babylon, these prophecies foretold the deliverance of mankind from the infinitely worse bondage of sin. Moreover, the command to the prophets in Babylon to comfort God's people by announcing that their sins were pardoned, and that they were soon to be brought back to their own land, was a command to the ministers of the gospel in every age to comfort penitent believers, by assuring them, that their sins shall be pardoned; and that Christ will bring them safely into the heavenly country, (of which the restoration of the Jews to Canaan was an emblem and pledge,) because he hath successfully removed all obstacles out of their way. The preparation of the way of the Lord among the Jews by the preaching of John Baptist, was fitly expressed by the voice of one crying in the wilderness. For, as Lowth observes on Isaiah, page 188. "The Jewish church, to which John was sent to announce the coming of Messiah, was at that time in a barren and desert condition; unfit, without reformation, for the reception of her king. It was in this desert country, destitute at that time of all religious cultivation, in true piety and good works unfruitful, that John was sent to prepare the way of the Lord by preaching repentance."

Many other examples of prophecies might be mentioned, in which the return of the Jews from Babylon was foretold, and of which passages are applied, by the writers of the New Testament, to the redemption of mankind from the bondage of sin. But the one explained above, may suffice as a proof of what is called the double sense of prophecy, in which the obvious literal sense exhibits a second and higher meaning: So that these prophecies, properly speaking, are true allegories.

Thus it appears, That the high figurative expressions in the Jewish Scriptures which are so offensive to modern ears and to minute phi losophers, were occasioned by the poverty of the first language of mankind: That the boldest of these figures were derived from the ancient picture-writing: That the symbols used in that kind of writing gave rise to the dark Egyptian allegory, which was held in great estimation at the time the Scriptures were written: And that in the early ages, mankind, whether barbarous or civilized, were accustomed to express their sentiments and feelings by significant actions as well as by significant sounds. These things considered, it cannot be matter either of surprise or of blame, that the Jewish prophets exhorted the people and foretold future events in such figurative language as to us moderns appears extravagant; or that they delivered their exhortations and predictions in dark allegories, formed on the qualities and circumstances of the symbols, by which the persons and nations concerning whom they prophesied were denoted in picture-writing; or even that, on extraordinary occasions, they foretold things future by what may be called a drama continued through a great length of time, in which they spake and acted things which excited the wonder of the spectators, and led them to inquire what the prophets meant by them, and, when explained, could not but make a strong impression upon their imagination. These things were all done suitably to the genius and manners of the times, and were easily understood by the people for whose instruction they were intended.—And with respect to the persons who, in the Scriptures, are said in their natural characters and actions to have been types of future persons and events, that method of foretelling things future was of the same kind with allegorical prophecy: for surely it made no difference whether the allegory was formed on the qualities and actions of a symbol, or on the qualities and actions of a real person. In the symbolical or instituted allegory, it was showed to be an allegory by the particulars of which it was composed. But in the natural allegory, the characters and events of which it was composed do not show it to be an allegory. Wherefore, before these are considered by us as allegories, or prefigurations of future persons and events, we ought to be assured by some one or other of the prophets or inspired persons who afterwards arose, that they are allegories, otherwise they ought not to be considered as such.—By this rule the futility of those allegorical meanings which some of the ancient fathers put on many passages of Scripture will clearly appear. And the humor of finding mystical senses in the sacred oracles, which some of the modern commentators have too much indulged, will be effectually repressed.

Upon the whole, the observation suggested in the beginning of this Essay may now be repeated with some confidence; namely, That the high figurative language by which the Jewish Scriptures are so strongly marked, together with the allegorical and typical senses with which they abound, and the extraordinary things done by the Jewish prophets, instead of being instances of absurdity and signs of imposture, are proofs of their antiquity and authenticity; and even strong presumptions of the divine original of the revelations contained in these venerable writings

A CHRONOLOGICAL HARMONY OF THE SCRIPTURE HISTORIES, AND OF THE FULFILMENT OF ITS PREDICTIONS.

Year of World.	Before Christ.
——	——	From eternity JEHOVAH himself alone subsisted in three persons, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost; Ge. 21. 33, De. 32. 27 Ps. 90. 2; Is. 44. 6; Hab. 1. 12; 1 John 5. 7; 2 Cor. 13. 14; Mat. 28. 19;—3. 16, 17, &c.
1	4004	God decreed whatever comes to pass; Ac. 15. 18; Is. 46. 10; Eph. 1. 11; 2 Ti. 1. 9, &c. He made the covenant of grace with his Son as the Mediator and Representative of his elect; Ps. 40. 6..8;—89, 3, 4; Is. 53. 10; Jer 30. 21; Zec. 6. 13.
1	4004	God created all things; covenanted with mankind; Adam fell into sin, and his posterity in him; God published salvation by Christ, but denounced troubles and sorrows in this life; Gen. i..iii.; Ex. 20. 11; Ec. 7. 29; Ro. 5. 12..21, 1 Cor. 15. 22.
2	4003	Cain, and not long after Abel is born, perhaps with twin-sisters. Some years after Cain becomes a husbandman, Abel a shepherd, Ge. iv.
129	3875	Cain and Abel offer sacrifice. Cain murders Abel, and is punished; but his family increases; Ge. iv.; Heb. 11. 4; 1 John 3. 12; Jude. Next year Seth is born.
235	3769	Enos is born. Public societies for God's worship are introduced, to distinguish the Sethites from the offspring of Cain Ge. 5. 6;—4. 26.
987	3017	After predicting the last judgment, pious Enoch is translated to heaven without tasting of death; Ge. 5. 23, 24; Heb 11. 5; Jude 14, 15.
056	2948	Noah, the famous preacher and patriarch, is born, to the great joy of Lamech his father; Ge. 5. 28; Eze. 14. 14, 20.
1536	2468	The Sethites marrying with the Cainites, men become abominably wicked. Noah warns them of the flood, and begins to build his ark; Ge. vi. Heb. 11. 7; 1 Pet. 3. 20; 2 Pet. 2. 5.
1656	2348	Methuselah, son of Enoch, dies. The world, with perhaps double of its present inhabitants, is drowned by a flood Noah, his family, and some animals, are preserved in the ark; Ge. 5. 27;—vii. Lu. 17. 26, 27; Mat 24. 37..39; Job 22. 16; 1 Pe. 3. 19, 20; 2 Pe. 2. 5;—3. 6.
1657	2347	The flood ceases; the ark settles in Armenia: Noah, his sons, and the animals, come forth of the ark. Noah offers sacrifices of thanksgiving. God covenants with him; allows him to eat flesh; forbids murder; gives him the rainbow, as a token that the earth should never more be drowned. Not long after Noah plants a vineyard; is drunk; and foretells the fate of his seed; Gen. viii. ix. Is. 54. 8..10.
1760	2244	Men, being generally recorrupted, build the tower of BABEL. God confounds their language, and disperses them. Nimrod founds a kingdom in Chaldea, Ashur another in Assyria, and Mizraim a third in Egypt; Ge. x. xi. xii.
2008	1996	Two years after the death of Noah Abraham is born, in the 130th year of Terah. Sarai or Iscah, his brother Haran's daughter, is born ten years after; Ge. 11. 26..32;—17. 17;—20. 12.
2079	1925	Chedorlaomer, king of Elam, subdues the kingdoms of Sodom, Gomorrah, &c. Gen. 14. 1..3.
2083	1921	Terah dying after they had dwelt five years in Haran, Abraham, directed by God, and encouraged by a promise of Christ, and a numerous seed, enters Canaan. The land is promised to his seed. A famine forces him into Egypt. From hence the 430 years of the Hebrew sojourning are reckoned by some; Ge. xii. Jos. 24. 2, 3; Neh. 9. 7, 8; Ps. 105. 15; Ex. 12. 40, 41; Ac. 7. 2..5; Gal. 3. 17; Heb. 11. 8
——	——	Returning to Canaan, Lot retires to Sodom. God renews his covenant with Abraham. He removed southward to Hebron, and built an altar for the worship of God; Ge. xiii.
2091	1913	After twelve years' servitude the kings of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, Zeboim, and Zoar, revolted; Chedorlaomer and his allies ravage their country, defeat their troops, take Lot and others captive. Abraham defeats the conquerors, rescues the prisoners, recovers the spoil, and is blessed by Melchizedek. God promises him a numerous seed, and Canaan for their inheritance; Ge. 9. 25;—xiv. xv. Heb. 7. 1—11; Acts 7. 6, 7; Gal. 3. 17; Ps. 105. 9..15; Neh. 9. 7, 8.
2106	1898	God constitutes Abram, and his seed by Isaac, his peculiar people; appoints circumcision as the seal of this covenant; changes Abram's and Sarai's names.—Soon after he and two angels visit Abraham and Sarah, renew the promise of
2107	1897	Isaac's birth; Abraham intercedes for the preservation of Sodom, &c. the two angels warn Lot and his family to remove; Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboim, are destroyed by fire and brimstone; Lot's wife is turned into a pillar of salt; the Dead Sea is formed out of this country. Not long after, Lot, made drunk by his two daughters, commits incest with them, and hence the Moabites and Ammonites proceeded; Gen. xvii..xix. Is. 13. 19;—1. 9, 10; Eze. 16. 46..50; Zep. 2. 9; 2 Pet. 2. 6..8; Jude 7; Amos 4. 11.
2108	1896	Sarah bears Isaac. About three or four years after Ishmael mocks him; and he and Hagar are in consequence expelled from the family; Ge. xxi. Ac. 7. 8; Ro. 9. 9; Heb. 11. 11, 12; Gal. 4. 22..31.
2144	1860	To try Abraham's faith and obedience, God commands him to offer Isaac in sacrifice. Abraham readily obeys; Isaac's death is prevented, and Abraham and his family greatly blessed; Gen. xxii. Heb. 11. 17..19; James 2. 21.—Soon after Sarah dies; and is buried at Machpelah; Gen. xxiii.—49. 30..32.
2148	1856	Isaac, by the direction of Providence, is married to Rebekah the daughter of Bethuel, his Syrian cousin, Gen. xxiv.; Shem, the Son of Noah, dies ten years after; Ge. 11. 10, 11.
2168	1836	While Abraham's family by Keturah and Hagar mightily increase, Esau and Jacob are born to Isaac; Ge. xxv. Jos. 24 4; Acts 7. 8; Ro. 9. 10..13.
2183	1821	Abraham dies. Four years after, Heber, the great grandson of Shem, dies, aged 464 years; from whom the HEBREWS were named; Gen 25. 7;—11. 17.
2208	1796	Esau, having sold Jacob his birthright, marries two Canaanites, which grieves his parents; Gen. 25. 27..34;—26. 34; Heb. 12. 16.
——	——	Being blessed of God, Isaac greatly prospers, notwithstanding the Philistines' envy; Gen. xxvi.
2244	1760	Instigated by his mother, Jacob fraudulently obtains his father's principal blessing. Esau's rage hereat obliges him to flee to Mesopotamia. He receives a vision and promise at Bethel; arrives at Haran; and serves Laban his uncle; Ge. xxvii..xxix. Heb. 12. 16; Ge. 31. 13; Hos. 12. 3, 4, 12.
2251	1753	For his service, Jacob receives Leah and Rachel, his two cousins, for wives; by whom, and their handmaids, within fourteen years, he has eleven sons and one daughter. God also renders him rich in flocks; Ge. xxix. xxx. Hos. 12. 12 Acts 7. 8.
2265	1739	After serving Laban for twenty years, Jacob and his family privately remove to Canaan. Laban pursues, but is pacified Jacob meets with angels at Mahanaim;—with God at Peniel; and with Esau in love; Ge. xxxi..xxxiii.
2270	1734	Dinah is deflowered, and the Shechemites circumcised and murdered. Jacob removes to Bethel, where Deborah, Rebekah's nurse, dies Soon after Rachel dies in childbirth of Benjamin. Reuben commits incest with Bilhah; Ge xxxiv. xxxv
2276	1728	Joseph, now seventeen years old, is, for his dreams, hated, and sold by his brethren, to Ishmaelites and Midianites, who sell him to Potiphar the Egyptian; Gen. xxxvii. Ps. 105. 17; Acts 7. 9.
2286	1718	About seventeen years after his marriage with Shuah the Canaanitess, Judah commits incest with Tamar his daughter-in-law, who bears him Pharez and Zarah. Joseph refuses to commit adultery with his mistress; and, by false accusation, is imprisoned; Gen. xxxviii. xxxix. Ps. 105. 18.
2288	1716	Isaac dies, aged 180 years. Soon after, Esau removes from Canaan, and finally settles in mount Seir; where his family cohabiting with the Horites, wonderfully increased; Gen. 35. 28. 29;—xxxvi.
2289	1715	Having, perhaps two years before, interpreted the dreams of the baker and butler, Joseph is liberated, and interprets those of Pharaoh; is made ruler of Egypt, and married to a princess; Gen. xl. xli. Ps. 105. 19..22; Ac. 7. 10.
2296	1708	After seven plenteous years, a terrible famine begins in Egypt and the places about; Ge. 42. 52; Ac. 7. 11; Ps. 105. 16.
2298	1706	After Jacob's sons had twice gone to Egypt to buy corn, and been tried by Joseph, he, and all his family, go and reside there, and are nourished by Joseph; Gen. xlii—xlvi Acts 7. 11..15; Ps. 105. 17, 23; Jos. 24. 4.
——	——	By the sale of the corn which he had laid up during the plenteous years, Joseph renders the money, cattle, lands, and
2303	1701	persons of the Egyptians, their king's property; Ge. xlvii.
2315	1689	After blessing Joseph's sons and his own, Jacob dies, and is with great pomp carried to Canaan and buried. Joseph's brethren supplicate forgiveness; Gen. xlvii..l. Acts 7. 15, 16; Heb. 11. 21.
2369	1635	Joseph, having foretold the deliverance from Egypt, and given order concerning his bones, dies; Ge. 50. 22..26; Heb 11. 22.
2413	1591	The oppression of the Israelites begins. Twenty years after Moses is born; and is saved from the water, and educated by Pharaoh's daughter; Gen. 15. 13; Ex. i.—2. 1..10;—7 7;—16. 20; Acts 7. 18..22; Heb. 11. 23.
2473	1531	Moses, now forty years old, kills a murderous Egyptian; flees into Midian; marries Jethro's daughter; Ex. 2. 11 22 Acts 7. 23..29; Heb. 11. 24..26.

Year of World	Before Christ.
		About this time Job is plunged into great distress; disputes with his friends; is reproved by his Maker, and graciously delivered; Job i..xlii. Ja. 5. 11; Eze. 14. 14, 20.
2513	1491	Pitying the Hebrews' affliction, God appears to Moses at Sinai in a burning bush; appoints him and Aaron to lead them out of Egypt. After ten plagues the Egyptians allow them to depart; but afterwards pursue them through the Red Sea, and are drowned to the great joy of the Hebrews; Gen. 15. 13, 14;—46. 4; Ex. 2. 23..25;—iii..xv.—20. 2; De. 4. 20, 34.—7. 18, 19;—11. 2, 3;—29. 2, 3; Jos. 24. 5..7; 1 Sam. 12. 8; Neh. 9. 9..12; Ps. 66. 10. 12;—74. 12..15;—78. 12..14, 42..53;—80. 8;—81. 5, 6;—87. 13..20;—105. 26..39;—114. 1..3;—135. 8, 9;—136. 10..15; Is. 63. 7..14; Jer. 32. 20, 21; Eze. 16. 3..6; Acts 8. 30..36; Heb. 11. 27..29. Directed by the pillar of cloud, the Hebrews travel in the Arabian desert south-eastward to Sinai. The bitter waters of Marah are sweetened. Quails, manna, and water from the rock, are bestowed by God for their provision. They defeat the Amalekites, and have rulers appointed; receive God's laws from mount Sinai, and are entered into covenant with him. God directs the form of his tabernacle; appoints his priests, and their consecration. Moses receives the tables of the moral law, but breaks them when he beheld the Hebrews worshipping their golden calf. By his intercession their destruction is prevented, and the tables of the law renewed; Ex. 15. 22..26;—xvi..xxxiv. De. 1. 6..18;—iv. v. ix.—10. 1..5; Neh. 9. 12..20. Ps. 68. 7, 8, 17;—78. 15..25, —105. 40, 41;—106. 13..16, 19..23; Eze. 16. 8..14;—20. 5..26; Acts 7. 37..44.
2514	1490	The furniture of the tabernacle is formed. It is erected, consecrated, and dedicated; Ex. xxxv..xl. Nu. vii. Aaron and his sons are consecrated for priests; Lev. viii. ix. Laws of oblations, purifications, and festivals, are enacted by God; Lev. i..vii. x..xxvii. The second passover is kept; Nu. ix. The Hebrews are numbered and marshalled; Nu. i. ii. x; and Levites appointed to serve God instead of the first born, and consecrated; Nu. iii. iv. viii. After the giving of some other laws concerning the purity of the camp, suspected adulteresses, Nazarites, the priests' blessing of the people, and making two silver trumpets, the Hebrews march from Sinai. They murmur, and are plagued; have seventy elders added or confirmed in office. Miriam is smitten with leprosy and healed. The spies search Canaan. On their false report the Israelites despise it, and are condemned to wander and die in the wilderness. Korah and his companions rebel, and are fearfully destroyed. The priesthood is confirmed to Aaron and his family by the budding of his rod; and some laws, relative to oblations and purifications, are given; Nu. v. vi. x..xix;—33. 15..20; De 1 19..46;—9. 22, 23;—11. 5, 6; Ps. 78. 30..40;—106. 17, 18, 24..27.
2552	1452	After wandering thirty-seven years in the Arabian desert, the Israelites come back to Kadeshbarnea. They murmur for want of water; Moses smites a rock to provide them with it. He and Aaron offend God. The Edomites refuse the Israelites a passage. Aaron dies. The Israelites murmur at the manna, and are plagued by fiery serpents, but healed
2553	1451	by the sight of a brazen one. They conquer the Canaanitish kingdoms of Sihon and Og on the east of Jordan, which are afterwards given to the Reubenites, Gadites, and Manassites; Nu. 20. 21..47;—xxxi.—xxxii. De. ii. iii.—10. 6. Ps. 106. 32, 33; John 3. 14, 15; Jos. 12. 1..6;—13. 8..32;—20. 8; Neh. 9. 16..23; Eze. 20. 17..26.
		Balaam at Balak's request, repeatedly attempts to curse the Hebrews; but God obliges him to bless them, and denounce destruction upon their enemies. Advised by him, the women of Moab and Midian seduce the Israelites to whoredom and idolatry; which issues in a plague to Israel, and in destruction to Balaam and the Midianites; Nu. xxii..xxv.—xxxi. Ps. 106. 28..31; 2 Pet. 2. 14, 15; Jude 11. Rev. 2. 14; Mic. 6. 4; De. 23. 3..6; Jos. 24. 9, 10;—13. 21, 22. The new generation of Israelites are numbered, the manner of dividing Canaan settled; Joshua appointed to conquer it; its boundaries marked out, and princes nominated to divide it; Gen. 15. 18..21; Nu. xxvi. xxvii. xxxiv. Laws of oblations at festivals; of vows; of cities of refuge; and of marriage of heiresses are instituted; Nu. xxviii..xxx. xxxv. xxxvi
——	——	After a most solemn rehearsal of God's providences; an inculcation, explication, and enlargement of his laws; and declaration of his blessings and curses; Moses retires to mount Nebo or Pisgah, and dies, and is buried by God; De. i. xxxiv.
2554	1450	Succeeding to Moses, and encouraged by God, Joshua sends spies to Jericho; passes Jordan in a miraculous manner, circumcises the Hebrews; causes them to observe the passover; takes Jericho; punishes Achan for his sacrilege; takes Ai by stratagem; makes a league with the Gibeonites; Jos. i..ix. Heb. 11. 30, 31.
2560	1444	After spending six years in the conquest of the south and north parts of Canaan, Joshua, in the seventh, divides it by lot to the tribes of Judah and Ephraim, the Manassites, the tribes of Benjamin, Simeon, Issachar, Zebulun, Asher, Naphtali, and Dan; sets up the tabernacle at Shiloh; appoints the cities of refuge, and assigns to the Levites forty eight cities and their suburbs; dismisses the Reubenites and Gadites to their home on the east of Jordan, who erect an altar of memorial. The year after was the first sabbatical year, from which the years of release and of jubilee were afterwards reckoned; Gen. 15. 18..21;—xlix. Ex. 23. 22..31; De. viii. xi.—32. 8..14; Jos. x..xxii. Neh 9 23. 24; Ps. 44. 2, 3;—66. 12;—68. 10..12;—78. 54, 55;—8. 8..11;—105. 42..45;—35. 10..12;—136. 17..22; Jer. 32. 21, 22 Eze. 16. 8..14;—20. 28; Acts 7. 44.
2570	1434	Joshua assembles the Israelites; once and again he rehearses God's favour to them; renews their covenant with God and dies, aged 110 years: Eleazar, the high priest, dies soon after; Jos. xxiii. xxiv.
——	——	Many of the Canaanites being left in the land, and permitted to entice them, most of the new generation abandon themselves to idolatry and its attendant impieties. Micah and the Danites are ringleaders herein. By refusal to punish
2591 or 2579	1413 or 1425	the lewd rakes of Gibeah, the Benjamites had procured their almost utter destruction. To punish their wickedness, the Lord delivers up the Israelites for eight years to the oppression of the Mesopotamians; Jud. i..iii. xvii. .xxi. 2 Ki 17. 7, &c. Neh. 9. 26, 27; Eze. 20. 28, 29.
2599 or 2587	1405 or 1417	Othniel, of the tribe of Judah, delivers the Israelites: and the land rests forty years; Jud. 3. 10, 11.
2679 or 2645	1335 or 1359	The Israelites having relapsed into idolatry, God delivers them into the hand of the Moabites for eighteen years; Jud. 3. 12..14; after which Ehud, a left-handed man, of the almost ruined tribe of Benjamin, delivers them; and the land rests eighty years. During this period Shamgar routs the Philistines, and Boaz marries Ruth; Jud. 3. 15..31; Ruth i..iv.
2759 or 2792	1245 or 1212	After they had been seven years oppressed by the Midianites, Gideon a Manassite delivers them; Jud. vi. vii.
2799 or 2835 or 2771	1205 or 1169 or 1233	After Abimelech, a bastard son of Gideon, had murdered sixty-nine of his brethren, and tyrannized over Israel three years, he quarrels with his Shechemite friends; is knocked on the head with a stone thrown by a woman from a tower; and, at his desire, killed by his armour-bearer; Jud. ix. 2 Sa. 11. 21. Tola begun to judge the Israelites on the west of Jordan. Perhaps not long after, Jair the Gileadite began to judge those on the east of Jordan. It was
2799 or 2840	1205 or 1164	perhaps while they were conjunct judges that the Ammonites terribly oppressed the Israelites eighteen years; Jud x.
2815 or 2878	1187 or 1126	Jephthah, a bastard of Gilead, delivers the Israelites; sacrifices his daughter to fulfil a rash vow; and puts to the sword 42,000 insolent Ephraimites; Jud. xi. xii.
——	——	After, or while, Jephthah judged Israel six years, Ibzan seven, Elon ten, and Abdon eight, God delivers the Israelites,
2848 or 2869	1156 or 1135	for forty years, into the hands of the Philistines. Meanwhile Eli the high priest, of Ithamar's family, judges Israel Samson is born and appointed to be a Nazarite. About the same time, or a few years afterwards, Samuel is born Jud. xii. xiii. 1 Sa. i.
——	——	After Samson had for twenty years harassed the Philistines, he is taken prisoner, and enslaved by them; but at his
2888 or 2909	1116 or 1095	death pulls down the house, and kills multitudes of them. Encouraged by this, the Israelites attack the Philistines but, being defeated, bring the ark to the camp; they are again routed, and the ark is taken. The judgments, attending the ark, on themselves, and on Dagon their idol, beside which they placed it, oblige the Philistines to send it back with honourable presents. The curious Bethshemites looking into it, 50,000 of them are struck dead. It is never returned to Shiloh, but remains at Kirjath-jearim; Jud. xiv..xvi. 1 Sa. iv. vi.—12. 9; Heb. 11. 32; Acts 13. 20; Ps. 78. 59..67; Jer. 7. 12, 14.——Samuel, now almost forty years old, begins to judge Israel, and some time after delivers them from the Philistines; 1 Sam. vii. Heb. 11. 32.
2909 or 2939	1095 or 1065	The Israelites, wearied of God's deputy judges, request a king, to render them like the neighbouring nations. Saul is made king, and defeats the Ammonites. Samuel resigns his government; 1 Sa. viii..xii. Ac. 13 20, 21; Heb. 11 32..35.
2949	1055	For intermeddling with priestly work, for neglecting the utter destruction of the Amalekites and their property, and for consulting with a witch, Saul's army is routed by the Philistines, and he murders himself, about two years after the death of Samuel. David, who had been anointed king by Samuel about seven years before, and who for about four years had been persecuted, and had composed several of his Psalms, as vi. vii. xxxiv. xxxv. liii..lix. lxiii. lxiv. cxx cxl cxlii. cxliii. &c. returns from the country of the Philistines; resents Saul's death upon an Amalekite; laments over Saul and Jonathan's death; and praises God for his deliverances; Ps. ix. xviii. Directed of God, he repairs to Hebron, where he is made king of Judah. Meanwhile Abner made Ishbosheth king of Israel; 1 Sa. xiii..xxxi. 1 Chr x. 2 Sa. i. ii. xxii.
2959	1045	After taking Jerusalem from the Jebusites; and building himself a palace there, and defeating the Philistines twice

		David, attended with many thousands of Israelites, brings up the ark of God, with great solemnity, from Kirjath-jearim to a tent which he had formed for it on mount Zion; 2 Sa. v. vi. 1 Ch. xiii..xvi. Ps. 78. 68, 69;—xxiv. xlvii. lxviii xcii. xcv..ciii. cvii. cxxxii. cxliv. cl
2989	1042	David intends to build a temple; but God restrains him; allots that honour to his son; promises to establish his kingdom; and David, with great thankfulness, pleads for its accomplishment; 2 Sa. vii. 1 Ch. xvii.—22. 6..13; Ps. cxxxii 1 Ki. 5. 2..5;—8. 15..19; 2 Ch. 6. 4..9; Acts 7. 46.
2970	1034	After he had subdued the Philistines, Moabites, Amalekites, Syrians, and almost the Ammonites, and thus extended the dominion of the Israelites to the utmost extent promised; Gen. 15. 18..21; Ex. 23. 23..31;—34. 11; De. 11. 24; 2 Sa. viii. x. 1 Ch. xviii..xx. he commits adultery with Bathsheba; murders Uriah her husband; and, being reproved by Nathan, bitterly repents. The child sickens and dies; 2 Sa. xi. xii. Ps. li.
2971	1033	Bathsheba, perhaps the grand daughter of Ahithophel, now David's wife, bears Solomon; 2 Sa. 12. 24, 25; 1 Ch. 3. 5;—14. 4.
2972	1032	Amnon, David's eldest son, deflowers his sister; and after two years is murdered by Absalom, her full brother; 2 Sa. 12. 10;—xiii.
——	——	After Absalom had lived three years an exile with his grandfather Talmai king of Geshur, he is, by Joab's means, brought
2977	1027	back to Jerusalem; and after two years more, is reconciled to his father David; 2 Sam. 13. 37..39;—14.
2983	1021	Absalom rebels against David; is joined by Ahithophel, who hanged himself, and by most of the Israelites. David and his friends flee over Jordan. There Absalom's huge host is defeated and himself slain by Joab.—After some altercation with the men of Judah, the Israelites again revolt under Sheba, but, he being slain, they return to their allegiance, 2 Sa. xv..xx. Ps. ii..vi. xlii..xliv.
2984	1020	While the Philistines in four battles attempt to recover their liberty, they are defeated. The Lord avenges Saul's murdering of the Gibeonites by a famine of three years; 1 Ch. xx. 3 Sa. xxi.
2986	1017	David numbers his subjects. God punishes his sin in the death of 70,000 of them. By his deep humiliation and sacrifice he stops the plague. He purchases a spot for the temple to be built on; 2 Sam. xxiv. 1 Chr. xxi.—26. 23, 24.
2988	1016	David being now extremely infirm, Abishag is procured to sleep with him as his concubine. Assisted by Joab and Abither, Adonijah his eldest son attempts to seize the throne; but, by the activity of Nathan the prophet, and Bathsheba, David gives orders to anoint Solomon his successor; 1 Ki. i.
2989	1015
——	——	Having made immense preparations for the building the temple, and given Solomon a plan of it, and a charge concerning it, he fixes the order of the priests, Levites, singers, and porters, for the temple; as either now or before he had regulated the trained bands and the royal property; and, having solemnly charged Solomon and the princes of Israel to cleave to the Lord, he soon after died.—Not long after Adonijah, Joab, and Shimei were slain by Solomon's order;
2989	1015	1 Chr. xxii..xxix. 1 Ki. iii.
2990	1014	Solomon, who already had Rehoboam by an Ammonitess, marries an Egyptian princess, to whom Pharaoh her father gave Gezer, a city of the Philistines, in compliment; 1 Ki. 14. 21;—3. 1, 2;—9. 16. In answer to his prayer in his vision, God grants Solomon an uncommon share of wisdom; which he manifests in judging between two harlots; in fixing the crown officers and providers for his large household; and in his songs, proverbs, and philosophical discourses. He becomes the admiration of the princes and nations around; 1 Ki. iii. iv. 2 Ch. i.
2993	1011	After securing the assistance of Hiram king of Tyre and making great preparations, Solomon, in the 480th year of the deliverance from Egypt, lays the foundation of the temple. It was finished in seven years and six months, just 3000
3000	1004	years after the creation, and 1000 before Christ's birth. The next year it was dedicated by solemn prayer and large
3013	991	sacrifices; 1 Ki. v..ix. 2 Chr. ii..vi. Acts 7. 47. Solomon finishes his magnificent palace; 1 Ki. 7. 1; 9. 10; 2 Chr. 8. 1. About this time he wrote his inspired Song; Ca. i. viii. carried on his repairs of cities and enriching trade; and
3029	975	was visited by the queen of Sheba; 1 Ki. ix. x. 2 Chr. viii. ix.—1. 15..17.
3029	975	After great licentiousness with heathenish women, and apostacy to their idolatries, Solomon, being reproved by a prophet, repents; writes his Ecclesiastes, and perhaps his Proverbs, and dies; 1 Ki. xi. Neh. 13. 26; Ec. i. xii. Pro. i..xxix.
3029	975	Provoked by Rehoboam's haughty threatenings, the Ephraimites, and other nine tribes, revolt from the family of David, and form a separate kingdom under Jeroboam the son of Nebat. To prevent their return to Judah, by going up to Jerusalem at the solemn feasts, he establishes the idolatrous worship of the calves of Dan and Bethel among them Nor could the reproof of the man of God, nor the miracles attending it, render him penitent; 1 Ki. xii. xiii. 2 Ch. x
——	——	Many Levites and others retiring from the kingdom of Jeroboam to that of Rehoboam, he and his subjects conducted
3034	970	themselves for three years regularly, and lived prosperously. But afterwards revolting to idolatry, Shishak, king of
3046	958	Egypt, ravages their country, and pillages Jerusalem and the temple, 1 Ki. 14. 21..31; 2 Ch. xi. xii.
3049	955	Abijam succeeds Rehoboam. He routs Jeroboam's army of 800,000, slays 500,000 of them, and takes Beth-el and other
3063	951	cities from him; 1 Ki. 15. 1..8; 2 Ch. xiii.
3052	952	Asa succeeds Abijah; reigns forty-one years; zealously extirpates idolatry; strengthens his kingdom with forts; defeats an Ethiopian army of 1,000,000, renews his subjects' covenant with God; and deposes Maachah his idolatrous grandmother; 2 Ch. xiv. xv. 1 Ki. 15. 9..15.
3074 or	930 or	Baasha murders Nadab the son of Jeroboam, and the whole family; and reigns over Israel. Engaged in a war with
3064	940	Baasha, Asa hires the Syrians treacherously to invade the kingdom of Israel; and imprisons the prophet who reproved his conduct; 1 Ki. 15. 16..22; 1 Chr. 16. 1..10.
3075		Zimri murders Elah the son of Baasha; reigns over Israel seven days; but being besieged by his master's troops, he
3079	925	burns the palace upon himself; 1 Ki. 16. 9..20.
3086	918	After four years of civil war between Omri and Tibni, Omri prevails, and reigns wickedly; builds Samaria, and renders it his capital; 1 Ki. 16. 21..28; Mic. 6. 16.
		Ahab, still more wicked than his father, reigns over Israel; marries Jezebel a Zidonian princess; and by her advice,
3090	914	introduces the worship of Baal: Hiel, with the loss of his sons, rebuilds accursed Jericho; 1 Ki. 16. 29..34; Micah 6. 16
		Asa dying of diseased feet, Jehoshaphat succeeds him. He reforms his kingdom, fortifies his cities, and forms a militia ——	——	of 1,160,000; 2 Ch. xvii. 1 Ki. 22. 41..46.—He first made friendship with the kings of Israel, and took Ahab's daugh-
3090	914	ter to be the wife of Jehoram his son.
——	——	In answer to the prophet Elijah's prayer, a drought of three years and a half plagues the Kingdom of Israel. Ravens at first, and afterwards a poor widow of Zarephath, whose son he restores to life, feed Elijah.
3090	914	Having by his sacrifice, burnt with fire from heaven, demonstrated that not Baal, but JEHOVAH, was the true God, he causes the prophets of Baal to be slain, and procures rain.—Terrified by the threatenings of Jezebel, he retires far southward to Sinai; but is reproved by God for his flight, and ordered back to anoint Jehu king over Israel, Hazael over Syria, and Elisha prophet in his own room; 1 Ki. xv..xix.
3103	901	Benhadad king of Syria having insolently threatened the destruction of Samaria, God punishes him with a signal defeat by a handful of Israelites. Next year, to punish his captain's blasphemy, his army is almost utterly cut off. He sub-
3104	900	mits; and Ahab, to his own ruin, makes a treaty of peace with him; 1 Kings xx.
3105	899	By seizing upon Naboth's vineyard, whom Jezebel had for this purpose basely murdered, Ahab draws upon himself and family fearful denunciations of wrath; but his external repentance for a time defers the execution; 1 Kings xxi.
3107	897	Having in the preceding year associated their eldest sons, Ahaziah and Jehoram, in power with themselves, Ahab and Jehoshaphat, encouraged by the false prophets, march against the Syrians for the recovery of Ramoth-Gilead. Jehoshaphat is endangered, and Ahab slain; 1 Ki. xxii. 2 Chr. xviii.
3108	896	While Jehoshaphat, reproved by a prophet, proceeds in the reformation of his kingdom, Ahaziah, the successor of Ahab, dies of a fall from a window.——Elijah, having destroyed two idolatrous troops by fire from heaven, is translated Elisha succeeds him, heals the bitter water and barren fields of Jericho; and by two she-bears, destroys forty-two insolent children of Beth-el; 1 Ki. 22. 49..53; 2 Ch. xix. 2 Ki. i. ii.
3109	895	The Moabites, who had always been subject to the Israelites since David conquered them, having rebelled after the death of Ahab, Jehoram his son, assisted by Jehoshaphat and his deputy king of Edom, and miraculously supplied with water by Elisha, ravages their country; 2 Kings iii.
——	——	Elisha multiplies the widow's oil; promises a son to the Shunammite, and restores him to life; renders poison harmless; multiplies provision; heals Naaman of his leprosy, and smites Gehazi with it; makes iron swim; blinds and opens the eyes of the Syrian soldiers. The Syrians, affrighted by God, raise the siege of Samaria, when the inhabitants were almost famished, and leave plenty of provision; 2 Ki. iv..vii.
3112	892	Meanwhile Jehoshaphat is miraculously victorious over the allied army, which had invaded his kingdom with a view to extirpate the Israelites; 2 Ch. xx. Ps. xlviii. lxxxiii.——He allots his younger sons presents and fenced cities; and, for the second time, instals Jehoram on his throne; 2 Ch. 21. 2, 3; 2 Ki. 8. 16.
3115	889	After Jehoshaphat's death, Jehoram, being sole king introduces the idolatry of the house of Ahab his father-in-law into Judea, murders his brethren; and contemns the warning which the prophet Elijah had left him. The Edomites and Libnites revolt. The Philistines, Arabs, and others, ravage his kingdom and murder his family; 2 Ch. xxi. 2 Ki. 8. 16..24.
3119	885	Ahaziah his only surviving son, succeeds; and having reigned about a year alone, he and Jehoram king of Israel, and other male descendants of Anab, together with Jezebel and the priests of Baal, are slain by Jehu, to whom God had given the kingdom of Israel; 2 Ki. 8. 25, 29;—ix. x. 2 Ch. xxii.

Year of World.	Before Christ.
3126	878	After Athaliah, the daughter of Ahab, had murdered all the seed royal of David she could find, and had tyrannized six years, Jehoiada the high priest, assisted by his fellow priests and nobles, installs Joash, Ahaziah's son, when seven years of age, on the throne; kills Athaliah, and Mattan her idolatrous high priest; reforms the nation; and renews their covenant with God; 2 Ki. xi. 2 Chr. xxiii.
3149	855	Jehoash, in the twenty-third year of his reign, gives orders for repairing the temple; which are executed with great prudence and fidelity; 2 Ki. xii. 2 Ch. xxiv. Jehu king of Israel is succeeded by Jehoahaz his son. Under both, especially the latter, Hazael (who, by murdering his master Benhadad, had become king of Syria) terribly ravaged their kingdom; 2 Ki. 10. 29..36;—13. 1..9;—8. 7..15.
3164	840	Joash king of Judah, and his subjects, turn idolaters. He murders Zachariah the priest, son of Jehoiada and his own cousin, for reproving him. Soon after the Syrians ravage his kingdom, and his servants murder him; 2 Ki. 12. 17..21; 2 Ch. 24. 17..27.
3165	839	Jehoash, grandson of Jehu, succeeds his father Jehoahaz as sole king of Israel; visits the prophet Elisha on his death-bed; according to whose predictions he gives the Syrians three terrible defeats; 2 Ki. 13. 10..23;—14. 15, 16
3166	838	Amaziah succeeds his father Joash on the throne of Judah; punishes the murderers of his father; ravages the country of the Edomites with inhuman barbarity; provokes Jehoash king of Israel to a war, in which his army is routed, Jerusalem and the temple pillaged, and himself taken prisoner; 2 Ki. 4. 1..14; 2 Ch. xxv.
——	——	Jonah the prophet foretells the relief of the Israelites. Unwilling to denounce the destruction of Nineveh, he flees to Tarshish. A whale swallows him up, and, after three days, casts him out upon dry land. He warns the Ninevites, they repent and are spared; 2 Ki. 14. 25; Jonah i..iv. Mat. 12. 39..41;—16. 4.
3180	824	After being his father's partner twelve years, Jeroboam succeeds his father Jehoash, and restores the kingdom of Israel almost to its ancient glory; 2 Ki. 14. 16, 23..28.
3194	810	Amaziah king of Judah being murdered by his subjects, Azariah or Uzziah succeeds him, and reigns prosperously fifty-two years; 2 Ki. 14. 21, 22;—15. 1..4; 2 Ch. 26 1..15.
——	——	The prophets Amos, Hosea, and perhaps Joel, prophesy; reprove the Israelites for their sins, and foretell their approaching, but just judgments; Am. i..ix. Hos. i..xiv. Joel i..iii.
3221	783	A terrible earthquake is felt in Judea; Am. 1. 1; Zec. 14. 5; Jeroboam II. dying, a civil war, at least an interregnum of eleven years and a half, ensues; at the end of which Zachariah his son, the fourth in descent from Jehu, reigns six months; 2 Ki. 15. 8..12;—10. 30.
3233	771	Shallum his murderer had reigned but one month when Menahem, probably Zachariah's general, slew him, and reigned ten years. While he was butchering his opponents, Pul king of Assyria invaded the kingdom, and laid it under tribute; 2 Ki. 15. 13..22.
3241	763	About this time Uzziah, proud of his conquests and wealth, attempts to offer incense in the temple, is withstood by Azariah the high priest, and struck with a leprosy. Jotham his son governs the kingdom; 2 Ki. 15. 5, 6, 2 Ch. 26. 16..23.
——	——	Isaiah and Micah begin to prophesy; Is. i..vi. Mic. i.
3245	759	Having murdered Pekahiah the son of Menahem, Pekah begins to reign over Israel twenty years.
3246	758	Next year Jotham begins his prosperous reign over Judah; 2 Ki. 15. 27, 28, 32..38; 2 Chr. xxvii.
3252	748	Ahaz succeeds Jotham, and reigns very wickedly and unhappily. Pekah king of Israel kills 120,000 of his best troops in one battle, and carries off 200,000 prisoners, which, by order of the prophet Oded, are sent back. He and Rezin king of Syria ravage Judea, and intend to render it tributary to them, under a deputy of their own. The Edomites and Philistines, from the south and west, also distress it. In his distress, Ahaz hires Tiglath-pileser, of Assyria, to attack his enemies, who, after murdering multitudes of the Syrians and Israelites on the east of Jordan and in Galilee, carries the rest captive to Media. Ahaz then copies after the Syrian idolatry, and pollutes the temple; 2 Ch. xxviii. Is. 7. 1..9; 2 Ki. xvi.—15. 29.
3262	742	Hosea, Isaiah, and Micah, still continue prophesying; Hos. iv..xiv. Is. vii..xiv. Mic. i. ii.
3274	730	Hoshea, who had killed Pekah nine years before, at last, by a long civil war, renders himself king of Israel, and is less wicked than his predecessors. Shalmaneser king of Assyria renders him tributary; 2 Ki. 15. 30;—17. 1, 2.
3278	726	After being partner with his father one year, Hezekiah begins to reign alone over Judah. He, with great zeal and diligence, reforms his kingdom; refuses to pay tribute to the Assyrians; and reduces the Philistines; 2 Ch. xxix..xxxi 2 Ki. 18. 1..8; Is. 14. 29.
3283	721	Finding that Hoshea had, with the assistance of the Egyptians, conspired to render himself independent, Shalmaneser invades his kingdom; demolishes Samaria his capital; takes him prisoner; and transports the remaining Israelites to Assyria and Media, whence few, if any of them, ever returned to Canaan; Is. vii. viii. xxiv. xxviii. Hos. iv..xiii. Am. ii..ix. Mic. ii. iii. vi. vii. 2 Ki. 17. 3..23;—18. 9..12; 2 Ch. 30. 6; Neh. 9. 32. He soon after ravaged Phenicia, and besieged Tyre five years, &c.
3291	713	Having reduced the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Philistines, if not also the Egyptians, Sennacherib the Assyrian, contrary to treaty, invades Judea, and takes all the fenced cities except Jerusalem: his army is cut off, perhaps in one third year, by an angel, on the east of Jerusalem. During this war Hezekiah was miraculously delivered from his deadly distemper; Am. i. ii. Is. xv. xxiv..xxxviii. Mic. i..iii. 2 Ki. xviii..xx. 2 Chr. xxxii.
——	——	Chaldean ambassadors coming to Hezekiah, he vainly shows them his wealth. God threatens him, that it and his seed should be carried captive to Babylon; Is. xxxix. 2 Ki. 20. 12..21; 2 Ch. 32. 25..33.
——	——	While Judea flourishes, Isaiah, and perhaps Micah, prophesy; Is. xl..lxvi. Mic. iv. v.
3306	698	Manasseh succeeds Hezekiah. He introduces idolatry, persecution, and other abominations; 2 Ki. xx.—24. 3, 4;—22. 1, 17; Jer. 15. 4; 2 Ch. 33. 1..10.
3338	676	Esarhaddon invades Judea; carries Manasseh prisoner to Babylon; where he repents, and is restored to his kingdom, perhaps as a tributary of the Assyrians, 2 Chr. 33. 11..19.
——	——	About this time Esarhaddon transported the remains of the Israelites to the East, and further repeopled their country with heathen tribes from Persia, Chaldea, &c. They formed a religion, partly Jewish, partly heathen; and were called Samaritans, 2 Ki. 17. 21..41; Ezra 4. 2, 9, 10, 17; John iv.—8. 48; Luke 9. 52, 53.
3363	641	Josiah, a child of eight years, succeeds his obstinately wicked father Amon: he, with great zeal, reforms his kingdom, repairs the temple; renews his subjects' covenant with God; solemnly celebrates the passover.—During his reign Jeremiah and Zephaniah prophesy, if not also Nahum and Habakkuk; Jer. i. perhaps to xvii. Zep. i..iii. Nah. i..iii. Hab. i..iii.
3394	610	Unadvisedly giving battle to Pharaoh-nechoh king of Egypt Josiah is slain; after which the kingdom of Judah becomes miserable; 2 Ki. 23. 29, 30; 2 Ch. 35. 20..24.
3395	609	Jehoahaz, whom the people had made king, being carried prisoner into Egypt, Pharaoh-nechoh makes Jehoiakim king, who reigns wickedly eleven years, 2 Ki. 23. 31..37; 2 Ch. 36. 1..5. Under him Jeremiah and Urijah, if not also Habakkuk and Zephaniah, prophesy; Jer. xix. xx. xxvi. xxii. xxiii. xxv. xxxv. xxxvi. xlv. xlvi..xlix. Hab. i..iii. Zep. i..iii.
3398	606	Nebuchadnezzar the Chaldean, now partner in the kingdom with his father, invades Judea; renders Jehoiakim his tributary; carries off Daniel and his companions, and others, to Babylon, with part of the vessels of the temple of God, which he places in that of Belus; 2 Chr. 36. 6, 7; Jer. 35. 11;—29. 10; Is. 39. 7; Dan. 1. 2, 3, 7; &c.
3401	603	Jehoiakim rebels against Nebuchadnezzar, now sole king of Babylon; 2 Ki. 24. 1.
——	——	Daniel makes known and interprets Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the image, which the wise men could not; Dan. i.
3403	601	After a long and furious war, Nineveh is destroyed by the Medes, assisted by Nebuchadnezzar the Chaldean; Nah ... iii. Eze. xxxi.
3405	599	His son Jehoiachin, whom, it seems, he had made his partner ten years before, after reigning alone three months and ten days, surrenders himself to Nebuchadnezzar, who carries him and his family, courtiers, and principal magistrates, warriors, and artificers, in all 18,000, to Babylon; together with Ezekiel the priest, afterwards a prophet, and Mordecai, and part of the furniture of the temple; 2 Ki. 20. 17, 18; Is. 39. 6, 7; 2 Chr. 36. 9, 10; 2 Ki. 24. 6..19; Jer. 22. 24..30;—29. 1, 2;—xxiv. Eze. 17. 4, 12;—1. 2, 3; Esth. 2. 6.
3406	598	Zedekiah, brother of Jehoiakim, being made king by Nebuchadnezzar, as his sworn tributary, reigns wickedly.—Jeremiah continues prophesying in Judea; Jer. xxi. xxvii..xxxiv. xxxvii. xxxviii. l. li. if not also xix. xx; and Ezekiel begins to prophesy in Chaldea; Eze. i..xxxi.
——	——	Zedekiah, depending on the Egyptians, rebelled; to punish which, Nebuchadnezzar, after a siege of almost two years, burns Jerusalem and the temple; carries off captive all the Jews who remained, except a few of the poorer sort: whom, together with Jeremiah, now liberated from prison, he commits to the care of Gedaliah. But Gedaliah being quickly murdered, the rest retire into Egypt, and force Jeremiah along with them; Jer. lii. xxxix..xliv. 2 Ki. xxv. 2 Chr xxxvi. Lam. i..v.
——	——	Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Obadiah, prophesy; Jer. xliii. xliv. Eze. xxxii..xlviii. Ob. i. Ps. lxxiv. cxxix. cxxxvii. are penned, and Jeremiah's Lamentations; i..v.
3425	579	Having desolated the countries of Ammon, Moab, Edom, Phenicia, Philistia, and Egypt, Nebuchadnezzar returns to Babylon, where, out of his immense spoils, he forms a gigantic image to his god Belus. Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, refusing to worship it, are miraculously preserved in the fiery furnace, and are promoted to great honours Jer. xxv. xlvi...xlix. Exe. xxv..xxxi. xxxv. Is xv..xxiii. Hab. i. ii. Dan. iii. He also builds palaces, hanging gardens, the temple of Belus, &c. Dan. 4. 30.

3434	570	Daniel interprets Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the tree cut down. Next year Nebuchadnezzar, for his pride, is deprived of his reason, and dethroned for seven years; Dan. iv.—5. 18..21.
3442	562	Nebuchadnezzar hath his reason restored; he acknowledges God's sovereignty; is restored to his throne; and dies, having reigned forty-five years.
3443	561	Evil-merodach, his son, succeeds, and exalts Jehoiachin king of the Jews; 2 Ki. xxv. xxvii..xxx. Jer. 52. 31..34.
3449	555	Neriglissar, Nebuchadnezzar's son-in-law, who had murdered Evil-merodach, and his family being murdered in their turn, Belshazzar, the son of Evil-merodach, becomes king of Babylon; Jer. 27. 7.——Daniel hath his vision of the four beasts;—and about two years after, of the ram and he-goat; Dan. vii. viii.
3466	538	While the Medes and Persians besiege Babylon, Belshazzar and his lords celebrate an impious revel.—A hand-writing, interpreted by Daniel, denounces their immediate ruin.—That same night Babylon is taken, Belshazzar slain, and his monarchy rendered subject to the Medes and Persians; Dan. v. Is. xiii. xiv. xxi. xlvi. xlvii. Jer. xxv. 12;—27. 7;—l li. Hab. ii.
——	——	Daniel is advanced by Darius the Mede; but, by the envy of his fellow rulers is cast into the den of lions. He is delivered and his accusers destroyed; Dan. vi. He solemnly supplicates the restoration of the Jewish nation; has the coming of Christ, and the disasters attending it, intimated to him by the angel Gabriel; Dan. ix.
3468	536	Cyrus, succeeding his father Cambyses as king of Persia, and Darius his uncle and father-in-law, as king of Media, proclaims liberty for the Jews to return to Canaan and rebuild their temple; and restores to them their sacred vessels, which had been dedicated to the Chaldean idol Bel.——About 30,000 of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, and perhaps 12,000 of the other tribes, 7337 proselytes and servants, return under the direction of Zerubbabel and Jeshua; Is. 44 23..28;—45. 13;—48. 20; 2 Ch. 36. 22, 23; Ezra i. ii. Neh. vii.
3469	535	After observing the feast of tabernacles, and making preparation for seven months, the Jews, amidst joy and grief, lay the foundation of the second temple; Ezra iii. But their Samaritan neighbours, by their open influence at court, retarded by accusing them as rebels to Cambyses and Artaxerxes Magus, long hinder the building; Ezra iv. Daniel hath his last vision; x..xii.
3480	524	Cambyses, after the death of Amasis, ravages Egypt and part of Ethiopia, and ruins his own army
3484	520	Encouraged by the prophets Haggai and Zechariah, and after this by a decree of Darius Hystaspis in their favour, the Jews resume the building of their temple; and in about four years finish and dedicate it, about seventy-two years after it had been burnt by the Chaldeans; Ezra v. vi. Hag. i. ii. Zec. i..xiv. About this time Darius reduced the revolted Babylonians; Is. xiii. xiv. xxi. xlvii. Jer. l. li.
3490	514	Perhaps about this time Esther was made queen of Persia instead of Vashti; and after five years the plot and ruin of Haman took place. But some historians place these events thirty-six years later, under Xerxes, or rather fifty-six, under Artaxerxes Longimanus; Esth. i..x.
3517	487	The Egyptians revolt from Darius. About six years after, Xerxes, his son, reduces them.
3525	479	Darius having, for the sixteen last years of his life, carried on an unsuccessful war with the Greeks, Xerxes his son, after four years preparation, invades their country with an army of some millions: but he and his Carthaginian allie are shamefully repulsed; Dan. 11. 2;—10 20;—7. 5;—8. 4. Artaxerxes Longimanus succeeds his father Xerxes. The Egyptians again revolt, but are reduced.
3547	457	Ezra is sent to Jerusalem by Artaxerxes, as his deputy governor of Judea. With great zeal he separates the Jews from their strange wives; Ezra vii..x. Perhaps it was now that Esther was married to Ahasuerus, and Haman's plot and ruin five years after; Esth. i..x. and, by her influence, Artaxerxes greatly favoured the Jews.
3559	445	Nehemiah is appointed deputy governor of Judea, and rebuilds Jerusalem. Continuing in that office 18, or perhaps 36, years, he labours to reform his nation; Neh. i..xiii. Dan. 9. 25.
3574	430	Malachi the prophet reproves the Jews for their contempt of God's ordinances, sacrilege, marriages with heathens, and cruelty to their Jewish wives; Mal. i..iv.
3591	413	The Egyptians revolt from Darius Nothus king of Persia. It required 64 years to reduce them; Is. xix. Eze. xxix. xxx. Zec. 10. 11; Joel 3. 19; Is. 27. 1.
3596	408	Scarcely had Nehemiah finished his reformation, when Manasseh, the son-in-law of Sanballat, began to build the Samaritan temple on mount Gerizzim; Neh. 13. 28, 29; John 4. 20.
3655	349	After reducing the revolted Cyprians and Phenicians, and ravaging part of Judea, Artaxerxes Ochus, king of Persia, finally reduces the Egyptians; since which they have never been governed by a prince of their own; Eze. 29. 14, 15;—30. 13; Zec. 10. 11; Is. xix.
3670	334	After the Persians and Greeks had been generally in a state of war for 160 years, Alexander the Great marches 35,000 Greeks into Asia, with whom, in six years, he conquers the whole Persian empire; Dan. 7. 6;—8. 5..7;—10. 20;—11. 3; Zec. 6. 6.
3672	332	Alexander furiously destroys Tyre and Philistia. The Jews and Egyptians submit to him; Is. 23. 1..18; Zec. 9..18
3681	323	Alexander dies. Within fifteen years after, his whole family is murdered, and his empire divided among four of his principal generals; Dan 7. 6;—8. 8;—11. 4. The two principal divisions were—the kingdom or empire of Egypt on the south of Canaan, and of Syria on the north. For more than 150 years these were generally in a state of war one with another; nevertheless, the Jews, whose country lay betwixt them, were marvellously protected by Providence; Dan. 11. 5..29; Zec. 10. 8.
3829	175	Antiochus Epiphanes, succeeding his brother Seleucus, persecutes the Jews, and sets to sale their high priesthood He makes four attempts to rob Ptolemy his nephew of the kingdom of Egypt.
3834	170	In his return from his second expedition into Egypt he takes Jerusalem, murders 40,000, and takes as many more prisoners to be sold for slaves.
3836	168	In his return from his fourth expedition, when he was checked by the peremptory demands of the Roman ambassadors, he stops the daily sacrifice, and attempts to abolish the Jewish worship.
3840	164	After some years struggling, Judas Maccabeus defeats Antiochus' army at Jerusalem, restores the worship of God in the temple, and institutes the feast of dedication. Not long after this Antiochus dies miserably; Dan. 11. 21..35;—8. 23..25; Zec. 1 20, 21;—9. 13..17;—12. 2..7; John 10. 22.
——	——	For thirty years after, Judas and his brethren Jonathan and Simeon protect their nation; governing their church as high priests, and their state as civil rulers dependent on the Syro-Grecians.
3870	133	After this John Hircanus the son of Simeon, and Alexander Janneus his son, having rendered the Jewish nation independent, reign prosperously for about fifty years, and subdue the Samaritans, Edomites, Ammonites, Moabites, and Philistines; Is. 11. 14; Mic. 4. 12, 13; Ob. 18..21.
3926	78	After a war of six years with his subjects, Alexander dies. Alexandra his widow wisely governs the state 9 years, Hircanus her son being high priest.
3940	64	After five years contention between Hircanus, her elder, but peaceable son, and Aristobulus the younger, they both apply to the Romans for help.
3941	63	Pompey the Roman general takes part with Hircanus; and taking Jerusalem from Aristobulus, carries him prisoner to Rome, where he is poisoned about 14 years after.
3957	47	Antipater, who had been a partisan of Hircanus, obtains for his son Phasael the government of Judea, and for Herod the Great the government of Galilee.
3960	44	Julius Cæsar, who, after great success in war, had altered the republican form of the Roman government, and made himself emperor, is slain by Brutus, Cassius, and others, in the senate house
3964	40	Antigonus, the son of Aristobulus, having been made king of Judea by the Parthians, Herod of Galilee, by the assistance of the Romans, wrests the kingdom from him.
3982	18	Herod having offended the Jews, by some heathenish structures in compliment to Augustus the Roman emperor, attempts to regain their favour by rebuilding their ruinous temple.
4000		After a solemn annunciation of their birth by the angel Gabriel, John Baptist and Christ are born, to the great joy of their parents. Jesus' birth is published to the shepherds. He is circumcised, and presented at the temple; and solemnly acknowledged the Messiah by Simeon and Anna; Mat. i. ii. Luke i.—2. 1..38.—3. 23..38.
		Wise men of the Gentiles come from the east to worship him. God admonishes them not to return to Herod to inform him concerning the divine babe. To secure his destruction, Herod murders all the babes under two years old in and about Beth-lehem; but an angel had previously warned Joseph and Mary to carry Jesus into Egypt, where he was safe; Mat. 2. 1..18.
4002		Herod being dead, Joseph and Mary, with the babe Jesus, return to Canaan, and settle at Nazareth in Galilee; Mat. 2. 18..23; Judas of Galilee raises an insurrection; Acts 5. 37.
A. D.
4009	6	Archelaus, who reigned in the room of his father Herod, being accused of maladministration, is deposed by the Romans, and Judea is formed into one of their provinces.
4012	9	Jesus goes up with his parents to the passover, and disputes with the doctors in the temple; Luke 2. 39..52.
4030	27	John Baptist begins to preach and baptize, warning the Jews to prepare for receiving the Messiah, who was about to be manifested; Mat. 3. 1..12; Mark 1. 1..8; Luke 3. 1..18; John 1. 7..19.

4032	29	Jesus is baptized by John at Bethabara near Jericho; and is attested by his Father and the Holy Ghost from heaven; Mat. 3. 13..17; Mark 1. 9..11; Luke 3. 21..23. He is led by the Spirit into the wilderness of Judah to fast, and to be forty days tempted of the devil; Mat. 4. 1..11; Mark 1. 12, 13; Luke 4. 1..13. Being examined concerning his character, John acknowledges himself the Messiah's forerunner, and points out Jesus as the Messiah, to his hearers and disciples; John 1. 20..37.—Having become acquainted with Andrew, Peter, Philip, and Nathanael, Jesus returns into Galilee, perhaps attended by the two last: and there, at a marriage, turns water into wine; John 1. 35..51;—2. 1..12.
4034	31	Goes up to his second passover at Jerusalem, where he cures the lame man at the pool of Bethesda on the sabbath, and vindicates his conduct, from his equality with God, and the office he had from God; John v. Returning to Galilee, he vindicates the rubbing out ears of corn by his hungry disciples for their refreshment on the sabbath-day; cures a man's withered hand on the sabbath, and justifies his conduct; is followed by multitudes to the sea of Galilee; many of whom he heals of their diseases, and forbids the possessed to acknowledge his Messiahship; Mat. 12. 1..21; Mark 2. 23..28;—3. 1..12; Luke 6. 1..11.
——	——	Having prayed all night on a mountain, he chooses his twelve disciples from among his other followers; descends to the plain; works many miracles; repeats part of his celebrated sermon on the Mount; Mark 3. 13..19; Luke 6. 12..49; heals the centurion's servant, and commends his faith; Mat. 8. 5..13; Luke 7. 1..10; raises the widow of Nain's son to life; Luke 7. 11..17; Mark 3. 19..21; answers John Baptist's inquiry, Whether he was the promised Messiah; discourses concerning John, and bewails the fate of the impenitent cities of Galilee; Luke 7. 18..35; Mat. xi.; dines with a Pharisee, and vindicates the woman who anointed his feet; Luke 7. 36..50. Takes another tour through the cities of Galilee, attended by his disciples, and some pious women; answers the Pharisees' charge of correspondence with Satan; warns them of the danger of sinning against the Holy Ghost, and of idle words; upbraids the Pharisees perverseness in seeking a sign from heaven; pronounces the parable of the relapsed demoniac against them; intimates his resolution to persevere in his work, and his endeared affection to his obedient disciples; Luke 8. 1..3;—11. 14..36; Mat. 12. 22..50; Mark 3. 22..35.
——	——	Retiring to the west side of the sea of Tiberias, he delivers the parables of the sower and of the tares, which he afterwards explained to his disciples; and of the springing field, the mustard-seed, the leaven, the hid treasure, the pearl, and the net; Mat. xiii. Mark 4. 1..34; Luke 8. 4..18. After answering some who professed their inclination to follow him, he crosses the sea eastward, and stills a tempest; Mat. 8. 18..27: Mark 4. 35..41; Luke 9. 57..62; dislodges the devils out of two madmen, the one extremely furious: and permits them to enter into and drown the swine; and, at the Gadarenes' request, leaves the country, and crosses the sea to Capernaum; Mat. 8. 28..34;—9. 1; Mark 5. 1..21; Luke 8. 26..40. Being feasted at Matthew's house, he justifies his conversing with sinners; vindicates his disciples' present omission of religious austerities; cures an inveterate bloody issue, and restores to life Jairus' daughter; Mat. 9. 10..34; Mark 2. 15..22;—5. 22..43; Luke 5. 29..39;—8. 41..56. Removes from Capernaum to Nazareth, where, being again rejected, he begins another new circuit through the cities of Galilee; Mat. 13. 54..58;—9. 35..38; Mark 6. 1..6. Sends forth his disciples to preach in different parts, with proper directions and encouragements; Mat. x.—11. 1; Mark 6. 1..13; Luke 9. 1..6.—Herod the tetrarch of Galilee suspects him to be John Baptist, whom he had lately beheaded at the instigation of Herodias his incestuous harlot; Mat. 14. 1..12; Mark 5. 14..29; Luke 9. 7..9.
4035	32	Jesus' disciples being returned from their missions, he retires to the desert of Bethsaida; multitudes flocking to hear him, he miraculously feeds 5000 with a few loaves. To avoid their making him a king, he crosses the sea westward; walks on the sea; stills a tempest; heals many diseased; is followed by the multitude whom he had feasted; he represents himself as the bread of life: is quickly deserted by multitudes; tries the constancy of his disciples, and foretells that one of them should betray him; Mat. 14. 13..36; Mark 6. 30..56; Luke 9. 10..17; John vi. He condemns Pharisaic washings and traditions; and inculcates purity of heart; Mat. 15. 1..20; Mark 7. 1..23.
——	——	About the time of the third passover he withdraws into the borders of Tyre and Zidon; commends the Syro-Phenician woman's faith, and casts the devil out of her daughter; returning through Decapolis, cures a deaf man; and after feeding 4000 with a few loaves, crosses the sea of Tiberias westward, and lands near Dalmanutha and Magdala; Mat. 15. 21..39; Mark 7. 24..37;—8. 1..10. Again upbraids the Pharisees for asking a sign of his Messiahship, and heals a blind man at Bethsaida. Returning thence to Cesarea Philippi, near the springs of Jordan, he acknowledges himself the Messiah; foretells his sufferings; rebukes Peter; and encourages his disciples to self-denial and martyrdom; Mat. xvi. Mark 8. 11..38;—9. 1; Luke 9. 18..27.—On the eighth day after he is transfigured; foretells his death and resurrection; declares that John Baptist was the New Testament Elias; descends from the mount; casts out an obstinate devil; warns his disciples of his future sufferings; causes a fish to bring money for his tribute at Capernaum; Mat. xvii. Mark 9. 2..32; Luke 9. 28..45; recommends harmony and humility; directs how to deal with offending brethren; and, by the parable of the unmerciful servant inculcates forgiveness of injuries; Mark 9. 33..37, 42..50; Luke 9. 46..48; Mat. xviii.; and reproves John for rebuking a caster-out of devils; Mark 9. 38..41; Luke 9. 49, 50
——	——	After discoursing with his unbelieving kinsmen, he goes up to the feast of tabernacles at Jerusalem; where he preaches in the temple; vindicates his conduct and mission: and the Sanhedrim attempt to apprehend him; John vii. Next morning he returns to the court of the temple; declines judging in the case of an adulteress; represents himself as the light of the world: warns his hearers against unbelief and a dependence on their descent from Abraham; and declares his own pre-eternity; whereupon the Jews attempt to stone him; John viii. The seventy disciples return with a joyful account of their success; he shows the scribe the way to eternal life; delivers the parable of the good Samaritan; and, leaving Jerusalem, comes to Bethany, where he commends Mary's attention and choice; Luke 10. 17..42. Returning to Galilee, he instructs his disciples how to pray; delivers the parable of the importunate friend; dining with a Pharisee, he admonishes him and his brethren of their sin and danger; Luke 11. 1..13, 37..54; cautions his disciples against hypocrisy and the fear of man; declines to decide a case of property between two brothers; pronounces the parable of the rich fool: repeats the cautions against covetousness which he had given in his sermon on the Mount: inculcates watchfulness for his second coming, and care to entertain his present message; Luke xii.; urges the necessity of repentance; delivers the parable of the barren fig-tree: cures a deformed woman on the sabbath; and, regardless of Herod's hatred, prosecutes his work; Luke xiii. Invited to dine with a Pharisee, he cures a man of a dropsy on the sabbath, and vindicates himself; recommends humility and generosity; in his parable of the marriage supper, foretells the rejection of the Jews and calling of the Gentiles; and urges a deliberate resolution in religion; Luke xiv. To vindicate his familiar converse with publicans and sinners, he pronounces the parable of the lost sheep, lost piece of silver, and prodigal son: Luke xv.; and of the unjust steward and rich glutton: Luke xvi.; and exhorts his disciples to simplicity, forgiving offences, and humility; Luke 17. 1..11. Travelling through Samaria to Jerusalem, he rebukes the intemperate zeal of James and John against the Samaritans, and heals ten lepers; Luke 9. 51..56;—17. 12..19. Coming near to Jerusalem, he warns the Jews against expecting a pompous kingdom of the Messiah; and foretells their approaching miseries; Luke 17. 20..37; and, by his parables of the importunate widow and the humbled publican, he recommends importunity, perseverance, and humility, in prayer; Luke 18. 1..14. At Jerusalem, during the feast of dedication, he opens the eyes of one born blind; encourages him when excommunicated by the Sanhedrim; admonishes the proud Pharisees of their danger; represents himself as the Messiah and Shepherd of God's flock, and as one with his Father; and, to avoid being stoned as a blasphemer on that account, retires beyond Jordan.
4037	33	Here he declares against rash divorces; blesses the little children: tries the young ruler's obedience; represents the danger of riches; Mat. xix. Mark 10. 1..31; Luke 18. 15..30; and, by the parable of labourers in a vineyard, warns the Jews not to envy the Gentiles' admission to fellowship with God in his church; Mat. 20. 1..16. Informed of Lazarus' sickness, after his death he returns to Bethany near Jerusalem, and raises him from the dead; the Sanhedrim having agreed he should for this be put to death, he retires to a city called Ephraim: John xi. Returning towards Jerusalem, he foretells his sufferings; rebukes the ambition of James, John, and their mother; and, passing through Jericho, cures two blind men; Mat. 20. 17..34; Mark 10. 32..52; Luke 18. 31..43. He converts Zaccheus the publican; and, by the parable of the pounds, represents the misery coming on the Jewish nation; Luke 19. 1..28. At Bethany he is feasted by Lazarus and anointed by Mary; John 12. 1..11; Mat. 26. 6..13; Mark 14. 3..9. On the first day of the week he rides in triumph to Jerusalem; weeps over it upon sight of it; drives out the traders from the court of the temple, and works miracles there; converses with some Greeks, and retires to Bethany. Returns to Jerusalem next morning curses the barren fig-tree, and again expels the merchants from the temple, which exasperates the priests and at even returns to Bethany; Mat. 21. 1..19; Mark 11. 1..19; Luke 19. 28..48; John 12. 12..50 Returns to Jerusalem on Tuesday morning; the fig-tree is withered; he confounds the Jewish rulers who had questioned his authority; delivers the parables of the two sons, the vineyard let out to husbandmen, and the marriage dinner; Mark 11. 20 ..33;—12. 1..12; Luke 20. 1..19; Mat. 21. 20..46;—22. 1..14; confounds the Jews in their attempt to ensnare him about paying tribute; proves the resurrection of the dead; shows what is the great commandment; silences the Pharisees with respect to the Messiah's divinity; and repeats his denunciations against them; Mark 12. 13..40; Luke 20. 20..47; Mat. 22. 15..39;—xxiii. Going out of the temple at even, he applauds the liberality of the poor widow; foretells his coming to destroy Jerusalem and to judge the world, and the signs thereof; and by the parables of the servants, ten virgins, and talents, and by the description of the last judgment, inculcates watchfulness, sincerity, and activity in religion; Mark 12. 41..44; Luke 21. 1..36; Mat xxiv. xxv.; and warns his disciples that he should be betrayed in two days to his enemies. That same night the Jewish rulers plot his death; and Judas, coming in at the very time, agrees to betray him; Mat. 26 1..5, 14...' ; Mark 14. 1, 2, 10, 11; Luke 21. 37, 38;—22. 1. 6

—	—	On Thursday he directs two of his disciples to prepare the passover; and having spent that day, and perhaps most of the Wednesday, in solemn prayer, he sits down with his disciples at night, and eats the passover; rebukes their ambition; washes their feet; intimates that Judas should betray him, who thereon retires to the Jewish rulers; he exhorts them to brotherly love; foretells Peter's denial of him; administers the Eucharist; Mat. 26. 17..29; Mark 14. 19..25; Luke 22. 7..27; John xiii.; and entertains his disciples with a consolatory discourse, which he concludes with a solemn prayer; Luke 22. 28..32; John xiv..xvii. After singing a hymn, and warning Peter and his fellow disciples of their future trial and fall, he retires to the garden of Gethsemane; where, after terrible inward trouble and prayer, he is betrayed by Judas; but makes his apprehenders fall backward, and heals Malchus' ear. Being carried to the palace of Caiaphas, he is examined and abused, and Peter thrice denies him; Mat. 26. 30..75; Mark 14. 26..72; Luke 22. 31..71; John 18. 1..27.
		On Friday morning the Jewish rulers remit him to Pilate, who, after examination, sends him to Herod as tetrarch of Galilee. After some insolent abuse, he is returned to Pilate as an innocent Person. After several attempts to release him, Pilate, protesting his own innocence, condemns him to be crucified, to please the Jews; Mat. 27. 1..26; Mark 15. 1..15; Luke 23. 1..25; John 18. 28..40;—19. 1..16 While Judas repents and hangs himself; Mat. 27. 3..10; Acts 1. 16..20; Jesus is led to Calvary, bearing his cross, and there nailed to it. While his garments are divided, and himself insulted, he converts a fellow sufferer; recommends his mother to the care of John his beloved disciple; supplicates pardon to his murderers; recommends his departing soul to God; and expires in triumph. Amazing prodiges attend his death; his body, being pierced, but not a bone of it broken, is begged and buried by Joseph of Arimathea And his enemies secure the grave, by a large stone sealed, and a strong guard; Mark 15. 16..47; Luke 23. 26..56; John 19. 16..42; Mat. 27. 26..66.
—	—	Early on the first day of the week Jesus rises from the dead, his grave being opened by angels, who affrighted the guard, and made them run from the sepulchre. Mary Magdalene, finding the grave open, calls Peter and John, who enter into it and return. Mary staying at the grave, Jesus appears to her; Mark 16. 1..4; Luke 24. 1, 2, 12; John 20. 1.. 17. Leaving her, he appeared to the other women whom the angel had before informed of his resurrection. This they reported to his incredulous disciples; Mat. 28. 5..10; Mark 16. 2, 5..11; Luke 24. 3..11; John 20. 18. While the guard report to the Jewish rulers how they had been terrified by the earthquake and angels, and are instructed to use an ill-formed falsehood, Jesus appears to Peter, and then to the two disciples on their way to Emmaus; and in fine, to ten of them that evening; Mat. 28. 11..15; Mark 16. 12, 13; Luke 24. 13..43; John 20. 19..23; 1 Cor. 15. 4, 5. On that day week he appears to all the eleven, and cures Thomas of his unbelief; John 20. 24..29. Some time after he appears to his disciples at the sea of Tiberias; tries Peter's affection, and foretells his martyrdom; John 21. 1..24. He appears to the whole body of his followers in Galilee; and afterwards, on several occasions, to his disciples. At last, leading them out of Jerusalem to the mount of Olives or Bethany, he, in their sight, ascends into heaven; 1 Cor. 15. 6, 7; Mat. 28. 16..20; Mark 16. 15..20; Luke 24. 44..52; John 20. 30;—21. 25; Acts 1. 1..12.
—		The apostles return to Jerusalem. Upon Peter's motion, Matthias is elected in the place of Judas; Acts 1. 13..26. On the tenth day after Jesus' ascension the Holy Ghost is poured out upon his disciples, to guide them into all truth, direct them to work miracles, and to speak the languages they had never learned. That very day the apostles preach, and all the different tribes, assembled at Pentecost, hear them in their own language, and 3000 are converted to Christ; Joel 2. 28..32; Luke 24. 49;—Mark 16. 17, 18; John 7. 39;—14. 16..20, 26;—15. 26, 27;—16. 7..15; Acts ii. Peter and John cure a lame man. Peter adds an affecting discourse to the spectators; Acts iii. Behaving courageously before the Sanhedrim, they are threatened; but returning to their brethren, they thank God, and are again filled with the Holy Ghost; Acts 4. 1..31. The number and zeal of the converts still increasing, many devote their substance to the Lord. God's striking Ananias and Sapphira dead for keeping back a part of the price of their lands, and other miracles, promote the enlargement of the church; Acts 4. 4, 32..37;—5. 1..16. Enraged hereat, the Jewish rulers imprison the twelve apostles; but an angel liberates them. Being again apprehended, they are, by Gamaliel's advice, dismissed with their life; Acts 5. 17..42.
		The converts daily increasing, seven deacons are chosen to manage their sacred donations. Stephen, one of them, confounding the Jews with his proofs of Jesus' Messiahship, is called before the Sanhedrim as a blasphemer; and, while he was making a long defence, is interrupted and tumultuously stoned; Acts vi. vii. A violent persecution ensues at Jerusalem, which scatters all the preachers but the apostles. Philip, another deacon, preaches to the Samaritans. Peter and John, sent by the apostles, go there, and communicate the miraculous influences of the Holy Ghost. Simon, a pretended convert, offers them money for such power; but his offer is detested. Philip baptizes the Ethiopian eunuch, and preaches along the west borders of Canaan; Acts viii.
4038	35	Saul, who had assisted at the stoning of Stephen, and had been a most furious persecutor, is miraculously converted near Damascus, and becomes a most zealous preacher there; preaches in Arabia; returns to Damascus; escapes a snare laid for his life.—After three years he repairs to Jerusalem; sees Peter and John; but the Jews being enraged at his bold discourses, he is sent to Tarsus in Cilicia, his native place; Acts 7. 58;—8. 1..3;—22. 3..21;—26. 4..20, —9. 1..30; 1 Cor. 15. 8..10; Gal. 1. 12..24; 1 Tim. 1. 11..16.
—	—	The persecution ceasing the Jewish converts greatly increase. Peter cures Æneas of a palsy at Lydda, and restores Dorcas to life at Joppa. Called by the order of an angel, encouraged by a vision of animals, and directed by the Holy Ghost, Peter preaches to, and baptizes, Cornelius and other Gentiles at Cesarea, and, to the great joy of his brethren, accounts for his conduct; Acts 9. 31..43;—x.—11. 1..18. The gospel is preached at Antioch in Syria with great success. Barnabas and Saul, for about a year, labour in confirming the converts there. Agabus, foretelling a famine, a collection is made for the poor saints at Jerusalem; Acts 11. 19..30.
4047	44	Herod Aggrippa murders James the apostle and brother of John; and imprisons Peter, who is liberated by an angel. When Herod had just displayed his pride, and accepted blasphemous flattery, he is smitten by an angel, and eaten up of worms; Acts xii.
4049 or 4055	49 or 52	Some Jewish preachers insisting that the Gentile converts ought to be circumcised and keep the law of Moses, the dispute is referred to a synod of apostles and elders at Jerusalem; whose determination being given, is dispersed among the churches, to their great joy; Acts 15. 1..35;—16. 4, 5. Peter coming down to Antioch, sinfully dissembles, and is rebuked by Paul; Gal. 2. 11..21. Paul with Silas, and Barnabas with John Mark, separate, and visit the churches which they had lately planted; Acts 15. 36..41. Paul, Silas, and Timothy, travel through much of Lesser Asia. Directed by a vision, Paul crosses the Mediterranean Sea into Macedonia in Europe; preaches at Philippi, where Lydia is converted, and the devil dislodged from a sorceress;—on which account they are cast into prison, but quickly liberated, and the jailor converted; Acts xvi.
4057	54	They plant churches at Thessalonica and Berea; Paul preaches at Athens; proceeds to Corinth, whence he writes his epistles to the Thessalonians, and perhaps that to the Galatians; and where Gallio takes their part against the furious Jews; Acts vii.—18. 1..18. An Egyptian Jew pretends to be the Messiah, and is followed by 30,000, whom Felix disperses; Acts 21. 38.
4059	56	Paul returns from Europe to Asia; touches at Ephesus; leaves there Priscilla and Aquila, who had followed him from Corinth; and hastens by Cesarea to Jerusalem, against the time of the passover; Acts 18. 18..22.
4060	57	After visiting the regions of Galatia and Phrygia, Paul preaches a considerable time at Ephesus; whence Apollos, an Alexandrian, had been sent to Corinth; but is opposed by Demetrius the silversmith and his mob; writes his first epistles to Corinthians, if not also that to the Galatians; Acts 18 23..28;—xix. 1 Cor. i..xvi. Gal i..vi.
4063	60	Departs from Ephesus to Macedonia in Europe; collects a contribution for the poor saints at Jerusalem. Informed of the good success of the former, writes his second epistle to the Corinthians, and perhaps the first to Timothy; comes to Corinth, whence he writes his epistle to the Romans; Acts 20. 1..3; 2 Cor. 8. 1, 2. 6, 9;—1..xiii. 1 Tim. i..vi Rom. 16. 1;—i..xvi.
4064	61	Paul purposes to sail directly to Syria with the collection; but, being informed that the Jews laid wait for his life, he travels through part of Europe and Lesser Asia; earnestly exhorts the elders of Ephesus to faithfulness and diligence in their office;—arrives at Jerusalem; is apprehended in the temple; claims the privilege of a Roman, and escapes scourging; pleads his cause before the Sanhedrim.—To prevent his assassination by the Jews, Lysias the Roman captain sends him to Felix the governor of Judea at Cesarea; who though he trembled at his discourse, kept him prisoner two full years; Acts xx..xxiv.

4056	58	Paul is pannelled before Festus the new governor; appeals to Cæsar; pleads his cause before Festus and Agrippa.—After a dangerous passage, and shipwreck on the isle of Malta, he arrives at Rome, where he is continued a prisoner at large for two years; Acts xxv..xxviii.; and writes his epistles to the Philippians, Philemon, Colossians, Ephesians, and Hebrews; Phil. i..iv. Col. i..iv. Eph. i..vi. Heb. i..xiii.
4060	65	About the end of this year he is set at liberty; preaches in Crete, and leaves Titus to set things in order; perhaps preaches in Spain.
4077	70	Jerusalem was utterly laid waste by the Romans, and the Jewish nation destroyed in the most miserable manner. This, together with the disasters which followed under Trajan about A. D. 116, and under Adrian about 134 or 136, plainly marked God's abolition of the Levitical ceremonies, as none of the principal ones could be any more observed; and so weaned the Christians from their attachment to them; Mat. 8. 11, 12;—23. 34..39; Luke 29. 42..44;—21. 20..26, &c.
4093	90	About this time, or some years after, John wrote his Revelations, and perhaps also his Epistles.
——	——	From A. D. 66 to 312, particularly about 66, 95, 107, 190, 160, 202, 235, 250, 257, 272, and 303, the Christian church was terribly persecuted by the Roman emperors: and heresies and contentions, especially in the interval of persecution, rendered her state very miserable. Meanwhile the Roman empire, by the murder of emperors, by the ravages of the Scythian tribes, and by famines and pestilences, was no less unhappy. These things were foretold by the opening of the second, third, fourth, and fifth seals; Rev. 6. 3..11;—12. 1..4.
4316	313	After a terrible persecution of the Christians for ten years, the heathen emperors and their armies are quite overthrown by Constantine; heathenism is abolished, and Christianity made the established religion of the empire; Rev. 6. 12.. 17;—12. 5..12; Ps. 21. 8..12;—110. 5, 6;—68. 28..31.
4326	323	The church began to enjoy a considerable calm of fifteen years, in which multitudes were converted to Christ; Rev. vii.—8. 1.
4341	338	After Constantine's death, by means of the partition of the empire into the Western and Eastern, and by the ravages of the Goths, and other Barbarians, (especially after 395, till the Western empire was utterly abolished in A. D. 476, and the whole power of Rome extinguished about 566) the Roman empire was generally miserable. And in the same period, by the schism of the Donatists; by the heresies of the Arians, Pelagians, Nestorians, and Eutychians, and the contentions and persecutions attending the same; and by the gradual introduction of Antichristian hierarchy and superstition; the church became more and more miserable; Rev. 8. 5..12;—12. 13..17.
4609	606	The Antichristian state, which had been long forming by the gradual corruption of the doctrine, worship, discipline, and government of the Christian church, arrived at its perfect form, the bishop of Rome being constituted her UNIVERSAL HEAD; who has ever since generally ruled over most part of the Roman empire in the West; Dan. 7. 8, 24.. 26;—11. 36..39; 2 Th. 2. 3..12; 1 Tim. 4. 1..3; 2 Tim. 3. 1..9;—4. 3, 4; Rev. 9. 1..11;—xiii. xvii. Meanwhile the Mahometan delusion was introduced into the East, and furiously propagated far and wide by fire and sword. It still continues established in the extensive empires of Indostan, Persia, Turkey and Morocco; Rev. 9. 1..11; Dan. 11. 40.
4759	756	An hundred and fifty years, or five months, after their rise, and 666 years after John received his Revelations, and about seventy years after a most dreadful pestilence in Asia and Europe, the popes became civil lords in Italy, and gradually extended their civil power over all the ten kingdoms of their subjects, and claimed it over all the earth. At the same time the Mahometan delusion and Saracenic empire were at their highest summit of power; Dan. 7. 8, 24;—11. 37, 40; 2 Th. 2. 4; Rev. 13. 2, 12.
4883	800	The German empire is founded by Charles the Great; Rev. 13. 3, 14, 15.
5058	1055	After pouring themselves south-westward into Persia for several ages, the Seljukian Turks about this time formed the four kingdoms of Bagdad, Iconium, Aleppo, and Damascus, near the Euphrates; but, by their own contentions, and by the Tartar invasions, and by the war of the European Crusades, their power was restrained for two hundred years; Rev. 9. 14.
5981	1981	The Ottoman Turks began their conquests upon the Christians; and for about 390 years gradually carried it on, murdering an infinity of men, and forming a very extensive empire, which still subsists; Dan. 11. 40..43; Rev. 9. 15..19.
——	——	Claude of Turin and his followers, in the ninth and tenth, the Waldenses in the twelfth and thirteenth, the Wicklifites in the fourteenth, and the Hussites in the fifteenth centuries, and others, amidst poverty and persecution, faithfully testified against the popish abominations.
5530	1517	A more extensive reformation began by Luther, Zuinglius, Calvin, and others, which issued in the revolt of about half of the pope's subjects from him; Rev. 11. 3..6.
5869	1866	About this time, or 150 years later, Christ's witnesses, who have been much persecuted, and often reduced very low, will be almost utterly extirpated by Antichristian influence. But God,—who has already scourged the Antichristians by the wars of the Saracens, Seljukian and Ottoman Turks, and by the conquests between the popes and emperors of Germany, or between rival popes, or by the Protestant reformation,—will, by terrible wars, or some other means, continued perhaps, for thirty years, pull down the Antichristian and Mahometan powers, and introduce the glorious THOUSAND YEARS REIGN of the saints; Ps. 2. 9;—21. 8..12;—110. 5, 6; Is. 66. 6, 15, 16; Dan. 2. 34, 35, 44, 45;—7. 14. 26, 27;—11. 45;—12. 11, 22; Rev. 11. 2, 7..19;—14. 8..20;—17. 14..17;—xvi. xviii. xix.—20. 1..6; Eze. xxxvii..xlviii &c.
6000	2000	Or about 150 years later, there will perhaps be a great decay of religion, and the final war of Gog and Magog against the church; Luke 18. 8; Rev. 20. 7..10.
——	——	The general judgment of the world and the renovation of the earth will take place, Rev. 20. 11..15,—xxi.—2 Pet. 3 7 ..13; Is. 65. 17;—66. 22. Mat. 25. 30..45.
——	——	The wicked shall be forever punished in hell; and the saints eternally blessed with the full enjoyment of God in heaven; Mat. 25. 46; 2 Th 1. 8..12; Rev. 14. 10..13;—20. 15;—xxi.—22. 1..15; &c.

TABLES

OF THE

MEASURES, WEIGHTS, MONEYS, AND TIMES MENTIONED IN SCRIPTURE,

WITH AN APPENDIX, CONTAINING THE METHOD OF CALCULATING SCRIPTURAL MEASURES OF SURFACE.

A MEASURE is a known quantity, applied to another of the same kind that is less known, to make its dimensions better known, by help of numbers expressing the proportion that the known quantity bears to the unknown. The dimensions to be measured are three: 1 Mere length, which hath but one dimension. 2. Surface, which consists of length multiplied into breadth; so it hath two dimensions, as it were interwoven; and this is always measured by some square surface already known, as by a square foot, or a square cubit, or any other square already known, by help of its side. Moses generally useth the square cubit. 3. Solidity or capacity, which hath three dimensions multiplied into each other: length, breadth, and height, or depth. This is measured by a known cube. From solidity ariseth weight in all sublunary bodies; and by weight we measure the value of coins. Therefore I shall join weights and coins together in the fourth table.

I use = to signify Equal; : : to express Proportion; . is called Separatrix, parting Decimals from Integers.

TABLE I. MEASURES OF LENGTH.

I express the Cubit and its Parts both by Inch Measure and by Foot Measure: which I deduce from Inches by this Proportion:

As 12. 1. : : 21.888 Inch. Meas. 1.824. Foot. Meas.

	Inch. Dec.	Foot. Dec.
A Cubit is = to	21.888	=1.824.
A Span the longer = half a Cubit = to	10.944	= .912.
Span the less = one-third of a Cubit = to	7.290	= .608.
A Hand's Breadth = one-sixth of a Cubit = to	3.684	= .304.
A Finger's Breadth = one-twenty-fourth of a Cubit = to	.912	= .076.

Measures of many Cubits Length I express only in Foot Measure.

		Feet. decim.
A Fathom	= 4 Cubits	= 7.296.
Ezekiel's Reed	= 6 Cubits	=10.944.

Schœnus, the Egyptian line for Land Measure, which I think Scripture useth to divide Inheritances; Ps. 16. 6;—78. 55. They used different Lengths, but the shortest and most useful was Cubits. = 80 = 145.92.

Herodotus mentions a Schœnus just 300 times as long: I judge that all the greater were made in proportion to the least.

The Mile = 4000 Cubits = 7296 Feet.
Stadium, one-tenth of their Mile, =400 Cubits = 729.6
Parasang, 3 of their Miles = 12000 Cubits = 4 English Miles, and 580 Feet.
Five Stadia, or two thousand Cubits, made a Sabbath day's journey.
Ten Stadia, or four thousand Cubits, made an Eastern Mile.
Twenty-four Eastern Miles, or ninety-six thousand Cubits, equal to thirty-three miles one hundred and seventy-two paces four feet English, made a day's journey.

TABLE II. MEASURES OF SURFACE

Moses hath described these by square cubits. I here express them reduced to our square feet. The method of this reduction is taught in an Appendix. I first purpose three clear examples given by Moses: secondly, I place six instances of greater difficulty.

The clearest examples are,

I. The Altar of Incense. Only two sides of it, viz. its length and breadth, are expressed by Moses: each of them is affirmed to be one cubit. Yet he declares that it was four square; whence we collect that it was just one square cubit. See Ex. 30. 2. Now it is demonstrated in the Appendix, that one Jewish square cubit amounts to in surface 3 English square feet, and about 47 square inches.

II. The Table of Showbread; Ex. 25. 23. It is affirmed to be two cubits in length, and one in breadth. None doubt but it was rectangular, containing two Jewish square cubits. These amount to above 6 English square feet, and above half, viz. 94 square inches.

III. The Boards of the Tabernacle, each ten cubits in length, and, 1½ in breadth; Ex. 26. 16. being rectangular, must contain 15 square cubits, Jewish. These are proved to contain very near 50 square feet of English measure.

The more difficult cases reserved to the Appendix are,

I. The Mercy seat, whose surface is = 12 square feet and a half

II. A general Method is taught of reducing any given number of Jewish cubits to English square feet.

III. The example of the 15 square cubits in the boards of the tabernacle is made clearer.

IV. The Court of the Tabernacle, described Ex. 27. 18, is found to be just half the Egyptian Arours, and to contain 1 rood, 2 perches, 27 square feet, &c.

V. The whole Aroura is determined, and reduced to our English measures, 3 roods, 2 perches, 55 square feet.

VI. The suburbs, or glebe land, given to each city of the Levites, Num. 35 3..5. is showed to be a square, on each of the four sides of every city, containing a million of Jewish square cubits, or 100 Arourœ; which amount to in each square 76 acres, 1 rood, 20 perches, 80 square feet; whence we collect, that all the four squares amounted to 305 acres, 2 roods, 1 perch, beside 51 feet square.

TABLE V. OF TIMES.

The Jewish hours were but introduced about the time of their captivity in Babylon. Their ordinary ones were of the same length as ours. Their day beginning at six o'clock in the morning, they divided into twelve hours; of which our nine o'clock in the morning was the third, our noon their sixth, our three o'clock afternoon their ninth, and our five o'clock their eleventh. But they seem also to have at last divided their day into four great hours or watches, each containing three of the ordinary ones; and of these their third hour was from noon to three o'clock. Their NIGHT they divided into four watches, each consisting of three hours. The first ended about nine o'clock, the second at midnight, the third at three o'clock or cock-crowing, and the fourth about six o'clock in the morning. The WEEK, copied from God's example in the creation of the world, began on our Sabbath, and ended on Saturday. The

AN APPENDIX

To the Second Table of Measures of Surface described by Moses, shewing the Method of reducing them by Calculation to the Measures used in England, for the Benefit of those that understand Decimal Arithmetic, and desire to try the Reductions given in the Table, or to make further improvements in this kind of Measures.

I. THE MERCY-SEAT.

I shall begin with reduction of the measures of the mercy-seat, which was God's throne of grace among the Jews. Moses in Ex. 25. 17, affirms, that its length was two cubits and a half, its breadth one cubit and a half. The fractions adhering to its length and breadth make some difficulty to beginners in arithmetic, which the decimal way doth much abate. Supposing therefore, what I have elsewhere proved, that the Jewish cubit was in foot measure 1.824; the length must be expressed in foot measure, and decimals thereof, 4.560. The breadth in like measure will be 2.736. Wherefore the product of these numbers multiplied into each other gives its surface 12.47,616: in number of its square feet, and decimals thereof, 12 square feet, and very near half a square foot. If the decimals had been 50, it had been just half a foot. If we desire to express those decimals of a foot in square inches, as is usual in England, we must multiply .47,616 by 144, the square inches of a foot, and the product will be 68.56,704; which shows that the decimals we found amount to 68 square inches, and about half an inch more: we need not be nicer.

II. A SQUARE CUBIT REDUCED TO OUR MEASURE

2. In the altar of incense Moses describes the Jewish square cubit, which must be reduced to our foot measure, thus, 1,824 + 1,824. The product of these numbers multiplied will be the upper surface of this altar, 3.326,976, that is 3 square feet, and .326;976 decimals of a square foot, which we may express by 47 square inches, and a few decimals of an inch square inconsiderable.

III. THE BOARDS OF THE TABERNACLE.

3. Moses' description of the boards of the tabernacle, Ex. 26. 16, by 10 cubits in length, and one and a half in breadth, naturally leads a man to discern in each board's surface 15 Jewish square cubits; because, if we conceive a line drawn from the end of one cubit at the bottom of the board to the end of one cubit at the top of the board, this must needs be 10 whole square cubits on one side of that line, and ten half square cubits (= to 5 whole) on the other side of that line: here therefore are 15 square cubits. The reduction of these into English square feet is performed by multiplying 15. viz. the number of cubits given, into 3.326,976, the feet and decimals of one square cubit, and the product will be 49.90,464, and that is very near to 50 square feet; for those decimals amount to above 130 square inches, and a little more than 13 square inches would make it just 50 feet, which abatement we need not here regard.

IV. THE COURT OF THE TABERNACLE.

4. Let us now go to the measure of the surface of land. But we will begin with the court of the tabernacle, the ground on which the priests performed all the solemn public worship of Israel in Moses' time. The area of this court is described by Moses, Ex. 27. 18, by its length 100 cubits, and its breadth every where 50 cubits. Wherefore this area must be in Jewish measure 5000 square cubits, for that is the product of 100 multiplied into 50. To reduce these 5000 Jewish cubits into English square feet, I must multiply 5000 into 3.326,976, the product is 16,634.88 English square feet.

But in cases of such long numbers of feet we use for brevity's sake, and to help our memories, to reduce them into perches, or roods, or acres, which contain known numbers of square feet. A perch contains 272 square feet, and ¼. A rood is = to 10,890 square feet. An acre is = to 43,560 square feet. It is plain that the number 16,634.88 hath not integers equal to those of an acre; but it hath enough to answer those in a rood, and some overplus; therefore I must divide 16,634.88 by 10,890, which is a rood. By such division continued in the decimal way, until I have a fraction of five or six places, which is exact enough, I find the quote to be 1.5277,537, which assures me that my number 16,634.88 hath but once entirely in it a whole rood, but it hath moreover in it many decimal parts of a rood. These therefore I reduce to the perches contained in them, by multiplying them into 40, which is the number of perches that make up a rood: and cutting off six places from the product, which is 21.101,480; so I find there are 21 perches entire, and the figures after the separatrix are decimals of a perch. These also I multiply by 272.25, which are the square feet and decimals of a perch. The product of this last multiplication, after eight places cut off from it by the separatrix, because there were six places of decimals in one of the multipliers, and two in the other, is 27.62,793,000. Hence I learn that there are therein but 27 entire feet; all the eight decimal places amount to little above half a foot, and therefore I cast them away as inconsiderable in the measure of land. This method of reduction by multiplication of decimals I find to be easier than the common way of reduction by division, and therefore I propose it to be used by beginners in this practice of surveying. So I find this court to contain in English measure 1 rood, 21 perches, 27 feet, and little more than half a foot squared But reflecting upon Moses' measure by cubits, and finding them to be precisely 5000 square cubits, I observed that they were just half 10,000, which I had observed from Herodotus's Euterpe to be the area of the Egyptian Aroura, by which their land was as generally measured as ours is by acres and roods. See Herodot. l. 2. c. 168. I called also to mind a passage in Manetho, an Egyptian priest, cited by Josephus in his first book against Apion, where he affirms, that Manetho, in his history of the reign, wars, and expulsion of the Pastors, (whom Africanus affirms to be Phœnicians or Canaanites, and Josephus vainly believed to be Jews,) wrote out of the public records of Egypt, that these pastors made at Abaris a very large and strong encampment, that encompassed 10,000 Arourœ, sufficient to contain 240,000 men, and long enough to maintain their cattle Hence it appears, that not only the Egyptians, but the Phœnicians or Canaanites also, that had dwelt among them, and had reigned there during the time of six kings successively, used this measure of land called Aroura. Now this was long before Moses' time; for the beginning of Amosis or Tethmosis, who expelled them out of Egypt, was very near the time of Abraham's death, as appears by the annals of the learned primate of Ireland. Wherefore I believe that Moses, who was skilled in all Egyptian learning, especially surveying, did of choice make the court of the tabernacle to be just half an Aroura, which was a known measure to him and his people, who had long dwelt in Egypt, and Divine Authority directed him so to do.

5. THE REDUCTION OF AN AROURA TO ENGLISH MEASURES.

5. Because we have shown from Herodotus, that an Aroura is the square of 100 Jewish or Egyptian cubits, and 100 such cubits may, in English foot measure, be expressed by 182.4 English feet, it follows, that the square of this number will express exactly the number of the English square feet that are contained in an Aroura. Now, by multiplication of 182.4 into itself, I find the product to be 33,269.76: therefore I conclude that there are 33,269 square feet entire, and .76 decimals of a square foot, in an Aroura. Now to reduce these English square feet into roods, perches, and the remainder of square feet, I use the method used in the last paragraph: first, I divide them by 10,890, the square feet in a rood, and the quote I find 3.055,074; that is, 3 roods and .055,074 decimals of a rood: secondly, I multiply those decimals by 40, which is the number of perches in a rood, the product is 2.202,960; hence I conclude there are therein two perches and .202,960 decimals of a perch: thirdly, I multiply these last decimals by 272.25, which are the square feet of a perch. The product is 55.25,586,000; that is, 55 entire square feet. The eight places of decimals amount to little above one-fourth of a square foot, therefore I reject them as inconsiderable in measure of land. By all these reductions it is found, that an Aroura is in English measure 3 roods, 2 perches, 55¼ square feet. Hence it follows also that it is not well translated by Jugerum, for it is much larger; nor is it well in English called an Acre, for it is considerably less. To this place I refer the use of the lesser sort of Σχοῖνος, which yet is most convenient for the use of the Egyptians and of the Jews, to measure out private men's inheritances, by a line which was 80 cubits long. For the length of this line will measure one side of an Aroura, if the other side be 125 cubits long, which is the length of this line, and its half, and 5 cubits above half of it, which they might easily mark in it by a knot or a ring: and by this means they might easily lay any number of Arourœ together, all of them rectangular and parallel to each other. Such lines I suppose for measure of inheritances are intimated, Ps 78 55;—16. 6, &c.

6. THE LEVITES' GLEBE

6. I shall conclude with an example amounting after reduction to a number of English acres, which measure we have not yet reached to. This I take from Num. 35. 3. .5. There Moses describes what measure of land the Levites were to be allowed for their cattle, their goods, and all their beasts, on the north, east, south, and west sides of each of their cities; so that the city was to be in the midst of the land belonging to it. This land in our translation is called suburbs, because of its nearness to all their cities. But we must not thence imagine, that it means houses and streets adjoining to their cities, in which sense we sometimes use the word suburbs: for Moses plainly tells us they were places for their several sorts of cattle to feed in, such as might also be orchards or gardens for fruits, or perhaps for a little corn, comprehended in the word, their goods. These fields he limits by 1000 cubits, which was just a quarter of an eastern mile, but amounts in mere length to 608 yards English measure, and therefore exceeds a quarter of an English mile by 168 yards in length. But it is certain that cattle can not feed upon mere length, but this must signify the side of some surface of land bounded thereby; and we must have two sides of that surface given before we can find the area of surface contained. Therefore Moses, ver. 5, tells us, that on each side of each city they must measure 2000 cubits, which will determine no surface, unless we understand it to mean the two sides of a square bounded on every side by 1000 cubits These two sides multiplied into each other will produce a square that contains just a million of square cubits, and that is a known and exact measure of just 100 Arours. And this shows that the 2000 cubits mentioned, ver. 5. are the two sides of that square whereof the 1000 mentioned, ver. 4, is one, and may be called the root of the square. This shows the agreement of the two different numbers. The reduction of this million of square cubits will be performed by the same method that I have used before. Therefore, first, I express 1000 Jewish by 1824 English feet, without any separatrix, according to the principles owned in decimal arithmetic; and the square of that number will be 3,326,976, without a separatrix. Secondly, I divide this number by 43,560, which are the square feet of an acre, and find the quote to be 76.376,859, which signify 76 entire acres, and .376 859 decimals of an acre. Thirdly, to find what roods are contained in these decimals, I multiply them by four, the number of roods in an acre, and find the quote to be 1.507,436, which proves that there is but one rood in them, and the six figures cut off by the separatrix (because there were six decimals in one of the multipliers) are all decimals of a rood. Fourthly, therefore, to find what perches are in these last decimals, I multiply them by 40, which is the number of perches contained in a rood. The product is 20.297,440; hereby I find there are 20 entire perches, besides the decimals of a perch placed after the separatrix. Fifthly, to find what square feet are in those last decimals, I multiply them by 272.25, which are the square feet and decimals in a perch, the product is 80.97,804, which is 80 square feet, and all the decimals not amounting to a square foot, I reject as inconsiderable in measure of land. Thus we have found that this and every other square, on each side of every Levitical city, was prescribed to be 76 acres, 1 rood, 20 perches, 80 square feet in our measure, but was just a million of square cubits in their measure

To add the four squares belonging to one Levitical city together, the best way will be to take the first quote that we found in acre measure, viz. 76.376,859, and we must multiply it by four, and we shall find, by the method I have used, all the four squares together to amount to 305 acres, 2 roods, 1 perch; we need not take notice of any lesser quantities in this case. We may also by this method find the sum of the acres belonging to all the forty-eight cities of the Levites, and many other improvements in this kind of measuring surfaces.

Adoration.

GEN. XXIV. 52.

ATTITUDES of adoration, have varied according to time, and place, or occasion. Sometimes STANDING was the attitude of worship. Sometimes BENDING the body somewhat forward. Sometimes KNEELING, or SITTING; and sometimes by PROSTRATION. The text referred to, is a instance of PROSTRATION, the body resting on the hands and knees together the head bent to the earth: this seems to have been used as an attitude of intense humility and devotion; or, a turning away from every sensible object, that the mind might be more exclusively engaged in its present exercise

EN. XXV. 27

A lively idea may be afforded of the simplicity of the patriarchal life, from this cut. The principal wealth of the patriarchs consisted in flocks and herds; and while the whole world was, as it were, a vast common before them, they would require, from time to time, to remove from place to place, that forage for their extensive herds might be furnished. Under such circumstances, a permanent abode would be inconvenient; inasmuch as, often, the flocks would be so distant from home, as to be of comparatively little benefit. To remedy this inconvenience, the habitations of the Patriarchs were movable; and were carried with them, wherever they went: i. e. Jacob was a mere sample of the generality of them;—they were, generally, "plain men dwelling in tents." Thus we read of Abraham sitting "in the door of his tent;"—removing and pitching his tent between Bethel and Hai; (Gen. xii. 8.—xvii. 1.) and in like manner, we read of Sarah's tent, and Isaac's tent. Possibly the tents in which the Patriarch's resided, might be somewhat more permanent than that here represented; which is designed, mainly for shade, and is such as are now used in caravans for traversing the countries of the east: for Tents varied in their dimensions, accommodations, &c., from that fit for a few persons, to that fit for a family, and so on to that fit for great men. The place chosen to pitch the tents is usually, (as here represented,) by a stream of water, if possible.

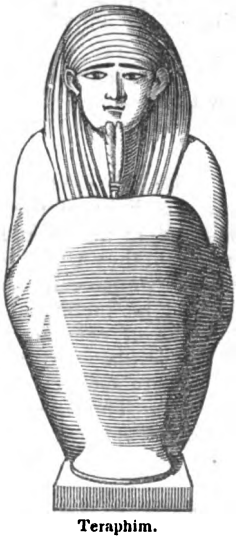
Camel's Furniture.



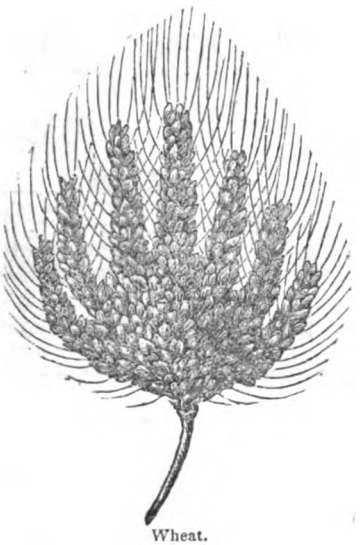
GEN. xxxi. 34.

Among those passages of Scripture which demand a knowledge of local peculiarities, to render them intelligible, we may justly reckon this, where we read, that Rachel purloined the teraphim of Laban, her father, "and put them in (or into) the Camel's furniture, or CAR, or CHAIR, and sat upon them;" (or, over them;) i. e. upon the Camel's furniture, which contained them.

In this print, is shown the manner of travelling, of aged or infirm persons, in double wicker-work seats, placed so on the back of a Camel, as to be equally poised, each side being alike, as another person sits in the same manner on the other side; with the store hampers under each seat, so filled, as to preserve the even balance.

Dr. Pococke describes them in the same manner—comparing them to "an open chaise or chair, which is more convenient, (than some kind of litters,) as they can sit, and extend their legs, if there is only one in it. Under the saddle of each Camel, is a coarse carpet, to cover them by night." Vol. i. p. 188.

The reader will observe in our print, 1st, the hiran, or length of coarse carpet cloth, or serge, placed on the back of the Camel. 2dly. The round basket, which projects over his side, and which is fastened. This contains the necessaries for the person travelling: and, when women are the travellers, those conveniences which are adapted to their situations. 3dly. The person seated, in much the same manner and attitude, as is usual on the divan; or as he would be seated, if at home; so that his usual posture is little or nothing varied. 4thly. The covering over all, which, like a kind of roof, keeps off the rays of the sun, the effect of rain, &c. The whole is made of wicker-work, for lightness.



Teraphim.

GEN. xxxi. 35.

Teraphim, or housenold gods, were baked clay images, which had undergone considerable degrees of heat, in the furnace, or kiln, as the custom still is, with regard to heathen deities, to harden by baking, models of clay, china, &c. The teraphim of Laban were his household gods; those powers who, in his opinion, protected his dwelling, and under whose auspices he desired constantly to dwell. These Gods, Rachel stole: and we, at once, perceive their importance to him; as, to them was intrusted the care of his domestic concerns; that is, they presided over the affairs of his household. The plate also represents the probable size of these gods; so that Rachel might easily convey them away, without the knowledge or participation of Jacob; and could, with great security, wrap them up, or cover them in the bundle which she carried in her car.

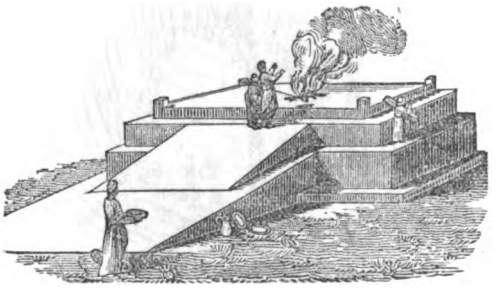
Wheat.

GEN. xli. 5

The wheat in Pharaoh's dream which had seven ears, full and good, on one stalk, appears an unusual and monstrous production: but it is a fact, that a species of wheat, which grows in Egypt, does actually bear, when perfect, this number of ears on one stalk, as its natural conformation. This wheat differs from our own, by having a solid stem, or at least, a stem full of pith; in order to yield sufficient nourishment and support, to so great a weight as the ears which it bears; and which demand a proportionate quantity of nutritive juices whereas, the stem of our own wheat is a mere hollow straw.

The specimen presented in the plate, has grown in England, on the island of Foulness, in Essex, by Mr. Henry Fisher, in the year 1797. Not being in its native soil, it has degenerated from its proper fulness; nevertheless, it has produced spread enough to justify the number of its ears of corn; and to demonstrate, that, when complete, it was a very expressive symbol of plenty. To show the number of ears distinctly, they are spread somewhat more than in nature.

Altar.



EXOD. xx. 26.

The Altar of Burnt Offerings was a kind of coffer of Shittim wood, covered with brass plates. Exod xxvii 1 2 3 It was five cubits square, and three cubits in height. Moses placed it to the East, before the entrance of the tabernacle, in the open air, that so the fire which was to be kept perpetually upon it, and the smoke, arising from the sacrifices which were burnt there, might not spoil the inside of the tabernacle. At the four corners of this altar, there was an appearance as it were of four horns, covered with the same metal as the rest of the altar. Within the depth or hollow of it, was a grate of brass, on which the fire was made; through this fell the ashes, in proportion as they increased upon the altar; they were received below, in a pan which was placed under it. At the four corners of this grate, were four rings, and four chains, which kept it up at the four horns of the altar above mentioned. As this altar was portable, Moses had rings made, and fastened to the sides of it; into which were put staves of Shittim wood, overlaid with brass, by the help of which it was removed from place to place.

Such was the altar of burnt offerings, belonging to the tabernacle erected by Moses in the wilderness; but in Solomon's temple, this altar was much larger. Of this, our second plate, is a representation. See 2 Chron. iv. 1. This was a kind of cube, twenty cubits long, as many wide, and ten in height. It was covered with thick plates of brass, and filled with rough stones; on the east side there was an ascent leading up to it, by an inclined plane; because, to ascend by steps to the altar, was forbidden by the law. Exod. xx. 26.

At the four corners of the altar, on the last diminution, or imbenching, were four small pillars of a cubit square, hollow in the middle for half a cubit square, and in the form of a perfect cube. These are the "horns of the altar," so often mentioned in Scripture; they were hollow, that part of the blood of the sacrifices, might be poured into them.

Tabernacle.

Exod. xxvi. 1. ad finem.

The plate gives a general view of the court of the tabernacle, and of the situations of the various utensils it contained: we observe first, the pillars marking an enclosure; this enclosure was one hundred cubits (about 150 feet) in length, and fifty cubits (about 75 feet) in breadth; these pillars were five cubits high. In the centre of the front appears a kind of entrance, formed by hanging tapestry, which could be drawn up, occasionally, like the entrance-curtain to a tent. The intervals between the other pillars are closed by a strong kind of network, as some render the original word, which, in our translation, is called fine twined linen; but this was so loosely twined, or combined, that what was transacted in the court, was visible, in a considerable degree, to the people without. Towards the centre of the court, we find the altar of burnt offerings; next, the laver for the purposes of ablutions, &c., of the priests; and the tabernacle itself, or a kind of tent, to whose honor, as a residence of glory and holiness, the whole service is referred. On the right hand of the court, are the pillars, blocks, &c., necessary for the detention and slaughter of the victims.

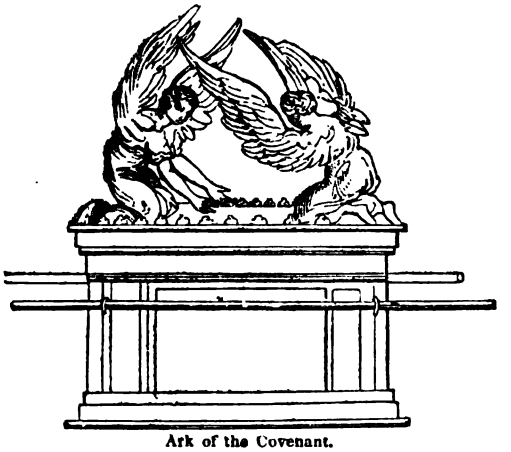
Such is the general view of the court of the Tabernacle and its conten We proceed now to examine, more particularly, the construction of the tabernacle itself.

The tabernacle was composed of boards, united to each other by various joinings; the whole together, formed a kind of house, which, being capable of separation into parts, may be considered as a portable dwelling, consisting of two chambers, an outer and an inner one. Over the whole were spread four coverings. See Exod. xxvi. 1—14. The plate shows these coverings drawn up to various heights, for the purpose of exhibiting their diversity.

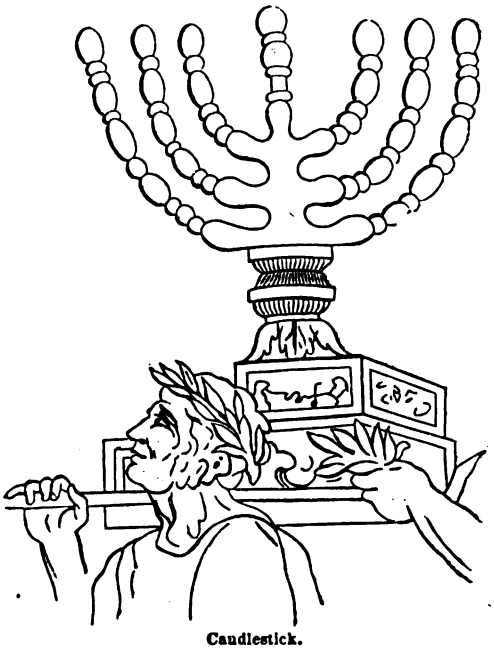


Tabernacle with coverings removed.

Exod. xxvii. 9—18.

The coverings of the tabernacle being wholly removed, this figure shows the division of the internal part of the tabernacle, i. e. into two chambers; the first having its pillars and rich veil to close the entrance; the second having also pillars and a veil, richly wrought, for the same purpose. The boards which form the sides, are clearly shown, and the internal sides of the chambers appear to be decorated with ornaments, &c.

The reader will perceive, by a glance of the eye on our subjects, the nature and proportions of their construction, better than by any description.



Ark of the Covenant.

Exod. xxxvii. 1—9.

Ark of the Covenant. The Hebrew word which Moses employs, to denote the sacred coffer in which the Tables of the Law were deposited, signifies a chest or box. It was of Shittim wood, covered with plates of gold: two cubits and a half in length, a cubit and a half wide, and a cubit and a half high. On the top of it all round, ran a kind of gold crown; and two cherubims were on the cover, and constituted, with it, "The Mercy Seat." It had four rings of gold, two on each side, through which staves were put, by which it was carried. Beside the tables of the covenant, placed by Moses, in the sacred Coffer, God appointed the blossoming rod of Aaron to be lodged there, (See Numbers xvii. 10,) and the Omer of the Manna which was gathered in the wilderness, Exod. xvi. 33, 34. The exact form of the ancient cherubim is not now, with certainty, known.

Candlestick.

EXOD. xxxvii. 17—23.

The CANDLESTICK of GOLD, made by Moses for the service of the temple, consisted wholly of pure gold, and had seven branches; that is, three on each side, and one in the centre. These branches were at equal distances; and each one was adorned with flowers, like lilies, gold knobs after the form of an apple, and smaller ones resembling an almond. Upon the extremities of the branches were seven golden lamps, which were fed with pure olive oil, and lighted every evening by the priests on duty, and extinguished every morning. The candlestick was placed in the holy place, and served to illumine the altar of incense, and the table of shewbread, which stood in the same chamber.

The plate is traced from the engraving of the Arch of Titus, by Santo Bartoli. In considering this figure, we should make allowance for the great length of time elapsed, since that structure was erected: the smaller ornaments and particulars, which, no doubt, were originally represented on it, have been corroded: so that, at this time, only the general form, and the larger parts of this figure, are extant. Besides this, it is represented in the original, as being seen considerably in perspective, which varies the appearance of its parts. Indeed, the whole figure differs, from what it would appear, if viewed in a situation more level to the eye of a spectator.

Breastplate.

EXOD. xxxix. 8, 9, 10.

The BREASTPLATE of the HIGH-PRIEST was a piece of embroidery, about ten inches square: of very rich work, which the high-priest wore on his breast. It was made of two pieces of the same embroidered stuff, of which the ephod was made; having a front and a lining; and forming a kind of purse, or bag, in which, according to the rabbins, the Urim and Thummim were enclosed. The front of it was set with twelve precious stones, on each of which was engraved the name of one of the tribes. They were placed in four rows, and divided from each other, by the little golden squares or partitions in which they were set. The breastplate was fastened at the four corners; those on the top to each shoulder, by a golden hook, or ring, at the end of a wreathed chain; those below, to the girdle of the ephod by two strings, or ribands, which also had two rings or hooks. This ornament was never to be severed from the priestly garments; and it was called, "the memorial," (Exod. xxviii. 15.) being designed to remind the priest how dear those tribes should be to him, whose names he bore upon his heart. It was also named the "breastplate of judgment," probably because by it was discovered the judgment and the will of God; or, because the high-priest, who wore it, was the fountain of justice, and put on this ornament when he acted in his judicial capacity, in matters of great consequence, which concerned the whole nation The Ephod was an ornamental upper garment, without sleeves. It made a part of the official dress of the Hebrew priest; that of the common priest being made of linen, and that of the high-priest being richly embroidered with gold, blue, purple, and scarlet. On its two shoulder pieces, whereby it was fixed above, were two precious stones, in each of which were engraved six names of the tribes of Israel. On that part of it which crossed his breast, was fastened the breastplate; below which the ephod was fastened on the priest's body with a curious girdle. Exod. xxviii.

Priest.

High-Priest.

Exod. xxxix. 30, 31.

These figures are drawn according to the conceptions of learned men; but as no two authors agree exactly, in delineating the forms and arrangements of these dresses, it prevents any great dependence being placed upon them.

The high-priest was at the head of all religious affairs, and was the ordinary judge of all difficulties that belonged thereto; and even of the general justice and judgment of the Jewish nation. Deut. xvii. 8—12; xix. 17.; xxi. 5; xxxiii. 9, 10. He only had the privilege of entering the sanctuary once a year, on the day of solemn expiation, to make atonement for the sins of the whole people. Lev. xvi. 2, &c. He was to be born of one of his own tribe, whom his father had married a virgin; and, was to be exempt from corporal defect. Lev. xxi. 13.

God had appropriated to the person of the high-priest the oracle of his truth; so that, when he was habited in the proper ornaments of his dignity, and with the Urim and Thummim, he answered questions proposed to him; and God discovered to him secret and future things. He was forbidden to mourn for the death of any of his relations, even for his father or mother; or to enter into any place, where a dead body lay, that he might not contract, or hazard the contraction of, uncleanness. He was to be maintained by the sacrifices offered at the tabernacle Lev. xxi. 22

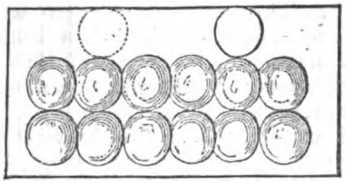
Exod. xl. 22. 23.

This was a small table of Shittim wood, covered with plates of gold, having a little border round it, adorned with sculpture. It was two cubits long, one cubit and a half wide, and one and a half in height. It was placed in the holy place. Upon this table, every Sabbath day, were put twelve loaves, salt, and incense. The Rabbinical description of the table of shew bread differs greatly from the representation we have of it on the Arch of Titus The first plate represents the cakes set in two rows, six and six, one upon another. The lowest cake of each row they laid upon the plain table: and upon that cake they laid three golden canes at a distance one from another, and upon those they laid the next cake. They laid these canes between all the loaves, that they might be kept from moulding, by having the air pass between them. On the top of each row was set a golden dish, with a handful of frankincense, which was burned as incense to the Lord, when the loaves were exchanged. This plate of the table is usually acquiesced in, on Rabbinical authority. The table itself is a parallelogram; in the middle stands a vase with its covering, which vase is understood to contain incense: at each end of the table, stands a pile formed by the loaves of shew bread; this pile is upheld by golden props, which prevents the loaves from slipping out of their places; the reader will observe the golden pipes laid between the loaves and the great height of these piles



The second plate is traced from the engravings of the Arch of Titus, by Bartoli; it represents the table with a single cup upon it; and crossing between its legs are two very long trumpets. This table has been deprived of its ornaments by time: probably it was enriched by carvings in basso relievo, which might correspond to the rim, or crown, which Moses directs should adorn it; but of these no traces remain.

It will be observed, that the back part of this table, which stood next the wall, is much longer than the front; and is straight, while the two sides are bevelled, which diminishes the extent of the front. This diminution is precisely what Lightfoot alludes to, when he says, "wanting half a cubit in breadth in the second temple." This plate of the table shows no loaves placed upon it; and probably Titus found it thus vacant, when it became his prey: but it shows a cup, standing at one end of the table, on the spot where, according to the Rabbins, one of the piles of bread should be. We observe, also, nothing of the supposed golden props, or supports, to those piles in this figure. It is supposed probable, that the loaves were not placed in two piles upon this table, but laid in two rows along the table

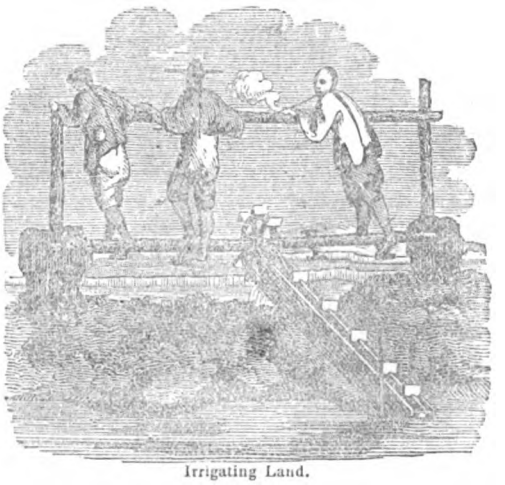
This third plate represents the bread as laid in two rows upon the table. The reasons which appear to justify this arrangement, are, 1st. The Hebrew word itself has been properly rendered, Lev. xxiv. 6., "two rows, six in a row," not two piles, six in a pile; but a row, i. e. at length, one loaf by the side of its fellows.

2dly. As these twelve loaves represented an offering from each of the twelve tribes, it was fit, that each tribe should be equally open to the view of the person who was understood to receive the present; but in piles this could not be. We observe lastly, that this arrangement of the loaves, admits perfectly of that diminution of the table in front, which appears in our second plate and admits also the place for the cup.

Censers.

LEV. x. 1, 2.

We have no custom among us of burning perfume, as a mode of doing honor to any one. but in the East, fumigation forms a part of civil entertainment, and is never omitted when a guest is intended to be complimented. Being thus general, and, indeed, indispensable in Asiatic manners, it was received also, anciently, into divine worship; and the priests, in their ordinary services, as well as the high-priest, in the most solemn acts of his public ministration, used incense, a cloud of incense, in approaching to God.



Ancient Censer.

We have very little conception of the form and nature of the ancient Hebrew censer; and what censers we have received from heathen antiquity, being suspended by chains, give, on some occasions at least, a false idea of the nature of this sacred utensil, as employed among the Jews. The censers used by Aaron and his sons, and by Korah and his company, were made of brass, or copper; and it appears, that after the death of those who had presumptuously used them, they were beaten into broad plates for a covering to the altar. From this application of them it should appear, that they were not cast, nor of great thickness; but were thin, and the plates into which they were beaten were of considerable surface. They were to be carried in the hand, not by themselves, as the heat arising from the burning embers they contained would be disagreeably great; but in a kind of dish, which was placed on the altar of incense, and there left, making a smoke, morning and evening, during the trimming of the lamps. Exod. xxx. 7, 8. The first plate is taken from De la Motraye, and exhibits a censer with its dish. The second is from a print representing the reception of a French Ambassador, taken from the collection of the late lord Baltimore: this also is a censer and dish; so that, in these instances, how different soever be the form of the censer, we observe the dish is its regular accompaniment.

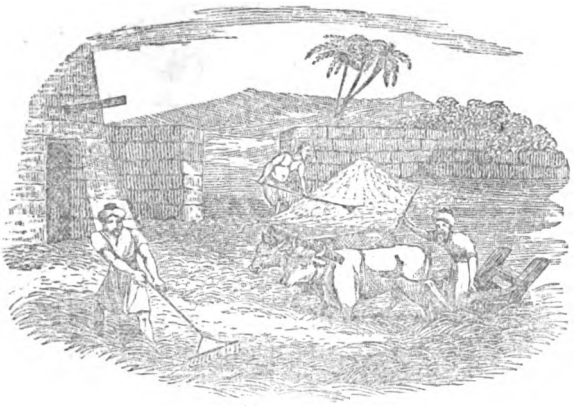
The third plate is an ancient censer, from Montfaucon, Vol. ii. p. 140. It is the only one he knew of.



Irrigating Land.

DEUT. xi. 10.

This "watering with the foot" has perplexed many persons. Philo describes it as "a wheel which a man turns with the motion of his foot, (our plate represents three wheels turned by three men with the motion of their feet, i. e. by lifting them up and putting them down,) by ascending successively the several steps which are within it; rather which, compose it. But, as while he is thus continually ascending, and thereby turning the wheel on which he treads, he cannot support himself, he holds a rail, which is placed before him, and which answers the purpose of a stay in his hands: and this rail being fixed, and not movable, it keeps him from falling; so that in this work, the hands do the office of the feet, by supporting his person, and indeed he may be said to stand by them, if not upon them, and the feet which should be at rest, are in action, and give motion to the wheel. So far, our plate is a close comment on the very words of Philo. As to the mechanism of this instrument, it consists of a box, divided into two parts, the under part wholly enclosed; one end of this box is laid in the lower water, the other end is raised to a proper level; a number of boards adapted to the size of this enclosure are drawn up it by the power of the wheel, and with these boards the water rises also: for it cannot flow out on the side, nor at the top, nor at the bottom, since these are enclosed; neither can it flow out behind, since there the rising boards stop it: it must therefore rise before the board, which impels it, till it arrive at the orifice for its discharge into the upper level. When the board has thus discharged its lading, it is continued in its course over the wheel, is carried back again down the upper groove of the box, and when arrived at the lower water, is ready to resume its former application of closing the lower division of the box, and forcing to ascend before it whatever water it finds at that part of the box. A succession of these boards maintain a constant stream, and thus furnish water from the lower grounds to the higher, even enough to assist in the cultivation of rice. Moses is evidently speaking of extensive cultivations, such as of corn-lands; for he evidently distinguishes it from a garden or plantation, by making such cultivation the object of his comparison, "where thou waterest with thy foot the land, or, thy seed sown in the land, in the same manner as thou wouldest do a garden of herbs, upon which thou bestowest peculiar care and attention"

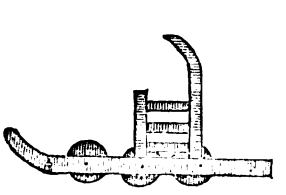
Threshing.



DEUT. XXV. 4.

In Egypt they use oxen, as the ancients did, to beat out their corn, by trampling upon the sheaves, and dragging after them a clumsy machine. A farmer chooses out a level spot in his field, and has his corn carried thither in sheaves, upon asses or dromedaries. Two oxen are then yoked in a sledge, a driver gets upon it, and drives them backward and forward (rather in a circle) upon the sheaves; and fresh oxen succeed in the yoke, from time to time. By this operation, the chaff is very much cut down: the whole is then winnowed, and the pure grain thus separated. This mode of threshing out the corn, is tedious and inconvenient.

You will notice in the plate the threshing floor; which appears to be a level smooth area. In the second cut, the figure represents the wain, car, cart, drag, or threshing instrument which different translators have thus variously denominated. This cut is in reality, a plan of this instrument, but for convenience of the plate, it is supposed to be set upright, on one of its sides. It appears to consist of a strong square frame, well secured with iron pins, &c. to keep it tight and steady: within this are three rollers whose pins, at each end, are inserted into the frame, and pass through it; on each of these rollers are iron circular cutters, having sharp edges, whose track is between that of the other cutters which compose the instrument. N. B. It is these cutters, which are furnished with teeth, which are referred to in Isaiah xli. 15.

The third cut is an elevation, or side view of the same instrument; which shows that the external square frame turns upward in front, for the purpose of more smoothly passing over the straw, &c. before it

Rhinoceros.

DEUT. xxxiii. 17.

It is much disputed among the learned whether there be, or ever was, such a creature as we call the unicorn, or whether this "Reem" be the Rhinoceros. Whenever this word is found in the Scriptures, it is used to denote strength and courage. The RHINOCEROS is an animal, thus called, because he has a horn on his snout. The Hebrew word reem, is rendered in the Septuagint by monoceros, unicornis, or rhinoceros.

Father le Compte says, that the Rhinoceros is of the length of an elephant; but its legs are shorter, and its hoofs are cloven. It is something like a boar, but is much larger; its feet are thicker, and its whole body more unwieldy. Its legs appear as if they had boots on; and its head seems to be covered behind with a kind of hood, whence the Portuguese name it, the monk of the Indies. The plate represents the head of the double horned rhinoceros, from Mr. Bruce, who tells us that this species in Abyssinia differs little, or nothing, in any other respect from the single horned kind. It will be observed, that its head is thick; its mouth not wide; its muzzle long, and armed with two thick and long horns which makes it terrible even to the very tigers, the buffaloes, and the elephants. The tongue of the rhinoceros is covered with so hard a membrane, that it eats with great facility the rough branches of trees, though defended all round with sharp thorns.

image represented the body of a fish, with the head and arms of a man. The figures of this God are not all exactly alike, though all combine the human form with that of a fish. At Gaza, Samson pulled down his temple on the head of his worshippers, Judg. xvi. 21—30. At Ashdod, when the ark of God was placed in his temple, as if it had been his booty, his image fell before it: his head and hands were broken off on the threshhold; on account of which, his priests never after trode on the threshhold, but jumped over it, as they entered the temple. 1 Sam. v. About A. M. 3840, Jonathan the Maccabee burnt it, and the remains of the Syrian army which had fled into it, since which, we hear no more of the existence of Dagon. Perhaps Odacon, the Chaldean deity, was the same with him. Dagon is thought by Mons. Gentil, to be the same as the Vishnu of the Hindoos. Near Rangoon in Burmah is the Shoe Dagoun, or gilt temple of Dagon.

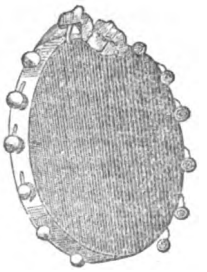
Golden Calf.

1 KINGS, xii. 26, 27, 28.

Jeroboam the son of Nebat, having been acknowledged king, by Israel, in order to separate the ten tribes more effectually from the house of David, provided for them new gods, whom they might worship in their own country, without going to the temple at Jerusalem He made two calves of gold, and said, behold thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. And he set one in Bethel, and the other put he in Dan, at the two extremities of his kingdom.



Harp.

1 CHRON. xvi. 42.

Harp found at Herculaneum. The simple form of this harp, seems to imply that it might be made extremely portable, while the great differences in the length of its strings would naturally offer an equal variety of notes, and be capable of great improvements. The ancient Hebrews called the harp, the pleasant harp; and not only employed it in their devotion, bu. in their entertainments and pleasures. The harp was nearly the earliest, if it were not the very earliest, instrument constructed for Music. David danced when he played on the harp; so did the Levites: it was therefore light and portable, and its size was restricted within limits which admitted of that service, and of that manner of using.

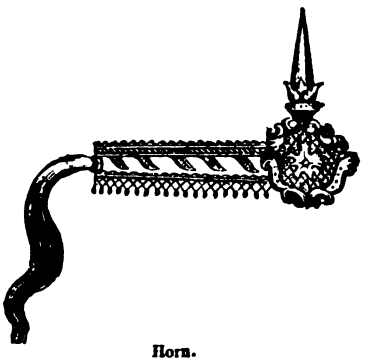
Drum.

1 Chron. xvi. 42.

This figure is from the Antiquities of Herculaneum, it may give a very good idea of the ancient toph, or drum; which was carried in the hand, and beat with the fingers; the bells are an addition, and perhaps they render it the timbrel or tabret. It was used both on civil and religious occasions; it is often mentioned as beat by women. Exod. xv. 20; Judg. xi 34. Sometimes by men, 1 Samuel, x. 5.

This is the Kettle-drum of the ancients; like the modern, but much smaller, taken from Pignorius, and Mersennus.

Musical Instruments.



Neh. xii. 26.

The upper figure describes an Huggab, the ancient organ. Some critics think, the Hebrew name is from the sweetness of its tones. This instrument has been common about our streets, and though played on by no extraordinary skill, yet we must own the sweetness of its tones is sufficient to justify this derivation of its title

Digitized by Google

The figure on the left hand is an ancient Sistrum. It is evident that this instrument could do little more by its rattling than mark time, and add noise to a concert.

The figure on the right hand is a "Schalishim." This word evidently implies three; but whether it be three sides to the instrument, or three strings, as some suggest, or whether it might not include both ideas, and be three strings drawn tightly on an instrument of three sides, we are utterly unable to determine.

Horn.

Ps. xcii. 10.

A few years since, some Indian ships brought over a number of Sepoys, who did duty as marines during the voyage; these were newly clothed in England, and presented to the king Part of their dress consisted in a helmet worn on the head. These helmets appeared to be made of stout leather, or other strong substance; they were oval and nearly flat, like the trencher cap worn at the universities; in the centre rose a headpiece, or crown, ornamented with feathers, &c.; and on the front, directly over the forehead, was a steel HORN, rising as it were from a short stem, and then assuming the form of one of our extinguishers, used to extinguish the light of a candle. The comparison of such a horn, to the horn of a reem, the unicorn of our translators, the rhinoceros, appears extremely applicable. I suppose we should hardly be justified in referring this part of dress to the military only, because Hannah, for instance, says, "My horn is exalted." This also diminishes the apparent strangeness of Zedekiah's conduct, 1 Kings, xxii. 11. who made himself horns of iron. We are apt to conceive of these horns, as projecting like bull's horns, on each side of Zedekiah's head. How different from the real fact. Zedekiah had no wish to be thought mad, to which imputation such an appearance would have subjected him: whereas, in what he did, he only acted the hero; and the hero returning in military triumph. In corroboration of this idea, let us hear Mr. Bruce, who first elucidated this subject by actual observation. "One thing remarkable which I observed, was the head-dress of the governors of provinces. A large broad fillet was bound upon their forehead, and tied behind their head. In the middle of this was a horn, or conical piece of silver, gilt, about four inches long, much in the shape of our common candle extinguishers. This is called kirn or horn, and is only worn in reviews, or parades after victory. This I apprehend, like all other of their usages, is taken from the Hebrews, and the several allusions made in Scripture to it, arise from this practice: "I said to the wicked, lift not up the horn." "Lift not up your horn on high; speak not with a stiff neck." "The horn of the righteous shall be exalted with honor," &c.

The figure on the plate is one of those horns which are worn in Abyssinia by the soldiery, in triumph after a victory. If there be any probability in the idea, that when the horn is mentioned in Scripture, it may allude to the wearing of such a token of exultation, or, indeed, on merely common ideas, without such a reference, is it more likely the allusion should be to the two horns of a bull, which project, one on each side of the head, or to a single horn erect in the middle of the forehead. If the Psalmist had said, my horns, (plural,) shalt thou project sideways, the phrase might have alluded to a bull; but, when he says, my horn, (singular,) shalt thou exalt, or cause to stand erect, we must seek some other animal as the subject of comparison: because the bull and the whole beeve kind is out of the question, as their horns do not stand erect, nor are, in that sense, exalted.

Bottle.

PSALM, cxix. 83. or MATT. ix. 17.

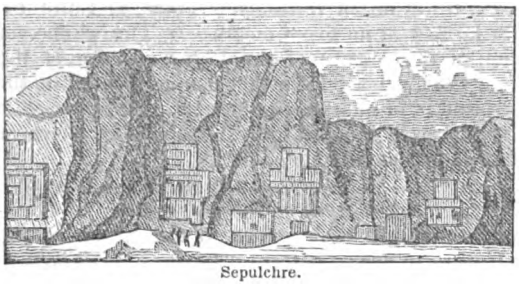
There is so great a difference between the properties of glass bottles, such as are in common use among us, and bottles made of skin, which were used anciently by most nations, and still are used in the East, that when we read of bottles, and do not carefully distinguish in our minds one kind of bottle from the other, mistake is sure to be the consequence. The plate shows very clearly, the form and nature of an ancient bottle; out of which, a female is pouring wine into a cup. It appears from this figure, that after the skin has been stripped off the animal, and properly dressed, the places where the legs had been, are strongly closed up; and where the neck was, is the opening left for receiving and discharging the contents of the bottle. No doubt, such bottles when full, in which state this is represented, must differ greatly from the same when empty: being when full, swollen, round and firm; when empty, flaccid, weak and bending.

Roman Medals.

ISAIAH, iii. 26.

These figures are intended to represent Roman medals, which, by bearing the inscription Judæa Capta and the mark S. C. "by order of the senate," demonstrate the state of subjection, and of distress, to which this province was reduced by the Roman arms. The various insignia which these medals contain, all speak the same language; and whether it be a captive of either sex sitting under a trophy, or under a palm tree, the import is to the same effect.

Symbol.



ISAIAH, xviii. 1.

The winged cnephim, which is the very word the prophet uses in Hebrew, is sculptured over the entrance gates of the temples in upper Egypt. It is so general, that almost every temple in Norden, from whom this is taken, is embellished with it: and it is, no doubt, a religious symbol, importing the power to whom the temple is dedicated. There is no doubt but that southern Egypt adopted universally this symbol of the winged serpent; and that its inhabitants committed themselves to the special protection of that deity, to whom, under this symbol, they consecrated their temples and their country.

It is very credible, therefore, that the prophet's "land shadowing with wings" should be the very country, where, as was well known, in the time of the prophet, this symbol prevailed, and was popular, and we rest perfectly assured that long before the period when Isaiah wrote, this was the customary symbol of southern Egypt.

Sepulchre.

ISAIAH, xxii. 16.

Tombs may be divided into—1st, those dug below the surface of the ground: 2dly, those built above the ground, and 3dly, those cut into rocks, often at considerable heights above the level of the ground.

The plate exhibits a number of sepulchres, cut at considerable heights into the rock, at Naxi Rustan, near Persepolis, in Persia, from Le Bruyn.

It is evident that these must have been works of great labor and expense; beyond the powers of ordinary persons: they must have employed many laborers, and for a long time, &c. Vain desire of something permanent! vain solicitude for a kind of terrestrial immortality, after death! This gives a spirit to the expostulation of the prophet Isaiah, with Shibna the treasurer. "What hast thou here," what lasting settlement dost thou expect? that thou hast hewed thee out a sepulchre, here, like as one heweth out, at a great height, his sepulchre: that cutteth out at a great expense a habitation, (for himself after death,) a dwelling, a residence, in a solid rock: it shall be fruitless; for the Lord shall toss thee, as a ball, into a large country, where thou shalt die, &c.

Mirage.

ISAIAH, xxxv. 7.

Generally speaking, in a desert, there are few springs of water, some of them at the distance of four, six, and eight days' journey from one another, and not all of sweet water: on the contrary, it is generally salt or bitter; so that if the thirsty traveller drinks of it, it increases his thirst, and he suffers more than before. But when the calamity happens, that the next well, which is so anxiously sought for, is found dry, the misery of such a situation cannot well be described. The camels which afford the only means of escape, are so thirsty, that they cannot proceed to another well; and if the travellers kill them, to extract the little liquid which remains in their stomachs, they themselves cannot advance any farther. The situation must be dreadful, and admits of no resource. Many perish, victims of the most horrible thirst. It is then that the value of a cup of water is really felt. In short, to be thirsty in a desert, without water, exposed to the burning sun without shelter, and NO HOPES of finding either, is the most terrible situation that a man can be placed in, and one of the greatest sufferings that a human being can sustain: the eyes grow inflamed; the tongue and lips swell; a hollow sound is heard in the ears, which brings on deafness, and the brains appear to grow thick and inflamed: all these feelings arise from the want of a little water. In the midst of all this misery, the deceitful morasses appear before the traveller at no great distance, something like a river or lake of clear fresh water. If perchance the traveller is not undeceived, he hastens his pace to reach it sooner; the more he advances towards it, the more it recedes from him, till at last it vanishes entirely, and the deluded passenger often asks, where is the water he saw at no great distance. The phenomenon, here described, is produced by a diminution of the density of the lower stratum of the atmosphere, which is caused by the increase of heat, arising from that communicated by the rays of the sun to the sand with which this stratum is in immediate contact. This phenomenon existed in the great desert of Judæa, and is expressly alluded to by Isaiah, who, when predicting the blessings of the Messiah's spiritual kingdom, say,

The glowing sand shall BECOME* a pool,
And the thirsty soil bubbling springs.

And it is not improbable that Jeremiah refers to the Serab or mirage, when in pouring forth his complaints to God for mercies deferred, he says, Wilt thou be altogether unto me as waters that be not sure, that is, which have no reality.

Belzoni describes the mirage in the following terms: "It generally appears like a still lake, so unmoved by the wind, that every thing above is to be seen most distinctly reflected by it. If the wind agitate any of the plants, that rise above the horizon of the mirage, the motion is seen perfectly at a great distance. If the traveller stand elevated much above the mirage, the apparent water seems less united and less deep; for, as the eyes look down upon it, there is not thickness enough in the vapor on the surface of the ground, to conceal the earth from the sight; but if the traveller be on a level with the horizon of the mirage, he cannot see through it, so that it appears to him clear water. By putting my head first to the ground and then mounting a camel, the height of which from the ground might have been about ten feet at the most, I found a great difference in the appearance of the mirage. On approaching it, it becomes thinner, and appears as if agitated by the wind, like a field of ripe corn. It gradually vanishes, as the traveller approaches, and at last entirely disappears, when he is on the spot."

Tent.

ISAIAH, xl. 22.

The cut represents a circular tent. To a tent of this form the heavens are compared by the prophet Isaiah, xl. 22. "God stretcheth out the heavens as a curtain," i. e. of a tent, "and spreadeth them out as a tent to dwell in." He seems, in this, to have followed the Psalmist, civ. 2. "God stretcheth out the heavens like a curtain." i. e. of a tent, and if of a circular tent, thus equally expanded all around, the allusion is striking. If the idea of tent curtains was freely applied to the heavens, then we see how an easy transition of ideas might consider them, as being either opened or closed, spread out or rolled together, like a scroll, Isaiah, xxxiv. 4. spanned by the hand, xlviii. 13. or clothed with blackness and sackcloth, like the covering of the tent, l. 3. Tents were of various colors; many of the Arab tents are black. We read of "the pillars of heaven," Job, xxvi. 11. of their being "shaken," as the supporting pillars of a tent may be: and these ideas illustrate many other poetical figures, which their authors never designed should be strictly, i. e. literally, taken.

* i. e. It shall not only resemble a pool, but shall really be what the mirage makes it appear

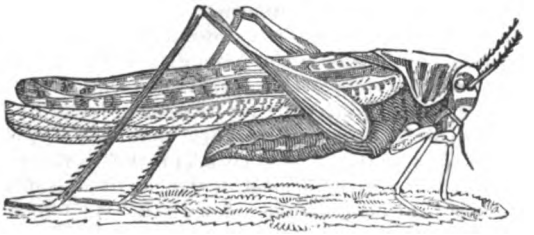
Women Grinding.

ISAIAH, xlvii. 2. and MATT. xxiv. 41.

It is in the East, the constant office of the women, to grind corn; which they do every morning at daybreak; the grinder usually sits down on the floor, &c., and placing the mill on her lap, or on the ground, by means of the handle, works the upper stone round with her right hand. When the stone is large, or expedition is required, then a second person is called in to assist. Most families grind their wheat and barley at home, having two portable grindstones for that purpose, the uppermost whereof, is turned around by a small handle of wood or iron placed in the edge of it. The corn falls down on the undermost stone, through a hole which is in the middle of the uppermost, which, by its circular motion, spreads it on the under stone, where it is bruised and reduced to flour—this flour works out at the rim of the millstones and falls on a board placed to receive it. The cup in the upper stone is for the purpose of receiving the corn. The upper stone only moves; the under stone is at rest.

Books



JER. xxxvi. 2, 4, 20, &c. and Ezek. ix. 3.

Several sorts of materials were anciently used in making books. Plates of lead or copper, the bark of trees, brick, stone, and wood, were originally employed to engrave such things and documents upon, as men desired to transmit to posterity. Josephus speaks of two columns, one of stone, the other of brick, on which the children of Seth, wrote their inventions, and their astronomical discoveries. Hesiod's works were at first written on tablets of lead. God's laws were written on stone, and Solon's laws on wooden planks. Tablets of wood, box, and ivory, were common amongst the ancients; when they were of wood, they were oftentimes coated over with wax, which received the writing inscribed on them, with the point of a style, or iron pen; and what was written might be effaced by the broad end of a style. Afterwards the leaves of the palm-tree were used, instead of wooden planks; and also the finest, and thinnest bark of trees, such as the lime, the ash, the maple, the elm: hence the word liber, which denotes the inner bark of trees, signifies also a book. As these barks were rolled up, to be more readily carried about, the rolls were called volumen, a volume; a name given likewise to rolls of paper, and of parchment; this accounts for the prophet Isaiah's making use of the expression, "take thee a roll of a book." The ancients wrote likewise on linen. But the oldest material, commonly employed for writing upon, appears to have been the papyrus, a reed very common in Egypt, and other places. Papyrus being more common, and less costly than dressed skins, it seems likely memoranda and first draughts of writings, were made on papyrus sheets and that skins were used for receiving the finished performance. Books are often, though not always spoken of as rolls, in Scripture. The ancient books found at Herculaneum were of different forms and different sizes. Some of the rolls were large, others small—some of the books were of a form entirely different. The first figure in the plate is a book of considerable size, bound by at least three double bands in the back; the page dark colored, and the writing on it black; the margin white. It appears that in this book, the page is a thin leaf, let into the margin, which strengthens and defends it all round; as a band of pasteboard, or other stiff material might do. It appears also, that two of these leaves are joined together, so that only their external faces are visible, or usable for receiving writing: their internal faces being either blank, or, if written upon, not to be read, till after the leaves are separated.

The middle figure, is an inkstand, consisting of two parts; consequently, capable of containing two kinds of ink; as red and black, one of these has its cover on, the other is open. A reed pen, of considerable length and magnitude is resting against the right side of the inkstand: Whether the bands round the pen are designed to represent the natural joints of the reed, or are added with design to strengthen the pen, may be doubted; probably the latter. The other figure on the plate is a roll of considerable size, both ends rolling inward: this roll has much writing on its inner surface, but nothing on the back of it. It deserves notice that all the writing is bold and strong, consisting wholly of thick strokes, like those which a reed pen would make.

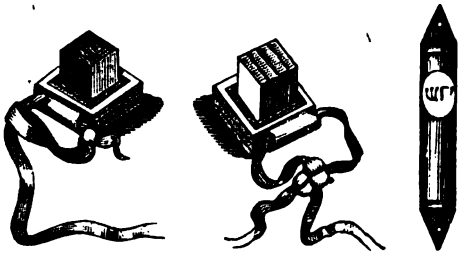
Locust.

JOEL, i. 6, 7, &c. and ii. 3, 4, 5, &c.

The Hebrews have many names for locusts, probably indicating several sorts. God smote Egypt with locusts, which ravaged every thing in the fields of that country. Historians and travellers remark, that locusts are very common in Africa, and in many parts of Asia; they sometimes fall like a cloud upon the country, and eat up every thing: the quantity of them is so large, that they obscure the sun; and the people discerning them in the air, are in a consternation, being uncertain whether they will fall or not upon their lands. The prophet Joel therefore when intending to express the terror and dismay the people would evince at their approach, says, "the people shall be much pained, all faces shall gather blackness." The prophet also speaking of a great dearth which happened in Judea, after it had been laid waste by a multitude of locusts, speaks of them as of an enemy's army which had committed dreadful devastations. These creatures were, (and are) commonly eaten in Palestine for food. The ancients affirm that in Africa, Syria, Persia and almost throughout Asia the people eat these creatures. Clenard in a letter from Fez, A. D. 1541, assures us, that he saw wagon loads of locusts brought into that city for food. Kerstenius, in his notes on Matthew, says, he was informed by his Arabic Master, that he had often seen them on the river Jordan, that they were of the same form as ours, but larger; that the inhabitants pluck off their wings and feet, and hang the rest at their necks till they grow warm and ferment; and that then they eat them, and think it very good food.

Baal.

NAH. iii. 8.



This figure represents the head of Baal, the most ancient God of he Canaanites, and perhaps of the East. Baal and Astaroth are commonly mentioned together; it is believed that Astaroth denotes the moon, and that Baal represents the sun. The Hebrews too often imitated the idolatry of the Canaanites in adoring Baal: they offered human sacrifices to him, they erected altars to him in groves, on high places and on the terraces of houses. The reader will observe the stars which accompany this head; if these stars, or, if a single star, be referred to the deity it accompanies, then we see how easily the Israelites might "take up the star of their god," (Amos, v. 26.) i. e. portrayed on medals, or small figures, whether images, coins, &c., carried about them and secured from detection by their smallness and readiness of concealment. This figure has the bull's or cow's horns and ears on his head.

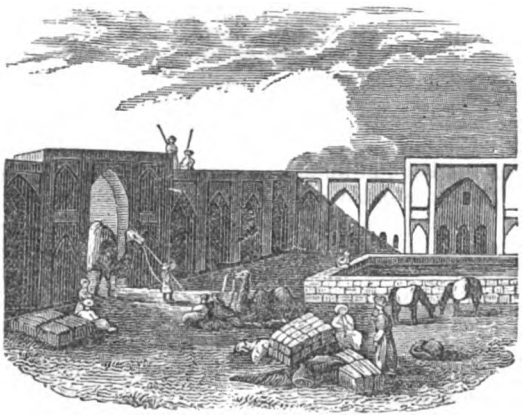
This figure represents the head of Jupiter Ammon. It has the cornu ammonis, the ram's horn, only; and this is the more usual way of representing this deity. This celebrated god of the Egyptians was probably a deification of Ham, whose posterity peopled Africa Ammon had a famous temple in Africa, where he was adored under the symbolic figure of a ram; for the Egyptians represented their gods under the form of certain animals. The famous temple of Ammon, was situated in a delicious spot, in the midst of a frightful desert. Here was an oracle, of great fame, which Alexander the Great consulted, at the risk of his life. This oracle, as well as others, fell insensibly into oblivion. The Scriptures say nothing of this false deity in particular; but speak of Ham, and of the city of Ammon, or No-Ammon, which was principally devoted to it.

Phylacteries.



MATT. xxiii. 5.

These phylacteries were little boxes, or rolls of parchment, wherein were written certain words of the law. These they wore upon their forehead, and upon the wrist of their left arm. They founded this custom upon Exod. xiii. 9, 16. Those that were to be fastened to the arms were two rolls of parchment written in square letters, with an ink made on purpose, and with much care. They were rolled up to a point, and were enclosed in a sort of case of black calf skin. Then they were put upon a square bit of the same leather, but something stiffer, from whence hung a thong of the same, of about a finger's breadth, and a cubit and a half long. These rolls were placed at the bending of the left arm, and after the thong had made a little knot in the form of the letter Jod, it was wound about the arm in a spiral line, which ended at the top of the middle finger. The figure on the left hand of the plate represents one, to be worn upon the wrist: the middle figure represents one for the forehead. That of the forehead was composed of four pieces of parchment, upon each was written a sentence from the law. These four pieces were joined together in a square, and they wrote upon them the letter Schin. Then they put over them a little square of stiff calf-skin, from whence proceeded two thongs like the former. This square was put on the middle of the forehead, and the thongs going round the head, made a knot behind, like the letter deleth, and then came round again to the breast. The modern Jews content them selves, with putting on these phylacteries only at morning prayers. Some of the most devout put them on at the time of noon prayers also.

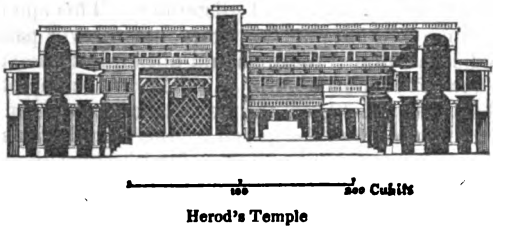
The last figure on the plate is a Mezuzoth. This name the Jews give to certain pieces of parchment, that they fix in the door posts of their houses, taking literally what Moses orders, Deut. vi. 9, 11, 13. Thou shalt never forget the laws of thy God, but thou shalt write them on the posts of thy house, and on thy gates. They pretend, that to avoid making themselves ridiculous, by writing the commandments of God without their doors, or rather to avoid exposing them to profanation, they ought to write them on parchment, and to enclose it. Therefore they write these words, on a square piece of parchment prepared on purpose, with a particular ink and a square kind of character, Deut. vi. 4—9. Hear O Israel the Lord our God is one Lord, &c. Then they left a little space and afterward went on, Deut. xi. 13. And it shall come to pass, if thou shalt hearken diligently to my commandments, &c. &c., as far as "thou shalt write them upon the door-posts of thy house, &c." After this they roll up the parchment, put it in a case, and write on it Shadai, which is one of the names of God; they put it at the doors of their houses, and chambers, to the knockers of the door on the right side, and as often as they pass, they touch it in this place with their finger.



Caravanserai.

LUKE, ii. 7.

CARAVANSERAI, a building in the East, which is expressed in our version of the Scriptures, by the term "Inn" There appears to be three descriptions of these buildings. Some are simply places of rest, (by the side of a fountain, if possible,) which, being at proper distances on the road, are thus named, though they are mere naked walls; others have an attendant, who subsists either by some charitable donation, or the benevolence of passengers; and others are more considerable establishments, where families reside, and take care of them, and furnish many necessary provisions. Conformably to these ideas, the Scripture uses at least two words to express a caravanserai, though our translators have rendered both by the same term inn. Thus in Luke, ii. 7. There was no room for them in the INN, the Greek word signifies, "the place of untying," of beasts, &c. for rest. In Luke, x. 34. (where another Greek word is employed, the signification of which is "open to all comers,") the good Samaritan is said to have brought the wounded man to the "INN." It may reasonably be supposed, that a caravanserai in a town should be better furnished than one in the country, in a retired place, and where few travellers pass. Mr. Taylor therefore is inclined to think that the inn, to which the good Samaritan, is represented as conducting the wounded traveller, was intentionally described of an inferior kind. If so, we may reasonably take the other word, "the untying place," as denoting a larger edifice; and this accounts for the evangelist Luke's mention of there being no room in it: "though it was large enough for such occasions as usually occurred in the town of Bethlehem, yet now every apartment in this receptacle was occupied; so that no privacy "fit for a woman in the situation of Mary could be had." Caravanserais are built at proper distances through the roads of the Turkish dominons, and afford to the indigent and weary traveller, an asylum from the inclemency of the weather. They have commonly one story above the ground floor; the lower story is arched, and serves for warehouses to store goods, for lodgings, and for stables, while the upper is used merely for lodgings besides which they are always accommodated with a fountain, and have cooks' shops and other conveniences to supply the wants of lodgers." (Campbell's Travels, p. 2. p. 8.) This description applies of course to the better sort of caravanserais.

Digitized by Google

The nearest construction to a caravanserai, appears in some old English inns, where galleries, with lodging rooms in them, run round a court, or yard; but then, as travellers in the East always carry with them their own bedding, &c., it is evident that our inns are better provided than the best eastern caravanserais. It is necessary to keep this in mind; because we must not suppose that Joseph and Mary travelled without taking the necessary utensils with them; or that they could have procured, in this inn, any thing beyond provisions and lodging: perhaps, even, they could not have procured provisions. That the reader may obtain a pretty distinct idea, of the poverty of these eastern inns, we shall give the following extract from Volney's Travels, vol. ii. p. 419. Eng. edit. "There are no inns any where; but the cities, and commonly the villages, have a large building called a khan or kervanserai, which serves for an asylum for all travellers These houses of reception are always built without the precincts of towns, and consist of four wings round a square court, which serves, by way of enclosure for beasts of burden. The lodgings are cells, where you find nothing but bare walls, dust, and sometimes scorpions. The keeper of this khan gives the traveller a key and a mat; and he provides himself the rest. He must therefore carry with him his bed, his kitchen utensils, and even his provisions; for frequently not even bread is to be found in the villages. On this account the Orientals contrive their equipage in the most simple and portable form. The baggage of a man who wishes to be completely provided, consists in a carpet, a mattrass, a blanket, two saucepans, with lids, contained within each other, two dishes, two plates, and a coffee-pot all of copper well tinned; a small wooden box for salt and pepper; a round leathern table, which he suspends from the saddle of his horse; small leathern bottles or bags for oil and water, a pipe, a tinderbox, a cup of cocoa nut, some rice, dried raisins, dates, cypress cheese, and, above all, coffee berries, with a roaster, and wooden mortar to pound them. I am thus particular, to prove that the Orientals are more advanced than we, in the art of dispensing with many things; an art which is not without its use."

Herod's Temple

LUKE, iv. 9.

The temple built by Solomon retained its pristine splendor but thirty-three years, when it was plundered by Shishak, king of Egypt, 1 Kings, xiv. 25, 26. After this period it underwent sundry profanations and pillages; and was, at length, utterly destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, A. M. 3416, B. C. 588, after having stood, according to Usher, four hundred and twenty-four years, three months and eight days. After lying in ruins for fifty-two years, the foundations of the second temple were laid by Zerubbabel, and the Jews who had availed themselves of the privilege granted by Cyrus, and returned to Jerusalem, Ezra, i. 1—4: ii. 1: iii. 8—10. They had not proceeded far, however, before they were obliged to desist, on account of an order from Artaxerxes, king of Persia, which had been procured, through the misrepresentations of the Samaritans and others, chap. iv. 1. During fifteen years, the work stood still; but in the second year of Darius, they recommenced their labors, and on the third day of the month Adar, in the sixth year of Darius, it was finished and dedicated, (Ezra, vi. 15, 16.) twenty-one years after it was begun, B. C. 515. The dimensions of this temple in breadth and height were double those of Solomon's. The weeping of the people at the laying of the foundation thereof, (Ezra, iii. 12, 13.) and the diminutive manner in which they spoke of it, when compared with the first one, (Hag. ii 3.) were not occasioned by its inferiority in size, but in glory. It wanted the five principal things, which invested it with this, viz: the ark and mercy seat; the Shechinah, or visible symbol of the Divine presence; the holy fire on the altar; the urim and thummin; and the spirit of prophecy. In the year A. M. 3837, this temple was plundered and profaned by Antiochus Epiphanes, who ordered the discontinuance of the daily sacrifice, offered swine's flesh upon the altar, and completely suspended the worship of Jehovah, 1 Mac. i. 62. Thus it continued for three years, when it was repaired and purified by Judas Maccabeus, who restored the divine worship, and dedicated it anew.

Herod having slain all the Sanhedrim, except two, in the first year of his reign, B. C. 37, resolved to atone for it, by rebuilding and beautifying the temple. This he was the more inclined to do, both from the peace which he enjoyed, and the decayed state of the edifice For besides the common ravages of time, it had suffered considerable by the hands of enemies, since that part of Jerusalem was the strongest, and consequently, the last resort of the inhabitants, in times of extremity. After employing two years in preparing the materials for the work, (in which one thousand wagons and ten thousand artificers were employed, besides one thousand priests to direct the works,) the temple of Zerubbabel was pulled down, B. C. 17, and forty-six years before the first Passover of his ministry. Although this temple was fit for divine worship, in nine years and a half, yet a great many laborers and artificers were still employed in carrying on the out-buildings all the time of our Saviour's abode on earth, and even till the time of Gessius Florus to be governor of Judea. The sense, therefore, of the Jews' language, Jno. ii. 20., is, "forty and six years HAS this temple BEEN in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?"

The plate represents the temple as rebuilt by Herod, which was considerably larger than that of Zerubbabel, as that of Zerubbabel was larger than Solomon's. For, whereas the second temple was seventy cubits long, sixty broad, and sixty high; this was one hundred cubits long, seventy broad, and one hundred high. The porch was raised to the height of one hundred cubits and was extended fiften cubits beyond each side of the rest of the building. All the Jewish writers praise this temple exceedingly for its beauty, and the costliness of its workmanship; for it was built of white marble, exquisitely wrought, and with stones of large dimensions, some of them twenty-five cubits long, eight cubits high and twelve cubits thick. To these there is no doubt a reference in Mark, xii. 1. and Luke, xxi. 5. The vast sums which Herod laid out in adorning this structure, gave it the most magnificent and imposing appearance. "Its appearance," says Josephus, "had every thing that could strike the mind, and astonish the sight. For it was on every side covered with solid plates of gold, so that when the sun rose upon it, it reflected such a strong and dazzling effulgence, that the eye of the beholder was obliged to turn away from it, being no more able to sustain its radiance, than the splendor of the sun." To strangers who approached the capital, it appeared, at a distance, like a high mountain covered with snow. For where it was not decorated with plates of gold, it was extremely white and glistening. This splendid building, however, which was once the admiration and envy of the world, has forever passed away. According to our blessed Lord's prediction, that "there should not be left one stone upon another, that should not be thrown down." (Mark, xiii. 2.) It was completely demolished by the Roman soldiers, under Titus, A. D. 70, on the same month, and on the same day of the month, on which Solomon's temple was destroyed by the Babylonians.

Concerning the high veneration which the Jews cherished for their temple, Dr. Harwood has collected some interesting particulars from Philo, Josephus, and the writings of Luke. Their reverence for the sacred edifice was such, that rather than witness its defilement, they would cheerfully submit to death. They could not bear the least disrespectful or dishonorable thing to be said of it. The least injurious slight of it, real or apprehended, instantly awakened all the choler of a Jew, and was an affront never to be forgiven. Our Saviour, in the course of his public instructions, happening to say, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up again," (John ii. 19.)—it was construed into a contemptuous disrespect, designedly thrown out against the temple—his words instantly descended into the heart of a Jew, and kept rankling there for several years; for upon his trial, this declaration, which it was impossible for a Jew ever to forget or to forgive, was alleged against him, as big with the most atrocious guilt and impiety, Matt. xxvi. 61. Nor was the rancor and virulence which this expression had occasioned at all softened by all the affecting circumstances of that excruciating and wretched death they saw him die—even as he hung upon the cross, with infinite triumph, scorn, and exultation, they upbraided him with it, contemptuously shaking their heads, and saying, "O Thou, who couldst demolish our TEMPLE, and rear it up again in all its splendor, in the space of three days, do now save thyself, and descend from the cross!" Matt. xxvii. 40. Their superstitious veneration for the temple further appears from the account of Stephen. When his adversaries were baffled and confounded by that superior wisdom, and those distinguished gifts he possessed, they were so exasperated at the victory he had gained over them, that they went and suborned persons to swear, that they had heard him speak blasphemy against Moses and against God. These inflaming the populace, the magistrates, and the Jewish clergy, he was seized, dragged away, and brought before the Sanhedrim. Here the false witnesses, whom they had procured, stood up and said, "This person, before you, is continually uttering the most reproachful expressions against this SACRED PLACE," (Acts, vi. 13.) meaning the temple. This was blasphemy not to be pardoned. A judicature composed of high-priests and scribes would never forgive such impiety. We witness the same thing in the case of Paul, when they imagined that he had take Trophimus, an Ephesian, with him into the temple, and for which insult they had determined to imbrue their hands in his blood, Acts, xxi. 28. &c.

CHAP. I.

B. C. 4004.

IN the beginning [a] God created [b] the heaven and the earth.

2 And the earth was [c] without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit [d] of God moved upon the face of the waters.

3 And God said, [e] Let there be light: [f] and there was light.

4 And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided [2] the light from the darkness.

5 And God called the light [h] Day, and the darkness he called Night. And the evening and the morning were [3] the first day.

6 And God said, [i] Let there be a [7] firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

7 And God made the firmament, [k] and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above [l] the firmament: and it was so.

8 And God called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and the morning were the second day.

9 And God said, [m] Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear; and it was so.

10 And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas: and God saw that it was good.

11 And God said, Let the earth [n] bring forth [9] grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit-tree yielding [o] fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth: and it was so.

12 And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

13 And the evening and the morning were the third day.

14 And God said, Let there be [q] lights in the firmament of the heaven, to divide the [10] day from the night; and let them be for signs and [r] for seasons, and for days, and years:

15 And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth: and it was so.

16 And God made two great lights; the greater light [1] to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night: he made the stars also.

17 And God set them in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth,

18 And to [s] rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness: and God saw that it was good.

19 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

20 And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving [4] creature that hath [5] life, and fowl [6] that may fly above the earth in the open [8] firmament of heaven.

21 And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

22 And God blessed them, saying, Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas; and let fowl multiply in the earth.

23 And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

24 And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after his kind: and it was so.

25 And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

26 And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

27 So God created man in his own image, [p] in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.

28 And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it; and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth [1] upon the earth.

29 And God said, Behold I have given you every herb [3] bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; [b] to you it shall be for meat.

30 And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is life, [5] I have given every green herb for meat: and it was so.

31 And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

CHAP. II.

THUS the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them.

2 And [f] on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.

3 And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it; because that in it he had rested from all his work which God created [10] and made.

4 These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, in the day that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens,

5 And every plant of the field before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field before it grew: for the LORD God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground.

6 But [14] there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

7 And the LORD God formed man [15] of the [j] dust of the ground, and [k] breathed into his [l] nostrils the breath of life; and [m] man became a living soul.

8 And the LORD God planted [p] a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed.

9 And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the [q] tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the [r] tree of knowledge of good and evil

10 And a river went out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads.

11 The name of the first is Pison: that is it which compasseth [v] the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold;

12 And the gold of that land is good: there is bdellium and the onyx-stone.

13 And the name of the second river is Gihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of [18] Ethiopia

14 And the name of the third river is Hiddekel: [w] that is it which goeth [19] toward the east of Assyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates.

15 And the LORD God took [2] the man, and [a] put him into the garden of Eden, to dress it and to keep it.

16 And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden [4] thou mayest freely eat.

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, [c] thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof, thou [6] shalt surely die.

18 And the LORD God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; [d] I will make him an help [7] meet for him.

19 And out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air; and [e] brought them unto Adam [8] to see what he would call them: and whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof.

20 And Adam gave [9] names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field; but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him.

21 And the LORD God caused a [g] deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof.

22 And the rib which the LORD God had taken from man, made [11] he a woman, and [h] brought her unto the man.

23 And Adam said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called [12] Woman, because she was taken out of [13] Man.

24 Therefore shall a man leave [i] his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh.

25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

CHAP. III.

NOW the [n] serpent was more [o] subtle than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made. And he said unto the woman, [16] Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?

2 And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden:

3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, [s] Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die.

4 And the serpent [t] said unto the [u] woman, Ye shall not surely die:

5 For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened; and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

6 And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant [17] to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat; and gave also unto her husband with her, and he did eat.

7 And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked: [b] and they sewed fig-leaves together, and made themselves [1] aprons.

8 And they heard the voice of the LORD God walking in the garden in the [2] cool of the day: and Adam and his wife [d] hid themselves from the presence of the LORD God, amongst the trees of the garden.

9 And the LORD God called unto Adam, and said unto him, Where art thou?

10 And he said, I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, [h] because I was naked; and I hid myself.

11 And he said, Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat?

12 And the man said, [j] The woman, whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat.

13 And the LORD God said unto the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

14 And the LORD God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field: upon thy belly shalt thou go, and [m] dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life:

15 And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between [o] thy seed and [p] her seed; [q] it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.

16 Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow, and thy conception: in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be [10] to thy husband, and he shall [t] rule over thee.

17 And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life:

18 Thorns also and thistles shall it [12] bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field.

19 In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return.

20 And Adam called his wife's name Eve; [14] because she was the mother of all living. [w]

21 Unto Adam also, and to his wife, did the LORD God make coats of skins, and [y] clothed them.

22 And the LORD God said, [y] Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, [z] and eat, and live forever;

23 Therefore the LORD God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, [c] to till the ground from whence he was taken.

24 So he drove out the man: and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden, cherubims, [e] and a flaming sword [f] which turned every way, to keep the way [g] of the tree of life.

CHAP. IV.

AND Adam knew Eve his wife; and she conceived, and bare [3] Cain, and said, I have gotten a man from the LORD

2 And she again bare his brother [4] Abel And Abel was [5] a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.

3 And [6] in process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought [i] of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD.

4 And Abel, he also brought [i] of the firstlings of his [7] flock, and of the [k] fat thereof. And the LORD had [l] respect unto Abel, and to his offering:

5 But unto Cain, and to his offering, he had not respect. And Cain was very wroth, and his countenance fell.

6 And the LORD said unto Cain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen?

7 If thou doest well, shalt thou not [8] be accepted? and if thou doest not well, [n] sin lieth at the door: And [9] unto thee shall be his desire, and thou shalt rule over him.

8 And Cain talked with Abel his brother: and it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and [r] slew him.

9 And the LORD said unto Cain, [s] Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not: Am I my brother's keeper?

10 And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's [11] blood [u] crieth unto me from the ground.

11 And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand.

12 When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength: a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth.

13 And Cain said unto the LORD, My punishment [13] is greater than I can bear

14 Behold, thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the earth; and from thy face shall I be hid; and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth: and it shall come to pass, [v] that every one that findeth me shall slay me.

15 And the LORD said unto him, Therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him seven-fold. And the LORD set a mark upon Cain, lest any finding him should kill him.

16 And Cain [z] went out from the presence of the LORD, and dwelt in the land of Nod, on the east of Eden.

17 And Cain knew his wife; and she conceived, and bare [1] Enoch: and he builded a city, and called the name of the city, after the name of his son, Enoch.

18 And unto Enoch was born Irad: and Irad begat Mehujael: and Mehujael begat Methusael: and Methusael begat [3] Lamech.

19 And Lamech took unto him two wives: the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah.

20 And Adah bare Jabal: he was the father of such as dwell in tents, and of such as have cattle.

21 And his brother's name was Jubal: he was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ.

22 And Zillah, she also bare Tubal-cain, an [5] instructor of every artificer in brass and iron: and the sister of Tubal-cain was Naamah.

23 And Lamech said unto his wives, Adah and Zillah, Hear my voice; ye wives of Lamech, hearken unto my speech: for [6] I have slain a man to my wounding, and a young man [7] to my hurt:

24 If Cain shall be avenged seven-fold, truly Lamech seventy and seven-fold.

25 And Adam knew his wife again; and she bare a son, and called his name [9] Seth: For God, said she, hath appointed me another seed instead of Abel, whom Cain slew.

26 And to Seth, to him also there was born a son; and he called his name Enos: [11] Then began men [12] to call upon the name of the LORD.

CHAP. V.

THIS is the book of the generations of Adam. In the day that God created man, in [c] the likeness of God made he him;

2 Male [d] and female created he them; and blessed them, and called their name Adam, in the day when they were created.

3 And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his own likeness, [f] after his image; and called his name Seth:

4 And the days of Adam, after he had begotten Seth, were eight hundred years; and he begat sons and daughters.

5 And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years: [g] and he died.

6 And Seth lived an hundred and five years, and begat Enos:

7 And Seth lived, after he begat Enos, eight hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters:

8 And all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years: and he died.

9 And Enos lived ninety years, and begat [14] Cainan:

10 And Enos lived, after he begat Cainan, eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat sons and daughters:

CHAP. VI.

AND it came to pass, [i] when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them,

2 That the sons of God saw the daughters of men, [j] that they were fair; and they [k] took them wives of all which they chose.

hundred and twenty years.

4 There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them; the same became mighty men, which were of old, men of renown.

5 And God saw [b] that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every [1] imagination [d] of the thoughts of his heart was only evil [2] continually.

6 And it repented the LORD that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart.

7 And the LORD said, I will destroy man, whom I have created, from the face of the earth; both [4] man and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air: for it repenteth me that I have made them.

8 But Noah found grace in the eyes of the LORD.

9 These are the generations of Noah: Noah was a just man, and [6] perfect in his generations, and Noah walked with God:

10 And Noah begat three sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

11 The earth also was corrupt before God; and the earth was filled with violence.

12 And God looked upon the earth, and, behold, it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth.

13 And God said unto Noah, [f] The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them: and, behold, I will destroy them [7] with the earth.

14 Make thee an ark [e] of gopher-wood: rooms [8] shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch.

15 And this is the fashion which thou shalt make it of: The length of the ark shall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits.

16 A window shalt thou make to the ark, and in a cubit shalt thou finish it above; and the door of the ark shalt thou set in the side thereof; with lower, second, and third stories shalt thou make it.

17 And, behold, I, even I, [h] do bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven; and every thing that is in the earth shall die.

18 But with thee will I establish my covenant: and thou shalt come into the ark; thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives, with thee.

19 And of every living thing of all flesh, two [j] of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee; they shall be male and female.

20 Of fowls after their kind, and of cattle after their kind; of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind; two of every sort shall come unto thee, to keep them alive.

21 And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou shalt gather it to thee; and it shall be for food for thee and for them.

CHAP. VII.

AND the LORD said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy house into the ark: for [c] thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation.

2 Of every [e] clean beast thou shalt take to thee by [3] sevens, the male and his female, and of beasts that are not clean by two, the male and his female.

3 Of fowls also of the air by sevens, the male and the female; to keep seed alive upon the face of all the earth.

4 For yet seven days, and I will cause it to rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights; and every living substance that I have made will I [5] destroy from off the face of the earth.

5 And Noah did according unto all that the LORD commanded him.

6 And Noah was six hundred years old when the flood of waters was upon the earth.

7 And Noah went in, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives, with him, into the ark, because of the waters of the flood.

8 Of clean beasts, and of beasts that are not clean, and of fowls, and of every thing that creepeth upon the earth,

9 There went in two and two unto Noah into the ark, the male and the female, as God had commanded Noah.

10 And it came to pass, after [9] seven days, that the waters of the flood were upon the earth.

11 In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month, the seventeenth day of the month, the same day were all the fountains [g] of the great deep broken up, and the [10] windows of heaven were opened.

12 And the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights.

13 In the self-same day entered Noah, and Shem, and Ham, and Japheth, the sons of Noah, and Noah's wife, and the three wives of his sons with them, [i] into the ark;

14 They, and every beast after his kind, and all the cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind, and every fowl after his kind, every bird of every [11] sort.

15 And they went in unto Noah into the ark, two and two of all flesh, wherein is the breath of life.

16 And they that went in, went in male and female of all flesh, as God had commanded him: and the LORD shut him in. [k]

17 And the flood was forty days upon the earth; and the waters increased, and bare up the ark, and it was lift up above the earth.

18 And the waters prevailed and were increased greatly upon the earth; and the ark went upon the face of the waters.

19 And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth; [a] and all the high hills, that were under the whole heaven, were covered.

20 Fifteen cubits upward did the waters prevail; and the mountains [b] were covered.

21 And all flesh died that moved upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beast, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man: [c]

22 All in whose nostrils was [1] the breath of life, of all that was in the dry land, died.

23 And every living substance was destroyed which was upon the face of the ground, both man, and cattle, and the creeping things, and the fowl of the heaven; and they were destroyed from the earth: and Noah [d] only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark.

24 And [f] the waters prevailed upon the earth an hundred and fifty days.

CHAP. VIII.

AND God [g] remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the [h] cattle that was with him in the ark: and God made a wind [i] to pass over the earth; and the waters assuaged;

2 The fountains [k] also of the deep, and the windows [l] of heaven, were stopped; and the rain from heaven was restrained;

3 And the waters returned from off the earth [4] continually: and after the end of the hundred and fifty days the waters were abated.

4 And the ark rested, in the seventh month, on the seventeenth day of the month, upon the mountains of Ararat. [q]

5 And the waters [7] decreased continually until the tenth month: in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, were the tops of the mountains seen.

6 And it came to pass, at the end of forty days, that Noah opened [s] the window of the ark which he had made:

7 And he sent forth a raven, which went forth [8] to and fro, until the waters were dried up from off the earth.

8 Also he sent forth a dove from him, to see if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground:

9 But the dove found no rest for the sole of her foot, and she returned unto him into the ark; for the waters were on the face of the whole earth. Then he put forth his hand, and took her, and [9] pulled her in unto him into the ark.

10 And he stayed yet other seven days, and again he sent forth the dove out of the ark:

11 And the dove came in to him in the evening; and, lo, in her mouth was an olive-leaf, pluckt off. So Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth.

12 And he stayed yet other seven days, and sent forth the dove, which returned not again unto him any more.

13 And it came to pass, in the six hundredth and first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, the waters were dried up from off the earth: and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and, behold, the face of the ground was dry.

14 And in the second month, on the seven and twentieth day of the month, was the earth dried.

15 And God spake unto Noah, saying,

16 Go forth of the ark, thou, and thy wife, and thy sons, and thy sons' wives with thee.

17 Bring forth with thee every living thing that is with thee, of all flesh, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth; that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and [d] be fruitful, and multiply upon the earth.

18 And Noah went forth, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him:

19 Every beast, every creeping thing, and every fowl, and whatsoever creepeth upon the earth, after their [2] kinds, went forth out of the ark.

20 And Noah builded an altar unto the LORD; and took of [j] every clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt-offerings on the altar.

21 And the LORD smelled a [3] sweet savour: [m] and the LORD said in his heart, I will not again [n] curse the ground any more for man's sake; [5] for the [o] imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth: neither will I again [p] smite any more every thing living, as I have done.

22 While [6] the earth remaineth, [r] seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night, shall not cease.

CHAP. IX.

AND God blessed Noah and his sons, and said unto them, [t] Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth.

2 And the fear of you, [u] and the dread of you, shall be upon every beast of the earth, and upon every fowl of the air, upon all that moveth upon the earth, and upon all the fishes of the sea: into your hand are they delivered.

3 Every [v] moving thing that liveth shall be meat for you; even as the [w] green herb have I given you [x] all things.

4 But flesh [y] with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat.

5 And surely your blood of your lives will I require; at the hand of every beast will I require it, [z] and at the hand of man; at the hand of every man's brother will I require the life of man.

6 Whoso sheddeth man's blood, [a] by man shall his blood be shed: [b] for in the image of God made he man.

7 And you, be ye fruitful, and multiply; bring forth abundantly in the earth, and multiply therein.

8 And God spake unto Noah, and to his sons with him, saying,

9 And I, behold, I establish [a] my covenant with you, and with your seed after you;

10 And [b] with every living creature that is with you, of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every beast of the earth with you; from all that go out of the ark, to every beast of the earth:

11 And I will establish my covenant with you; neither shall all flesh be cut off any more by the waters of a flood; neither shall there any more be a [c] flood to destroy the earth.

12 And God said, This is the token [d] of the covenant which I make between me and you, and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations:

13 I do set [1] my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth.

14 And it shall come to pass, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the bow shall be seen in the cloud:

15 And [k] I will remember my covenant, which is between me and you, and every living creature of all flesh; and the waters shall no more become a flood to destroy all flesh.

16 And the bow shall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember [k] the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is upon the earth.

17 And God said unto Noah, This is the token of the covenant, which I have established between me and all flesh that is upon the earth.

18 And the sons of Noah, that went forth of the ark, were Shem, and Ham, and Japheth: and [l] Ham is the father of [5] Canaan.

19 These are the three sons of Noah: [m] and of them was the whole earth overspread.

20 And Noah began to be an husbandman, and he planted a [n] vineyard:

21 And he drank of the wine, [p] and was drunken; and he was uncovered within his tent.

22 And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw [q] the nakedness of his father, [r] and told his two brethren without.

23 And Shem and Japheth took a garment, and laid it upon both their shoulders, and went backward, [s] and covered the nakedness of their father; and their faces were backward, and they saw not their father's nakedness.

24 And Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his younger son had done unto him:

25 And he said, [u] Cursed be Canaan; a servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren.

26 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Shem; and Canaan shall [8] be his servant.

27 God shall enlarge [9] Japheth, [v] and he shall dwell in the tents of Shem; and Canaan shall be his servant.

28 And Noah lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years.

29 And all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years: and he died.

CHAP. X.

NOW these are the generations of the sons of Noah; Shem, Ham, and Japheth: and unto them were sons born after the flood.

2 The sons of Japheth; Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meshech, and Tiras.

3 And the sons of Gomer; Ashkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah.

4 And the sons of Javan; Elishah, and Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim. [1]

5 By these were the isles [e] of the Gentiles divided in their lands; every one after his tongue, after their families, in their nations.

6 And the sons of Ham; Cush, and Mizraim, and Phut, and Canaan.

7 And the sons of Cush; Seba, [g] and Havilah, and Sabtah, and Raamah, and Sabtecha: and the sons of Raamah; Sheba and Dedan.

8 And Cush begat Nimrod; [h] he began to be a mighty one in the earth:

9 He was a mighty hunter [i] before the LORD: wherefore it is said, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD.

10 And the beginning of his kingdom was [2] Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar.

11 Out of that land [3] went forth Asshur, and builded Nineveh, and [4] the city Rehoboth, and Calah, 12 And Resen, between Nineveh and Calah: the same is a great city.

13 And Mizraim begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim, 14 And Pathrusim, and Casluhim [7] (out of whom came Philistim,) and Caphtorim.

15 And Canaan begat [6] Sidon his firstborn, and Heth,

16 And the Jebusite, and the Amorite, and the Girgasite,

17 And the Hivite, and the Arkite, and the Sinite,

18 And the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite: and afterward were the families of the Canaanites spread abroad.

19 And the border [t] of the Canaanites was from Sidon, as thou comest to Gerar, unto Gaza; [7] as thou goest unto Sodom, and Gomorrah, and Admah, and Zeboim, even unto Lasha.

20 These are the sons of Ham, after their families, after their tongues, in their countries, and in their nations.

21 Unto Shem also, the father of all the children of Eber, the brother of Japheth the elder, even to him were children born.

22 The children of Shem; Elam, and Asshur, and [10] Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram

23 And the children of Aram, Uz, and Hul, and Gether, and Mash.
24 And Arphaxad begat [1] Salah; and Salah begat Eber.
25 And unto Eber [a] were born two sons; the name of one was [2] Peleg; for in his days was the earth divided; and his brother's name was Joktan.
26 And Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah,
27 And Hadoram, and Uzal, and Diklah,
28 And Obal, and Abimael, and Sheba,
29 And Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab: all these were the sons of Joktan.
30 And their dwelling was from Mesha, as thou goest unto Sephar, a mount of the east.
31 These are the sons of Shem, after their families, after their tongues, in their lands, after their nations.
32 These are the families of the sons of Noah, after their generations, in their nations: and by these were the nations divided in the earth after the flood.

CHAP. XI.

AND the whole earth was of one [5] language, and of one [6] speech.
2 And it came to pass, as they journeyed from [7] the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar; and they dwelt there.
3 And [9] they said one to another, Go to, let us make brick, and [10] burn them thoroughly. And they had brick for stone, and slime had they for mortar.
4 And they said, Go to, let us build us a city, and a tower [c] whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us make us a [d] name, lest we be scattered [e] abroad upon the face of the whole earth.
5 And the LORD came down [f] to see the city and the tower, which the children of men builded.
6 And the LORD said, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have [j] imagined to do.
7 Go to, let us go down, and there confound [l] their language, that they may not understand one another's speech.
8 So the LORD scattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city.
9 Therefore is the name of it called Babel; [11] because the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth: and from thence did the LORD scatter them abroad upon the face [n] of all the earth.
10 These are the generations of Shem: Shem was an hundred years old, and begat Arphaxad two years after the flood.
11 And Shem lived after he begat Arphaxad five hundred years, and begat sons and daughters.
12 And Arphaxad lived five and thirty years, and begat Salah:
13 And Arphaxad lived after he begat Salah four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.
14 And Salah lived thirty years, and begat Eber:
15 And Salah lived after he begat Eber four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.
16 And Eber lived four and thirty years, and begat [3] Peleg:
17 And Eber lived after he begat Peleg four hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters.
18 And Peleg lived thirty years, and begat Reu:
19 And Peleg lived after he begat Reu two hundred and nine years, and begat sons and daughters.
20 And Reu lived two and thirty years, and begat [4] Serug:
21 And Reu lived after he begat Serug two hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters.
22 And Serug lived thirty years, and begat Nahor:
23 And Serug lived after he begat Nahor two hundred years, and begat sons and daughters.
24 And Nahor lived nine and twenty years, and begat [8] Terah:
25 And Nahor lived after he begat Terah an hundred and nineteen years, and begat sons and daughters.
26 And Terah lived seventy years, and begat Abram, [b] Nahor, and Haran.
27 Now these are the generations of Terah: Terah begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran; and Haran begat Lot.
28 And Haran died before his father Terah, in the land of his nativity, in [g] Ur of the Chaldees.
29 And Abram and Nahor took them wives: the name of Abram's wife was Sarai; [h] and the name of Nahor's wife Milcah, [i] the daughter of Haran, the father of Milcah, and the father of Iscah.
30 But Sarai was barren; [k] she had no child.
31 And Terah took Abram his son, and Lot the son of Haran his son's son, and Sarai his daughter-in-law, his son Abram's wife; and they went forth with them from Ur [m] of the Chaldees, to go into the land of Canaan: and they came unto Haran, and dwelt there.
32 And the days of Terah were two hundred and five years: and Terah died in Haran.

CHAP. XII.

NOW the LORD had said [o] unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will shew thee:
2 And I will make of thee a great [p] nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; [q] and thou shalt be a blessing and curse him that curseth thee; and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed. [b]
3 And I will bless them [r] that bless thee.

4 So Abram departed, as the LORD had spoken unto him; and Lot went with him: and Abram was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran.

5 And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls that they had gotten in Haran: and they went forth to go into the land of Canaan; [c] and into the land of Canaan they came.

6 And Abram passed through the land unto the place of Sichem, [f] unto the plain of Moreh. And the Canaanite [h] was then in the land.

7 And the LORD appeared [j] unto Abram, and said, Unto thy seed will I give this land: [k] and there builded he an [l] altar unto the LORD, who appeared unto him.

8 And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the east of Beth-el, [n] and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the west, and Hai [1] on the east; and there he builded an altar unto the LORD, and called [o] upon the name of the LORD.

9 And Abram journeyed, [2] going on still toward the south.

10 And there was a famine in the land: and Abram went down into Egypt to sojourn there; for the famine was grievous in the land.

11 And it came to pass, when he was come near to enter into Egypt, that he said unto Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon:

12 Therefore it shall come to pass, when the Egyptians shall see thee, that they shall say, This is his wife: and they will kill me, but they will save thee alive.

13 Say, I pray thee, thou art my [w] sister: that it may be well with me for thy sake; and my soul shall live because of thee.

14 And it came to pass, that, when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman that she was very fair.

15 The princes also of Pharaoh saw her, and commended her before Pharaoh; [z] and the woman was [a] taken into Pharaoh's house.

16 And he entreated Abram well for her sake: and he had sheep, and oxen, and he-asses, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and she-asses, and camels.

17 And the LORD plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues, because of Sarai, Abram's wife.

18 And Pharaoh called Abram, and said, What is this that thou hast done unto me? [d] why didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife?

19 Why saidst thou, She is my sister? so I might have taken her to me to wife: now, therefore, behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way

20 And Pharaoh commanded [a] his men concerning him: and they sent him away and his wife, and all that he had.

CHAP. XIII.

AND Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him, into the south. [c]

2 And Abram was very rich [d] in cattle, in silver, and in gold.

3 And he went on his journeys from the south, even to Beth-el, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el and Hai;

4 Unto the place of the altar, [g] which he had made there at the first: and there Abram called [i] on the name of the LORD

5 And Lot also, which went with Abram, had flocks, and herds, and tents.

6 And the land was not able [m] to bear them, that they might dwell together: for their substance was great, so that they could not dwell together.

7 And there was a strife between the herdmen of Abram's cattle and the herdmen of Lot's cattle. And the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled [p] then in the land.

8 And Abram said unto Lot, Let there be no strife, [q] I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we be [3] brethren. [r]

9 Is not the whole land before [s] thee? Separate thyself, I pray thee, from me: If thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left. [t]

10 And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered every where, before the LORD destroyed [u] Sodom and Gomorrah, even as the garden [v] of the LORD, like the land of Egypt, as thou comest unto Zoar. [x]

11 Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed east: and they separated [y] themselves the one from the other.

12 Abram dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom.

13 But the men of Sodom were wicked and sinners [b] before the LORD exceedingly.

14 And the LORD said unto Abram, after that Lot was separated from him, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art, northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward:

15 For all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it, and [c] to thy seed for ever.

16 And I will make thy seed as the dust of the earth: so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then shall thy seed also be numbered.

17 Arise, walk through the land, in the length of it, and in the breadth of it: for I will give it unto thee

18. Then Abram removed his tent, and came and dwelt in the [1] plain of Mamre, [a] which is in Hebron, and built there an altar unto the LORD.

CHAP. XIV.

AND it came to pass in the days of Amraphel king [d] of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of nations;

2 That these made war with Bera king of Sodom, and with Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, [i] and Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, which is [j] Zoar.

3 All these were joined together in the vale of Siddim, [l] which is the salt sea.

4 Twelve years they served Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled.

5 And in the fourteenth year came Chedorlaomer, and the kings that were with him, and smote [n] the Rephaims [o] in Ashteroth-karnaim, and [7] the Zuzims in Ham, and the Emims in [3] Shaveh-kiriathaim;

6 And the Horites in their mount Seir, unto [4] El-paran, [s] which is by the wilderness.

7 And they returned, and came to Enmishpat, which is Kadesh, and smote all the country of the Amalekites, and also the Amorites, that dwelt [t] in Hazezon-tamar.

8 And there went out the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, (the same is Zoar;) and they joined battle with them in the vale of Siddim, 9 With Chedorlaomer the king of Elam, and with Tidal king of nations, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar; four kings with five.

10 And the vale of Siddim was full of slime pits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and fell there; and they that remained fled [b] to the mountain.

11 And they took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their victuals, and went their way.

12 And they took Lot, Abram's brother's son, (who dwelt [d] in Sodom,) and his goods and departed.

13 And there came one that had escaped, and told Abram the Hebrew; [f] for he dwelt in the plain of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol, and brother of Aner: and these were confederate with Abram.

14 And when Abram heard that his brother was taken captive, he [5] armed his [6] trained servants, born in his own house, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued them [j] unto Dan.

15 And he divided himself against them, he and his servants, by night, and [l] smote them, and pursued them unto Hobah, which is on the left hand of Damascus.

16 And he brought back [m] all the goods, and also brought again his brother Lot, and his goods, and the women also, and the people.

17 And the king of Sodom [b] went out to meet him, (after his return from the slaughter of Chedorlaomer, and of the kings that were with him,) at the valley of Shaveh, which is the king's [c] dale.

18 And [c] Melchizedek king of Salem brought forth bread and wine: and he was the [f] priest of the most [g] high God.

19 And he blessed him, and said, Blessed be Abram of the most high God, [h] possessor of heaven and earth;

20 And blessed be the most high God, which hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. And he gave him [k] tithes of all

21 And the king of Sodom said unto Abram, Give me the [2] persons, and take the goods to thyself.

22 And Abram said to the king of Sodom, I [m] have lift up mine hand unto the LORD, the most high God, the [p] possessor of heaven and earth,

23 That [r] I will not take from a thread even to a shoe-latchet, and that I will not take any thing that is thine, lest thou shouldest say, I have made Abram rich:

24 Save only that which the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men which went with me, Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre; let them take their portion.[u]

CHAP. XV.

AFTER these things the word of the LORD came unto Abram in a [v] vision, saying, [w] Fear not, Abram: I am thy [x] shield, and thy exceeding [y] great reward

2 And Abram said, Lord GOD, what wilt thou give me, seeing I go [z] childless, and the steward of my house is this Eliezer of Damascus?

3 And Abram said, Behold, to me thou hast given no seed: and, lo, one born in my house [a] is mine heir.

4 And, behold, the word of the LORD came unto him, saying, This shall not be thine heir; but he that shall come forth out of thine [c] own bowels, shall be thine heir.

5 And he brought him forth abroad, and said, Look now toward heaven, and tell the stars, [e] if thou be able to number them And he said unto him, [g] So shall thy seed be.

6 And he believed in the LORD; and he [h] counted it to him for righteousness.

7 And he said unto him, I am the LORD that brought thee [i] out of Ur of the Chaldees, to give thee this land to inherit it.

8 And he said, Lord GOD, [k] whereby shall I know that I shall inherit it?

9 And he said unto him, Take me an heifer of three years old, and a she-goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young pigeon

10 And he took unto him all these, and divided [a] them in the midst, and laid each piece one against another; but [b] the birds divided he not.

11 And when the fowls came down upon the carcasses, Abram drove them away.

12 And when the sun was going down, a deep sleep [d] fell upon Abram; and, lo, an horror of great darkness fell upon him.

13 And he said unto Abram, Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not their's, and shall serve them; and they shall afflict [f] them four hundred years:

14 And also that nation, whom they shall serve, will I [g] judge; and afterward shall they come out with great [h] substance.

15 And thou shalt go to thy fathers in peace; thou shalt be buried in a good old age.[i]

16 But in the fourth generation they shall come hither again; for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet [j] full.

17 And it came to pass, that, when the sun went down, and it was dark, behold, a smoking furnace, and [2] a burning lamp that passed between those pieces.

18 In that same day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying, Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates:

19 The Kenites, and the Kenizzites, and the Kadmonites,

20 And the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Rephaims,

21 And the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Girgashites, and the Jebusites.

CHAP. XVI.

NOW Sarai, Abram's wife, bare him no children: and she had an handmaid an [n] Egyptian, whose name was [o] Hagar.

2 And Sarai said unto Abram, Behold now, the LORD [q] hath restrained me from bearing: I pray thee, [r] go in unto my maid; it may be that I may [5] obtain children by her. And Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai.

3 And Sarai, Abram's wife, took Hagar her maid, the Egyptian, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her to her husband Abram to be his wife.

4 And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived: and when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress was [w] despised in her eyes.

5 And Sarai said unto Abram, My wrong be upon thee: I have given my maid into thy bosom; and when she saw that she had conceived, I was despised in her eyes: the LORD judge [x] between me and thee.

6 But Abram said unto Sarai, [a] Behold, thy maid is in thy hand; do to her [8] as it pleaseth thee. And when Sarai [9] dealt hardly with her, she fled from her face.

7 And the angel of the LORD found her by a fountain of water in the wilderness, by the fountain in the way to Shur.[c]

8 And he said, Hagar, Sarai's maid, whence camest thou? and whither wilt thou go? And she said, I flee from the face of my mistress Sarai.

9 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, Return to thy mistress, and [e] submit thyself under her hands.

10 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, I will multiply thy seed exceedingly, that it shall not be numbered for multitude.

11 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, Behold, thou art with child, and shalt bear a son, and shalt call his name Ishmael; [1] because the LORD hath heard thy affliction.

12 And he will be a wild [k] man; his hand will be against every man, and every man's hand against him: and he shall dwell [l] in the presence of all his brethren.

13 And she called the name of the LORD that spake unto her, Thou [m] God seest me: for she said, Have I also here looked after him that seeth me?

14 Wherefore the well was called Beerlahai-roi: [3] behold, it is between Kadesh and Bered.

15 And Hagar bare Abram a son; and Abram called his son's name, which Hagar bare, Ishmael.

16 And Abram was fourscore and six years old, when Hagar bare Ishmael to Abram.

CHAP. XVII.

AND when Abram was ninety years old and nine, the LORD appeared to Abram, and said unto him, [p] I am the Almighty God: [r] walk before me, and be thou [4] perfect.

2 And I will make my [t] covenant between me and thee, and will multiply thee exceedingly.

3 And Abram fell on his face: and God talked with him, saying,

4 As for me, behold, my covenant is with thee, and thou shalt be [u] a father of many [6] nations.

5 Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram; but [v] thy name shall be Abraham; [7] for [z] a father of many nations have I made thee.

6 And I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and I will make [y] nations of thee, and kings shall come out of thee.

7 And I will establish my covenant between me and thee, and thy seed after thee, in their generations, for an everlasting covenant, [b] to be a God unto thee, and to thy seed after thee.

8 And I will give unto thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land [1] wherein thou art a stranger, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting [a] possession; and [b] I will be their God.

9 And God said unto Abraham, Thou shalt keep my covenant therefore, thou, and thy seed after thee, in their generations.

10 This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, between me, and you, and thy seed after thee; Every man-child among you shall be circumcised.

11 And ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin; and it shall be a token [c] of the covenant betwixt me and you.

12 And [2] he that is eight days old shall be circumcised among you, every man-child in your generations; he that is born [f] in the house, or bought with money of any stranger, which is not of thy seed.

13 He that is born in thy house, and he that is bought with thy money, must needs be circumcised: and my covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant.

14 And the uncircumcised man-child, whose flesh of his foreskin is not circumcised, that soul shall be cut off [i] from his people; he hath broken my covenant.

15 And God said unto Abraham, As for Sarai thy wife, thou shalt not call her name Sarai, but [5] Sarah shall her name be.

16 And I will bless her, [j] and give thee a son also of her; yea, I will bless her, and [7] she shall be a mother of nations; kings of people shall be of her.

17 Then Abraham fell upon his face, and [k] laughed, and said in his heart, Shall a child be born unto him that is an hundred years old? and shall Sarah, that is ninety years old, bear?

18 And Abraham said unto God, O that Ishmael might live before thee!

19 And God said, Sarah thy wife shall bear thee a son indeed; and thou shalt call his name Isaac: and I will establish my covenant with him for an everlasting covenant, and with his seed after him.

20 And as for Ishmael, I have heard thee; Behold, I have blessed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly: [o] twelve princes shall he beget; and I will make him a great nation.

21 But my covenant will I establish with Isaac, which Sarah shall bear unto thee at this set time [s] in the next year.

22 And he left off talking with him, and God went up from Abraham.

23 And Abraham took Ishmael his son, and all that were born in his house, and all that were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham's house, and circumcised the flesh of their foreskin in the self-same day, as God had said unto him

CHAP. XVIII.

AND the LORD appeared unto him in the [d] plains of Mamre: and he sat in the tent-door in the heat of the day:

2 And he lift up his eyes and looked, and, lo, [e] three men stood by him: and when he saw them, he ran to meet them from the tent-door, and bowed himself toward the ground,

3 And said, My Lord, if now I have found favour in thy sight, [g] pass not away, I pray thee, from thy servant:

4 Let a little [h] water, I pray you, be fetched, and wash your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree:

5 And I will fetch a morsel of bread, and [3] comfort ye your hearts; after that ye shall pass on: for therefore [4] are you come to your servant. And they said, So do, as thou hast said.

6 And Abraham hastened into the tent unto Sarah, and said, [6] Make ready quickly three measures of fine meal, knead it, and make cakes upon the hearth.

7 And Abraham ran unto the herd, and fetched a calf tender and good, and gave it unto a young man; and he hasted to dress it.

8 And he took butter, [l] and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree, and they did eat.

9 And they said unto him, Where is Sarah thy wife? And he said, Behold, in the tent.

10 And he said, I will certainly return unto thee [m] according to the time of life; and, lo, Sarah [n] thy wife shall have a son And Sarah heard it in the tent-door, which was behind him.

11 Now Abraham and Sarah were [p] old and well stricken in age; and it ceased to be with Sarah [q] after the manner of women.

12 Therefore Sarah [r] laughed within herself, saying, After I am waxed [t] old shall I have pleasure, my [u] lord being old also?

13 And the LORD said unto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah laugh, saying, Shall I of a surety bear a child, which am old?

14 Is any thing too hard for the LORD? [v] At the time appointed will I return unto thee, according to the time of life, [w] and Sarah shall have a son

15 Then Sarah denied, saying, I laughed not; for she was afraid. And he said, Nay; but thou didst laugh. [a]

16 And the men rose up from thence, and looked toward Sodom: and Abraham went with them to bring them on the way. [c]

17 And the LORD said, Shall I [e] hide from Abraham that thing which I do;

18 Seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be [f] blessed in him?

19 For I know him, that he will command his children [h] and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the LORD, to do justice and judgment; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him. [j]

20 And the LORD said, Because the [k] cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous;

21 I will go down [m] now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, [o] I will know.

22 And the men turned their faces from thence, and went toward Sodom; but Abraham stood yet before the LORD.

23 And Abraham [p] drew near, and said, Wilt [q] thou also destroy the righteous with the wicked?

24 Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city: wilt thou also destroy and not spare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein?

25 That be far from thee to do after this manner, to slay the righteous with the wicked: and that the righteous should be as the wicked, that be far from thee: [t] Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right.

26 And the LORD said, [v] If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sakes.

27 And Abraham answered and said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the LORD, which am [w] but dust and ashes.

28 Peradventure there shall lack five of the fifty righteous: wilt thou destroy all the city for lack of five? And he said, If I find there forty and five, I will not destroy it.

29 And he spake unto him yet again, and said, Peradventure there shall be forty found there. And he said, I will not do it for forty's sake.

30 And he said unto him, Oh let not the LORD be angry, and I will speak: Peradventure there shall thirty be found there. And he said, I will not do it, if I find thirty there.

31 And he said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the LORD: Peradventure there shall be twenty found there. And he said, I will not destroy it for twenty's sake.

32 And he said, Oh let not the LORD be angry, and I will speak yet but this once: [b] Peradventure ten shall be found there. And he said, I will not destroy it for ten's sake. [d]

33 And the LORD went his way, as soon as he had left communing with Abraham: and Abraham returned unto his place.

CHAP. XIX.

AND there [g] came two Angels to Sodom at even; and Lot sat in the gate of Sodom; and Lot seeing them, rose up to meet them; and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground;

2 And he said, Behold now, my lords, turn [i] in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and tarry all night, and wash your feet; and ye shall rise up early, and go on your ways. And they said, Nay; [l] but we will abide in the street all night.

3 And he pressed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entered into his house: [n] and he made them a feast, and did bake unleavened bread, and they did eat.

4 But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compassed the house round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter:

5 And they called unto Lot, and said unto him, Where are the men which came in to thee this night? [r] bring them out unto us, that we may know them.

6 And Lot went out at the door unto them, and shut the door after him;

7 And said, I pray you, brethren, do not so wickedly. [s]

8 Behold now, I have two daughters which have not known man; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, [u] and do ye to them as is good in your eyes: only unto these men do nothing; for therefore came they under the shadow of my roof.

9 And they said, Stand back. And they said again, This one fellow came in to sojourn, [x] and he will needs be a judge: now will we deal worse with thee than with them. And they pressed sore upon the man, even Lot, and came near to break the door.

10 But the men put forth their hands, and pulled Lot into the house to them, and shut to the door.

11 And they smote the men that were at the door of the house with [y] blindness, both small and great; so that they wearied themselves to find the door.

12 And the men said unto Lot, Hast thou here any besides? son-in-law, and thy sons, and thy daughters, and whatsoever thou hast in the city, bring them out of this place:

13 For we will destroy this place, because the [z] cry of them is waxen great before the face of the LORD; and [a] the LORD hath sent us to destroy it.

14 And Lot went out, and spake unto his sons-in-law, which married his daughters, and said, [c] Up, get ye out of this place; for the LORD will destroy this city. But he seemed as one that mocked [e] unto his sons-in-law.

15 And when the morning arose, then the Angels hastened Lot, saying, Arise, take thy wife, and thy two daughters, which [1] are here; lest thou be consumed in the [2] iniquity of the city.

16 And while he lingered, the men laid hold upon his hand, and upon the hand of his wife, and upon the hand of his two daughters; the LORD being merciful [f] unto him: and they brought him forth, and set him without the city.

17 And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth abroad, that he said, Escape [h] for thy life; [i] look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the plain; escape to the mountain, lest thou be consumed.

18 And Lot said unto them, Oh, not so, my LORD:

19 Behold now, thy servant hath found grace in thy sight, and thou hast [j] magnified thy mercy, which thou hast shewed unto me in saving my life; and I cannot escape to the mountain, [k] lest some evil take me, and I die.

20 Behold now, this city is near to flee unto, and it is a little one: [m] Oh, let me escape thither, (is it not a little one?) and my soul shall live. [n]

21 And he said unto him, See, I have accepted [3] thee [p] concerning this thing also, that I will not overthrow this city, for the which thou hast spoken.

22 Haste thee, escape thither; for [r] I cannot do any thing till thou be come thither: therefore the name of the city was called [4] Zoar.

23 The sun was [5] risen upon the earth when Lot entered into Zoar.

24 Then the LORD rained upon Sodom, and upon Gomorrah, brimstone [v] and fire from the LORD out of heaven;

25 And he overthrew those cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew [x] upon the ground.

26 But his wife looked back from behind him, and she became [y] a pillar of salt.

27 And Abraham gat up early in the morning to the place where [a] he stood before the LORD:

28 And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain, and beheld, and, lo, the smoke of the country went up as the [c] smoke of a furnace.

29 And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the plain, that God remembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, [b] when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot dwelt.

30 And Lot went up out of Zoar, and dwelt in the [d] mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in Zoar: and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters.

31 And the first-born said unto the younger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in unto us after the manner of all the earth:

32 Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father.

33 And they made their father drink wine that night: [g] and the first-born went in, and lay with her father; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

34 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the first-born said unto the younger, Behold, I lay yesternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night also; and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father.

35 And they made their father drink wine that night also: and the younger arose, and lay with him; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

36 Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child by their father.[l]

37 And the first-born bare a son, and called his name Moab: the same is the father of the Moabites [o] unto this day.

38 And the younger, she also bare a son, and called his name Ben-ammi: the same is the father of the [q] children of Ammon unto this day.

CHAP. XX.

AND Abraham journeyed from thence toward the south country, and dwelled between Kadesh and [s] Shur, and sojourned in Gerar. [t]

2 And Abraham said of Sarah his wife, She [u] is my sister: and Abimelech king of Gerar sent, and took Sarah.

3 But [w] God came to Abimelech in a dream by night, and said to him, Behold, thou art but a dead man, for the woman which thou hast taken; for she is a [6] man's wife.

4 But Abimelech had not come near her: and he said, LORD, [z] wilt thou slay also a righteous nation?

5 Said he not unto me, She is my sister? and she, even she herself, said, He is my brother: In the [7] integrity [b] of my heart, and innocency of my hands, have I done this.

6 And God said unto him in a dream, Yea, I know that thou didst this in the integrity of thy heart; for I also [d] withheld thee from sinning [e] against me therefore suffered I thee not to touch her.

7 Now, therefore, restore the man his wife; for he is a prophet, and he [b] shall pray for thee, and thou shalt live: and if thou restore her not, know thou that thou shalt surely die, thou, and all that are thine.

8 Therefore Abimelech rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and told all these things in their ears: and the men were sore afraid.

9 Then Abimelech called Abraham, and said unto him, What hast thou done unto us? and what have I offended thee, that thou hast brought on me and on my kingdom [f] a great sin? thou hast done deeds unto me that ought not [g] to be done.

10 And Abimelech said unto Abraham, What sawest thou, that thou hast done this thing?

11 And Abraham said, Because I thought, Surely the fear of God [j] is not in this place; and they will slay me for my wife's sake.

12 And yet indeed she is my [k] sister; she is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became my wife.

13 And it came to pass, when God caused me to wander from my father's house, that I said unto her, This is thy kindness which thou shalt shew unto me; at every place whither we shall come, say of me, He is my brother.

14 And Abimelech took sheep and oxen, and men-servants, and women-servants, and gave them unto Abraham, and restored him Sarah his wife.

15 And Abimelech said, Behold, [o] my land is before thee: dwell [l] where it pleaseth thee.

16 And unto Sarah he said, Behold, I have given thy brother a thousand pieces of silver; behold, he is to thee a covering of the eyes, unto all that are with thee, and with all other: thus she was [p] reproved.

17 So Abraham prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maid-servants; and they bare children.

18 For the LORD [s] had fast closed up all the wombs of the house of Abimelech, because of Sarah, Abraham's wife.

CHAP. XXI.

AND the LORD [u] visited Sarah as he had said, and the LORD did unto Sarah as [w] he had spoken:

2 For Sarah [x] conceived, and bare Abraham a son in his old age, at the set time of which God had spoken to him.

3 And Abraham called the name of his son that was born unto him, whom Sarah bare to him, [a] Isaac.

4 And Abraham circumcised his son Isaac, being eight days old, as God had commanded him. [a]

5 And Abraham was an hundred years old when his son Isaac was born unto him.

6 And Sarah said, God hath made me to laugh, [c] so that all that hear will laugh with me.

7 And she said, Who would have [d] said unto Abraham, that Sarah should have given children suck? for I have borne him a son in his old age.

8 And the child grew, and was weaned: and Abraham made a great feast the same day that Isaac was weaned.

9 And Sarah saw the son of Hagar the Egyptian, [e] which she had borne unto Abraham, mocking:

10 Wherefore she said unto Abraham, Cast out this bond-woman and her son: [i] for the son of this bond-woman shall not be heir with my son, even with Isaac.

11 And the thing was very grievous in Abraham's sight, [i] because of his son.

12 And God said unto Abraham, Let it not be grievous in thy sight, because of the lad, and because of thy bond-woman: in all that Sarah hath said unto thee, hearken unto her voice; for [l] in Isaac shall thy seed be called.

13 And also of the son of the bond-woman will I make a [m] nation, because he is thy seed.

14 And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and took bread and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar, (putting it on her shoulder,) and the child, and sent [n] her away: and she departed, and wandered in the wilderness of Beer-sheba.

15 And the water was spent in the bottle, and she cast the child under one of the shrubs.

16 And she went, and sat her down over against him a good way off, as it were a bow-shot: for she said, Let me not see the death of the child. And she sat over against him, and lift up her voice, and wept.

17 And [q] God heard the voice of the lad: and the angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and said unto her, What aileth thee, Hagar? fear not; [r] for God hath heard the voice of the lad where he is.

18 Arise, lift up the lad, and hold him in thine hand; for [t] I will make him a great nation.

19 And God opened her [v] eyes, and she saw a well of water; and she went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink.

20 And God was with the lad; [y] and he grew, and dwelt in the wilderness, and became an archer. [z]

21 And he dwelt in the wilderness of Paran: [b] and his mother [c] took him a wife out of the land of Egypt.

22 And it came to pass at that time that Abimelech, and Phichol the chief captain of his host, spake unto Abraham, saying, God is with thee [a] in all that thou doest:

23 Now, therefore, [b] swear unto me here by God, [1] that thou wilt not deal falsely with me, nor with my son, nor with my son's son: but according to the kindness that I have done unto thee, thou shalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou hast sojourned.

24 And Abraham said, I will swear.

25 And Abraham reproved Abimelech because of a well of water, which Abimelech's servants [d] had violently taken away.

26 And Abimelech said, I wot not who hath done this thing; neither didst thou tell me, neither yet heard I of it but to-day.

27 And Abraham took sheep and oxen, and gave them unto Abimelech; and both of them [h] made a covenant.

28 And Abraham set seven ewe-lambs of the flock by themselves.

29 And Abimelech said unto Abraham, What [i] mean these seven ewe-lambs, which thou hast set by themselves?

30 And he said, For these seven ewe-lambs shalt thou take of my hand, that they may be a [k] witness unto me that I have digged this well.

31 Wherefore he called that place Beer-sheba; [4] because there they sware both of them.

32 Thus they made a covenant at Beer-sheba: Then Abimelech rose up, and Phichol the [n] chief captain of his host, and they returned into the land of the Philistines.

33 And Abraham planted a [5] grove [o] in Beer-sheba, and [p] called there on the name of the LORD, the everlasting God. [q]

34 And Abraham sojourned in the Philistines' land many days.

CHAP. XXII.

AND it came to pass, after these things, that God did tempt [u] Abraham, and said unto him, Abraham: and he said, [7] Behold, here I am.

2 And he said, Take now thy son, thine only son Isaac, whom thou lovest, and get thee into the land of [v] Moriah; and offer him there for a burnt-offering upon one of the mountains which I will tell thee of.

3 And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and saddled his ass, and took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son, and clave the wood for the burnt-offering, and rose up, and went unto the place of which God had told him.

4 Then on the third day Abraham lift up his eyes, and saw the place afar off.

5 And Abraham said unto his young men, Abide ye here with the ass; and I and the lad will go yonder and worship, and come again to you.

6 And Abraham took the wood of the burnt-offering, and [e] laid it upon Isaac his son; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife: and they went both of them together.

7 And Isaac spake unto Abraham his father, and said, My father: and he said, [2] Here am I, my son. And he said, Behold the fire and the wood; but where is the [3] lamb for a burnt-offering?

8 And Abraham said, My son, God will provide himself a lamb [c] for a burnt-offering: so they went both of them together.

9 And they came to the place which God had told him of: and Abraham built an altar there, and laid the wood in order; and bound [f] Isaac his son, and [g] laid him on the altar upon the wood.

10 And Abraham stretched forth his hand, and took the knife to slay his son.

11 And the Angel of the LORD called unto him out of heaven, and said, Abraham, Abraham; [j] and he said, Here am I.

12 And he said, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: [l] for now I know that thou fearest God, [m] seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son, from me.

13 And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, behind him a ram caught in a thicket by his horns; [n] and Abraham went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt-offering in the stead of his son.

14 And Abraham called the name of that place [6] Jehovah-jireh: as it is said to this day, In the mount of the LORD it shall be seen. [r]

15 And the Angel of the LORD called unto Abraham out of heaven [s] the second time,

16 And said, By myself have I [t] sworn, saith the LORD; for because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only son;

17 That in blessing I will bless thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy seed as the stars [w] of the heaven, and as the sand which is upon the [8] sea-shore; and thy seed shall possess the gate of his enemies:

18 And in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; [x] because thou hast obeyed [y] my voice.

19 So Abraham returned unto his young men; and they rose up, and went together to Beer-sheba: and Abraham dwelt at Beer-sheba.

20 And it came to pass after these things, that it was told Abraham, saying, Behold, Milcah, she hath also borne children unto thy brother Nahor;

CHAP. XXIII.

AND Sarah was an hundred and seven and twenty years old: these were the years of the life of Sarah.
2 And Sarah died in Kirjath-arba; [e] the same is Hebron [f] in the land of Canaan: and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah, and to weep for her.
3 And Abraham stood up from before his dead, and spake unto the sons of Heth, saying,
4 I am a stranger [g] and a sojourner with you: give me a possession of a burying-place with you, that I may [h] bury my dead out of my sight.
5 And the children of Heth answered Abraham, saying unto him,
6 Hear us, my lord: Thou [2] art a mighty prince [j] among us: in the choice of our sepulchres bury thy dead: none of us shall withhold from thee his sepulchre, but that thou mayest bury thy dead.
7 And Abraham stood up, and bowed himself to the people of the land, even to the children of Heth.
8 And he communed with them, saying, If it be your mind that I should bury my dead out of my sight, hear me, and entreat for me to Ephron the son of Zohar,
9 That he may give me the cave of Machpelah, which he hath, which is in the end of his field: for [4] as much money as it is worth he shall give it me, for a possession of a burying-place amongst you.
10 And Ephron dwelt among the children of Heth. And Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the [5] audience of the children of Heth, even of all that went in at the gates [r] of his city, saying,
11 Nay, my lord, hear me: The field give I thee, and the cave that is therein, I give it thee; in the presence of the sons of my people give I it thee: bury thy dead.
12 And Abraham bowed down himself before the people of the land.
13 And he spake unto Ephron, in the audience of the people of the land, saying, But if thou wilt give it, I pray thee hear me: I will give thee money [w] for the field; take it of me, and I will bury my dead there.
14 And Ephron answered Abraham, saying unto him,

15 My lord, hearken unto me: The land is worth four hundred shekels of silver; what is that betwixt me and thee? bury therefore thy dead.
16 And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron; and Abraham weighed to Ephron the silver, which he had named in the audience of the sons of Heth, four hundred shekels of silver, current money with the merchant.
17 And the field of Ephron, [d] which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made sure

20 And the field, and the cave that is therein, were made sure [i] unto Abraham, for a possession of a burying-place, by the sons of Heth.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND Abraham was old, and [3] well stricken in age: and the LORD had blessed [k] Abraham in all things.
2 And Abraham said unto his eldest servant [l] of his house, that ruled [m] over all that he had, Put, [n] I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh;
3 And I will make thee swear [o] by the LORD, the God of heaven, and the God of the earth, that thou shalt not take [p] a wife unto my son of the daughters of the Canaanites, among whom I dwell:
4 But thou shalt go unto my [q] country, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my son Isaac.
5 And the servant said unto him, Peradventure the woman will not be willing to follow me unto this land: must I needs bring thy son again unto the land from whence thou camest?
6 And Abraham said unto him, Beware thou, that thou bring not my son thither again.
7 The LORD God of heaven, [s] which took me [t] from my father's house, and from the land of my kindred, and which spake unto me, and that sware unto me, saying, Unto thy seed will I give this land, he shall send his angel [u] before thee; and thou shalt take a wife unto my son from thence.
8 And if the woman will not be willing to follow thee, then thou shalt be clear [v] from this my oath: only bring not my son thither again.
9 And the servant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his master, and sware to him concerning that matter

10 And the servant took ten camels, of the camels of his master, and departed; (for [1] all the goods of his master were in his hand;) and he arose, and went to Mesopotamia, [e] unto the city of [d] Nahor.

11 And he made his camels to kneel down without the city by a well of water, at the time of the evening, even the time that [2] women go out to draw water. [f]

12 And he said, O LORD God of my master Abraham, [g] I pray thee, send me good speed [h] this day, and shew kindness unto my master Abraham.

13 Behold, I stand here by the [i] well of water; and the daughters of the men of the city come out to draw water:

14 And let it come to pass, that the damsel to whom I shall say, Let down thy pitcher, I pray thee, that I may drink; and she shall say, Drink; and I will give thy camels drink also: let the same be she that thou hast appointed for thy servant Isaac; and thereby [l] shall I know that thou hast shewed kindness unto my master.

15 And it came to pass, before he had done [m] speaking, that, behold, Rebekah came out, who was born to Bethuel, son of Milcah, the wife of Nahor, Abraham's brother, with her pitcher upon her shoulder.

16 And the damsel was [3] very fair to look upon, a virgin, neither had any man known her; and she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up.

17 And the servant ran to meet her, and said, Let me, I pray thee, drink a little water of thy pitcher.

18 And she said, Drink, my lord: and she hasted, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him drink.

19 And, when she had done giving him drink, she said, I will draw water for thy camels also, [q] until they have done drinking.

20 And she hasted, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels.

21 And the man, wondering [s] at her, held his peace, to wit, whether the LORD had made his journey prosperous or not.

22 And it came to pass, as the camels had done drinking, that the man took a [4] golden ear-ring of half a shekel weight, and two bracelets [t] for her hands of ten shekels weight of gold,

23 And said, Whose daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee. Is there room in thy father's house for us to lodge in?

24 And she said unto him, I am the daughter of Bethuel, [u] the son of Milcah, which she bare unto Nahor.

25 She said moreover unto him, We have both straw and provender enough, and room to lodge in.

26 And the man [a] bowed down his head, and worshipped the LORD.

27 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God [b] of my master Abraham, who hath not left destitute my master of [c] his mercy and his truth: I being in the way, the LORD led me to the house of my master's brethren.

28 And the damsel ran, and told them of her mother's house these things.

29 And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was [i] Laban: and Laban ran out unto the man, unto the well.

30 And it came to pass, when he saw the ear-ring, and bracelets upon his sister's hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his sister, saying, Thus spake the man unto me, that he came unto the man; and, behold, he stood by the camels at the well.

31 And he said, Come in, [k] thou blessed of the LORD; wherefore standest thou without? for I have prepared the house, and room for the camels.

32 And the man came into the house: and he ungirded his camels, and gave straw and provender for the camels, and water to wash his feet, and the men's feet that were with him.

33 And there was set meat before him to eat: but he said, [n] I will not eat until I have told mine errand. And he said, Speak on.

34 And he said, I am Abraham's servant.

35 And the LORD hath blessed my master greatly, [o] and he is become great; [p] and he hath given him flocks, and herds, and silver, and gold, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and camels, and asses.

36 And Sarah, my master's wife, bare a son to my master when she was old: and unto him hath he given all that he hath.

37 And my master made [r] me swear, saying, Thou shalt not take a wife to my son of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I dwell:

38 But thou shalt go unto my father's house, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my son.

39 And I said unto my master, Peradventure the woman will not follow me.

40 And he said unto me, The LORD, before whom I walk, will send his angel with thee, and prosper thy way; and thou shalt take a wife for my son of my kindred, and of my father's house.

41 Then shalt thou be clear from this my oath, when thou comest to my kindred; and if they give not thee one, thou shalt be clear from my oath.

42 And I came this day unto the well, and said, O LORD God [v] of my master Abraham, if now thou do prosper [w] my way which I go;

43 Behold I stand by the well of water and it shall come to pass, that when the virgin cometh forth to draw water, and I say to her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drink;

44 And she say to me, Both drink thou, and I will also draw for thy camels: let the same be the woman whom the LORD hath appointed out [c] for my master's son.

45 And before I had done speaking in mine heart, [d] behold, Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her shoulder; and she went down unto the well, and drew water: and I said unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee.

46 And she made haste, and let down her pitcher from her shoulder, and said, Drink; and I will give thy camels drink also. So I drank, and she made the camels drink also.

47 And I asked her, and said, Whose daughter art thou? And she said, The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor's son, whom Milcah bare unto him: and I put the earring upon her face, [h] and the bracelets upon her hands.

48 And I bowed down my head, [i] and worshipped the LORD, and blessed the LORD God of my master Abraham, which had led me in the right way [k] to take my master's brother's daughter unto his son.

49 And now if ye will deal [l] kindly and truly with my master, tell me: and if not, tell me; that I may turn to the right hand, or to the left.

50 Then Laban and Bethuel answered and said, The thing proceedeth from the LORD; [o] we cannot speak [p] unto thee bad or good.

51 Behold, Rebekah is before thee; take her, and go, and let her be thy master's son's wife, as the LORD hath spoken.

52 And it came to pass, that when Abraham's servant heard their words, he worshipped the LORD, [v] bowing himself to the earth.

53 And the servant brought forth jewels [2] of silver, and jewels [z] of gold, and raiment, and gave them to Rebekah: he gave also to her brother and to her mother precious [y] things.

54 And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, and tarried all night: and they rose up in the morning, and he said, Send me away unto my master.

55 And her mother and her brother said, Let the damsel abide with us [3] a few days, at the least ten; after that, she shall go.

56 And he said unto them, Hinder me not, [b] seeing the LORD hath [c] prospered my way; send me away, that I may go to my master.

57 And they said, We will call the damsel, and inquire at her mouth.

58 And they called Rebekah, and said unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? [f]

And she said, I will go.

59 And they sent away Rebekah their sister, and her nurse, [a] and Abraham's servant and his men.

60 And they blessed [b] Rebekah, and said unto her, Thou art our sister, be thou the mother of thousands of millions, and let thy seed possess the gate of those which hate them.

61 And Rebekah arose, and her damsels, and they rode upon the camels, and followed the man: and the servant took Rebekah, and went his way.

62 And Isaac came from the way of the well [c] Lahai-roi; for he dwelt in the south country.

63 And Isaac went out [1] to [f] meditate in the field at the even-tide: and he lifted up his eyes, and saw, and, behold, the camels were coming.

64 And Rebekah lifted up her eyes, and when she saw Isaac, she lighted [g] off the camel.

65 For she had said unto the servant, What man is this that walketh in the field to meet us? And the servant had said, It is my master: therefore she took a veil, [j] and covered herself.

66 And the servant told Isaac all things that he had done.

67 And Isaac brought her into his mother Sarah's tent, [m] and took Rebekah, and she became his wife; and he loved her: and Isaac [n] was comforted after his mother's death.

CHAP. XXV.

THEN again Abraham took a wife, and her name was [q] Keturah.

2 And she bare him Zimran, and Jokshan, and Medan, and Midian, [r] and Ishbak, and Shuah. [s]

3 And Jokshan begat Sheba, [t] and Dedan. [u] And the sons of Dedan were Asshurim, and Letushim, and Leummim.

4 And the sons of Midian; Ephah, [w] and Epher, and Hanoch, and Abidah, and Eldaah. All these were the children of Keturah.

5 And Abraham gave all that he had unto Isaac.

6 But unto the sons of the concubines, which Abraham had, Abraham gave gifts, and sent them away [z] from Isaac his son (while he yet lived), eastward, unto [a] the east country.

7 And these are the days of the years of Abraham's life which he lived, an hundred threescore and fifteen years.

8 Then Abraham gave up the ghost, and died in a good [d] old age, an old man, and full of years; and was gathered [e] to his people.

9 And his sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of Machpelah, in the field of Ephron the son of Zohar the Hittite which is before Mamre;

10 The field which Abraham purchased of the sons of Heth: [a] there was Abraham buried, and Sarah his wife.

11 And it came to pass after the death of Abraham, that God blessed his son Isaac: and Isaac dwelt by the well Lahai-roi.

12 Now these are the generations of Ishmael, Abraham's son, whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarah's handmaid, bare unto Abraham.

13 And these are the names of the sons of Ishmael, by their names, according to their generations: the first-born of Ishmael, Nebajoth; and Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibsam,

14 And Mishma, and Dumah, and Massa,

15 Hadar, [4] and Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah:

16 These are the sons of Ishmael, and these are their names, by their towns, and by their castles; twelve [f] princes according to their nations.

17 And these are the years of the life of Ishmael, an hundred and thirty and seven years: and he gave up the ghost and died, and was gathered unto his people.

18 And they dwelt from [i] Havilah unto Shur, that is before Egypt, as thou goest toward Assyria: and he [5] died in the presence of all his brethren.

19 And these are the generations of Isaac, Abraham's son: Abraham begat Isaac.

20 And Isaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah to wife, [n] the daughter of Bethuel [o] the Syrian of Padan-aram, the sister to Laban the Syrian.

21 And Isaac entreated the LORD [p] for his wife, because she was barren: and the LORD was entreated of [r] him, and Rebekah his wife conceived.

22 And the children struggled together within her: and she said, If it be so, why am I thus? And she went to inquire [t] of the LORD.

23 And the LORD said unto her, Two nations are in thy womb, and two manner of people shall be separated from thy bowels: and the one people shall be stronger than the other people; and the elder shall serve [w] the younger.

24 And when her days to be delivered were fulfilled, behold, there were twins in her womb.

25 And the first came out red, all over like an hairy garment; and they called his name Esau.

26 And after that came his brother out, and his hand took hold on Esau's heel; [z] and his name was called Jacob: and Isaac was threescore years old when she bare them.

27 And the boys grew: and Esau was a cunning [z] hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was a plain man, dwelling in [a] tents.

28 And Isaac loved Esau, because [6] he did eat of his venison; [b] but Rebekah loved Jacob.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND there was a famine in the land, besides the first famine [g] that was in the days of Abraham. And Isaac went unto Abimelech [h] king of the Philistines, unto Gerar.

2 And the LORD appeared unto him, and said, Go not down into Egypt; dwell in the land which I shall tell thee of.

3 Sojourn [j] in this land, and I will be with thee, [k] and will bless thee: for unto thee, and unto thy seed, I will give all [l] these countries; and I will perform the oath [m] which I sware unto Abraham thy father.

4 And I will make thy seed to multiply as the stars of heaven, and will give unto thy seed all these countries; and in thy seed [q] shall all the nations of the earth be blessed;

5 Because that Abraham obeyed my voice, [s] and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws.

6 And Isaac dwelt in Gerar.

7 And the men of the place asked him of his wife: and he said, [u] She is my sister: for he feared [v] to say, She is my wife; lest, said he, the men of the place should kill me for Rebekah, because she was fair to look upon.

8 And it came to pass, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech, king of the Philistines, looked out at a window, and saw, and, behold, Isaac was sporting with Rebekah his wife.

9 And Abimelech called Isaac, and said, Behold, of a surety she is thy wife: and how saidst thou, She is my sister? And Isaac said unto him, Because I said, Lest I die for her.

10 And Abimelech said, What [y] is this thou hast done unto us? one of the people might lightly have lien with thy wife, and thou shouldest have brought guiltiness upon us.

11 And Abimelech charged all his people, saying, He that toucheth [c] this man, or his wife, shall surely be put to death

12 Then Isaac sowed in that land, and received [2] in the same year an hundredfold: and the LORD blessed him.

13 And the man waxed great, and went forward, [3] and grew until he became very great.

14 For he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds, and great store of [4] servants. And the Philistines [c] envied him.

15 For all the wells which his father's servants had digged, in the days of Abraham his father, the Philistines had stopped them, and filled them with earth.

16 And Abimelech said unto Isaac, Go from us; for thou art much [d] mightier than we.

17 And Isaac departed thence, and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there.

18 And Isaac digged again the wells of water which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father; for the Philistines had stopped them after the death of Abraham: and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them.

19 And Isaac's servants digged in the valley, and found there a well of [8] springing water.

20 And the herdmen of Gerar did strive with Isaac's herdmen, saying, The water is our's: and he called the name of the well Esek; [9] because they strove with him.

21 And they digged another well, and strove for that also: and he called the name of it [11] Sitnah.

22 And he removed from thence, and digged another well; and for that they strove not: and he called the name of it [12] Rehoboth; and he said, For now the LORD hath made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land.

23 And he went up from thence to Beersheba.

24 And the LORD appeared unto him the same night, and said, I am the God of Abraham thy father; fear not, [i] for I am with thee, and will bless thee, and multiply thy seed, for my servant Abraham's sake.

25 And he [k] builded an altar there, and called upon the name of the LORD, and pitched his tent there: and there Isaac's servants digged a well.

26 Then Abimelech went to him from Gerar, and Ahuzzath one of his friends, and Phichol [m] the chief captain of his army.

27 And Isaac said unto them, Wherefore come ye to me, seeing ye hate [n] me, and have sent me away [o] from you?

28 And they said, [13] We saw certainly that the LORD was with thee: and we said, Let there be now an oath [r] betwixt us, even betwixt us and thee, and let us make a covenant with thee

29 That [1] thou wilt do us no hurt, as we have not touched thee, and as we have done unto thee nothing but good, and have sent thee away in peace: thou art now the blessed [a] of the LORD.

CHAP. XXVII.

AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, [f] so that he could not see, he called Esau his eldest son, and said unto him, My son: And he said unto him, Behold, here am I.

2 And he said, Behold now, I am old, I know not [g] the day of my death:

3 Now therefore take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver and thy bow, and go out to the field, and take [10] me some venison;

4 And make me savoury meat, such as I love, and bring it to me, that I may eat; that my soul [h] may bless thee before I die

5 And Rebekah heard when Isaac spake to Esau his son. And Esau went to the field to hunt for venison, and to bring it.

6 And Rebekah spake unto Jacob her son, saying, Behold, I heard thy father speak unto Esau thy brother, saying,

7 Bring me venison, and make me savoury meat, that I may eat, and bless thee before the LORD, before my death.

8 Now therefore, my son, obey my voice, [j] according to that which I command thee.

9 Go now to the flock, and fetch me from thence two good kids of the goats; and I will make them savoury meat [l] for thy father, such as he loveth:

10 And thou shalt bring it to thy father, that he may eat, and that he may bless thee before his death.

11 And Jacob said to Rebekah his mother, Behold, Esau my brother is a hairy [p] man, and I am a smooth man:

12 My father peradventure will [q] feel me, and I shall seem to him as a deceiver; and I shall bring a [s] curse upon me, and not a blessing.

me [a] be thy curse, my son: only obey my voice, and go fetch me them.

14 And he went, and fetched, and brought them to his mother: and his mother made savoury meat, [b] such as his father loved.

15 And Rebekah took [1] goodly raiment of her eldest son Esau, which were with her in the house, and put them upon Jacob her younger son:

16 And she put the skins of the kids of the goats upon his hands, and upon the smooth of his neck:

17 And she gave the savoury meat, and the bread, which she had prepared, into the hand of her son Jacob.

18 And he came unto his father, and said, My father: And he said, here am I; who art thou, my son?

19 And Jacob said unto his father, I am Esau thy first-born; [f] I have done according as thou badest me: arise, I pray thee, sit and eat of my venison, that thy soul may bless me.

20 And Isaac said unto his son, How is it that thou hast found it so quickly, my son? And he said, Because [i] the LORD thy God brought it [5] to me.

21 And Isaac said unto Jacob, Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel [j] thee, my son, whether thou be my very son Esau, or not.

22 And Jacob went near unto Isaac his father; and he felt him, and said, The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau.

23 And he discerned him not, because his hands [l] were hairy, as his brother Esau's hands: so he blessed him.

24 And he said, Art thou my very son Esau? And he said, [n] I am.

25 And he said, Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my son's venison, that my soul may bless thee. And he brought it near to him, and he did eat: and he brought him wine, and he drank.

26 And his father Isaac said unto him, Come near now, and kiss me, my son.

27 And he came near, and kissed him: and he smelled the smell of his raiment, and blessed [r] him, and said, See, [s] the smell of my son is as the smell of a field which the LORD hath blessed: [v]

28 Therefore God give thee of [w] the dew of heaven, and the fatness of the earth and plenty of corn and wine:

29 Let people serve thee, and nations bow down to thee: be lord over thy brethren, and let thy mother's sons [y] bow down to thee: cursed be every one that curseth thee; [z] and blessed be he that blesseth thee.

30 And it came to pass, as soon as Isaac had made an end of blessing Jacob, and Jacob was yet scarce gone out from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau his brother came in from his hunting.

31 And he also had made savoury meat, and brought it unto his father, and said unto his father, Let my father arise, and eat of his son's venison, that thy soul may bless me.

32 And Isaac his father said unto him, Who art thou? And he said, I am thy son, thy first-born, Esau.

33 And Isaac [2] trembled very exceedingly, and said, Who? where is he that hath taken [3] venison, and brought it me, and I have eaten of all before [c] thou camest, and have blessed him? yea, [d] and he shall be blessed.

34 And when Esau heard the words of his father, he cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry, and said unto his father, Bless me, even me also, [e] O my father!

35 And he said, Thy brother came with subtlety, [g] and hath taken away thy blessing.

36 And he said, Is not he rightly named Jacob? [4] for he hath supplanted me these two times: he took away my birth right; [h] and, behold, now he hath taken away my blessing. And he said, Hast thou not reserved a blessing for me?

37 And Isaac answered and said unto Esau, Behold, I have made him thy lord, [k] and all his brethren have I given to him for servants; and with corn and wine have I sustained [6] him: and what shall I do now unto thee, my son?

38 And Esau said unto his father, Hast thou but one blessing, my father? bless me, even me also, O my father! And Esau lifted up his voice, and [m] wept.

39 And Isaac his father answered and said unto him, Behold thy dwelling shall be [7] the fatness of the earth, and of the dew of heaven from above:

40 And by thy sword shalt thou live, and [o] shalt serve thy brother: and it shall come to pass when thou shalt have the dominion, that thou [p] shalt break his yoke from off thy neck.

41 And Esau [q] hated Jacob because of the blessing wherewith his father blessed him: and Esau said in his heart, the days of mourning [t] for my father are at hand, then will I slay [u] my brother Jacob.

42 And these words of Esau her elder son were told to Rebekah. And she sent and called Jacob her younger son, and said unto him, Behold, thy brother Esau, as touching thee, doth [x] comfort himself, purposing to kill thee.

43 Now therefore, my son, obey my voice; and arise, flee thou to Laban my brother, [a] to Haran;

44 And tarry with him a few days, until thy brother's fury turn away;

45 Until thy brother's anger turn away from thee, and he forget that which thou hast done to him: then I will send, and fetch thee from thence. Why should I be deprived also of you both in one day?

46 And Rebekah said to Isaac, I am weary of my life [c] because of the daughters of Heth: if Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Heth, such as these which are of the daughters of the land, what good shall my life do me.

CHAP. XXVIII.

AND Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him, and charged him, and said unto him, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan.[h]

2 Arise, go to Padan-aram, [i] to the house of Bethuel, [j] thy mother's father; and take thee a wife from thence of the daughters of Laban, [k] thy mother's brother.

3 And God Almighty bless thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, that thou mayest be [1] a multitude of people;

4 And give thee [m] the blessing of Abraham, to thee, and to thy seed with thee; that thou mayest inherit the [3] land wherein thou art a stranger, which God gave unto Abraham.

5 And Isaac sent away Jacob: and he went to Padan-aram, unto Laban, son of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah, Jacob's and Esau's mother.

6 When Esau saw that Isaac had blessed [q] Jacob, and sent him away to Padan-aram, to take him a wife from thence; and that, as he blessed him, he gave him a charge, saying, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan;

7 And that Jacob obeyed [t] his father and his mother, and was gone to Padan-aram;

8 And Esau seeing that the daughters of Canaan [6] pleased not Isaac his father;

9 Then went Esau unto Ishmael, and took unto the wives which he had, [7] Mahalath the daughter of Ishmael, Abraham's son, the sister of Nebajoth, to be his wife.

10 And Jacob [v] went out from Beersheba, and went toward [8] Haran.

11 And he lighted upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, because the sun was set: and he took of the stones of that place, and put them for his pillows, and lay down in that place to sleep.

12 And he [x] dreamed, and, behold, a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven: and, [z] behold, the angels of God ascending and descending on it.

13 And, behold, the LORD stood above it; and said, I am the LORD God of Abraham thy father, [a] and the God of Isaac: the land whereon thou liest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed;

14 And thy seed [b] shall be as the dust of the earth; and thou shalt [11] spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south: and, in thee and in thy seed [a] shall all the families of the earth be blessed.

15 And, behold, I am with thee, [b] and will keep [d] thee in all places whither thou goest, and will bring thee again [e] into this land; for I will not leave [f] thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of.

16 And Jacob awaked out of his sleep, and he said, Surely the LORD is in [g] this place, and I knew it not.

17 And he was afraid, and said, How dreadful is this place! this is none other but the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven.

18 And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put for his pillows, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil [l] upon the top of it.

19 And he called the name of that place Beth-el: [2] but the name of that [n] city was called Luz at the first.

20 And Jacob vowed a vow, saying, If God will be with me, [o] and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on,

21 So that I come again to my father's house in peace; then shall the [p] LORD be my God:

22 And this stone, which I have set for a pillar, [r] shall be God's house: and of all that thou shalt give me, I will surely give the tenth [s] unto thee.

CHAP. XXIX.

THEN Jacob [4] went on his journey, and came into the land of the [5] people of the east.

2 And he looked, and, behold, a well in the field, and, lo, there were three flocks of sheep lying by it; [u] for out of that well they watered the flocks: and a great stone was upon the well's mouth.

3 And thither were all the flocks gathered: and they rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the sheep, and put the stone again upon the well's mouth in his place.

4 And Jacob said unto them, My brethren, whence be ye? And they said, Of Haran [w] are we.

5 And he said unto them, Know ye Laban the son of Nahor? And they said, We know him.

6 And he said unto them, [9] Is he well? [y] And they said, He is well; and, behold, Rachel his daughter cometh with the sheep.

7 And he said, Lo, [10] it is yet high day, neither is it time that the cattle should be gathered together: water ye the sheep, and go and feed them.

8 And they said, We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone [c] from the well's mouth then we water the sheep

B. C. 1760.

9 And while he yet spake with them, Rachel came with her father's sheep: for she kept them.

10 And it came to pass, when Jacob saw Rachel the daughter of Laban his mother's brother, and the sheep of Laban his mother's brother, that Jacob went near, and rolled the stone from the well's mouth, [c] and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother.

11 And Jacob kissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice, [f] and wept.

12 And Jacob told Rachel that he was her father's brother, [g] and that he was Rebekah's son: [i] and she ran and told her father.

13 And it came to pass, when Laban heard the [2] tidings of Jacob his sister's son, that he ran to meet him, and embraced him, and kissed [j] him, and brought him to his house. And he told Laban all these things.

14 And Laban said to him, Surely thou art my bone [k] and my flesh. And he abode with him [4] the space of a month.

15 And Laban said unto Jacob, Because thou art my brother, shouldest thou therefore serve me for nought? tell me, what shall thy wages be?

16 And Laban had two daughters: the name of the elder was Leah, and the name of the younger was Rachel.[l]

17 Leah was tender-eyed; but Rachel was beautiful and well-favoured.

18 And Jacob loved Rachel; and said, I will serve thee seven years for Rachel thy younger daughter.

19 And Laban said, It is better that I give her to thee, than that I should give her to another man: abide with me.

20 And Jacob served [q] seven years for Rachel; and they seemed unto him but a few days, for the love he had to her.[r]

21 And Jacob said unto Laban, Give me my wife, for my days are fulfilled, that I may go in unto her.

22 And Laban gathered together all the men of the place, and made a feast.[t]

23 And it came to pass in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter, and brought her to him; and he went in unto her.

24 And Laban gave unto his daughter Leah, Zilpah [v] his maid, for an handmaid.

25 And it came to pass, that in the morning, behold, it was Leah: and he said to Laban, What is this thou hast done unto me? Did I not serve with thee for Rachel? Wherefore then hast thou beguiled me?

26 And Laban said, It must not be so done in our country, [12] to give the younger before the first-born.

27 Fulfil her week, [w] and we will give thee this also, for the service which thou shalt serve with me yet seven other years.

28 And Jacob did so, and fulfilled her week: and he gave him Rachel his daughter to wife also.

29 And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter, Bilhah [e] his handmaid, to be her maid

30 And he went in also unto Rachel, and he loved also Rachel [b] more than Leah, and served with him yet seven other years.

31 And when the LORD saw that Leah was hated, he [d] opened her womb: but Rachel was barren. [e]

32 And Leah conceived, and bare a son, and she called his name [1] Reuben: for she said, Surely the LORD hath looked [h] upon my affliction: now, therefore, my husband will love me.

33 And she conceived again, and bare a son; and said, Because the LORD hath heard that I was hated, he hath therefore given me this son also: and she called his name [3] Simeon.

34 And she conceived again, and bare a son; and said, Now this time will my husband be joined unto me, because I have borne him three sons: therefore was his name called [5] Levi.

35 And she conceived again, and bare a son; and she said, Now will I praise the LORD: therefore she called his name Judah; [6] and [7] left bearing.

CHAP. XXX.

AND when Rachel saw that she bare Jacob no children, [m] Rachel envied [n] her sister; and said unto Jacob, Give me children, [o] or else I die.

2 And Jacob's anger was kindled against Rachel: and he said, Am I in God's stead, who hath withheld [p] from thee the fruit of the womb?

3 And she said, Behold my maid Bilhah, go in unto her; and she shall bear upon my knees, that I may also [8] have children by her.

4 And she gave him Bilhah her handmaid [s] to wife: and Jacob went in unto her.

5 And Bilhah conceived, and bare Jacob a son.

6 And Rachel said, God hath [u] judged me, and hath also heard my voice, and hath given me a son: therefore called she his name [9] Dan.

7 And Bilhah, Rachel's maid, conceived again, and bare Jacob a second son.

8 And Rachel said, With [10] great wrestlings have I wrestled with my sister, and I have prevailed: and she called his name [11] Naphtali.

9 When Leah saw that she had left bearing, she took Zilpah her maid, and gave her Jacob to wife.

10 And Zilpah, Leah's maid, bare Jacob a son.

11 And Leah said, A troop cometh: and she called his name [13] Gad. [x]

13 And Leah said, [1] Happy am I, for the daughters [b] will call me blessed: and she called his name [3] Asher.

14 And Reuben went in the days of wheat-harvest, and found mandrakes in the field, and brought them unto his mother Leah. Then Rachel said to Leah, Give me, I pray thee, of thy son's mandrakes.[c]

15 And she said unto her, Is it a small matter [d] that thou hast taken my husband? and wouldest thou take away my son's mandrakes also? And Rachel said, Therefore he shall lie with thee to-night for thy son's mandrakes.

16 And Jacob came out of the field in the evening, and Leah went out to meet him, and said, Thou must come in unto me; for surely I have hired thee with my son's mandrakes. And he lay with her that night.

17 And God hearkened [g] unto Leah, and she conceived, and bare Jacob the fifth son.

18 And Leah said, God hath given me my hire, because I have given my maiden to my husband: and she called his name [5] Issachar. [h]

19 And Leah conceived again, and bare Jacob the sixth son.

20 And Leah said, God hath endued me with a good dowry; now will my husband dwell with me, [i] because I have borne him six sons: and she called his name [6] Zebulun.

21 And afterward she bare a daughter, and called her name [7] Dinah.

22 And God remembered [j] Rachel, and God hearkened to her, and opened her womb.

23 And she conceived, and bare a son; and said, God hath taken away [k] my reproach:

24 And she called his name [8] Joseph; and said, The LORD shall add to me another son.

25 And it came to pass, when Rachel had borne Joseph, that Jacob said unto Laban, Send me away, [m] that I may go unto mine own place, [n] and to my country.

26 Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have served thee, and let me go: for thou knowest my service [o] which I have done thee.

27 And Laban said unto him, I pray thee, if I have found favour [p] in thine eyes, tarry: for I have learned by experience that the LORD hath blessed me [q] for thy sake.

28 And he said, Appoint me thy wages, [r] and I will give it.

29 And he said unto him, Thou knowest how I have served thee, [s] and how thy cattle was with me.

30 For it was little which thou hadst before I came, and it is now [9] increased unto a multitude; and the LORD hath blessed thee [2] since my coming: and now, when shall I provide for mine own house [a] also?

31 And he said, What shall I give thee? And Jacob said, Thou shalt not give me any thing: if thou wilt do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep thy flock:

32 I will pass through all thy flock today, removing from thence all the speckled and spotted cattle, and all the brown cattle among the sheep, and the spotted and speckled among the goats: and of such shall be my hire. [c]

33 So shall my [f] righteousness answer for me [4] in time to come, when it shall come for my hire before thy face: every one that is not speckled and spotted among the goats, and brown amongst the sheep, that shall be counted stolen with me.

34 And Laban said, Behold, I would it might be according to thy word.

35 And he removed that day the he-goats that were ring-straked and spotted, and all the she-goats that were speckled and spotted, and every one that had some white in it, and all the brown among the sheep, and gave them into the hands of his sons.

36 And he set three days journey betwixt himself and Jacob: and Jacob fed the rest of Laban's flocks.

37 And Jacob took him rods of green poplar, and of the hasel and chestnut-tree; and pilled white strakes in them, and made the white appear which was in the rods.

38 And he set the rods, which he had pilled, before the flocks in the gutters in the watering-troughs, when the flocks came to drink, that they should conceive when they came to drink.

39 And the flocks conceived before the rods, and brought forth cattle ring-straked, [l] speckled, and spotted.

40 And Jacob did separate the lambs, and set the faces of the flocks toward the ring-straked, and all the brown in the flock of Laban: and he put his own flocks by themselves, and put them not unto Laban's cattle.

41 And it came to pass, whensoever the stronger cattle did conceive, that Jacob laid the rods before the eyes of the cattle in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods.

42 But when the cattle were feeble, he put them not in: so the feebler were Laban's, and the stronger Jacob's.

43 And the man [t] increased exceedingly, and had much cattle, and maid-servants, and men-servants, and camels, and asses.

CHAP. XXXI.

AND he heard the words of Laban's sons, saying, Jacob hath taken away all that was our father's; and of that which was our father's hath he gotten all this glory. [u]

B. C. 1739.

2 And Jacob beheld [a] the countenance of Laban, and, behold, it was not [c] toward him [1] as before.

3 And the LORD said unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred; and I will be [e] with thee.

4 And Jacob sent and called Rachel and Leah to the field, unto his flock;

5 And said unto them, I see your father's countenance, that it is not toward me as before; but the God of my father hath been with me. [g]

6 And ye know, that with all my power I have served [h] your father.

7 And your father hath deceived me, and changed my wages [i] ten times: but God suffered him not to hurt me. [j]

8 If he said thus, The speckled shall be thy wages; then all the cattle bare speckled: and if he said thus, The ring-straked shall be thy hire; then all the cattle bare ring-straked.

9 Thus God hath taken away the cattle of your father, and given them to me.

10 And it came to pass at the time that the cattle conceived, that I lifted up mine eyes, and saw in a dream, and, behold, the [4] rams which leaped upon the cattle were ring-straked, speckled, and grisled. [n]

11 And the angel of God [o] spake unto me in a dream, saying, Jacob: And I said, Here am I. [p]

12 And he said, Lift up now thine eyes, and see, all the rams which leap upon the cattle are ring-straked, speckled, and grisled: for I have seen [q] all that Laban doeth unto thee.

13 I am the God of Beth-el, [r] where thou anointedst the pillar, and where thou vowedst a vow unto me: now arise, get thee out from this land, and return [t] unto the land of thy kindred.

14 And Rachel and Leah answered and said unto him, Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our father's house?

15 Are we not counted of him strangers? for he hath sold us, [v] and hath quite devoured also our money.

16 For all the riches which God hath taken from our father, that is ours, and our children's: now then, whatsoever God hath said unto thee, do.

17 Then Jacob rose up, and set his sons and his wives upon camels. [x]

18 And he carried away all his cattle, and all his goods which he had gotten, the cattle of his getting, which he had gotten in Padan-aram, for to go to Isaac his [y] father in the land of Canaan.

19 And Laban went to shear his sheep: and Rachel had stolen the [6] images [a] that were her father's

20 And Jacob stole away [7] unawares to Laban the Syrian, in that he told him not that he fled.

21 So he fled with all that he had; and he rose up, and passed over the river, [b] and set his face [d] toward the mount Gilead.

22 And it was told Laban on the third day, that Jacob was fled.

23 And he took his brethren with him, and pursued after him seven days journey; and they overtook him in the mount of Gilead.

24 And God came to Laban the Syrian in a dream [f] by night, and said unto him, Take heed that thou speak not to Jacob either [2] good or bad.

25 Then Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount; and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mount of Gilead.

26 And Laban said to Jacob, What hast thou done, that thou hast stolen away unawares to me, and carried away my daughters, as captives [k] taken with the sword?

27 Wherefore didst thou flee away secretly, and [3] steal away from me; and didst not tell me, that I might have sent thee away with mirth, and with songs, [l] with tabret, and with harp;

28 And hast not suffered me to kiss my sons [m] and my daughters? thou hast now done foolishly in so doing.

29 It is in the power of my hand to do you hurt: but the God of your father spake unto me yesternight, saying, Take thou heed that thou speak not to Jacob either good or bad.

30 And now, though thou wouldest needs be gone, because thou sore longedst after thy father's house, yet wherefore hast thou stolen [s] my gods?

31 And Jacob answered and said to Laban, Because I was afraid: for I said, Peradventure thou wouldest take by force thy daughters from me.

32 With whomsoever thou findest thy gods, let him not live: [u] before our brethren discern thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee. For Jacob knew not that Rachel had stolen them.

33 And Laban went into Jacob's tent, and into Leah's tent, and into the two maid-servants' tents; but he found them not. Then went he out of Leah's tent, and entered into Rachel's tent.

34 Now Rachel had taken [w] the images, and put them in the camel's furniture, and sat upon them. And Laban [5] searched all the tent, but found them not.

35 And she said to her father, Let it not displease my lord that I cannot rise up [z] before thee; for the custom of women is upon me. And he searched, but found not the images.

36 And Jacob was wroth, [b] and chode with Laban: and Jacob answered and said to Laban, What is my trespass, what is my sin, that thou hast so hotly pursued after me?

37 Whereas thou hast searched all my stuff, what hast thou found of all thy household-stuff? set it here before my brethren, and thy brethren, that they may judge [c] betwixt us both.

38 This twenty years have I been with thee; thy ewes and thy she-goats have not cast their young, and the rams of thy flock have I not eaten.

39 That which was torn of beasts I brought not unto thee, I bare the loss of it; [f] of my hand didst thou require it, whether stolen by day, or stolen by night.

40 Thus I was; in the day the drought consumed me, and the frost by night; and my sleep departed from mine eyes.

41 Thus have I been twenty years in thy house; I served thee fourteen [k] years for thy two daughters, and six years for thy cattle: and thou hast changed my wages [m] ten times.

42 Except [o] the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and [p] the fear of Isaac, had been with me, surely thou hadst sent me away now empty. God hath seen my affliction [q] and the labour of my hands, and rebuked [r] thee yesternight.

43 And Laban answered and said unto Jacob, These daughters are my daughters, and these children are my children, and these cattle are my cattle, and all that thou seest is mine: and what can I do this day unto these my daughters, or unto their children which they have borne?

44 Now, therefore, come thou, let us make a covenant, [u] I and thou; and let it be for a witness [v] between me and thee.

45 And Jacob took a stone, [w] and set it up for a pillar.

46 And Jacob said unto his brethren, Gather stones; and they took stones, and made an heap: and they did eat there upon the heap.

47 And Laban called it [4] Jegar-sahadutha: but Jacob called it [5] Galeed.

48 And Laban said, This heap is a witness between me and thee this day. Therefore was the name of it called Galeed;

49 And [7] Mizpah; [e] for he said, The LORD watch between me and thee, when we are absent one from another.

50 If thou shalt afflict my daughters, or if thou shalt take other wives beside my daughters, no man is with us: see, God is [g] witness betwixt me and thee.

51 And Laban said to Jacob, Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have cast betwixt me and thee;

52 This heap be witness, [h] and this pillar be witness, that I will not pass over this heap to thee, and that thou shalt not pass over this heap and this pillar unto me, for harm.

betwixt us. [a] And Jacob sware by the fear [b] of his father Isaac.

54 Then Jacob [1] offered sacrifice upon the mount, and called his brethren to eat bread: and they did eat bread, and tarried all night in the mount.

55 And early in the morning Laban rose up, and kissed his sons and his daughters, and blessed [d] them: and Laban departed, and returned unto his place. [e]

CHAP. XXXII

AND Jacob went on his way, and the angels of God [g] met him.

2 And when Jacob saw them, he said, This is God's [h] host: and he called the name of that place [2] Mahanaim. [i]

3 And Jacob sent messengers before him [j] to Esau his brother, unto the land of [l] Seir, the [3] country of Edom.

4 And he commanded them, saying, Thus shall ye speak unto my [n] lord Esau; Thy servant Jacob saith thus, I have sojourned with Laban, and stayed there until now:

5 And I have oxen, and asses, flocks, and men-servants; and women-servants: and I have sent to tell my lord, that I may find grace [s] in thy sight.

6 And the messengers returned to Jacob, saying, We came to thy brother Esau, and also he cometh to meet thee, and four hundred men with him.

7 Then Jacob was greatly afraid and distressed: [t] and he divided the people that was with him, and the flocks, and herds, and the camels, into two bands:

8 And said, If Esau come to the one company, and smite it, then the other company which is left shall escape.

9 And Jacob said, [x] O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac, the LORD which saidst unto me, [y] Return unto thy country, and to thy kindred, and I will deal well with thee:

10 I am [6] not worthy of the least of all the mercies, [z] and of all the truth, [a] which thou hast shewed unto thy servant: for with my staff I passed over this Jordan; and now I am [b] become two bands.

11 Deliver me, [d] I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau: for I fear him, lest he will come and smite me, and the mother [8] with the [9] children.

12 And thou [f] saidst, I will surely do thee good, and make thy seed as the sand of the sea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.

13 And he lodged there that same night; and took of that which came to his hand a present [i] for Esau his brother;

14 Two hundred she-goats, and twenty he-goats, two hundred ewes, and twenty rams, 15 Thirty milch camels with their colts, forty kine and ten bulls, twenty she-asses and ten foals.

16 And he delivered them into the hand of his servants, every drove by themselves; and said unto his servants, Pass over before me, and put a space betwixt drove and drove.

17 And he commanded the foremost, saying, When Esau my brother meeteth thee, and asketh thee, saying, Whose art thou? and whither goest thou? and whose are these before thee?

18 Then thou shalt say, They be thy servant Jacob's; it is a present sent unto my lord Esau: and, behold, also he is behind us.

19 And so commanded he the second, and the third, and all that followed the droves, saying, On this manner shall ye speak unto Esau, when ye find him.

20 And say ye moreover, Behold, thy servant Jacob is behind us. For he said, I will appease [c] him with the present that goeth before me, and afterward I will see his face; peradventure he will accept of [2] me.

21 So went the present over before him: and himself lodged that night in the company.

22 And he rose up that night, and took his two wives, and his two women-servants, and his eleven sons, and passed over the ford Jabbok. [g]

23 And he took them, and [5] sent them over the brook, and sent over that he had.

24 And Jacob was left alone: and there wrestled [i] a man with him until the [6] breaking of the day.

25 And when he saw that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of his thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wrestled with him.

26 And he said, Let me go, for the day breaketh. And he said, I will not let [n] thee go, except thou bless me.

27 And he said unto him, What is thy name? and he said, Jacob.

28 And he said, Thy name shall be called no more [p] Jacob, but [8] Israel: for as a prince hast thou power with [q] God and with men, [r] and hast prevailed.

29 And Jacob asked him, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name. And he said, Wherefore is it that thou dost ask [s] after my name? And he blessed him there.

30 And Jacob called the name of the place [10] Peniel: for I have seen God face to [u] face, and my life is preserved.

31 And as he passed over Penuel the sun rose upon him, and he halted upon his thigh.

32 Therefore the children of Israel eat not of the sinew which shrank, which is upon the hollow of the thigh, unto this day: because he touched the hollow of Jacob's thigh in the sinew that shrank.

CHAP. XXXIII.

AND Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, Esau came [y] and with him four hundred men. And he divided the children unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids.

2 And he put the handmaids and their children foremost, and Leah and her children after, and Rachel and Joseph hindermost.

3 And he passed over before them, and bowed himself to the ground [a] seven times, until he came near to his brother.

4 And Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, [b] and fell on his neck, [c] and kissed him: and they wept.

5 And he lifted up his eyes, and saw the women and the children; and said, Who are those [1] with thee? And he said, The children which God hath graciously given [d] thy servant.

6 Then the handmaidens came near, they and their children, and they bowed themselves.

7 And Leah also with her children came near, and bowed themselves: and after came Joseph near and Rachel, and they bowed themselves.

8 And he said, What [3] meanest thou by all this drove which I met? And he said, These are to find grace [f] in the sight of my lord.

9 And Esau said, I have enough, my brother; keep [4] that thou hast unto thyself. [h]

10 And Jacob said, Nay, I pray thee, if now I have found grace in thy sight, then receive my present at my hand: for therefore I have seen thy face, [j] as though I had seen the face of God, and thou wast pleased with me.

11 Take, I pray thee, my blessing [k] that is brought to thee; because God hath dealt graciously with me, and because I have [7] enough. [l] And he urged him, [m] and he took it.

12 And he said, Let us take our journey; and let us go, and I will go before thee.

13 And he said unto him, My lord knoweth that the children are tender, [o] and the flocks and herds with young are with me; and if men should over-drive them one day, all the flock will die.

14 Let my lord, I pray thee, pass over before his servant: and I will lead on softly, according [9] as the cattle that goeth before me and the children be able to endure, until I come unto my lord unto Seir. [t]

15 And Esau said, Let me now [11] leave with thee some of the folk that are with me. And he said, [12] What needeth it? let me find grace in the sight [v] of my lord.

16 So Esau returned that day on his way unto Seir.

17 And Jacob journeyed to Succoth, [w] and built him an house, and made booths for his cattle: therefore the name of the place is called [13] Succoth.

18 And Jacob came to Shalem, [x] a city of [14] Shechem, which is in the land of Ca naan, when he came from Padan-aram; and pitched his tent before the city.

19 And he bought [a] a parcel of a field, where he had spread his tent, at the hand of the children of [1] Hamor, Shechem's father, for an hundred [2] pieces of money.

20 And he erected there an altar, [b] and called it [3] El-elohe-Israel.

CHAP. XXXIV.

AND Dinah [c] the daughter of Leah, which she bare unto Jacob, went out [f] to see the daughters of the land.

2 And when Shechem the son of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the country, saw her, [g] he took her, and lay with her, and defiled [4] her.

3 And his soul clave [h] unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the damsel, and spake [5] kindly unto the damsel.

4 And Shechem spake unto his father Hamor, saying, Get me this damsel [j] to wife.

5 And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter: now his sons were with his cattle in the field; and Jacob held his peace [l] until they were come.

6 And Hamor the father of Shechem went out unto Jacob, to commune with him.

7 And the sons of Jacob came out of the field when they heard it: and the men were grieved, and they were [n] very wroth, because he had wrought folly [o] in Israel, in lying with Jacob's daughter; which thing ought not to be done. [p]

8 And Hamor communed with them, saying, The soul of my son Shechem longeth for your daughter: I pray you give her him to wife.

9 And make ye marriages with us, and give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you.

10 And ye shall dwell with us: and the land shall be before you; [s] dwell and trade ye therein, and get you possessions therein.

11 And Shechem said unto her father and unto her brethren, Let me find grace in your eyes, and what ye shall say unto me I will give.

12 Ask me never so much dowry [u] and gift, and I will give [v] according as ye shall say unto me: but give me the damsel to wife.

13 And the sons of Jacob answered Shechem and Hamor his father deceitfully, and said, Because he had defiled Dinah their sister.

14 And they said unto them, We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to one that is uncircumcised; for that were a reproach [z] unto us:

15 But in this will we consent unto you. If ye will be as we be, that every male of you be circumcised, [a]

16 Then will we give our daughters unto you, and we will take your daughters to us, and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people.

17 But if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumcised; then will we take our daughter, and we will be gone.

18 And their words pleased Hamor, and Shechem, Hamor's son.

19 And the young man deferred not to do the thing, because he had delight [c] in Jacob's daughter: and he was more honourable [d] than all the house of his father.

20 And Hamor and Shechem his son came unto the gate of their city, and communed with the men of their city, saying,

21 These men are peaceable with us: therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein; for the land, behold, it is large enough for them; let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters.

22 Only herein [i] will the men consent unto us for to dwell with us, to be one people, if every male among us be circumcised, as they are circumcised.

23 Shall not their cattle, and their substance, and every beast of theirs, [k] be ours? only let us consent unto them, and they will dwell with us.

24 And unto Hamor and unto Shechem his son hearkened all that [m] went out of the gate of his city; and every male was circumcised, all that went out of the gate of his city.

25 And it came to pass on the third day, when they were sore, that two of the sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brethren, took each man his sword, and [q] came upon the city boldly, and slew all the males.

26 And they slew Hamor and Shechem his son with the [6] edge [r] of the sword, and took Dinah out of Shechem's house, and went out.

27 The sons of Jacob came upon the slain, [t] and spoiled the city, because they had defiled their sister.

28 They took their sheep, and their oxen and their asses, and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field,

29 And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives took they captive, and spoiled even all that was in the house.

30 And Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, Ye have troubled [w] me, to make me to stink among [x] the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites: and I being few [y] in number, they shall gather themselves together against me, and slay me; and I shall be destroyed, I and my house.

31 And they said, Should he deal with our sister as with an harlot?

2 Then Jacob said unto his [a] household, and to all that were with him, Put away the strange gods [c] that are among [d] you, and be [e] clean, and change your garments:

3 And let us arise and go up to Beth-el; and I will make there an altar unto God, who answered me in the day [h] of my distress, and was with me [i] in the way which I went.

4 And they gave unto Jacob all the strange gods which were in their hand, and all their ear-rings [k] which were in their ears; and Jacob hid them under the oak which was by [l] Shechem.

5 And they journeyed: and the terror of God [m] was upon the cities that were round about them, and they did not pursue after the sons of Jacob.

6 So Jacob came to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan, that is Beth-el, he and all the people that were with him.

7 And he built there an altar, and called the place [1] El-beth-el: because there God [p] appeared unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother.

8 But Deborah, Rebekah's nurse, died, and she was buried beneath Beth-el, under an oak; and the name of it was called [2] Allon-bachuth.

9 And God appeared unto Jacob again, when he came out of Padan-aram, and blessed him.

10 And God said unto him, Thy name is Jacob: thy name shall not be called any more Jacob, but Israel shall be thy name: and he called his name Israel.[u]

11 And God said unto him, [v] I am God Almighty: be fruitful and multiply; a nation, and a company of nations, shall be of thee; and kings shall come out of thy loins:

12 And the land which I gave [w] Abraham and Isaac, to thee I will give it, and to thy seed after thee will I give the land.

13 And God went up from him, [y] in the place where he talked with him.

14 And Jacob set up a pillar [z] in the place where he talked with him, even a pillar of stone; and he poured a drink-offering thereon, and he poured oil thereon:

15 And Jacob called the name of the place where God spake with him, Beth-el.

16 And they journeyed from Beth-el; and there was but [4] a little way to come to Ephrath: and Rachel travailed, and she had hard labour.

17 And it came to pass, when she was in hard labour, that the midwife said unto her, Fear not; [b] thou shalt have this son also.

18 And it came to pass, as her [d] soul was in departing, (for she died,) that she called his name [6] Ben-oni: but his father called him [7] Benjamin.

19 And Rachel died, [e] and was buried in the way to Ephrath, [f] which is Beth-lehem.

20 And Jacob set a pillar upon her grave: that is the pillar of Rachel's grave [b] unto this day.

21 And Israel journeyed, and spread his tent beyond the tower [f] of Edar.

22 And it came to pass, when Israel dwelt in that land, that Reuben [g] went and lay with Bilhah his father's concubine: and Israel heard it. Now the sons of Jacob were twelve: [j]

23 The sons of Leah; Reuben, Jacob's first-born, and Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Issachar, and Zebulun:

24 The sons of Rachel; Joseph, and Benjamin:

25 And the sons of Bilhah, Rachel's handmaid; Dan, and Naphtali:

26 And the sons of Zilpah, Leah's handmaid; Gad, and Asher: these are the sons of Jacob, which were born to him in Padan-aram.

27 And Jacob came unto Isaac his father, unto [n] Mamre, unto the city of Arbah, [o] which is Hebron, where Abraham and Isaac sojourned.

28 And the days of Isaac were an hundred and fourscore years.

29 And Isaac gave up the ghost, and died, and was [q] gathered unto his people, being old and full of days: and his sons Esau [r] and Jacob buried him.

CHAP. XXXVI.

NOW these are the generations of Esau, who is Edom. [s]

2 Esau took his wives of the daughters of Canaan; [t] Adah the daughter of Elon the Hittite, and Aholibamah the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon the Hivite;

3 And Bashemath, Ishmael's daughter, sister of Nebajoth.

4 And Adah bare to Esau, [x] Eliphaz; and Bashemath bare Reuel.

5 And Aholibamah bare Jeush, and Jaalam, and Korah. These are the sons of Esau, which were born unto him in the land of Canaan.

6 And Esau took his wives, and his sons, and his daughters, and all the [3] persons of his house, and his cattle, and all his beasts, and all his substance, which he had got in the land of Canaan; and went into the country, from the face of his brother Jacob:

7 For their riches were more than that they might dwell together; and the land wherein they were strangers could not [4] bear them, because of their cattle.

8 Thus dwelt Esau in mount Seir. [5] Esau is Edom.

9 And these are the generations of Esau the father of [5] the Edomites in mount Seir.

10 These are the names of Esau's sons, Eliphaz the son of Adah the wife of Esau, Reuel the son of Bashemath the wife of Esau

CHAP. XXXVII.

AND Jacob dwelt in the land [5] wherein his father was [e] a stranger, in the land of Canaan.
2 These are the generations of Jacob Joseph being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren; and the lad was with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives: and Joseph brought unto his father their [f] evil report.
3 Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was the [g] son of his old age: and he made him a coat of many [9] colours. [h]
4 And when his brethren saw that their father loved him more than all his brethren, they hated [i] him, and could not speak peaceably unto him.
5 And Joseph dreamed a dream, and he told it his brethren; and they hated him yet the more.
6 And he said unto them, Hear, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed:
7 For, behold, we were binding sheaves in the field, and, lo, my sheaf arose, and also stood upright; and, behold, your sheaves stood round about, and made obeisance [j] to my sheaf.

thou indeed have dominion over us? and they hated him yet the more for his dreams, and for his words.

9 And he dreamed yet another dream, and told it his brethren, and said, Behold I have dreamed a dream more; and, behold, the sun, and the moon, and the eleven stars, made obeisance [c] to me.

10 And he told it to his father, and to his brethren: and his father rebuked him, and said unto him, What is this dream that thou hast dreamed? Shall I and thy mother and thy brethren indeed come to bow down [5] ourselves to thee to the earth?

11 And his brethren envied [h] him; but his father [1] observed the saying.

12 And his brethren went to feed their father's flock in Shechem.

13 And Israel said unto Joseph, Do not thy brethren feed the flock in Shechem? come, and I will [l] send thee unto them. And he said to him, Here am I.

14 And he said to him, Go, I pray thee, see [2] whether it be well with thy brethren, and well with the flocks; and bring me word again. So he sent him out of the vale of [n] Hebron, and he came to Shechem.

15 And a certain man found him, and, behold, he was wandering in the field: and the man asked him, saying, What seekest thou? [p]

16 And he said, I seek my brethren: tell [q] me, I pray thee, where they feed their flocks.

17 And the man said, They are departed hence; for I heard them say, Let us go to Dothan. And Joseph went after his brethren, and found them in [t] Dothan.

18 And when they saw him afar off, even before he came near unto them, they conspired [u] against him to slay him.

19 And they said one to another, Behold, this [3] dreamer cometh.

20 Come now, therefore, and let us slay him, [v] and cast him into some pit; and we will say, Some evil beast hath devoured him: and we shall see what will become of his dreams.

21 And Reuben heard it, and he delivered him out of their hands; and said, Let us not kill him.

22 And Reuben said unto them, Shed no blood, [w] but cast him into this pit that is in the wilderness, and lay no hand upon him; that he might rid him out of their hands, to deliver him to his father again.

23 And it came to pass, when Joseph was come unto his brethren, that they stripped Joseph [x] out of his coat, his coat of many [6] colours [y] that was on him:

24 And they took him, and cast him into a pit: [z] and the pit was empty, there was no water in it.

25 And they sat down to eat [a] bread: and they lifted up their eyes and looked, and, behold, a company of [c] Ishmeelites came from Gilead, with their camels bearing spicery and [a] balm and myrrh, going to carry it down to Egypt.

26 And Judah said unto his brethren What profit is it if we slay our brother and conceal [b] his blood?

27 Come, and let us sell him to the Ishmeelites, and let not our hand [d] be upon him; for he is our brother, and our flesh: And his brethren [1] were content.

28 Then there passed by Midianites, [4] merchantmen; and they drew and lifted up Joseph out of the pit, and sold Joseph [f] to the Ishmeelites for twenty pieces of silver: and they brought Joseph into Egypt.

29 And Reuben returned unto the pit; and behold, Joseph was not in the pit: and he rent [j] his clothes.

30 And he returned unto his brethren, and said, The child [k] is not; and I, whither shall I go?

31 And they took Joseph's coat, [m] and killed a kid of the goats, and dipped the coat in the blood:

32 And they sent the coat of many colours, and they brought it to their father; and said, This have we found: know now whether it be thy son's coat or no.

33 And he knew it, and said, It is my son's coat; an evil beast [o] hath devoured him: Joseph is without doubt rent in pieces.

34 And Jacob rent his clothes, and put sackcloth [r] upon his loins, and mourned for his son many days.

35 And all his sons and all his daughters [s] rose up to comfort him; but he refused to be comforted: and he said, For I will go down into the grave unto my son mourning. Thus his father wept for him.

36 And the Midianites sold him into Egypt, unto Potiphar, an [4] officer of Pharaoh's, and [5] captain of the guard.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

AND it came to pass at that time, that Judah went down from his brethren, and turned into a certain Adullamite whose name was Hirah.

2 And Judah saw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite, whose name was Shuah; and he took her, and went in unto her.

3 And she conceived, and bare a son; and he called his name Er.

4 And she conceived again, and bare a son; and she called his name Onan.

5 And she yet again conceived, and bare a son; and called his name Shelah: and he was at Chezib, when she bare him.

6 And Judah took a wife for Er his firstborn, whose name was Tamar.

7 And Er, Judah's first-born, was wicked in the sight of the LORD; [b] and the LORD slew him.

8 And Judah said unto Onan, Go in unto [a] thy brother's wife, and marry her, and raise up seed to thy brother.

9 And Onan knew that the seed should not be his: and it came to pass, when he went in unto his brother's wife, that he spilled it on the ground, lest that he should give seed to his brother.

10 And the thing which he did [1] displeased the LORD: wherefore he slew him also.

11 Then said Judah to Tamar his daughter-in-law, Remain a widow at thy father's house, till Shelah my son be grown: for he said, Lest peradventure he die also, as his brethren did. And Tamar went and dwelt in her father's house.

12 And [2] in process of time the daughter of Shuah, Judah's wife, died; and Judah was comforted, and went up unto his sheep-shearers to Timnath, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite.

13 And it was told Tamar, saying, Behold, thy father-in-law goeth up [i] to Timnath to shear his sheep.

14 And she put her widow's garments off from her, and covered her with a veil, and wrapped herself, and sat in [3] an open place, [j] which is by the way to Timnath: for she saw that Shelah was grown, and she was not given unto him to wife.

15 When Judah saw her, he thought her to be an harlot; because she had covered her face.

16 And he turned unto her by the way, and said, Go to, I pray thee, let me come in unto thee; (for he knew not that she was his daughter-in-law.) And she said, What wilt thou give me, that thou mayest come in unto me?

17 And he said, I will send thee [6] a kid from the flock. And she said, Wilt thou give me a pledge, till thou send it?

18 And he said, What pledge shall I give thee? And she said, Thy signet, [n] and thy bracelets, and thy staff that is in thine hand: And he gave it her, and came in unto her; and she conceived by him.

19 And she arose, and went away, and laid by her vail from her, and put on the garments [r] of her widowhood.

20 And Judah sent the kid by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive his pledge from the woman's hand; but he found her not.

21 Then he asked the men of that place, saying, Where is the harlot, that was openly [7] by the way-side? And they said, There was no harlot in this place.

22 And he returned to Judah, and said, I cannot find her; and also the men of the place said, that there was no harlot in this place.

23 And Judah said, Let her take it to her, lest we [8] be shamed: [w] behold, I sent this kid, and thou hast not found her.

24 And it came to pass about three months after, that it was told Judah, saying, Tamar thy daughter-in-law hath played the harlot; [b] and also, behold, she is with child by whoredom: And Judah said, Bring her forth, and let her be burnt.[c]

25 When she was brought forth, she sent to her father-in-law, saying, By the man, whose these are, am I with child: and she said, Discern, [d] I pray thee, whose are these, the signet, and bracelets, [e] and staff.

26 And Judah acknowledged them, and said, She hath been more [f] righteous than I; because that I gave her not to [g] Shelah my son. And he knew her again no [h] more.

27 And it came to pass in the time of her travail, that, behold, twins were in her womb.

28 And it came to pass, when she travailed, that the one put out his hand: and the midwife took and bound upon his hand a scarlet thread, saying, This came out first.

29 And it came to pass, as he drew back his hand, that, behold, his brother came out: and she said, [4] How hast thou broken forth? this breach be upon thee: therefore his name was called [5] Pharez. [k]

30 And afterward came out his brother, that had the scarlet thread upon his hand: and his name was called Zarah.

CHAP. XXXIX.

AND Joseph was brought down to Egypt; and Potiphar, [l] an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hands of the Ishmeelites, which had brought him down thither.

2 And the LORD was with [m] Joseph, and he was a prosperous man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian.

3 And his master saw that the LORD was with him, and that the LORD made all that he did to prosper [o] in his hand,

4 And Joseph found grace [p] in his sight, and he served him: and he made him overseer [q] over his house, and all that he had he put into his hand.

5 And it came to pass from the time that he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house [s] for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the LORD was upon all that he had, in the house, [t] and in the field.

6 And he left all that he had in Joseph's hand; and he knew not aught he had, save the bread which he did eat. And Joseph was a goodly [u] person, and well favoured.

7 And it came to pass after these things, that his master's wife cast her eyes [v] upon Joseph; and she said, Lie [x] with me.

8 But he refused, [y] and said unto his master's wife, Behold, my master wotteth not what is with me in the house, and he hath committed all that he hath to my hand;

9 There is none greater in this house than I; neither hath he kept back any thing from me but thee, because thou art his wife: how then can I do this great wickedness, [b] and sin [c] against God?

10 And it came to pass, as she spake to Joseph day by day, [d] that he hearkened not unto her, to lie by her, or to be with her.

11 And it came to pass about this time, that Joseph went into the house to do his business; and there was none of the men of the house there within.

12 And she caught him [f] by his garment, saying, Lie with me: and he left his garment in her hand, and fled, [g] and got him out.

13 And it came to pass, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand, and was fled forth,

14 That she called unto the men of her house, and spake unto them, saying, See, he hath brought in an Hebrew unto us to mock [k] us: he came in unto me to lie with me, and I cried with a [2] loud voice:

15 And it came to pass, when he heard that I lifted up my voice and cried, that he left his garment with me, and fled, and got him out.

16 And she laid up his garment by her, until his lord came home.

17 And she spake unto him [n] according to these words, saying, The Hebrew servant, which thou hast brought unto us, came in unto me to mock me:

18 And it came to pass, as I lifted up my voice, and cried, that he left his garment with me, and fled out.

19 And it came to pass, when his master heard the words of his wife, which she spake unto him, saying, After this manner did thy servant to me, that his wrath [q] was kindled.

20 And Joseph's master took him, and put him into the [r] prison, a place where the king's prisoners were bound: and he was there in the prison.

21 But the LORD was with Joseph, and shewed [5] him mercy, and gave him [t] favour in the sight of the keeper of the prison.

22 And the keeper of the prison committed to Joseph's hand all the prisoners that were in the prison; and whatsoever they did there, he was the doer of it.

23 The keeper of the prison looked not to any thing that was under his hand; because the LORD was with him, and that which he did, the LORD [v] made it to prosper.

CHAP. XL.

AND it came to pass after these things, that the butler [w] of the king of Egypt and his baker had offended their lord the king of Egypt.

2 And Pharaoh was wroth [x] against two of his officers, against the chief of the butlers, and against the chief of the bakers.

3 And he put them in ward in the house of the captain of the guard, into the prison, [a] the place where Joseph was bound.

4 And the captain of the guard charged Joseph with them, and he served them: and they continued a season in ward.

5 And they dreamed a dream both of them, each man his dream [e] in one night, each man according to the interpretation of his dream, the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, which were bound in the prison.

6 And Joseph came in unto them in the morning, and looked upon them, and, behold, they were sad. [h]

7 And he asked Pharaoh's officers that were with him in the ward of his lord' house, saying, Wherefore [1] look ye so sadly [i] to-day?

8 And they said unto him, We have dreamed a dream, and there is no [j] interpreter of it. And Joseph said unto them, Do not interpretations belong [l] to God? tell me them, I pray you.

9 And the chief butler told his dream to Joseph, and said to him, In my dream, [m] behold, a vine was before me;

10 And in the vine were three branches: and it was as though it budded, and her blossoms shot forth; and the clusters thereof brought forth ripe grapes.

11 And Pharaoh's cup was in my hand and I took the grapes, and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup, and I gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand.

12 And Joseph said unto him, This is the interpretation of it: [o] The three branches are three days:

13 Yet within three days shall Pharaoh [3] lift up thine head, [p] and restore thee, unto thy place: and thou shalt deliver Pharaoh's cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou wast his butler.

14 But [4] think on me when it shall be well with thee, and shew kindness, [s] I pray thee unto me; and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me out of this house:

15 For indeed I was stolen away out of the land of the Hebrews; and here also have I done nothing [u] that they should put me into the dungeon.

16 When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said unto Joseph, I also was in my dream, and, behold, I had three [6] white baskets on my head:

17 And in the uppermost basket there was of all manner of [7] bake-meats for Pharaoh; and the birds did eat them out of the basket upon my head.

18 And Joseph answered and said, This is the interpretation thereof: The three baskets [y] are three days:

19 Yet within three [a] days shall Pharaoh [1] lift up thy head from off thee, and shall hang thee on a tree; and the birds shall eat thy flesh [c] from off thee.

20 And it came to pass the third day, which was Pharaoh's birth-day, [e] that he made a feast unto all his servants: and he lifted [3] up the head of the chief butler and of the chief baker among his servants.

21 And he restored the chief butler unto his butlership again; and he gave the cup [g] into Pharaoh's hand:

22 But he hanged the chief baker; as Joseph had interpreted [h] to them.

23 Yet did not the chief butler remember Joseph, but [j] forgat him.

CHAP. XLI.

AND it came to pass, at the end of two full years, that Pharaoh [k] dreamed; and, behold, he stood by the river.

2 And, behold, there came up out of the river seven well-favoured kine, and fat-fleshed; and they fed in a meadow.

3 And, behold, seven other kine came up after them out of the river, ill-favoured and lean-fleshed, and stood by the other kine upon the brink of the river.

4 And the ill-favoured and lean-fleshed kine did eat up the seven well-favoured and fat kine. So Pharaoh awoke.

5 And he slept and dreamed the second time: and, behold, seven ears of corn came up upon one stalk, [6] rank and good.

6 And, behold, seven thin ears, and blasted with the east wind, sprung up after them.

7 And the seven thin ears devoured the seven rank and full ears. And Pharaoh awoke, and, behold, it was a dream.

8 And it came to pass in the morning, that his spirit [n] was troubled; and he sent and called for all [o] the magicians of Egypt, and all the wise men thereof: and Pharaoh told them his dreams; but there was none that could interpret [p] them unto Pharaoh.

9 Then spake the chief butler unto Pharaoh, saying, I do remember my faults this day.

10 Pharaoh was wroth [r] with his servants, and put me in ward in the captain of the guard's house, both me and the chief baker.

11 And we dreamed a dream in one night, I and he; [t] we dreamed each man according to the interpretation of his dream.

12 And there was there with us a young man, an Hebrew, servant to the captain of the guard; and we told him, and he interpreted to us our dreams; to each man according to his dream he did interpret.

13 And it came to pass, as he interpreted to us, so it was; me he restored unto mine office, and him he hanged.

14 Then Pharaoh sent and called Joseph, and they [9] brought him hastily out of the dungeon: And he shaved himself, and changed his raiment, and came in unto Pharaoh.

15 And Pharaoh said unto [d] Joseph, I have dreamed a dream, and there is none that can interpret it: and I have heard say of thee, that [2] thou canst understand [f] a dream to interpret it:

16 And Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, It is not in me: God shall give Pharaoh an answer of peace.

17 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, In my dream, behold, I stood upon the bank of the river: [i]

18 And, behold, there came up out of the river seven kine, fat-fleshed and well favoured; and they fed in a meadow.

19 And, behold, seven other kine came up after them, poor, and very ill-favoured and lean-fleshed, such as I never saw in all the land of Egypt for badness:

20 And the lean and the ill-favoured kine did eat up the first seven fat kine:

21 And when they had [4] eaten them up, it could not be known that they had eaten them; but they were still ill-favoured, as at the beginning. So I awoke.

22 And I saw in my dream, and, behold, seven ears came up in one stalk, full and good:

23 And, behold, seven ears, [5] withered, thin, and blasted with the east wind, sprung up after them:

24 And the thin ears devoured the seven good ears. And I told this unto the [l] magicians; but there was none that could declare it to me.

25 And Joseph said unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is one: God hath shewed Pharaoh what he is about [m] to do.

26 The seven good kine are seven years; and the seven good ears are seven years: the dream is one.

27 And the seven thin and ill-favoured kine, that came up after them, are seven years; and the seven empty ears, blasted with the east-wind, shall be seven [q] years of famine.

28 This is the thing which I have spoken unto Pharaoh: what God is about to do, he sheweth unto Pharaoh.

29 Behold, there come seven [s] years of great plenty throughout all the land of Egypt:

30 And there shall arise after them seven years of famine; [u] and all the plenty shall be forgotten in the land of Egypt; and the famine shall consume [v] the land:

31 And the plenty shall not be known in the land, by reason of that famine following; for it shall be very [7] grievous.

32 And for that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice; [w] it is because the thing is [8] established by God, and God will shortly bring it to pass. [x]

33 Now, therefore, let Pharaoh look out a man discreet and wise, and set him over the land of Egypt.

34 Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint [2] officers over the land, and take up the fifth part of the land of Egypt in the seven plenteous years.[a]

35 And let them gather all the food of those good years that come, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities.

36 And that food shall be for store to the land against the seven years of famine, which shall be in the land of Egypt; that the land [4] perish not through the famine.

37 And the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, [e] and in the eyes of all his servants.

38 And Pharaoh said unto his servants, Can we find such a one as this is? a man in whom [f] the spirit of God is?

39 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, Forasmuch as God hath shewed thee all this, there is none so discreet and wise as thou art:

40 Thou shalt be over my house, [h] and according unto thy word shall all my people [6] be ruled: only in the throne will I be greater than thou.

41 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, See, I have set thee [j] over all the land of Egypt.

42 And Pharaoh took off his ring [k] from his hand, and put it upon Joseph's hand, and arrayed him in vestures of [7] fine linen, and put a gold chain [l] about his neck:

43 And he made him to ride in the second chariot which he had: and they cried before him, [8] [9] Bow the knee: and he made him ruler over all the land [n] of Egypt.

44 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, I am Pharaoh, and without thee shall no man lift up his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt.

45 And Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphnathpaaneah; [10] and he gave him to wife Asenath the daughter of Potiphérah, [11] priest [q] of On. And Joseph went out over all the land of Egypt.

46 And Joseph was thirty years old when he stood before [r] Pharaoh king of Egypt. And Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt.

47 And in the seven plenteous years the earth brought forth by handfuls.

48 And he gathered up all the food of the seven years, which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field which was round about every city laid he up in the same.

49 And Joseph gathered corn as the sand of the sea, [t] very much, until he left numbering: for it was without number.

50 And unto Joseph were born two sons [u] before the years of famine came; which Asenath, the daughter of Potipherah, [13] priest of On, bare unto him.

51 And Joseph called the name of the first-born [1] Manasseh: For God, said he, hath made me forget all my toil, and all my father's house.

52 And the name of the second called he [3] Ephraim: For God hath caused me to be fruitful [b] in the land of my affliction.

53 And the seven years of plenteousness that was in the land of Egypt were ended

54 And the seven years of dearth began to come, according as Joseph had said: [c] and the dearth was in all lands; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread.

55 And when all the land of Egypt was famished, [d] the people cried to Pharaoh for bread: and Pharaoh said unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joseph; what he saith to you, do.

56 And the famine was over all the face of the earth. And Joseph [5] opened all the store-houses, and sold [g] unto the Egyptians; and the famine waxed sore in the land of Egypt.

57 And all countries came into Egypt to Joseph for to buy corn; because that the famine was so sore in all lands.

CHAP. XLII.

NOW when [i] Jacob saw that there was corn in Egypt, Jacob said unto his sons, Why do ye look one upon another?

2 And he said, Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt: get you down thither, and buy for us from thence; that we may [m] live, and not die.

3 And Joseph's ten brethren went down to buy corn in Egypt.

4 But Benjamin, Joseph's brother, Jacob sent not with his brethren: for he said, Lest peradventure mischief [o] befall him.

5 And the sons of Israel came to buy corn among those that came: for the famine was in the land of Canaan.

6 And Joseph was the governor [p] over the land, and he it was that sold to all the people of the land: and Joseph's brethren came, and bowed down themselves before him with their faces to the earth.

7 And Joseph saw his brethren, and he knew them, but made himself strange unto them, and spake [12] roughly unto them; and he said unto them, Whence come ye? And they said, From the land of Canaan, to buy food.

8 And Joseph knew his brethren, but they knew not him.

9 And Joseph remembered the dreams which he dreamed [s] of them, and said unto them, Ye are spies; to see the nakedness of the land ye are come.

10 And they said unto him, Nay, my lord, but to buy food are thy servants come.

11 We are all one man's sons: we are true men; thy servants are not spies.

12 And he said unto them, Nay, but to see the nakedness of the land ye are come.

13 And they said, Thy servants are twelve brethren, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan; and, behold, the youngest is this day with our father, and one [b] is not.

14 And Joseph said unto them, That is it that I spake unto you, saying, Ye are spies:

15 Hereby ye shall be proved; By the life of Pharaoh [c] ye shall not go forth hence, except your youngest brother come hither.

16 Send one of you, and let him fetch your brother, and ye shall be [2] kept in prison, that your words may be proved, whether there be any truth in you: or else, by the life of Pharaoh, surely ye are spies.

17 And he [3] put them all together into ward three days.

18 And Joseph said unto them the third day, This do, and live; for I fear [e] God.

19 If ye be true men, let one of your brethren be bound in the house of your prison: go ye, carry corn for the famine of your houses:

20 But bring [g] your youngest brother unto me; so shall your words be verified, and ye shall not die. And they did so.

21 And they said one to another, We are verily guilty [i] concerning our brother, in that we saw the anguish of his soul, when he besought us, and we would not hear; [k] therefore is this distress come upon us.

22 And Reuben answered them, saying, Spake I not unto you, [l] saying, Do not sin against the child: and ye would not hear? therefore, behold, also his blood is [n] required.

23 And they knew not that Joseph understood them; for [4] he spake unto them by an interpreter.

24 And he turned himself about from them, and wept; and returned to them again, and communed with them, and took from them Simeon, and bound him before their eyes.

25 Then Joseph commanded to fill their sacks with corn, and to restore every man's money into his sack, and to give them provision for the [q] way: and thus did he unto them.

26 And they laded their asses with the corn, and departed thence.

27 And as one of them opened his sack, [r] to give his ass provender in the inn, he espied his money; for, behold, it was in his sack's mouth.

28 And he said unto his brethren, My money is restored; and, lo, it is even in my sack: and their heart failed [7] them, and they were afraid, saying one to another, What is this that God hath done unto us?

29 And they came unto Jacob their father unto the land of Canaan, and told him all that befell unto them, saying,

30 The man, who is the lord of the land, spake [1] roughly [a] to us, and took us for spies of the country.

31 And we said unto him, We are true men; we are no spies:

32 We be twelve brethren, sons of our father: one is not, and the youngest is this day with our father in the land of Canaan

33 And the man, the lord of the country, said unto us, Hereby shall I know that ye are true men: leave one of your brethren here with me, and take food for the famine of your households, and be gone;

34 And bring your youngest brother unto me: then shall I know that ye are no spies, but that ye are true men: so will I deliver you your brother, and ye shall traffic [a] in the land.

35 And it came to pass, as they emptied their sacks, that, behold, every man's bundle of money was in his sack: [f] and when both they and their father saw the bundles of money, they were afraid.

36 And Jacob their father said unto them, Me have ye bereaved [h] of my children: Joseph is not, and Simeon is not, and ye will take Benjamin away: All these things [j] are against me.

37 And Reuben spake unto his father, saying, Slay my two sons, if I bring him not to thee: deliver him into my hand, and I will bring him to thee again.

38 And he said, My son shall not go down with you; for his brother is [m] dead, and he is left alone: if mischief befall him by the way in the which ye go, then shall ye bring down my gray hairs [o] with sorrow to the grave.

CHAP. XLIII.

AND the famine was sore [p] in the land 2 And it came to pass, when they had eaten up the corn which they had brought out of Egypt, their father said unto them, Go again, buy us a little food.

3 And Judah spake unto him, saying, The man [5] did solemnly protest unto us, saying, Ye shall not see my face, except your brother be with you.

4 If thou wilt send our brother with us, we will go down and buy thee food:

5 But if thou wilt not send him, we will not go down: for the man said unto us, Ye shall not see my face, except your brother be with you.

6 And Israel said, Wherefore dealt ye so ill with me, as to tell the man whether ye had yet a brother?

7 And they said, The man [6] asked us straitly of our state, and of our kindred, saying, Is your father yet alive? have ye another brother? and we told him according to the [8] tenor of these words. Could [9] we certainly know that he would say Bring your brother down?

8 And Judah said unto Israel his father, Send the lad with me, and we will arise and go; that we may live, and not die, both we, and thou, and also our little ones.

9 I will be surety [b] for him; of my hand shalt thou require him: if I bring him not unto thee, and set him before thee, then let me bear the blame for ever:

10 For except we had lingered, surely now we had returned [1] this second time.

11 And their father Israel said unto them, If it must be so now, do this; take of the best fruits in the land in your vessels, and carry down the man a present, [e] a little balm, [f] and a little honey, spices and myrrh, nuts and almonds:

12 And take double money in your hand; and the money that was brought again [g] in the mouth of your sacks, carry it again in your hand; peradventure it was an oversight:

13 Take also your brother, and arise, go again unto the man:

14 And God Almighty give you mercy before [k] the man, that he may send away your other brother, and Benjamin. If [4] I be bereaved [l] of my children, I am bereaved.

15 And the men took that present, and they took double money in their hand, and Benjamin; and rose up, and went down to Egypt, and stood before Joseph.

16 And when Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he said to the ruler [m] of his house, Bring these men home, and [5] slay, and make ready; for these men shall dine [6] with me at noon.

17 And the man did as Joseph bade; and the man brought the men into Joseph's house.

18 And the men were afraid, because they were brought into Joseph's house; and they said, Because of the money that was returned in our sacks at the first time are we brought in, that he may [8] seek [q] occasion against us, and fall upon us, and take us for bondmen, and our asses.

19 And they came near to the steward of Joseph's house, and they communed with him at the door of the house,

20 And said, O sir, [10] we came indeed down at the first time to buy food:

21 And it came to pass, when we came to the inn, that we opened our sacks, and, behold, every man's money was in the mouth of his sack, our money in full weight: and we have brought it again in our hand.

22 And other money have we brought down in our hands, to buy food: we cannot tell who put our money in our sacks.

23 And he said, Peace [t] be to you! fear not: your God, and the God of your father, hath given you treasure in your sacks: [11] I had your money. And he brought Simeon out unto them.

24 And the man brought the men into Joseph's house, and gave them [u] water, and they washed their feet; and he gave their asses provender.

25 And they made ready the [a] present against Joseph came at noon: for they heard that they should eat bread there.

26 And when Joseph came home, they brought him the present which was in their hand, into the house, and [c] bowed themselves to him to the earth.

27 And he asked them of their [2] welfare, and said, [3] Is your father well, the old man of whom ye [d] spake? is he yet alive?

28 And they answered, Thy servant our father is in good health, he is yet alive. And they bowed down their heads, and made obeisance.

29 And he lift up his eyes, and saw his brother Benjamin, his [h] mother's son, and said, Is this your younger brother, of whom ye spake unto me? And he said, God be gracious unto thee, my son. [i]

30 And Joseph made haste; for his bowels did yearn [j] upon his brother: and he sought where to weep; and he entered into his chamber, and wept there.

31 And he washed his face, and went out, and refrained himself, and said, Set on bread.

32 And they set on for him by himself, and for them by themselves, and for the Egyptians which did eat with him by themselves: because the Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews; for that is an [n] abomination unto the Egyptians.

33 And they sat before him, the firstborn according to his birth-right, and the youngest according to his youth: and the men marvelled one at another.

34 And he took and sent messes [o] unto them from before him: but Benjamin's mess was five times so much as any of their's. And they drank, and [7] were merry [p] with him.

CHAP. XLIV.

AND he commanded the [9] steward of his house, saying, Fill the men's sacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put every man's money in his sack's mouth:

2 And put my cup, the silver cup, in the sack's mouth of the youngest, and his corn-money. And he did according to the word that Joseph had spoken.

3 As soon as the morning was light, the men were sent away, they and their asses.

4 And when they were gone out of the city, and not yet far off, Joseph said unto his steward, Up, follow after the [r] men; and when thou dost overtake them, say unto them, Wherefore have ye rewarded evil [s] for good?

5 Is not this it in which my lord drinketh, and whereby indeed he [12] divineth? Ye have done evil in so doing.

6 And he overtook them, and he spake unto them these same words.

7 And they said unto him, Wherefore saith my lord these words? God forbid [a] that thy servants should do according to this thing.

8 Behold, the money which we found in our sacks' mouths we brought again unto [d] thee out of the land of Canaan: how then should we steal out of thy lord's house silver or gold?

9 With whomsoever of thy servants it be found, both let him [e] die, and we also will be my lord's bondmen.

10 And he said, Now also let it be according unto your words: he with whom it is found shall be my servant; [h] and ye shall be blameless.

11 Then they speedily took down every man his sack to the ground, and opened every man his sack.

12 And he searched, and began at the eldest, and left at the youngest: and the cup was found in Benjamin's sack.

13 Then they rent their [j] clothes, and laded every man his ass, and returned to the city.

14 And Judah and his brethren came to Joseph's house; for he was yet there; and they fell before him [k] on the ground.

15 And Joseph said unto them, What deed is this that ye have done? Wot ye not, that such a man as I can certainly [1] divine?

16 And Judah said, What shall we say unto my lord? what shall [n] we speak? or how shall we clear ourselves? God hath found out [o] the iniquity of thy servants: behold, we are my lord's servants, both we, and he also with whom the cup is found.

17 And he said, God forbid that I should do [r] so: but the man in whose hand the cup is found, he shall be my servant; and as for you, get ye up in peace unto your father.

18 Then Judah came near unto him, and said, Oh, my lord, let thy servant, I pray thee, speak a word in my lord's ears, and let not thine anger [s] burn against thy servant: for thou art even as Pharaoh.

19 My lord asked his servants, saying, Have ye a father, or a brother?

20 And we said unto my lord, We have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, a little one: and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father [v] loveth him.

21 And thou saidst unto thy servants, Bring him down unto me, [x] that I may set mine eyes upon him.

22 And we said unto my lord, The lad cannot leave his father: for if he should leave his father, his father would die.

23 And thou saidst unto thy servants, Except your youngest brother come down with you, ye shall see my face no more.

24 And it came to pass, when we came up unto thy servant my father, we told him the words of my lord.

25 And our father said, Go again, [b] and buy us a little food.

26 And we said, We cannot go down: [e] if our youngest brother be with us, then will we go down: for we may not see the man's face, except our youngest brother be with us.

27 And thy servant my father said unto us, Ye know that my wife bare me two [f] sons:

28 And the one went out from me, and I said, Surely he is [g] torn in pieces; and I saw him not since:

29 And if ye take this also from me, and mischief befall him, ye shall bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to the grave.

30 Now, therefore, when I come to thy servant my father, and the lad be not with us; seeing that his life is [i] bound up in the lad's life;

31 It shall come to pass, when he seeth that the lad is not with us, that he will die: and thy servants shall bring down the gray hairs of thy servant our father with sorrow to the grave.

32 For thy servant became surety [l] for the lad unto my father, saying, If I bring him not unto thee, then I shall bear the blame to my father for ever.

33 Now therefore, I pray thee, let thy servant abide instead of the lad, [m] a bondman to my lord; and let the lad go up with his brethren.

34 For how shall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me? lest peradventure I see the evil [p] that shall come [2] on [q] my father.

CHAP. XLV.

THEN Joseph could not refrain himself before all them that stood by him; and he cried, Cause every man to go out from me. And there stood no [n] an with him, while Joseph made himself known unto his brethren.

2 And he [3] wept aloud: [t] and the Egyptians and the house of Pharaoh heard.

3 And Joseph said unto his brethren, I am Joseph: doth my father yet live? And his brethren could not answer him: for they were [4] troubled [u] at his presence.

4 And Joseph said unto his brethren, Come near to me, I pray you: And they came near. And he said, I am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold [w] into Egypt.

5 Now therefore be not [y] grieved, [5] nor angry with yourselves, that ye sold me hither; for God did send me [z] before you, to preserve life.

6 For these two years [a] hath the famine been in the land; and yet there are five years, in the which there shall neither be earing [b] nor harvest.

preserve you a posterity in the earth, and to save your lives by a great [a] deliverance.

8 So now it was not you that sent me hither, but [b] God: and he hath made me a father [c] to Pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt.

9 Haste ye, and go up to my father, and say unto him, Thus saith thy son Joseph, God hath made me lord of all Egypt: come down unto me, tarry not.

10 And thou shalt dwell in the land of Goshen, [e] and thou shalt be near unto me, thou, and thy children, and thy children's children, and thy flocks, and thy herds, and all that thou hast:

11 And there will I nourish thee, (for yet there are five years of famine,) lest thou, and thy household, and all that thou hast, come to poverty.

12 And, behold, your eyes see, [i] and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth that speaketh unto you.

13 And ye shall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that ye have seen; and ye shall haste, and bring down [m] my father hither.

14 And he fell upon his brother Benjamin's neck, [n] and wept; and Benjamin wept upon his neck.

15 Moreover, he kissed all his brethren, and wept upon them: and after that, his brethren talked with him.

16 And the fame thereof was heard in Pharaoh's house, saying, Joseph's brethren are come: And it [2] pleased Pharaoh well, and his servants.

17 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, Say unto thy brethren, This do ye: lade your beasts, and go, get you unto the land of Canaan;

18 And take your father, and your households, and come unto me: and I will give you the good of the land of Egypt, and ye shall eat [s] the fat of the land.

19 Now thou art commanded, this do ye; take you waggons out of the land of Egypt for your little ones, and for your wives, and bring your father, and come.

20 Also [3] regard not your stuff: for the good of all the land of Egypt is your's.

21 And the children of Israel did so: and Joseph gave them waggons, according to the [3] commandment [u] of Pharaoh, and gave them provision for the way.

22 To all of them he gave each man changes of raiment; but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver, and five [w] changes of raiment.

23 And to his father he sent after this manner; ten asses [10] laden with the good things of Egypt, and ten she-asses laden with corn and bread and meat for his father by the way.

24 So he sent his brethren away, and they departed: and he said unto them, See that ye fall not out by the way.

25 And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan unto Jacob their father, 26 And told him, saying, Joseph is yet alive, and he is governor over all the land of Egypt. And [1] Jacob's heart fainted, for he believed [d] them not.

27 And they told him all the words of Joseph, which he had said unto them: and when he saw the waggons which Joseph had sent to carry him, the spirit of Jacob their father revived: [f]

28 And Israel said, It is enough: Joseph my son is yet alive: I will go and see him before I die.

CHAP. XLVI.

AND Israel took his journey with all that he had, and came to [g] Beer-sheba, and offered sacrifices unto the God [h] of his father Isaac.

2 And God spake unto Israel [j] in the visions of the night, and said, Jacob, Jacob. [k] And he said, Here am I.

3 And he said, I am God, the God of thy father: fear not to go down into Egypt; for I will there [l] make of thee a great nation.

4 I will go down with thee into Egypt; and I will also surely bring thee up [o] again: and Joseph shall put his hand [p] upon thine eyes.

5 And Jacob rose up from Beer-sheba: and the sons of Israel carried Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives, in the waggons which Pharaoh had sent [q] to carry him.

6 And they took their cattle, and their goods, which they had gotten in the land of Canaan, and came into Egypt, [r] Jacob, and all his seed with him.

7 His sons, and his sons' sons with him, his daughters, and his sons' daughters, and all his seed brought he with him into Egypt.

8 And these are the names of the children of Israel [t] which came into Egypt: Jacob and his sons: Reuben, Jacob's first-born.

9 And the sons of Reuben; Hanoch, and Phallu, and Hezron, and Carmi.

10 And the sons of Simeon; [4] Jemuel, and Jamin, and Ohad, and [5] Jachin, and [6] Zohar; and Shaul, the son of a Canaanitish woman.

11 And the sons of Levi; [7] Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

12 And the sons of Judah; Er, and Onan, and Shelah, and Pharez, and Zarah: but Er and Onan died [v] in the land of Canaan. And the sons of Pharez were Hezron and Hamul.

13 And the sons of Issachar; Tola, and Phuvah, [9] and Job, and Shimron.

14 And the sons of Zebulun; Sered, and Elon, and Jahleel.

CHAP. XLVII.

THEN Joseph came and told [b] Pharaoh, and said, My father, and my brethren, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan; and, behold, they are in the [d] land of Goshen.

2 And he took some of his brethren, even five men, [e] and presented them unto Pharaoh.

3 And Pharaoh said unto his brethren, What is your occupation? [g] And they said unto Pharaoh, Thy servants are shepherds, [h] both we, and also our fathers.

4 They said moreover unto Pharaoh, For to sojourn [i] in the land are we come: for thy servants have no pasture for their flocks; for the famine is sore in the land of Canaan: now therefore, we pray thee, let thy servants dwell in the land of Goshen.

5 And Pharaoh spake unto Joseph, saying, Thy father and thy brethren are come unto thee:

6 The land of Egypt is before thee: in the best of the land make thy father and brethren to dwell; in the land of Goshen let them dwell: and if thou knowest any men of activity among them, then make them rulers over [k] my cattle.

7 And Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and set him before Pharaoh: and Jacob blessed [l] Pharaoh.

8 And Pharaoh said unto Jacob, How old [10] art thou?

9 And Jacob said unto Pharaoh, The days of the years of my pilgrimage are an hundred and thirty years: few and evil have the days of the years of my life been, and [p] have not attained unto the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage.

10 And Jacob blessed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

11 And Joseph placed his father and his brethren, and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of Rameses, as [s] Pharaoh had commanded.

12 And Joseph nourished his father, and his brethren, and all his father's household, with bread, [11] according to their families.

13 And [t] there was no bread in all the land: for the famine was very sore, so that the land of Egypt, and all the land of Canaan, fainted by reason of the famine of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came unto Joseph, and said, Give us bread: for why should we die in thy presence? for the money faileth.

14 And Joseph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought: and Joseph brought the money into Pharaoh's house.

16 And Joseph said, Give your cattle; and I will give you for your cattle, if money fail.

17 And they brought their cattle unto Joseph: and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for horses, and for the flocks and for the cattle of the herds, and for the asses; and he fed [1] them with bread for all their cattle for that year.

18 When that year was ended, they came unto him the second year, and said unto him, We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money is spent; my lord also hath our herds of cattle: there is not aught left in the sight of my lord, but our bodies and our lands:

19 Wherefore shall we die before thine eyes, both we and our land? buy us [d] and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants unto Pharaoh; and give us seed, that we may live and not die, that the land be not desolate.

20 And Joseph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians sold every man his field, because the famine prevailed over them; so the land became Pharaoh's.

21 And as for the people, he removed them to cities from one end of the borders of Egypt even to the other end thereof.

22 Only the land of the [2] priests bought he not; for the priests had a portion assigned them of Pharaoh, and did eat their portion which Pharaoh gave them; wherefore they sold not their lands.

23 Then Joseph said unto the people, Behold, I have bought you this day, and your land, for Pharaoh: lo, here is seed for you, and ye shall sow the land.

24 And it shall come to pass, in the increase, that ye shall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh; and four parts shall be your own, for seed of the field, and for your food, and for them of your households, and for food for your little ones.

25 And they said, Thou hast saved our lives; let us find grace in the sight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh's servants.

26 And Joseph made it a law over the land of Egypt unto this day, that Pharaoh should have the fifth part, [l] except the land of the [4] priests only, which became not Pharaoh's.

27 And Israel dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the country of Goshen; and they had possessions therein, and grew, and multiplied [p] exceedingly.

28 And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt seventeen years: so the [5] whole age of Jacob was an hundred forty and seven years.

29 And the time [q] drew nigh that Israel must die: and he called his son Joseph, 31 And he said, Swear unto me. And he sware unto him. And Israel [c] bowed himself upon the bed's head.

CHAP. XLVIII.

AND it came to pass, after these things, that one told Joseph, Behold, thy father is sick: and he took with him his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim.

2 And one told Jacob, and said, Behold, thy son Joseph cometh unto thee: And Israel strengthened himself, and sat upon the bed.

3 And Jacob said unto Joseph, God Almighty appeared [e] unto me at Luz in the land of Canaan, and blessed me,

4 And said unto me, Behold, I will make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, and I will make of thee a multitude of people; and will give this land to thy seed after thee, for [f] an everlasting possession.

5 And now thy two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, which [g] were born unto thee in the land of Egypt, before I came unto thee into Egypt, are mine: as Reuben and Simeon, they shall be mine.

6 And thy issue, which thou begettest after them, shall be thine, and [h] shall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritance.

7 And as for me, when I came from Padan, Rachel [i] died by me in the land of Canaan, in the way, when yet there was but a little way to come unto Ephrath: and I buried her there in the way of Ephrath; the same is Beth-lehem.

8 And Israel beheld Joseph's sons and said, Who are these?

9 And Joseph said unto his father, They are my sons, whom God hath given [j] me in this place. And he said, Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, and I will bless [k] them.

10 (Now the eyes of Israel were [3] dim for age, so that he could not see.) And he brought them near unto him; and he kissed them, and embraced them.

11 And Israel said unto Joseph, I [m] had not thought to see thy face; and, lo, God [n] hath shewed me also thy seed.

12 And Joseph brought them out from between his knees, and he bowed [o] himself with his face to the earth.

14 And Israel stretched out his righ hand, and laid it upon Ephraim's head, who was the younger, and his left hand upon Manasseh's head, guiding his hands wittingly; [c] for Manasseh was the first-born.

15 And he blessed Joseph, and said, God, before whom [e] my fathers Abraham and Isaac did walk, the God which [f] fed me all my life long, unto this day.

16 The angel [h] which redeemed [i] me from all evil, bless the lads; and let my name be named on them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac; and let them [l] grow into a multitude [o] in the midst of the earth.

17 And when Joseph saw that his father laid his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, it displeased him; and he held up his father's hand, to remove it from Ephraim's head unto Manasseh's head.

18 And Joseph said unto his father, Not so, my father: for this is the first-born; put thy right hand upon his head.

19 And his father refused, and said, I know it, my son, I know it: he also shall become a people, and he also shall be great; but [t] truly his younger [u] brother shall be greater than he, and his seed shall become a multitude [2] of nations.

20 And he blessed them that day, saying, In thee [w] shall Israel bless, saying, God make thee as Ephraim, and as Manasseh: and he set Ephraim before Manasseh.

21 And Israel said unto Joseph, Behold, I die; but [x] God shall be with you, and bring you again unto the land of your fathers.

22 Moreover, I have given to thee one portion above [z] thy brethren, which I took out of the hand of the Amorite with my sword and with my bow.

CHAP. XLIX.

AND [b] Jacob called unto his sons, and said, Gather yourselves together, that I may tell you that [c] which shall befall you in the last days.[d]

2 Gather yourselves together, and hear, ye sons of Jacob; and hearken unto Israel your father.

3 Reuben, thou art my first-born, my might, and the beginning [g] of my strength, the excellency of dignity, and the excellency of power.

4 Unstable as water, [5] thou shalt not excel; because [k] thou wentest up to thy father's bed; then defiledst thou it; [6] he went up to my couch.

5 Simeon [m] and Levi are brethren; [7] instruments of cruelty [n] are in their habitations.

6 O [o] my soul, come not thou into their secret; unto their assembly, mine honour, be not thou united: for in their anger they slew a man, and in their self-will they [8] digged down a wall.

7 Cursed be their anger, for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel: I will divide [q] them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israel.

8 Judah, thou [b] art he whom thy brethren shall praise; thy hand shall be in the neck of thine enemies: thy father's children shall bow down [d] before thee.

9 Judah is a lion's whelp; from the prey, my son, thou art gone up: he stooped down, he couched as a lion, [s] and as an old lion; who shall rouse him up?

10 The sceptre [j] shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver [k] from [l] between his feet, until Shiloh [m] come; and unto him [n] shall the gathering of the people be:

11 Binding his foal unto the vine, and his ass's colt [p] unto the choice vine; he washed his garments in wine, [q] and his clothes in the blood of grapes:

12 His [r] eyes shall be red with wine, and his teeth white with milk.

13 Zebulun [t] shall dwell at the haven of the sea; and he shall be for an haven of ships: and his border shall be unto Zidon.

14 Issachar is a strong ass, couching down between two burdens:

15 And he saw that rest was good, and the land that it was pleasant; and bowed his shoulder to bear, and became a servant unto tribute.

16 Dan [v] shall judge his people, as one of the tribes of Israel.

17 Dan shall be a serpent by the way, an [3] adder in the path, that biteth the horseheels, so that his rider shall fall backward.

18 I [y] have waited for thy salvation, O LORD!

19 Gad, a troop shall overcome him; but he [a] shall overcome at the last.

20 Out of Asher his bread shall be fat, and he shall yield royal dainties.

21 Naphtali is a hind let loose: he giveth goodly words.

22 Joseph is a fruitful bough, even a fruitful bough by a well, whose [4] branches run over the wall.

23 The [e] archers have sorely grieved him, and shot at him, and hated him:

24 But his bow [f] abode in strength, and the arms [h] of his hands were made strong by the hands of the mighty God of Jacob; (from thence is the Shepherd, [i] the stone [j] of Israel:)

25 Even by the God of thy father, [l] who shall help thee; and by the Almighty, who shall bless thee with blessings of heaven above, blessings of the deep that lieth under, blessings of the breasts and of the womb:

26 The blessings of thy father have prevailed above the blessings of my progenitors, unto [p] the utmost bound of the everlasting hills: [q] they shall be on the head of Joseph, and on the crown of the head of him that was separate [r] from his brethren.

27 Benjamin shall ravin [a] as a wolf; in the morning he shall devour the prey, and at night he shall divide the spoil. [c]

28 All these are the twelve tribes of Israel: and this is it that their fathers spake unto them, and blessed them; every one according [d] to his blessing he blessed them.

29 And he charged them, and said unto them, I am to be gathered unto my people: bury me with my fathers [f] in the cave that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite:

30 In the cave [g] that is in the field of Machpelah, which is before Mamre, in the land of Canaan, which Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hittite for a possession of a burying-place.

31 There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife; there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife; and there I buried Leah.

32 The purchase of the field and of the cave that is therein was from the children of Heth.

33 And when Jacob had made an end of commanding his sons, he gathered up his feet into the bed, and yielded up the [j] ghost, and was gathered [k] unto his people.

CHAP. L.

AND Joseph fell upon his father's face, and wept upon him, and kissed him.

2 And Joseph commanded his servants the physicians to [m] embalm his father: and the physicians embalmed Israel.

3 And forty days were fulfilled for him; for so are fulfilled the days of those which are embalmed; and the [3] Egyptians mourned for him [n] threescore and ten days.

4 And when the days of his mourning were past, Joseph spake unto the house of Pharaoh, saying, If now I have found grace in your eyes, speak, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, saying,

5 My father made me swear, [r] saying, Lo, I die: in my grave which I [t] have digged for me in the land of Canaan, there shalt thou bury me. Now therefore let me go up, I pray thee, and bury my father, and I will come again.

6 And Pharaoh said, Go up and bury thy father, according as he made thee swear.

7 And Joseph went up to bury his father: and with him went up all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt,

8 And all the house of Joseph, and his brethren, and his father's house: only their little ones, [z] and their flocks, and their herds, they left in the land of Goshen.

9 And there went up with him both chariots and horsemen; and it was a very great company.

10 And they came to the threshing-floor of Atad, which is beyond Jordan, and there they mourned with a great and very sore lamentation: and he made a mourning [b] for his father seven days.

11 And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning in the floor of Atad, they said, This is a grievous mourning to the Egyptians: wherefore the name of it was called [1] Abelmizraim, which is beyond Jordan.

12 And his sons did unto him according as he commanded [e] them:

13 For his sons carried him into the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah, which Abraham bought [h] with the field for a possession of a burying-place of Ephron the Hittite, before Mamre.

14 And Joseph returned into Egypt, he, and his brethren, and all that went up with him to bury his father, after he had buried his father.

15 And when Joseph's brethren saw that their father [i] was dead, they said, Joseph will peradventure hate us, and will certainly requite us all the evil which we did unto him.

16 And they [2] sent a messenger unto Joseph, saying, Thy father did command before he died, saying,

17 So shall ye say unto Joseph, Forgive, I pray thee [l] now, the trespass of thy brethren, and their sin; for they did unto thee evil: and now, we pray thee, forgive the trespass of the servants of the God of thy father. And Joseph wept when they spake unto him.

18 And his brethren also went and fell down before his face; and they said, Behold, we be thy servants.

19 And Joseph said unto them, Fear not: for am I in the place [o] of God?

20 But as for you, ye thought [p] evil against me; but God meant [q] it unto good, to bring to pass, as it is this day, to save much people alive.

21 Now therefore fear ye not: I will nourish you, [4] and your little ones. And he comforted them, and spake [4] kindly unto them.

22 And Joseph dwelt in Egypt, he, and his father's house: and Joseph lived an hundred and ten years.

23 And Joseph saw Ephraim's [u] children of the third generation: the children also of Machir [v] the son of Manasseh were [5] brought up upon Joseph's knees.

24 And Joseph said unto his brethren, I die: and God will surely visit you, [w] and bring you out of this land unto the land which he sware to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

25 And Joseph took an oath [y] of the children of Israel, saying, God will surely visit you, and ye shall carry up my bones from hence.

26 So Joseph died, being an hundred and ten years old; and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt

The Second Book of MOSES, called EXODUS.

CHAP. I.

B. C. 1795.

NOW these are the names of the children of Israel, which came into [a] Egypt; every man and his household came with Jacob.

2 Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah,

3 Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin,

4 Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

5 And all the souls that came out of the loins [1] of Jacob were seventy [d] souls: for Joseph was in Egypt already.

6 And Joseph died, [e] and all his brethren, and all that generation.

7 And the children of Israel were fruitful, and increased abundantly, [g] and multiplied, and waxed exceedingly mighty; and the land was filled with them.

8 Now there arose up a new king over Egypt, which knew [h] not Joseph.

9 And he said unto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we:

10 Come on, let us deal wisely [j] with them; lest they multiply, and it come to pass, that, when there falleth out any war, they join also unto our enemies, and fight against us, and so get them up out of the land.

11 Therefore they did set over them task-masters, to afflict them [k] with their burdens. And they built for Pharaoh treasure-cities, Pithom and [l] Raamses.

12 [2] But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were grieved because of the children of Israel.

13 And the Egyptians made the children of Israel to serve with rigour:

14 And they made their lives [n] bitter with hard bondage, in mortar, and in brick, [o] and in all manner of service in the field: all their service, wherein they made them serve, was with rigour. [p]

15 And the king of Egypt spake to the Hebrew midwives; of which the name of the one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah;

16 And he said, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and see them upon the stools, if it be a son, then ye shall kill him: but if it be a daughter, then she shall live.

17 But the midwives feared [r] God, and did not as the king of Egypt commanded them, but saved the men-children alive.

18 And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and said unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have saved the men-children alive?

19 And the midwives said unto [t] Pharaoh, Because the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women; for they are lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them.

20 Therefore God dealt well [b] with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty.

21 And it came to pass, because the midwives feared God, that he [c] made them houses.

22 And Pharaoh charged all his people, saying, Every son that is born ye shall cast into the river, and every daughter ye shall save alive.

CHAP. II.

AND there went a man [f] of the house of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi

2 And the woman conceived, and bare a son; and when she saw him that he was a goodly child, she hid [i] him three months?

3 And when she could not longer hide him, she took for him an ark of bulrushes, and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and she laid it in the flags by the river's brink.

4 And his sister stood afar off, to wit what would be done to him.

5 And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to wash herself at the river; and her maidens walked along by the river's side; and when she saw the ark among the flags, she sent her maid to fetch it.

6 And when she had opened it, she saw the child: and, behold, the babe wept. And she had compassion [m] on him, and said, This is one of the Hebrews' children.

7 Then said his sister to Pharaoh's daughter, Shall I go and call to thee a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for thee?

8 And Pharaoh's daughter said to her, Go. And the maid went and called the child's mother.

9 And Pharaoh's daughter said unto her, Take this child away, and nurse it for me, [q] and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nursed it

10 And the child grew, and she brought him unto Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. And she called his name Moses: [3] and she said, Because I drew him out of the water

11 And it came to pass in those days, when Moses was grown, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdens: [s] and he spied an Egyptian smiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren

12 And he looked this way and that way, and, when he saw that there was no man, he slew the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand.

13 And when he went out the second day, behold, two men of the Hebrews strove together: and he said unto him that did the wrong, Wherefore smitest thou thy fellow?

14 And he said, Who made thee a prince [1] and a judge over us? intendest thou to kill me, as thou killedst the Egyptian? And Moses feared, and said, Surely this thing is known.

15 Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he sought to slay Moses. But Moses fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian: and he sat down by a well.

16 Now the priest of [2] Midian had seven daughters: and they came and [f] drew water, and filled the troughs to water their father's flock.

17 And the shepherds came and drove them away: but Moses stood up and helped them, and watered their flock.

18 And when they came to [3] Reuel their father, he said, How is it that ye are come so soon to-day?

19 And they said, An Egyptian delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds, and also drew water enough for us, and watered the flock.

20 And he said unto his daughters, And where is he? why is it that ye have left the man? call him, that he may [j] eat bread.

21 And Moses was content [l] to dwell with the man: and he gave Moses [m] Zipporah his daughter.

22 And she bare him a son, and he called his name Gershom: [4] for he said, I have been a stranger in a strange land.

23 And it came to pass, in process of time, that the king of Egypt died: and the children of Israel [o] sighed by reason of the bondage, and they cried; and their cry came up unto God, [p] by reason of the bondage.

24 And God heard their groaning, and God remembered his covenant [q] with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob.

25 And God looked upon the children of Israel, and God [5] had respect unto them.

CHAP. III.

NOW Moses kept the flock of Jethro his father-in-law, the priest of Midian: and he led the flock to the back side of the desert, and came to the mountain of God, [s] even to Horeb.

2 And the angel of the LORD appeared unto him in [u] flame of fire, out of the midst of a bush: [t] and he looked, and, behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed.

3 And Moses said, I will now turn aside, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt.

4 And when the LORD saw that he turned aside to see, God called unto him out of the midst of the bush, and said, [x] Moses, Moses. And he said, Here am I.

5 And he said, Draw not nigh hither: put off thy shoes [y] from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.

6 Moreover he said, [z] I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face; for he was afraid [a] to look upon God.

7 And the LORD said, I have surely seen the affliction of my people [b] which are in Egypt, and have heard their [c] cry by reason of their task-masters; for I know [d] their sorrows;

8 And I am come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, [e] and to bring them up out of that land unto a good land [g] and a large, unto a land [h] flowing with milk and honey; unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites.

9 Now therefore, behold, the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me: and I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them.

10 Come now, therefore, and I will send [i] thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people, the children of Israel, out of Egypt.

11 And Moses said unto God, Who am I, [k] that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel, out of Egypt?

12 And he said, Certainly I will be with [n] thee: and this shall be a token unto thee, that I have sent thee; When thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall serve God upon this mountain.

13 And Moses said unto God, Behold, when I come unto the children of Israel, and shall say unto them, The God of your fathers hath sent me unto you; and they shall say to me, What is his name? what shall I say unto them?

14 And God said unto Moses, I AM THAT I AM: [r] and he said, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, I AM hath sent me unto you.

15 And God said, moreover, unto Moses, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you: this is my name for ever, and this is my memorial [v] unto all generations.

16 Go, and gather the elders of Israel together, and say unto them, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, appeared unto me, saying, I have surely visited [w] you, and seen that which is done to you in Egypt:

17 And I have said, I will bring [w] you up out of the affliction of Egypt unto the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, unto a land flowing with milk and honey.

18 And they shall hearken to thy voice and thou shalt come, thou and the elders of Israel, unto the king of Egypt; and ye shall say unto him, The LORD God of the Hebrews hath [a] met with us: and now let us go, we beseech thee, three days' journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God.

19 And I am sure that the king of Egypt will not let you [c] go, [1] no, not by a mighty hand.

20 And I will stretch out my hand, and smite Egypt with all my [e] wonders which I will do in the midst thereof: and after that [f] he will let you go.

21 And I will give this people [g] favour in the sight of the Egyptians: and it shall come to pass, that, when ye go, ye shall not go empty;

22 But every woman shall borrow [h] of her neighbour, and of her that sojourneth in her house, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment: and ye shall put them upon your sons, and upon your daughters; and ye shall [k] spoil the [3] Egyptians.

CHAP. IV.

AND Moses answered and said, But, behold, they will not believe me, nor hearken unto my voice: for they will say, The LORD hath not appeared unto thee.

2 And the LORD said unto him, What is that in thine hand? And he said, A rod.

3 And he said, Cast it on the ground. And he cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent; and Moses fled from before it.

4 And the LORD said unto Moses, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the tail. And he put forth his hand, and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand:

5 That they may [o] believe that the LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath appeared unto thee.

6 And the LORD said furthermore unto him, Put now thine hand into thy bosom. And he put his hand into his bosom; and when he took it out, behold, his hand was leprous [r] as snow.

7 And he said, Put thine hand into thy bosom again. And he put his hand into his bosom again, and plucked it out of his bosom; and, behold, it was [u] turned again as his other flesh.

8 And it shall come to pass, if they will not believe thee, neither hearken to the voice of the first sign, that they will believe the voice of the latter sign.

9 And it shall come to pass, if they will not believe also these two signs, neither hearken unto thy voice, that thou shalt take of the water of the river, and pour it upon the dry land: and the water, which thou takest out of the river [7] shall become [s] blood upon the dry land.

10 And Moses said unto the LORD, O my Lord, I am not [8] eloquent, neither heretofore, [9] nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant: but I am slow of speech, and of a slow tongue.

11 And the LORD said unto him, Who hath made man's mouth? [b] or who maketh the dumb, or deaf, or the seeing, or the blind? have not I the LORD?

12 Now therefore go, and I will be with thy mouth, and teach thee what [d] thou shalt say.

13 And he said, O my Lord, send, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou [2] wilt send.

14 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Moses; and he said, Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that he can speak well. And also, behold, he cometh forth to meet thee; and when he seeth thee, [i] he will be glad in his heart.

15 And thou shalt speak unto him, and put words [j] in his mouth: and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and will teach you what ye shall do.

16 And he shall be thy spokesman unto the people: and he shall be, even he shall be to thee instead of a mouth, and thou shalt be to him instead [l] of God.

17 And thou shalt take this rod [m] in thine hand, wherewith thou shalt do signs.

18 And Moses went, and returned to [4] Jethro his father-in-law, and said unto him, Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren which are in Egypt, and see whether they be yet alive. And Jethro said to Moses, Go in peace.

19 And the LORD said unto Moses in Midian, Go, return into Egypt: for all the men [n] are dead, which sought thy life.

20 And Moses took his wife and his sons, and set them upon an ass, and he returned to the land of Egypt: and Moses took the rod [p] of God in his hand.

21 And the LORD said unto Moses, When thou goest to return into Egypt, see that thou do all those [q] wonders before Pharaoh, which I have put in thine hand: but I will harden [s] his heart, that he shall not let the people go.

22 And thou shalt say unto Pharaoh, Thus saith the LORD, Israel is my son, [t] even my first-born:

23 And I say unto thee, Let my son go, that he may serve me: and if thou refuse to let him go, behold, I will slay [v] thy son, even thy first-born.

24 And it came to pass, by the way in the inn, that the LORD [w] met him, and sought to [x] kill him.

25 Then Zipporah took a sharp [5] stone, and [y] cut off the foreskin of her son, and cast [6] it at his feet, and said, Surely a bloody husband art thou to me.

26 So he let him go: then she said, A bloody husband thou art, because of the circumcision.

27 And the LORD said to Aaron, Go-into the wilderness to meet Moses. And he went, and met him in the mount [a] of God, and kissed him. B. C. 1491.

28 And Moses told Aaron all the words of the LORD who had sent him, and all the signs which he had commanded him.

29 And Moses and Aaron went and gathered together all the elders of the children of Israel:

30 And Aaron spake [b] all the words which the LORD had spoken unto Moses, and did the signs in the sight of the people.

31 And the people believed: [c] and when they heard that the LORD had visited the children of Israel, and that he had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads [d] and worshipped.

CHAP. V.

AND afterward Moses and Aaron went in, and told Pharaoh, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Let my people go, that they may hold a feast [f] unto me in the wilderness.

2 And Pharaoh said, [g] Who is the LORD, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? I know not the LORD, neither will I let Israel go.

3 And they said, The God of the [h] Hebrews hath met with us: let us go, we pray thee, three days' journey into the desert, and sacrifice unto the LORD our God; lest he fall upon us with pestilence, [j] or with the sword.

4 And the king of Egypt said unto them, Wherefore do ye, Moses and Aaron, let the people from their works? get you unto your burdens.

5 And Pharaoh said, Behold, the people of the land now are many, and ye make them rest from their burdens.

6 And Pharaoh commanded the same day the task-masters of the people, and their officers, saying,

7 Ye shall no more give the people straw to make brick, as heretofore: let them go and gather straw for themselves.

8 And the tale of the bricks, which they did make heretofore, ye shall lay [o] upon them; ye shall not diminish aught thereof: for they be idle; therefore they cry, saying, Let us go and sacrifice to our God.

9 Let [4] there more work be laid upon the men, that they may labour therein; and let them not regard vain [r] words.

10 And the task-masters of the people went out, and their officers, and they spake to the people, saying, Thus saith Pharaoh, I will not give you straw.

11 Go ye, get you straw where ye can find it: yet not aught of your work shall be diminished.

12 So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt, to gather stubble instead of straw.

13 And the task-masters hasted them, saying, Fulfil your works, your [5] daily tasks, as when there was straw.

14 And the officers of the children of Israel, which Pharaoh's task-masters had set over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick, both yesterday and to-day, as heretofore?

15 Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore dealest thou thus with thy servants?

16 There is no straw given unto thy servants, and they say to us, Make brick: and, behold, thy servants, are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people.

17 But he said, Ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye say, Let us go and do sacrifice to the LORD.

18 Go therefore now, and work; for there shall no straw be given you, yet shall ye deliver the tale of bricks.

19 And the officers of the children of Israel did see that they were in evil [e] case, after it was said, Ye shall not minish aught from your bricks of your daily task.

20 And they met Moses and Aaron, who stood in the way, as they came forth from Pharaoh;

21 And they said unto them, The LORD look upon you, and judge; because ye have made our savour [1] to be abhorred [k] in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to slay us.

22 And Moses returned unto the LORD, and said, Lord, wherefore hast thou so evil-entreated [k] this people? why is it that thou hast sent me?

23 For since I came to Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he hath done evil to this people; [2] neither hast thou delivered thy people at all.

CHAP. VI.

THEN the LORD said unto Moses, Now shalt thou see what [l] I will do to Pharaoh: for with a strong hand [m] shall he let them go, and with a strong hand shall he drive them [n] out of his land.

2 And God spake unto Moses, and said unto him, I am the [3] LORD:

3 And I appeared unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, by the name of God [p] Almighty; but by my name [q] JEHOVAH was I not known to them.

4 And I have also established my covenant [s] with them, to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they were strangers.

5 And I have also heard the [t] groaning of the children of Israel, whom the Egyptians keep in bondage; and I have [u] remembered my covenant.

6 Wherefore say unto the children of Israel, I am the LORD, and I will bring you out [v] from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will rid you out of their bondage; and I will [w] redeem you with a

7 And I will take you to me [a] for a people, and I will be to you a God: and ye shall know that I am the LORD your God, which bringeth you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians.

8 And I will bring you in unto the land, concerning the which I did [1] swear to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob; and I will give it you for an heritage: I am the LORD.

9 And Moses spake so unto the children of Israel: but they hearkened not [c] unto Moses for [2] anguish of spirit, and for cruel bondage.

10 And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

11 Go in, speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, that he let the children of Israel go out of his land.

12 And Moses spake before the LORD, saying, Behold, the children of Israel have [g] not hearkened unto me; how then shall Pharaoh hear me, who am of [h] uncircumcised lips?

13 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, and gave them a [j] charge unto the children of Israel, and unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

27 These are they which spake to [d] Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring out the children of Israel [e] from Egypt: these are that Moses and Aaron.

28 And it came to pass, on the day when the LORD spake unto Moses in the land of Egypt, 29 That the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, I am the LORD: speak thou unto Pharaoh king of Egypt all [f] that I say unto thee.

30 And Moses said before the LORD, Behold, I am of [i] uncircumcised lips, and how shall Pharaoh hearken unto me?

CHAP. VII.

AND the LORD said unto Moses, See, I have made thee a god [k] to Pharaoh, and Aaron thy brother shall be thy prophet.

2 Thou shalt speak all [l] that I command thee; and Aaron thy brother shall speak unto Pharaoh, that he send the children of Israel out of his land.

3 And I will [n] harden Pharaoh's heart, and multiply my signs and my wonders in the land of Egypt.

4 But Pharaoh shall not hearken unto you, that I may lay my hand upon Egypt, and bring forth mine armies, and my people the children of Israel, out of the land of Egypt by great judgments.

5 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the [q] LORD, when I stretch forth mine hand upon Egypt, and bring out the children of Israel from among them.

6 And Moses and Aaron did as the LORD commanded them, so did they.

7 And Moses was fourscore years old, and Aaron fourscore and three years old, when they spake unto Pharaoh.

8 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

9 When Pharaoh shall speak unto you, saying, Shew a miracle [s] for you: then thou shalt say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and cast it before Pharaoh, and it shall become a serpent.

10 And Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and they did so as the LORD had commanded: and Aaron cast down his rod before Pharaoh, and before his servants, and it became a serpent.

11 Then Pharaoh also called the wise men and [x] the sorcerers: now the magicians of Egypt, they also did in like man-

12 For they cast down every man his rod, and they became serpents: but Aaron's rod swallowed up their rods.
13 And he hardened Pharaoh's heart, that he hearkened not unto them; as the [a] LORD had said
14 And the LORD said unto Moses, Pharaoh's heart is hardened, [b] he refuseth [c] to let the people go.
15 Get thee unto Pharaoh in the morning; lo, he goeth out unto the water; and thou shalt stand by the river's brink against he come; and the rod which was turned to a serpent [d] shalt thou take in thine hand.
16 And thou shalt say unto him, The LORD God of the [e] Hebrews hath sent me unto thee, saying, Let my people go, [f] that they may serve me in the wilderness: and, behold, hitherto thou wouldest not hear.
17 Thus saith the LORD, In this thou shalt know that I am [h] the LORD: behold, I will smite with the rod that is in mine hand upon the waters which are in the river, and they shall be turned [i] to blood.
18 And the fish that is in the river shall die, and the river shall stink; and the Egyptians shall loath to drink of the water of the river.
19 And the LORD spake unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and stretch out thine hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their streams, upon their rivers, and upon their ponds, and upon all their pools [5] of water, that they may become blood; and that there may be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood, and in vessels of stone.
20 And Moses and Aaron did so, as the LORD commanded; and he lifted up the rod, and smote [l] the waters that were in the river, in the sight of Pharaoh, and in the sight of his servants; and all the waters that were in the river were turned to blood.
21 And the fish that was in the river died; and the river stank, and the Egyptians could not drink [n] of the water of the river: and there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt.
22 And the magicians of Egypt did [p] so with their enchantments: and Pharaoh's heart was hardened, neither did he hearken unto them; as the LORD had said.
23 And Pharaoh turned and went into his house, neither did he set his [r] heart to this also.
24 And all the Egyptians digged round about the river for water to drink; for they could not drink of the water of the river.
25 And seven days were fulfilled, after that the LORD had smitten the river.

CHAP VIII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, Go unto Pharaoh, and say unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Let my people go, that they may serve me.
2 And if thou refuse to let them go, behold, I will smite all thy borders with frogs:
3 And the river shall bring forth frogs abundantly, which shall go up and come into thine house, and into thy bed-chamber, and upon thy bed, and into the house of thy servants, and upon thy people, and into thine ovens, and into thy [1] kneading troughs;
4 And the frogs shall come up, both on thee and upon thy people, and upon all thy servants.
5 And the LORD spake unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Stretch forth thine hand with thy rod over the streams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cause frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt.
6 And Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt: and the frogs [g] came up, and covered the land of Egypt.
7 And the magicians did so with their enchantments, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt.
8 Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, [j] Intreat the LORD, that he may take away the frogs from me, and from my people; and I will let the people go, that they may do sacrifice unto the LORD.
9 And Moses said unto Pharaoh, [2] Glory over me: [3] when shall I entreat for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, [4] to destroy the frogs from thee and thy houses, that they may remain in the river only?
10 And he said, [6] To-morrow. And he said, Be it according to thy word; that thou mayest know that [k] there is none like unto the LORD our God.
11 And the frogs shall depart from thee, and from thy houses, and from thy servants, and from thy people; they shall remain in the river only.
12 And Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh: and Moses [m] cried unto the LORD because of the frogs which he had brought against Pharaoh.
13 And the LORD did [o] according to the word of Moses; and the frogs died out of the houses, out of the villages, and out of the fields.
14 And they gathered them together upon heaps; and the land stank.
15 But when Pharaoh saw that there was respite, he [q] hardened his heart, and hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had said.[s]
16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Stretch out thy rod, and smite the dust of the land, that it may become lice throughout all the land of Egypt.
17 And they did so: for Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod, and smote the dust of the earth, and it became [t] lice in man and in beast; all the dust of the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt

18 And the magicians did so with their enchantments to bring forth lice, but they could not: [a] so there were lice upon man, and upon beast.

19 Then the magicians said unto Pharaoh, This is the [b] finger of God: and Pharaoh's heart was hardened, and he hearkened not unto them; as the Lord had said.

20 And the Lord said unto Moses, Rise up early in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh; lo, he cometh forth to the water; and say unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Let my people go, that they may serve me:

21 Else, if thou wilt not let my people go, behold, I will send [1] swarms of flies upon thee, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people, and into thy houses; and the houses of the Egyptians shall be full of swarms of flies, and also the ground whereon they are.

22 And I will sever [c] in that day the land of Goshen, in which my people dwell, that no swarms of flies shall be there; to the end thou mayest know that I am the LORD in the midst of the earth.

23 And I will put a [2] division between my people and thy people: [3] to-morrow shall this sign be.

24 And the LORD did so: and there came a grievous swarm of flies into the house of Pharaoh, and into his servants' houses, and into all the land of Egypt; the land was corrupted [4] by reason of the swarm of flies.

25 And Pharaoh called for Moses and for Aaron, and said, Go ye, sacrifice to your God in the land.

26 And Moses said, It is not meet so to do; for we shall sacrifice the abomination [f] of the Egyptians to the LORD our God: lo, shall we sacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, and will they not stone us?

27 We will go [h] three days' journey into the wilderness, and sacrifice to the LORD our God, as he shall [i] command us.

28 And Pharaoh said, I will let you go, that ye may sacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderness; only ye shall not go very far away: [l] entreat for me.

29 And Moses said, Behold, I go out from thee, and I will entreat the LORD that the swarms of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, to-morrow: but let not Pharaoh deal [n] deceitfully any more in not letting the people go to sacrifice to the LORD.

30 And Moses went out from Pharaoh, and entreated the LORD.

31 And the LORD did according to the word of Moses; and he removed the swarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people: there remained not one.

32 And Pharaoh [q] hardened his heart at this time also, neither would he let the people go.

CHAP. IX.

THEN the LORD said unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus saith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may serve me.

2 For if thou refuse to let them go, and wilt hold them still,

3 Behold, the hand of the LORD is upon thy cattle which is in the field, upon the horses, upon the asses, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the sheep: there shall be a very grievous murrain.

4 And the LORD shall sever between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of Egypt: and there shall nothing die of all that is the children's of Israel.

5 And the LORD appointed a set time, saying, To-morrow the Lord shall do this thing in the land.

6 And the LORD did that thing on the morrow, and [d] all the cattle of Egypt died: but of the cattle of the children of Israel died not one.

7 And Pharaoh sent, and, behold, there was not one of the cattle of the Israelites dead. And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

8 And the LORD said unto Moses and unto Aaron, Take to you handfuls of ashes of the furnace, and let Moses sprinkle it toward the heaven in the sight of Pharaoh.

9 And it shall become small dust in all the land of Egypt, and shall be a boil [e] breaking forth with blains upon man and upon beast, throughout all the land of Egypt.

10 And they took ashes of the furnace, and stood before Pharaoh; and Moses sprinkled it up toward heaven: and it became a boil breaking forth with blains upon man and upon beast.

11 And the magicians could not [g] stand before Moses because of the boils; for the boil was upon the magicians, and upon all the Egyptians.

12 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened [j] not unto them; as the LORD had spoken [k] unto Moses.

13 And the LORD said unto Moses, Rise up early in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh, and say unto him, Thus saith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may serve me.

14 For I will at this time send all [m] my plagues upon thine heart, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people; that thou mayest know that there is none like me in all the earth.

15 For now I will stretch out my hand, that I may smite thee and [o] thy people with pestilence; and thou shalt be cut off from the earth.

16 And in very deed for [p] this cause have I raised [5] thee up, for to shew in thee my power; and that my name may be declared throughout all the earth.

17 As yet exaltest thou thyself [r] against my people, that thou wilt not let them go?

18 Behold, to-morrow [a] about this time, I will cause it to rain [c] a very grievous hail, such as hath not been in Egypt since the foundation thereof even until now.
19 Send therefore now, and gather thy cattle, and all that thou hast in the field; for upon every man and beast which shall be found in the field, and shall not be brought home, the hail shall come [e] down upon them, and they shall die.
20 He that feared the word [f] of the LORD among the servants of Pharaoh made his servants and his cattle flee into the houses:
21 And he that [2] regarded [h] not the word of the LORD left his servants and his cattle in the field.
22 And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch forth thine hand toward heaven, that there may be hail in all the land of Egypt, upon man, and upon beast, and upon every herb of the field, throughout the land of Egypt.
23 And Moses stretched forth his rod toward heaven; and the LORD sent thunder and [l] hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground: and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt.
24 So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, very grievous, such as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation.
25 And the hail smote throughout all the land of Egypt all that was in the field, both man and beast; and the hail [o] smote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field.
26 Only in the land of Goshen, [p] where the children of Israel were, was there no hail.
27 And Pharaoh sent, and called for Moses and Aaron, and said unto them, I have sinned this time: the LORD is righteous, [r] and I and my people are wicked.
28 Entreat the LORD (for [s] it is enough) that there be no more [4] mighty thunderings and hail; and I will let you go, and ye shall stay no longer.
29 And Moses said unto him, As soon as I am gone out of the city, I will spread abroad my hands [t] unto the LORD; and the thunder shall cease, neither shall there be any more hail; that thou mayest know how that the earth is the LORD's. [u]
30 But as for thee and thy servants, I know that ye will not yet [v] fear the LORD God.
31 And the flax and the barley was smitten; [w] for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was boiled.
32 But the wheat and the rye were not smitten; for they were not [6] grown up.
33 And Moses went out of the city from Pharaoh, and spread abroad his hands unto the LORD; and the thunders and hail eased, and the rain was not poured upon the earth.
34 And when Pharaoh saw that the rain and hail and the thunders were ceased, he sinned yet [b] more, and hardened his heart, he and his servants.
35 And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, neither would he let the children of Israel go; as the LORD had spoken by [1] Moses.

CHAP. X.

AND the LORD said unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh: for I have [d] hardened his heart, and the heart of his servants, that I might shew these my signs before him:
2 And that thou mayest tell in the ears of thy son, [g] and of thy son's son, what things I have wrought in Egypt, and my signs which I have done among them; that ye may know how [i] that I am the LORD.
3 And Moses and Aaron came in unto Pharaoh, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD God of the Hebrews, How long wilt thou refuse to humble [j] thyself before me? let my people go, that they may serve me.
4 Else, if thou refuse to let my people go, behold, to-morrow will I bring the locusts [k] into thy coast:
5 And they shall cover the [3] face of the earth, that one cannot be able to see the earth: and they shall eat the [m] residue of that which is escaped, which remaineth unto you from the hail, and shall eat every tree which groweth for you out of the field:
6 And they shall fill thy houses, [n] and the houses of all thy servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians; which neither thy fathers, nor thy fathers' fathers have seen, since the day that they were upon the earth unto this day. And he turned himself, and went out from Pharaoh.
7 And Pharaoh's servants said unto him, How long shall this man be [q] a snare unto us? Let the men go, that they may serve the LORD their God: Knowest thou not yet that Egypt is destroyed?
8 And Moses and Aaron were brought again unto Pharaoh: and he said unto them, Go, serve the LORD your God: but [5] who are they that shall go?
9 And Moses said, We will go with our young and with our old, with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds will we go: for we must hold a feast unto the LORD.
10 And he said unto them, Let the LORD be so with you, as I will let you go, and your little ones: look to it; for evil is before you.
11 Not so: go now ye that are men, and serve the LORD; for that ye did desire. And they were driven out from Pharaoh's presence.
12 And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch [x] out thine hand over the land of Egypt for the locusts, that they may come up upon the land of Egypt, and eat every herb of the land, even all that the hail hath left.
13 And Moses stretched forth his rod over the land of Egypt, and the LORD brought an east wind upon the land all that day, and all that night; and when it was morning, the [b] east wind brought the locusts.

14 And the locusts [c] went up over all the land of Egypt, and rested in all the coasts of Egypt: very grievous were they; before them there were no such locusts [e] as they, neither after them shall be such:

15 For they covered the face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened; and they did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left: and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, through all the land of Egypt.

16 Then Pharaoh [1] called for Moses and Aaron in haste; and he said, I have sinned against [i] the LORD your God, and against you.

17 Now, therefore, forgive, I pray thee, my sin only [k] this once, and entreat the LORD your God, that he may take away from me this death only.

18 And he went out from Pharaoh, and entreated the LORD.

19 And the LORD turned a mighty strong west wind, which took away the locusts, and [2] cast them [m] into the Red Sea; there remained not one locust in all the coasts of Egypt.

20 But the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go.

21 And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch out thine hand toward heaven, that there may be darkness [p] over the land of Egypt, [4] even darkness which may be felt.

22 And Moses stretched forth his hand toward heaven: and there was a thick darkness in all the land of Egypt three days:

23 They saw not one another, neither rose any from his place for three days: but all the children of Israel had [r] light in their dwellings.

24 And Pharaoh called unto Moses, and said, Go ye, serve the LORD; only let your flocks and your herds be stayed: let your little ones also go with you.

25 And Moses said, Thou must [6] give us also sacrifices and burnt-offerings that we may sacrifice unto the LORD our God.

26 Our cattle [u] also shall go with us; there shall not an hoof be left behind: for thereof must we take to serve the LORD our God; and we know not with what we must serve the LORD until we come thither.

27 But the LORD hardened [v] Pharaoh's heart, and he would not let them go.

28 And Pharaoh said unto him, Get thee from me, take heed to thyself, see my face no more: [w] for in that day thou seest my face thou shalt die.

29 And Moses said, Thou hast spoken well, [a] I will see thy face again no more.

CHAP. XI.

AND the LORD said unto Moses, Yet will I bring one plague more upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt; afterwards he will let you go hence: when he shall let you go, he shall surely thrust you out hence [d] altogether.

2 Speak now in the ears of the people, and let every man borrow of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, jewels of silver, and jewels of gold.

3 And the LORD gave the people [f] favour in the sight of the Egyptians. Moreover the man Moses was very great [g] in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaoh's servants, and in the sight of the people.

4 And Moses said, Thus saith the LORD, About midnight [h] will I go out into the midst of Egypt:

5 And all the first-born in the land of Egypt shall die, [j] from the first-born of Pharaoh that sitteth upon his throne, even unto the first-born of the maid-servant that is behind the mill; and all the first-born of beasts.

6 And there shall be a great cry [l] throughout all the land of Egypt, such as there was none like it, nor shall be like it any more.

7 But against any of the children of Israel shall not a dog move his [n] tongue, against man or beast; that ye may know how that the LORD doth put a difference between the Egyptians and Israel.

8 And all these thy servants [o] shall come down unto me, and bow down themselves unto me, saying, Get thee out, and all the people [3] that follow thee: and after that I will go out. And he went out from Pharaoh in [5] a great anger.

9 And the LORD said unto Moses, Pharaoh shall not hearken unto you; that my wonders may [q] be multiplied in the land of Egypt.

10 And Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh: and the LORD hardened [s] Pharaoh's heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

CHAP. XII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying,

2 This [t] month shall be unto you the beginning of months: it shall be the first month of the year to you.

3 Speak ye unto all the congregation of Israel, saying, In the tenth day of this month they shall take to them every man a [7] lamb, according to the house of their fathers, a lamb for an house:

4 And if the household be too little for the lamb, let him and his neighbour next unto his house take it according to the number of the souls: every man, according to his eating, shall make your count for the lamb

Digitized by Google

5 Your lamb shall be [a] without blemish, a male [1] of the first year ye shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats:

6 And ye shall keep it up until the [b] fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill [2] it in the evening.[c]

7 And they shall take of the blood, and strike it on the two side-posts and on the upper door-post of the houses, wherein they shall eat it.

8 And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roast with fire, and [f] unleavened bread; and with bitter herbs they shall eat it.

9 Eat not of it raw, nor sodden at all with water, but roast with fire; his head with his legs, and with the purtenance thereof.

10 And ye shall let nothing of it [g] remain until the morning; and that which remaineth of it until the morning ye shall burn with fire.

11 And thus shall ye eat it; With your loins girded, your shoes on your feet, and your staff in your hand; and ye shall eat it in haste; it is the LORD's passover.

12 For I will pass through the land of Egypt this night, and will smite all the first-born in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and against all the [4] gods of Egypt [j] I will execute judgment: I am the LORD.

13 And the blood shall be to you for a token upon the houses where ye are: and when I see the blood, I will pass over you, and the plague shall not be upon you to [5] destroy you, when I smite the land of Egypt.

14 And this day shall be unto you for a memorial; and ye shall keep it a [m] feast to the LORD throughout your generations; ye shall keep it a feast by an ordinance for ever.

15 Seven days [n] shall ye eat unleavened bread; even the first day ye shall put away leaven out of your houses: for whosoever eateth leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, [p] that soul shall be cut off from Israel.

16 And in the first day there shall be an holy [q] convocation, and in the seventh day there shall be an holy convocation to you, no manner of work shall be done in them, save that which every [7] man must eat, that only may be done of you.

17 And ye shall observe the feast of unleavened bread; for in this self-same day have I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt: therefore shall ye observe this day in your generations by an ordinance for ever.

18 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at even, ye shall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at even.

19 Seven days shall there be no [v] leaven found in your houses: for whosoever eateth that which is leavened, even that soul shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he be a stranger, or born in the land.

20 Ye shall eat nothing leavened; in all your habitations shall ye eat unleavened bread.

21 Then Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto them, Draw out and take you a [3] lamb according to your families, and kill the [d] passover.

22 And ye shall take a bunch of hyssop, and dip it in the blood that is in the bason, and strike [e] the lintel and the two side-posts with the blood that is in the bason; and none of you shall go out at the door of his house until the morning.

23 For the LORD will pass through to smite the Egyptians; and when he seeth the blood [h] upon the lintel, and on the two side-posts, the LORD will pass over the door, and [i] will not suffer the destroyer to come in unto your houses to smite you.

24 And ye shall observe this thing for an ordinance to thee and to thy sons for ever.

25 And it shall come to pass, when ye be come to the land which the LORD will give you, according as he hath promised, that ye shall keep this service.

26 And it shall come to pass, when your children shall say unto you, [k] What mean ye by this service?

27 That ye shall say, It is the sacrifice of the LORD's passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses. And the people bowed the head, and [l] worshipped.

28 And the children of Israel went away, and did as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

29 And it came to pass, that, at midnight, the LORD smote [o] all the first-born in the land of Egypt, from the first-born of Pharaoh that sat on his throne, unto the first-born of the captive that was in the dungeon; [6] and all the first-born of cattle.

30 And Pharaoh rose up in the night, he, and all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry [r] in Egypt; for there was not a house where there was not one dead.

31 And he called [s] for Moses and Aaron by night, and said, Rise up, and get you forth from among my people, both ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve the LORD, as ye have said.

32 Also take your flocks and your herds, as ye have said, and be gone; and [t] bless me also.

33 And the Egyptians were [u] urgent upon the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste; for they said, We be all dead men.

34 And the people took their dough before it was leavened, their [8] kneading troughs being bound up in their clothes upon their shoulders.

35 And the children of Israel did according to the word of Moses; and they borrowed of the Egyptians jewels of silver and jewels of gold, and raiment:

36 And the LORD [b] gave the people favour in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they lent unto them such things as they required: and they spoiled the Egyptians.

37 And the children of Israel journeyed from [d] Rameses to Succoth, about [e] six hundred thousand on foot that were men, beside children.

38 And [2] a mixed multitude [f] went up also with them; and flocks and herds, even very much cattle.

39 And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Egypt, for it was not leavened; because they were thrust out of Egypt, and could not tarry, neither had they prepared for themselves any victual.

40 Now the sojourning of the children of Israel, who dwelt in Egypt, was [j] four hundred and thirty years.

41 And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the self-same day it came to pass, that all the hosts of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt.

42 It is [3] a night to be much [m] observed unto the LORD for bringing them out from the land of Egypt: this is that night of the LORD to be observed of all the children of Israel in their generations.

43 And the LORD said unto Moses and Aaron, This is the ordinance [o] of the passover: There shall no stranger eat thereof:

44 But every man's servant that is bought for money, when thou hast [q] circumcised him, then shall he eat thereof.

45 A [r] foreigner and an hired servant shall not eat thereof.

46 In one house shall it be eaten: thou shalt not carry forth ought of the flesh abroad out of the house; neither shall ye break a bone [s] thereof.

47 All the congregation of Israel shall keep [5] it.

48 And when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof.

49 One law [u] shall be to him that is home-born, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among you.

50 Thus did all the children of Israel; as the LORD commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

51 And it came to pass, the [v] self-same day, that the LORD did bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt [w] by their armies.

CHAP. XIII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Sanctify unto me all the [a] first-born, whatsoever openeth the womb among the children of Israel, both of man and of beast: it is mine.

3 And Moses said unto the people, Remember this [c] day, in which ye came out from Egypt, out of the house of [1] bondage; for by strength of hand the LORD brought you out from this place: there shall no leavened bread be eaten.

4 This day came ye out, [g] in the month Abib.

5 And it shall be, when the LORD shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, which he [h] sware unto thy fathers to give thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, that thou shalt keep this service in this month.

6 Seven days [i] thou shalt eat unleavened bread, and in the seventh day shall be a feast to the LORD.

7 Unleavened bread shall be eaten seven days: and there shall [k] no leavened bread be seen with thee; neither shall there be leaven seen with thee in all thy quarters.

8 And thou shalt shew thy son [l] in that day, saying, This is done because of that which the LORD did unto me when I came forth out of Egypt.

9 And it shall be for [n] a sign unto thee upon thine hand, and for a memorial between thine eyes; that the LORD's law may be in thy mouth: for with a strong hand hath the LORD brought thee out of Egypt.

10 Thou shalt therefore keep this ordinance [p] in his season from year to year.

11 And it shall be, when the LORD shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, as he sware unto thee and to thy fathers, and shall give it thee,

12 That thou shalt [4] set apart unto the LORD all that openeth the matrix, and every firstling that cometh of a beast which thou hast; the males shall be the LORD's.

13 And every firstling of an ass thou shalt redeem with a [6] lamb; and if thou wilt not redeem it, then thou shalt break his neck: and all the first-born of man among thy children shalt thou redeem.

14 And it shall be, when thy son [t] asketh thee [7] in time to come, saying, What is this? that thou shalt say unto him, By strength of hand the Lord brought us out from Egypt, from the house of bondage:

15 And it came to pass, when Pharaoh would hardly let us go, that the LORD slew all the first-born in the land of Egypt, both the first-born of man, and the first-born of beast: therefore I sacrifice to the LORD all that openeth the matrix, being males; but all the first-born of my children I redeem.

16 And it shall be for a token upon thine hand, and for frontlets between thine eyes: for by strength of hand [a] the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt.

17 And it came to pass, when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God led them not through the way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near; for God said, Lest peradventure the people [c] repent: when they see war, and they return [d] to Egypt:

18 But God [e] led the people about, through the way of the wilderness of the Red Sea. And the children of Israel went up [1] harnessed out of the land of Egypt.

19 And Moses took the bones of Joseph with him: for he had straitly sworn the children of Israel, saying, [h] God will surely visit you; and ye shall carry up my bones away hence with you.

20 And they took their journey [i] from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, in the edge of the wilderness.

21 And the LORD went before them [k] by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light; to go by day and night:

22 He took not away the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, from before the people.

CHAP XIV.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, that they turn and encamp before [l] Pi-hahiroth, between [m] Migdol and the sea, over against Baal-zephon: before it shall ye encamp by the sea.

3 For Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, [n] They are entangled in the land, the wilderness hath shut them in.

4 And I will harden [p] Pharaoh's heart, that he shall follow after them: and I will be honoured upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host; that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD. And they did so.

5 And it was told the king of Egypt that the people fled: and the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants was turned [q] against the people, and they said, Why have we done this, that we have let Israel go from serving us?

6 And he made ready his chariot, and took his people with him:

7 And he took six hundred chosen chariots, [s] and all the chariots of Egypt, and captains over every one of them.

8 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he pursued after the children of Israel: and the children of Israel went out with an high [u] hand.

9 But the Egyptians pursued after them (all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his army,) and overtook them encamping by the sea, beside Pi-hahiroth, before Baal-zephon.

10 And when Pharaoh drew nigh, the children of Israel lifted up their eyes, and, behold, the Egyptians marched after them; and they were sore [b] afraid: and the children of Israel cried out unto the LORD.

11 And they said unto Moses, Because there were no graves in Egypt, hast thou taken us away to die in the wilderness? wherefore hast thou dealt thus with us, to carry us forth out of Egypt?

12 Is not this the word that we did tell thee in [f] Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians? For it had been better for us to serve the Egyptians, than that we should die in the wilderness.

13 And Moses said unto the people, Fear ye not, [g] stand still, and see the salvation of the LORD, which he will shew to you to-day: [2] for the Egyptians whom ye have seen to-day, ye shall see them again no more for ever.

14 The LORD shall fight [j] for you, and ye shall hold your peace.

15 And the LORD said unto Moses, Wherefore criest thou unto me? speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward:

16 But lift thou up thy rod, and stretch out thine hand over the sea, and divide it; and the children of Israel shall go on dry ground through the midst of the sea.

17 And I, behold, I will harden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they shall follow them: and I will get me honour upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host, upon his chariots, and upon his horsemen.

18 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I have gotten me honour upon Pharaoh, upon his chariots, and upon his horsemen.

19 And the angel [o] of God, which went before the camp of Israel, removed and went behind them; and the pillar of the cloud went from before their face, and stood behind them:

20 And it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel; and it was a cloud and darkness to them, but it gave light by night to these: so that the one came not near the other all the night.

21 And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the LORD caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and made the sea [r] dry land, and the waters were divided.

22 And the children of Israel went into the midst [t] of the sea upon the dry ground: and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand and on their left.

23 And the Egyptians pursued, and went in after them to the midst of the sea, even all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen.

24 And it came to pass, that in the morning watch the LORD looked unto the host of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and of the cloud, and troubled the host of the Egyptians,

25 And took off their chariot-wheels, that [1] they drave them heavily: so that the Egyptians said, Let us flee from the face of Israel; for the LORD fighteth for them against the Egyptians.

26 And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch out thine hand over the sea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horsemen.

27 And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea returned to his strength when the morning appeared; and the Egyptians fled against it; and the LORD overthrew [3] the Egyptians in the midst of the sea.

28 And the waters returned, and covered [c] the chariots, and the horsemen, and all the host of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them: there remained not so much as one of them.

29 But the children of Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea; and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand and on their left.

30 Thus the LORD saved Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians; and Israel saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea-shore.

31 And Israel saw that great [4] work which the LORD did upon the Egyptians: and the people feared the LORD, and believed [k] the LORD, and his servant Moses.

CHAP. XV.

THEN sang [l] Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the LORD, and spake, saying, I will sing unto the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea.

2 The LORD is my strength and [n] song, and he is become my salvation: he is my God, and I will prepare him an [p] habitation; my father's God, and I will exalt him.

3 The LORD is a man of [q] war: the LORD is his name.

4 Pharaoh's chariots and his host hath he cast into the sea: his chosen captains also are drowned in the Red Sea.

5 The depths have covered them: they sank into the bottom as a stone.

6 Thy right hand, [t] O LORD, is become glorious in power: thy right hand, O LORD, hath dashed in pieces the enemy.

7 And in the greatness of thine [u] excellency thou hast overthrown them that rose up against thee: thou sentest forth thy wrath, which consumed them [w] as stubble.

8 And with the blast of [x] thy nostrils the waters were gathered together: the floods stood upright as an heap, and the depths were congealed in the heart of the sea.

9 The enemy said, I will pursue, I will overtake, I will divide the spoil; my lust shall be satisfied upon them; I will draw my sword, my hand shall [6] destroy them.

10 Thou didst blow with thy [y] wind, the sea covered them; they sank as lead in the mighty waters

11 Who is like [a] unto thee, O LORD, among the [2] gods? who is like thee, glorious in holiness, fearful in praises, doing wonders?

12 Thou stretchedst out thy right hand, the earth swallowed them.

13 Thou in thy mercy hast [b] led forth the people which thou hast redeemed: thou hast guided them in thy strength unto thy holy habitation.

14 The people shall hear, and be afraid: sorrow shall take hold on the inhabitants of Palestina.

15 Then the dukes of Edom shall be amazed; the mighty men of Moab, trembling shall take hold upon them: all the inhabitants of Canaan shall melt [c] away.

16 Fear and dread shall [e] fall upon them by the greatness of thine arm they shall be as still [f] as a stone; till thy people pass over, O LORD, till the people pass over, which [g] thou hast purchased.

17 Thou shalt bring them in, and [h] plant them in the mountain of thine inheritance, in the place, O LORD, which thou hast made for thee to dwell in; in the [i] sanctuary, O LORD, which thy hands have established.

18 The LORD shall reign [j] for ever and ever.

19 For the horse of Pharaoh went in with his chariots and with his horsemen into the sea, and the LORD brought again the water of the sea upon them: but the children of Israel went on dry land in the midst of the sea.

20 And Miriam the prophetess, the sister of Aaron, [m] took a timbrel in her hand, and all the women went out after her with timbrels and with dances.

21 And Miriam answered them, Sing ye to the LORD, [o] for he hath triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea.

22 So Moses brought Israel from the Red Sea; and they went out into the wilderness of [r] Shur: and they went three days in the wilderness, and found no water.

23 And when they came to [s] Marah, they could not drink of the waters of Marah, for they were bitter: therefore the name of it was called [5] Marah.

24 And the people murmured against Moses, saying, What shall we drink?

25 And he cried unto the LORD; and the LORD shewed him a tree, which when he had cast into [v] the waters, the waters were made sweet: there he made for them a statute and an ordinance, and there he proved them,

26 And said, If thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his sight, and wilt give ear to his commandments, and keep all his statutes, I will put none of these diseases upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians: [z] for I am the LORD [a] that healeth thee

27 And they came to Elim, where were twelve wells of water, and threescore and ten palm-trees: and they encamped there by the waters.

CHAP. XVI.

AND they took their journey from Elim; [a] and all the congregation of the children of Israel came unto the wilderness of [c] Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after their departure out of the land of Egypt.

2 And the whole congregation of the children of Israel [d] murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness:

3 And the children of Israel said unto them, Would to God we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when [e] we sat by the flesh pots, and when we did eat bread to the full! for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness, to kill this whole assembly with hunger.

4 Then said the LORD unto Moses, Behold, I will rain [g] bread from heaven for you; and the people shall go out and gather [4] a certain rate every day, that I may [i] prove them, whether they will walk in my law or no.

5 And it shall come to pass, that on the sixth day they shall prepare that which they bring in; and it shall be twice [j] as much as they gather daily.

6 And Moses and Aaron said unto all the children of Israel, At even, then ye shall know that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt;

7 And in the morning, then ye shall see the glory [k] of the LORD; for that he heareth your murmurings against the LORD: and what are we, that ye murmur against us?

8 And Moses said, This shall be, when the LORD shall give you in the evening flesh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full; for that the LORD heareth your murmurings which ye murmur against him: and what are we? your murmurings are not against us, [n] but against the LORD.

9 And Moses spake unto Aaron, Say unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, Come [o] near before the LORD: for he hath heard your murmurings.

10 And it came to pass, As Aaron spake unto the whole congregation of the children of Israel, that they looked toward the wilderness, and, behold, the glory of the LORD [q] appeared in the cloud.

11 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

12 I have heard the [s] murmurings of the children of Israel: speak unto them, saying, At even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am the LORD your God.

13 And it came to pass, that at even the quails [t] came up, and covered the camp; and in the morning the dew lay round about the host.

14 And when the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderness, there lay a small round thing, as small as the hoar-frost on the ground.

15 And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, [1] It is manna: [b] for they wist not what it was. And Moses said unto them, This is the bread which the LORD hath given you to eat.

16 This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, Gather of it every man according to his eating; an omer [2] for every man, according to the number of your [3] persons: take ye every man for them which are in his tents.

17 And the children of Israel did so, and gathered, some more, some less.

18 And when they did mete it with an omer, [f] he that gathered much had nothing over, and he that gathered little had no lack: they gathered every man according to his eating.

19 And Moses said, Let no man [h] leave of it till the morning.

20 Notwithstanding they hearkened not unto Moses; but some of them left of it until the morning, and it bred worms, and stank; and Moses was wroth with them.

21 And they gathered it every morning, every man according to his eating: and when the sun waxed hot, it melted.

22 And it came to pass, that on the sixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for one man: and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moses.

23 And he said unto them, This is that which the LORD hath said, To-morrow is the [l] rest of the holy sabbath unto the LORD: bake that which ye will bake to-day, and seethe that ye will seethe; and that which remaineth over lay up for you, to be kept until the morning.

24 And they laid it up till the morning, as Moses bade: and it did not [m] stink, neither was there any worm therein.

25 And Moses said, Eat that to-day, for to-day is a sabbath unto the LORD: to-day ye shall not find it in the field.

26 Six [p] days ye shall gather it, but on the seventh day, which is the sabbath, in it there shall be none.

27 And it came to pass, that there went out some of the people on the seventh day for to gather, and they found none.

28 And the LORD said unto Moses, How long [r] refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws?

29 See, for that the LORD hath given you the sabbath, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day the bread of two days: abide ye every man in his place; let no man go out of his place on the seventh day.

30 So the people rested on the seventh day.

31 And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna: and it was like [a] coriander-seed, white; and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.

32 And Moses said, This is the thing which the LORD commandeth, Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations; that they may see the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt.

33 And Moses said unto Aaron, [b] Take a pot, and put an omer full of manna therein, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations.

34 As the LORD commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up [c] before the Testimony, to be kept.

35 And the children of Israel did eat manna [d] forty years, until they came to a land inhabited: they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders [e] of the land of Canaan.

36 Now an omer [g] is the tenth part of an ephah.

CHAP. XVII.

AND all the congregation of the children of Israel journeyed from the wilderness of Sin, [i] after their journeys, according to the commandment of the LORD, and pitched in Rephidim: and there was no water for the people to drink.

2 Wherefore the people did chide [j] with Moses, and said, Give us water that we may drink. And Moses said unto them, Why chide ye with me? wherefore do ye tempt [k] the LORD?

3 And the people thirsted there for water; and the people murmured against Moses, and said, Wherefore is this that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our cattle with thirst?

4 And Moses cried unto the LORD, saying, What shall I do unto this people? they be almost ready to [l] stone me.

5 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go on before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Israel; and thy rod, wherewith thou smotest [n] the river, take in thine hand, and go:

6 Behold, I will stand before thee there upon the rock in Horeb; and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall [p] come water out of it, that the people may drink. And Moses did so in the sight of the elders of Israel.

7 And he called the name of the place Massah, [7] and Meribah, [8] because of the chiding of the children of Israel, and because they tempted the LORD, saying, Is the LORD among us, or not?

8 Then came [s] Amalek, and fought with Israel in Rephidim.

9 And Moses said unto [10] Joshua, Choose us out men, and go out, fight with Amalek: to-morrow I will stand on the top of the hill with the rod of God in mine hand.

10 So Joshua did as Moses had said to him, and fought with Amalek: and Moses, Aaron, and Hur, went up to the top of the hill.

11 And it came to pass, when Moses held up his hand, that Israel prevailed; and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed.

12 But Moses' hands were heavy, and they took a stone, and put it under him, and he sat thereon: and Aaron and Hur stayed up his hands, the one on the one side, and the other on the other side; and his hands were steady until the going down of the sun.

13 And Joshua discomfited Amalek and his people with the edge of the sword.

14 And the LORD said unto Moses, Write this for a memorial in a book, and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua: for I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek [t] from under heaven.

15 And Moses built an altar, and called the name of it [1] JEHOVAH-nissi:

16 For he said, [2] Because the [3] LORD hath sworn that the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation.

CHAP. XVIII.

WHEN [h] Jethro, the priest of Midian, Moses' father-in-law, heard of all that God had done for Moses, and for Israel his people, and that the LORD had brought Israel out of Egypt,

2 Then Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took Zipporah, Moses' wife, after he had sent her back,

3 And her two sons; of which the name of the one was [4] Gershom; for he said, I have been an alien in a strange land:

4 And the name of the other was [5] Eliezer; For the God of my Father, said he, was mine help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh.

5 And Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, came with his sons and his wife unto Moses into the wilderness, where he encamped at the [m] mount of God:

6 And he said unto Moses, I thy father-in-law Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two sons with her.

7 And Moses went out to meet his father-in-law, and did obeisance, [o] and kissed him: and they asked each other of their welfare; [6] and they came into the tent.

8 And Moses told his father-in-law all that the LORD had done unto Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, and all the travail that had [9] come upon them by the way, and how the LORD [q] delivered them.

9 And Jethro rejoiced [r] for all the goodness which the LORD had done to Israel, whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians.

10 And Jethro said, [t] Blessed be the LORD, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh; who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians.

11 Now I know that the LORD is greater than all [a] gods: for in the thing wherein they dealt proudly [c] he was above them.

12 And Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took a burnt-offering and sacrifices for God: and Aaron came, and all the elders of Israel, to eat bread with Moses' father-in-law [e] before God.

13 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses sat to judge the people: and the people stood by Moses from the morning unto the evening.

14 And when Moses' father-in-law saw all that he did to the people, he said, What is this thing that thou doest to the people? why sittest thou thyself alone, and all the people stand by thee from morning unto even?

15 And Moses said unto his father-in-law, Because the people come unto [i] me to inquire of God:

16 When they have a matter, they come unto me; and I judge between [1] one and another; and I do make them know the statutes of God, and his laws.

17 And Moses' father-in-law said unto him, The thing that thou doest is not good.

18 Thou [2] wilt surely wear away, both thou, and this people that is with thee: for this thing is too heavy [l] for thee; thou art not able to perform it thyself alone.

19 Hearken now unto my voice, I will give thee counsel: and God shall be with thee· be thou for the people [n] to God-ward, that thou mayest bring the causes unto God:

20 And thou shalt teach them [o] ordinances and laws, and shalt shew them the way wherein they must walk, and the work that they must do.

21 Moreover, thou shalt provide out of all the people able men, such as [q] fear God, men of truth, hating covetousness: and place such over them, to be rulers of thousands, and rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens:

22 And let them judge the people at all seasons: and it shall be, that every great matter they shall bring unto thee; but every small matter they shall judge: so shall it be easier for thyself, and they shal. bear the burden [u] with thee.

23 If thou shalt do this thing, and God command [v] thee so, then thou shalt be able to endure, and all this people shall also go to [w] their place in peace

24 So Moses hearkened to the voice of his father-in-law, and did all that he had said.

25 And Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

26 And they judged the people at all seasons: the hard causes they brought unto Moses, but every small matter they judged themselves.

27 And Moses let his father-in-law depart; and [b] he went his way into his own land.

CHAP. XIX.

IN the third month, when the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day came they into the wilderness [d] of Sinai.

2 For they were departed from [f] Rephidim, and were come to the desert of Sinai, and had pitched in the wilderness; and there Israel camped before the mount.

3 And Moses went up unto God, and the LORD called unto him out of the mountain, saying, Thus shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, and tell the children of Israel;

4 Ye have seen what I did [g] unto the Egyptians, and how I bare you on eagles' wings, [h] and brought you unto myself.

5 Now therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar [j] treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine:

6 And ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, [k] and an holy nation. These are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel.

7 And Moses came, and called for the elders of the people, and laid before their faces all these words which the LORD commanded him.

8 And all the people answered together, and said, All [m] that the LORD hath spoken we will do. And Moses returned the words of the people unto the LORD.

9 And the LORD said unto Moses, Lo, I come unto thee [p] in a thick cloud, that the people may hear when I speak with thee, and believe thee for ever. And Moses told the words of the people unto the LORD.

10 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go unto the people, and sanctify [r] them to-day and to-morrow, and let them wash their clothes, 11 And be ready against the third day: for the third day the LORD will come [s] down in the sight of all the people upon mount Sinai.

12 And thou shalt set bounds unto the people round about, saying, Take heed to yourselves, that ye go not up into the mount, or touch the border of it: whosoever toucheth [t] the mount shall be surely put to death:

13 There shall not an hand touch it, but he shall surely be stoned, or shot through; whether it be beast or man, it shall not live: when the [3] trumpet soundeth long, they shall come up to the mount.

14 And Moses went down from the mount unto the people, and sanctified the people; and they washed their clothes.

15 And he said unto the people, Be ready against the third day: come [x] not at your wives.

16 And it came to pass on the third day, in the morning, that there were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud; so that all the people that was in the camp [a] trembled.

17 And Moses brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God; and they stood at the nether part of the mount.

18 And mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke, because the LORD descended upon it [c] in fire: and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mount quaked greatly.

19 And when the voice of the trumpet sounded long, and waxed louder and louder, Moses spake, and God answered him by a voice.

20 And the LORD came down [h] upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount: and the LORD called Moses up to the top of the mount; and Moses went up.

21 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go down, [1] charge the people, lest they break through unto the LORD [m] to gaze, and many of them perish.

22 And let the priests also, which come near to the LORD, sanctify themselves, lest the LORD break forth upon them.

23 And Moses said unto the LORD, The people cannot come up to mount Sinai: for thou chargedst us, saying, Set bounds about the mount, and sanctify it.

24 And the LORD said unto him, Away, get thee down; and thou shalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the priests and the people break through to come up unto the LORD, lest he break forth upon them.

25 So Moses went down unto the people, and spake unto them.

CHAP. XX.

AND God spake all these [n] words, saying,

2 I am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of [o] Egypt, out of the house of [2] bondage.

3 Thou shalt have no other [p] gods before me

4 Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven [q] image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:

5 Thou shalt not bow [r] down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous [t] God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto [u] the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

6 And shewing mercy [v] unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

7 Thou shalt not take the name [w] of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless [x] that taketh his name in vain.

8 Remember the sabbath-day, to keep it holy.

9 Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work:

10 But the seventh [b] day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any [c] work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy man-servant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates:

11 For in six days [d] the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath-day, [f] and hallowed it.

12 Honour [g] thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

13 Thou shalt not [i] kill.

14 Thou shalt not commit [j] adultery.

15 Thou shalt not steal.

16 Thou shalt not bear false [k] witness against thy neighbour.

17 Thou shalt not covet thy [l] neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his man-servant, nor his maid-servant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

18 And all the people saw the thunderings, and the lightnings, and the noise of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking: and when the people saw it, they removed, and stood afar off.

19 And they said unto Moses, Speak thou with us, and we will hear: but let not God speak with us, lest we die.

20 And Moses said unto the people, Fear not: for God is come to prove you, and that his fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not.

21 And the people stood afar off: and Moses drew near unto the thick darkness where God was.

22 And the LORD said unto Moses, Thus thou shalt say unto the children of Israel, Ye have seen that I have talked with you from heaven.

23 Ye shall not make with me gods of silver, neither shall ye make unto you gods of gold.

24 An altar of earth thou shalt make unto me, and shalt sacrifice thereon thy burnt-offerings, and thy peace-offerings, thy sheep, and thine oxen: in all places where I record my name [s] I will come unto thee, and I will bless thee.

25 And if thou wilt make me an altar of stone, thou shalt not [3] build it of hewn stone: for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou hast polluted it.

26 Neither shalt thou go up by steps unto mine altar, that thy nakedness be not discovered thereon.

CHAP. XXI.

NOW these are the judgments which thou shalt [y] set before them.

2 If thou buy an Hebrew servant, six years [z] he shall serve; and in the seventh he shall go out free for nothing.

3 If he came in [4] by himself, he shall go out by himself: if he were married, then his wife shall go out with him.

4 If his master have given him a wife, and she have borne him sons or daughters; the wife and her children shall be her master's, and he shall go out by himself.

5 And if the servant [1] shall plainly say, I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free:

6 Then his master shall bring him unto the judges; he shall also bring him to the door, or unto the door-post; and his master shall bore his ear through with an awl; and he shall serve him for ever.

7 And if a man [c] sell his daughter to be a maid-servant, she shall not go out as [f] the men-servants do.

8 If she [2] please not her master, who hath betrothed her to himself, then shall he let her be redeemed: to sell [g] her unto a strange nation he shall have no power, seeing he hath dealt deceitfully [h] with her.

9 And if he have betrothed her unto his son, he shall deal with her after the manner of daughters.

10 If he take him another wife, her food, her raiment, and her duty [j] of marriage, shall he not diminish.

11 And if he do not these three unto her, then shall she go out free without money.

12 He that smiteth [k] a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death

13 And [m] if a man lie not in wait, but God deliver him into his hand; then I will appoint thee a place [n] whither he shall flee.

14 But if a man come [o] presumptuously upon his neighbour, to slay him with guile; thou shalt take him from mine altar, [q] that he may die.

15 And he that smiteth his [r] father, or his mother, shall be surely put to death.

16 And he that stealeth [s] a man, and selleth [t] him, or if he be found in his hand, he shall surely be put to death.

17 And he that [3] curseth his father, [v] or his mother, shall surely be put to death.

18 And if men strive together, and one smite [4] another with a stone, or with his fist, and he die not, but keepeth his bed:

19 If he rise again, and walk abroad upon his staff, then shall he that smote him be quit; only he shall pay for [6] the loss of his time, and shall cause him to be thoroughly healed.

20 And if a man smite his servant, or his maid, with a rod, and he die under his hand; he shall be surely [7] punished.

21 Notwithstanding, if he continue a day or two, he shall not be punished: for he is his money.

22 If men strive, and hurt a woman with child, so that her fruit depart from her; and yet no mischief follow; he shall be surely punished, according as the woman's husband will lay upon him; and he shall pay as the [a] judges determine 36 Or if it be known that the ox hath used to [u] push in time past, and his owner hath not kept him in; he shall surely pay ox for ox; and the dead shall be his own.

CHAP. XXII.

IF a man shall steal an ox, or a [5] sheep, and kill it or sell it; he shall restore five oxen for an ox, and four [w] sheep for a sheep.

2 If a thief be found [x] breaking up, and be smitten, that he die, there shall [y] no blood be shed for him.

3 If the sun be risen upon him, there shall be blood shed for him; for he should make full restitution; if he have nothing, then he shall be sold for his theft.

4 If the theft be certainly found in his hand alive, whether it be ox, or ass, or sheep, he shall [z] restore double.

5 If a man shall cause a field or vineyard to be eaten, and shall put in his beast, and shall feed in another man's field; of the best of his own field, and of the best of his own vineyard, shall he make [b] restitution

6 If fire break out, and catch in thorns, so that the stacks of corn, or the standing corn, or the field, be consumed therewith, he that kindleth the fire shall surely make restitution.

7 If a man shall deliver unto his neighbour money or stuff to keep, and it be stolen out of the man's house; if the thief be found, let him pay double.

8 If the thief be not found, then the master of the house shall be brought unto the judges, to see whether he have put his hand unto his neighbour's goods.

9 For all manner of trespass, whether it be for ox, for ass, for sheep, for raiment, or for any manner of lost thing, which another challengeth to be his, the cause of both parties shall come [i] before the judges; and whom the judges shall condemn, he shall pay double unto his neighbour.

10 If a man deliver unto his neighbour an ass, or an ox, or a sheep, or any beast, to keep; and it die, or be hurt, or driven away, no man seeing it:

11 Then shall an [m] oath of the LORD be between them both, that he hath not put his hand unto his neighbour's goods; and the owner of it shall accept thereof, and he shall not make it good.

12 And if it be stolen from him, he shall make restitution unto the owner thereof.

13 If it be torn in pieces, then let him bring it for witness, and he shall not make good that which was torn.

14 And if a man borrow aught of his neighbour, and it be hurt, or die, the owner thereof being not with it; he shall surely make it good.

15 But if the owner thereof be with it, he shall not make it good: if it be an hired thing, it came for his hire.

16 And if a man entice a maid that is not betrothed, and lie with her, he shall surely endow her [t] to be his wife.

17 If her father utterly refuse to give her unto him, he shall [8] pay money according to the dowry of virgins.

18 Thou shalt not suffer a witch [v] to live.

19 Whosoever lieth with [w] a beast shall surely be put to death.

20 He that sacrificeth unto [x] any god, save unto the LORD only, he shall be utterly destroyed.

21 Thou shalt neither vex a [z] stranger, nor oppress him: for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt.

22 Ye shall not afflict any [a] widow, or fatherless child.

23 If thou afflict them in any wise, and they cry at all unto me, I will surely hear their cry;

24 And my wrath shall wax hot, and I will kill you with the sword; and your wives shall be widows, [b] and your children fatherless.

25 If thou lend money to any of my people that is poor by thee, thou shalt not be to him as an usurer, [n] neither shalt thou lay upon him usury.

26 If thou at all take thy neighbour's raiment to [b] pledge, thou shalt deliver it unto him by that the sun goeth down:

27 For that is his covering only; it is his raiment for his skin: wherein shall he sleep? and it shall come to pass, when he crieth unto me, that I will hear: [c] for I am [d] gracious.

28 Thou shalt not revile [c] the [1] gods, nor curse the ruler of thy people.

29 Thou shalt not delay to offer [2] the first of thy ripe fruits, [f] and of thy liquors: [3] the firstborn of thy [g] sons shalt thou give unto me.

30 Likewise shalt thou do with thine oxen and with thy sheep: seven [h] days it shall be with his dam; on the eighth day thou shalt give it me.

31 And ye shall [j] be holy men unto me: neither shall ye eat any flesh that is torn of [k] beasts in the field; ye shall cast it to the dogs.

CHAP. XXIII.

THOU shalt not [4] raise a false [l] report: put not thine hand with the wicked to be an [n] unrighteous witness.

2 Thou shalt not follow a multitude [o] to do evil: neither shalt thou [5] speak in a cause to decline after many to wrest judgment.

3 Neither shalt thou countenance a poor [p] man in his cause.

4 If thou meet thine enemy's [q] ox or his ass going astray, thou shalt surely bring it back to him again.

5 If thou see the ass of him that hateth thee lying under his burden, [6] and wouldest forbear to help him; thou shalt surely help with him.

6 Thou shalt not wrest the judgment of thy poor [r] in his cause.

7 Keep thee far from a false matter; and the innocent and righteous slay thou not: for I will not justify [s] the wicked.

8 And thou shalt take [u] no gift; for the gift blindeth [7] the wise, and perverteth the words of the righteous.

9 Also thou shalt not oppress a stranger: for ye know the [9] heart of a stranger, seeing ye were strangers in the land of Egypt.

10 And six years [y] thou shalt sow thy land, and shalt gather in the fruits thereof:

11 But the seventh year thou shalt let it rest and lie still; that the poor of thy people may eat: and what they leave, the beasts of the field shall eat. In like manner thou shalt deal with thy vineyard, and with thy [10] olive-yard.

12 Six days thou shalt do thy work, and on the seventh day thou shalt rest; that thine ox and thine ass may rest, and the son of thy handmaid and the stranger may be refreshed.

13 And in all things that I have said unto you, be [e] circumspect: and make no mention of the name of [d] other gods, neither let it be heard out of thy mouth.

14 Three times thou shalt keep a feast unto me in the year.

15 Thou shalt keep the feast of unleavened bread: (thou shalt eat unleavened bread seven days, as I commanded thee, in the time appointed of the month Abib; for in it thou camest out from Egypt; and none shall appear before me empty:)

16 And the feast of harvest, the first-fruits of thy labours, which thou hast sown in thy field: and the feast of in-gathering, which is in the end of the year, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the field.

17 Three times in the year all thy males shall appear before the LORD God.

18 Thou shalt not offer the blood of my sacrifice with leavened bread; neither shall the fat of my [1] sacrifice remain until the morning.

19 The first of the first-fruits of thy land thou shalt bring into the house of the LORD thy God. Thou shalt not seethe [h] a kid in his mother's milk.

20 Behold, I send an [k] Angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared.

21 Beware of him, and obey his voice, provoke him not; for he will not pardon your transgressions: for my name is in him.

22 But if thou shalt indeed obey his voice, and do all that I speak: then I will be an enemy [l] unto thine enemies, and an [2] adversary unto thine adversaries.

23 For mine Angel [m] shall go before thee, and bring thee in unto the Amorites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites; and I will cut them off.

24 Thou shalt not bow down [n] to their gods, nor serve them, nor do [o] after their works; but thou shalt utterly overthrow them, and quite break down [q] their images.

25 And ye shall serve the LORD [r] your God, and he shall bless [s] thy bread, and thy water; and I will take sickness [t] away from the midst of thee.

26 There shall nothing cast their young, nor be [v] barren, in thy land: the number of thy days I will fulfil.

27 I will send my fear [y] before thee, and will destroy all the people to whom thou shalt come; and I will make all thine enemies turn their [3] backs unto thee.

28 And I will send hornets [a] before thee, which shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before thee.

29 I will not drive them out from before thee in one year; lest the land become desolate, and the beast of the field multiply against thee.

30 By little and little I will drive them out from before thee, until thou be increased, and inherit the land.

31 And I will [4] set thy [e] bounds from the Red Sea [n] even unto the sea of the Philistines, and from the desert unto the river: for I will deliver the inhabitants of the land [b] into your hand; and thou shalt drive them out before thee.

32 Thou shalt make no covenant [c] with them, nor with their gods.

33 They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me: for if thou serve their gods, it will [d] surely be a snare unto thee.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND he said unto Moses, Come up unto [e] the LORD, thou, and Aaron, Nadab, and [f] Abihu, and seventy [g] of the elders of Israel; and worship ye afar off

2 And Moses alone shall come near the LORD; but they shall not come nigh, neither shall the people go up with him.

3 And Moses came and told the people all the words of the LORD, and all the judgments: and all the people answered with one voice, and said, All the words which the LORD hath said [i] will we do.

4 And Moses wrote [j] all the words of the LORD, and rose up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve pillars, according to the twelve tribes of Israel.

5 And he sent young men of the children of Israel, which offered burnt-offerings, and sacrificed peace-offerings of oxen unto the LORD.

6 And Moses took half of the blood, and put it in basons; and half of the blood he sprinkled on the altar.

7 And he took the book of the covenant, and read in the audience of the people: and they said, All that the LORD hath said will we do, and be obedient.

8 And Moses took the blood, and sprinkled it [p] on the people, and said, Behold the blood of the covenant, which the LORD hath made with you concerning all these words.

9 Then went up Moses, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel;

10 And they saw [u] the God of Israel: and there was under his feet as it were a paved work of a [w] sapphire-stone, and as it were the body of heaven [x] in his clearness.

11 And upon the nobles of the children of Israel he laid not his hand: also they saw God, and did [z] eat and drink.

12 And the LORD said unto Moses, Come up to me into the [b] mount, and be there: and I will give thee tables [c] of stone, and a law, and [d] commandments which I have written; that thou mayest teach them.

13 And Moses rose up, and his minister Joshua; and Moses went up into the mount of God.

14 And he said unto the elders, Tarry ye here for us, until we come again unto you: and, behold, Aaron and Hur are with you; if any man have any matters to do, let him come unto them.

15 And Moses went up into the mount, and a cloud [a] covered the mount.

16 And the glory [b] of the LORD abode upon mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days: and the seventh day he called unto Moses out of the midst of the cloud.

17 And the sight of the glory of the LORD was like [d] devouring fire on the top of the mount in the eyes of the children of Israel.

18 And Moses went into the midst of the cloud, and gat him up into the mount; and Moses was in the mount [g] forty days and forty nights.

CHAP. XXV.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, that they [2] bring me an [3] offering: of every man that giveth it willingly [i] with his heart ye shall take my offering.

3 And this is the offering which ye shall take of them; gold, and silver, and brass,

4 And blue, and purple, and scarlet, and [4] fine linen, and goats' hair,

5 And rams' skins dyed red, and badgers' skins, and shittim-wood,

6 Oil for the light, spices for anointing oil, and for sweet incense,

7 Onyx-stones, and stones to be set in the ephod, and in the breastplate.

8 And let them make me a sanctuary; that I may dwell [l] among them.

9 According to all that I shew [m] thee, after the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the instruments thereof, even so shall ye make it.

10 And they shall make an ark [n] of shittim-wood: two cubits and a half shall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

11 And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold; within and without shalt thou overlay it, and shalt make upon it a crown of gold round about.

12 And thou shalt cast four rings of gold for it, and put them in the four corners thereof: and two rings shall be in the one side of it, and two rings in the other side of it.

13 And thou shalt make staves of shittim-wood, and overlay them with gold.

14 And thou shalt put the staves into the rings by the sides of the ark, that the ark may be borne with them.

15 The staves shall be in the rings of the ark; they shall not be taken from it.

16 And thou shalt put into the ark [r] the testimony, which I shall give thee.

17 And thou shalt make a [s] mercy-seat of pure gold: two cubits and a half shall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof.

18 And thou shalt make two cherubims of gold, of beaten work shalt thou make them, in the two ends of the mercy-seat

19 And make one cherub on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end; even [1] of the mercy-seat shall ye make the cherubims on the two ends thereof.

20 And the cherubims shall stretch forth their wings [c] on high, covering the mercy-seat with their wings, and their faces shall look one to another; toward the mercy-seat shall the faces of the cherubims be.

21 And thou shalt put the mercy-seat above [e] upon the ark; and [f] in the ark thou shalt put the testimony that I shall give thee.

22 And there I will meet with thee, and I will commune with thee from above the mercy-seat, from [h] between the two cherubims which are upon the ark of the testimony, of all things which I will give thee in commandment unto the children of Israel.

23 Thou shalt also make [j] a table of shittim-wood: two cubits shall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

24 And thou shalt overlay it with [k] pure gold, and make thereto a crown of gold round about.

25 And thou shalt make unto it a border of an hand breadth round about, and thou shalt make a golden crown to the border thereof round about.

26 And thou shalt make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings in the four corners that are on the four feet thereof.

27 Over against the border shall the rings be for places of the staves to bear the table.

28 And thou shalt make the staves of shittim-wood, and overlay them with gold, that the table may be borne with them.

29 And thou shalt make the [o] dishes thereof, and spoons thereof, and covers thereof, and bowls thereof, [5] to cover withal; of pure gold shalt thou make them.

30 And thou shalt set upon the table shew-bread [p] before me alway.

31 And thou shalt make a [q] candlestick of pure gold; of beaten work shall the candlestick be made: his shaft, and his branches, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers, shall be of the same.

32 And six branches shall come out of the sides of it: three branches of the candlestick out of the one side, and three branches of the candlestick out of the other side:

33 Three bowls made like unto almonds with a knop and a flower in one branch, and three bowls made like almonds in the other branch, with a knop and a flower; so in the six branches that come out of the candlestick.

34 And in the candlestick shall be four bowls made like unto almonds, with their knops and their flowers

B. C. 1491.

35 And there shall be a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, according to the six branches that proceed out of the candlestick.

36 Their knops and their branches shall be of the same; all of it shall be one beaten work of pure gold.

37 And thou shalt make the [a] seven lamps thereof; and [b] they shall [2] light the lamps thereof, that they may give light over against [3] it.

38 And the tongs thereof, and the snuff-dishes thereof, shall be of pure gold.

39 Of a talent of pure gold shall he make it, with all these vessels.

40 And look that thou make them [c] after their pattern, [4] which was shewed thee in the mount.

CHAP. XXVI.

MOREOVER, thou shalt make the tabernacle with ten [d] curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet: with cherubims [6] of cunning work shalt thou make them.

2 The length of one curtain shall be eight and twenty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: and every one of the curtains shall have one measure.

3 The five curtains shall be coupled together one to another; and other five curtains shall be coupled one to another.

4 And thou shalt make loops of blue upon the edge of the one curtain, from the selvedge in the coupling; and likewise shalt thou make in the uttermost edge of another curtain, in the coupling of the second.

5 Fifty loops shalt thou make in the one curtain, and fifty loops shalt thou make in the edge of the curtain that is in the coupling of the second, that the loops may take hold one of another.

6 And thou shalt make fifty taches of gold, and couple the curtains together with the taches; and it shall be one tabernacle.

7 And thou shalt make curtains of goats' hair, [i] to be a covering upon the tabernacle: eleven curtains shalt thou make.

8 The length of one curtain shall be thirty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: and the eleven curtains shall be all of one measure.

9 And thou shalt couple five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves, and shalt double the sixth curtain in the fore front of the tabernacle.

10 And thou shalt make fifty loops on the edge of the one curtain that is outmost in the coupling, and fifty loops in the edge of the curtain which coupleth the second.

11 And thou shalt make fifty taches of brass, and put the taches into the loops, and couple the [8] tent together, that it may be one.

12 And the remnant that remaineth of the curtains of the tent, the half-curtain that remaineth, shall hang over the back side of the tabernacle.

13 And a cubit on the one side, and a cubit on the other side, [1] of that which remaineth in the length of the curtains of the tent, it shall hang over the sides of the tabernacle on this side and on that side, to cover it.

14 And thou shalt make a covering for the tent of rams' skins dyed red, and a covering above of badgers' skins.

15 And thou shalt make boards for the tabernacle of shittim-wood standing up.

16 Ten cubits shall be the length of a board, and a cubit and a half shall be the breadth of one board.

17 Two [5] tenons shall there be in one board, set in order one against another: thus shalt thou make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

18 And thou shalt make the [e] boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards on the south side southward.

19 And thou shalt make [f] forty sockets of silver under the twenty boards; two sockets under one board for his two tenons, and two sockets under another board for his two tenons.

20 And for the second side of the tabernacle on the north side there shall be twenty boards,

21 And their forty sockets of silver; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.

22 And for the sides of the tabernacle westward thou shalt make six boards.

23 And two boards shalt thou make for the corners of the tabernacle in the two sides.

24 And they shall be [7] coupled together beneath, and they shall be coupled [g] together above the head of it unto [h] one ring: thus shall it be for them both; they shall be for the two corners.

25 And they shall be eight boards, and their sockets of silver, sixteen sockets; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.

26 And thou shalt make bars of shittim-wood; five for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle,

27 And five bars for the boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the side of the tabernacle, for the two sides westward.

28 And the middle bar in the midst of the boards shall reach from end to end.

29 And thou shalt overlay the boards with gold, and make their rings of gold for places for the bars: and thou shalt overlay the bars with gold.

30 And thou shalt rear up the tabernacle according to the fashion [j] thereof which was shewed thee in the mount

B. C. 1491.

31 And thou shalt make a [a] vail of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, of cunning work: with cherubims shall it be made.

32 And thou shalt hang it upon four pillars of shittim-wood overlaid with gold; their hooks shall be of gold, upon the four sockets of silver.

33 And thou shalt hang up the vail under the taches, that thou mayest bring in thither within the vail the ark of the testimony: and the vail shall divide unto you between the [b] holy place and the most holy.

34 And thou shalt put the mercy-seat upon the ark of the testimony in the most holy place.

35 And thou shalt [c] set the table without the vail, and the candlestick over against the table on the side of the tabernacle toward the south: and thou shalt put the table on the north side.

36 And thou shalt make an [d] hanging for the door of the tent, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, wrought with needle-work.

37 And thou shalt make for the hanging five pillars of shittim-wood, and overlay them with gold, and their hooks shall be of gold: and thou shalt cast five sockets of brass for them.

CHAP. XXVII.

AND thou shalt make [g] an altar of shittim-wood, five cubits long, and five cubits broad; the altar shall be foursquare; and the height thereof shall be three cubits.

2 And thou shalt make the [h] horns of it upon the four corners thereof: his horns shall be of the same: and thou shalt overlay it with brass.

3 And thou shalt make his pans to receive his ashes, and his shovels, and his basins, and his flesh-hooks, and his fire-pans: all the vessels thereof thou shalt make [l] of brass.

4 And thou shalt make for it a grate of net-work of brass; and upon the net shalt thou make four brazen rings in the four corners thereof.

5 And thou shalt put it under the compass of the altar beneath, that the net may be even to the midst of the altar.

6 And thou shalt make [o] staves for the altar, staves of shittim-wood, and overlay them with brass.

7 And the staves shall be put into the rings, and the staves shall be upon the two sides of the altar, to bear it.

8 Hollow with boards shalt thou make it; [3] as it was shewed thee in the mount, so [t] shall they make it.

9 And thou shalt make the [t] court of the tabernacle: for the south side southward there shall be hangings for the court of fine twined linen of an hundred cubits long for one side.

10 And the twenty pillars thereof and their twenty sockets shall be of brass; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets shall be of silver.

11 And likewise for the north side in length there shall be hangings of an hundred cubits long, and his twenty pillars and their twenty sockets of brass; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of silver.

12 And for the breadth of the court on the west side shall be hangings of fifty cubits; their pillars ten, and their sockets ten

13 And the breadth of the court on the east side eastward shall be fifty cubits

14 The hangings of one side of the gate shall be fifteen cubits: their pillars three, and their sockets three.

15 And on the other side shall be hangings fifteen cubits: their pillars three, and their sockets three.

16 And for the gate of the court shall be an [e] hanging of twenty cubits, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, wrought with [f] needle-work: and their pillars shall be four, and their sockets four

17 All the pillars round about the court shall be filleted with silver; their hooks shall be of silver, and their sockets of brass.

18 The length of the court shall be an hundred cubits, and the breadth [1] fifty everywhere, and the height five cubits of fine twined linen, and their sockets of brass.

19 All the vessels of the tabernacle in all the service thereof, and all the pins thereof, and all the pins of the court, shall be of [i] brass.

20 And thou shalt command the children of Israel, that they bring thee [j] pure oil-olive beaten for the light, to cause the lamp [2] to burn always.

21 In the tabernacle of the congregation without the vail, which is before the testimony, Aaron and his sons shall [k] order it from evening to morning before the LORD. It shall be a statute [m] for ever unto their generations on the behalf of the children of Israel.

CHAP. XXVIII.

AND take thou unto thee [n] Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him, from among the children of Israel, that he may minister unto me in the priest's office, even Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazer, and Ithamar, Aaron's sons.

2 And thou shalt make [p] holy garments for Aaron thy brother, for glory [q] and for beauty.

3 And thou shalt speak unto all that are wise-hearted, [r] whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they may make Aaron's garments to consecrate him, that he may minister unto me in the priest's office

4 And these are the garments which they shall make; [u] a breastplate, and [v] an ephod, and [w] a robe, and [x] a broidered coat, [a] a mitre, and a [b] girdle: and they shall make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, and his sons, that he may minister unto me in the priest's office.

5 And they shall take gold, and blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen.

6 And they shall make the ephod of gold, of blue, and of purple, of scarlet, and fine twined linen, with cunning work.

7 It shall have the two shoulder-pieces thereof joined at the two edges thereof; and so it shall be joined together.

8 And the [1] curious girdle of the ephod, which is upon it, shall be of the same, according to the work thereof; even of gold, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen.

9 And thou shalt take two onyx-stones, and grave on them the names of the children of Israel:

10 Six of their names on one stone, and the other six names of the rest on the other stone, according to their birth.

11 With the work of an engraver in stone, like the engravings [c] of a signet, shalt thou engrave the two stones with the names of the children of Israel: thou shalt make them to be set in ouches of gold.

12 And thou shalt put the two stones upon the shoulders of the ephod for stones of memorial unto the children of Israel. And Aaron shall [d] bear their names before the LORD upon his two shoulders for a [e] memorial.

13 And thou shalt make ouches of gold;

14 And two chains of pure gold at the ends; of wreathen-work shalt thou make them, and fasten the wreathen chains to the ouches.

15 And thou shalt make [h] the breastplate of judgment with cunning work; after the work of the ephod thou shalt make it; of gold, of blue, and of purple, and of scarlet, and of fine twined linen, shalt thou make it.

16 Foursquare it shall be, being doubled; a span shall be the length thereof, and a span shall be the breadth thereof.

17 And thou shalt [2] set in it settings of stones, even four rows of stones: the first row shall be a [4] sardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this shall be the first row.

18 And the second row shall be an emerald, a sapphire, and a diamond.

19 And the third row a ligure, an agate, and an amethyst.

20 And the fourth row a beryl, and an onyx, and [k] a jasper: they shall be set in gold in their [5] inclosings.

21 And the stones shall be with [l] the names of the children of Israel, twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a signet; every one with his name shall they be according to the twelve tribes.

22 And thou shalt make upon the breastplate chains at the ends of wreathen-work of pure gold.

23 And thou shalt make upon the breastplate two rings of gold, and shall put the two rings on the two ends of the breast plate.

24 And thou shalt put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breastplate.

25 And the other two ends of the two wreathen chains thou shalt fasten in the two ouches, and put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod before it.

26 And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and thou shalt put them upon the two ends of the breastplate, in the border thereof, which is in the side of the ephod inward.

27 And two other rings of gold thou shalt make, and shalt put them on the two sides of the ephod underneath, toward the forepart thereof, over against the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod.

28 And they shall bind the breastplate by the rings thereof unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it may be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breastplate be not loosed from the ephod.

29 And Aaron shall bear the names of the children of Israel in the breastplate of judgment upon his heart, when he goeth in unto the holy place, for a [f] memorial before the LORD continually.

30 And thou shalt put in the breastplate of judgment the [g] Urim and the Thummim; and they shall be upon Aaron's heart, when he goeth in before the LORD: and Aaron shall bear the judgment of the children of Israel upon his heart [i] before the LORD continually.

31 And thou shalt make the robe of the ephod all of blue.

32 And there shall be an hole in the top of it, in the midst thereof: it shall have a binding of woven work round about the hole of it, as it were the hole of an [j] habergeon, that it be not rent.

33 And beneath, upon the [3] hem of it, thou shalt make pomegranates of blue, and of purple, and of scarlet, round about the hem thereof; and bells of gold between them round about:

34 A golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe round about.

35 And it shall be upon Aaron to minister; and his sound shall be heard when he goeth in [m] unto the holy place before the LORD, and when he cometh out, that he die not.

36 And thou shalt make a [n] plate of pure gold, and grave upon it, like the engravings of a signet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD.

37 And thou shalt put it on a [a] blue lace, that it may be upon the mitre: upon the fore-front of the mitre it shall be.

38 And it shall be upon Aaron's forehead, that Aaron may bear [b] the iniquity of the holy things, which the children of Israel shall hallow in all their holy gifts; and it shall be always upon his forehead, that they may be [d] accepted before the LORD.

39 And thou shalt embroider the coat of fine linen, and thou shalt make the mitre of fine linen, and thou shalt make the girdle of [f] needle-work.

40 And for Aaron's sons thou shalt make coats, and thou shalt make for them girdles, and bonnets shalt thou make for them, for [g] glory and for beauty.

41 And thou shalt put them upon Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him; and shalt [h] anoint them, and [3] consecrate them, [j] and sanctify them, that they may minister unto me in the priest's office.

42 And thou shalt make them [k] linen breeches to cover [4] their nakedness; from the loins even unto the thighs they shall reach. [5]

43 And they shall be upon Aaron, and upon his sons, when they come in unto the tabernacle of the congregation, or when they come near unto [m] the altar to minister in the holy place; that they [n] bear not iniquity, and die. It shall be a [o] statute for ever unto him, and his seed after him.

CHAP. XXIX.

AND this is the thing that thou shalt do unto [r] them to hallow them, to minister unto me in the priest's office: Take one young bullock, and two rams without blemish,

2 And [t] unleavened bread, and cakes unleavened tempered with oil, and wafers unleavened anointed with oil: of wheaten flour shalt thou make them.

3 And thou shalt put them into one basket, and bring them in the basket, with the bullock and the two rams.

4 And Aaron and his sons thou shalt bring unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and shalt [v] wash them with water.

5 And thou shalt take the [w] garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breastplate, and gird him with the curious girdle of the ephod.

6 And thou shalt put the mitre upon his head, and put the holy crown upon the mitre.

7 Then shalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour it upon [x] his head, and anoint him.

8 And thou shalt bring his [y] sons, and put coats upon them.

9 And thou shalt gird them with girdles, Aaron and his sons, and [7] put the bonnets on them: and the priest's office [a] shall be theirs for a perpetual statute: and thou shalt [1] consecrate Aaron and his sons.

10 And thou shalt cause a bullock to be brought before the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron and his sons shall put their hands [c] upon the head of the bullock.

11 And thou shalt kill the bullock before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

12 And thou shalt take of the [e] blood of the bullock, and put it upon the horns of the altar with thy finger, and pour all the blood beside the bottom of the altar.

13 And thou shalt take all the fat that covereth the inwards, and [2] the caul that is above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and burn them upon the altar.

14 But the flesh of the bullock, and his skin, and his dung, shalt thou burn with fire [i] without the camp: it is a sin-offering.

15 Thou shalt also take one ram; and Aaron and his sons shall put their hands upon the [l] head of the ram.

16 And thou shalt slay the ram, and thou shalt take his blood, and sprinkle it round about upon the altar.

17 And thou shalt cut the ram in pieces, and wash the inwards of him, and his legs, and put them unto his pieces, and [6] unto his head.

18 And thou shalt burn the whole ram upon the altar: it is a burnt-offering unto the LORD: it is a [p] sweet savour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

19 And thou shalt take the [q] other ram, and Aaron and his sons shall put their hands upon the head of the ram.

20 Then shalt thou kill the ram, and take of his blood, and put it [8] upon the tip of the right ear of Aaron, and upon the tip of the right ear of his sons, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot, and sprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

21 And thou shalt take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of the anointing [u] oil, and sprinkle it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon the garments of his sons with him: and he shall be hallowed, and his garments, and his sons, and his sons' garments with him.

22 Also thou shalt take of the ram the fat and the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right shoulder; for it is a ram of consecration.

23 And one loaf of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer out of the basket of the unleavened bread that is before the LORD:

24 And thou shalt put all in the hands of Aaron, and in the hands of his sons; and shalt [6] wave them for a [z] wave-offering before the LORD.

25 And thou shalt receive them of their hands, and burn them upon the altar for a burnt-offering, for a [a] sweet savour before the LORD: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 And thou shalt take [b] the breast of the ram of Aaron's consecration, and wave it for a wave-offering before the LORD: and it shall be thy part.

27 And thou shalt sanctify [c] the breast of the wave-offering, and the shoulder of the heave-offering, which is waved, and which is heaved up, of the ram of the consecration, even of that which is for Aaron, and of that which is for his sons:

28 And it shall be Aaron's and his sons' by a statute for ever from the children of Israel; for it is an heave-offering: and it shall be an heave-offering from the children of Israel of the sacrifice of their peace-offerings, even their heave-offering unto the LORD.

29 And the holy garments of [g] Aaron shall be his sons' after him, to be anointed therein, and to be consecrated in them.

30 And [2] that son that is priest in his stead shall put them on [i] seven days, when he cometh into the tabernacle of the congregation, to minister in the holy place.

31 And thou shalt take the ram of the consecration, and seethe his flesh in the holy place.

32 And Aaron and his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram, and the [k] bread that is in the basket, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

33 And they shall eat [l] those things wherewith the atonement was made, to consecrate and to sanctify them: but a stranger shall [n] not eat thereof, because they are holy.

34 And if aught of the flesh of the consecrations, or of the bread, remain unto the morning, then thou shalt [o] burn the remainder with fire: it shall not be eaten, because it is holy.

35 And thus shalt thou do unto Aaron, and to his sons, according to all things which I have commanded thee: [q] seven days shalt thou consecrate them.

36 And thou shalt offer [s] every day a bullock for a sin-offering for atonement: and thou shalt cleanse the altar, when thou hast made an atonement for it, and thou shalt anoint it, [v] to sanctify it.

37 Seven days thou shalt make an atonement for the altar, and sanctify it; and it shall be an altar most holy: whatsoever [w] toucheth the altar shall be holy.

38 Now this is that which thou shalt offer upon the altar; [y] two lambs of the first year, day by day continually.

39 The one lamb thou shalt offer in the morning, and the other lamb thou shalt offer at even:

40 And with the one lamb a tenth-deal of flour mingled with the fourth part of an hin of beaten oil; and the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink-offering.

41 And the other lamb thou shalt offer at even, and shalt do thereto according to the meat-offering of the morning, and according to the drink-offering thereof, for a sweet savour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

42 This shall be a continual burnt-offering throughout your generations, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, before the LORD; where I will [d] meet you, to speak there unto thee.

43 And there I will meet with the children of Israel, and [1] the tabernacle shall be sanctified [e] by my glory.

44 And I will sanctify the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar: I will sanctify also both Aaron and his sons, to minister to me in the priest's office.

45 And I will [f] dwell among the children of Israel, and will be their God.

46 And they shall know that [h] I am the LORD their God, that brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell among them: I am the LORD their God.

CHAP. XXX.

AND thou shalt make [j] an altar to burn incense upon; of shittim-wood shalt thou make it.

2 A cubit shall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof; four-square shall it be: and two cubits shall be the height thereof: the horns thereof shall be of the same.

3 And thou shalt [m] overlay it with pure gold, the [3] top thereof, and the [4] sides thereof round about, and the horns thereof: and thou shalt make unto it a crown of gold round about.

4 And two golden rings shalt thou make to it under the crown of it, by the two corners [5] thereof; upon the two sides of it shalt thou make it; and they shall be for places for the staves to bear it withal.

5 And thou shalt make the [p] staves of shittim-wood, and overlay them with gold.

6 And thou shalt put it before the [r] vail that is by the ark of the testimony, before the [t] mercy-seat that is over the testimony, where I will meet with thee.

7 And Aaron shall burn thereon [6] sweet incense [u] every morning: when he dresseth the lamps, he shall burn incense upon it.

8 And when Aaron [7] lighteth the lamps [8] at even, he shall burn incense upon it; a perpetual incense before the LORD throughout your generations.

9 Ye shall offer no [x] strange incense thereon, nor burnt-sacrifice, nor meat-offering; neither shall ye pour drink-offering thereon.

10 And Aaron shall make an atonement upon the horns of it [z] once in a year with the blood of the sin-offering of atonements: once in the year shall he make atonement upon it, throughout your generations: it is most holy unto the LORD.

11 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

12 When thou takest the [a] sum of the children of Israel, after [1] their number, then shall they give every man a [c] ransom for his soul unto the LORD, when thou numberest them; that there be no [d] plague among them when thou numberest them.

13 This they shall give, every one that passeth among them that are numbered, half a shekel after the shekel of the sanctuary: (a shekel is twenty gerahs:) an half shekel shall be the offering of the LORD.

14 Every one that passeth among them that are numbered, from twenty years old and above, shall give an offering unto the LORD.

15 The rich shall not [2] give more, and the poor shall not [3] give less, than half a shekel, when they give an offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for your souls.

16 And thou shalt take the atonement-money of the children of Israel, and shalt appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be a memorial unto the children of Israel before the LORD, to make an atonement for your souls.

17 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

18 Thou shalt also make a [g] laver of brass, and his foot also of brass, to wash withal: and thou shalt put it between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar, and thou shalt put water therein:

19 For Aaron and his sons shall [i] wash their hands and their feet thereat.

20 When they go into the tabernacle of the congregation, they shall wash with water, that they die not; or when they come near to the altar to minister, to burn offering made by fire unto the LORD:

21 So they shall wash their hands and their feet, that they die not: and it shall be a statute for ever to them, even to him and to his seed throughout their generations.

22 Moreover, the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

23 Take thou also unto thee principal spices, of pure [n] myrrh five hundred shekels, and of sweet cinnamon half so much, even two hundred and fifty shekels, and of sweet calamus two hundred and fifty shekels,

24 And of cassia five hundred shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, and of oil-olive an hin:

25 And thou shalt make it an oil of holy ointment, an ointment compound after the art of the [5] apothecary: it shall be an [q] holy anointing oil.

26 And thou shalt [s] anoint the tabernacle of the congregation therewith, and the ark of the testimony,

27 And the table and all his vessels, and the candlestick and his vessels, and the altar of incense,

28 And the altar of burnt-offering with all his vessels, and the laver and his foot.

29 And thou shalt sanctify them, that they may be most holy: [b] whatsoever toucheth them shall be holy.

30 And thou shalt anoint Aaron and his sons, and consecrate them, that they may minister unto me in the priest's office.

31 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, This shall be an holy anointing oil unto me throughout your generations.

32 Upon man's flesh shall it not be poured; neither shall ye make any other like it, after the composition of it: it is holy, [t] and it shall be holy unto you.

33 Whosoever compoundeth any like it, or whosoever putteth any of it upon a stranger, shall even be cut off from his people.

34 And the LORD said unto Moses, Take unto thee sweet [f] spices, stacte, and onycha, and galbanum; these sweet spices, with pure frankincense: of each shall there be a like weight.

35 And thou shalt make it a perfume, a confection after the art of the apothecary [4] tempered together, pure and holy:

36 And thou shalt beat some of it very small, and put of it before the testimony in the tabernacle of the congregation, where [h] I will meet with thee: it shall be unto you most holy.

37 And as for the perfume which thou shalt make, ye shall not make to yourselves according to the composition thereof: it shall be unto thee holy for the LORD.

38 Whosoever shall make like unto that, to smell thereto, [j] shall even be cut off from his people.

CHAP. XXXI.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 See, I have called by [k] name Bezaleel [l] the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah:

3 And I have [m] filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom, and in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship,

4 To devise cunning works, to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass,

5 And in cutting of stones, to set them, and in carving of timber, to work in all manner of workmanship.

6 And I, behold, I have given with him [o] Aholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan: and in the hearts of all that are wise-hearted [p] I have put wisdom, that they may make [r] all that I have commanded thee:

7 The tabernacle of the congregation, and the ark of the testimony, and the mercy-seat that is thereupon, and all the [6] furniture of the tabernacle,

8 And the table and his furniture, and the pure candlestick with all his furniture, and the altar of incense,

9 And the altar of burnt-offering, with all his furniture, and the laver and his foot,

10 And the cloths of service, and the holy garments, for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, to minister in the priest's office.

11 And the anointing oil, and sweet incense for the holy place: according to all that I have commanded thee shall they do.

12 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

13 Speak thou also unto the children of Israel, saying, Verily my [c] sabbaths ye shall keep: for it is a [d] sign between me and you throughout your generations; that ye may know that I am the LORD that doth sanctify you.

14 Ye shall keep [f] the sabbath therefore, for it is holy unto you: every one that defileth it shall surely be put to death: for whosoever [i] doeth any work therein, that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

15 Six days may work be done; but in the seventh is the sabbath of rest, [2] holy to the LORD: whosoever doeth any work on the sabbath-day, he [k] shall surely be put to death.

16 Wherefore the children of Israel shall keep the sabbath, to observe the sabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant.

17 It is [n] a sign between me and the children of Israel for ever: for in [p] six days the LORD made heaven and earth, and on the seventh day he rested, and was [r] refreshed.

18 And he gave unto Moses, when he had made an end of communing with him upon mount Sinai, [s] two tables of testimony, tables of stone, written with the finger of God.

CHAP. XXXII.

AND when the people saw that Moses delayed [u] to come down out of the mount, the people gathered themselves together unto Aaron, and said unto him, Up, make us gods, [v] which shall go before us: for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, [x] we wot not what is become of him.

2 And Aaron said unto them, Break off the [y] golden ear-rings, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me.

3 And all the people brake off the golden ear-rings which were in their ears, and brought them unto Aaron.

4 And he received them at their hand, and fashioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a [z] molten calf: and they said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

5 And when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it; and Aaron made [a] proclamation, and said, To-morrow is a feast to the LORD.

6 And they rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt-offerings, and brought peace-offerings: and the people [a] sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play.

7 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go, get thee down; for thy people, which thou broughtest out of the land of Egypt, have [b] corrupted themselves:

8 They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them: they have made them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and have sacrificed thereunto, and said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

9 And the LORD said unto Moses, I have seen this people, and, behold, [e] it is a stiffnecked people:

10 Now therefore let me alone, [g] that my wrath may [g] wax hot against them, and that I may consume them, and [h] I will make of thee a great nation.

11 And Moses besought [1] the LORD his God, and said, LORD, why [j] doth thy wrath wax hot against thy people, which thou hast brought forth out of the land of Egypt with great power, and with a mighty hand?

12 Wherefore should the [l] Egyptians speak and say, For mischief did he bring them out, to slay them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth? Turn from [m] thy fierce wrath, and repent [o] of this evil against thy people.

13 Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, thy servants, to whom thou [q] swarest by thine own self, and saidst unto them, I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven; and all this land that I have spoken of will I give unto your seed, and they shall inherit it for ever.

14 And the LORD [t] repented of the evil which he thought to do unto his people.

15 And Moses turned, and went down from the mount, and the two tables of the testimony were in his hand: the tables were written on both their sides: on the one side and on the other were they written.

16 And the tables were the work of God, and the writing was [w] the writing of God, graven upon the tables.

17 And when Joshua heard the noise of the people as they shouted, he said unto Moses, There is a noise of war in the camp.

18 And he said, It is not the voice of them that shout for mastery, neither is it the voice of them that cry for [3] being overcome; but the noise of them that sing do I hear.

19 And it came to pass, as soon as he came nigh unto the camp, that he saw the calf, and the dancing: and Moses' anger waxed hot, and he cast the tables out of his hands, and brake them beneath the mount.

20 And he took the calf which they had made, and [b] burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder, and strawed it upon the water, and made the children of Israel drink of it.

21 And Moses said unto Aaron, [a] What did this people unto thee, that thou hast brought so great a sin upon them?

22 And Aaron said, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot: thou knowest the people, that they are set [b] on mischief.

23 For they said unto me, [c] Make us gods, which shall go before us: for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

24 And I said unto them, Whosoever hath any gold, let them break it off. So they gave it me: then I cast it into the fire, [d] and there came out this calf.

25 And when Moses saw that the people were naked; (for Aaron had made them naked [e] unto their shame among their [1] enemies,)

26 Then Moses stood in the gate of the camp, and said, Who is on the LORD's side; let him come unto me. And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together unto him.

27 And he said unto them, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Put every man his sword by his side, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and [h] slay every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour.

28 And the children of Levi [i] did according to the word of Moses: and there fell of the people that day about three thousand men.

29 [2] For Moses had said, [3] Consecrate yourselves to-day to the LORD, even every man upon his son, and upon his brother; that he may bestow upon you [j] a blessing this day.

30 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses said unto the people, [l] Ye have sinned a great sin: and now I will go up unto the LORD; peradventure I shall [m] make an atonement for your sin.

31 And Moses returned unto the LORD, and said, Oh, this people have sinned a great sin, and have made them [o] gods of gold;

32 Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin—; and if not, [p] blot me, I pray thee, out of [q] thy book which thou hast written.

33 And the LORD said unto Moses, Whosoever hath sinned against me, [s] him will I blot out of my book.

34 Therefore now go, lead the people unto the place of which I have spoken unto thee: behold, mine Angel [u] shall go before thee: nevertheless in the day when I visit [w] I will visit their sin upon them.

35 And the LORD plagued the people, because they made the calf, which Aaron made.

CHAP. XXXIII.

AND the LORD said unto Moses, Depart, and go up hence, thou and the people which thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt, unto the land which I sware unto Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying, Unto thy seed will I give it:

2 And I will send an angel before thee; and I will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite:

3 Unto a land flowing with milk and honey: for I will not go up in the midst of thee; for thou art a stiff-necked people; lest I consume thee in the way.

4 And when the people heard these evil tidings, they mourned; and no man did put on him his ornaments.

5 For the LORD had said unto Moses Say unto the children of Israel, Ye are a stiff-necked people: I will come up into the midst of thee in a moment, and consume thee: therefore now put off [f] thy ornaments from thee, that I may know what to do unto thee.

6 And the children of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments by the mount Horeb.

7 And Moses took the [g] tabernacle, and pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp, and called it The Tabernacle of the Congregation. And it came to pass, that every one which sought the LORD, went out unto the tabernacle of the congregation, which was without the camp.

8 And it came to pass, when Moses went out unto the tabernacle, that all the people rose up, and stood every man at his tent-door, and looked after Moses, until he was gone into the tabernacle.

9 And it came to pass, as Moses entered into the tabernacle, the cloudy pillar descended, and stood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD [k] talked with Moses.

10 And all the people saw the cloudy pillar stand at the tabernacle-door: and all the people rose up and worshipped, every man in his tent-door.

11 And the LORD spake unto [n] Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend. And he turned again into the camp: but his servant Joshua, the son of Nun, a young man, departed not out of the tabernacle.

12 And Moses said unto the LORD, See, thou sayest unto me, [r] Bring up this people: and thou hast not let me know whom thou wilt send with me. Yet thou hast said, I know thee [t] by name, and thou hast also found grace in my sight.

13 Now therefore, I pray thee, if I have found grace in thy sight, [v] shew me now thy way, that I may know thee, that I may find grace in thy sight; and consider [x] that this nation is thy people.

14 And he said, My presence [y] shall go with thee, and I will give thee [z] rest.

15 And he said unto him, If thy presence go not [a] with me, carry us not up hence.

16 For wherein shall it be known here that I and thy people have found grace in thy sight? is it not in that thou goest with us? so [c] shall we be separated, I and thy people, from all the people that are upon the face of the earth.

17 And the LORD said unto Moses, I will do this thing also that thou hast spoken: for thou hast found grace in my sight, and I know thee by name.

18 And he said, I beseech thee, shew me thy glory.

19 And he said, I will make all my goodness [h] pass before thee, and I will proclaim the name of the LORD before thee; and will be gracious [j] to whom I will be gracious, and will shew mercy on whom I will shew mercy.

20 And he said, Thou canst not see [k] my face: for there shall no man see me, and live.

21 And the LORD said, Behold, there is a place by me, and thou shalt stand upon a rock:

22 And it shall come to pass, while my glory passeth by, that I will put thee in a clift of the rock, and will cover thee with my hand while I pass by:

23 And I will take away mine hand, and thou shalt see my back parts; but my face shall not be seen.

CHAP. XXXIV.

AND the LORD said unto Moses, Hew thee two tables of stone like unto the first; and I will write [o] upon these tables the words that were in the first tables, which thou brakest.

2 And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and present thyself there to me in the top of the mount.

3 And no man shall [q] come up with thee, neither let any man be seen throughout all the mount; neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mount.

4 And he hewed two tables of stone like unto the first: and Moses rose up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, and took in his hand the two tables of stone.

5 And the LORD descended in the cloud, and stood with him there, and proclaimed the name [t] of the LORD.

6 And the LORD passed by before him, and proclaimed, The LORD, The LORD God, [u] merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abundant in goodness [v] and truth;

7 Keeping mercy for thousands, [w] forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty; visiting the iniquity [y] of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, unto the third and to the fourth generation.

8 And Moses made haste, and bowed his head toward the earth, and worshipped.

9 And he said, If now I have found grace in thy sight, O LORD, let my Lord, I pray thee, [a] go among us; for it is a [b] stiff-necked people; and pardon our iniquity and our sin, and take us for [d] thine inheritance.

10 And he said, Behold, I make [e] a covenant: before all thy people I will [f] do marvels, such as have not been done in all the earth, nor in any nation: and all the people among which thou art shall see the work of the LORD; for it is a [g] terrible thing that I will do with thee.

11 Observe thou that which I command thee this day: behold, I drive [i] out before thee the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite.

12 Take heed to thyself, lest thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land whither thou goest, lest it be for [l] a snare in the midst of thee:

13 But ye shall destroy their altars, break their [1] images, and cut down their groves:

14 For thou shalt worship [m] no other god: for the LORD, whose name is Jealous, is a jealous God:

15 Lest thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, and they go a whoring after their gods, and do sacrifice unto their gods, and one call thee, and thou eat of his sacrifice;

16 And thou take of [n] their daughters unto thy sons, and their daughters go a whoring after their gods, and make thy sons go a whoring after their gods.

17 Thou shalt make thee no molten gods.

18 The feast of unleavened bread shalt thou keep. Seven days thou shalt eat unleavened bread, [p] as I commanded thee, in the time of the month Abib: for in the month Abib thou camest out from Egypt.

19 All [r] that openeth the matrix is mine; and every firstling among thy cattle, whether ox or sheep, that is male.

20 But the firstling of an ass thou shalt redeem with a [2] lamb: and if thou redeem him not, then shalt thou break his neck. All the first-born of thy sons thou shalt redeem: And none shall appear before me empty.

21 Six days [s] thou shalt work; but on the seventh day thou shalt rest: in earing time and in harvest thou shalt rest.

22 And thou shalt observe the feast of weeks, of the first-fruits of wheat harvest, and the feast of ingathering at the [3] year's end.

23 Thrice [x] in a year shall all your men-children appear before the LORD God, the God of Israel.

24 For I will cast out the nations [z] before thee, and enlarge thy borders: neither shall any man [a] desire thy land, when thou shalt go up to appear before the LORD thy God thrice in the year.

25 Thou shalt not offer the blood of my sacrifice with leaven; neither shall the sacrifice of the feast of the passover be left unto the morning.

26 The first of the [a] first-fruits of thy land thou shalt bring unto the house of the LORD thy God. Thou shalt not seethe [b] a kid in his mother's milk.

27 And the LORD said unto Moses, Write thou [c] these words: for after the tenor of these words I have made a covenant with thee and with Israel.

28 And he was there with the LORD forty days [e] and forty nights; he did neither eat bread, nor drink water. And he [f] wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ten [1] commandments.

29 And it came to pass, when Moses came down from mount Sinai with the two tables of testimony in Moses' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moses wist not that the skin of his face shone [i] while he talked with him.

30 And when Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone: and they were afraid to come nigh him.

31 And Moses called unto them; and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned unto him: and Moses talked with them.

32 And afterward all the children of Israel came nigh: and he gave them in commandment [l] all that the LORD had spoken with him in mount Sinai.

33 And till Moses had done speaking with them, he put a vail [n] on his face.

34 But when Moses went in before the LORD, to speak with Him, he took the vail off, until he came out. And he came out, and spake unto the children of Israel that which he was commanded.

35 And the children of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone: and Moses put the vail upon his face again, until he went in to speak with Him.

CHAP. XXXV.

AND Moses gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together, and said unto them, [p] These are the words which the LORD hath commanded, that ye should do them.

2 Six days [q] shall work be done; but on the seventh day there shall be to you [2] an holy day, a sabbath of rest to the LORD: whosoever doeth work therein [r] shall be put to death.

3 Ye shall kindle no [s] fire throughout your habitations upon the sabbath-day.

4 And Moses spake unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying, This is the thing which the LORD commanded, saying,

5 Take ye from among you an offering unto the Lord: whosoever is of a [t] willing heart, let him bring it, an offering of the LORD; gold, and silver, and brass,

6 And blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen, and goats' hair,

7 And rams' skins dyed red, and badgers skins, and shittim-wood,

8 And oil for the light, and spices for anointing oil, and for the sweet incense,

9 And onyx-stones, and stones to be set, for the ephod, and for the breastplate.

10 And every wise hearted among you shall come [d] and make all that the LORD hath commanded;

11 The tabernacle, his tent, and his covering, his taches, and his boards, his bars, his pillars, and his sockets,

12 The [g] ark and the staves thereof, with the mercy-seat, and the vail of the covering,

13 The table and his staves, and all his vessels, and the [h] shew-bread,

14 The candlestick also for the light, and his furniture, and his lamps, with the oil for the light,

15 And the [j] incense-altar, and his staves, and the anointing oil, and the sweet incense, and the hanging for the door at the entering in of the tabernacle,

16 The altar of burnt-offering, with his brazen grate, his staves, and all his vessels, the laver and his foot,

17 The hangings [k] of the court, his pillars, and their sockets, and the hanging for the door of the court,

18 The pins of the tabernacle, and the pins of the court, and their cords,

19 The cloths [m] of service, to do service in the holy place, the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, to minister in the priest's office,

20 And all the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses.

21 And they came, every one [o] whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing, and they brought the LORD's offering to the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all his service, and for the holy garments.

22 And they came, both men and women, as many as were willing hearted, and brought bracelets, and ear-rings, and rings, and tablets, all jewels of gold: and every man that offered, offered an offering of gold unto the LORD.

23 And every man with whom was found blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen, and goats' hair, and red skins of rams and badgers' skins, brought them.

24 Every one that did offer an offering of silver and brass, brought the LORD's offering: and every man with whom was found shittim-wood, for any work of the service, brought it.

25 And all the women that were wise hearted did [u] spin with their hands, and brought that which they had spun, both of blue, and of purple, and of scarlet, and of fine linen.

26 And all the women whose heart stir-ed them up in wisdom spun goats' hair.

27 And [a] the rulers brought onyx-stones, and stones to be set, for the ephod, and for the breastplate:
28 And [c] spice, and oil for the light, and for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense.
29 The children of Israel brought a willing [e] offering unto the LORD, every man and woman, whose heart made them willing to bring, for all manner of work which the LORD had commanded to be made by the hand of Moses.
30 And Moses said unto the children of Israel, See, [f] the LORD hath called by name Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah,
31 And he hath filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship;
32 And to devise curious works, to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass,
33 And in the cutting of stones to set them, and in carving of wood, to make any manner of cunning work
34 And he hath [h] put in his heart that he may teach, both he and Aholiab the son of Ahisamach of the tribe of Dan.
35 Them hath he filled [k] with wisdom of heart, to work all manner of work, of the engraver, and of the cunning workman, and of the embroiderer, in blue, and in purple, in scarlet, and in fine linen, and of the weaver, even of them that do any work, and of those that devise cunning work.

CHAP. XXXVI.

THEN wrought Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every [l] wise-hearted man, in whom the LORD put wisdom and understanding, to know how to work all manner of work for the service of the [m] sanctuary, according to all that the LORD had commanded.
2 And Moses called Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wise-hearted man, in whose heart the LORD had put wisdom, even every one whose heart [o] stirred him up to come unto the work to do it:
3 And they received of Moses all the offering, which the children of Israel had brought for the work of the service of the sanctuary, to make it withal. And they brought yet unto him free-offerings every morning.
4 And all the wise [r] men, that wrought all the work [s] of the sanctuary, came every man from his work which they made;
5 And they spake unto Moses, saying, The people bring much [t] more than enough for the service of the work, which the LORD commanded to make.
6 And Moses gave commandment, and they caused it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, saying, Let neither man nor woman make any more work for the offering of the sanctuary. So the people were restrained from bringing.

7 For the stuff they had was sufficient for all the work to make it, [b] and too much.
8 And every wise-hearted man among them that wrought the work of the tabernacle made ten [d] curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet: with cherubims of cunning work made he them.
9 The length of one curtain was twenty and eight cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: the curtains were all of one size.
10 And he coupled the five curtains one unto another; and the other five curtains he coupled one unto another
11 And he made loops of blue on the edge of one curtain from the selvedge in the coupling: likewise he made in the uttermost side of another curtain, in the coupling of the second.
12 Fifty [g] loops made he in one curtain, and fifty loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the second. The loops held one curtain to another.
13 And he made fifty taches of gold, and coupled the curtains one unto another with the taches: so it became [i] one tabernacle.
14 And he made curtains of [j] goats' hair for the tent over the tabernacle: eleven curtains he made them.
15 The length of one curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were of one size.
16 And he coupled five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves.
17 And he made fifty loops upon the uttermost edge of the curtain in the coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain which coupleth the second.
18 And he made fifty taches of brass to couple the tent together, that it might be one.
19 And he made a covering [n] for the tent of rams' skins dyed red, and a covering of badgers' skins above that.
20 And he made [p] boards for the tabernacle of shittim-wood, [q] standing up.
21 The length of a board was ten cubits, and the breadth of a board one cubit and a half.
22 One board had two tenons, equally distant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle.
23 And he made boards for the tabernacle; twenty boards for the south side southward.
24 And forty sockets of silver he made under the twenty boards; two sockets under one board for his two tenons, and two sockets under another board for his two tenons.
25 And for the other side of the tabernacle, which is toward the north corner he made twenty boards,
26 And their forty sockets of silver: two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.

27 And for the sides of the tabernacle westward he made six boards.

28 And two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the two sides.

29 And they were [1] coupled beneath, and coupled together at the head thereof, to one ring: thus he did to both of them in both the corners.

30 And there were eight boards; and their sockets were sixteen sockets of silver, [2] under every board two sockets.

31 And he made [d] bars of shittim-wood: five for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle,

32 And five bars for the boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle for the sides westward.

33 And he made the middle bar to shoot through the boards from the one end to the other.

34 And he overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

35 And he made a [e] vail of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen: with cherubims made he it of cunning work.

36 And he made thereunto four pillars of shittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold: their hooks were of gold; and he cast for them four sockets of silver.

37 And he made an [h] hanging for the tabernacle door of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, [4] of [i] needlework;

38 And the five pillars of it with their hooks: and he overlaid their chapiters and their fillets with gold; but their five sockets were of brass.

CHAP. XXXVII.

AND Bezaleel made the [j] ark of shittim-wood: two cubits and a half was the length of it, and a cubit and a half the breadth of it, and a cubit and a half the height of it:

2 And he overlaid it with pure gold within and without, and made a crown of gold to it round about.

3 And he cast for it four rings of gold, to be set by the four corners of it; even two rings upon the one side of it, and two rings upon the other side of it.

4 And he made staves of shittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold.

5 And he put the staves into the rings by the sides of the ark, to bear the ark.

6 And he made the mercy-seat [k] of pure gold: two cubits and a half was the length thereof, and one cubit and a half the breadth thereof.

7 And he made two [m] cherubims of gold, beaten out of one piece made he them, on the two ends of the mercy-seat;

8 One cherub [5] on the end on this side; and another cherub [5] on the other end on that side: out of the mercy-seat made he the cherubims on the two ends thereof.

9 And the cherubims [a] spread out their wings on high, and covered with their wings over the mercy-seat, with their faces one to another; even to the [b] mercy-seatward were the faces of the cherubims.

10 And he made the [c] table of shittim-wood: two cubits was the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof:

11 And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made thereunto a crown of gold round about.

12 Also he made thereunto a border of an hand breadth round about; and made a crown of gold for the border thereof, round about.

13 And he cast for it four rings of gold, and put the rings upon the four corners that were in the four feet thereof.

14 Over against the border were the rings, the places for the staves to bear the table

15 And he made the staves of shittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold, to bear the table.

16 And he made the vessels which were upon the table, his [f] dishes, and his spoons, and his bowls, and his covers [3] to cover withal, of pure gold.

17 And he made the [g] candlestick of pure gold: of beaten work made he the candlestick; his shaft, and his branch, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers, were of the same:

18 And six branches going out of the sides thereof; three branches of the candlestick out of the one side thereof, and three branches of the candlestick out of the other side thereof:

19 Three bowls made after the fashion of almonds in one branch, a knop and a flower; and three bowls made like almonds in another branch, a knop and a flower; so throughout the six branches going out of the candlestick.

20 And in the candlestick were four bowls made like almonds, his knops, and his flowers:

21 And a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, according to the six branches going out of it.

22 Their knops and their branches were of the same: all of it was one beaten work of pure gold.

23 And he made his seven lamps, and his snuffers, and his snuff-dishes, of pure gold.

24 Of a talent of pure gold made he it, and all the vessels thereof.

25 And he made the incense [l] altar of shittim-wood: the length of it was a cubit, and the breadth of it a cubit; it was four square, and two cubits was the height of it; the horns thereof were of the same.

26 And he overlaid it with pure gold, both

CHAP. XXXVIII

AND he made the [d] altar of burnt-offering of shittim-wood: five cubits was the length thereof, and five cubits the breadth thereof; it was foursquare; and three cubits the height thereof.

2 And he made the horns thereof on the four corners of it: the horns thereof were of the same: and he overlaid it with brass.

3 And he made all the vessels of the altar, the pots, and the shovels, and the basins, and the flesh-hooks, and the fire-pans: all the vessels thereof made he of brass.

4 And he made for the altar a brazen grate of net-work under the compass thereof beneath unto the midst of it.

5 And he cast four rings for the four ends of the grate of brass, to be places for the staves.

6 And he made the staves of shittim-wood, and overlaid them with brass.

7 And he put the staves into the rings on the sides of the altar, to bear it withal: he made the altar hollow with boards.

8 And he made the [k] laver of brass, and the foot of it of brass, of the [1] looking-glasses of the women [2] assembling, which assembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

9 And he made [m] the court: on the south side southward the hangings of the court were of fine twined linen, an hundred cubits:

10 Their pillars were twenty, and their brazen sockets twenty: the hooks of the pillars and their fillets were of silver.

11 And for the north side the hangings were an hundred cubits, their pillars were twenty, and their sockets of brass twenty: the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of silver

12 And for the west side were hangings of fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their sockets ten; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of silver.

13 And for the east side eastward fifty cubits.

14 The hangings of the one side of the gate were fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their sockets three.

15 And for the other side of the court gate, on this hand and that hand, were hangings of fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their sockets three 16 All the hangings of the court round about were of fine twined linen.

17 And the sockets for the pillars were of brass; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of silver; and the overlaying of their chapiters of silver: and all the pillars of the court were filleted with silver.

18 And the hanging for the gate of the court was needle-work, of [n] blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen; and twenty cubits was the length, and the height in the breadth was five cubits, answerable to the hangings of the court.

19 And their pillars were four, and their sockets of brass four; their hooks of silver, and the overlaying of their chapiters and their fillets of silver.

20 And all the [o] pins of the tabernacle, and of the court round about, were of brass.

21 This is the sum of the tabernacle, even of the [p] tabernacle of testimony, as it was counted, according to the commandment of Moses, for the service of the Levites, by the hand of [q] Ithamar, son to Aaron the priest.

22 And [h] Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD commanded Moses.

23 And with him was [i] Aholiab, son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver, and a cunning workman, and an embroiderer in blue, and in purple, and in scarlet, and fine linen.

24 All the gold [j] that was occupied for the work in all the work of the holy place, even the gold of the offering, was twenty and nine talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels, after the shekel [l] of the sanctuary.

25 And the silver of them that were numbered of the congregation was an hundred talents, and a thousand seven hundred and threescore and fifteen shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary:

26 A bekah for [3] every man, that is, half a shekel, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for [n] every one that went to be numbered, from twenty years old and upward, [o] for six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty men.

27 And of the hundred talents of silver were cast [p] the sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the vail; an hundred sockets of the hundred talents, a talent for a socket.

28 And of the thousand seven hundred seventy and five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their chapiters, and [q] filleted them.

29 And the brass of the offering was seventy talents, and two thousand and four hundred shekels.

AND of [a] the blue, and purple, and scarlet, they made [b] cloths of service, to do service in the holy place, and made the holy garments for Aaron; as the LORD [c] commanded Moses.

2 And he made the ephod [d] of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen.

3 And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the scarlet, and in the fine linen, with cunning work.

4 They made shoulder-pieces for it, to couple it together: by the two edges was it coupled together.

5 And the curious girdle of his ephod, that was upon it, was of the same, according to the work thereof; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen; as the LORD commanded Moses.

6 And they wrought onyx-stones inclosed in ouches of gold, graven, as signets are graven, [f] with the names of the children of Israel.

7 And he put them on the shoulders of the ephod, that they should be stones for a memorial [i] to the children of Israel; as the LORD commanded Moses.

8 And he made the [j] breastplate of cunning work, like the work of the ephod; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen.

9 It was four-square; they made the breastplate double: a span was the length thereof, and a span the breadth thereof, being doubled.

10 And they set in it four rows [o] of stones: the first row was a [1] sardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this was the first row.

11 And the second row, an emerald, a sapphire, and a diamond.

12 And the third row, a ligure, an agate, and an amethyst.

13 And the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper: they were inclosed in ouches of gold in their inclosings.

14 And the stones were according to the names of the children of Israel, [q] twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a signet, every one with his name, according to the twelve tribes.

15 And they made upon the breastplate chains at the ends, of wreathen work of pure gold.

16 And they made two ouches of gold, and two gold rings, and put the two rings in the two ends of the breastplate.

17 And they put the two [s] wreathen chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breastplate.

18 And the two ends of the two wreathen chains they fastened in the two ouches, and put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, before it.

19 And they made two rings of gold and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, upon the border of it, which was on the side of the ephod inward.

20 And they made two other golden rings, and put them on the two sides of the ephod underneath, toward the fore-part of it, over against the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod.

21 And they did bind the breastplate by his rings unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it might be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breastplate might not be loosed from the ephod: as the LORD commanded Moses.

22 And he made the robe [e] of the ephod of woven work, all of blue.

23 And there was an hole in the midst of the robe, as the hole of an habergeon, with a band round about the hole, that it should not rend.

24 And they made upon the hems of the robe pomegranates of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and twined linen.

25 And they made [g] bells of pure gold, and put the bells between the [h] pomegranates upon the hem of the robe, round about between the pomegranates;

26 A bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, round about the hem of the robe to minister in; as the LORD commanded Moses.

27 And they made [k] coats of fine linen, of woven work, for Aaron and for his sons.

28 And a [l] mitre of fine linen, and goodly bonnets of fine linen, and [m] linen breeches of fine twined linen;

29 And a [n] girdle of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet, of needlework; as the LORD commanded Moses.

30 And they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote upon it a writing, like to the engravings of a signet, HOLINESS [p] TO THE LORD.

31 And they tied unto it a lace of blue, to fasten it on high upon the mitre; as the LORD commanded Moses.

32 Thus was all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation finished: and the children of Israel [r] did according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did they.

33 And they brought the tabernacle unto Moses, the tent, and all his furniture, his taches, his boards, his bars, and his pillars, and his sockets,

34 And the covering of rams' skins dyed red, and the covering of badgers' skins, and the vail of the covering,

35 The ark of the testimony, and the staves thereof, and the mercy-seat,

36 The table, and all the vesse.s thereof and the shew-bread,

42 According to all that the LORD commanded Moses, [d] so the children of Israel made all the work.

43 And Moses did look upon all the work, and, behold, they had done it as the LORD had commanded, even so had they done it: and Moses [f] blessed them.

CHAP. XL.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 On the first day [i] of the first month shalt thou set up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

3 And thou shalt put therein the ark of the testimony, and cover the ark with the vail.

4 And thou shalt bring in the table, and set in order [2] the things that are to be [l] set in order upon it; and thou shalt bring in the candlestick, and light the lamps thereof.

5 And thou shalt set the altar of gold for the incense before the ark of the testimony, and put the hanging of the door to the tabernacle.

6 And thou shalt set the altar of the burnt-offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

7 And thou shalt set the [o] laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and shalt put water therein.

8 And thou shalt set up the court round about, and hang up the hanging at the court gate.

9 And thou shalt take the anointing oil, and [t] anoint the tabernacle, and all that is therein, and shalt hallow it, and all the vessels thereof. and it shall be holy.

10 And thou shalt anoint the altar of the burnt-offering, and all his vessels, and sanctify the altar: and [x] it shall be an altar [3] most holy.

11 And thou shalt anoint the laver and his foot, and sanctify it.

12 And thou shalt bring [a] Aaron and his sons unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and wash them with water.

13 And thou shalt put upon Aaron the holy garments, and [w] anoint him, [x] and sanctify him; that he may minister unto me in the priest's office.

14 And thou shalt bring his sons, and clothe them with coats:

15 And thou shalt anoint them, as thou didst anoint their father, that they may minister unto me in the priest's office: for their anointing shall surely be [a] an everlasting priesthood throughout their generations.

16 Thus did Moses: according to all that the LORD commanded him, so did he.

17 And it came to pass in the [b] first month in the second year, on the first day of the month, that the tabernacle was reared up.

18 And Moses reared up the tabernacle, and fastened his sockets, and set up the boards thereof, and put in the bars thereof, and reared up his pillars.

19 And he spread abroad the tent over the tabernacle, and put the covering of the tent above upon it; as the LORD commanded Moses.

20 And he took and put [e] the testimony into the ark, and set the staves on the ark, and put the [g] mercy-seat above upon the ark.

21 And he brought the ark into the tabernacle, and set up the [h] vail of the covering, and covered the ark of the testimony; as the LORD commanded Moses.

22 And he put the [j] table in the tent of the congregation, upon the side of the tabernacle [k] northward, without the vail.

23 And he set the bread in order upon it before the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

24 And he put the candlestick in the tent of the congregation, over against the table, on the side of the tabernacle southward.

25 And he lighted [m] the lamps before the LORD; as the LORD commanded Moses.

26 And he put the golden altar in the tent of the congregation before the vail:

27 And he burnt [n] sweet incense thereon; as the LORD commanded Moses.

28 And he set up the hanging at the door of the tabernacle.

29 And he put the [p] altar of burnt-offering by the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation, and offered upon it the burnt-offering and the meat-offering; as the LORD commanded Moses.

30 And he set the [r] laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and put water there, to wash withal.

31 And Moses, and Aaron and his sons, washed their hands and their feet thereat:

32 When they went into the tent of the congregation, and when they came near unto the altar, they washed; [i] as the LORD commanded Moses.

33 And he reared up [v] the court round about the tabernacle and the altar, and set up the hanging of the court gate. So Moses finished the work.

34 Then a cloud [y] covered the tent of the congregation, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle

35 And Moses was not able to enter into the tent of the congregation, because the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

36 And when the cloud [c] was taken up from over the tabernacle, the children of Israel [1] went onward in all their journeys:

37 But if the cloud were not taken up, then they journeyed not [a] till the day that it was taken up.

38 For the cloud of the LORD [b] was upon the tabernacle by day, and fire was on it by night, in the sight of all the house of Israel, throughout all their journey.

CHAP. I.

AND the LORD called unto Moses, and spake unto him [a] out of the tabernacle of the congregation, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, If any man of you [b] bring an offering unto the LORD, ye shall bring your offering of the cattle, even of the herd, and of the flock.

3 If his offering be a burnt-sacrifice of the herd, let him offer a male [d] without blemish: he shall offer it of his own voluntary will at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD.

4 And he shall put his hand [e] upon the head of the burnt-offering; and it shall be [f] accepted for him, to make [g] atonement for him.

5 And he shall kill the bullock before the LORD: and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall bring the blood, and sprinkle [i] the blood round about upon the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

6 And he shall flay the burnt-offering, and cut it into his pieces.

7 And the sons of Aaron the priest shall put fire upon the altar, and lay the wood in order upon the fire.

8 And the priests, Aaron's sons, shall lay the parts, the head, and the fat, in order upon the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar:

9 But his inwards and his legs shall he wash in water: and the priest shall burn all on the altar, to be a burnt-sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a [m] sweet savour unto the LORD.

10 And if his offering be of the flocks, namely, of the sheep, or of the goats, for a burnt-sacrifice; he shall bring it a male without blemish.

11 And he shall kill it on the side of the altar [o] northward before the LORD: and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall sprinkle his blood round about upon the altar:

12 And he shall cut it into his pieces, with his head and his fat: and the priest shall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar.

13 But he shall wash the inwards and the legs with water: and the priest shall bring it all, and burn it upon the altar: it is a burnt-sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

14 And if the burnt-sacrifice for his offering to the LORD be of fowls, then he shall bring his offering of [e] turtle-doves, or of young pigeons.

15 And the priest shall bring it unto the altar, and [1] wring off his head, and burn it on the altar; and the blood thereof shall be wrung out at the side of the altar:

16 And he shall pluck away his crop with his [2] feathers, and cast it beside the altar on the east part, by the place of the ashes:

17 And he shall cleave it with the wings thereof, but shall not [h] divide it asunder. and the priest shall burn it upon the altar, upon the wood that is upon the fire: it is a burnt-sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour [j] unto the LORD.

CHAP. II.

AND when any will offer [k] a meat-offering unto the LORD, his offering shall be of fine flour; and he shall pour oil upon it, and put frankincense thereon:

2 And he shall bring it to Aaron's sons, the priests: and he shall take thereout his handful of the flour thereof, and of the oil thereof, with all the frankincense thereof; and the priest shall burn [l] the memorial of it upon the altar, to be an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD:

3 And the remnant of the meat-offering shall be Aaron's and his sons': it is a thing most holy of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

4 And if thou bring an oblation of a meat-offering baken in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, or unleavened wafers [n] anointed with oil.

5 And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baken [3] in a pan, it shall be of fine flour unleavened, mingled with oil.

6 Thou shalt part it in pieces, and pour oil thereon: it is a meat-offering.

7 And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baken in the frying-pan, it shall be made of fine flour with oil

8 And thou shalt bring the meat-offering that is made of these things unto the LORD: and when it is presented unto the priest, he shall bring it unto the altar.

9 And the priest shall take from the meat-offering a [e] memorial thereof, and shall burn it upon the altar: it is an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

10 And that which is left of the meat-offering shall be Aaron's and his sons': it is a thing most holy of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

11 No meat-offering, which ye shall bring unto the LORD, shall be made with leaven: [f] for ye shall burn no leaven, nor any honey, in any offering of the LORD made by fire.

12 As for the oblation of the [g] first-fruits, ye shall offer them unto the LORD: but they shall not [1] be burnt on the altar for a sweet savour.

13 And every oblation of thy meat-offering shalt thou season with [j] salt; neither shalt thou suffer the salt of the covenant of thy God to be lacking from thy meat-offering: with all thine offerings thou shalt offer salt.

14 And if thou offer a meat-offering of thy first-fruits unto the LORD, thou shalt offer for the meat-offering of thy first-fruits green ears of corn dried by the fire, even corn beaten out [k] of full ears.

15 And thou shalt put oil upon it, and lay frankincense thereon: it is a meat-offering.

16 And the priest shall burn the memorial of it, part of the beaten corn thereof, and part of the oil thereof, with all the frankincense thereof: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

CHAP. III.

AND if his oblation be a sacrifice of peace-offering, [m] if he offer it of the herd, whether it be a male or female, he shall offer it without [o] blemish before the LORD.

2 And he shall [q] lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron's sons, the priests, shall sprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

3 And he shall offer of the sacrifice of the peace-offering, an offering made by fire unto the Lord; the [2] fat that [s] covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the flanks, and the [3] caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

5 And Aaron's sons shall [u] burn it on the altar upon the burnt-sacrifice, which is upon the wood that is on the fire: it is an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

6 And if his offering for a sacrifice of peace-offering unto the LORD be of the flock, male or female, he shall offer it without [a] blemish.

7 If he offer a lamb for his offering, then shall he offer it [b] before the LORD.

8 And he shall lay his hand [d] upon the head of his offering, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron's sons shall sprinkle the blood thereof round about upon the altar.

9 And he shall offer of the sacrifice of the peace-offering, an offering made by fire unto the LORD; the fat [e] thereof, and the whole rump, it shall he take off hard by the backbone; and the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

10 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the [h] caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

11 And the priest shall burn it upon the altar; it is the food [i] of the offering made by fire unto the LORD.

12 And if his offering be a goat, then he shall offer it before the LORD.

13 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of it, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation: and the sons of Aaron shall sprinkle the blood thereof upon the altar round about.

14 And he shall offer thereof his offering, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD; the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

15 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

16 And the priest shall burn them upon the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire, for a sweet savour. All the [l] fat is the LORD's.

17 It shall be a perpetual [n] statute for your generations, throughout all your dwellings, that ye eat neither fat nor [p] blood.

CHAP. IV.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a soul shall sin [r] through ignorance against any of the commandments of the LORD, concerning things which ought not to be done, and shall do against any of them:

3 If the priest that is anointed do sin according to the sin of the people; then let him bring, for his sin which he hath sinned, a [t] young bullock without blemish unto the LORD for a sin-offering.

4 And he shall bring the bullock [v] unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD; and shall lay his hand upon the bullock's head, and kill the bullock before the LORD.

12 Even the whole bullock shall he carry forth [1] without the camp unto a clean place, where the ashes are poured out, and burn [m] him on the wood with fire: [4] where the ashes are poured out shall he be burnt.

13 And if the [o] whole congregation of Israel sin through ignorance, and the thing be [q] hid from the eyes of the assembly, and they have done somewhat against any of the commandments of the LORD, concerning things which should not be done, and [r] are guilty;

14 When the sin, which they have sinned against it, is known, then the congregation shall offer a young bullock for the sin, and bring him before the tabernacle of the congregation.

15 And the elders of the congregation shall lay their hands [u] upon the head of the bullock before the LORD; and the bullock shall be killed before the LORD.

16 And the priest [v] that is anointed shall bring of the bullock's blood to the tabernacle of the congregation:

17 And the priest shall dip his finger in some of the blood, and sprinkle it seven times before the LORD, even before the vail.

18 And he shall put some of the blood upon the [y] horns of the altar which is before the LORD, that is in the tabernacle of the congregation, and shall pour out all the blood at the bottom of the altar of the burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

19 And he shall take all his fat from him, and burn it upon the altar.

20 And he shall do with the bullock as he did [a] with the bullock for a sin-offering, so shall he do with this: and the priest shall make [b] an atonement for them, and it shall be forgiven them offering, and shall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar.

21 And he shall carry forth the bullock without the camp, and burn him as he burned the [d] first bullock: it is a sin-offering for the congregation.

35 And he shall take away all the fat thereof, as the fat of the lamb is taken away from the sacrifice of the peace-offerings; and the priest shall burn them upon the altar, according to the [c] offerings made by fire unto the LORD: and the priest shall make an [d] atonement for his sin that he hath committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

CHAP. V.

AND if a soul [e] sin, and hear the voice of [g] swearing, and is a witness, whether he hath seen or known of it; if he do not utter it, then he shall [h] bear his iniquity.

2 Or if a soul touch any [i] unclean thing, whether it be a carcass of an unclean beast, or a carcass of unclean cattle, or the carcass of unclean creeping things, and if it be hidden from him; he also shall be unclean, and [l] guilty.

3 Or if he touch [n] the uncleanness of man, whatsoever uncleanness it be that a man shall be defiled withal, and it be hid from him; when [o] he knoweth of it, then he shall be guilty.

4 Or if a soul swear, pronouncing with his lips [q] to do evil, or to do good, whatsoever it be that a man shall pronounce with an oath, and it be hid from him; when he knoweth of it, then he shall be guilty in one of these.

5 And it shall be, when he shall be guilty in one of these things, that he shall [t] confess that he hath sinned in that thing.

6 And he shall bring his trespass-offering unto the LORD, for his sin which he hath sinned, a female from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats, for a sin-offering; and the priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his sin.

7 And if [1] he be not [u] able to bring a lamb, then he shall bring for his trespass, which he hath committed, two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, unto the LORD; one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering.

8 And he shall bring them unto the priest, who shall offer that which is for the sin-offering first, and [y] wring off his head from his neck, but shall not divide it asunder:

9 And he shall sprinkle [b] of the blood of the sin-offering upon the side of the altar; and the rest of the blood shall be wrung out at the bottom of the altar: it is a sin-offering.

10 And he shall offer the second for a burnt-offering, according to the [3] manner: and the priest shall [d] make an atonement for him for his sin which he hath sinned, and it shall be [e] forgiven him.

11 But if he be not [f] able to bring two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons; then he that sinned shall bring for his offering the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a sin-offering: he shall put [a] no oil upon it, neither shall he put any frankincense thereon; for it is a sin-offering.

12 Then shall he bring it to the priest, and the priest shall take his handful of it, even a [b] memorial thereof, and burn it on the altar, according to the offerings made by fire unto the LORD: it is a sin-offering.

13 And the priest shall make an atonement for him as touching his sin that he hath sinned in one of these, and it shall be forgiven him: and the remnant [f] shall be the priest's, as a meat-offering.

14 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

15 If a soul commit a trespass, and sin through ignorance, [j] in the holy things of the LORD; then he shall bring, for his trespass unto the LORD, [k] a ram without blemish out of the flocks, with thy estimation by shekels of silver, after [m] the shekel of the sanctuary, for a trespass-offering:

16 And he shall make amends for the harm that he hath done in the holy thing, and shall add the fifth part thereto, and give it unto the priest: and the priest [p] shall make an atonement for him with the ram of the trespass-offering, and it shall be forgiven him.

17 And if a [r] soul sin, and commit any of these things which are forbidden to be done by the commandments of the LORD; though he wist it not, [s] yet is he guilty, and shall bear his iniquity.

18 And he shall bring a ram without blemish out of the flock, with thy estimation, for a trespass-offering, unto the priest: and the priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his ignorance wherein he erred, and wist it not; and it shall be forgiven him.

19 It is a trespass-offering: he hath certainly [v] trespassed against the LORD.

CHAP. VI.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 If a soul sin, and commit a trespass against the LORD, and [w] lie unto his neighbour in that which was [x] delivered him to keep, or in [2] fellowship, or in a thing taken away by violence, or hath [z] deceived his neighbour;

3 Or have found [a] that which was lost, and lieth concerning it, and [c] sweareth falsely; in any of all these that a man doeth, sinning therein:

4 Then it shall be, because he hath sinned, and is guilty, that he shall restore that which he took violently away, or the thing which he hath deceitfully gotten, or that which was delivered him to keep, or the lost thing which he found,

5 Or all that about which he hath sworn falsely; he shall even [g] restore it in the principal, and shall add the fifth part more thereto, and give it unto him to whom it appertaineth, [1] in the day of his trespass-offering.

6 And he shall bring his trespass-offering unto the LORD, a ram without blemish out of the flock, with thy estimation, for a trespass-offering, unto the priest:

7 And the priest shall [a] make an atonement for him before the LORD: and it shall be forgiven him for any thing of [b] all that he hath done in trespassing therein.

8 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

9 Command Aaron and his sons, saying, This is the law of the burnt-offering: (it is the burnt-offering, [2] because of the burning upon the altar all night [d] unto the morning, and the fire of the altar shall be burning in it.)

10 And the priest shall put on [f] his linen garment, and his linen breeches shall he put upon his flesh, and take up the ashes which the fire hath consumed with the burnt-offering on the altar, and he shall put them beside the altar.

11 And he shall put off his garments, and put on [i] other garments, and carry forth the ashes without the camp unto a clean place.

12 And the fire upon the altar shall be burning in it, it shall not be put out: and the priest shall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt-offering in order upon it, and he shall burn thereon the fat of the peace-offerings.

13 The fire shall ever be burning upon the altar: it shall never go out.

14 And this is the [k] law of the meat-offering: the sons of Aaron shall offer it before the LORD, before the altar.

15 And he shall take of it his handful, of the flour of the meat-offering, and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincense which is upon the meat-offering, and shall burn it upon the altar for a sweet savour, even the memorial of it, unto the LORD.

16 And the remainder thereof [n] shall Aaron and his sons eat: with unleavened bread shall it be eaten in the holy place; in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation they shall eat it.

17 It shall not be baken with leaven. I have given it unto them for their portion of my offerings made by fire; it is most holy, as is the sin-offering, and as the trespass-offering.

18 All the males among the children of Aaron shall eat of it: it shall be a statute for ever in your generations, concerning the offerings of the LORD made by fire: every one that toucheth them shall [s] be holy.

19 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

20 This is the offering of [u] Aaron and of his sons, which they shall offer unto the LORD in the day when he is anointed; the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a meat-offering perpetual, half of it in the morning, and half thereof at night.

21 In a pan it shall be made with oil, and when it is baken, thou shalt bring it in: and the baken pieces of the meat-offering shalt thou offer for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

22 And the priest of his sons that is anointed in his stead shall offer it: it is a statute for ever unto the LORD; [c] it shall be wholly burnt:

23 For every meat-offering for the priest shall be wholly burnt: it shall not be eaten

24 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

25 Speak unto Aaron and to his sons, saying, This is the law of the [e] sin-offering: In the place where the burnt-offering is killed shall the sin-offering be killed before the LORD: it is [g] most holy.

26 The priest that offereth it for sin shall eat it: in the holy place [h] shall it be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation.

27 Whatsoever shall touch the flesh thereof [j] shall be holy: and when there is sprinkled of the blood thereof upon any garment, thou shalt wash that whereon it was sprinkled in the holy place.

28 But the earthen vessel wherein it is sodden shall be broken; and if it be sodden in a brazen pot, it shall be both scoured, and rinsed in water.

29 All the males among the priests shall eat thereof: it is most holy.

30 And no sin-offering, whereof any of the blood [l] is brought into the tabernacle of the congregation, to reconcile withal in the holy place, shall be eaten: it shall be burnt in the fire.

CHAP. VII.

LIKEWISE this is the law of the trespass-offering: [m] it is most holy.

2 In the place where they kill the burnt-offering shall they kill [o] the trespass-offering: and the blood thereof shall he sprinkle round about [p] upon the altar.

3 And he shall offer of it [q] all the fat thereof; the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards,

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the flanks, and the caul that is above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away:

5 And the priest shall burn them upon the altar for an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a trespass-offering.

6 Every male among the priests [r] shall eat thereof: it shall be eaten in the holy place: it is most holy.

7 As the sin-offering is, so is the [t] trespass-offering: there is one law for them the priest that maketh atonement therewith shall have it.

8 And the priest that offereth any man burnt-offering, even the priest shall have to himself the skin of the burnt-offering which he hath offered. B. C. 1490.

9 And all the meat-offering that is baken in the oven, and all that is dressed in the frying-pan, and [2] in the pan, shall be the priest's that offereth it.

10 And every meat-offering, mingled with oil, and dry, shall all the sons of Aaron have, one as much as another.

11 And this is the law of the sacrifice of [c] peace-offerings, which he shall offer unto the LORD.

12 If he offer it for a thanksgiving, then he shall offer with the sacrifice of thanksgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers [d] anointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour, fried.

13 Besides the cakes, he shall offer for his offering leavened bread [f] with the sacrifice of thanksgiving of his peace-offerings.

14 And of it he shall offer one out of the whole oblation for an [h] heave-offering unto the LORD, and it shall be the priest's that sprinkleth the blood of the peace-offerings.

15 And the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings for thanksgiving shall be eaten [j] the same day that it is offered; he shall not leave any of it until the morning.

16 But if the sacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice: and on the morrow also the remainder of it shall be eaten:

17 But the remainder of the flesh [l] of the sacrifice on the third day shall be burnt with fire.

18 And if any of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings be eaten at all on the third day, it shall not be accepted, neither shall it be imputed unto him that offereth it: it shall be an [m] abomination, and the soul that eateth of it shall bear his iniquity.

19 And the flesh that toucheth any unclean thing shall not be eaten; it shall be burnt with fire: and as for the flesh, all that be clean shall eat thereof

20 But the soul that eateth of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace-offerings, that pertain unto the LORD, [n] having his uncleanness upon him, even that soul shall be cut off from his people.

21 Moreover, the soul that shall [q] touch any unclean thing, as [r] the uncleanness of man, or any unclean beast, or any [t] abominable unclean thing, and eat of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace-offerings which pertain unto the LORD, even that soul shall be [v] cut off from his people.

22 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

23 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Ye shall eat no manner of fat, of ox, or of sheep, or of goat.

24 And the fat of the [1] beast that dieth of itself, and the fat of that which is torn with beasts, may be used in any other use; but ye shall in no wise [a] eat of it.

25 For whosoever eateth the fat of the beast, of which men offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, even the soul that eateth it shall be cut off from his people.

26 Moreover, ye shall eat no manner of blood, [b] whether it be of fowl, or of beast, in any of your dwellings.

27 Whatsoever soul it be that eateth any manner of blood, even that soul shall be cut off from his people.

28 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

29 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, He that offereth the sacrifice of his [e] peace-offerings unto the LORD shall bring his oblation unto the LORD of the sacrifice of his peace-offerings.

30 His own hands [g] shall bring the offerings of the LORD made by fire; the fat with the breast, it shall he bring, that the breast may be waved, for [i] a wave-offering before the LORD.

31 And the priest shall burn the fat upon the altar; but the breast shall be Aaron's and his sons'.

32 And the right shoulder shall ye give unto the priest [k] for an heave-offering of the sacrifices of your peace-offerings.

33 He among the sons of Aaron, that offereth the blood of the peace-offerings, and the fat, shall have the right shoulder for his part.

34 For the wave-breast and the heave-shoulder have I taken of the children of Israel from off the sacrifices of their peace-offerings, and have given them unto Aaron the priest and unto his sons, by a statute for ever from among the children of Israel

35 This is the portion of the anointing of Aaron, and of the anointing of his sons, out of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, in the day when he presented them to minister unto the LORD in the priest's office;

36 Which the LORD commanded to be given them of the children of Israel, in the day that he [o] anointed them, by a statute for ever throughout their generations.

37 This is the law [p] of the burnt-offering, of the meat-offering, and of the sin-offering, and of the [s] trespass-offering, and of the consecrations, and [u] of the sacrifice of the peace-offerings;

38 Which the LORD commanded Moses in mount Sinai, in the day that he commanded the children of Israel to offer their oblations unto the LORD, in the wilderness of Sinai.

B. C. 1490.

2 Take Aaron [a] and his sons with him, and [b] the garments, and [c] the anointing oil, and a bullock for the sin-offering, and two rams, and a basket of unleavened bread;

3 And gather thou all the congregation together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 And Moses did as the LORD commanded him; and the assembly was gathered together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

5 And Moses said unto the congregation, This is the thing which the LORD commanded to be done.

6 And Moses brought Aaron and his sons, [g] and washed them with water.

7 And he put upon him the coat, and girded him with the girdle, and clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod upon him, and he girded him with the curious girdle of the ephod, and bound it unto him therewith.

8 And he put the breastplate upon him; also he [i] put in the breastplate the Urim and the Thummim.

9 And he put the [k] mitre upon his head: also upon the mitre, even upon his forefront, did he put the golden plate, the holy crown; as the LORD [l] commanded Moses.

10 And Moses took the [m] anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle, and all that was therein, and sanctified them.

11 And he sprinkled [n] thereof upon the altar seven times, and anointed the altar, and all his vessels, both the laver and his foot, to sanctify them.

12 And he poured of the anointing oil upon Aaron's head, and [o] anointed him, to sanctify him.

13 And Moses brought Aaron's sons, and put coats [p] upon them, and girded them with girdles, and [l] put bonnets upon them; as the LORD commanded Moses.

14 And he brought the bullock for the sin-offering: and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the bullock for the sin-offering.

15 And he slew it; and Moses [r] took the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about with his finger, and purified the altar, and poured the blood at the bottom of the altar, and sanctified it, to make [t] reconciliation upon it.

16 And he took all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and Moses burned it upon the altar.

17 But the bullock, and his hide, his flesh, and his dung, he burnt with fire [v] without the camp; as the LORD commanded Moses.

18 And he brought the ram for the burnt-offering: and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram.

19 And he killed it; and Moses sprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

20 And he cut the ram into pieces; and Moses burnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat.

21 And he washed the inwards and the legs in water; and Moses burnt the whole ram upon the altar: it was a burnt-sacrifice for [d] a sweet savour, and an offering made by fire unto the LORD; as the LORD commanded Moses.

22 And he brought the [e] other ram, the ram of consecration: and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram.

23 And he slew it; and Moses took of the [f] blood of it, and put it upon the tip of Aaron's right ear, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.

24 And he brought Aaron's sons, and Moses put of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the thumbs of their right hands, and upon the great toes of their right feet; and Moses sprinkled the blood [h] upon the altar round about.

25 And he took [j] the fat, and the rump, and all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and the right shoulder:

26 And out of the basket of unleavened bread, that was before the LORD, he took one unleavened cake, and a cake of oiled bread, and one wafer, and put them on the fat, and upon the right shoulder:

27 And he put all upon Aaron's hands, and upon his sons' hands, and waved them for a wave-offering before the LORD.

28 And Moses took them from off their hands, and burnt them on the altar upon the burnt-offering: they were consecrations for a sweet savour: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

29 And Moses took the breast, [q] and waved it for a wave-offering before the LORD: for of the ram of consecration it was Moses' part; as the LORD commanded Moses.

30 And Moses took of the anointing oil, and of the blood which was upon the altar, and sprinkled it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon his sons' garments with him; and sanctified [s] Aaron, and his garments, and his sons, and his sons' garments with him.

31 And Moses said unto Aaron and to his sons, [u] Boil the flesh at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and there eat it with the bread that is in the basket of consecrations, as I commanded, saying Aaron and his sons shall eat it.

32 And that which remaineth of the flesh and of the bread shall ye burn with fire.

33 And ye shall not go out of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation in seven days, until the days of your consecration be at an end: for seven days [w] shall he consecrate you

34 As he hath done this day, so the LORD hath commanded to do, to make an atonement for you.

35 Therefore shall ye abide at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation day and night, seven days, and [a] keep the charge of the LORD, that ye die not: for so I am commanded.

36 So Aaron and his sons did all things which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

CHAP. IX.

AND it came to pass on the [d] eighth day, that Moses called Aaron and his sons, and the elders of Israel;

2 And he said unto Aaron, Take thee a young calf for a [f] sin-offering, and a ram for a [g] burnt-offering, without blemish, and offer them before the LORD.

3 And unto the children of Israel thou shalt speak, saying, Take ye [h] a kid of the goats for a [i] sin-offering; and a calf and a lamb, both of the first year, without blemish, for a burnt-offering;

4 Also a bullock and a ram for peace-offerings, to sacrifice before the LORD; and [k] a meat-offering mingled with oil: for to-day the LORD will appear unto you.

5 And they brought that which Moses commanded before the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the congregation drew near and stood before the LORD.

6 And Moses said, This is the thing which the LORD commanded that ye should do; and the glory of the [m] LORD shall appear unto you.

7 And Moses said unto Aaron, Go unto the altar, and offer thy [p] sin-offering, and thy burnt-offering, and make an atonement for thyself [q] and for the people: and offer the offering of the people, and make an atonement [s] for them; as the LORD commanded.

8 Aaron therefore went unto the altar, and slew the calf of the sin-offering, which was for himself.

9 And the sons of Aaron brought the blood unto him; and he dipped his finger in the blood, and [v] put it upon the horns of the altar, and poured out the blood at the bottom of the altar.

10 But the fat, [x] and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver of the sin-offering, he burnt upon the altar; as the LORD commanded Moses.

11 And the flesh and the hide he burnt with fire without the camp.

12 And he slew the burnt-offering; and Aaron's sons presented unto him the blood, which he sprinkled [b] round about upon the altar.

13 And they presented the burnt-offering unto him, with the pieces thereof, and the head: and he burnt them upon the altar.

14 And he did wash the inwards and the legs, and burnt them upon the burnt-offering on the altar.

15 And he brought the people's offering, and took the goat, which was the sin-offering for the people, and slew it, and offered it [b] for sin, as the first.

16 And he brought the burnt-offering, and offered it according to the [1] manner

17 And he brought the meat-offering, and [2] took an handful thereof, and burnt it upon the altar, beside the burnt-sacrifice [s] of the morning.

18 He slew also the bullock and the ram for a sacrifice of peace-offerings, [c] which was for the people: and Aaron's sons presented unto him the blood, which he sprinkled upon the altar round about.

19 And the fat of the bullock, and of the ram, the rump, and that which covereth the inwards, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver:

20 And they put the fat upon the breasts, and he burnt the fat upon the altar:

21 And the breasts and the right shoulder Aaron waved for a wave-offering [j] before the LORD; as Moses commanded.

22 And Aaron lifted up his hand towards the people, and [l] blessed them, and came down from offering of the sin-offering, and the burnt-offering, and peace-offerings.

23 And Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of the congregation, and came out, and blessed the people: and the glory of the LORD [n] appeared unto all the people.

24 And there came a fire [o] out from before the LORD, and consumed upon the altar the burnt-offering and the fat: which when all the people saw, they [r] shouted, and fell on their faces.

CHAP. X.

AND Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, took either of them his censer, and put fire therein, and put incense thereon, and offered [t] strange fire before the LORD, which he commanded them not.

2 And there went out fire [u] from the LORD, and devoured them; and [w] they died before the LORD.

3 Then Moses said unto Aaron, This is it that the LORD spake, saying, I will be sanctified [y] in them that come nigh me, and before all the people I will be [z] glorified. And Aaron [a] held his peace.

4 And Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of Uzziel the uncle of Aaron, and said unto them, Come near, carry your brethren from before the sanctuary out of the camp.

5 So they went near, and [c] carried them in their coats out of the camp; as Moses had said.

6 And Moses said unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar his sons, Uncover [d] not your heads, neither rend you clothes; lest ye die, and lest [a] wrath come upon all the people: but let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled.

7 And ye shall not go out [c] from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: for the anointing oil of the LORD is [d] upon you. And they did according to the word of Moses.

8 And the LORD spake unto Aaron, saying,

9 Do not drink [f] wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations;

10 And that ye may put [h] difference between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean;

11 And that ye may teach [i] the children of Israel all the statutes which the LORD hath spoken unto them by the hand of Moses.

12 And Moses spake unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar, his sons that were left, Take the meat-offering that remaineth of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and eat it without leaven beside the altar; for it is most holy:

13 And ye shall eat it in the [j] holy place, because it is thy due, and thy sons' due, of the sacrifices of the LORD made by fire: for so I am commanded.

14 And the wave-breast and heave-shoulder shall ye eat in a clean place; thou, and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee: for they be thy due, and thy sons' due, which are given out of the sacrifices of peace-offerings of the children of Israel.

15 The heave-shoulder and the wave-breast shall they bring, with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave-offering before the LORD; and it shall be thine, and thy sons' with thee, by a statute for ever; as the LORD hath commanded.

16 And Moses diligently sought the goat of the sin-offering, and, behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron which were left alive, saying,

17 Wherefore have ye not eaten the sin-offering in the holy place, seeing it is most holy, and God hath given it you to bear the iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD?

18 Behold, the blood of it was not brought in within the holy place: ye should indeed have eaten it in the holy place, [o] as I commanded.

19 And Aaron said unto Moses, Behold, this day have they offered their sin-offering and their burnt-offering before the LORD; and such things have befallen me: and if I had eaten the sin-offering to-day should it have been accepted [b] in the sight of the LORD?

20 And when Moses heard that, he was content.

CHAP. XI.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses and to Aaron, saying unto them,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, These are the beasts which ye shall eat [e] among all the beasts that are on the earth.

3 Whatsoever parteth the hoof, and is cloven-footed, [g] and cheweth the cud among the beasts that shall ye eat.

4 Nevertheless, these shall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the hoof: as the camel, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

5 And the coney, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

6 And the hare, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

7 And the swine, though he divide the hoof, and be cloven-footed; yet he cheweth not the cud: he is unclean to you.

8 Of their flesh shall ye not eat, and their carcass shall ye not touch: [k] they are unclean to you.

9 These shall ye eat, of all that are in the waters: [l] whatsoever hath fins and scales in the waters, in the seas, and in the rivers, them shall ye eat.

10 And all that have not fins nor scales in the seas, and in the rivers, of all that move in the waters, and of any living thing which is in the waters they shall be an [m] abomination unto you.

11 They shall be even an abomination unto you; ye shall not eat of their flesh, but ye shall have their carcasses in abomination.

12 Whatsoever hath no fins nor scales in the waters, that shall be an abomination unto you.

13 And these are they which ye shall have in abomination among the [n] fowls; they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination; the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the ospray,

14 And the vulture, and the kite, after his kind;

15 Every raven after his kind;

16 And the owl, and the night-hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind,

17 And the little owl, and the cormorant, and the great owl,

18 And the swan, and the pelican, and the gier-eagle,

19 And the stork, the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat.

20 All fowls that creep, going upon all four, shall be an abomination unto you.

21 Yet these may ye eat, of every flying creeping thing that goeth upon all four, which have legs above their feet, to leap withal upon the earth;

22 Even these of them ye may eat; [a] the locust after his kind, and the bald locust after his kind, and the beetle after his kind, and the grasshopper after his kind.

23 But all other flying creeping things, which have four feet shall be an abomination unto you.

24 And for these ye shall be unclean: whosoever toucheth [c] the carcass of them shall be unclean until the even.

25 And whosoever beareth aught of the carcass of them shall wash [d] his clothes, and be unclean until the even.

26 The carcasses of every beast which divideth the hoof, and is not cloven-footed, nor cheweth the cud, are unclean unto you: every one that toucheth them shall be unclean.

27 And whatsoever goeth upon his paws, among all manner of beasts that go on all four, those are unclean unto you: whoso toucheth their carcass shall be unclean until the even.

28 And he that beareth the carcass of them shall wash [e] his clothes, and be unclean until the even: they are unclean unto you.

29 These also shall be unclean unto you among the creeping things that creep upon the earth; the weasel, and the mouse, [f] and the tortoise after his kind,

30 And the ferret, and the chameleon, and the lizard, and the snail, and the mole.

31 These are unclean to you among all that creep: whosoever doth [j] touch them, when they be dead, shall be unclean until the even.

32 And upon whatsoever any of them, when they are dead, doth fall, it shall be unclean; whether it be any vessel of wood, or raiment, or skin, or sack, whatsoever vessel it be, wherein any work is done, [l] it must be put into water, and it shall be unclean until the even; so it shall be cleansed.

33 And every earthen vessel, whereinto any of them falleth, whatsoever is in it shall be unclean; and [o] ye shall break it.

34 Of all meat which may be eaten, that on which such water cometh shall be unclean: and all drink that may be drunk in every such vessel shall be unclean.

35 And every thing whereupon any part of their carcass falleth shall be unclean; whether it be oven, or ranges for pots, they shall be broken down: for they are unclean, and shall be unclean unto you.

36 Nevertheless, a fountain or pit, wherein [3] there is plenty of water, shall be clean: but that which toucheth their carcass shall be unclean

37 And if any part of the carcass fall upon any sowing seed which is to be sown, it shall be clean.

38 But if any water be put upon the seed, and any part of their carcass fall thereon, it shall be unclean unto you.

39 And if any beast, of which ye may eat, die; he that toucheth the carcass thereof shall be unclean until the even.

40 And he that eateth [b] of the carcass of it shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even: he also that beareth the carcass of it shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even.

41 And every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth shall be an abomination; it shall not be eaten.

42 Whatsoever goeth upon the belly, and whatsoever goeth upon all four, or whatsoever [1] hath more feet among all creeping things that creep upon the earth, them ye shall not eat; for they are an abomination.

43 Ye shall not [c] make [2] yourselves abominable with any creeping thing that creepeth, neither shall ye make yourselves unclean with them, that ye should be defiled thereby.

44 For I am the LORD your God: ye shall therefore sanctify yourselves, and [f] ye shall be holy; for I am holy, neither shall ye defile yourselves with any manner of creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

45 For I am the LORD that [h] bringeth you up out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: ye shall therefore be holy, for I am holy.

46 This is the law of the beasts, and of the fowl, and of every living creature that moveth in the waters, and of every creature that creepeth upon the earth;

47 To make a difference [k] between the unclean and the clean, and between the beast that may be eaten and the beast that may not be eaten.

CHAP. XII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a woman have conceived seed, and borne a man child; then [m] she shall be unclean seven days; according to the days of the separation for her [n] infirmity shall she be unclean.

3 And in the [p] eighth day the flesh of his foreskin shall be circumcised.

4 And she shall then continue in the blood of her purifying three and thirty days: she shall touch no hallowed thing, nor come into the sanctuary, until the days of her purifying be fulfilled.

5 But if she bear a maid child, then she shall be unclean two weeks, as in her separation: and she shall continue in the blood of her purifying threescore and six days.

6 And when the days of her [7] purifying are fulfilled, for a son, or for a daughter, she shall bring a lamb [1] of the first year for a burnt-offering, and a young pigeon, or a turtle-dove, for a sin-offering, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the priest;

7 Who shall offer it before the LORD, and make an atonement for her; and she shall be cleansed from the issue of her blood. This is the law for her that hath borne a male or a female.

8 [a] And if [2] she be not able to bring a lamb, then she shall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons; the one for the burnt-offering, and the other for a sin-offering: and the priest shall make an atonement for her, and she shall be clean.

CHAP. XIII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron, saying,

2 When a man shall have in the skin of his flesh a [3] rising, [c] a scab, or bright spot, and it be in the skin of his flesh like the plague of leprosy; then he shall be brought unto Aaron the priest, [d] or unto one of his sons the priests:

3 And the priest shall look on the plague in the skin of the flesh; and when the hair in the plague is turned white, and the plague in sight be deeper than the skin of his flesh, it is a plague of leprosy: and the priest shall look on him, and pronounce him unclean.

4 If the bright spot be white in the skin of his flesh, and in sight be not deeper than the skin, and the hair thereof be not turned white; then the priest shall [f] shut up him that hath the plague seven days:

5 And the priest shall look on him the seventh day: and, behold, if the plague in his sight be at a stay, and the plague spread not in the skin, then the priest shall shut him up seven days more:

6 And the priest shall look on him again the seventh day; and, behold, if the plague be somewhat dark, and the plague spread not in the skin, the priest shall pronounce him clean; it is but a scab: and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.

7 But if the scab spread much abroad in the skin, after that he hath been seen of the priest for his cleansing, he shall be seen of the priest again:

8 And if the priest see that, behold, the scab spreadeth in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean; it is a leprosy.

9 When the plague of leprosy is in a man, then he shall be brought unto the priest;

10 And the priest [h] shall see him: and, behold, if the rising be white in the skin, and it have turned the hair white, and there be [5] quick raw flesh in the rising;

11 It is an old leprosy in the skin of his flesh; and the priest shall pronounce him unclean, and shall not shut him up: for he is unclean.

12 And if a leprosy break out abroad in the skin, and the leprosy cover all the skin of him that hath the plague from his head even to his foot, wheresoever the priest looketh;

13 Then the priest shall consider: and, behold, if the leprosy have covered all his flesh, he shall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: it is all turned white: [b] he is clean.

14 But when raw flesh appeareth in him, he shall be unclean.

15 And the priest shall see the raw flesh, and pronounce him to be unclean; for the raw flesh is unclean: it is a leprosy.

16 Or if the raw flesh turn again, and be changed unto white, he shall come unto the priest;

17 And the priest shall see him. and, behold, if the plague be turned into white, then the priest shall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: he is clean.

18 The flesh also, in which, even in the skin thereof, was a [e] boil, and is healed,

19 And in the place of the boil there be a white rising, or a bright spot, white, and somewhat reddish, and it be shewed to the priest;

20 And if, when the priest seeth it, behold, it be in sight lower than the skin, and the hair thereof be turned white; the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leprosy broken out of the boil.

21 But if the priest look on it, and, behold, there be no white hairs therein, and if it be not lower than the skin, but be somewhat dark, then the priest shall shut him [g] up seven days:

22 And if it spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague.

23 But if the bright spot stay [k] in his place, and spread not, it is a burning boil; and the priest shall pronounce him [l] clean.

24 Or if there be any flesh, in the skin whereof there is [4] a hot burning, [j] and the quick flesh that burneth have a white bright spot, somewhat reddish or white,

25 Then the priest shall look upon it: and, behold, if the hair in the bright spot be turned white, and it be in sight deeper than the skin, it is a leprosy broken out of the burning; wherefore the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy.

26 But if the priest look on it, and, behold, there be no white hair in the bright spot, and it be no lower than the other skin, but be somewhat dark; then the priest shall shut him up seven days:

27 And the priest shall look upon him the seventh day; and if it be spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy.

28 And if the bright spot stay in his place, and spread not in the skin, but it be somewhat dark; it is a rising of the burning, and the priest shall pronounce him clean; for it is an inflammation of the burning.

29 If a man or woman hath a [d] plague upon the head or the beard;

30 Then the priest shall see the plague: and, behold, if it be in sight deeper than the skin; and there be in it a yellow thin hair; then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a dry scall, even a leprosy upon the head or beard.

31 And if the priest look on the plague of the scall, and, behold, it be not in sight deeper than the skin, and that there is no black hair in it, then the priest shall shut up him that hath the plague of the scall seven [j] days:

32 And in the seventh day the priest shall look on the plague: and, behold, if the scall spread not, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the scall be not in sight deeper than the skin,

33 He shall be shaven, but the scall shall he not shave; and the priest shall shut up him that hath the scall seven days more:

34 And in the seventh day the priest shall look on the scall; and, behold, if the scall be not spread in the skin, nor be in sight deeper than the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean; and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.

35 But if the scall spread much [m] in the skin after his cleansing,

36 Then the priest shall look on him: and, behold, if the scall be spread in the skin, the priest shall not seek for yellow hair; he is unclean.

37 But if the scall be in his sight at a stay, and that there is black hair grown up therein, the scall is healed, he is clean: and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

38 If a man also or a woman have in the skin of their flesh bright spots, [o] even white bright spots,

39 Then the priest shall look: and, behold, if the bright spots in the skin of their flesh be darkish white; it is a freckled spot that groweth in the skin; he is clean.

40 And the man whose [4] hair is fallen off his head, he is bald; yet is he clean.

41 And he that hath his hair fallen off from the part of his head toward his face, he is forehead bald; yet is he clean.

42 And if there be in the bald head, or bald forehead, a white reddish sore; it is a leprosy sprung up in his bald head, or his bald forehead.

43 Then the priest shall look upon it: and, behold, if the rising of the sore be white reddish in his bald head, or in his bald forehead as the leprosy appeareth in the skin of the flesh,

44 He is a leprous man, he is unclean: the priest shall pronounce him utterly unclean; his plague is in his [a] head.

45 And the leper in whom the plague is, his clothes shall be [b] rent, and [c] his head bare, and he shall put a covering upon his upper lip, [e] and shall cry, Unclean, [f] unclean.

46 All the days [g] wherein the plague shall be in him he shall be defiled; he is unclean: he shall dwell alone, [h] without the camp shall his habitation be.

47 The garment [i] also that the plague of leprosy is in, whether it be a woollen garment, or a linen garment,

48 Whether it be in the warp, or woof; of linen, or of woollen; whether in a skin, or in any [1] thing made of skin;

49 And if the plague be greenish or reddish in the garment, or in the skin, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing [2] of skin; it is a plague of leprosy, and shall be shewed unto the priest:

50 And the priest shall look upon the plague, and shut up it that hath the plague seven days:

51 And he shall look on the plague on the seventh day: if the plague be spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in a skin, or in any work that is made of skin; the plague is [k] a fretting leprosy; it is unclean.

52 He therefore shall burn [l] that garment, whether warp or woof, in woollen or in linen, or in any thing of skin, wherein the plague is: for it is a fretting leprosy: it shall be burnt in the fire.

53 And if the priest shall look, and, behold, the plague be not spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin;

54 Then the priest shall command that they wash the thing wherein the plague is, and he shall shut it up seven days more:

55 And the priest shall look on the plague, after that it is washed: [n] and, behold, if the plague have not changed his colour, and the plague be not spread, it is unclean; thou shalt burn it in the fire; it is fret inward, whether it be [3] bare within or without.

56 And if the priest look, and, behold, the plague be somewhat dark after the washing of it; then he shall rend it out of the garment, or out of the skin, or out of the warp, or out of the woof:

57 And if it appear still in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin; it is a spreading plague thou shalt burn [p] that wherein the plague is with fire.

58 And the garment, either warp, or woof, or whatsoever thing of skin it be, which thou shalt wash, if the plague be

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 This shall be the law of the leper in the day of his cleansing: He shall be brought [b] unto the priest:

3 And the priest shall go forth out of the camp; and the priest shall look, and, behold, if the plague of leprosy be healed in the leper,

4 Then shall the priest command to take for him that is to be cleansed two [1] birds alive and clean, and [d] cedar-wood, and scarlet, and [e] hyssop:

5 And the priest shall command that one of the birds be killed in an earthen vessel over [f] running water:

6 As for the living bird, he shall take it, and the cedar-wood, and the scarlet, and the hyssop, and shall dip them and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water:

7 And he shall [h] sprinkle upon him that is to be cleansed from the leprosy [i] seven times, and shall pronounce him clean, and shall let the living bird loose [2] into the open field.

8 And he that is to be cleansed shall wash [k] his clothes, and shave off all his hair, and wash himself [l] in water, that he may be clean: and after that he shall come into the camp, and shall tarry abroad out of his tent seven days.

9 But it shall be on the seventh day, that he shall shave all his hair off his head, and his beard, and his eyebrows, [m] even all his hair he shall shave off: and he shall wash his clothes, also he shall wash his flesh in water, and he shall be clean.

10 And on the eighth day he shall take two he-lambs without blemish, and one ewe-lamb [5] of the first year without blemish, and three tenth deals of fine flour for [n] a meat-offering, mingled with oil, and one log of oil.

11 And the priest that maketh him clean shall present [p] the man that is to be made clean, and those things, before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

12 And the priest shall take one he-lamb, and offer him for a [r] trespass-offering, and the log of oil, and wave them for a [s] wave-offering before the LORD:

13 And he shall slay the lamb in the place where he shall kill the sin-offering and the burnt-offering, in the holy place: for [t] as the sin-offering is the priest's, so is the trespass-offering: it is most holy.

ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, upon the place of the blood of the trespass-offering:

29 And the rest of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall put upon the head of him that is to be cleansed, to make an atonement for him before the LORD.

30 And he shall offer the one of [c] the turtle-doves, or of the young pigeons, such as he can get;

31 Even such as he is able to get, the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, with the meat-offering: and the priest shall make an atonement for him that is to be cleansed before the LORD.

32 This is the law of him in whom is the plague of leprosy, whose hand is not able [f] to get that which pertaineth to his cleansing.

33 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

34 When ye be come into the land of Canaan, which I give to you [h] for a possession, and I put [i] the plague of leprosy in a house of the land of your possession;

35 And he that owneth the house shall come and tell the priest, saying, It seemeth to me there is as it were [j] a plague in the house;

36 Then the priest shall command that they [2] empty the house, before the priest go into it to see the plague, that all that is in the house be not made unclean; and afterward the priest shall go in to see the house:

37 And he shall look on the plague, and, behold, if the plague be in the walls of the house with hollow strakes, greenish or reddish, which in sight are lower than the wall;

38 Then the priest shall go out of the house to the door of the house, and shut up the house [q] seven days:

39 And the priest shall come again the seventh day, and shall look: and, behold, if the plague be spread in the walls of the house,

40 Then the priest shall command that they take away the stones in which the plague is, and they shall cast them into an unclean place [s] without the city:

41 And he shall cause the house to be scraped within round about, and they shall pour out the dust that they scrape off without the city into an unclean place:

42 And they shall take other stones, and put them in the place of those stones; and he shall take other mortar, and shall plaster the house.

43 And if the plague come [u] again, and break out in the house, after that he hath taken away the stones, and after he hath scraped the house, and after it is plastered;

44 Then the priest shall come and look, and, behold, if the plague be spread in the house, it is [a] a fretting leprosy in the house: it is unclean.

45 And he shall break down [b] the house the stones of it, and the timber thereof, and all the mortar of the house; and he shall carry them forth out of the city into an unclean place.

46 Moreover, he that goeth into the house all the while that it is shut [d] up shall be unclean until the even.

47 And he that lieth in the house shall wash his clothes; and he that eateth in the house shall wash his clothes.

48 And if the priest [1] shall come in, and look upon it, and, behold, the plague hath not spread in the house, after the house was plastered; then the priest shall pronounce the house clean, [e] because the plague is healed.

49 And he shall take [r] to cleanse the house two birds, and cedar-wood, and scarlet, and hyssop:

50 And he shall kill the one of the birds in an earthen vessel over running water:

51 And he shall take the cedar-wood, and the hyssop, and the scarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the slain bird, and in the running water, and sprinkle the house seven times:

52 And he shall cleanse the house with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar-wood, and with the hyssop, and with the scarlet:

53 But he shall let go the living bird out of the city into the open fields, and make [k] an atonement for the house: and it shall be clean.

54 This is the [l] law for all manner of plague of leprosy, and [m] scall,

55 And for the leprosy of a [n] garment, and of [o] a house,

56 And for a [p] rising, and for a scab, and for a bright spot;

7 And he that toucheth the flesh of him that hath the issue shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.
8 And if he that hath the issue spit upon him that is clean; then he shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.
9 And what saddle soever he rideth upon that hath the issue shall be unclean.
10 And whosoever toucheth any thing that was under him shall be unclean until the even: and he that beareth any of those things shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.
11 And whosoever he toucheth that hath the issue, and hath not rinsed his hands in water, he shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.
12 And the [c] vessel of earth, that he toucheth which hath the issue, shall be broken: [d] and every vessel of wood shall be rinsed in water.
13 And when he that hath the issue is cleansed of his issue; then he shall number to himself [f] seven days for his cleansing, and wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in running water, and shall be clean.
14 And on the eighth day he shall take to him [g] two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, and come before the LORD unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and give them unto the priest:

17 And every garment, and every skin, whereon is the seed of copulation, shall be washed with water, and be unclean until the even.
18 The woman also with whom man shall lie with seed of copulation, they shall both bathe themselves in water, [k] and be unclean until the even.
19 And [l] if a woman have an issue, and her issue in her flesh be blood, she shall be [1] put apart seven days; and whosoever toucheth her shall be unclean until the even.
20 And every thing that she lieth upon in her separation shall be unclean; every thing also that she sitteth upon shall be unclean.
21 And whosoever toucheth her bed shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.
22 And whosoever toucheth any thing that she sat upon shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.
23 And if it be on her bed, or on any thing whereon she sitteth, when he toucheth it, he shall be unclean until the even.
24 And if any man lie with her at all, and [e] her flowers be upon him, he shall be unclean seven days; and all the bed whereon he lieth shall be unclean.
25 And if a woman have an issue [b] of her blood many days out of the time of her separation, or if it run beyond the time of her separation; all the days of the issue of her uncleanness shall be as the days of her separation: she shall be unclean.
26 Every bed whereon she lieth all the days of her issue shall be unto her as the bed of her separation: and whatsoever she sitteth upon shall be unclean, as the uncleanness of her separation.
27 And whosoever toucheth those things shall be unclean, and shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.
28 But [e] if she be cleansed of her issue, then she shall number to herself seven days, and after that she shall be clean.
29 And on the eighth day she shall take unto her two turtles, or two young pigeons, and bring them unto the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.
30 And the priest shall offer the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt offering; and the priest shall make an atonement for her before the LORD, for the issue of her uncleanness.
31 Thus shall ye [h] separate the children of Israel from their uncleanness, that they die not in their uncleanness, when they [j] defile my tabernacle that is among them.
32 This is the law of him that hath an issue, and of him whose seed goeth from him, and is defiled therewith;
33 And of her that is sick of her flowers, and of him that hath an issue, of the man and of the woman, and of him that lieth with her that is unclean.

and he shall have the linen breeches upon his flesh, and shall be girded with a linen girdle, and with the linen mitre shall he be attired: these are holy garments; therefore shall he wash [b] his flesh in water, and so put them on.

5 And he shall take of the congregation of the children of Israel two kids of the goats for a sin-offering, and one ram for a burnt-offering.

6 And Aaron shall offer his bullock of the sin-offering which is for himself, and make an atonement for [d] himself, and for his house.

7 And he shall take the two goats, and present them before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

8 And Aaron shall cast lots upon the two goats; one lot for the LORD, and the other lot for the [1] scape-goat.

9 And Aaron shall bring the goat upon which the LORD's lot [2] fell, and offer him for a sin-offering:

10 But the goat, on which the lot fell to be the scape-goat, shall be presented alive before the LORD, to make [i] an atonement with him, and to let him go for a scape-goat into the wilderness.

11 And Aaron shall bring the bullock of the sin-offering which is for himself, and shall make an atonement for himself, and for his house, and shall kill the bullock of the sin-offering which is for himself.

12 And he shall take a censer [k] full of burning coals of fire [l] from off the altar before the LORD, and his hands-full of sweet [m] incense beaten small, and bring it within the vail.

13 And he shall put the incense [n] upon the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of the incense may cover the mercy-seat [p] that is upon the testimony, that he die not.

14 And he shall take of the blood of the bullock, [r] and sprinkle it with his finger upon the mercy-seat eastward: and before the mercy-seat shall he sprinkle of the blood with his finger seven times.

15 Then shall he kill the goat of the sin-offering, [t] that is for the people, and bring his blood within [u] the vail, and do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bullock, and sprinkle it upon the mercy-seat, and before the mercy-seat.

16 And he shall make an atonement [v] for the holy place, because of the uncleanness of the children of Israel, and because of their transgressions in all their sins: and so shall he do for the tabernacle of the congregation that [5] remaineth among them in the midst of their uncleanness.

17 And there shall be no man in the tabernacle of the congregation [y] when he goeth in to make an atonement in the holy place, until he come out, and have made an atonement for himself, and for his household, and for all the congregation of Israel.

18 And he shall go out unto the altar that is before the LORD, and make [a] an atonement for it; and shall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about.

19 And he shall sprinkle of the blood upon it with his finger seven times, and cleanse it, and hallow it [c] from the uncleanness of the children of Israel.

20 And when he hath made an end of reconciling [e] the holy place, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar, he shall bring the live goat:

21 And Aaron shall lay both his hands upon the head of the live goat, and confess over [f] him all the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their transgressions in all their sins, putting them [g] upon the head of the goat, and shall send him away by the hand of [3] a fit man into the wilderness.

22 And the goat shall bear [h] upon him all their iniquities unto a land [4] not inhabited: [j] and he shall let go the goat in the wilderness.

23 And Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of the congregation, and shall put off the linen garments which he put on when he went into the holy place, and shall leave them there:

24 And he shall wash his flesh with water in the holy place, and put on his garments, and come forth, and offer his burnt-offering, and the burnt-offering of the people, and make an atonement for himself, and for the people.

25 And [o] the fat of the sin-offering shall he burn upon the altar.

26 And he that let go the goat for the scape-goat shall wash his clothes, and bathe [q] his flesh in water, and afterward come into the camp.

27 And the bullock for the sin-offering, and the goat for the sin-offering, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the holy place, shall one carry [s] forth without the camp; and they shall burn in the fire their skins, and their flesh, and their dung.

28 And he that burneth them shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp.

29 And this shall be a statute for ever unto you, that in [w] the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, ye shall afflict [x] your souls, and do no work at all, whether it be one of your own country, or a stranger that sojourneth among you:

30 For on that day shall the priest make an atonement for you, to cleanse [z] you, that ye may be clean from all your sins before the LORD.

31 It shall be a sabbath [a] of rest unto you, and ye shall afflict your souls, by a statute for ever.

32 And [i] the priest, whom he shall anoint, and whom he shall [1] consecrate to minister in the priest's office in his father's stead, shall make the atonement, and shall put on the linen clothes, even the holy garments:

33 And [g] he shall make an atonement for the holy sanctuary, and he shall make an atonement for the tabernacle of the congregation, and for the altar; and he shall make an atonement for the priests, and for all the people of the congregation.

34 And this [i] shall be an everlasting statute unto you, to make an atonement for the children of Israel, for all their sins, once [j] a year. And he did as the LORD commanded Moses.

CHAP. XVII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, saying,

3 What [n] man soever there be of the house of Israel that killeth an ox, or lamb, or goat, in the camp, or that killeth it out of the camp,

4 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer an offering unto the LORD, before the tabernacle of the LORD, blood shall be imputed [q] unto that man; he hath shed blood; and that man shall be cut off from among his people:

5 To the end that the children of Israel may bring their sacrifices, which [s] they offer in the open field, even that they may bring them unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation unto the priest, and offer them for peace-offerings unto the LORD.

6 And the priest shall sprinkle [v] the blood upon the altar of the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and [w] burn the fat for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

7 And they shall no more offer their sacrifices unto [y] devils, after whom they have gone [z] a whoring. This shall be a statute for ever unto them throughout their generations.

8 And thou shalt say unto them, Whatsoever [a] man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers which sojourn among you, that offereth a burnt-offering or sacrifice,

And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it unto the LORD: even that man shall be cut off from among his people.

10 And whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among you, that [b] eateth any manner of blood, I will even set [c] my face against that soul that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people.

11 For [e] the life of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you upon the altar, to make [f] an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood [h] that maketh an atonement for the soul.

12 Therefore I said unto the children of Israel, No soul of you shall eat blood, neither shall any stranger that sojourneth among you eat blood.

13 And whatsoever man there be of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among you, [2] which hunteth and catcheth any beast or fowl that may be eaten; he shall even pour [k] out the blood thereof, and cover [l] it with dust.

14 For [m] it is the life of all flesh; the blood of it is for the life thereof: therefore I said unto the children of Israel, Ye shall eat the blood of no manner of flesh: for the life of all flesh is the blood thereof: whosoever eateth it shall be cut off.

15 And [o] every soul that eateth [3] that which died of itself, or that which was torn with beasts whether it be one of your own country, or a stranger, he [p] shall both wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even; then shall he be clean.

16 But if he wash them not, nor bathe his flesh, then [r] he shall bear his iniquity.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, I [t] am the LORD your God.

3 After [u] the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye dwelt, shall ye not do: and after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, shall ye not do; neither shall ye walk in their ordinances.

4 Ye [x] shall do my judgments, and keep mine ordinances, to walk therein: I am the LORD your God.

5 Ye shall therefore keep my statutes, and my judgments; which if a man do, he shall live in them: I am the LORD.

6 None of you shall approach to any that is [4] near of kin to him, to uncover their nakedness: I am the LORD.

7 The nakedness [b] of thy father, [c] or the nakedness of thy mother, shalt thou not uncover: she is thy mother; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

8 The nakedness of thy father's [d] wife shalt thou not uncover: it is thy father's nakedness

9 The nakedness of thy sister, [a] the daughter of thy father, or the daughter of thy mother, whether she be born at home, or born abroad, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover.

10 The nakedness of thy son's daughter, or of thy daughter's daughter, even their nakedness thou shalt not uncover: for their's is thine own nakedness.

11 The nakedness of thy father's wife's daughter, begotten of thy father, (she is thy sister,) thou shall not uncover her nakedness.

12 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy father's sister: she is thy father's near kinswoman.

13 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy mother's sister: for she is thy mother's near kinswoman.

14 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy father's brother, thou shalt not approach to his wife: she is thine aunt.

15 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy daughter-in-law: [f] she is thy son's wife; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

16 Thou [g] shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy brother's wife: it is thy brother's nakedness.

17 Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her daughter, neither shalt thou take her son's daughter, or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedness; for they are her near kinswomen: it is wickedness.

18 Neither shalt thou take [1] a wife to her sister, to vex [m] her, to uncover her nakedness, besides the other, in her life-time.

19 Also, thou shalt not approach unto a woman to uncover her nakedness, as long [n] as she is put apart for her uncleanness.

20 Moreover [o] thou shalt not lie carnally with thy neighbour's wife, to defile thyself with her.

21 And thou shalt not let any of thy seed pass through the fire [q] to [2] Molech, neither shalt thou profane the name of thy God: I am the LORD.

22 Thou shalt not lie with mankind, [r] as with womankind: it is abomination.

23 Neither shalt thou lie with any beast, to defile thyself therewith: neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: it is confusion.

24 Defile not you yourselves in any of these [v] things: for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you.

25 And the land is defiled: [x] therefore I do visit [y] the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land itself vomiteth [z] out her inhabitants.

26 Ye shall therefore keep my statutes and my judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation, nor any stranger that sojourneth among you;

27 (For all these abominations have the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled;)

28 That [b] the land spue not you out also, when ye defile it, as it spued out the nations that were before you.

29 For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations, even the souls that commit them shall be cut off from among their people.

30 Therefore shall ye keep mine ordinance, that [e] ye commit not any one of these abominable customs, which were committed before you, and that ye defile [d] not yourselves therein: I [e] am the LORD your God.

CHAP. XIX.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, Ye [f] shall be holy: for I the LORD your God am holy.

3 Ye shall fear every man his mother, [h] and his father, and keep [j] my sabbaths: I am the LORD your God.

4 Turn ye not unto idols, [k] nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am the LORD your God.

5 And [l] if ye offer a sacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, ye shall offer it at your own will.

6 It shall be eaten the same day ye offer it, and on the morrow: and if aught remain until the third day, it shall be burnt in the fire.

7 And if it be eaten at all on the third day, it is abominable; it shall not be accepted.

8 Therefore every one that eateth it shall bear his iniquity, because he hath profaned the hallowed thing of the LORD; and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

9 And [p] when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest.

10 And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger: I am the LORD your God.

11 Ye shall not steal, [s] neither deal falsely, neither lie [t] one to another.

12 And ye shall not swear [u] by my name falsely, neither shalt thou profane [w] the name of thy God: I am the LORD,

13 Thou shalt not defraud thy neighbour, neither rob him: the wages [a] of him that is hired shall not abide with thee all night until the morning.

14 Thou shalt not curse the deaf nor put a stumbling-block before the blind, [a] but shalt fear [b] thy God: I am the LORD.

15 Ye [c] shall do no unrighteousness in judgment: thou shalt not respect [d] the person of the poor, nor honour the person of the mighty: but in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbour.

16 Thou shalt not go up and down as a tale-bearer [e] among thy people: neither shalt thou stand against the blood [h] of thy neighbour: I am the LORD.

17 Thou shalt not hate [k] thy brother in thine heart: thou shalt in any wise rebuke [m] thy neighbour, [2] and not suffer sin [n] upon him.

18 Thou shalt not avenge, [o] nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but thou shalt love [p] thy neighbour as thyself: I am the LORD.

19 Ye shall keep my statutes. [q] Thou shalt not let thy cattle gender with a diverse kind. Thou shalt not sow thy field with mingled seed; neither shall a garment mingled of linen and woollen come upon thee.

20 And whosoever lieth carnally with a woman that is a bond-maid, [4] betrothed to an husband, and not at all redeemed, nor freedom given her, [5] she shall [6] be scourged: they shall not be put to death, because she was not free.

21 And [t] he shall bring his trespass-offering unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, even a ram for a trespass-offering.

22 And the priest shall make an atonement for him, with the ram of the trespass-offering, before the LORD, for his sin which he hath done: and the sin which he hath done shall be forgiven him.

23 And when ye shall come into the land, and shall have planted all manner of trees for food, then ye shall count the fruit thereof as uncircumcised: three years shall it be as uncircumcised unto you; it shall not be eaten of.

24 But in the fourth year all the fruit thereof shall be [7] holy, to praise [x] the LORD withal.

25 And in the fifth year shall ye eat of the fruit thereof, that it may yield unto you the increase thereof: I am the LORD your God.

26 Ye shall not eat any thing with the blood; [b] neither shall ye use enchantment, [c] nor observe times.

27 Ye [d] shall not round the corners of your heads, neither shalt thou mar the corners of thy beard.

28 Ye shall not make any cuttings in your flesh for the dead, nor print any marks upon you: I am the LORD.

29 Do not [8] prostitute thy daughter, to cause her to be a whore; lest the land fall to whoredom, and the land become full of wickedness.

30 Ye shall keep my sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary: [d] I am the LORD.

31 Regard [f] not them that have familiar spirits, neither seek after wizards, to be defiled by them: I am the LORD your God.

32 Thou shalt rise up before the hoary head, and honour [i] the face of the old man, and fear [j] thy God: I am the LORD.

33 And if a stranger [l] sojourn with thee in your land, ye shall not [1] vex him.

34 But the stranger that dwelleth with you shall be unto you as one born amongst you, and thou shalt love him as thyself; for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

35 Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment, in mete-yard, in weight, or in measure.

36 Just balances, [r] just [3] weights, a just ephah, and a just hin, shall ye have: I am the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt.

37 Therefore shall ye observe [s] all my statutes, and all my judgments, and do them: I am the LORD.

CHAP. XX.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Again, thou shalt say to the children of Israel, Whosoever [u] he be of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn in Israel, that giveth any of his seed unto Molech, he shall surely be put to death; the people of the land shall stone him with stones.

3 And I will set [v] my face against that man, and will cut him off from among his people; because he hath given of his seed unto Molech, to defile my sanctuary, and to profane my holy name.

4 And if the people of the land do any ways hide their eyes from the man, when he giveth of his seed unto Molech, and kill [w] him not;

5 Then I will set my face against that man, and against his family, [y] and will cut him off, and all that go a [z] whoring after him, to commit whoredom with Molech, from among their people.

6 And [a] the soul that turneth after such as have familiar spirits, and after wizards, to go a whoring after them, I will even set my face against that soul, and will cut him off [g] from among his people.

7 Sanctify [f] yourselves, therefore, and be ye holy: for I am the LORD your God.

8 And [s] ye shall keep my statutes, and do them: I [h] am the LORD which sanctify you.

9 For every one [a] that curseth his father or his mother shall be surely put to death: he hath cursed his father or his mother; his blood [c] shall be upon him.

10 And the man that committeth adultery with another man's wife, even he that committeth adultery with his neighbour's wife, the [f] adulterer and the adulteress shall surely be put to death.

11 And the man that lieth with his father's wife [g] hath uncovered his father's nakedness: both of them shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them.

12 And if a man lie with his daughter-in-law, [j] both of them shall surely be put to death: they have wrought confusion; their blood shall be upon them.

13 If a man also lie with [k] mankind as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them.

14 And if a man take a wife and her mother, [n] it is wickedness: they shall be burnt with fire, both he and they; that there be no wickedness among you.

15 And if a man lie with a beast, [p] he shall surely be put to death; and ye shall slay the beast.

16 And if a woman approach unto any beast, and lie down thereto, thou shalt kill the woman and the beast: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them.

17 And if a man shall take his [r] sister, his father's daughter, or his mother's daughter, and see her nakedness, and she see his nakedness, it is a wicked thing; and they shall be cut off in the sight of their people: he hath uncovered his sister's nakedness; he shall bear his iniquity.

18 And if a man shall lie with a woman having her sickness, [s] and shall uncover her nakedness, he hath [3] discovered her fountain, and she hath uncovered the fountain of her blood; and both of them shall be cut off from among their people

19 And [u] thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy mother's sister, nor of thy father's sister; for he uncovereth his near kin: they shall bear their iniquity.

20 And if a man shall lie with his uncle's wife, he hath uncovered his uncle's nakedness: they shall bear their sin; they shall die childless. [y]

21 And if a man shall take his brother's wife, [a] it is [4] an unclean thing; he hath uncovered his brother's nakedness: they shall be childless.

22 Ye shall therefore keep all [c] my statutes, and all my judgments, and do them; that the land, whither I bring you to dwell therein, spue [b] you not out.

23 And ye shall not walk in the manners of the nations which I cast out before you: for they committed all these things, and therefore [d] I abhorred them.

24 But I have said [e] unto you, Ye shall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to possess it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: I am the LORD your God, which have [h] separated you from other people.

25 Ye shall therefore put [i] difference between clean beasts and unclean, and between unclean fowls and clean: and ye shall not make your souls abominable by beast, or by fowl, or by any manner of living thing that [l] creepeth on the ground, which I have separated from you as unclean.

26 And ye shall be holy unto me; for [l] I the LORD am holy, and have severed [m] you from other people, that ye should be mine.

27 A man also, or woman, that hath a familiar spirit, [o] or that is a wizard, shall surely be put to death: they shall stone them with stones; their blood shall be upon them.

CHAP. XXI.

AND the LORD said unto Moses, Speak unto the priests the sons of Aaron, and say unto them, There [q] shall none be defiled for the dead among his people:

2 But for his kin that is near unto him, that is, for his mother, and for his father, and for his son, and for his daughter, and for his brother,

3 And for his sister a virgin, that is nigh unto him, which hath had no husband, for her may he be defiled.

4 But [2] he shall not defile himself, being a chief man among his people, to profane himself.

5 They shall not make baldness upon their head; neither shall they shave off the corner of their beard, nor make any cuttings in their flesh.

6 They shall be holy unto their God, and not profane [t] the name of their God: for the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and the bread of their God, they do offer; therefore [v] they shall be holy.

7 They shall [w] not take a wife that is a whore, or profane; neither shall they take a woman put away [x] from her husband: for he is holy unto his God.

8 Thou shalt sanctify him therefore; for he offereth the bread of thy God; he shall be holy unto thee: for [z] I the LORD, which sanctify you, am holy.

9 And the daughter of any priest, if she profane herself by playing the whore, she profaneth her father: she shall be burnt [b] with fire.

his brethren, upon whose head the anointing oil was poured, and that is consecrated to put on the [b] garments, shall not uncover [c] his head, nor rend his clothes;

11 Neither shall he go in [e] to any dead body, nor defile himself for his father, or for his mother;

12 Neither shall he go out of the sanctuary, nor profane the sanctuary of his God; for the crown [j] of the anointing oil of his God is upon him: I am the LORD.

13 And he shall take a wife [l] in her virginity

14 A widow, or a divorced woman, or profane, or an harlot, these shall he not take: but he shall take a virgin of his own people to wife.

15 Neither shall he profane his [o] seed among his people; for I the LORD do sanctify him.

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

17 Speak unto Aaron, saying, Whosoever he be of thy seed in their generations that hath any blemish, [s] let him not approach [t] to offer the [2] bread of his God:

18 For whatsoever man he be that hath a blemish, he shall not approach: a blind man, or a lame, or he that hath a flat nose, or any thing superfluous,[u]

19 Or a man that is broken-footed, or broken-handed,

20 Or crook-backed, or [4] a dwarf, or that hath a blemish in his eye, or be scurvy or scabbed, or [w] hath his stones broken:

21 No man that hath a blemish of the seed of Aaron the priest shall come nigh to offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire: he hath a blemish: he shall not come nigh to offer the bread of his God.

22 He shall eat the bread of his God, both of the most [y] holy, and of the holy; [z]

23 Only he shall not go in unto the vail, nor come nigh unto the altar, because he hath a blemish; that [b] he profane not my sanctuaries: for [c] I the LORD do sanctify them.

24 And Moses told it unto Aaron, and to his sons, and unto all the children of Israel.

CHAP. XXII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron and to his sons, that they separate [f] themselves from the holy things of the children of Israel, and that [g] they profane not my holy name in those things which they hallow [h] unto me: I am the LORD.

3 Say unto them, Whosoever he be of all your seed, among your generations, that goeth unto the holy things, which the children of Israel hallow unto the LORD, having [a] his uncleanness upon him, that soul shall be cut off from my presence: I am the LORD.

4 What man soever of the seed of Aaron is a leper, or [d] hath a running [1] issue, he shall not eat of the holy things until he be clean. [f] And whoso [g] toucheth any thing that is unclean by the dead, or a man [h] whose seed goeth from him;

5 Or whosoever [i] toucheth any creeping thing, whereby he may be made unclean, or [k] a man of whom he may take uncleanness, whatsoever uncleanness he hath;

6 The soul which hath touched [m] any such shall be unclean until even, and shall not eat of the holy things unless he wash [n] his flesh with water.

7 And when the sun is down he shall be clean, and shall afterward eat of the holy things, because [p] it is his food.

8 That which dieth [q] of itself, or is torn with beasts, he shall not eat to defile himself therewith: I am the LORD.

9 They shall therefore keep mine ordinance, lest [r] they bear sin for it, and die therefore, if they profane it: I the LORD do sanctify them.

10 There shall no stranger eat of the holy thing: a sojourner of the priest, or an hired servant, shall not eat of the holy thing.

11 But if the priest buy any soul with his [3] money, he shall eat of it, and he that is born in his house; they [v] shall eat of his meat.

12 If the priest's daughter also be married unto [5] a stranger, she may not eat of an offering of the holy things.

13 But if the priest's daughter be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and is returned [x] unto her father's house, as in her youth, she shall eat of her father's meat; but there shall no stranger eat thereof.

14 And if a man eat of the holy thing unwittingly, [a] then he shall put the fifth part thereof unto it, and shall give it unto the priest with the holy thing.

15 And they shall not profane the holy things [d] of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the LORD;

16 Or [6] suffer them to bear [e] the iniquity of trespass, when they eat their holy things: for I the LORD do sanctify them.

17 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

18 Speak unto Aaron, and to his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them, Whatsoever he be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers [i] in Israel, that will offer his oblation for all his vows, and for all his free-will-offerings, which they will offer unto the LORD for a burnt-offering;

19 Ye shall offer at your own will a male without blemish, [b] of the beeves, of the sheep, or of the goats.

20 But whatsoever [c] hath a blemish, that shall ye not offer; for it shall not be acceptable for you.

21 And whosoever offereth a sacrifice of peace-offerings [d] unto the LORD to accomplish his vow, [e] or a free-will-offering in beeves or [1] sheep, it shall be perfect to be accepted; there shall be no blemish therein.

22 Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen, or scurvy, or scabbed, ye shall not offer these unto the LORD, nor make an offering by fire of them upon the altar unto the LORD.

23 Either a bullock or a [2] lamb that hath any thing superfluous [g] or lacking in his parts, that mayest thou offer for a free-will-offering; but for a vow it shall not be accepted.

24 Ye shall not offer unto the LORD that which is bruised, or crushed, or broken, or cut; neither shall ye make any offering thereof in your land.

25 Neither from a stranger's [h] hand shall ye offer the bread of your God of any of these; because their [i] corruption is in them, and blemishes be in them; they shall not be accepted for you.

26 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

27 When [l] a bullock, or a sheep, or a goat, is brought forth, then it shall be seven days under the dam; and from the eighth day, and thenceforth, it shall be accepted for an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

28 And whether it be cow or [4] ewe, ye shall not kill it and her young [n] both in one day.

29 And when ye will offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving [o] unto the LORD, offer it at your own will.

30 On the same day it shall be eaten up; ye shall leave none of it until the morrow: I am the LORD.

31 Therefore [p] shall ye keep my commandments, and do them: I am the LORD.

32 Neither shall ye profane [q] my holy name; but [r] I will be hallowed among the children of Israel: I [t] am the LORD which hallow you,

33 That [v] brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD.

3 Six days [a] shall work be done; but the seventh day is the sabbath of rest, an holy convocation; ye shall do no work therein: it is the sabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings.

4 These are the feasts of the LORD, even holy convocations, which ye shall proclaim in their seasons.

5 In [f] the fourteenth day of the first month at even is the LORD's passover.

6 And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD: seven days ye must eat unleavened bread.

7 In the first day ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein.

8 But ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD seven days: in the seventh day is an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work therein.

9 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a [3] sheaf of the first-fruits [i] of your harvest unto the priest;

11 And he shall wave [k] the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the sabbath the priest shall wave it.

12 And ye shall offer that day, when ye wave the sheaf, an he-lamb without blemish of the first year, for a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

13 And the meat-offering [m] thereof shall be two tenth deals of fine flour mingled with oil, an offering made by fire unto the LORD for a sweet savour: and the drink-offering thereof shall be of wine, the fourth part of an hin.

14 And ye shall eat neither bread, nor parched corn, nor green ears, until the selfsame day that ye have brought an offering unto your God: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

15 And ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the sabbath, from the day that ye brought the sheaf of the wave-offering; seven [s] sabbaths shall be complete:

16 Even unto the morrow after the seventh sabbath shall ye number [u] fifty days; and ye shall offer a new meat-offering unto the LORD.

17 Ye shall bring out of your habitations two wave-loaves, of two tenth deals: they shall be of fine flour; they shall be baken with leaven; they are the first-fruits [w] unto the LORD.

18 And ye shall offer with the bread seven lambs without [z] blemish, of the first year, and one young bullock, and two rams they shall be for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, with their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, even an offering made by fire, of sweet savour unto the LORD.

19 Then ye shall sacrifice one kid [a] of the goats for a sin-offering, and two lambs of the first year for a sacrifice of peace offerings.

20 And the priest shall wave them with the bread of the first-fruits, for a wave-offering before the LORD, with the two lambs: they [d] shall be holy to the LORD for the priests.

21 And ye shall proclaim on the self-same day, that it may be an holy convocation unto you; ye shall do no servile work therein: it shall be a statute for ever in all your dwellings throughout your generations.

22 And when ye reap [g] the harvest of your land, thou shalt not make clean riddance of the corners of thy field when thou reapest, neither shalt thou gather any gleaning of thy harvest; thou shalt leave them unto the poor, [i] and to the stranger: I am the LORD your God.

23 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

24 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, In the seventh [j] month, in the first day of the month, shall ye have a sabbath, a memorial of blowing of trumpets, [l] an holy convocation.

25 Ye shall do no servile work therein; but ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

27 Also on the tenth day of this seventh month there shall be a day of atonement: [o] it shall be an holy convocation unto you; and ye shall afflict [p] your souls, and offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

28 And ye shall do no work in that same day; for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you before the LORD your God.

29 For whatsoever soul it be that shall not be afflicted [s] in that same day, he shall [t] be cut off from among his people.

30 And whatsoever soul it be that doeth any work in that same day, the same soul will I destroy [v] from among his people.

31 Ye shall do no manner of work; it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

32 It shall be unto you a sabbath of rest, and ye shall afflict your souls: in the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even, shall ye [4] celebrate your sabbath.

33 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

34 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the feast [z] of tabernacles for seven days unto the LORD.

35 On the first day shall be an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work therein.

36 Seven days ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: on the eighth [b] day shall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a solemn [1] assembly; [e] and ye shall do no servile work therein.

37 These are the feasts of the LORD, which ye shall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, a burnt-offering, and a meat-offering, a sacrifice, and drink-offerings, every thing upon his day: [f]

38 Beside [f] the sabbaths of the LORD, and beside your gifts, and beside all your vows, and beside all your free-will-offerings, which ye give unto the LORD.

39 Also in the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have [h] gathered in the fruit of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the LORD seven days: on the first day shall be a sabbath, and on the eighth day shall be a sabbath.

40 And ye shall take you on the first day the [2] boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook; and [k] ye shall rejoice before the LORD your God seven days.

41 And ye shall keep it a feast unto the LORD seven [m] days in the year: it shall be a statute for ever in your generations; ye shall celebrate it in the seventh month.

42 Ye shall dwell in booths seven days: all that are Israelites born shall dwell in booths;

43 That [n] your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

44 And Moses [q] declared unto the children of Israel the feasts of the LORD.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command [r] the children of Israel, that they bring unto thee pure oil-olive, beaten for the light, [3] to cause the lamps to burn continually. [u]

3 Without the vail of the testimony, in the tabernacle of the congregation, shall Aaron order it from the evening unto the morning, before the LORD continually: it shall be a statute for ever in your generations.

4 He shall order the lamps upon the pure candlestick [w] before the LORD continually.

5 And thou shalt take fine flour, and bake twelve [x] cakes thereof: two tenth deals shall be in one cake.

6 And thou shalt set them in two rows, six on a row, upon the pure table [y] before the LORD.

7 And thou shalt put pure frankincense upon each row, that it may be on the bread for a memorial, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

8 Every [a] sabbath he shall set it in order before the LORD continually, being taken from the children of Israel by an everlasting covenant.

9 And it shall be Aaron's and his sons; and they [c] shall eat it in the holy place: for it is most holy unto him of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, by a perpetual statute.

10 And the son of an Israelitish woman, whose father was an Egyptian, went out among the children of Israel; and this son of the Israelitish woman and a man of Israel strove together in the camp;

11 And the Israelitish woman's son blasphemed [e] the name of the LORD, and cursed. And they brought him [f] unto Moses; (and his mother's name was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan;)

12 And they [g] put him in ward, [3] that the mind [h] of the LORD might be shewed them.

13 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

14 Bring forth him that hath cursed without the camp; and let all that heard him lay their hands [i] upon his head, and let all the congregation stone him.

15 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Whosoever curseth his God shall bear his sin

16 And he [l] that blasphemeth the name of the LORD, he shall surely be put to death, and all the congregation shall certainly stone him: as well the stranger, as he that is born in the land, when he blasphemeth the name of the LORD, shall be put to death.

17 And he that [5] killeth any [o] man shall surely be put to death.

18 And he that killeth a beast [p] shall make it good; [6] beast for beast.

19 And if a man cause a blemish in his neighbour; as [q] he hath done, so shall it be done to him;

20 Breach for breach, eye for eye, tooth for tooth; as he hath caused a blemish in a man, so shall it be done to him again.

21 And he that killeth a beast, he shall restore it: and he that killeth a man, he shall be put to death.

22 Ye shall have one [t] manner of law, as well for the stranger as for one of your own country: for I am the LORD your God.

23 And Moses spake to the children of Israel, that they should bring forth him that had cursed out of the camp, and stone him with stones. And the children of Israel did as the LORD commanded Moses.

CHAP. XXV.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses in mount Sinai, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land which I give you, then shall the land [1] keep a sabbath unto the LORD.

3 Six [b] years thou shalt sow thy field, and six years thou shalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof;

4 But in the seventh year shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land, a sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard.

5 That [d] which groweth of its own accord of thy harvest thou shalt not reap, neither gather the grapes of thy [2] vine undressed: for it is a year of rest unto the land.

6 And the sabbath of the land shall be meat for you; for thee, and for thy servant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired servant, and for thy stranger that sojourneth with thee,

7 And for thy cattle, and for the beasts that are in thy land, shall all the increase thereof be meat.

8 And thou shalt number seven sabbaths of years unto thee, seven times seven years; and the space of the seven sabbaths of years shall be unto thee forty and nine years.

9 Then shalt thou cause the trumpet of [4] the jubilee to sound, on the tenth day of the seventh month; in the day [j] of atonement shall ye make the [k] trumpet sound throughout all your land.

10 And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim [m] liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof: it shall be a jubilee unto you; and ye shall return [n] every man unto his possession, and ye shall return every man unto his family.

11 A jubilee shall that fiftieth year be unto you: ye shall not sow, neither reap that which groweth of itself in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undressed.

12 For it is the jubilee, it shall be holy unto you: ye shall eat the increase thereof out of the field.

13 In [r] the year of this jubilee ye shall return every man unto his possession.

14 And if thou sell aught unto thy neighbour, or buyest aught of thy neighbour's hand, ye [s] shall not oppress one another:

15 According to the number of years after the jubilee thou shalt buy of thy neighbour, and according unto the number of years of the fruits he shall sell unto thee:

16 According to the multitude of years thou shalt increase the price thereof, and according to the fewness of years thou shalt diminish the price of it: for according to the number of the years of the fruits doth he sell unto thee.

17 Ye shall not therefore oppress one another; but thou shalt fear [u] thy God for I am the LORD your God.

18 Wherefore ye shall do [v] my statutes, and keep my judgments, and do them; and [b] ye shall dwell in the land in safety.

19 And the land shall yield her fruit, and ye shall eat your fill, and dwell therein in safety.

20 And if ye shall say, What shall we eat the seventh year? behold, we shall not sow, nor gather in our increase:

21 Then I will command [c] my blessing upon you in the sixth year, and it shall bring forth fruit for three years.

22 And [h] ye shall sow the eighth year, and eat yet of old fruit until the ninth year; until her fruits come in ye shall eat of the old store.

23 The land shall not be sold [3] for ever: for the land is mine; [j] for ye are strangers [k] and sojourners with me.

24 And in all the land of your possession ye shall grant a redemption for the land.

25 If thy brother be waxen poor, and hath sold away some of his possession, and [m] if any of his kin come to redeem it, then shall he redeem that which his brother sold.

26 And if the man have none to redeem it, and [5] himself be able to redeem it;

27 Then let him count [o] the years of the sale thereof, and restore the overplus unto the man to whom he sold it, that he may return unto his possession.

28 But if he be not able to restore it to him, then that which is sold shall remain in the hand of him that hath bought it, until the year of jubilee: and in the jubilee it shall go out, [r] and he shall return unto his possession.

29 And if a man sell a dwelling-house in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is sold; within a full year may he redeem it.

30 And if it be not redeemed within the space of a full year, then the house that is in the walled city shall be established for ever to him that bought it, throughout his generations: it shall not go out in the jubilee,

31 But the houses of the villages which have no walls round about them shall be counted as the fields of the country: they [9] may be redeemed, and they shall go out in the jubilee.

32 Notwithstanding, the cities [w] of the Levites, and the houses of the cities of their possession, may the Levites redeem at any time.

33 And if [10] a man purchase of the Levites, then the house that was sold, and the city of his possession, shall go out in the year of jubilee: for the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession among the children of Israel.

34 But the field [x] of the suburbs of their cities may not be sold; for it is their perpetual possession.

35 And if thy brother be waxen [a] poor, and [1] fallen in decay with thee, then thou shalt [2] relieve [c] him; yea, though he be a stranger, [d] or a sojourner; that he may live with thee.

36 Take thou no usury [e] of him, or increase: but fear [f] thy God; that thy brother may live with thee.

37 Thou shalt not give him thy money upon usury, nor lend him thy victuals for increase.

38 I [i] am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

39 And if thy brother that dwelleth by thee be waxen poor, and be sold unto thee, thou shalt not [4] compel him to serve as a bond-servant:

40 But [l] as an hired servant, and as a sojourner, he shall be with thee, and shall serve thee unto the year of jubilee:

41 And then shall he depart from thee, both he and his children with him, and shall return unto his own family, and unto the possession of his fathers shall he return.

42 For they are my [n] servants, which I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: they shall not be sold [6] as bondmen.

43 Thou shalt not rule over him with rigour, [p] but shalt fear [q] thy God.

44 Both thy bondmen, and thy bondmaids, which thou shalt have, shall be of the heathen that are round about you; of them shall ye buy bondmen and bondmaids.

45 Moreover, of the children of the strangers [s] that do sojourn among you, of them shall ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they begat in your land: and they shall be your possession.

46 And ye shall take them as an inheritance [t] for your children after you, to inherit them for a possession; [7] they shall be your bondmen for ever: but over your brethren, the children of Israel, ye shall not rule one over another with rigour [u]

47 And if a sojourner or stranger [8] wax rich by thee, and thy brother that dwelleth by him wax poor, and sell [v] himself unto the stranger or sojourner by thee, or to the stock of the stranger's family:

48 After that he is sold he may be redeemed again; one of his brethren may redeem him:

49 Either his uncle, or his uncle's son, may redeem him, or any that is nigh of kin unto him of his family may redeem him, or, if he be able, he may redeem himself.

unto the number of years; according to the time [b] of an hired servant shall it be with him.

51 If there be yet many years behind, according unto them he shall give again the price of his redemption out of the money that he was bought for.

52 And if there remain but few years unto the year of jubilee, then he shall count with him, and according unto his years shall he give him again the price of his redemption.

53 And as a yearly hired servant shall he be with him: and the other shall not rule with rigour over him in thy sight.

54 And if he be not redeemed [2] in these years, then he shall go out in the year of jubilee, both he, and his children with him.

55 For unto me the children of Israel are servants; they [h] are my servants, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

CHAP. XXVI.

YE [j] shall make you no idols nor graven image, neither rear you up a [3] standing image, neither shall ye set up any image [4] of stone in your land, to bow down unto it: for I am the LORD your God.

2 Ye [l] shall keep my sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary: I am the LORD.

3 If [m] ye walk in my statutes, and keep my commandments, and do them;

4 Then I will give you rain [o] in due season, and the land [p] shall yield her increase, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit.

5 And your threshing [r] shall reach unto the vintage, and the vintage shall reach unto the sowing time; and ye shall eat your bread to the full, and dwell in your land safely.

6 And I will give peace [t] in the land, and ye shall lie down, and none shall make you afraid: and I will [6] rid evil beasts [u] out of the land, neither shall the sword go through your land.

7 And ye shall chase your enemies, and they shall fall before you by the sword.

8 And [x] five of you shall chase an hundred, and an hundred of you shall put ten thousand to flight: and your enemies shall fall before you by the sword.

9 For I will have respect [z] unto you, and make [b] you fruitful, and multiply [c] you and establish my covenant with you,

10 And ye shall eat old [d] store, and bring forth the old because of the new.

11 And I will set my tabernacle [e] among you: and my soul shall not abhor [f] you.

12 And I will walk [g] among you, and [i] will be your God, and ye shall be my people,

13 I [j] am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that ye should not be their bondmen; and I have broken [l] the bands of your yoke, and made you go upright.

14 But [a] if ye will not hearken unto me, and will not do all these commandments;

15 And if ye shall despise my statutes, or if your soul abhor my judgments, so that ye will not do all my commandments, but that ye break [e] my covenant:

16 I also will do this unto you; I will even appoint [1] over you terror, consumption, and the burning ague, that shall consume the eyes, and cause sorrow of heart: and ye shall sow [d] your seed in vain, for your enemies [e] shall eat it.

17 And I will set my face against you, and ye shall be slain [f] before your enemies: they that hate you shall reign over you; and ye shall flee [g] when none pursueth you.

18 And if ye will not yet for all this hearken unto me, then I will punish you seven times more for your sins.

19 And I will break the pride [i] of your power, and I will make your heaven as iron, and your earth as brass:

20 And your strength shall be spent in vain: [k] for your land shall not yield her increase, neither shall the trees of the land yield their fruits.

21 And if ye walk [5] contrary unto me, and will not hearken unto me; I will bring seven times more plagues upon you according to your sins.

22 I will also send wild beasts [n] among you, which shall rob you of your children, and destroy your cattle, and make you few in number; and your high-ways shall [q] be desolate.

23 And if ye will not be reformed by me by these things, but will walk contrary unto me;

24 Then will I also walk [s] contrary unto you, and will punish you yet seven times for your sins.

25 And I will bring a sword upon you, that shall avenge [v] the quarrel of my covenant: and when ye are gathered together within your cities, I will send the pestilence [w] among you; and ye shall be delivered into the hand of the enemy.

26 And when I have broken [y] the staff of your bread, ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall deliver you your bread again by weight: and ye shall eat, and not [a] be satisfied.

27 And if ye will not for all this hearken unto me, but walk contrary unto me;

28 Then I will walk contrary unto you also in fury; and I, even I, will chastise you seven times for your sins.

29 And ye shall eat [k] the flesh of your sons, and the flesh of your daughters shall ye eat.

30 And I will destroy [k] your high places, and cut down your images, and cast your carcasses upon the carcasses of your idols, and my soul shall abhor [m] you.

31 And I will make your cities [n] wsate and bring your sanctuaries [a] unto desolation, and I will not smell [b] the savour of your sweet odours.

32 And I will bring the land [c] into desolation: and your enemies which dwell therein shall be astonished [d] at it.

33 And I will scatter [e] you among the heathen, and will draw out a sword after you: and your land shall be desolate, and your cities waste.

34 Then shall the land [f] enjoy her sabbaths, as long as it lieth desolate, and ye be in your enemies' land; even then shall the land rest, and enjoy her sabbaths.

35 As long as it lieth desolate it shall rest; because it did not rest in your sabbaths, when ye dwelt upon it.

36 And upon them that are left alive of you I will send a faintness [k] into their hearts in the lands of their enemies; and the sound [l] of a [1] shaken leaf shall chase them; and they shall flee, as fleeing from a sword; and they shall fall when none pursueth.

37 And they shall fall [m] one upon another, as it were before a sword, when none pursueth: and ye shall have no power to stand [n] before your enemies.

38 And ye shall perish among the heathen, and the land of your enemies shall eat you up.

39 And they that are left of you shall pine [o] away in their iniquity in your enemies' lands; and also in the iniquities of their fathers shall they pine away with them.

40 If [p] they shall confess their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their trespass which they trespassed against me, and that also they have walked contrary unto me;

41 And that I also have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their uncircumcised [r] hearts be humbled, [s] and they then accept [t] of the punishment of their iniquity:

42 Then will I remember [u] my covenant with Jacob, and also my covenant with Isaac, and also my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and I will remember the land. [v]

43 The land also shall be left of them, and shall enjoy her sabbaths, [w] while she lieth desolate without them: and they shall accept [x] of the punishment of their iniquity: because, even because they despised [y] my judgments, and because their soul abhorred my statutes.

44 And yet for all that, when they be in the land of their enemies, I will [a] not cast them away, neither will I abhor them, to destroy them utterly, and to break [d] my covenant with them: for I am the LORD their God.

45 But I will for their sakes [e] remember the covenant of their [f] ancestors, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the LORD.

46 These are the statutes and judgments and laws, which the LORD made between him and the children of Israel in mount Sinai by the hand of Moses.

CHAP. XXVII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When [g] a man shall make a singular [h] vow, the persons shall be for the LORD by thy estimation.

3 And thy estimation [i] shall be of the male from twenty years old even unto sixty years old, even thy estimation shall be fifty shekels of silver, after [j] the shekel of the sanctuary.

4 And if it be a female, then thy estimation shall be thirty shekels.

5 And if it be from five years old even unto twenty years old, then thy estimation shall be of the male twenty shekels, and for the female ten shekels.

6 And if it be from a month old even unto five years old, then thy estimation shall be of the male five shekels of silver, and for the female thy estimation shall be three shekels of silver.

7 And if it be from sixty years old and above; if it be a male, then thy estimation shall be fifteen shekels, and for the female ten shekels.

8 But if he be poorer than thy estimation, then he shall present himself before the priest, and the priest shall value him; according to his ability [q] that vowed shall the priest value him.

9 And if it be a beast, whereof men bring an offering unto the LORD, all that any man giveth of such unto the LORD shall be holy.

10 He shall not alter it, nor change it, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good: and if he shall at all change beast for beast, then it and the exchange thereof shall be holy.

11 And if it be any unclean beast, of which they do not offer a sacrifice unto the LORD, then he shall present the beast before the priest:

12 And the priest shall value it, whether it be good or bad: [2] as thou valuest it, who art the priest, so shall it be.

13 But [y] if he will at all redeem it, then he shall add a fifth part thereof unto thy estimation.

14 And when a man shall sanctify his house [b] to be holy unto the LORD, then the priest shall estimate it, whether it be good or bad: as [c] the priest shall estimate it, so shall it stand.

15 And if he that sanctified it will redeem his house, then he shall add the fifth [z] part of the money of thy estima-

16 And if a man shall sanctify unto the LORD some part of a field of his possession, then thy estimation shall be according to the seed thereof: [2] an homer of barley seed shall be valued at fifty shekels of silver.

17 If he sanctify his field from the year of jubilee, according to thy estimation it shall stand.

17 And Moses and Aaron took these men which are expressed [a] by their names: [b]
18 And they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the house of their fathers, according [d] to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, by their poll.
19 As [e] the LORD commanded Moses, so he numbered them in the wilderness of Sinai.
20 And the children of Reuben, Israel's eldest son, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, by their poll, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
21 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Reuben, were forty and six thousand and five hundred.
22 Of the children of Simeon, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, those that were numbered of them, according to the number of the names by their poll, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
23 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thousand and three hundred.
24 Of the children of Gad, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
25 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Gad, were forty and five thousand six hundred and fifty.
26 Of the children of Judah, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
27 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Judah, were threescore and fourteen thousand and six hundred. [f]
28 Of the children of Issachar, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
29 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Issachar, were fifty and four thousand and four hundred.
30 Of the children of Zebulun, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
31 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Zebulun, were fifty and seven thousand and four hundred.
32 Of the children of Joseph, [c] namely, of the children of Ephraim, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
33 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Ephraim, were forty thousand and five hundred.
34 Of the children of Manasseh, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
35 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Manasseh, were thirty and two thousand and two hundred.
36 Of the children of Benjamin, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
37 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Benjamin, were thirty and five thousand and four hundred.
38 Of the children of Dan, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
39 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Dan, were threescore and two thousand and seven hundred.
40 Of the children of Asher, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
41 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Asher, were forty and one thousand and five hundred.
42 Of the children of Naphtali, throughout their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;
43 Those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Naphtali, were fifty and three thousand and four hundred.
44 These [g] are those that were numbered, which Moses and Aaron numbered, and the princes of Israel, being twelve men: each one was for the house of his fathers.

46 Even all they that were [a] numbered were six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty.

47 But [b] the Levites after the tribe of their fathers were not numbered among them.

48 For the LORD had spoken unto Moses, saying,

49 Only thou shalt not number the tribe of Levi, neither take the sum of them among the children of Israel:

50 But [d] thou shalt appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of testimony, and over all the vessels thereof, and over all things that belong to it: they shall bear the tabernacle, and all the vessels thereof; and they shall minister unto it, and shall encamp [e] round about the tabernacle.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

2 Every [n] man of the children of Israel shall pitch by his own standard, with the ensign of their father's house: [2] far [o] off about the tabernacle of the congregation shall they pitch.

3 And on the east side toward the rising of the sun shall they of the standard of the camp of Judah pitch throughout their armies: and Nahshon [p] the son of Amminadab shall be captain of the children of Judah.

4 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were threescore and fourteen thousand and six hundred.

5 And those that do pitch next unto him shall be the tribe of Issachar: and Nethaneel the son of Zuar shall be captain of the children of Issachar.

6 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were fifty and four thousand and four hundred.

7 Then the tribe of Zebulun: and Eliab the son of Helon shall be captain of the children of Zebulun.

8 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were fifty and seven thousand and four hundred.

9 All that were numbered in the camp of Judah were an hundred thousand and fourscore thousand and six thousand and four hundred, throughout their armies. These shall first [c] set forth.

10 On the south side shall be the standard of the camp of Reuben according to their armies: and the captain of the children of Reuben shall be Elizur the son of Shedeur

11 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were forty and six thousand and five hundred.

12 And those which pitch by him shall be the tribe of Simeon: and the captain of the children of Simeon shall be Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

13 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were fifty and nine thousand and three hundred.

14 Then the tribe of Gad: and the captain of the sons of Gad shall be Eliasaph the son of [1] Reuel.

15 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were forty and five thousand and six hundred and fifty.

16 All that were numbered in the camp of Reuben were an hundred thousand and fifty and one thousand and four hundred and fifty, throughout their armies. And they shall set forth in the second [k] rank.

17 Then [m] the tabernacle of the congregation shall set forward with the camp of the Levites in the midst of the camp; as they encamp, so shall they set forward, every man in his place by their standards.

18 On the west side shall be the standard of the camp of Ephraim according to their armies: and the captain of the sons of Ephraim shall be Elishama the son of Ammihud.

19 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were forty thousand and five hundred.

20 And by him shall be the tribe of Manasseh: and the captain of the children of Manasseh shall be Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.

21 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were thirty and two thousand and two hundred.

22 Then the tribe of Benjamin: and the captain of the sons of Benjamin shall be Abidan the son of Gideoni.

23 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were thirty and five thousand and four hundred.

24 All that were numbered of the camp of Ephraim were an hundred thousand, and eight thousand and an hundred, throughout their armies. And they shall go forward in the third [q] rank.

25 The standard of the camp of Dan shall be on the north side by their armies: and the captain of the children of Dan shall be Ahiezer, the son of Ammishaddai.

26 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were threescore and two thousand and seven hundred.
27 And those that encamp by him shall be the tribe of Asher: and the captain of the children of Asher shall be Pagiel the son of Ocran.
28 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were forty and one thousand and five hundred.
29 Then the tribe of Naphtali: and the captain of the children of Naphtali shall be Ahira, the son of Enan.
30 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were fifty and three thousand and four hundred.
31 All they that were numbered in the camp of Dan were an hundred thousand, and fifty and seven thousand, and six hundred. They shall go [e] hindmost with their standards.
32 These are those which were numbered of the children of Israel by the house of their fathers: all [f] those that were numbered of the camps, throughout their hosts, were six hundred thousand, and three thousand, and five hundred and fifty.
33 But the Levites were not numbered among the children of Israel; as the LORD commanded Moses.
34 And the children of Israel did according to all [i] that the LORD commanded Moses: so [k] they pitched by their standards, and so they set forward, every one after their families, according to the house of their fathers.

CHAP. III.

THESE also are the generations of Aaron and Moses, in the day that the LORD spake with Moses in mount Sinai.
2 And these are the names of the sons of Aaron; Nadab [l] the first-born, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.
3 These are the names of the sons of Aaron, the [m] priests which were anointed, [2] whom he consecrated to minister in the priest's office.
4 And Nadab and Abihu died [n] before the LORD, when they offered strange fire before the LORD in the wilderness of Sinai, and they had no children: and Eleazar and Ithamar ministered in the priest's office in the sight of Aaron their father.
5 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
6 Bring [p] the tribe of Levi near, and present them before Aaron the priest, that they may minister unto him,
7 And they [t] shall keep his charge, and the charge of the whole congregation before the tabernacle of the congregation, to do [v] the service of the tabernacle.
8 And they shall keep all the instruments of the tabernacle of the congregation and the charge of the children of Israel, to do the service of the tabernacle
9 And thou shalt give [a] the Levites unto Aaron, and to his sons: they are wholly given unto him out of the children of Israel.
10 And thou shalt appoint Aaron and his sons, and they shall wait on their priest's office; and the stranger [b] that cometh nigh shall be put to death.
11 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
12 And I, behold, I have taken the Levites [c] from among the children of Israel instead of all the first-born that openeth the matrix among the children of Israel: therefore the Levites shall be mine;
13 Because all the first-born [d] are mine; for on the day that I smote all the first-born in the land of Egypt I hallowed unto me all the first-born in Israel both man and beast; mine shall they be: I am the LORD.
14 And the LORD spake unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, saying,
15 Number the children of Levi after the house of their fathers, by their families: every male [g] from a month old and upward shalt thou number them.
16 And Moses numbered them, according to the [1] word of the LORD, as he was commanded.
17 And these [h] were the sons of Levi by their names; Gershon and Kohath and Merari.
18 And these are the names of the sons of Gershon, by their families; Libni, [j] and Shimei.
19 And the sons of Kohath, by their families; Amram, and Izehar, Hebron, and Uzziel.
20 And the sons of Merari by their families; Mahli, and Mushi. These are the families of the Levites according to the house of their fathers.
21 Of Gershon was the family of the Libnites, and the family of the Shimites: these are the families of the Gershonites.
22 Those that were numbered of them, according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, even those that were numbered of them, were seven thousand and five hundred.
23 The families of the Gershonites [o] shall pitch behind the tabernacle westward.
24 And the chief of the house of the father of the Gershonites shall be Eliasaph the son of Lael.
25 And the charge of the sons of Gershon, [q] in the tabernacle of the congregation, shall be the tabernacle, [r] and the tent, [s] the covering thereof, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation,
26 And the hangings [u] of the court, and the curtain for the door of the court, which is by the tabernacle, and by the altar round about, and the cords [w] of it, for all the service thereof.

27 And of Kohath [a] was the family of the Amramites, and the family of the Izeharites, and the family of the Hebronites, and the family of the Uzzielites: these are the families of the Kohathites.

28 In the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, were eight thousand and six hundred, keeping the charge of the sanctuary.

29 The families of the sons of [b] Kohath shall pitch on the side of the tabernacle southward.

30 And the chief of the house of the father of the families of the Kohathites shall be Elizaphan the son of Uzziel.

31 And their [d] charge shall be the ark, [e] and the table, [f] and the candlestick, and the altars, [g] and the vessels of the sanctuary wherewith they minister, and the hanging, [h] and all the service thereof.

32 And Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest shall be chief over the chief of the Levites, and have the oversight of them that keep the charge of the sanctuary.

33 Of Merari [k] was the family of the Mahlites, and the family of the Mushites: these are the families of Merari.

34 And those that were numbered of them, according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, were six thousand and two hundred.

35 And the chief of the house of the father of the families of Merari was Zuriel the son of Abihail: these [n] shall pitch on the side of the tabernacle northward.

36 And [l] under the custody and [o] charge of the sons of Merari shall be the boards of the tabernacle, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and the sockets thereof, and all the vessels thereof, and all that serveth thereto.

37 And the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords.

38 But those that encamp before the tabernacle toward the east, even before the tabernacle of the congregation eastward, shall be Moses, and Aaron and his sons, keeping [s] the charge of the sanctuary for the charge of the children of Israel, and the stranger [u] that cometh nigh shall be put to death.

39 All [v] that were numbered of the Levites, which Moses and Aaron numbered at the commandment of the LORD, throughout their families, all the males from a month old and upward, were twenty and two thousand.

40 And the LORD said unto Moses, Number [a] all the first-born of the males of the children of Israel, from a month old and upward, and take the number of their names.

41 And [c] thou shalt take the Levites for me (I am the LORD) instead of all the first-born among the children of Israel, and the cattle of the Levites instead of all the firstlings among the cattle of the children of Israel.

42 And Moses numbered, as the LORD commanded him, all the first-born among the children of Israel.

43 And all the first-born males, by the number of names, from a month old and upward, of those that were numbered of them, were twenty and two thousand two hundred, and threescore and thirteen.

44 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

45 Take [e] the Levites instead of all the first-born among the children of Israel and the cattle of the Levites instead of their cattle; and the Levites shall be mine: I am the LORD.

46 And for those that are to be redeemed [i] of the two hundred and threescore and thirteen of the first-born of the children of Israel, which are more [j] than the Levites;

47 Thou shalt even take five [l] shekels apiece by the poll; after the shekel of the sanctuary shalt thou take them: (the shekel [m] is twenty gerahs:)

48 And thou shalt give the money, wherewith the odd number of them is to be redeemed, unto Aaron and to his sons.

49 And Moses took the redemption money of them that were over and above them that were redeemed by the Levites:

50 Of the first-born of the children of Israel took he the money; a thousand three hundred and threescore and five shekels, after [p] the shekel of the sanctuary:

51 And Moses gave [q] the money of them that were redeemed unto Aaron and to his sons, according to the word of the LORD, as [r] the LORD commanded Moses.

3 From [t] thirty years old and upward, even until fifty years old, all that enter into the host, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 This [w] shall be the service of the sons of Kohath, in the tabernacle of the congregation, about the [x] most holy things.

5 And when the camp setteth forward, Aaron shall come, and his sons, and they shall take down the covering vail, [y] and cover the ark [z] of testimony with it;

6 And shall put thereon the covering of badgers' skins, and shall spread over it a cloth wholly of blue, and shall put in the staves [b] thereof.

thereon the dishes, and the spoons, and the bowls, and covers to [1] cover withal: and the continual bread shall be thereon:

8 And they shall spread upon them a cloth of scarlet, and cover the same with a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put in the staves thereof.

9 And they shall take a cloth of blue, and cover the candlestick [b] of the light, and his lamps, and his tongs, and his snuff-dishes, and all the oil vessels thereof, wherewith they minister unto it:

10 And they shall put it and all the vessels thereof within a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put it upon a bar.

11 And upon the golden altar [c] they shall spread a cloth of blue, and cover it with a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put to the staves thereof:

12 And they shall take all the instruments [h] of ministry, wherewith they minister in the sanctuary, and put them in a cloth of blue, and cover them with a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put them on a bar:

13 And they shall take away the ashes from the altar, and spread a purple cloth thereon:

14 And they shall put upon it all the vessels [i] thereof, wherewith they minister about it, even the censers, the flesh-hooks, and the shovels, and the [5] basins, all the vessels of the altar; and they shall spread upon it a covering of badgers' skins, and put to the staves of it.

15 And when Aaron and his sons have made an end of covering the sanctuary, and all the vessels of the sanctuary, as the camp is to set forward; after that, the sons of Kohath [l] shall come to bear it: but they shall not touch [m] any holy thing, lest they die.[o] These [p] things are the burden of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation.

16 And to the office of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, pertaineth the oil [r] for the light, and the sweet [s] incense, and the daily meat-offering, [t] and the anointing oil, [u] and the oversight of all the tabernacle, and of all that therein is, in the sanctuary, and in the vessels thereof.

17 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

18 Cut ye not off the tribe of the families of the Kohathites from among the Levites:

19 But thus do unto them, that they may live, and not die, when they approach unto the most [x] holy things: Aaron and his sons shall go in, and appoint them every one to his service and to his burden:

20 But they shall not go in to [z] see when the holy things are covered, lest they die.

21 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

22 Take also the sum of the sons of Gershon, throughout the houses of their fathers, by their families;

23 From thirty [a] years old and upward, until fifty years old, shalt thou number them; all that enter in to [2] perform the service, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

24 This is the service of the families of the Gershonites, to serve, and for burdens.[3]

25 And [c] they shall bear the curtains of the tabernacle, and the tabernacle of the congregation, his covering, and the covering of the badgers' skins [d] that is above upon it, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation,

26 And the hangings [f] of the court, and the hanging for the door of the gate of the court, which is by the tabernacle, and by the altar round about, and their cords, [g] and all the instruments of their service, and all that is made for them: so shall they serve.

27 At the [4] appointment of Aaron and his sons shall be all the service of the sons of the Gershonites, in all their burdens, and in all their service: and ye shall appoint unto them in charge all their burdens.

28 This is the service of the families of the sons of Gershon in the tabernacle of the congregation: and their charge shall be under the hand of Ithamar, [j] the son of Aaron the priest.

29 As for the sons of Merari, thou shalt number them after their families, by the house of their fathers:

30 From thirty [k] years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, shalt thou number them, every one that entereth into [6] the service, to do the work of the tabernacle of the congregation.

31 And this [n] is the charge of their burden, according to all their service in the tabernacle of the congregation; the [q] boards of the tabernacle, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and sockets thereof,

32 And the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords, with all their instruments, [v] and with all their service: and by name ye shall reckon the instruments of the charge of their burden.

33 This is the service of the families of the sons of Merari, according to all their service in the tabernacle of the congregation, under the hand [w] of Ithamar, the son of Aaron the priest.

34 And Moses and Aaron, and the chief of the congregation, numbered the sons of the Kohathites, after their families, and after the house of their fathers,

3 Both male and female shall ye put out, without [c] the camp shall ye put them, that they defile not their camps, in the midst whereof I [d] dwell.

4 And the children of Israel did so, and put them out without the camp: as the LORD spake unto Moses, so did the children of Israel.

5 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

6 Speak unto the children of Israel, When [e] a man or woman shall commit any sin that men commit, to do a trespass against the LORD, and that person be guilty;

7 Then they shall confess [f] their sin which they have done: and he shall recompense [g] his trespass with the principal thereof, and add unto it the fifth part thereof, and give it unto him against whom he hath trespassed.

9 And every [1] offering of all the holy things of the children of Israel, which they bring unto the priest, shall [i] be his.

10 And every man's hallowed things shall be his: whatsoever any man giveth the priest, it shall be his.

20 But if thou hast gone aside to another instead of thy husband, and if thou be defiled, and some man have lain with thee beside thine husband;

22 And this water that causeth the curse shall go into thy bowels, [h] to make thy belly to swell, and thy thigh to rot. And the [i] woman shall say, Amen, amen.

23 And the priest shall write these curses in a book, and he shall blot them out with the bitter water:

24 And he shall cause the woman to drink the bitter water that causeth the curse: and the water that causeth the curse shall enter into her, and become bitter.

25 Then the priest shall take the jealousy-offering out of the woman's hand, and shall wave [l] the offering before the LORD, and offer it upon the altar:

26 And the priest shall take an handful of the offering, even the [n] memorial thereof, and burn it upon the altar, and afterward shall cause the woman to drink the water.

27 And when he hath made her to drink the water, then it shall come to pass, that if she be defiled, and have done trespass against her husband, that the water that causeth the curse shall enter into her, and become bitter, and her belly shall swell, and her thigh shall rot: and the woman shall be a curse [p] among her people.

28 And if the woman be not defiled, but be clean; then she shall be free, and shall conceive [7] seed.

29 This is the law of jealousies, when a wife goeth aside [s] to another instead of her husband, and is defiled,

30 Or when the spirit of jealousy cometh upon him, and he be jealous over his wife, and shall set the woman before the LORD, and the priest shall execute upon her all this law.

31 Then shall the man be guiltless from iniquity, and this woman shall bear [w] her iniquity.

CHAP. VI.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When either man or woman shall [1] separate themselves to vow a vow of a Nazarite, [a] to separate themselves unto the LORD;

3 He shall separate himself from [b] wine, and strong drink, and shall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink, neither shall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moist grapes, or dried.

4 All the days of his [3] separation shall he eat nothing that is made of the [4] vine tree, from the kernels even to the husk.

5 All the days of the vow of his separation there shall no razor [d] come upon his head: until the days be fulfilled, in the which he separateth himself unto the LORD, he shall be holy, and shall let the locks of the hair of his head grow.

6 All the days that he separateth himself unto the LORD he shall come at no dead body. [g]

7 He shall not make himself unclean for his father, or for his mother, for his brother, or for his sister, when they die; because the [6] consecration of his God is upon his head.

8 All the days of his separation [j] he is holy unto the LORD.

9 And if any man die very suddenly by him, and he hath defiled the head of his consecration; then he shall shave [k] his head in the day of his cleansing, on the seventh day shall he shave it.

10 And on the eighth day he shall bring two [m] turtles, or two young pigeons, to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

11 And the priest shall offer the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, and make an atonement for him, for that he sinned by the dead, and shall hallow his head that same day.

12 And he shall consecrate unto the LORD the days of his separation, and shall bring a lamb of the first year for a trespass-offering: [o] but the days that were before shall [7] be lost, because his separation was defiled.

13 And this is the law of the Nazarite, when the days of his separation are fulfilled: [r] he shall be brought unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation,

14 And he shall offer his offering unto the LORD, one he-lamb of the first year without blemish for a burnt-offering, and one ewe-lamb of the first year without blemish [t] for a sin-offering, and one ram without blemish for [u] peace-offerings,

15 And a basket of unleavened bread, cakes [v] of fine flour mingled with oil, and wafers of unleavened bread [x] anointed with oil, and their meat-offering, and their [y] drink-offerings.

16 And the priest shall bring them before the LORD, and shall offer his sin-offering, and his burnt-offering.

17 And he shall offer the ram for a sacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, with the basket of unleavened bread: the priest shall offer also his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

18 And the Nazarite shall shave [b] the head of his separation at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and shall take the hair of the head of his separation, and put it in the fire which is under the sacrifice of the peace-offerings.

22 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

23 Speak unto Aaron and unto his sons, saying, On this wise ye shall bless [l] the children of Israel, saying unto them,

24 The LORD bless [o] thee, and [p] keep thee;

25 The LORD make his face [r] shine upon thee, and be gracious [s] unto thee;

26 The LORD lift up [t] his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace.[u]

27 And they shall put my name [w] upon the children of Israel, and I will [x] bless them.

CHAP. VII.

AND it came to pass on the day that Moses had fully set up [z] the tabernacle, and had anointed it, [a] and sanctified it, and all the instruments thereof, both the altar and all the vessels thereof, and had anointed them, and sanctified them,

2 That the princes [b] of Israel, heads of the house of their fathers, who were the princes of the tribes, [1] and were over them that were numbered, offered:

3 And they brought their offering before the LORD, six covered waggons, and twelve oxen; a waggon for two of the princes, and for each one an ox; and they brought them before the tabernacle.

4 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

5 Take it of them, that they may be to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; and thou shalt give them unto the Levites, to every man according to his service.

6 And Moses took the waggons and the oxen, and gave them unto the Levites.

7 Two waggons and four oxen he gave unto the sons of Gershon, according to their service: [a]

8 And four waggons and eight oxen he gave unto the sons of Merari, [c] according unto their service, under the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

9 But unto the sons of Kohath he gave none; because [d] the service of the sanctuary belonging unto them was, that they should bear upon their shoulders.

10 And the princes offered for dedicating [g] of the altar in the day that it was anointed, even the princes offered their offering before the altar.

11 And the LORD said unto Moses, They shall offer their offering, each prince on his day, for the dedicating of the altar

12 And he that offered his offering the first day was Nahshon [h] the son of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah;

13 And his offering was one silver charger, the weight thereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel [i] of the sanctuary: both of them were full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a [j] meat-offering:

14 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense: [k]

15 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a [m] burnt-offering:

16 One kid of the goats for a [n] sin-offering:

17 And for a sacrifice of [q] peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the first year. This was the offering of Nahshon the son of Amminadab.

18 On the second day Nethaneel [v] the son of Zuar, prince of Issachar, did offer:

19 He offered [y] for his offering one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

20 One spoon of gold of ten shekels, full of incense:

21 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the first year, for a burnt-offering:

22 One kid of the goats for a sin-offering:

23 And for a sacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the first year. This was the offering of Nethaneel the son of Zuar.

24 On the third day Eliab [c] the son of Helon, prince of the children of Zebulun, did offer:

25 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

26 One golden spoon of ten shekels, full of incense:

89 And when Moses was gone into the tabernacle of the congregation to [b] speak with [1] him, then he heard the voice of one speaking unto him from off the mercy-seat [d] that was upon the ark of testimony, from between the two cherubims: and he spake unto him.

CHAP. VIII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
2 Speak unto Aaron, and say unto him, When thou lightest the lamps, [f] the seven lamps shall give light over against the candlestick.
3 And Aaron did so; he lighted the lamps thereof over against the candlestick, as the LORD commanded Moses.
4 And this work of the [g] candlestick was of beaten gold, unto the shaft thereof, unto the flowers thereof, was [h] beaten work: according unto the pattern [i] which the LORD had shewed Moses, so he made the candlestick.
5 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
6 Take the Levites from among the children of Israel, and cleanse them.
7 And thus shalt thou do unto them, to cleanse them: Sprinkle water [l] of purifying upon them, and [m] let them [2] shave all their flesh and let them wash their clothes, and so make themselves clean.
8 Then let them take a young bullock with his meat-offering, [n] even fine flour mingled with oil, and another young bullock shalt thou take for a sin-offering.
9 And [o] thou shalt bring the Levites before the tabernacle of the congregation: and [p] thou shalt gather the whole assembly of the children of Israel together:
10 And thou shalt bring the Levites before the LORD: and the children of Israel shall put [q] their hands upon the Levites:
11 And Aaron shall [3] offer [r] the Levites before the LORD for an [4] offering of the children of Israel, that they may execute [5] the service of the LORD.
12 And the Levites shall lay their hands upon the heads of the bullocks: and thou shalt offer the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, unto the LORD, to make an atonement for the Levites.
13 And thou shalt set the Levites before Aaron, and before his sons, and offer them for an offering unto the LORD.
14 Thus shalt thou separate [s] the Levites from among the children of Israel: and the Levites shall be mine. [t]
15 And after that shall the Levites go in to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation: and thou shalt cleanse them, and offer [u] them for an offering.

stead [a] of such as open every womb, even instead of the first-born of all the children of Israel, have I taken them unto me.

17 For all the first-born [c] of the children of Israel are mine, both man and beast: on the day that I smote every first-born in the land of Egypt I sanctified them for myself.

18 And I have taken the Levites for all the first-born of the children of Israel.

19 And I have given [f] the Levites as [1] a gift to Aaron and to his sons from among the children of Israel, to do the service of the children of Israel in the tabernacle of the congregation, and to make an atonement for the children of Israel: that [g] there be no plague among the children of Israel, when the children of Israel come nigh unto the sanctuary.

20 And Moses, and Aaron, and all the congregation of the children of Israel, did to the Levites according unto all that the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did the children of Israel unto them.

21 And the Levites were [h] purified, and they washed their clothes; and Aaron offered [i] them as an offering before the LORD; and Aaron made an atonement for them to cleanse them.

22 And after [l] that went the Levites in to do their service in the tabernacle of the congregation before Aaron, and before his sons: as [o] the LORD had commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did they unto them.

23 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

24 This is it that belongeth unto the Levites: from [q] twenty and five years old and upward they shall go in to [2] wait upon the service of the tabernacle of the congregation

25 And from the age of fifty years they shall [3] cease waiting upon the service thereof, and shall serve no more:

26 But shall minister with their brethren in the tabernacle of the congregation, to keep [u] the charge, and shall do no service.[v] Thus shall thou do unto the Levites touching their charge.

CHAP. IX.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the first month of the second year after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying,

2 Let the children of Israel also keep the passover at his appointed season.[x]

3 In the fourteenth [a] day of this month, at [4] even, ye shall keep it in his appointed season: according to all the rights of it, and according to all the ceremonies thereof, shall ye keep it.

4 And Moses spake unto the children of Israel, that they should keep the passover.

5 And [b] they kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month, at even, in the wilderness of Sinai: according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel.

6 And there were certain men who were defiled [d] by the dead body of a man, that they could not keep the passover on that day: and [e] they came before Moses and before Aaron on that day:

7 And those men said unto him, We are defiled by the dead body of a man: wherefore are we kept back, that we may not offer an offering of the LORD in his appointed season among the children of Israel?

8 And Moses said unto them, Stand still, and I will hear what the LORD will command concerning you.

9 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If any man of you or of your posterity shall be unclean by reason of a dead body, or be in a journey afar off, yet he shall keep the passover unto the LORD.

11 The fourteenth [j] day of the second month, at even, they shall keep it, and eat it with unleavened bread [k] and bitter herbs.

12 They shall leave none [m] of it unto the morning, nor break [n] any bone of it: according to all the ordinances of the passover they shall keep it.

13 But the man that is clean, and is not in a journey, and forbeareth to keep the passover, even the same soul [p] shall be cut off from his people: because he brought not the offering of the LORD in his appointed [r] season, that man shall bear [s] his sin.

14 And if a stranger shall sojourn among you, and will keep the passover unto the LORD; according to the ordinance of the passover, and according to the manner thereof, so shall he do: ye shall have one [t] ordinance, both for the stranger, and for him that was born in the land.

15 And on the day that the tabernacle was reared up, the cloud covered [w] the tabernacle, namely, the tent of the testimony: and at even [z] there was upon the tabernacle as it were the appearance of fire, until the morning.

16 So it was alway: the cloud [y] covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night.

17 And when [b] the cloud was taken up from the tabernacle, then after that the children of Israel journeyed: and in the place where the cloud abode, there the children of Israel pitched their tents.

ed: as long as the cloud abode upon the [b] tabernacle, they rested in their tents.

19 And when the cloud [1] tarried long upon the tabernacle many days, then the children of Israel kept the charge [c] of the LORD, and journeyed not.

20 And so it was, when the cloud was a few days upon the tabernacle; according to the commandment of the LORD they abode in their tents, and according to the commandment of the LORD they journeyed.

21 And so it was, when the cloud abode [2] from even unto the morning, and that the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they journeyed; whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken up, they journeyed.

22 Or whether it were two days, or a month, or a year, that the cloud tarried upon the tabernacle, remaining thereon, the children of Israel abode [j] in their tents, and journeyed not: but when it was taken up, they journeyed.

23 At the commandment of the LORD they rested in the tents, and at the commandment of the LORD they journeyed: they kept [k] the charge of the LORD, at the [l] commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

CHAP. X.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Make thee two trumpets of silver: of a whole piece shalt thou make them, that thou mayest use them for the calling [p] of the assembly, and for the journeying of the camps.

3 And when they shall blow [q] with them, all the assembly shall assemble themselves to thee at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 And if they blow but with one trumpet, then the princes, which are heads [s] of the thousands of Israel, shall gather themselves unto thee.

5 When ye blow an alarm [u] then the camps that lie on the east [v] parts shall go forward.

6 When ye blow an alarm the second time, then the camps that lie on the south [w] side shall take their journey: they shall blow an alarm for their journeys.

7 But when the congregation is to be gathered together, ye shall blow, but ye shall not sound an alarm.

8 And the sons of Aaron, the [y] priests, shall blow with the trumpets; and they shall be to you for an ordinance for ever throughout your generations.

9 And if ye go to war [a] in your land against the enemy that oppresseth [b] you, then ye shall blow an alarm with the trumpets; and ye shall be remembered [c] before the LORD your God, and ye shall be saved [d] from your enemies.

10 Also [a] in the day of your gladness, and in your solemn days, and in the beginnings of your months, ye shall blow with the trumpets over your burnt-offerings, and over the sacrifices of your peace-offerings; that they may be to you for a [d] memorial before your God: I am the LORD your God.

11 And it came to pass on the twentieth day of the second month, in the second year, that the cloud [e] was taken up from off the tabernacle of the testimony.

12 And the children of Israel took their journeys out of the wilderness of Sinai; [f] and the cloud rested in the wilderness of Paran.[g]

13 And they first took their journey according to the commandment of the LORD [h] by the hand of Moses.

14 In the first place went the [i] standard of the camp of the children of Judah according to their armies: and over his host was Nahshon the son of Amminadab.

15 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Issachar was Nethaneel the son of Zuar.

16 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Zebulun was Eliab the son of Helon.

17 And the tabernacle was taken [m] down; and the sons of Gershon and the sons of Merari set forward, bearing [n] the tabernacle.

18 And the standard [o] of the camp of Reuben set forward according to their armies: and over his host was Elizur the son of Shedeur.

19 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Simeon was Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

20 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Gad was Eliasaph the son of Deuel.

21 And the Kohathites set forward, bearing the sanctuary: [r] and [3] the other did set up the tabernacle against they came.

22 And the standard [t] of the camp of the children of Ephraim set forward according to their armies: and over his host was Elishama the son of Ammihud.

23 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Manasseh was Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.

24 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Benjamin was Abidan the son of Gideoni.

25 And the standard [x] of the camp of the children of Dan set forward, which was the rereward [z] of all the camps throughout their hosts: and over his host was Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

26 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Asher was Pagiel the son of Ocran.

27 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Naphtali was Ahira the son of Enan.

28 Thus [4] were the journeyings of the children of Israel according to their armies, when they set forward.

29 And Moses said unto Hobab, the son of Raguel [b] the Midianite, Moses' father-in-law, We are journeying unto the place of which the LORD said, I [c] will give it you: come thou with us, and we will do thee good: for the LORD hath spoken good [f] concerning Israel.

30 And he said unto him, I will not go; but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred.

31 And he said, Leave us not, I pray thee: forasmuch as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be to us instead of eyes. [g]

32 And it shall be, if thou go with us, yea, it shall be, that what goodness the LORD shall do unto us, the same [k] will we do unto thee.

33 And they departed from the [m] mount of the LORD three days' journey: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD went before [n] them in the three days' journey, to search out a resting-place for them.

34 And the cloud [p] of the LORD was upon them by day, when they went out of the camp.

35 And it came to pass, when the ark set forward, that Moses said, Rise [r] up, LORD, and let thine enemies be scattered, and let them that hate thee flee before thee.

36 And when it rested, he said, Return, O LORD, unto the [1] many thousands of Israel.

CHAP. XI.

AND [t] when the people [2] complained, [3] it displeased the LORD: and the LORD heard it: and his anger [v] was kindled; and the fire [z] of the LORD burnt among them, and consumed them that were in the uttermost parts of the camp.

2 And the people cried unto Moses; and when Moses prayed unto the LORD, the fire [4] was quenched.

3 And he called the name of the place Taberah: [5] because the fire of the LORD burnt among them.

4 And the mixed [b] multitude that was among them [6] fell a lusting: and the children of Israel also [7] wept again, and said, Who [c] shall give us flesh to eat?

5 We remember the fish, which we did eat in Egypt freely; the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlick:

6 But now [e] our soul is dried away: there is nothing at all, beside this manna, before our eyes.

7 And the manna was as coriander-seed, and the [9] colour thereof as the colour of bdellium. [i]

8 And the people went about, and gathered it, and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it: and [i] the taste of it was as the taste of fresh oil.

9 And when the dew [a] fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it.

10 Then Moses heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent: and the anger of the LORD was kindled [d] greatly; Moses also was displeased. [e]

11 And Moses said unto the LORD, Wherefore hast thou afflicted thy servant? and wherefore have I not found favour in thy sight, that thou layest the burden of all this people upon me?

12 Have I conceived all this people? have I begotten them, that thou shouldest say unto me, Carry [h] them in thy bosom, as a nursing father [i] beareth the sucking child, unto the land which thou [j] swarest unto their fathers?

13 Whence [l] should I have flesh to give unto all this people? for they weep unto me, saying, Give us flesh, that we may eat.

14 I [o] am not able to bear all this people alone, because it is too heavy for me.

15 And if thou deal thus with me, [q] kill me, I pray thee, out of hand, if I have found favour in thy sight; and let me not see my wretchedness.

16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Gather unto me seventy [s] men of the elders of Israel, whom thou knowest to be the elders of the people, and officers over them: and bring them unto the tabernacle of the congregation, that they may stand there with thee.

17 And [u] I will come down and talk with thee there: and I will take of the spirit [w] which is upon thee, and will put it upon them; and they shall bear the burden of the people with thee, that thou bear it not thyself alone.

18 And say thou unto the people, Sanctify [y] yourselves against to-morrow, and ye shall eat flesh: for ye have wept in the ears [z] of the LORD, saying, Who shall [a] give us flesh to eat? for it was well with us in Egypt: therefore the LORD will give you flesh, and ye shall eat.

19 Ye shall not eat one day, nor two days, nor five days, neither ten days, nor twenty days;

20 But even a [8] whole month, [d] until it come out at your nostrils, and it be loathsome unto you: because that ye have despised the LORD which is among you, and have wept before him, saying, Why came we forth out of Egypt?

21 And Moses said, The people, among whom I am, are six hundred [f] thousand footmen; and thou hast said, I will give them flesh, that they may eat a whole month.

22 Shall [k] the flocks and the herds be slain for them, to suffice them? or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them, to suffice them?

23 And the LORD said unto Moses, Is [a] the LORD's hand waxed short? thou shalt see now whether [d] my word shall come to pass unto thee or not.

24 And Moses went out, and told the people the words of the LORD, and gathered the seventy men of the elders of the people, and set them round about the tabernacle

25 And the LORD came down [f] in a cloud, and spake unto him, and took of the spirit that was upon him, and gave it unto the seventy elders: and it came to pass, that, when [h] the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied, and did not cease.

26 But there remained two of the men in the camp, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad: and the spirit rested upon them; and they were of them that were written, but went not out unto the tabernacle: and [m] they prophesied in the camp.

27 And there ran a young man, and told Moses, and said, Eldad and Medad do prophesy in the camp.

28 And Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of Moses, one of his young men, answered and said, My lord Moses, forbid [p] them.

29 And Moses said unto him, Enviest thou for my sake? Would [r] God that all the LORD's people were prophets, and that the LORD would put his spirit upon them!

30 And Moses gat him into the camp, he and the elders of Israel.

31 And there went forth a wind from the LORD, and brought [t] quails from the sea, and let them fall by the camp, as it were [1] a day's journey on this side, and as it were a day's journey on the other side, round about the camp, and as it were two cubits high upon the face of the earth.

32 And the people stood up all that day, and all that night, and all the next day, and they gathered the quails: he that gathered least gathered ten [w] homers: and they spread them all abroad for themselves round about the camp.

33 And while [x] the flesh was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed, the wrath of the LORD was kindled against the people, and the LORD smote the people with a very great plague.

34 And he called the name of that place [2] Kibroth-hattaavah: because there they buried the people that lusted.

35 And the people journeyed [z] from Kibroth-hattaavah unto Hazeroth; and abode [3] at Hazeroth.

CHAP. XII.

AND Miriam and Aaron spake against Moses because of the [4] Ethiopian woman whom he had married: for he [b] had married [5] an Ethiopian woman

2 And they said, Hath the LORD indeed spoken only by Moses? hath he not spoken [b] also by us? And the LORD heard [c] it.

3 (Now the man Moses was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth.)

4 And [e] the LORD spake suddenly unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out ye three unto the tabernacle of the congregation. And they three came out.

5 And the LORD came down [g] in the pillar of the cloud, and stood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam: and they both came forth.

6 And he said, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet among you, I the LORD will make myself known unto him in a vision, [i] and will speak unto him in a [j] dream.

7 My servant Moses is not so, who is faithful [k] in all mine house.[l]

8 With him will I speak mouth [n] to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark speeches; and the similitude of the LORD shall he behold: wherefore then were ye not [o] afraid to speak against my servant Moses?

9 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against them; and he departed.

10 And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle; and, behold, Miriam became leprous, [q] white as snow: and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and, behold, she was leprous.

11 And Aaron said unto Moses, Alas, my lord, I beseech thee, lay not the sin upon us, wherein we have done foolishly, [s] and wherein we have sinned.

12 Let her not be as one dead, of whom the flesh is half consumed when he cometh out of his mother's womb.

13 And Moses cried unto the LORD, saying, Heal [u] her now, O God, I beseech thee.

14 And the LORD said unto Moses, If her father had but spit in her face, should she not be ashamed seven days? let her be shut out [v] from the camp seven days, and after that let her be received in again.

15 And Miriam was shut out from the camp seven days: and the people journeyed not till Miriam was brought in again.

16 And afterward the people removed from Hazeroth, and pitched in the wilderness of Paran.

CHAP. XIII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Send [y] thou men, that they may search the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel: of every tribe of their fathers shall ye send a man, every one a ruler among them.

3 And Moses by the commandment of the LORD sent them [a] from the wilderness of Paran: all those men were heads of the children of Israel.

4 And these were their names: of the 9 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the son of Raphu.

10 Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the son of Sodi.
11 Of the tribe of Joseph, namely, of the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi the son of Susi.
12 Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the son of Gemalli.
13 Of the tribe of Asher, Sethur the son of Michael.
14 Of the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the son of Vophsi.
15 Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the son of Machi.
16 These are the names of the men which Moses sent to spy out the land. And Moses called Oshea the son of Nun, Jehoshua. [j]
17 And Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, and said unto them, Get you up this way southward, [l] and go up into the mountain: [m]
18 And see the land, what it is; and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be strong or weak, few or many:
19 And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in strong holds;
20 And what the land is, whether it be fat [r] or lean, whether there be wood therein or not: and be ye of good courage, [s] and bring of the fruit of the land. Now the time was the time of the first ripe grapes.
21 So they went up, and searched the land, from the wilderness of Zin [t] unto Rehob, [u] as men come to Hamath.
22 And they ascended by the south, and came unto Hebron, where Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the children of [v] Anak, were. (Now Hebron [w] was built seven years before Zoan [y] in Egypt.)
23 And they came unto the [2] brook of Eshcol, [3] and cut down from thence a branch with one cluster of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a staff; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs.
24 The place was called the [2] brook Eshcol, [3] because of the cluster of grapes which the children of Israel cut down from thence.
25 And they returned from searching of the land after forty days.
26 And they went and came to Moses, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Israel, unto the wilderness of Paran, to Kadesh; [e] and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and shewed them the fruit of the land.
27 And they told him, and said, We came unto the land whither thou sentest us, and surely it floweth [a] with milk and honey; and this [b] is the fruit of it.
28 Nevertheless the people [c] be strong that dwell in the land, and the cities are walled, and very great: and moreover we saw the children of Anak [d] there.
29 The Amalekites [f] dwell in the land of the south; and the Hittites, and the Jebusites, and the Amorites, dwell in the mountains; and the Canaanites dwell by the sea, and by the coast of Jordan.
30 And Caleb [g] stilled the people before Moses, and said, Let us go up at once and possess it; for we are well [h] able to overcome it.
31 But the men that went up with him said, We be not able to go up against the people; for they are stronger than we.
32 And [i] they brought up an evil report of the land which they had searched unto the children of Israel, saying, The land, through which we have gone to search it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and all the people that we saw in it are men of [1] a great stature. [k]
33 And there we saw the giants, the sons of Anak, [n] which come of the giants; and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, [o] and so we were in their sight.

CHAP. XIV.

AND all the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried; and the people wept [p] that night.
2 And all the children of Israel murmured [q] against Moses and against Aaron: and the whole congregation said unto them, Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt! or would God we had died in this wilderness!
3 And wherefore hath the LORD brought us unto this land, to fall by the sword, that our wives and our children should be a prey? were it not better for us to return into Egypt?
4 And they said one to another, Let us make a captain, and let us return [x] into Egypt.
5 Then Moses and Aaron fell on their faces [z] before all the assembly of the congregation of the children of Israel.
6 And Joshua [a] the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, which were of them that searched the land, rent their clothes:
7 And they spake unto all the company of the children of Israel, saying, The land, which we passed through to search it, is an exceeding good land.
8 If the LORD delight [b] in us, then he will bring us into this land, and give it us: a land which floweth with [c] milk and honey
9 Only rebel [d] not ye against the LORD, neither fear [f] ye the people of the land; for they are bread [a] for us: their [1] defence is departed from them, and the LORD is with us: [b] fear [c] them not.

10 But all the congregation bade stone them [d] with stones. And [e] the glory of the LORD appeared in the tabernacle of the congregation before all the children of Israel.

11 And the LORD said unto Moses, How long will this people provoke [h] me? and how long will it be ere they believe me, for all the signs which I have shewed among them?

12 I will smite them with the pestilence, and disinherit them, and will make of [j] thee a greater nation and mightier than they.

13 And Moses [i] said unto the LORD, Then [m] the Egyptians shall hear it, (for thou broughtest up this people in thy might from among them;)

14 And they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land: for they have [n] heard that thou, LORD, art among this people; that thou, LORD, art seen [o] face to face; and that thy cloud [p] standeth over them; and that thou [q] goest before them, by day-time in a pillar of a cloud, and in a pillar of fire by night.

15 Now, if thou shalt kill all this people as one man, then the nations which have heard the fame of thee will speak, saying,

16 Because [v] the LORD was not able to bring this people into the land which he sware unto them, therefore he hath slain them in the wilderness.

17 And now, I beseech thee, let the power [x] of my LORD be great, according as thou hast spoken, [z] saying,

18 The LORD is long-suffering, and of great mercy, forgiving [c] iniquity and transgression, and by no means clearing the guilty; visiting [d] the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation.

19 Pardon, [f] I beseech thee, the iniquity of this people, according unto the greatness of thy mercy, and as thou hast forgiven this people from Egypt even [5] until now.

20 And the LORD said, I have pardoned, according [h] to thy word:

21 But as truly as I live, all [i] the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD.

22 Because all those men which have seen my glory, and my miracles which I did in Egypt and in the wilderness, have tempted me now these ten times, and have not hearkened to my voice;

23 [6] Surely [l] they shall not see the land which I sware unto their fathers, neither shall any of them that provoked me see it:

24 But my servant Caleb, [m] because he had another spirit with him, and hath followed me fully, him will I bring into the land whereinto he went: and his seed shall possess it.

25 (Now the Amalekites and the Canaanites dwelt in the valley.) To-morrow turn you, and get you into the wilderness by the way of the Red sea.

26 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

27 How long [f] shall I bear with this evil congregation, which murmur against me? I have heard [g] the murmurings of the children of Israel, which they murmur against me.

28 Say unto them, As truly as I live, saith the LORD, as ye have spoken in mine ears, so will I do to you:

29 Your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness; and all that were [k] numbered of you, according to your whole number from twenty years old and upward, which have murmured against me,

30 Doubtless ye shall not come into the land concerning which I [2] sware to make you dwell therein, save Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun.

31 But your little ones, which ye said should be a prey, them will I bring in, and they shall know the land which ye have despised.[r]

32 But as for you, your carcasses, [s] they shall fall in this wilderness.

33 And your children shall [3] wander [t] in the wilderness forty years, and bear your [u] whoredoms, until your carcasses be wasted in the wilderness.

34 After the number of the days in which ye searched the land, even forty [w] days, each day for a year, shall ye bear your iniquities, even forty years; and ye shall know my [4] breach [y] of promise:

35 I [z] the LORD have said, I will surely do it unto all this evil [b] congregation, that are gathered together against me; in this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die.

36 And the men [c] which Moses sent to search the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur against him, by bringing up a slander upon the land,

37 Even those men, that did bring up the evil report upon the land, died [e] by the plague before the LORD.

38 But Joshua the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, which were of the men that went to search the land, lived [j] still.

39 And Moses told these sayings unto all the children of Israel: and the people mourned [k] greatly.

40 And they rose up early in the morning, and gat them up into the top of the mountain, saying, Lo, we be here, and will go up unto the place which the LORD hath promised: for we have sinned.

41 And Moses said, Wherefore now do ye transgress the commandment [n] of the LORD? but it shall not prosper.

42 Go not up, for the LORD is not among you; that ye be not smitten before your enemies.

43 For the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, and ye shall fall by the sword: because [b] ye are turned away from the LORD, therefore the LORD will not be with you.

44 But they presumed to go up unto the hill-top: nevertheless the ark [c] of the covenant of the LORD, and Moses, departed not out of the camp.

45 Then the Amalekites came down, and the Canaanites which dwelt in that hill, and smote them, and discomfited them, even unto Hormah.[e]

CHAP. XV.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye be come into the land of your habitations, which I give unto you,

3 And [i] will make an offering by fire unto the LORD, a burnt-offering, or a sacrifice in [l] performing a vow, [k] or in a free-will-offering, or in your solemn feasts, [l] to make a sweet savour [m] unto the LORD, of the herd, or of the flock;

4 Then shall he that offereth his offering unto the LORD bring a meat-offering [n] of a tenth deal of flour mingled with the fourth part of an hin of oil.[o]

5 And the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink-offering shalt thou prepare, with the burnt-offering or sacrifice, for one lamb.

6 Or for a ram, thou shalt prepare for a meat-offering two tenth deals of flour mingled with the third part of an hin of oil.

7 And for a drink-offering thou shalt offer the third part of an hin of wine, for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

8 And when thou preparest a bullock for a burnt-offering, or for a sacrifice in performing a vow, or [s] peace-offerings unto the LORD;

9 Then shall he bring [t] with a bullock a meat-offering of three tenth deals of flour mingled with half an hin of oil.

10 And thou shalt bring for a drink-offering half an hin of wine, for an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

11 Thus [v] shall it be done for one bullock, or for one ram, or for a lamb, or a kid.

12 According to the number that ye shall prepare, so shall ye do to every one according to their number.

13 All that are born of the country shall do these things after this manner in offering an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

14 And if a stranger sojourn with you, or whosoever be among you in your generations, and will offer an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD; as ye do, so he shall do.

15 One [a] ordinance shall be both for you of the congregation, and also for the stranger that sojourneth with you, an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, so shall the stranger be before the LORD.

16 One law and one manner shall be for you, and for the stranger that sojourneth with you.

17 And the LORD spake unto Moses saying,

18 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When [d] ye come into the land whither I bring you,

19 Then it shall be, that, when ye eat of the bread of the land, [f] ye shall offer up an heave-offering unto the LORD.

20 Ye shall offer up a cake of the [g] first of your dough for an heave-offering: as ye do the heave-offering [h] of the threshing-floor, so shall ye heave it.

21 Of the first of your dough ye shall give unto the LORD an heave-offering in your generations.

22 And if ye have erred, [j] and not observed all these commandments, which the LORD hath spoken unto Moses,

23 Even all that the LORD hath commanded you by the hand of Moses, from the day that the LORD commanded Moses, and henceforward among your generations;

24 Then it shall be, if aught be committed by ignorance [2] without the knowledge of the congregation, that all the congregation shall offer one young bullock for a burnt-offering, for a sweet savour unto the LORD, with [p] his meat-offering, and his drink-offering, according to the [3] manner, and one kid [q] of the goats for a sin-offering.

25 And the priest shall make an atonement for all the congregation of the children of Israel, and it shall be forgiven them; for it is ignorance: [r] and they shall bring their offering, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD, and their sin-offering before the LORD, for their ignorance:

26 And it shall be forgiven all the congregation of the children of Israel, and the stranger that sojourneth among them; seeing all the people were in ignorance.

27 And if [u] any soul sin through ignorance, then he shall bring a she-goat of the first year for a sin-offering.

28 And [w] the priest shall make an atonement for the soul that sinneth ignorantly, when he sinneth by ignorance before the LORD, to make an atonement for him; and it shall be forgiven him.

29 Ye shall have one law for him that sinneth [4] through ignorance, both for him that is born among the children of Israel, and for the stranger [x] that sojourneth among them.

30 But the soul that doeth aught [5] presumptuously, [y] whether he be born in the land, or a stranger, the same reproacheth the LORD; and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

31 Because he hath despised [a] the word of the LORD, and hath broken his commandment, that soul shall utterly be cut off: his iniquity [b] shall be upon him.

32 And while the children of Israel were in the wilderness, they found a man that gathered sticks [c] upon the sabbath-day.

33 And they that found him gathering sticks brought him unto Moses and Aaron, and unto all the congregation:

34 And they put him in ward, [h] because it was not declared what should be done to him.

35 And the LORD said unto Moses, The man [i] shall be surely put to death: all the congregation shall stone [j] him with stones without the camp.

36 And [k] all the congregation brought him without the camp, and stoned him with stones, and he died; as the LORD commanded Moses.

37 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

38 Speak unto the children of Israel, and bid them that they make them [m] fringes in the borders of their garments, throughout their generations, and that they put upon the fringe of the borders a riband of blue:

39 And it shall be unto you for a fringe, that ye may look upon it, and remember all the commandments of the LORD, and do them; and that ye seek not after your [q] own heart, and your own eyes, after which ye use to go a [r] whoring:

40 That ye may remember, and do [s] all my commandments, and be holy [t] unto your God.

41 I [u] am the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your [x] God: I am the LORD your God.

NOW Korah [y] the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, and Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, and On the son of Peleth, sons of Reuben, took men:

2 And they rose up before Moses, with certain of the children of Israel, two hundred and fifty princes of the assembly, famous [a] in the congregation, men of renown:

3 And [b] they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron, and said unto them, [2] Ye take too much upon you, seeing all [d] the congregation are holy, every one of them, and the LORD [e] is among them: wherefore then lift you up yourselves above the congregation of the LORD?

4 And when Moses heard it, he [f] fell upon his face:

and all his company;

7 And put fire therein, and put incense in them before the LORD to-morrow: and it shall be that the man whom the LORD doth choose he shall be holy: [g] ye take too much upon you, [d] ye sons of Levi.

8 And Moses said unto Korah, Hear, I pray you, ye sons of Levi:

9 Seemeth it but a small [f] thing unto you, that the God of Israel hath separated [c] you from the congregation of Israel, to bring you near to himself to do the service of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to stand before the congregation to minister unto them?

10 And he hath brought thee near to him, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee: and seek ye the priesthood also?

11 For which cause both thou and all thy company are gathered together against the LORD: and [l] what is Aaron that ye murmur against him?

12 And Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab; which said, We will not come up.

13 Is [n] it a small thing that thou hast brought us up out of a land that floweth with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness, except thou make thyself altogether a prince [o] over us?

14 Moreover, thou hast not brought us into a land that floweth [p] with milk and honey, or given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: wilt thou [1] put out the eyes of these men? we will not come up.

15 And Moses was very wroth, and said unto the LORD, Respect [t] not thou their offering: I [v] have not taken one ass from them, neither have I hurt one of them.

16 And Moses said unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company before the LORD, thou, and they, and Aaron, to-morrow:

17 And take every man his censer, and put incense in them, and bring ye [z] before the LORD every man his censer, two hundred and fifty censers; thou also, and Aaron, each of you his censer.

18 And they took every man his censer, and put fire in them, and laid incense thereon, and stood in the door of the tabernacle of the congregation with Moses and Aaron.

19 And Korah gathered all the congregation against them unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and [c] the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the congregation.

20 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

21 Separate [c] yourselves from among this congregation, that I may [h] consume them in a moment.

22 And they fell [i] upon their faces, and said, O God, the God [j] of the spirits of all flesh, shall one [m] man sin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation?

23 And the LORD spake unto Moses saying,

24 Speak unto the congregation, saying, Get you up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.

25 And Moses rose up and went unto Dathan and Abiram; and the elders of Israel followed him.

26 And he spake unto the congregation, saying, Depart, [b] I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, lest ye be consumed in all their sins.

27 So they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, on every side: and Dathan and Abiram came out, and stood in the door of their tents, and their wives, and their sons, and their little children.

28 And Moses said, Hereby ye [e] shall know that the LORD hath sent me to do all these works; for I have not done them of mine own mind. [g]

29 If these men die [1] the common death of all men, or if they be visited after the visitation [i] of all men; then the LORD hath not sent me.

30 But if the LORD [2] make a new [j] thing, and the earth open her mouth, and swallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they go down quick into the pit; [l] then ye shall understand that these men have provoked the LORD.

31 And it came to pass, as he had made an end of speaking all these words, that the ground clave asunder that was under them:

32 And [o] the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their houses, and all the men that appertained unto Korah, and all their goods.

33 They, and all that appertained to them, went down alive into the pit, and the earth closed upon them: and they perished from among the congregation.

34 And all Israel that were round about them fled at the cry of them: for they said, Lest the earth swallow us up also.

35 And there came out a fire [r] from the LORD, and consumed the two hundred and fifty [t] men that offered incense.

36 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

37 Speak unto Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, that he take up the censers out of the burning, and scatter thou the fire yonder; for [u] they are hallowed.

38 The censers of these sinners [v] against their own souls, let them make them broad plates for a covering of the altar; for they offered them before the LORD, therefore they are hallowed: and they shall be a sign [x] unto the children of Israel.

39 And Eleazar the priest took the brazen censers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered; and they were made broad plates for a covering of the altar:

40 To be a memorial unto the children of Israel, that [c] no stranger which is not of the seed of Aaron come near to offer incense before the LORD; that he be not as Korah, and as his company: as the LORD said to him by the hand of Moses.

41 But, on the morrow, all the congregation of the children of Israel [a] murmured against Moses and against Aaron, saying, Ye have killed the people of the LORD.

42 And it came to pass, when the congregation was gathered against Moses and against Aaron, that they looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation: and, behold, the cloud [c] covered it, and the glory [d] of the LORD appeared.

43 And Moses and Aaron came before the tabernacle of the congregation.

44 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

45 Get [f] you up from among this congregation, that I may consume them as in a moment. And [h] they fell upon their faces.

46 And Moses said unto Aaron, Take a censer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incense, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them: for there is [k] wrath gone out from the LORD; the plague is begun.

47 And Aaron took, as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the congregation; and, behold, the plague [m] was begun among the people: and he put on incense, [n] and made an atonement for the people.

48 And he stood between [p] the dead and the living; and the plague was [q] stayed.

49 Now they that died in the plague were fourteen thousand and seven hundred, beside them that died about the matter of Korah.

50 And Aaron returned unto Moses, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the plague was stayed.

CHAP. XVII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and take of every one of them a rod, [3] according to the house of their fathers, of all their princes according to the house of their fathers, twelve rods: write thou every man's name upon his rod.

3 And thou shalt write Aaron's name upon the rod of Levi: for one rod shall be for the head of the house of their fathers.

4 And thou shalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation, before the testimony, where [w] I will meet with you.

5 And it shall come to pass, that the man's rod, whom I shall choose, [y] shall blossom: and I will make to cease from me the murmurings of the children of Israel, whereby [z] they murmur against you.

6 And Moses spake unto the children of Israel; and every one of their princes gave him [3] a rod apiece, for each prince one, according to their fathers' houses, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aaron was among their rods.

7 And Moses laid up the rods before the LORD in the tabernacle [a] of witness.

8 And it came to pass, that on the morrow, Moses went into the tabernacle of witness; and, behold, the rod [c] of Aaron for the house of Levi was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed blossoms, and yielded almonds.

9 And Moses brought out all the rods from before the LORD unto all the children of Israel: and they looked, and took every man his rod.

10 And the LORD said unto Moses, Bring Aaron's rod again before the testimony, to be kept [i] for a token against the [1] rebels; and thou shalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not.

11 And Moses did so: as the LORD commanded him, so did he.

12 And the children of Israel spake unto Moses, saying, Behold, we die, we perish, [m] we all perish.

13 Whosoever [n] cometh any thing [o] near unto the tabernacle of the LORD shall die: shall we be consumed with dying?

CHAP. XVIII.

AND the LORD said unto Aaron, Thou, and thy sons, and thy father's house with thee, shall bear [q] the iniquity of the sanctuary: and thou and thy sons with thee shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood.

2 And thy brethren also of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou with thee, that they may be joined [t] unto thee, and minister [u] unto thee: but thou and [v] thy sons with thee shall minister before the tabernacle of witness.

3 And they shall keep thy charge, and the charge of all the tabernacle: only they [x] shall not come nigh the vessels of the sanctuary and the altar, that neither they nor ye also die.

4 And they shall be joined unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, for all the service of the tabernacle: and a stranger shall not come nigh unto you.

5 And ye shall keep the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the [d] altar; that there be no wrath [e] any more upon the children of Israel.

6 And I, behold I, have taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Israel; to you they are [g] given as a gift for the LORD, to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

7 Therefore thou [i] and thy sons with thee shall keep your priest's office for every thing of the altar, and within [k] the vail; and ye shall serve: I have given your priest's office unto you as a service of gift: and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put to death.

8 And the LORD spake unto Aaron, Behold, I also have given thee the charge of mine heave-offerings [b] of all the hallowed things of the children of Israel; unto thee have I given them, by reason of the anointing, [d] and to thy sons, by an ordinance for ever.

9 This shall be thine of the most holy things, reserved from the fire: Every oblation of theirs, every [e] meat-offering of theirs, and every sin-offering [f] of theirs, and every trespass-offering [g] of theirs, which they shall render unto me, shall be most holy for thee and for thy sons.

10 In [h] the most holy place shalt thou eat it; every male shall eat it: it shall be holy unto thee.

11 And this is thine: the heave-offering [j] of their gift, with all the wave-offerings of the children of Israel: I have given them unto thee, [k] and to thy sons, and to thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever: every one that is [l] clean in thy house shall eat of it.

12 All the [2] best of the oil, and all the best of the wine, and of the wheat, the first-fruits [p] of them which they shall offer unto the LORD, them have I given thee.

13 And whatsoever is first ripe in the land, which they shall bring unto the LORD, shall be thine: every one that is clean in thine house shall eat of it.

14 Every [r] thing devoted in Israel shall be thine.

15 Every [s] thing that openeth the matrix in all flesh, which they bring unto the LORD, whether it be of men or beasts, shall be thine: nevertheless the first-born of man shalt thou surely redeem, [w] and the firstling of unclean beasts shalt thou redeem.

16 And those that are to be redeemed, from a month old shalt thou redeem, according to thine estimation, [y] for the money of five [z] shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, which [a] is twenty gerahs.

17 But the firstling [b] of a cow, or the firstling of a sheep, or the firstling of a goat, thou shalt not redeem; they are holy: thou shalt sprinkle [c] their blood upon the altar, and shall burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

18 And the flesh of them shall be thine, as [f] the wave-breast and as the right shoulder are thine.

19 All [h] the heave-offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel offer unto the LORD, have I given thee and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever: it is a [j] covenant of salt for ever before the LORD unto thee, and to thy seed with thee.

Thou [a] shalt have no inheritance in their land, neither shalt thou have any part among them: I [b] am thy part, and thine inheritance, among the children of Israel.

21 And, behold, I have given the children of Levi all the tenth [c] in Israel for an inheritance, for their service which they serve, even the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

22 Neither must the children of Israel henceforth come nigh the tabernacle of the congregation, lest they bear sin, and [1] die.[h]

23 But [i] the Levites shall do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they shall bear their iniquity. It shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, that among the children of Israel they have no inheritance.

24 But the tithes [m] of the children of Israel, which they offer as an heave-offering unto the LORD, I have given to the Levites to inherit: therefore I have said unto them, Among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.

25 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

26 Thus speak unto the Levites, and say unto them, When ye take of the children of Israel the tithes, which I have given you from them for your inheritance, then ye shall offer up an heave-offering of it for the LORD, even a tenth part [p] of the tithe.

27 And this your heave-offering shall be reckoned unto you, as though [q] it were the corn of the threshing-floor, and as the fulness of the wine-press.

28 Thus ye also shall offer an heave-offering unto the LORD of all your tithes which ye receive of the children of Israel, and ye shall give thereof the LORD's heave-offering to Aaron the priest.

29 Out of all your gifts ye shall offer every heave-offering of the LORD, of all the [3] best thereof, even the hallowed part thereof, out of it.

30 Therefore thou shalt say unto them, When ye have heaved the best thereof from it, then [u] it shall be counted unto the Levites as the increase of the threshing-floor, and as the increase of the wine-press.

31 And ye shall eat it in every place, ye and your households: for it is your reward [x] for your service in the tabernacle of the congregation.

32 And ye shall bear [y] no sin by reason of it, when ye have heaved from it the best of it: neither shall ye pollute [a] the holy things of the children of Israel, lest ye die.

CHAP. XIX.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying,

2 This is the ordinance of the law which the LORD hath commanded, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, that they bring thee a red heifer without spot, wherein [c] is no blemish, and upon which [d] never came yoke.

3 And ye shall give her unto Eleazar the priest, that he may bring her forth without [f] the camp, and one shall slay her before his face.

4 And Eleazar the priest shall take of her blood with his finger, and [g] sprinkle of her blood directly before the tabernacle of the congregation seven times.

5 And one shall burn the heifer in his sight; her [j] skin, and her flesh, and her blood, with her dung, shall he burn:

6 And the priest shall take cedar [k] wood, and hyssop, and scarlet, and cast it into the midst of the burning of the heifer.

7 Then the priest shall wash his [l] clothes, and he shall bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp, and the priest shall be unclean until the even.

8 And he that burneth her shall wash his clothes in water, and bathe his flesh in water, and shall be unclean until the even.

9 And a man that is clean shall gather up the ashes [n] of the heifer, and lay them up without the camp in a clean place, and it shall be kept for the congregation of the children of Israel, for [o] a water of separation: it is a purification for sin.

10 And he that gathereth the ashes of the heifer shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it shall be unto the children of Israel, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among them, for a statute for ever.

11 He [r] that toucheth the dead body of any [2] man shall be unclean seven days.

12 He [s] shall purify himself with it on the third day, and on the seventh day he shall be clean: but if he purify not himself the third day, then the seventh day he shall not be clean.

13 Whosoever toucheth the dead body of any man that is dead, and purifieth not himself, defileth [t] the tabernacle of the LORD; and that soul shall be cut off from Israel: because the water [v] of separation was not sprinkled upon him, he shall be unclean; his uncleanness [w] is yet upon him.

14 This is the law when a man dieth in a tent; All that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent, shall be unclear seven days.

15 And every open vessel, [z] which hath no covering bound upon it, is unclean.

16 And whosoever toucheth one that is slain with a sword in the open fields, or a dead body, or a bone of a man, or a grave, shall be unclean seven days.

17 And for an unclean person they shal take of the [4] ashes of the burnt heifer of

CHAP. XX.

THEN [r] came the children of Israel, even the whole congregation, into the desert of Zin, in the first month: and the people abode in Kadesh; and [t] Miriam died there, and was buried there.

2 And [u] there was no water for the congregation: and [v] they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron.

3 And the people chode with Moses, and spake, saying, Would [w] God that we had died when our brethren died before the LORD!

4 And why have ye brought up the congregation of the LORD into this wilderness, that we and our cattle should die there?

5 And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it [z] is no place of seed, or of figs, or of vines, or of pomegranates; neither is there any water to drink.

6 And Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they fell upon their faces; and the glory of the LORD appeared unto them.

7 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

8 Take the rod, and gather thou the assembly together, thou and Aaron thy brother, and speak ye unto the rock before their eyes; and it shall give forth his water, and thou shalt bring forth to them water out of the rock: [d] so thou shalt give the congregation and their beasts drink

9 And Moses took the rod from before the LORD, as he commanded him.

10 And Moses and Aaron gathered the congregation together before the rock; and he said unto them, Hear now, ye rebels; [b] must we fetch you water out of this rock?

11 And Moses lift up his hand, and with his rod he smote the rock twice: and the [c] water came out abundantly: and the congregation drank, and their beasts also.

12 And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron, Because [e] ye believed me not, to sanctify [f] me in the eyes of the children of Israel, therefore ye shall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them.

13 This is the water of [2] Meribah; because the children of Israel strove with the LORD, and he was sanctified [h] in them.

14 And [i] Moses sent messengers from Kadesh unto the king of Edom, Thus saith [j] thy brother Israel, Thou knowest all the travail that hath [3] befallen us;

15 How our fathers went down [k] into Egypt, and we have dwelt [l] in Egypt a long time; and the Egyptians vexed us and our fathers:

16 And when [o] we cried unto the LORD, he heard [p] our voice, and sent [q] an angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt; and, behold, we are in Kadesh, a city in the uttermost of thy border:

17 Let [s] us pass, I pray thee, through thy country: we will not pass through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells: we will go by the king's high-way, we will not turn to the right hand nor to the left, until we have passed thy borders.

18 And Edom said unto him, Thou shalt not pass by me, lest I come out against thee with the sword.

19 And the children of Israel said unto him, We will go by the high-way; and [x] if I and my cattle drink of thy water, then I will pay for it: I will only, without doing any thing else, go through on my feet.

20 And he said, Thou [y] shalt not go through. And Edom came out [z] against him with much people, and with a strong hand.

21 Thus Edom refused to give Israel passage through his border: wherefore Israel turned away from him.

22 And [b] the children of Israel, even the whole congregation, journeyed from Kadesh, and came unto mount Hor.

23 And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in mount Hor, by the coast of the land of Edom, saying,

24 Aaron shall be gathered [c] unto his people: for he shall not enter into the land which I have given unto the children of Israel, because ye rebelled [c] against my [4] word at the water of Meribah.

25 Take Aaron and Eleazar his son, and bring them up unto mount Hor;

26 And strip Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son: and Aaron shall be gathered unto his people, and shall die there.

27 And Moses did as the LORD commanded: and they went up into mount Hor, in the sight of all the congregation.

28 And [c] Moses stripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son; and Aaron died there in the top of the mount: and Moses and Eleazar came down from the mount.

29 And when all the congregation saw that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron thirty days, even all the house of Israel.

CHAP. XXI.

AND when king Arad [g] the Canaanite, which dwelt in the south, heard tell that Israel came by the way [i] of the spies; then he fought against Israel, and took some of them prisoners.

2 And Israel vowed [j] a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou wilt indeed deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly [l] destroy their cities.

3 And the LORD hearkened [m] to the voice of Israel, and delivered up the Canaanites; and they utterly destroyed them and their cities: and he called the name of the place [7] Hormah.

4 And [o] they journeyed from mount Hor by the way of the Red sea, to compass the land [q] of Edom: and the soul of the people was much [8] discouraged because of the way.

5 And the people spake [s] against God, and against Moses, Wherefore [t] have ye brought us up out of Egypt, to die in the wilderness? for there is no bread, neither is [v] there any water; and our soul loatheth this light bread.

6 And [w] the LORD sent fiery serpents among the people, and they bit the people; and much people of Israel died

7 Therefore [y] the people came to Moses, and said, We have sinned, for we have spoken [z] against the LORD, and against thee; pray [a] unto the LORD, that he take away the serpents from us. And Moses prayed [b] for the people.

8 And the LORD said unto Moses, Make thee a fiery serpent, and set it upon a pole: and it shall come to pass, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, shall live.

9 And Moses made a serpent [d] of brass, and put it upon a pole: and it came to pass, that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the serpent of brass, he lived.

10 And the children of Israel set forward, and pitched in Oboth.[e]

11 And they journeyed from Oboth, and pitched at [11] Ije-abarim, in the wilderness which is before Moab, toward the sunrising.

12 From thence they removed, and pitched in the valley of Zared.[a]

13 From thence they removed, and pitched on the other side of [b] Arnon, which is in the wilderness that cometh out of the coasts of the Amorites: for Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites.

14 Wherefore it is said in the book of the wars of the LORD, [1] What he did in the Red sea, and in the brooks of Arnon,

15 And at the stream of the brooks that goeth down to the dwelling of Ar, [d] and lieth [2] upon the border of Moab.

16 And from thence they went to [e] Beer, that is the well whereof the LORD [f] spake unto Moses, Gather the people together, and I will give them water.

17 Then Israel sang [h] this song, [3] Spring up, O well; [4] sing ye unto it:

18 The princes digged the well, the nobles of the people digged it, by the direction of the law-giver, [k] with their staves. And from the wilderness they went to Mattanah:

19 And from Mattanah to Nahaliel: and from Nahaliel to Bamoth:

20 And from Bamoth in the valley, that is in the [5] country of Moab, to the top of [6] Pisgah, which looketh [n] toward Jeshimon.[8]

21 And [p] Israel sent messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, saying,

22 Let [r] me pass through thy land: we will not turn into the fields, or into the vineyards; we will not drink of the waters of the well: but we will go along by the king's high-way, until we be past thy borders.

23 And Sihon would not suffer Israel to pass through his border; but [u] Sihon gathered all his people together, and went out against Israel into the wilderness: and he came to Jahaz, and fought against Israel.

24 And [x] Israel smote him with the edge of the sword, and possessed his land from Arnon unto Jabbok, even unto the children of Ammon: for the border of the children of Ammon was strong.

25 And Israel took all these cities: and Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heshbon, and in all the villages [10] thereof.

26 For Heshbon [c] was the city of Sihon the king of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Moab, and taken all his land out of his hand, even unto Arnon.

27 Wherefore they that speak in proverbs, [e] say, Come into Heshbon, let the city of Sihon be built and prepared:

28 For [f] there is a fire gone out of Heshbon, a flame from the city of Sihon: it hath consumed Ar [h] of Moab, and the lords of the high-places of Arnon

29 Wo to thee, Moab! thou art undone, O people of Chemosh: [a] he hath given his sons that escaped, and his daughters, into captivity unto Sihon king of the Amorites.

30 We have shot at them: Heshbon is perished even unto Dibon, [b] and we have laid them waste even unto Nophah, which reacheth unto Medeba.

31 Thus Israel dwelt in the land of the Amorites.

32 And Moses sent to spy out [c] Jaazer; and they took the villages thereof, and drove out the Amorites that were there.

33 And [e] they turned and went up by the way of Bashan: and Og the king of Bashan went out against them, he and all his people, to the battle at Edrei.

34 And the LORD said unto Moses, Fear him not: for I have delivered him into thy hand, and all his people, and his land; and thou shalt do to him as thou didst unto Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon.

35 So [g] they smote him, and his sons, and all his people, until there was none left him alive: and they possessed his land.

CHAP. XXII.

AND [h] the children of Israel set forward, and pitched in the plains of Moab, on this side Jordan by Jericho.

2 And Balak, [j] the son of Zippor, saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites.

3 And [l] Moab was sore afraid of the people, because they were many: and Moab was distressed because of the children of Israel.

4 And Moab said unto the elders [n] of Midian, Now shall this company lick up all that are round about us, as the ox licketh up the grass of the field. And Balak, the son of Zippor, was king of the Moabites at that time.

5 He sent [q] messengers, therefore, unto Balaam, the son of Beor, to Pethor, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people, to call him, saying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover the [3] face of the earth, and they abide over against me.

6 Come now, therefore, I pray thee, curse [s] me this people, for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I shall prevail, that we may smite them, and that I may drive them out of the land: for I wot that he whom thou blessest is blessed, and he whom thou cursest is cursed.

7 And the elders of Moab, and the elders of Midian, departed with the rewards [u] of divination in their hand; and they came unto Balaam, and spake unto him the words of Balak.

8 And he said unto them, Lodge here this night, and I will bring you word again, as the LORD shall speak unto me: And the princes of Moab abode with Balaam.

9 And God came unto Balaam, and said, What men are these with thee?

10 And Balaam said unto God, Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, hath sent unto me, saying,

11 Behold, there is a people come out of Egypt, which covereth the face of the earth: come now, curse me them; peradventure [1] I shall be able to overcome them, and drive them out.

12 And God said unto Balaam, Thou shalt not go with them; thou shalt not curse the people: for [d] they are blessed.

13 And Balaam rose up in the morning, and said unto the princes of Balak, Get you into your land: for the LORD refuseth [f] to give me leave to go with you.

14 And the princes of Moab rose up, and they went unto Balak, and said, Balaam refuseth to come with us.

15 And Balak sent yet again princes, more, and more honourable than they.

16 And they came to Balaam, and said to him, Thus saith Balak the son of Zippor, [2] Let nothing, I pray thee, hinder thee from coming unto me:

17 For I will promote thee unto very great honour, and I will do whatsoever thou sayest unto me: come [i] therefore, I pray thee, curse me this people.

18 And Balaam answered and said unto the servants of Balak, If [k] Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I [m] cannot go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do less or more.

19 Now therefore, I pray you, tarry ye also here this night, that I may know what the LORD will say unto me more.

20 And [o] God came unto Balaam at night, and said unto him, If the men come to call thee, rise up, and go with them; but yet [p] the word which I shall say unto thee, that shalt thou do.

21 And Balaam rose up in the morning, and saddled his ass, and went with the princes of Moab.

22 And God's anger was kindled because he went: and [r] the angel of the LORD stood in the way for an adversary against him. Now he was riding upon his ass, and his two servants were with him.

23 And the ass saw [t] the angel of the LORD standing in the way, and his sword drawn in his hand: and the ass turned aside out of the way, and went into the field: and Balaam smote the ass, to turn her into the way.

24 But the angel of the LORD stood in a path of the vineyards, a wall being on this side, and a wall on that side.

25 And when the ass saw the angel of the LORD, she thrusts herself unto the wall, and crushed Balaam's foot against the wall: and he smote her again.

26 And the angel of the LORD went fur ther, and stood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left.

27 And when the ass saw the angel of the LORD, she fell down under Balaam: and Balaam's anger was kindled, and he smote the ass with a staff.

28 And the LORD opened [b] the mouth of the ass; and she said unto Balaam, What have I done unto thee, that thou hast smitten me these three times?

29 And Balaam said unto the ass, Because thou hast mocked me: I would there were a sword in mine hand, [e] for now would I kill thee.

30 And the ass said unto Balaam, Am not I thine ass, [2] upon which thou hast ridden ever since [3] I was thine unto this day? was I ever wont to do so unto thee? And he said, Nay.

31 Then the LORD opened [h] the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the angel of the LORD standing in the way, and his sword drawn in his hand: and he bowed [i] down his head, and [4] fell flat on his face.

32 And the angel of the LORD said unto him, Wherefore hast thou smitten thine ass [k] these three times? behold, I went out [5] to withstand thee, because thy [m] way is perverse [n] before me:

33 And the ass saw me, and turned from me these three times: unless she had turned from me, surely now also I had slain thee, and saved her alive.

34 And Balaam said unto the angel of the LORD, I [q] have sinned; for I knew not that thou stoodest in the way against me: now therefore if it [6] displease thee, I [o] will get me back again.

35 And the angel of the LORD said unto Balaam, Go [w] with the men: but [x] only the word that I shall speak unto thee, that thou shalt speak. So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

36 And when Balak heard that Balaam was come, he went out to meet him unto a city of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmost coast.

37 And Balak said unto Balaam, Did I not earnestly send unto thee to call thee? wherefore camest thou not unto me? am I not able indeed to promote [b] thee to honour?

38 And Balaam said unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee: have I now any power at all to say any thing? the word [c] that God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speak.

39 And Balaam went with Balak, and they came unto [9] Kirjath-huzoth.

40 And Balak offered oxen and sheep, and sent to Balaam, and to the princes that were with him.

41 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high [g] places of Baal, that thence he might see the utmost part of the people.

AND Balaam said unto Balak, [a] Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here seven oxen and seven rams.

2 And Balak did as Balaam had spoken, and Balak and Balaam offered [c] on every altar a bullock and a ram.

3 And Balaam said unto Balak, [d] Stand by thy burnt-offering, and I will go. peradventure the LORD will come to meet me: and whatsoever he sheweth me I will tell thee. And he went [1] to an high place.

4 And [f] God met Balaam: and he said unto him, I have prepared seven altars, and I have offered upon every altar a bullock and a ram.

5 And the LORD put [g] a word in Balaam's mouth, and said, Return unto Balak, and thus thou shalt speak.

6 And he returned unto him; and, lo, he stood by his burnt-sacrifice, he, and all the princes of Moab.

7 And he took up his parable, [j] and said, Balak the king of Moab hath brought me from Aram, out of the mountains of the east, saying, Come, curse [l] me Jacob, and come, defy [o] Israel.

8 How [p] shall I curse, whom God hath not cursed? or how shall I defy, whom the LORD hath not defied?

9 For from the top of the rocks I see him, and from the hills I behold him: lo, the people shall dwell alone, [r] and shall [s] not be reckoned among the nations.

10 Who [t] can count the dust of Jacob, and the number of the fourth part of Israel? Let [7] me die the death [v] of the righteous, and let my last end be like his?

11 And Balak said unto Balaam, What hast thou done unto me? I [y] took thee to curse mine enemies, and, behold, thou hast blessed them altogether.

12 And he answered and said, [z] Must I not take heed to speak that which the LORD hath put in my mouth?

13 And Balak said unto him, Come, I pray thee, with me unto [a] another place, from whence thou mayest see them: thou shalt see but the utmost part of them, and shalt not see them all; and curse me them from thence.

14 And he brought him into the field of Zophim, to the top of [8] Pisgah, and built seven altars, and offered [e] a bullock and a ram on every altar.

15 And he said unto Balak, Stand here by thy burnt-offering, while I meet the LORD yonder.

16 And the LORD met Balaam, and put [f] a word in his mouth, and said, Go again unto Balak, and say thus.

17 And when he came to him, behold, he stood by his burnt-offering, and the princes of Moab with him. And Balak said unto him, What [a] hath the LORD spoken?

18 And he took up his parable, and said, Rise up, Balak, and hear; hearken unto me, thou son of Zippor:

19 God [c] is not a man, that he should lie; neither the son of man, that he should repent: hath he said, and shall he not do it? or hath [f] he spoken, and shall he not make it good?

20 Behold, I have received commandment to bless, and he [g] hath blessed; and I cannot [h] reverse it.

21 He [j] hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob, neither hath he seen perverseness in Israel the LORD [m] his God is with him, and the shout [n] of a king is among them.

22 God [p] brought them out of Egypt: he hath [q] as it were the strength of an unicorn.

23 Surely there is no [1] enchantment against Jacob, neither is there any divination against Israel: according to this time it shall be said of Jacob and of Israel, What hath God wrought!

24 Behold, the people shall rise up [t] as a great lion, and lift up himself as a young lion: he shall not lie down [u] until he eat of the prey, and drink the blood of the slain.

25 And Balak said unto Balaam, Neither curse them at all, nor bless them at all.

26 But Balaam answered [v] and said unto Balak Told not I thee, saying, All that the LORD speaketh that I must do?

27 And Balak said unto Balaam, Come, I pray thee, I will bring thee unto another place: peradventure it will please God that thou mayest curse me them from thence 28 And Balak brought Balaam unto the top of Peor, that looketh toward Jeshimon.

29 And Balaam said unto Balak, Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here seven bullocks and seven rams.

30 And Balak did as Balaam had said, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND when Balaam saw that it pleased the LORD to bless Israel, he went not, as at other times, [2] to seek for enchantments, but he set his face toward the wilderness.

2 And Balaam lifted up his eyes, and he saw Israel abiding in his tents according to their tribes, and [e] the spirit of God came upon him.

3 And he took up his parable, and said, Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man [4] whose eyes are open hath said;

4 He hath said, which heard the words of God which saw the vision of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

5 How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob, and the tabernacles, O Israel!

6 As the valleys are they spread forth, as gardens by [b] the river's side, as the trees of lign-aloes which the LORD hath planted, and as [c] cedar trees beside the waters.

7 He shall pour the water out of his buckets, and his seed shall be in many waters, and his king shall be higher than Agag, and his kingdom shall be exalted.

8 God brought him forth out of Egypt; he hath as it were the strength of an unicorn: he shall eat up the nations his enemies, and shall break [i] their bones, and pierce [k] them through with his arrows.

9 He couched, he lay down as [l] a lion, and as a great lion: who shall stir him up? Blessed [o] is he that blesseth thee, and cursed is he that curseth thee.

10 And Balak's anger was kindled against Balaam, and he smote his hands together: and Balak said unto Balaam, I called thee to curse mine enemies, and, behold, [r] thou hast altogether blessed them these three times.

11 Therefore now flee thou to thy place: I thought to promote thee unto great honour; but, lo, the LORD hath kept thee back from honour.

12 And Balaam said unto Balak, Spake I not also to thy messengers which thou sentest unto me, saying,

13 If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the LORD, to do either good or bad of mine own mind; but what the LORD saith, that will I speak?

14 And now, behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and I will advertise thee what this people shall do to thy people in the latter days.

15 And he took up his parable, and said, Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man whose eyes are open hath said;

16 He hath said, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the Most High, which saw the vision of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

17 I [w] shall see him, but not now; I shall behold him, but not nigh: there shall come a Star [x] out of Jacob, and a Sceptre [y] shall rise out of Israel, and shall smite [3] the corners of Moab, and destroy all the children of Sheth.

18 And Edom [z] shall be a possession, Seir also shall be a possession for his enemies, and Israel shall do valiantly.

19 Out of Jacob shall come he that shall have dominion, and shall destroy him that remaineth of the city.

20 And when he looked on Amalek, he took up his parable, and said, Amalek was the first of [5] the nations; but his latter end shall be, [6] that he perish for ever.

21 And he looked on the Kenites, [b] and took up his parable, and said, Strong is thy dwelling-place, and thou puttest thy nest in a rock.

22 Nevertheless [2] the Kenite shall be wasted [3] until Asshur shall carry thee away captive.

23 And he took up his parable, and said, Alas, who [b] shall live when God doeth this!

24 And ships [c] shall come from the coast of Chittim, and shall afflict [d] Asshur, and shall afflict Eber, [e] and he also shall perish for ever.

25 And Balaam rose up, and went and returned to his place: and Balak also went his way.

CHAP. XXV.

AND Israel abode in Shittim, [h] and the people began to commit whoredom [i] with the daughters of Moab.

2 And [k] they called the people unto the sacrifices of their gods: and the people did eat, and bowed [l] down to their gods.

3 And Israel joined [m] himself unto Baal-peor: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel.

4 And the LORD said unto Moses, [o] Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up before the LORD against the sun, that the fierce [p] anger of the LORD may be turned away from Israel.

5 And Moses said unto the judges of Israel, Slay [r] ye every one his men that were joined unto Baal-peor.

6 And, behold, one of the children of Israel came, and brought unto his brethren a Midianitish woman, in the sight of Moses, and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Israel, who were weeping [t] before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

7 And when Phinehas [u] the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose up from among the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand:

8 And he went after the man of Israel into the tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman through her belly. So the plague was stayed from the children of Israel.

9 And those [v] that died in the plague were twenty and four thousand.

10 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

11 Phinehas the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, hath turned [x] my wrath away from the children of Israel, (while he was zealous [4] for my sake among them,) that I consumed not the children of Israel in my jealousy. [y]

12 Wherefore say, Behold, I give unto him [b] my covenant of peace:

13 And he shall have it, and his seed after him, even the covenant of an [e] everlasting priesthood; because he was [f] zealous for his God, and made an [g] atonement for the children of Israel.

14 Now the name of the Israelite that was slain, even that was slain with the Midianitish woman, was Zimri the son of Salu, a prince of a [1] chief house among the Simeonites.

15 And the name of the Midianitish woman that was slain was Cozbi, the daughter of Zur; [a] he was head over a people, and of a chief house in Midian.

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

17 Vex [f] the Midianites, and smite them:

18 For they vex you [g] with their wiles, wherewith they have beguiled you, in the matter of Peor, and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a prince of Midian, their sister, which was slain [i] in the day of the plague, for Peor's sake.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND it came to pass, after the plague, that the LORD spake unto Moses, and unto Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, saying,

2 Take [n] the sum of all the congregation, of the children of Israel, from twenty years old and upward, throughout their fathers' house, all that are able to go to war in Israel.

3 And Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them in the plains [q] of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho, saying,

4 Take the sum of the people, from twenty years old and upward; as the LORD commanded Moses, and the children of Israel, which went forth out of the land of Egypt.

5 Reuben, [s] the eldest son of Israel: the children of Reuben; Hanoch, of whom cometh the family of the Hanochites: of Pallu, the family of the Palluites:

6 Of Hesron, the family of the Hesronites: of Carmi, the family of the Carmites.

7 These are the families of the Reubenites; and they that were numbered of them were forty and three thousand and seven hundred and thirty.

8 And the sons of Pallu; Eliab.

9 And the sons of Eliab; Nemuel, and Dathan, and Abiram. This is that Dathan and Abiram which were famous in the congregation, who strove [w] against Moses and against Aaron in the company of Korah, when they strove against the LORD.

10 And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up together with Korah, when that company died, what time the fire devoured two hundred and fifty men; and [z] they became a sign

11 Notwithstanding, the children [a] of Korah died not.

12 The sons of Simeon after their families: of Nemuel, [d] the family of the Nemuelites: of Jamin, the family of the Jaminites: of Jachin, [e] the family of the Jachinites

13 Of Zerah, [h] the family of the Zarhites of Shaul, the family of the Shaulites.

52 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

53 Unto [b] these the land shall be divided for an inheritance, according to the number of names.

54 To [d] many thou shalt [1] give the more inheritance, and to few thou shalt [2] give the less inheritance: to every one shall his inheritance be given according to those that were numbered of him.

55 Notwithstanding the land shall be divided by lot: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers they shall inherit.

56 According to the lot shall the possession thereof be divided between many and few.

57 And [h] these are they that were numbered of the Levites, after their families: of Gershon, the family of the Gershonites: of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites: of Merari, the family of the Merarites.

58 These are the families of the Levites: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Mushites, the family of the Korathites: and Kohath begat Amram.

59 And the name of Amram's wife was Jochebed, [j] the daughter of Levi, whom her mother bare to Levi in Egypt: and she bare unto Amram, Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam their sister.

60 And unto Aaron [k] was born Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

61 And [l] Nadab and Abihu died, when they offered strange fire before the LORD.

62 And [n] those that were numbered of them were twenty and three thousand, all males, from a month old and upward: for [p] they were not numbered among the children of Israel, because there was no inheritance [q] given them among the children of Israel.

63 These are they that were numbered by Moses and Eleazar the priest, who numbered the children of Israel in [u] the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

64 But among these [w] there was not a man of them whom Moses and Aaron the priest numbered, when they numbered the children of Israel, in the wilderness of Sinai:

65 For the LORD had said [z] of them, They shall surely die in the wilderness. And there was not left a man of them, save Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun.

CHAP. XXVII.

THEN came the daughters of [b] Zelophehad, the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, of the families of Manasseh the son of Joseph: and these are the names of his daughters; Mahlah, Noah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah.

2 And they stood before Moses, and before Eleazar the priest, and before the princes and all the congregation, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, saying,

3 Our father died [a] in the wilderness, and he was not in the company of them that gathered [c] themselves together against the LORD in the company of Korah; but died in his own [c] sin, and had no sons

4 Why should the name of our father be [3] done away from among his family, because he hath no son? Give [f] unto us, therefore, a possession among the brethren of our father.

5 And Moses [g] brought their cause before the LORD.

6 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

7 The daughters of Zelophehad speak right: thou [i] shalt surely give them a possession of an inheritance among their father's brethren; and thou shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass unto them.

8 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a man die, and have no son, then ye shall cause his inheritance to pass unto his daughter.

9 And if he have no daughter, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his brethren.

10 And if he have no brethren, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his father's brethren.

11 And if his father have no brethren, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his kinsman that is next to him of his family, and he shall possess it: and it shall be unto the children of Israel a statute [m] of judgment; as the LORD commanded Moses.

12 And the LORD said unto Moses, Get thee [o] up into this mount Abarim, and see the land which I have given unto the children of Israel.

13 And when thou hast seen it, thou also shalt be gathered [r] unto thy people, as [s] Aaron thy brother was gathered.

14 For [t] ye rebelled against my commandment in the desert of Zin, in the strife of the congregation, to sanctify me at the water before their eyes: that is the water of Meribah [w] in Kadesh in the wilderness of Zin.

15 And Moses spake unto the LORD, saying,

16 Let the LORD, the God [y] of the spirits of all flesh, set [z] a man over the congregation,

17 Which may go out [a] before them, and which may go in before them, and which may lead them out, and which may bring them in; that the congregation of the LORD be not as sheep [c] which have no shepherd.

18 And the LORD said unto Moses, Take thee Joshua the son of Nun, a man in [d] whom is the spirit, and lay [e] thine hand upon him:

19 And set him before Eleazar the priest, and before all the congregation: and give him [f] a charge in their sight.

20 And [g] thou shalt put some of thine hon-

CHAP. XXVIII.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, and say unto them, My offering, and my bread for my sacrifices made by fire [1] for [h] a sweet savour unto me, shall ye observe to offer unto me in their due season.

3 And thou shalt say unto them, This is [i] the offering made by fire which ye shall offer unto the LORD; two lambs of the first year without spot, day [2] by day, for a continual burnt-offering.

4 The one lamb shalt thou offer in the morning, and the other lamb shalt thou offer [3] at [k] even;

5 And a tenth part of an ephah of flour for a meat-offering, [l] mingled [m] with the fourth part of a hin of beaten oil.

6 It is a continual burnt-offering, which was ordained in mount Sinai for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

7 And the drink-offering thereof shall be the fourth part of an hin for the one lamb: in the holy place shalt thou cause the strong wine to be poured unto the LORD for a drink-offering.

8 And the other lamb shalt thou offer at even: as the meat-offering of the morning, and as the drink-offering thereof, thou shalt offer it, a sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

9 And on the sabbath-day two lambs of the first year without spot, and two tenth deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, and the drink-offering thereof.

10 This is the burnt-offering of every sabbath, [p] beside the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

11 And in the beginnings [q] of your months ye shall offer a burnt-offering [r] unto the LORD; two young bullocks, and one ram, seven lambs of the first year without spot;

12 And three tenth deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, for one bullock; and two tenth deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, for one ram;

13 And a several tenth deal of flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering unto one lamb, for a burnt-offering of a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

14 And their drink-offerings shall be half an hin of wine unto a bullock, and the third part of an hin unto a ram, and a fourth part of an hin unto a lamb: this is the burnt-offering of every month throughout the months of the year.

15 And [d] one kid of the goats for a sin-offering unto the LORD shall be offered, beside [e] the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

16 And in the fourteenth [f] day of the first month is the passover of the LORD.

17 And in the fifteenth day of this month is the feast: seven days shall unleavened bread be eaten.

18 In the first day shall be an holy convocation; ye shall do no manner of servile work therein:

19 But ye shall offer a sacrifice made by fire, for a burnt-offering unto the LORD; two young bullocks, and one ram, and seven lambs of the first year: they shall be unto you without [j] blemish:

20 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oil: three tenth deals shall ye offer for a bullock, and two tenth deals for a ram;

21 A several tenth deal shalt thou offer for every lamb, throughout the seven lambs:

22 And one goat [n] for a sin-offering, to make an atonement for you.

23 Ye shall offer these beside the burnt-offering in the morning, which is for a continual burnt-offering.

24 After this manner ye shall offer daily, throughout the seven days, the meat of the sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD: it shall be offered beside the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

25 And on the seventh day ye shall have an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work.

26 Also in [o] the day of the first-fruits, when ye bring a new meat-offering unto the LORD, after your weeks be out, ye shall have an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work:

27 But ye shall offer the burnt-offering for a sweet savour unto the LORD; two young bullocks, one ram, seven lambs of the first year;

28 And their meat-offering of flour mingled with oil, three tenth deals unto one bullock, two tenth deals unto one ram;

29 A several tenth deal unto one lamb, throughout the seven lambs;

30 And one kid of the goats, to make an atonement for you.

31 Ye shall offer them besides the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, (they shall be unto you without blemish, [a]) and their drink-offerings.

CHAP. XXIX.

AND in the seventh month, on the first day of the month, ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work; it [c] is a day of blowing the trumpets unto you.

2 And ye shall offer a burnt-offering for a sweet savour unto the LORD, one young bullock, one ram, and seven lambs of the first year without blemish:

3 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth deals for a bullock, and two tenth deals for a ram,

4 And one tenth deal for one lamb, throughout the seven lambs;

5 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, to make an atonement for you:

6 Beside the [e] burnt-offering of the month, and his meat-offering, and [f] the daily burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, according [g] unto their manner, for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

7 And [h] ye shall have on the tenth day of this seventh month an holy convocation; and ye shall afflict [i] your souls: ye shall not do any work therein:

8 But ye shall offer a burnt-offering unto the LORD for a sweet savour; one young bullock, one ram, and seven lambs of the first year; they [j] shall be unto you without blemish.

9 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth deals to a bullock, and two tenth deals to one ram,

10 A several tenth deal for one lamb, throughout the seven lambs:

11 One kid of the goats for a sin-offering, beside the [k] sin-offering of atonement, and the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering of it, and their drink-offerings.

12 And [l] on the fifteenth day of the seventh month ye shall have an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work, and ye shall keep a feast unto the LORD seven days:

13 And [m] ye shall offer a burnt-offering, a sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD; thirteen young bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year; they shall be without blemish:

14 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth deals unto every bullock of the thirteen bullocks, two tenth deals to each ram of the two rams,

15 And a several tenth deal to each lamb of the fourteen lambs;

16 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

17 And on the second day ye shall offer twelve young bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the first year, without spot:

18 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner.[b]

19 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering; beside the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering thereof, and their drink-offerings.

20 And on the third day eleven bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish;

21 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner.

22 And one goat for a sin-offering; beside the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.[d]

23 And on the fourth day ten bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish:

24 Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

25 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering; beside the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

26 And on the fifth day nine bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without spot:

27 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

28 And one goat for a sin-offering; beside the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

29 And on the sixth day eight bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish:

30 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

31 And one goat for a sin-offering; beside the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

32 And on the seventh day seven bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish:

33 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

34 And one goat for a sin-offering; beside the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

35 On the eighth [n] day ye shall have a solemn assembly; ye shall do no servile work therein:

36 But ye shall offer a burnt-offering, a sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD; one bullock, one ram, seven lambs of the first year without blemish:

37 Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullock, for the ram, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

38 And one goat for a sin-offering; beside the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

39 These things ye shall [1] do unto the LORD in your set [c] feasts, beside your vows, [d] and your free-will-offerings, for your burnt-offerings, and for your meat-offerings, and for your drink-offerings, and for your peace-offerings.

40 And Moses told the children of Israel, according to all that the LORD commanded Moses.

CHAP. XXX.

AND Moses spake unto the heads [e] of the tribes concerning the children of Israel, saying, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded.

2 If a man vow [f] a vow unto the LORD, or swear [g] an oath to bind his soul with a bond; he shall not [2] break his word, he shall do [h] according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth.

3 If a woman also vow a vow unto the LORD, and bind herself by a bond, being in her father's house in her youth;

4 And her father hear her vow, and her bond wherewith she hath bound her soul, and her father shall hold his peace at her; then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she hath bound her soul shall stand.

5 But if her father disallow her in the day that he heareth; not any of her vows, or of her bonds, wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall stand: and the LORD shall forgive her, because her father disallowed her.

6 And if she had at all an husband, when she [4] vowed, or uttered aught out of her lips, wherewith she bound her soul;

7 And her husband heard it, and held his peace at her in the day that he heard it; then her vows shall stand, and her bonds wherewith she bound her soul shall stand.

8 But if her husband [n] disallowed her on the day that he heard it; then he shall make her vow which she vowed, and that which she uttered with her lips, wherewith she bound her soul, of none effect: and the LORD shall forgive her.

9 But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced, wherewith they have bound their souls, shall stand against her.

10 And if she vowed in her husband's house, or bound her soul by a bond with an oath;

11 And her husband heard it, and held his peace at her, and disallowed her not; then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she bound her soul shall stand.

12 But if her husband hath utterly made them void on the day he heard them; then whatsoever proceeded out of her lips concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her soul, shall not stand; her husband [a] hath made them void, and the LORD [b] shall forgive her.

13 Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the soul, her husband may establish it, or her husband may make it void.

14 But if her husband altogether hold his peace at her, from day to day; then he establisheth all her vows, or all her bonds, which are upon her: he confirmeth them, because he held his peace at her in the day that he heard them.

15 But if he shall any ways make them void, after that he hath heard them, then he shall bear her iniquity.

16 These are the statutes which the LORD commanded Moses between a man and his wife; between the father and his daughter, being yet in her youth in her father's house.

CHAP. XXXI.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Avenge [i] the children of Israel of the Midianites: afterward shalt thou be gathered [j] unto thy people.

3 And Moses spake unto the people, saying, Arm some of yourselves unto the war, and let them go against the Midianites, and avenge the LORD of Midian.

4 Of [3] every tribe a thousand, throughout all the tribes of Israel, shall ye send to the war.

5 So there were delivered out of the thousands of Israel, a thousand of every tribe, twelve thousand armed for war.

6 And Moses sent them to the war, a thousand of every tribe, them and Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest to the war, with the holy instruments, and the trumpets to [k] blow, in his hand.

7 And they warred against the Midianites, as the LORD commanded Moses; and [l] they slew all the males.

8 And [m] they slew the kings of Midian, beside the rest of them that were slain; namely, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian: Balaam also, the son of Beor, they slew with the sword.

9 And the children of Israel took all the women of Midian captives, and their little ones, and took the spoil of all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all their goods.

10 And they [o] burnt all their cities wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly castles, with fire.

11 And they took all the spoil [p] and all the prey, both of men and of beasts.

12 And they brought the captives, and the prey, and the spoil, unto Moses and Eleazar the priest, and unto the congregation of the children of Israel, unto the camp at the plains [q] of Moab, which are by Jordan near Jericho

13 And Moses, and Eleazar the priest, and all the princes of the congregation, went forth to meet them without the camp.
14 And Moses was wroth with the officers of the host, with the captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, which came from the [1] battle.
15 And Moses said unto them, Have ye saved all the women [a] alive?
16 Behold, these [b] caused the children of Israel, through the counsel [c] of Balaam, to commit trespass against the LORD in the matter of Peor, and there was a plague among [d] the congregation of the LORD.
17 Now therefore [e] kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman that hath known man by lying with [2] him.
18 But all the women-children, that have not known a man by lying with him, keep alive for yourselves.
19 And do ye abide without the camp seven days: whosoever [f] hath killed any person, and whosoever hath touched any slain, purify both yourselves and your captives on the third day, and on the seventh day.
20 And purify all your raiment, and all that [3] is made of skins, and all work of goats' hair, and all things made of wood.
21 And Eleazar the priest said unto the men of war which went to the battle, This is the ordinance of the law which the LORD commanded Moses;
22 Only the gold, and the silver, the brass, the iron, the tin, and the lead,
23 Every thing that may abide the fire, ye shall make it go through the fire, and it shall be clean; nevertheless it shall be purified [h] with the water of separation: and all that abideth not the fire ye shall make go through the water.
24 And [i] ye shall wash your clothes on the seventh day, and ye shall be clean, and afterward ye shall come into the camp.
25 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
26 Take the sum of the prey [4] that was taken, both of man and of beast, thou, and Eleazar the priest, and the chief fathers of the congregation;
27 And divide [k] the prey into two parts; between them that took the war upon them, who went out to battle, and between all the congregation:
28 And levy a tribute [l] unto the LORD of the men of war which went out to battle: one [m] soul of five hundred, both of the persons, and of the beeves, and of the asses, and of the sheep:
29 Take it of their half, and give it unto Eleazar the priest, for an heave-offering of the LORD.
30 And of the children of Israel's half, thou shalt take [n] one portion of fifty, of the persons, of the beeves, of the asses, and of the [7] flocks, of all manner of beasts, and give [p] them unto the Levites, which [7] keep the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD
31 And Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the LORD commanded Moses.
32 And the booty, being the rest of the prey which the men of war had caught, was six hundred thousand, and seventy thousand, and five thousand sheep,
33 And threescore and twelve thousand beeves,
34 And threescore and one thousand asses,
35 And thirty and two thousand persons in all, of women that had not known man by lying with him.
36 And the half, which was the portion of them that went out to war, was in number three hundred thousand, and seven and thirty thousand and five hundred sheep:
37 And the LORD's tribute of the sheep was six hundred and threescore and fifteen.
38 And the beeves were thirty and six thousand; of which the LORD's tribute was threescore and twelve.
39 And the asses were thirty thousand and five hundred; of which the LORD's tribute was threescore and one.
40 And the persons were sixteen thousand; of which the LORD's tribute was thirty and two persons.
41 And Moses gave the tribute, which was the LORD's heave-offering, unto Eleazar the priest; as [g] the LORD commanded Moses.
42 And of the children of Israel's half, which Moses divided from the men that warred,
43 (Now the half that pertained unto the congregation was three hundred thousand, and thirty thousand, and seven thousand and five hundred sheep,
44 And thirty and six thousand beeves,
45 And thirty thousand asses and five hundred,
46 And sixteen thousand persons,)
47 Even [j] of the children of Israel's half, Moses took one portion of fifty, both of man and of beast, and gave them unto the Levites, which kept the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD; as the LORD commanded Moses.
48 And the officers which were over thousands of the host, the captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, came near unto Moses:
49 And they said unto Moses, Thy servants have taken the sum of the men of war which are under our [5] charge, and there lacketh not one man of us.
50 We have therefore brought an oblation for the LORD, what every man hath gotten, [6] of jewels of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, ear-rings, and tablets, to make [o] an atonement for our souls before the LORD.
51 And Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of them, even all wrought jewels.

52 And all the gold of the [1] offering that they offered up to the LORD, of the captains of thousands, and of the captains of hundreds, was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels.

53 (For the men of war had [e] taken spoil, every man for himself.)

54 And Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of the captains of thousands and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of the congregation, for [g] a memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD.

CHAP. XXXII.

NOW the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, had a very great multitude of cattle: and when they saw the land of Jazer, [i] and the land of Gilead, [j] that, behold, the place was a place [k] for cattle;

2 The children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, came and spake unto Moses, and to Eleazar the priest, and unto the princes of the congregation, saying,

3 Ataroth, and Dibon, [n] and Jazer, and Nimrah, [o] and Heshbon, [p] and Elealeh, and Shebam, [q] and Nebo, and Beon, [r]

4 Even the country [s] which the LORD smote before the congregation of Israel, is a land for cattle, and thy servants have cattle:

5 Wherefore, said they, if we have found grace in thy sight, let this land be given unto thy servants for a possession, and bring us not over Jordan.

6 And Moses said unto the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, Shall your brethren go to war, and shall ye sit here?

7 And wherefore [2] discourage ye the heart of the children of Israel from going over into the land which the LORD hath given them?

8 Thus did your fathers, when [y] I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to see the land

9 For when they went up unto the valley of Eshcol, and saw the land, they discouraged the heart of the children of Israel, that they should not go into the land which the LORD had given them.

10 And [a] the LORD's anger was kindled the same time, and he sware, saying,

11 Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt, from twenty years old and upward, shall see the land which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob; because [c] they have [3] not wholly followed me;

12 Save Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite, and Joshua the son of Nun; for they have wholly followed the LORD.

13 And the LORD's anger was kindled against Israel, and he made them [d] wander in the wilderness forty years, until [e] all the generation that had done evil in the sight of the LORD was consumed.

14 And, behold, ye are risen up in your father's stead, an increase [a] of sinful men, to augment [b] yet the fierce anger of the LORD toward Israel.

15 For if [c] ye turn away from after him, he will yet again leave [d] them in the wilderness, and ye shall destroy all this people.

16 And they came near unto him, and said, We will build sheep-folds here for our cattle, and cities for our little ones;

17 But we [f] ourselves will go ready armed before the children of Israel, until we have brought them unto their place: and our little ones shall dwell in the fenced cities, because of the inhabitants of the land.

18 We [h] will not return unto our houses until the children of Israel have inherited every man his inheritance:

19 For we will not inherit with them on yonder side Jordan, or forward; because [l] our inheritance is fallen to us on this side Jordan eastward.

20 And [m] Moses said unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will go armed before the LORD to war,

21 And will go all of you armed over Jordan before the LORD, until he hath driven out his enemies from before him,

22 And the land be subdued [t] before the LORD; then afterward [u] ye shall return, and be guiltless before the LORD, and before Israel; and this land shall be your possession before the LORD.

23 But if ye will not do so, behold, ye have sinned against the LORD: and be sure your sin [v] will find you out.

24 Build [w] you cities for your little ones, and folds for your sheep; and do that which hath proceeded out of your mouth.

25 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, spake unto Moses, saying, Thy [x] servants will do as my lord commandeth.

26 Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattle, shall be there in the cities of Gilead;

27 But [z] thy servants will pass over, every man armed for war, before the LORD to battle, as my lord saith.

28 So concerning them Moses commanded Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel:

29 And [b] Moses said unto them, If the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, will pass with you over Jordan, every man armed to battle, before the LORD, and the land shall be subdued before you, then ye shall give them the land of Gilead for a possession:

30 But if they will not pass over with you armed, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Canaan.

31 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, answered, saying As the LORD hath said unto thy servants, so will we do.

32 We will pass over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, that the possession of our inheritance on this side Jordan may be our's.

33 And [b] Moses gave unto them, even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manasseh the son of Joseph, [d] the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land, with the cities thereof in the coasts, even the cities of the country round about.

34 And the children of Gad built Dibon, [f] and Ataroth, and Aroer, [g]

35 And Atroth, Shophan, and [h] Jaazer, and Jogbehah,

36 And Beth-nimrah, [i] and Beth-haran, fenced [j] cities; and folds for sheep.

37 And the children of Reuben built Heshbon, [k] and Elealeh, and Kirjathaim, 38 And Nebo, [l] and Baal-meon, [m] (their names being changed,) and Shibmah: and [n] gave other [o] names unto the cities which they builded.

39 And the children of Machir, the son of Manasseh, went to Gilead, and took it, and dispossessed the Amorite which was in it.

40 And Moses gave Gilead [r] unto Machir the son of Manasseh; and he dwelt therein.

41 And Jair, the son of Manasseh, went and took the small towns thereof, and called them Havoth-jair.[u]

42 And Nobah went and took Kenath, and the villages thereof, and called it Nobah, after his own name.

CHAP. XXXIII.

THESE are the journeys of the children of Israel, which went forth out of the land of Egypt with their armies, under the hand of Moses and Aaron.

2 And Moses wrote their goings out according to their journeys, by the commandment of the LORD: and these are their journeys according to their goings out.

3 And they departed [v] from Rameses in the first month, on the fifteenth [w] day of the first month: on the morrow after the passover the children of Israel went out with [x] an high hand in the sight of all the Egyptians.

4 (For the Egyptians buried all their first-born, which [y] the LORD had smitten among them: upon their gods [z] also the LORD executed judgments.)

5 And the children of Israel removed from [b] Rameses, and pitched in Succoth.

6 And [c] they departed from Succoth, and pitched in Etham, which is in the edge of the wilderness.

7 And [g] they removed from Etham, and turned again unto Pi-hahiroth, which is before Baal-zephon: and they pitched before Migdol

8 And they departed from before Pi-hahiroth, and passed [a] through the midst of the sea into the wilderness, and went three days' journey in the wilderness of Etham, and pitched in Marah.

9 And they removed from Marah, and came [e] unto Elim: and in Elim were twelve fountains of water, and threescore and ten palm-trees; and they pitched there.

10 And they removed from Elim, and encamped by the Red sea.

11 And [e] they removed from the Red sea, and encamped in the wilderness of Sin.

12 And they took their journey out of the wilderness of Sin, and encamped in Dophkah.

13 And they departed from Dophkah, and encamped in Alush.

14 And they removed from Alush, and encamped [n] at Rephidim, where was no water for the people to drink.

15 And they departed from Rephidim, and pitched in the wilderness [p] of Sinai.

16 And they removed from the desert of Sinai, and pitched at [2] Kibroth-hattaavah.[q]

17 And they departed from Kibroth-hattaavah, and [s] encamped at Hazeroth.

18 And they departed from Hazeroth, and pitched in Rithmah.[t]

19 And they departed from Rithmah, and pitched at Rimmon-parez.

20 And they departed from Rimmon-parez, and pitched in Libnah.

21 And they removed from Libnah, and pitched at Rissah.

22 And they journeyed from Rissah, and pitched in Kehelathah.

23 And they went from Kehelathah, and pitched in mount Shapher.

24 And they removed from mount Shapher, and encamped in Haradah.

25 And they removed from Haradah, and pitched in Makheloth.

26 And they removed from Makheloth, and encamped at Tahath.

27 And they departed from Tahath, and pitched at Tarah.

28 And they removed from Tarah, and pitched in Mithcah.

29 And they went from Mithcah, and pitched in Hashmonah.

30 And they departed from Hashmonah and encamped at Moseroth.[a]

31 And they departed from Moseroth, and pitched in Bene-jaakan.

32 And they removed from Bene-jaakan [d] and encamped at Hor-hagidgad.[e]

33 And they went from Hor-hagidgad and pitched in Jotbathah.[f]

34 And they removed from Jotbathah, and encamped at Ebronah.

35 And they departed from Ebronah, and [h] encamped at Ezion-gaber.

36 And they removed from Ezion-gaber, and pitched in the wilderness [a] of Zin, which is Kadesh.

37 And [b] they removed from Kadesh, and pitched in mount Hor, in the edge of the land of Edom.

38 And [c] Aaron the priest went up into mount Hor, at the commandment of the LORD, and died there, in the fortieth year after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt, in the first day of the fifth month.

39 And Aaron was an hundred and twenty and three years old when he died in mount Hor.

40 And king Arad [d] the Canaanite, which dwelt in the south in the land of Canaan, heard of the coming of the children of Israel.

41 And they departed from mount Hor, [e] and pitched in Zalmonah.

42 And they departed from Zalmonah, and pitched in Punon.

43 And they departed from Punon, and pitched in Oboth. [i]

44 And they departed from Oboth, and pitched in [1] Ije-abarim, [j] in the border of Moab.

45 And they departed from Iim, and pitched in Dibon-gad. [l]

46 And they removed from Dibon-gad, and encamped in Almon-diblathaim. [m]

47 And they removed from Almon-diblathaim, and [n] pitched in the mountains of Abarim, before Nebo.

48 And they departed from the mountains of Abarim, and [p] pitched in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

49 And they pitched by Jordan, from Beth-jesimoth even unto [2] Abel-shittim in [s] the plains of Moab.

50 And the LORD spake unto Moses in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, saying,

51 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When [u] ye are passed over Jordan, into the land of Canaan;

52 Then [w] ye shall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, and destroy all their pictures, and destroy all their molten images, and quite pluck down all their high places.

53 And ye shall dispossess the inhabitants of the land, and dwell therein: for I have given you the land to possess it.

54 And [y] ye shall divide the land by lot for an inheritance among your families; and to the more ye shall [4] give the more inheritance, and to the fewer ye shall give [5] the less inheritance: every man's inheritance shall be in the place where his lot falleth; according to the tribes of your fathers ye shall inherit.

55 But [b] if ye will not drive out the inhabitants of the land from before you; then it shall come to pass, that those which ye let remain of them shall be pricks in your eyes, and thorns in your sides, and shall vex you in the land wherein ye dwell.

56 Moreover, it shall come to pass, that I shall do unto you, as I thought to do unto them.

CHAP. XXXIV

AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land of Canaan, (this is the land that shall fall unto you for an inheritance, even the land of Canaan, with the coasts thereof:)

3 Then [c] your south quarter shall be from the wilderness of Zin, along by the coast of Edom; and your south border shall be the outmost coast of the salt sea [f] eastward.

4 And your border shall turn from the south to the ascent of Akrabbim, and pass on to Zin: and the going forth thereof shall be from the south to [h] Kadesh-barnea, and shall go on to Hazar-addar, and pass on to Azmon.

5 And the borders shall fetch a compass from Azmon unto the river of Egypt, [k] and the goings out of it shall be at the sea.

6 And as for the western border, you shall even have the great sea for a border: this shall be your west border.

7 And this shall be your north border: from the great sea you shall point out for you mount [o] Hor:

8 From mount Hor ye shall point out your border unto the entrance of Hamath: [q] and the goings forth of the border shall be to [r] Zedad:

9 And the border shall go on to Ziphron, and the goings out of it shall be at Hazar-enan: [t] this shall be your north border.

10 And ye shall point out your east border from Hazar-enan to Shepham:

11 And the coast shall go down from Shepham to Riblah, [v] on the east side of Ain; and the border shall descend, and shall reach unto the side [3] of the sea of Chinnereth [x] eastward.

12 And the border shall go down to Jordan, and the goings out of it shall be at the salt sea: this shall be your land, with the coasts thereof round about.

13 And Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying, This is the land which ye shall inherit by lot, [z] which the LORD commanded to give unto the nine tribes, and to the half tribe:

14 For [a] the tribe of the children of Reuben according to the house of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad according to the house of their fathers, have received their inheritance; and half the tribe of Manasseh have received their inheritance:

15 The two tribes and the half tribe have received their inheritance on this side Jordan near Jericho eastward, toward the sun-rising.

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

17 These are the names of the men which shall divide the land unto you; [b] Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun.

18 And ye shall take one prince [d] of every tribe, to divide the land by inheritance.

19 And the names of the men are these: of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Jephunneh.

20 And of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the son of Ammihud.

21 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the son of Chislon.

22 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the son of Jogli.

23 The prince of the children of Joseph, for the tribe of the children of Manasseh, Hanniel the son of Ephod.

24 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the son of Shiphtan.

25 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the son of Parnach.

26 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Issachar, Paltiel the son of Azzan.

27 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Asher, Ahihud the son of Shelomi.

28 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the son of Ammihud.

29 These [l] are they whom the LORD commanded to divide the inheritance unto the children of Israel in the land of Canaan.

CHAP. XXXV.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho, saying,

2 Command [o] the children of Israel, that they give unto the Levites, of the inheritance of their possession, cities to dwell in; and ye shall give also unto the Levites suburbs for the cities round about them.

3 And the cities shall they have to dwell in, and the suburbs of them shall be for their cattle, and for their goods, and for all their beasts.

4 And the suburbs [q] of the cities, which ye shall give unto the Levites, shall reach from the wall of the city and outward, a thousand cubits round about.

5 And ye shall measure from without the city on the east side two thousand cubits, and on the south side two thousand cubits, and on the west side two thousand cubits, and on the north side two thousand cubits; the city shall be in the midst: this shall be to them the suburbs of the cities.

6 And among the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites, there shall be six cities [a] for refuge, which ye shall appoint for the man-slayer, that he may flee thither. and [1] to them ye shall add forty and two cities.

7 So all the cities which ye shall give to the Levites shall be forty and eight [c] cities them shall ye give with their suburbs.

8 And the cities which ye shall give shall be of the possession [e] of the children of Israel: from [f] them that have many ye shall give many; but from them that have few ye shall give few: every one shall give of his cities unto the Levites according to his inheritance which [2] he inheriteth.

9 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When [g] ye be come over Jordan into the land of Canaan;

11 Then [h] ye shall appoint you cities to be cities of refuge for you; that the slayer may flee thither, which killeth any person at [3] unawares.

12 And they shall be unto you cities for refuge from the avenger; [i] that the man slayer die not, until he stand before the congregation in judgment.

13 And of these cities which ye shall give, six [j] cities shall ye have for refuge.

14 Ye shall give three [k] cities on this side Jordan, and three cities shall ye give in the land of Canaan, which shall be cities of refuge.

15 These six cities shall be a refuge both for the children of Israel, and for the stranger, [m] and for the sojourner among them; that every one that killeth any person unawares may flee thither.

16 And [n] if he smite him with an instrument of iron so that he die, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.

17 And if he smite him [4] with throwing a stone, wherewith he may die, and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.

18 Or if he smite him with an hand-weapon of wood, wherewith he may die, and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.

19 The [p] revenger of blood himself shall slay the murderer: when he meeteth him, he shall slay him.

20 But if he thrust him of hatred, [r] or hurl at him by laying [s] of wait, that he die;

21 Or in enmity smite him with his hand, that he die; he that smote him shall surely be put to death; for he is a murderer: the revenger of blood shall slay the murderer when he meeteth him.

22 But if he thrust him suddenly without enmity, or have cast upon him any thing without laying of wait,

23 Or with any stone, wherewith a man may die, seeing him not, and cast it upon him that he die, and was not his enemy, neither sought his harm;

24 Then the congregation [b] shall judge between the slayer and the revenger of blood according to these judgments:

25 And the congregation shall deliver the slayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, and the congregation shall restore him to the city of his refuge, whither he was fled: and he shall abide in it unto the death of the high priest, which was anointed [c] with the holy oil.

26 But if the slayer shall at any time come without the border of the city of his refuge, whither he was fled;

27 And the revenger of blood find him without the borders of the city of his refuge, and the revenger of blood kill the slayer; [2] he shall not be guilty of blood;

28 Because he should have remained in the city of his refuge until the death of the high priest; but after the death of the high priest the slayer shall return into the land of his possession.

29 So these things shall be for a statute of [f] judgment unto you, throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

30 Whoso killeth any person, the murderer shall be put to death by the mouth of witnesses: [h] but one witness shall not testify against any person to cause him to die.

31 Moreover, ye shall take no satisfaction for the life of a murderer, which is guilty [5] of death; but he shall be surely put to death.

32 And ye shall take no satisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, that he should come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the high priest.

33 So ye shall not pollute the land wherein ye are; for blood it [k] defileth the land: and [6] the land cannot be cleansed of the blood that is shed therein, but [l] by the blood of him that shed it.

34 Defile not [n] therefore the land which ye shall inhabit, wherein I dwell: for I [p] the LORD dwell among the children of Israel.

CHAP. XXXVI.

AND the chief fathers of the families of the children of Gilead, [q] the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, of the families of the sons of Joseph, came near, and spake before Moses, and before the princes, the chief fathers of the children of Israel:

2 And they said, The LORD [r] commanded my lord to give the land for an inheritance by lot to the children of Israel: and [a] my lord was commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother unto his daughters.

3 And if they be married to any of the sons of the other tribes of the children of Israel, then shall their inheritance be taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and shall be put to the inheritance of the tribe whereunto [1] they are received: so shall it be taken from the lot of our inheritance.

4 And when the jubilee [d] of the children of Israel shall be, then shall their inheritance be put unto the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they are received: so shall their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers.

5 And Moses commanded the children of Israel, according to the word of the LORD, saying, The tribe of the sons of Joseph hath said [e] well.

6 This is the thing which the LORD doth command concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, saying, Let [3] them marry to whom they think best; only [f] to the family of the tribe of their father shall they marry:

7 So shall not the inheritance of the children of Israel remove from tribe to tribe; for every one of the children of Israel shall [4] keep [i] himself to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers.

8 And [j] every daughter, that possesseth any inheritance in any tribe of the children of Israel, shall be wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father, that the children of Israel may enjoy every man the inheritance of his fathers.

9 Neither shall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe; but every one of the tribes of the children of Israel shall keep himself to his own inheritance.

10 Even [m] as the LORD commanded Moses, so did the daughters of Zelophehad:

11 For [o] Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married unto their father's brothers' sons.

12 And they were married [7] into the families of the sons of Manasseh, the son of Joseph; and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of their father.

13 These are the commandments and the judgments which the LORD commanded, by the hand of Moses, unto the children of Israel, in [s] the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

Horeb, by the way of mount Seir, unto Kadesh-barnea.)

3 And it came to pass in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Moses spake unto the children of Israel, according unto all that the LORD had given him in commandment unto them;

4 After he had slain [d] Sihon the king of the Amorites, which dwelt in Heshbon, and Og the king of Bashan, which dwelt at Astaroth in Edrei:

5 On this side Jordan, in the land of Moab, began Moses to declare this law, saying,

6 The LORD our God spake unto us in Horeb, [e] saying, Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount:

7 Turn [f] you, and take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorites, and unto all [1] the places nigh thereunto, in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the south, and by the sea-side, to the land of the Canaanites, and unto Lebanon, unto the great river, the river Euphrates.

8 Behold, I have [2] set the land before you: go in and possess the land which the LORD sware [h] unto your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give unto them, and to their seed after them.

9 And I spake unto you at that time, saying, I am [i] not able to bear you myself alone:

10 The LORD your God hath multiplied you, and, behold, ye are this day as the stars [k] of heaven for multitude.

11 (The LORD [m] God of your fathers make you a thousand times so many more as ye are, and bless you, as he hath promised you!)

12 How [n] can I myself alone bear your cumbrance, and your burden, and your strife?

13 Take [4] ye wise men, and understanding, and known among your tribes, and I will make them rulers over you.

14 And ye answered me, and said, The thing which thou hast spoken is good for us to do.

15 So I took [r] the chief of your tribes, wise men, and known, and [5] made them heads over you, captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and officers among your tribes.

16 And I charged your judges at that time, saying, Hear the causes between your brethren, and judge [u] righteously between every man and his brother, and the stranger [w] that is with him.

17 Ye shall not [6] respect persons [y] in judgment; but ye shall hear the small as well as the great; ye shall not be afraid [z] of the face of man; for the [a] judgment is God's: and the cause that is too hard for you, bring it unto me, and I will hear it.

18 And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye should do.

19 And when we departed from Horeb, we went [a] through all that great and terrible wilderness, [b] which ye saw by the way of the mountain of the Amorites, as the LORD our God commanded us; and we came [c] to Kadesh-barnea.

20 And I said unto you, Ye are come unto the mountain of the Amorites, which the LORD our God doth give unto us.

21 Behold, the LORD thy God hath set the land before thee: go up and possess it, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath said unto thee; fear not, neither be discouraged.

22 And ye came near unto me every one of you, and said, We will send men before us, and they shall search us out the land, and bring us word again by what way we must go up, and into what cities we shall come.

23 And the saying pleased me well: and I [g] took twelve men of you, one of a tribe:

24 And they turned, and went up into the mountain, and came unto the valley of Eshcol, and searched it out.

25 And they took of the fruit of the land in their hands, and brought it down unto us, and brought us word again, and said, It is a good land which the LORD our God doth give us.

26 Notwithstanding [j] ye would not go up, but rebelled against the commandment of the LORD your God:

27 And ye murmured in your tents, and said, Because the LORD hated [l] us, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us.

28 Whither shall we go up? our brethren have [3] discouraged our heart, saying, The people is greater [o] and taller than we; the cities are great and walled up to heaven: and, moreover, we have seen the sons of the [p] Anakims there.

29 Then I said unto you, Dread not, neither be afraid of them.

30 The LORD your God, which goeth before you, he [q] shall fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt before your eyes;

31 And in the wilderness, where thou hast seen how that the LORD thy God bare [s] thee, as a man doth bear his son, in all the way that ye went, until ye came into this place.

32 Yet in this thing ye did not [t] believe the LORD your God,

33 Who went [v] in the way before you, to search [x] you out a place to pitch your tents in, in fire by night, to shew you by what way ye should go, and in a cloud by day.

34 And the LORD heard the voice of your words, and was wroth, and sware, [b] saying,

35 Surely [c] there shall not one of these men of this evil generation see that good and, which I sware to give unto your fathers,

36 Save Caleb the son of Jephunneh; he shall see it; and to him will I give the land that he hath trodden upon, and to his children, because he hath [1] wholly followed the LORD.

37 Also [c] the LORD was angry with me for your sakes, saying, Thou also shalt not go in thither.

38 But Joshua [e] the son of Nun, which standeth before thee, he shall go in thither: encourage [f] him; for he shall cause Israel to inherit it.

39 Moreover, [h] your little ones, which ye said should be a prey, and your children, which in that day had no [i] knowledge between good and evil, they shall go in thither, and unto them will I give it, and they shall possess it.

40 But as for you, turn [l] ye, and take your journey into the wilderness, by the way of the Red sea.

41 Then [n] ye answered and said unto me, We have sinned against the LORD; we will go up, and fight, according to all that the LORD our God commanded us. And when ye had girded on every man his weapons of war, ye were ready to go up into the hill.

42 And the LORD said unto me, Say unto them, Go not up, neither fight; for I am not among [q] you; lest ye be smitten before your enemies.

43 So I spake unto you; and ye would not hear, but rebelled against the commandment of the LORD, and went [6] presumptuously up into the hill.

44 And the Amorites, which dwelt in that mountain, came out against you, and chased you, as bees [t] do, and destroyed you in Seir, even unto Hormah.

45 And ye returned, and wept before the LORD; but the LORD would not hearken to your voice, nor give ear unto you.

46 So [y] ye abode in Kadesh many days, according unto the days that ye abode there.

CHAP. II.

THEN we turned, and took our journey into the wilderness, by the way of the Red sea, as [z] the LORD spake unto me: and we compassed mount Seir many days.

2 And the LORD spake unto me, saying,

3 Ye have compassed this mountain long [a] enough: turn you northward.

4 And command thou the people, saying, Ye [b] are to pass through the coast of your brethren the children of Esau, which dwell in Seir; and they shall be afraid of you: take ye good heed unto yourselves therefore:

5 Meddle not with them; for I will not give you of their land, [7] no, not so much as a foot breadth, because [c] I have given mount Seir unto Esau for a possession.

6 Ye shall buy meat of them for money, that ye may eat; and ye shall also buy water of them for money, that ye may drink.

7 For the LORD thy God hath blessed thee in all the works [d] of thy hand; he knoweth thy walking through this great wilderness: these [b] forty years the LORD thy God hath been with thee, thou hast lacked nothing.

8 And [d] when we passed by from our brethren the children of Esau, which dwelt in Seir, through the way of the plain from Elath, [g] and from Ezion-gaber, we turned, and passed by the way of the wilderness of Moab.

9 And the LORD said unto me, [2] Distress not the Moabites, neither contend with them in battle; for I will not give thee of their land for a possession, because I have given [j] Ar unto the [k] children of Lot for a possession.

10 The Emims [m] dwelt therein in times past, a people great, and many, and tall, as the [o] Anakims;

11 Which also were accounted giants, as the Anakims, but the Moabites call them Emims.

12 The Horims [p] also dwelt in Seir before time; but the children of Esau [3] succeeded them, when they had destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their [4] stead; as Israel did unto the land of his possession, which the LORD gave unto them.

13 Now rise up, said I, and get you over the [5] brook Zered: [r] and we went over the brook Zered.

14 And the space in which we came [s] from Kadesh-barnea, until we were come over the [5] brook Zered, was thirty and eight years; until all [u] the generation of the men of war were wasted out from among the host, as [v] the LORD sware unto them.

15 For indeed the hand [w] of the LORD was against them, to destroy [x] them from among the host, until they were consumed.

16 So it came to pass, when all the men of war were consumed, and dead from among the people,

17 That the LORD spake unto me, saying,

18 Thou art to pass over through Ar, the coast of Moab, this day:

19 And when thou comest nigh over against the children of Ammon, distress them not, nor meddle with them: for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon any possession; because I have given it unto the children of Lot [e] for a possession.

20 (That also was accounted a land of giants: giants dwelt therein in old time, and the Ammonites call them Zamzummims;[d]

21 A people great, [f] and many, and tall, as the Anakims; but the LORD destroyed them before them; and they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead:

22 As he did to the children of Esau, which dwelt in Seir, when he destroyed the [b] Horims from before them; and they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead even unto this day:

23 And the [c] Avims which dwelt in Hazerim, even unto Azzah, [f] the [g] Caphtorims, which came forth out of Caphtor, destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead.)

24 Rise ye up, take your journey, and pass [i] over the river Arnon: behold, I have given into thy hand Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land: [1] begin to possess it, and contend with him in battle.

25 This day will I begin to put the dread of thee and the [j] fear of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven, who shall hear report of thee, and shall tremble, and be in anguish because of thee.

26 And I sent messengers out of the wilderness of Kedemoth, unto Sihon king of Heshbon, with words of peace, [l] saying, 27 Let [m] me pass through thy land: I will go along by the high-way; I will neither turn unto the right hand nor to the left.

28 Thou shalt sell me meat for money, that I may eat; and give me water for money, that I may drink: only I will pass through on my feet;

29 (As [p] the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me;) until I shall pass over Jordan, into the land which the LORD our God giveth us.

30 But Sihon [t] king of Heshbon would not let us pass by him: for the LORD thy God hardened [v] his spirit, and made his heart obstinate, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as appeareth this day.

31 And the LORD said unto me, Behold, I have begun to give Sihon and his land before thee: begin to possess, that thou mayest inherit his land.

32 Then [y] Sihon came out against us, he and all his people, to fight at Jahaz.

33 And the LORD our God delivered him before us; and [z] we smote him, and his sons, and all his people.

34 And we took all his cities at that time, and utterly [b] destroyed [2] the men, and the women, and the little ones, of every city, we left none [d] to remain:

35 Only the cattle we took for a prey unto ourselves, and the spoil of the cities which we took.

36 From [e] Aroer, which is by the brink of the river of Arnon, and from the city that is by the river, even unto Gilead, there was not one city too strong for us: the LORD [h] our God delivered all unto us:

37 Only unto the land of the children of Ammon thou camest not, nor unto any place of the river Jabbok, [i] nor unto the cities in the mountains, nor unto whatsoever the LORD our God forbad [j] us.

CHAP. III.

THEN we turned, and went up the way to Bashan: and [a] Og the king of Bashan came out against us, he and all his people, to battle at Edrei.[c]

2 And the LORD said unto me, [d] Fear him not: for I will deliver him, and all his people, and his land, into thy hand; and thou shalt do unto him as thou didst unto Sihon [k] king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon.

3 So the LORD our God delivered into our hands Og also, the king of Bashan, and all his people: and we smote him until none was left to him remaining.

4 And we took all his cities at that time, there was not a city which we took not from them, threescore cities, all the region of Argob, [k] the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

5 All these cities were fenced with high walls, gates, and bars; beside unwalled towns a great many.

6 And [n] we utterly destroyed them, as we did unto Sihon king of Heshbon, utterly destroying the men, women, and children, of every city.

7 But [o] all the cattle, and the spoil of the cities, we took for a prey to ourselves.

8 And we took at that time out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites the land that was on this side Jordan, from the river of Arnon unto mount Hermon;

9 (Which Hermon [q] the Sidonians call Sirion; [r] and the Amorites call it Shenir:)[s]

10 All the cities of the plain, and all Gilead, and all Bashan, unto Salchah, [t] and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

11 For only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of giants; [w] behold, his bedstead was a bedstead of iron; is it not in Rabbath [x] of the children of Ammon? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man.

12 And this land, which we possessed at that time, from Aroer, [a] which is by the river Arnon, and half mount Gilead, and the cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenites and to the Gadites.

13 And [c] the rest of Gilead, and all Bashan, being the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half tribe of Manasseh; all the region of Argob, with all Bashan, which was called the land of giants.

14 Jair [f] the son of Manasseh took all the country of Argob unto the coasts of Geshuri [g] and Maachathi; and called them after his own name, Bashan-havoth-jair, unto this day.

15 And I gave Gilead unto Machir.

16 And unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites, I gave from Gilead even unto the river Arnon, half the valley, and the border, even unto the river Jabbok, which is [a] the border of the children of Ammon:

17 The plain also, and Jordan, and the coast thereof, from Chinnereth [b] even unto the sea of the plain, even the salt sea, under [1] Ashdoth-pisgah eastward.

18 And I commanded you at that time, saying, The LORD your God hath given you this land to possess it: ye [f] shall pass over armed before your brethren the children of Israel, all that are [2] meet for the war.

19 But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle, (for I know that ye have much cattle,) shall abide in your cities which I have given you:

20 Until the LORD have given rest unto your brethren, as well as unto you, and until they also possess the land which the LORD your God hath given them beyond Jordan: and then [j] shall ye return every man unto his possession which I have given you.

21 And [l] I commanded Joshua at that time, saying, Thine eyes have seen all that the LORD your God hath done unto these two kings: so shall the LORD do unto all the kingdoms whither thou passest.

22 Ye shall not fear [n] them: for [o] the LORD your God he shall fight for you.

23 And I besought the LORD at that time, saying,

24 O LORD God, thou hast begun to shew thy servant thy greatness, [s] and thy mighty hand: for what [t] God is there in heaven or in earth that can do according to thy works, and according to thy might?

25 I pray thee, let me go over, and see the good [v] land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain, and Lebanon.

26 But [x] the LORD was wroth with me for your sakes, and would not hear me: and the LORD said unto me, Let it suffice thee; speak no more unto me of this matter.

27 Get thee up into the top of [4] Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes westward, and northward, and southward, and eastward, and behold it with thine eyes: for thou shalt not go over this Jordan.

28 But [z] charge Joshua, and encourage him, and strengthen him: for he shall go over before this people, and he shall cause them to inherit the land which thou shalt see.

29 So we abode in the valley over against Beth-peor.[d]

CHAP. IV.

NOW therefore hearken, O Israel, unto the statutes [f] and unto the judgments which I teach you, for to do [g] them, that ye may live, and go in and possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers giveth you.

2 Ye [j] shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish aught from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you.

3 Your eyes have seen what the LORD did because [c] of Baal-peor: for all [d] the men that followed Baal-peor, the LORD thy God hath destroyed them from among you.

4 But ye that did cleave [e] unto the LORD your God are alive every one of you this day.

5 Behold, I [g] have taught you statutes, and judgments, even as the LORD my God commanded me, that ye should do so in the land whither ye go to possess it.

6 Keep, therefore, and do them: for this is your wisdom [h] and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes, and say, Surely [i] this great nation is a wise and understanding people.

7 For [k] what nation is there so great, who hath God so nigh unto them, as the LORD our God is in all things that we call upon him for?

8 And [m] what nation is there so great, that hath statutes and judgments so righteous as all this law, which I set before you this day?

9 Only take heed to thyself, and [p] keep thy soul diligently, lest [q] thou forget the things which thine eyes have seen, and lest they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life; but teach [r] them thy sons, and thy sons' sons;

10 Specially the day [u] that thou stoodest before the LORD thy God in Horeb, when the LORD said unto me, Gather me the people together, and I will make them hear my words, that they may learn to fear [w] me all the days that they shall live upon the earth, and that they may teach their children.

11 And ye came near and stood under the mountain; and the mountain burned with fire unto the [3] midst of heaven, with darkness, clouds, and thick darkness.

12 And the LORD spake unto you out of the midst of the fire: ye heard the voice of the words, but saw no similitude; only [5] ye heard a voice.[y]

13 And he declared unto you his covenant, which he commanded you to perform, even [a] ten commandments; and he [b] wrote them upon two tables of stone.

14 And [c] the LORD commanded me at that time to teach you statutes and judgments, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go over to possess it.

15 Take [e] ye therefore good heed unto yourselves, (for ye saw no manner of similitude [h] on the day that the LORD spake unto you in Horeb out of the midst of the fire:

16 Lest ye corrupt [i] yourselves, and make you a graven image, the similitude of any figure, the likeness [k] of male or female;

17 The likeness of any [a] beast that is on the earth, the likeness of any winged fowl that flieth in the air;

18 The likeness of any thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeness of any fish that is in the waters beneath the earth:

19 And lest thou lift [c] up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou seest the sun, and the moon, and the stars, even all the host of heaven, shouldest be driven to worship [d] them, and serve them, which the LORD thy God hath [1] divided unto all nations under the whole heaven.

20 But the LORD hath taken you, and brought you forth out of the [h] iron furnace, even out of Egypt, to be unto him a people of inheritance, [l] as ye are this day.

21 Furthermore [m] the LORD was angry with me for your sakes, and sware that I should not go over Jordan, and that I should not go in unto that good land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance:

22 But I must die in this land, I must not go over Jordan: but ye shall go over and possess that good land.

23 Take heed [o] unto yourselves, lest ye forget the covenant of the LORD your God, which he made with you, and make you a graven image, or the likeness of any thing, which the LORD thy God hath forbidden thee.

24 For the LORD thy God is a consuming fire, [s] even a jealous [t] God.

25 When thou shalt beget children, and children's children, and shall have remained long in the land, and shall corrupt yourselves, and make a graven image, or the likeness of any thing, and shall do evil in the sight of the LORD thy God to provoke [z] him to anger;

26 I [y] call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that ye shall soon utterly perish from off the land whereunto ye go over Jordan to possess it; ye shall not prolong your days upon it, but shall utterly be destroyed.

27 And the LORD shall [a] scatter you among the nations, and ye shall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD shall lead you.

28 And [c] there ye shall serve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and stone, which neither see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell.

29 But [e] if from thence thou shalt seek the LORD thy God, thou shalt find him, if thou seek him with all [f] thy heart and with all thy soul.

30 When thou art in tribulation, and all these things [2] are come upon thee, even in the latter [g] days, if thou turn to the LORD thy God, and shalt be obedient unto his voice, 31 (For the LORD thy God is a [k] merciful God,) he will not forsake thee, neither destroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers, which he sware unto them.

32 For [b] ask now of the days that are past, which were before thee, since the day that God created man upon the earth, and ask from the one side of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any such thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it?

33 Did ever people hear the voice of God speaking out of the midst of the fire, [d] as thou hast heard, and live?

34 Or hath God assayed to go and take him a nation from the midst of another nation, by temptations, [f] by signs, [g] and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty [i] hand, and by a stretched-out [j] arm, and by great terrors, [k] according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes?

35 Unto thee it was shewed, that thou mightest know that the LORD he is God; there is none else besides him.

36 Out of heaven [n] he made thee to hear his voice, that he might instruct thee: and upon earth he shewed thee his great fire; and thou heardest his words out of the midst of the fire.

37 And because he [p] loved thy fathers, therefore he chose their seed after them, and brought thee out in his sight with his [q] mighty power out of Egypt;

38 To drive out nations from before thee greater [r] and mightier than thou art, to bring thee in, to give thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day.

39 Know therefore this day, and consider [u] it in thine heart, that [v] the LORD he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else.

40 Thou [w] shalt keep therefore his statutes, and his commandments, which I command thee this day, that it may go well [z] with thee, and with thy children after thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days upon the earth, which the LORD thy God giveth thee, for ever.

41 Then Moses severed three cities on this side Jordan toward the sunrising;

42 That [b] the slayer might flee thither, which should kill his neighbour unawares, and hated him not in times past; and that fleeing unto one of these cities he might live:

43 Namely, Bezer [d] in the wilderness, in the plain country, of the Reubenites; and Ramoth in Gilead, of the Gadites; and Golan in Bashan, of the Manassites.

44 And this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel:

45 These are the testimonies, [h] and the statutes, [i] and the judgments, [j] which Moses spake unto the children of Israel, after they came forth out of Egypt,

Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel smote, [b] after they were come forth out of Egypt:

CHAP. V.

AND Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and [l] keep, and do them.

2 The LORD our God made a [m] covenant with us in Horeb.

3 The LORD made not this covenant with our fathers, but with us, [o] even us, who are all of us here alive this day.

4 The LORD [p] talked with you face to face in the mount, out of the midst of the fire,

5 (I [q] stood between the LORD and you at that time, to shew you the word of the LORD: for ye were afraid by reason of the fire, and went not up into the mount,) saying,

6 I [t] am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of [2] bondage.

7 Thou [u] shalt have none other gods before me.

8 Thou [v] shalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth:

9 Thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous [y] God, visiting [z] the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me,

10 And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

11 Thou [b] shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain: for the LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

12 Keep [c] the sabbath-day to sanctify it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee.

13 Six days thou shalt labour, and do all thy work;

14 But the seventh day is the [e] sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy man-servant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thine ox, nor thine ass, nor any of thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates; that thy man-servant [a] and thy maid-servant may rest as well as thou.

15 And remember [c] that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God brought thee out thence, through a mighty hand, and by a stretched-out arm: therefore the LORD thy God commanded thee to keep the sabbath-day.

16 Honour [e] thy father and thy mother, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee; that thy days [g] may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

17 Thou shalt not [i] kill.

18 Neither shalt thou commit [j] adultery.

19 Neither shalt thou [k] steal.

20 Neither shalt thou bear false witness [l] against thy neighbour.

21 Neither shalt thou desire thy neighbour's wife, neither shalt thou covet [n] thy neighbour's house, his field, or his man-servant, or his maid-servant, his ox, or his ass, or any thing that is thy neighbour's.

22 These words the LORD spake unto all your assembly in the mount, out of the midst of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkness, with a great voice; and he added no more: and he [r] wrote them in two tables of stone, and delivered them unto me.

23 And [s] it came to pass, when ye heard the voice out of the midst of the darkness, (for the mountain did burn with fire,) that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders;

24 And ye said, Behold the LORD our God hath shewed us his glory and his greatness, and we have heard his voice out of the midst of the fire: we have seen this day that God doth talk with man, and he [w] liveth.

25 Now [x] therefore why should we die? for this great fire will consume us: if we [3] hear the voice of the LORD our God any more, then we shall die.

26 For who is there of all flesh that hath heard the voice of the living God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as we have, and lived?

27 Go thou near, and hear all that the LORD our God shall say; and [a] speak thou unto us all that the LORD our God shall speak unto thee; and we will hear it, and do it.

28 And the LORD heard the voice of your words, when ye spake unto me; and the LORD said unto me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they [d] have spoken unto thee: they have well said all that they have spoken.

29 O [f] that there were such an heart in them, that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and with their children for ever!

30 Go say to them, Get you into your tents again:

31 But as for thee, stand thou here by me, and I [a] will speak unto thee all the commandments, and the statutes, and the judgments, which thou shalt teach them, that they may do them in the land which I give them to possess it.

32 Ye shall observe to do therefore as the LORD your God hath commanded you: ye shall not turn aside [f] to the right hand or to the left.

33 Ye shall walk in all [i] the ways which the LORD your God hath commanded you, that ye may live, and that it may be well with you, and [k] that ye may prolong your days in the land which ye shall possess.

CHAP. VI.

NOW these are the commandments, the statutes, and the judgments, which the LORD your God commanded to teach you, that ye might do [o] them in the land whither ye [2] go to possess it:

2 That thou mightest fear [p] the LORD thy God, to keep all his statutes and his commandments, which I command thee; thou, and thy son, and thy son's son, all the days of thy life; and that thy days may be prolonged. [q]

3 Hear therefore, O Israel, and observe to do it, that it may be well [t] with thee, and that ye may increase mightily, as the [u] LORD God of thy fathers hath promised thee, in the land that floweth with milk and honey.

4 Hear, [v] O Israel: The LORD our God is one [x] LORD:

5 And thou shalt love the LORD thy God with [y] all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.

6 And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart: [z]

7 And thou shalt [5] teach them diligently unto thy children, [a] and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up.

8 And thou shalt bind [f] them for a sign upon thine hand, and they shall be as frontlets between thine eyes.

9 And thou shalt [g] write them upon the posts of thy house, and on thy gates.

10 And it shall be, when the LORD thy God shall have brought thee [illegible] he land which [illegible] ware unto thy fa[illegible] Abraham, [illegible] and to Jac[illegible] thee grea[illegible] ities, wh[illegible] uild-edst [illegible]

LORD, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of [1] bondage.

13 Thou [b] shalt fear the LORD thy God, and serve him, and shalt swear [c] by his name.

14 Ye [d] shall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people which are round about you;

15 (For the LORD thy God is a [e] jealous God among you,[g]) lest the [h] anger of the LORD thy God be kindled against thee, and destroy thee from off the face of the earth.

16 Ye [j] shall not tempt the LORD your God, as ye tempted him in Massah.[l]

17 Ye shall diligently [m] keep the commandments of the LORD your God, and his testimonies, and his statutes, which he hath commanded thee.

18 And [n] thou shalt do that which is right and good in the sight of the LORD; that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest go in and possess the good land which the LORD sware unto thy fathers;

19 To [q] cast out all thine enemies from before thee, as the LORD hath spoken.

20 And when thy son asketh thee [3] in time to come, saying, What [r] mean the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments, which the LORD our God hath commanded you?

21 Then thou shalt say unto thy son, We were Pharaoh's bondmen in Egypt; and the LORD brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand:

22 And the LORD shewed signs [w] and wonders, great and [4] sore, upon Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his household, before our eyes:

23 And he brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he sware unto our fathers.

24 And the LORD commanded us to do all these statutes, to fear [b] the LORD our God, for [c] our good always, that he might preserve [d] us alive, as it is at this day.

25 And it shall be our righteousness, [e] if we observe to do all these commandments before the LORD our God, as he hath commanded us.

CHAP. VII.

WHEN the LORD thy God shall bring thee into the land whither thou goest to possess it, and hath cast out [h] many nations before thee, the [i] Hittites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, seven nations greater and mightier than thou:

2 And when the LORD thy God shall deliver them before thee; thou shalt smite them, and utterly [k] destroy them: thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor shew mercy unto them:

3 Neither shalt thou make [l] marriages with them; thy daughter thou shalt not give unto his son, nor his daughter shalt thou take unto thy son.

4 For they will turn away thy son from following me, that they may serve other gods: so will the anger of the LORD be kindled against you, and destroy thee suddenly.

5 But thus shall ye deal with them, ye shall destroy their altars, and break down their [1] images, and cut down their groves, and burn their graven images with fire:

6 For thou art an holy [e] people unto the LORD thy God: the LORD thy God hath chosen thee to be a special [f] people unto himself, above all people that are upon the face of the earth.

7 The LORD did not set his love upon you, nor choose you, because ye were more in number than any people; for ye were the fewest [h] of all people;

8 But because the LORD loved you, and because he would keep the [j] oath which he had sworn unto your fathers, hath the LORD brought [l] you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the house [m] of bondmen, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt.

9 Know therefore that the LORD thy God, he is God the faithful [n] God, [o] which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him AND keep his commandments, to a thousand generations;

10 And [r] repayeth them that hate him to their face, to destroy them: he will not be slack to him that hateth him, he will repay him to his face.

11 Thou shalt therefore keep the commandments, and the statutes, and the judgments, which I command thee this day, to do them:

12 Wherefore it shall come to pass, [4] if ye hearken [z] to these judgments, and keep and do them, that the LORD thy God shall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy which he sware unto thy fathers:

13 And he will love thee, and bless thee, and multiply thee: he will also bless the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep, in the land which he sware unto thy fathers to give thee.

14 Thou shalt be blessed above all people: there [b] shall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattle.

15 And the LORD will take away from thee all sickness, and will put none of the evil diseases [h] of Egypt, which thou knowest, upon thee; but will lay them upon all them that hate thee.

16 And thou shalt consume all the people which the LORD thy God shall deliver thee; thine [k] eye shall have no pity upon them: neither shalt thou serve their gods; for that will be a snare [m] unto thee.

17 If thou shalt say in thine heart, These nations are more than I; how can I dispossess them?

18 Thou [a] shalt not be afraid of them; but shalt well remember [b] what the LORD thy God did unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt;

19 The great temptations [c] which thine eyes saw, and the signs, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the stretched-out arm, whereby the LORD thy God brought thee out: so [d] shall the LORD thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid.

20 Moreover, the LORD thy God will send the hornet [g] among them, until they that are left, and hide themselves from thee, be destroyed.

21 Thou shalt not be affrighted at them: for the LORD thy God is among you, a mighty [i] God and terrible.

22 And the LORD thy God will [2] put out those nations before thee by [k] little and little: thou mayest not consume them at once, lest the beasts of the field increase upon thee.

23 But the LORD thy God shall deliver them unto [3] thee, and shall destroy them with a mighty destruction until they be destroyed.

24 And he shall deliver their [p] kings into thine hand, and thou shalt destroy their name from [q] under heaven: there shall [s] no man be able to stand before thee, until thou have destroyed them.

25 The graven images of their gods shall ye burn [t] with fire: thou shalt not desire [u] the silver or gold that is on them, nor take it unto thee, lest thou be snared [v] therein: for it is an abomination to the LORD thy God.

26 Neither [w] shalt thou bring an abomination into thine house, lest thou be a cursed thing like it: but thou shalt utterly detest it, and thou shalt utterly abhor it; for it is a cursed [y] thing.

CHAP VIII.

ALL [z] the commandments which I command thee this day shall [a] ye observe to do, that ye may live, and multiply, and go in and possess the land which the LORD sware unto your fathers.

2 And thou shalt remember all the way which the LORD thy God led thee these forty [c] years in the wilderness, [d] to humble thee, [e] and to prove [f] thee, to know [g] what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments, or no.

3 And he humbled thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with [i] manna, (which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know,) that he might make thee know that [j] man doth not live by bread only, but by every word [l] that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD doth man live.

4 Thy [a] raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy foot swell, these forty years.

5 Thou shalt also consider in thine heart, that, as [d] a man chasteneth his son, so the LORD thy God chasteneth thee.

6 Therefore thou shalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to fear [e] him.

7 For the LORD thy God bringeth thee into a good land, a land of brooks of water, of fountains and depths that spring out of valleys and hills;

8 A land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig trees, and pomegranates; a land [1] of oil olive, and honey;

9 A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack any thing in it; a land whose stones are iron, [j] and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass.

10 When thou hast eaten [k] and art full, then thou shalt bless [l] the LORD thy God for the good land which he hath given thee.

11 Beware that thou forget not the LORD thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his statutes, which I command thee this day:

12 Lest [o] when thou hast eaten and art full, and hast built goodly houses, and dwelt therein;

13 And when thy herds and thy flocks multiply, and thy silver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou hast is multiplied;

14 Then thine heart be lifted up, and thou forget [t] the LORD thy God, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage;

15 Who led thee through that great and terrible wilderness, wherein were fiery serpents, [v] and scorpions, and drought; [w] where there was no water; who brought thee forth water [y] out of the rock of flint;

16 Who fed thee in the wilderness with manna, [z] which thy fathers knew not, that [a] he might humble thee, and that he might prove thee, to [b] do thee good at thy latter end;

17 And thou say in thine heart, [d] My power, and the might of mine hand, hath gotten me this wealth.

18 But thou shalt remember the LORD thy God: for it is he [f] that giveth thee power to get wealth, that he may establish his covenant, which he sware unto thy fathers, as it is this day.

19 And it shall be, if thou do at all forget the LORD thy God, and walk after other gods, and serve them, and worship them, I [h] testify against you this day, that ye shall surely perish.

20 As the nations which the LORD destroyeth before your face, so [j] shall ye perish; because ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the LORD your God

CHAP. IX.

HEAR, O Israel; Thou art to pass [b] over Jordan this day, to go in to possess nations greater [c] and mightier than thyself, cities great, and fenced up to heaven;

2 A people great and tall, the children of the Anakims, whom thou knowest and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the children of Anak?

3 Understand therefore this day, that the LORD thy God is he which goeth over before [f] thee; as a consuming fire he shall destroy them, and he shall bring them down before thy face: so [g] shalt thou drive them out, and destroy them quickly, as the LORD hath said [h] unto thee.

4 Speak [i] not thou in thine heart, after that the LORD thy God hath cast them out from before thee, saying, For my righteousness the LORD hath brought me in to possess this land; but for the wickedness [m] of these nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee.

5 Not [n] for thy righteousness, or for the uprightness of thine heart, dost thou go to possess their land; but for the wickedness of these nations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee, and that he may perform the word which the LORD sware unto thy fathers, Abraham, [p] Isaac, [q] and Jacob. [r]

6 Understand therefore that the LORD thy God giveth thee not this good land to possess it for thy righteousness; for thou art a stiff-necked [s] people.

7 Remember, and forget not, how thou provokedst the LORD thy God to wrath in the wilderness: from [u] the day that thou didst depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, ye have been rebellious against the LORD.

8 Also [x] in Horeb ye provoked the LORD to wrath, so that the LORD was angry with you, to have destroyed you.

9 When I was gone up into the mount, to receive the tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then I [c] abode in the mount forty days and forty nights; I neither did eat bread nor drink water:

10 And the [e] LORD delivered unto me two tables of stone, written with the finger of God: and on them was written according to all the words which the LORD spake with you in the mount, [g] out of the midst of the fire, in the day of the assembly.

11 And it came to pass, at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant. [i]

12 And the LORD said unto me, Arise, get thee down quickly from hence; for thy people which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt have corrupted themselves they are quickly [a] turned aside out of the way which I commanded them; they have made them a molten image.

13 Furthermore, the LORD spake [f] unto me, saying, I have seen this people, and, behold, it is a stiff-necked [g] people:

14 Let me alone, that I may destroy them, and blot [h] out their name from under heaven: and [i] I will make of thee a nation mightier and greater than they.

15 So [k] I turned, and came down from the mount, and [l] the mount burned with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in my two hands.

16 And I looked, and, behold, ye had sinned against the LORD your God, and had made you a molten calf: ye had turned aside quickly out of the way which the LORD had commanded you.

17 And I took the two tables, and cast them out of my two hands, and brake them before your eyes.

18 And I [p] fell down before the LORD, as at the first, forty days and forty nights: I did neither eat bread nor drink water, because of all your sins which ye sinned, in doing wickedly in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger:

19 For I was afraid [s] of the anger and hot displeasure wherewith the LORD was wroth against you to destroy you. But [t] the LORD hearkened unto me at that time also.

20 And the LORD was very angry with Aaron to have destroyed him: and I prayed for Aaron also the same time.

21 And [v] I took your sin, [w] the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and stamped it, and ground it very small, even until it was as small as dust: and I cast the dust thereof into the brook that descended out of the mount.

22 And at Taberah, [y] and at Massah, [z] and at Kibroth-hattaavah, [a] ye provoked the LORD to wrath.

23 Likewise, when [b] the LORD sent you from Kadesh-barnea, saying, Go up and possess the land which I have given you; then ye rebelled against the commandment of the LORD your God, and ye [c] believed him not, nor hearkened to his voice.

24 Ye have been rebellious [j] against the LORD from the day that I knew you.

25 Thus [k] I fell down before the LORD forty days and forty nights, as I fell down at the first; because the LORD had said he would destroy you

26 I prayed [m] therefore unto the LORD, and said, O Lord GOD, destroy not thy people, and [n] thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed through thy greatness, which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand.

27 Remember thy servants, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: look not unto the stubbornness [p] of this people, nor to their wickedness, [b] nor to their sins; [c]

28 Lest the land [d] whence thou broughtest us out say, Because [e] the LORD was not able to bring them into the land which he promised them, and because he hated them, he hath brought them out to slay them in the wilderness.

29 Yet [i] they are thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou broughtest out by thy mighty power, and by thy stretched-out arm.

CHAP. X.

AT that time the LORD said unto me, Hew [m] thee two tables of stone like unto the first, and come up unto me into the mount, and make thee an ark [n] of wood:

2 And I will write on the tables the words that were in the first tables which thou brakedst, and thou shalt put them in the ark.

3 And I made an ark of [o] shittim-wood, and hewed two tables of stone like unto the first, and went up into the mount, having the two tables in mine hand.

4 And he wrote [q] on the tables, according to the first writing, the ten [1] commandments, which [r] the LORD spake unto you in the mount out of the midst of the fire, in the day of the assembly: and the LORD gave them unto me.

5 And I turned myself and came down from the mount, and put the tables in the ark which I had made; and [u] there they be, as the LORD commanded me.

6 And [x] the children of Israel took their journey from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan to Mosera: there Aaron died, and there he was buried; and Eleazar his son ministered in the priest's office in his stead.

7 From thence they journeyed unto Gudgodah; and from Gudgodah to Jotbath, a land of rivers of waters.

8 At that time [c] the LORD separated the tribe of Levi, to bear [d] the ark of the covenant of the LORD, to stand [e] before the LORD, to minister [f] unto him, and to bless [h] in his name, unto this day.

9 Wherefore [i] Levi hath no part nor inheritance with his brethren: the LORD is his inheritance, according as the LORD thy God promised him.

10 And I stayed in the mount, according to the [2] first time, forty days and forty nights; and the LORD hearkened [l] unto me at that time also, and the LORD would not destroy thee.

11 And the LORD said unto me, Arise, take [3] thy journey before the people, that they may go in and possess the land which I sware unto their fathers to give unto them.

12 And now, Israel, what [o] doth the LORD thy God require of thee, but to fear [q] the LORD thy God, to [r] walk in al his ways, and to love [a] him, and to [b] serve the LORD thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, 13 To keep the commandments of the LORD, and his statutes, which I command thee this day, for [c] thy good?

14 Behold, the [d] heaven and the heaven of [e] heavens is the LORD's thy God, the earth [f] also, with all that therein is.

15 Only the LORD had a delight in thy fathers to love them, and he chose their seed after them, even you above all people, as it is this day.

16 Circumcise therefore the foreskin of your heart, [h] and be no more stiff-necked.

17 For the LORD your God is [i] God of gods and LORD [j] of lords, a great God, a mighty, [k] and a terrible, which [l] regardeth not persons, nor taketh reward:

18 He [m] doth execute the judgment of the fatherless and widow, and loveth the stranger, in giving him food and raiment.

19 Love [o] ye therefore the stranger: for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt.

20 Thou shalt fear the LORD thy God; him shalt thou serve, and to him shalt thou cleave, [r] and swear [s] by his name.

21 He is thy praise, [t] and he is thy God, that hath done for thee these great and terrible things, which thine eyes have seen.

22 Thy fathers went down into [w] Egypt with threescore and ten persons; and now the LORD thy God hath made thee as the stars of heaven for multitude.

CHAP. XI.

THEREFORE thou shalt love the LORD thy God, and keep his charge, and his statutes, and his judgments, and his commandments, alway.

2 And know ye this day: for I speak not with your children which have not known, and which have not seen the chastisement [d] of the LORD your God, his greatness, his mighty hand, and his stretched-out arm,

3 And his miracles, and his acts, which he did in the midst of Egypt unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and unto all his land;

4 And what he did unto the army of Egypt, unto their horses, and to their chariots; how he made the water [h] of the Red sea to overflow them as they pursued after you, and how the LORD hath destroyed them unto this day;

5 And what he did unto you in the wilderness, until ye came into this place;

6 And what he did unto Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, the son of Reuben: how the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their households, and their tents, and all the [3] substance that [4] was in their possession, in the midst of all Israel:

7 But your eyes have seen all the great acts of the LORD which he did.

8 Therefore shall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may be strong, and go in and possess the land, whither ye go to possess it,

9 And that ye may prolong your days in the land, which the LORD sware unto your fathers to give unto them and to their seed, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 For the land, whither thou goest in to possess it, is not as the land of Egypt, from whence ye came out, where [g] thou sowedst thy seed, and wateredst it with thy foot, as a garden of herbs:

11 But the land, whither ye go to possess it, is a land of hills and valleys and drinketh water of the rain of heaven;

12 A land which the LORD thy God careth [1] for: the eyes [m] of the LORD thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year.

13 And it shall come to pass, if you shall hearken diligently [p] unto my commandments which I command you this day, to [q] love the LORD your God, and to serve him with all your heart, and with all your soul,

14 That [u] I will give you the rain of your land in his due season, the [v] first rain and the latter rain, that thou mayest gather in thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil.

15 And [x] I will send [2] grass in thy fields for thy cattle, that thou mayest eat [y] and be full.

16 Take heed [z] to yourselves, that your heart [a] be not deceived, and ye turn aside, and serve other gods, and worship them;

17 And then the LORD's wrath [b] be kindled against you, and he shut [c] up the heaven, that there be no rain, and that the land yield not her fruit; and lest ye perish quickly from off the good land which the LORD giveth you.

18 Therefore shall ye lay up these my words in your heart and in your soul, and [f] bind them for a sign upon your hand, that they may be as frontlets between your eyes.

19 And [g] ye shall teach them your children, speaking of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou liest down, and when thou risest up.

20 And thou shalt write them upon the doorposts of thine house, and upon thy gates;

21 That [i] your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which the LORD sware unto your fathers to give them, as the days [j] of heaven upon the earth.

22 For if ye shall diligently keep all these commandments which I command you, to do them; to love the LORD your God, to walk in all his ways, and to cleave [k] unto him;

23 Then will the LORD drive [a] out all these nations from before you, and ye shall possess greater nations and mightier than yourselves.

24 Every place whereon [d] the soles of your feet shall tread shall be yours: from the [e] wilderness and Lebanon, from the river, the river Euphrates, even unto the uttermost sea, shall your coast be.

25 There [g] shall no man be able to stand before you: for the LORD your God shall lay the fear [h] of you and the dread of you upon all the land that ye shall tread upon, as he hath said [j] unto you.

26 Behold, I [k] set before you this day a blessing and a curse:

27 A blessing, [m] if ye obey the commandments of the LORD your God, which I command you this day;

28 And a curse, [o] if ye will not obey the commandments of the LORD your God, but turn aside [p] out of the way which I command you this day, to go after other gods, which ye have not known.

29 And it shall come to pass, when the LORD thy God hath brought thee in unto the land whither thou goest to possess it, that thou shalt put [r] the blessing upon mount Gerizim, and the curse upon mount Ebal.

30 Are they not on the other side Jordan, by the way where the sun goeth down, in the land of the Canaanites, which dwell in the champaign over against Gilgal, beside the plains of Moreh?

31 For ye shall pass over Jordan, to go in to possess the land which the LORD your God giveth you, and ye shall possess it, and dwell therein.

32 And ye shall observe [v] to do all the statutes and judgments which I set before you this day.

CHAP. XII.

THESE [x] are the statutes and judgments which ye shall observe to do in the land which the LORD God of thy fathers giveth thee to possess it, all [z] the days that ye live upon the earth.

2 Ye shall utterly destroy [b] all the places wherein the nations which ye shall [2] possess served their gods, upon the high mountains, [d] and upon the hills, and under every green tree:

3 And ye shall [3] overthrow [e] their altars, and break their pillars, and burn their groves [f] with fire; and ye shall hew down the graven images of their gods, and destroy the names of them out of that place.

4 Ye [h] shall not do so unto the LORD your God.

5 But unto the place [i] which the LORD your God shall choose out of all your tribes to put his name there, even unto his habitation shall ye seek, and thither thou shalt come:

6 And thither [b] ye shall bring your burnt-offerings, and your sacrifices, and your tithes, [c] and heave-offerings of your hand, and your vows, and your free-will-offerings, and the firstlings of your herds and of your flocks:

7 And there ye shall eat before the LORD your God, and ye shall rejoice in [f] all that ye put your hand unto, ye and your households, wherein the LORD thy God hath blessed thee.

8 Ye shall not do after all the things that we do here this day, every [i] man whatsoever is right in his own eyes.

9 For ye are not [l] as yet come to the rest and to the inheritance, which the LORD your God giveth you.

10 But when ye go over Jordan, [n] and dwell in the land which the LORD your God giveth you to inherit, and when he giveth you rest from all your enemies round about, so that ye dwell in safety;

11 Then there shall be a place [q] which the LORD your God shall choose, to cause his name to dwell there; thither shall ye bring all that I command you; your burnt-offerings, and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all [1] your choice vows which ye vow unto the LORD:

12 And ye shall rejoice [s] before the LORD your God, ye, and your sons, and your daughters, and your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and the Levite that is within your gates; forasmuch as he hath no [t] part nor inheritance with you.

13 Take heed to thyself that thou offer not thy burnt-offerings in every [u] place that thou seest:

14 But in the place which the LORD shall choose in one of thy tribes, there [w] thou shalt offer thy burnt-offerings, and there thou shalt do all that I command thee.

15 Notwithstanding thou mayest kill and eat flesh in all thy gates, whatsoever thy [y] soul lusteth after, according to the blessing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee: the [a] unclean and the clean may eat thereof, as of the roebuck, and as of the hart.

16 Only ye shall not eat the blood; [c] ye shall pour it upon the earth as water.

17 Thou mayest not eat within thy gates the tithe of thy corn, or of thy wine, or of thy oil, or the firstlings of thy herds or of thy flocks, nor any of thy vows which thou vowest, nor thy free-will-offerings, or heave-offering of thine hand:

18 But [g] thou must eat them before the LORD thy God in the place which the LORD thy God shall choose, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite that is within thy gates: and thou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God in all [j] that thou puttest thine hands unto 19 Take [a] heed to thyself that thou forsake not the Levite [1] as long as thou livest upon the earth.

20 When the LORD thy God shall enlarge [c] thy border, as he hath [d] promised thee, and thou shalt say, I will eat flesh, (because thy soul longeth to eat flesh,) thou mayest eat flesh, whatsoever thy soul lusteth after.

21 If the place which the LORD thy God hath chosen to put his name there be too far from thee, then thou shalt kill of thy herd and of thy flock, which the LORD hath given thee, as I have commanded thee, and thou shalt eat in thy gates whatsoever thy soul lusteth after.

22 Even [j] as the roebuck and the hart is eaten, so thou shalt eat them; the unclean and the clean shall eat of them alike.

23 Only be [3] sure that thou eat not the blood: for [k] the blood is the life; and thou mayest not eat the life with the flesh.

24 Thou shalt not eat it; thou shalt pour it upon the earth as water.

25 Thou shalt not eat it; that [m] it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, when [n] thou shalt do that which is right in the sight of the LORD.

26 Only thy holy [q] things which thou hast, and thy vows, [r] thou shalt take, and go unto the place which the LORD shall choose:

27 And thou shalt offer thy burnt-offerings, the flesh and the blood, upon the altar [s] of the LORD thy God: and the blood of thy sacrifices shall be poured out upon the altar of the LORD thy God, and thou shalt eat the flesh.

28 Observe [t] and hear all these words which I command thee, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee for ever, when thou doest that which is good and right in the sight of the LORD thy God.

29 When the LORD thy God shall cut off [w] the nations from before thee, whither thou goest to possess them, and thou [4] succeedest them, and dwellest in their land;

30 Take heed to thyself, that thou be not snared [5] by following [x] them, after that they be destroyed from before thee; and that thou inquire not after their gods, saying, How did these nations serve their gods? even so will I do likewise.

31 Thou [z] shalt not do so unto the LORD thy God: for every abomination [7] to the LORD, which he hateth, have they done unto their gods; for [b] even their sons and their daughters they have burnt in the fire to their gods.

32 What [c] thing soever I command you, observe to do it: thou [e] shalt not add thereto, nor diminish from it.

2 And the sign or the wonder come [b] to pass whereof he spake unto thee, saying, Let us go after other gods, which thou hast not known, and let us serve them;

3 Thou shalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: for the LORD your God proveth [e] you, to know whether ye love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul.

4 Ye shall walk [f] after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, [g] and ye shall serve him, and cleave [h] unto him.

5 And [i] that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, shall be put to death; because he hath spoken [2] to turn you away from the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed you out of the house of bondage, to thrust thee out of the way which the LORD thy God commanded thee to walk in: So shalt [l] thou put the evil away from the midst of thee.

6 If thy brother, the son of thy mother, or thy son, or thy daughter, or the wife [o] of thy bosom, or thy friend, [p] which is as thine own soul, entice thee secretly, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which thou hast not known, thou, nor thy fathers;

7 Namely, of the gods of the people which are round about you, nigh unto thee, or far off from thee, from the one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth;

8 Thou shalt not consent [u] unto him, nor hearken unto him; neither shall thine eye pity him, neither shalt thou spare, neither shalt thou conceal him;

9 But thou shalt surely kill him; thine hand [v] shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterwards the hand of all the people.

10 And thou shalt stone him with stones, that he die; because he hath sought to thrust thee away from the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage.[6]

11 And [y] all Israel shall hear, and fear, and shall do no more any such wickedness as this is among you.

12 If thou shalt hear [a] say in one of thy cities, which the LORD thy God hath given thee to dwell there, saying,

13 Certain men, [8] the children of Belial, are gone out from among you, and have withdrawn [d] the inhabitants of their city, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which ye have not known;

14 Then shalt thou inquire, and make search, and ask diligently; and, behold, if it be truth, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought among you;

15 Thou shalt surely smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, destroying [a] it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword.

16 And thou shalt gather all the spoil of it into the midst of the street thereof, and shalt burn with fire the city, and all the spoil thereof every whit, for the LORD thy God: and [b] it shall be an heap for ever; it shall not be built again.

17 And there shall cleave nought of the cursed [1] thing [d] to thine hand; that the LORD may turn [e] from the fierceness of his anger, and shew [f] thee mercy, and have compassion [g] upon thee, and multiply [h] thee, as he hath sworn [j] unto thy fathers;

18 When thou shalt hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep [l] all his commandments which I command thee this day, to do that which is right in the eyes of the LORD thy God.

CHAP. XIV.

YE are the children [o] of the LORD your God: ye shall not cut [p] yourselves, nor make any baldness between your eyes for the dead:

2 For thou art an holy [r] people unto the LORD thy God, and the LORD hath chosen thee to be a peculiar [s] people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth.

3 Thou shalt not eat [u] any abominable thing.

4 These are the beasts which ye shall eat, the ox, the sheep, and the goat,

5 The hart, and the roebuck, and the fallow-deer, and the wild goat, and the pygarg, [2] and the wild ox, and the chamois.

6 And every beast that parteth [v] the hoof, and cleaveth the cleft in two claws, and cheweth the cud among the beasts, that ye shall eat.

7 Nevertheless these ye shall not eat of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the cloven hoof; as the camel, and the hare, and the coney: for they chew the cud, but divide not the hoof; therefore they are unclean unto you.

8 And the swine, because it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you: ye shall not eat of their flesh, nor touch [a] their dead carcass.

9 These [b] ye shall eat of all that are in the waters: all that have fins and scales shall ye eat:

10 And whatsoever hath not fins and scales ye may not eat; it is unclean unto you.

11 Of all clean birds ye shall eat.

12 But these are they of which ye shall not eat: the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the ospray,

13 And the glede, and the kite, and the vulture after his kind,

14 And every raven after his kind,

15 And the owl, and the night-hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind,

16 The little owl, and the great owl, and the swan,

17 And the pelican, and the gier-eagle, and the cormorant,

18 And the stork, and the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat,

19 And every creeping thing that flieth is unclean unto you: they shall not be eaten.

20 But of all clean fowls ye may eat.

21 Ye shall not eat of any thing that dieth [c] of itself: thou shalt give it unto the stranger that is in thy gates, that he may eat it; or thou mayest sell it unto an alien: for [i] thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God. Thou [k] shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk.

22 Thou shalt truly tithe [m] all the increase of thy seed, that the field bringeth forth year by year.

23 And [n] thou shalt eat before the LORD thy God, in the place which he shall choose to place his name there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and the firstlings [q] of thy herds and of thy flocks; that thou mayest learn to fear the LORD thy God always.

24 And if the way be [3] too long for thee, so that thou art not able to carry it; or if [t] the place be too far from thee, which the LORD thy God shall choose to set his name there, when the LORD thy God hath blessed thee;

25 Then shalt thou turn it into money, and bind up the money in thine hand, and shalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God shall choose:

26 And thou shalt bestow that money for whatsoever thy soul lusteth after, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink, or for whatsoever thy soul desireth: [3] and thou [w] shalt eat there before the LORD thy God, and thou shalt rejoice, [x] thou, and thine household,

27 And the Levite that is within thy gates; thou shalt not forsake him; for he [y] hath no part nor inheritance with thee.

28 At [z] the end of three years thou shalt bring forth all the tithe of thine increase the same year, and shalt lay it up within thy gates:

29 And the Levite, (because [c] he hath no part nor inheritance with thee,) and the stranger, [d] and the fatherless, and the widow, which are within thy gates, shall come, and shall eat and be satisfied; that the [e] LORD thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hand which thou doest.

his neighbour shall release it; he shall not exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother; because it is called the LORD's release.

3 Of a foreigner [h] thou mayest exact it again: but that which is thine with thy brother, thine hand shall release;

4 Save [i] when there shall be no poor among you; for [c] the LORD shall greatly bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it:

5 Only if thou carefully hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all these commandments which I command thee this day.

6 For the LORD thy God blesseth thee, as he promised thee: and thou shalt lend [f] unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow; and thou shalt reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over thee.

7 If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren within any of thy gates in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou [k] shalt not harden thine heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poor brother;

8 But [j] thou shalt open thine hand wide unto him, and shalt surely lend him sufficient for his need, in that which he wanteth.

9 Beware that there be not a [2] thought in thy [3] wicked heart, saying, The seventh year, the year of release, is at hand; and thine eye [l] be evil against thy poor brother, and thou givest him nought; and he cry [m] unto the LORD against thee, and it be sin [n] unto thee.

10 Thou shalt surely give him, and thine heart shall not be grieved [p] when thou givest unto him: because that for this thing the LORD thy God shall bless [r] thee in all thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand unto.

11 For the poor [s] shall never cease out of the land: therefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt open thine hand wide unto thy brother, to thy poor, and to thy needy, in the land.

12 And if [w] thy brother, an Hebrew man, or an Hebrew woman, be sold unto thee, and serve thee six years, then in the seventh year thou shalt let him go free from thee.

13 And when thou sendest him out free from thee, thou shalt not let him go away empty:

14 Thou shalt furnish him liberally out of thy flock, and out of thy floor, and out of thy wine-press: of that wherewith [y] the LORD thy God hath [z] blessed thee thou shalt give unto him.

15 And thou shalt remember [a] that thou wast a bondman in the land of Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee: therefore I command thee this thing today.

16 And it shall be, if [a] he say unto thee, I will not go away from thee, (because he loveth thee and thine house, because he is well with thee,)

17 Then thou shalt take an awl, and thrust it through his ear unto the door, and he shall be thy servant for ever: And also unto thy maid-servant thou shalt do likewise.

18 It shall not seem hard [d] unto thee, when thou sendest him away free from thee; for he hath been worth a double hired servant to thee, in serving thee six years: and the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all that thou doest.

19 All the firstling [e] males that come of thy herd and of thy flock thou shalt sanctify unto the LORD thy God: thou shalt do no work with the firstling of thy bullock, nor shear the firstling of thy sheep:

20 Thou [g] shalt eat it before the LORD thy God year by year, in the place which the LORD shall choose, thou and thy household.

21 And if [i] there be any blemish therein, as if it be lame, or blind, or have any ill blemish, thou shalt not sacrifice it unto the LORD thy God.

22 Thou shalt eat it within thy gates: the [k] unclean and the clean person shall eat it alike, as the roebuck, and as the hart.

23 Only thou shalt not eat the blood thereof; thou shalt pour it upon the ground as water.

CHAP. XVI.

OBSERVE [o] the month of Abib, and keep the passover unto the LORD thy God: for in the month of Abib the LORD thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt by night. [q]

2 Thou shalt therefore sacrifice the passover unto the LORD thy God, of the [t] flock and the herd, in the place [t] which the LORD shall choose to place his name there.

3 Thou [v] shalt eat no leavened bread with it; seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction; (for thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt in haste;) that thou mayest remember the day when thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt all the days of thy life.

4 And there shall be no leavened bread seen with thee in all thy coasts seven days; neither [x] shall there any thing of the flesh, which thou sacrificedst the first day at even, remain all night until the morning.

5 Thou mayest not [4] sacrifice the passover within any of the gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee:

6 But at the place which the LORD thy God shall choose to place his name in, there thou shalt sacrifice the passover [b] at even, at the going down of the sun, at the season that thou camest forth out of Egypt.

7 And thou shalt roast [b] and eat it in the place [c] which the LORD thy God shall choose: and thou shalt turn in the morning, and go unto thy tents.

8 Six days thou shalt eat unleavened bread: and on the seventh [c] day shall be a [1] solemn assembly to the LORD thy God: thou shalt do no work therein.

9 Seven [h] weeks shalt thou number unto thee: begin to number the seven weeks from such time as thou beginnest to put the sickle to the corn.

10 And thou shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the LORD thy God with [4] a tribute of a free-will-offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give unto the LORD thy God, according [k] as the LORD thy God hath blessed thee:

11 And [m] thou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the LORD thy God hath chosen to place his name there.

12 And [n] thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in Egypt: and thou shalt observe and do these statutes.

13 Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles [o] seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy [5] corn and thy wine:

14 And thou shalt rejoice [p] in thy feast, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite, the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gates.

15 Seven [r] days shalt thou keep a solemn feast unto the LORD thy God in the place which the LORD shall choose: because the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thine increase, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou shalt surely rejoice.

16 Three [u] times in a year shall all thy males appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he shall choose; in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles: and they shall not appear before the LORD empty: [v]

17 Every man shall give [6] as he is able [x] according [a] to the blessing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee.

18 Judges [b] and officers shalt thou make thee in all thy gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee, throughout thy tribes: and they shall judge the people with just judgment.

19 Thou [c] shalt not wrest judgment; thou shalt not respect [d] persons, neither take a gift: for [e] a gift doth blind the eyes of the wise, and pervert the [7] words of the righteous

20 That [8] which is altogether [f] just shalt thou follow, that thou mayest live, [g] and inherit the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

21 Thou shalt not plant thee a grove [d] of any trees near unto the altar of the LORD thy God, which thou shalt make thee.

22 Neither [f] shalt thou set thee up any image, [2] which the LORD thy God hateth. [g]

CHAP. XVII.

THOU shalt not sacrifice unto the LORD thy God any bullock, or [3] sheep, wherein [i] is blemish, or any evil-favouredness; for that is an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

2 If [j] there be found among you, within any of thy gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee, man or woman, that hath wrought wickedness in the sight of the LORD thy God, in [l] transgressing his covenant,

3 And hath gone and served other gods, and worshipped them, either the sun, or moon, or any of the host of heaven, which I have not commanded;

4 And it be told thee, and thou hast heard of it, and inquired diligently, and, behold, it be true, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought in Israel:

5 Then shalt thou bring forth that man or that woman, which have committed that wicked thing, unto thy gates, even that man or that woman, and shalt stone them with stones, till they die.

6 At [q] the mouth of two witnesses, or three witnesses, shall he that is worthy of death be put to death; but at the mouth of one witness he shall not be put to death.

7 The hands [s] of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people. So shalt thou put the evil away from among you.

8 If there arise a matter too hard for thee in judgment, between blood [t] and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke, being matters of controversy within thy gates: then shalt thou arise, and get thee up into the [v] place which the LORD thy God shall choose;

9 And thou shalt come unto the [w] priests the Levites, and unto the judge [y] that shall be in those days, and inquire; and they shall shew thee the sentence of judgment.

10 And thou shalt do according to the sentence, which they of that place which the LORD shall choose shall shew thee; and thou shalt observe to do according to all that they inform thee:

11 According to the sentence of the law which they shall teach thee, and according to the judgment which they shall tell thee, thou shalt do: thou shalt not decline from the sentence which they shall shew thee to the right hand, nor to the left.

presumptuously, [1] and will [a] not hearken unto the priest that standeth [b] to minister there before the LORD thy God, or unto the judge, even that man shall die: [c] and [f] thou shalt put away the evil from Israel.

13 And [g] all the people shall hear, and fear, and do no more presumptuously.

14 When thou art come unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, and shalt possess it, and shalt dwell therein, and shalt say, I [i] will set a king over me, like as all the nations that are about me,

15 Thou shalt in any wise set him king over thee, whom [j] the LORD thy God shall choose: one from [k] among thy brethren shalt thou set king over thee: thou mayest not set a stranger [m] over thee, which is not thy brother.

16 But he shall not multiply [n] horses to himself, nor cause the people to [o] return to Egypt, to the end that he should multiply horses: forasmuch as the LORD hath said unto you, Ye [p] shall henceforth return no more that way.

17 Neither shall he multiply wives to himself, that his heart [q] turn not away: neither shall he greatly multiply to himself silver and gold.

18 And it shall be, when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write him a copy of this law in a book out of that which is before the priests the Levites:

19 And [t] it shall be with him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life: that he may learn to fear the LORD his God, to keep all the words of this law and these statutes, to do them:

20 That his heart be not lifted up above his brethren, and that he turn [w] not aside from the commandment, to the right hand, or to the left: to the end that he may prolong [y] his days in his kingdom, he, and his children, in the midst of Israel.

CHAP. XVIII.

THE priests [z] the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, shall have no part nor inheritance with Israel; they shall eat the offerings [c] of the LORD made by fire, and his inheritance.

2 Therefore shall they have no inheritance among their brethren: the [f] LORD is their inheritance, as he hath said unto them.

3 And this [g] shall be the priest's due from the people, from them that offer a sacrifice, whether it be ox or sheep: and they shall give unto the priest the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw.

4 The first-fruit [j] also of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and the first of the fleece of thy sheep, shalt thou give him.

5 For the LORD thy God hath chosen him [l] out of all thy tribes, to stand to minister in the name of the LORD, him and his sons for ever.

6 And if a Levite come from any of thy gates out of all Israel, where [b] he sojourned, and come with all the [d] desire of his mind unto the place which the LORD shall choose;

7 Then he shall minister in the name of the LORD his God, as all his brethren the Levites do, which stand there before the LORD.

8 They shall have like portions [h] to eat, beside [2] that which cometh of the sale of his patrimony.

9 When thou art come into the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations.

10 There [i] shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch,

11 Or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or a necromancer.

12 For all that do these things are an abomination unto the LORD: and because of these abominations [r] the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee.

13 Thou shalt be [3] perfect with the LORD thy God.

14 For these nations, which thou shalt possess, [4] hearkened unto observers of times, and unto diviners: but as for thee, the LORD thy God hath not suffered [s] thee so to do.

15 The LORD thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet [u] from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him [v] ye shall hearken;

16 According to all that thou desiredst of the LORD thy God in Horeb in the day [x] of the assembly, saying, Let me not hear again the voice of the LORD my God, neither let me see this great fire any more, that I die not.

17 And the LORD said unto me, They have well spoken that which they have spoken.

18 I [a] will raise them up a [b] Prophet from among their brethren, like [d] unto thee, and will put my words in his mouth; and he [e] shall speak unto them all that I shall command him.

19 And it shall come to pass, that whosoever [k] will not hearken unto my words which he shall speak in my name, I will require it of him.

20 But [i] the prophet which shall presume to speak a word in my name which I have not commanded him to speak, or that shall speak in the name of other gods, even that prophet shall die. [k]

21 And if thou say in thine heart, How shall [m] we know the word which the LORD hath not spoken?

nor come to pass, that is the thing which the LORD hath not spoken, but the prophet hath spoken it presumptuously: thou shalt not be afraid of him.[a]

CHAP. XIX.

WHEN [c] the LORD thy God hath cut off the nations, whose land the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou [1] succeedest them, and dwellest in their cities, and in their houses;

2 Thou shalt separate three [d] cities for thee in the midst of thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

3 Thou shalt prepare thee a way, and divide the coasts of thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to inherit, into three parts, that every slayer may flee thither.

4 And this is the case of the slayer which shall flee thither, that he may live: Whoso killeth his neighbour ignorantly, whom he hated not [3] in time past;

5 As when a man goeth into the wood with his neighbour to hew wood, and his hand fetcheth a stroke with the axe to cut down the tree, and the [4] head slippeth from the helve, [5] and lighteth [6] upon his neighbour, that he die; he shall flee unto one of those cities, and live:

6 Lest the avenger of the blood pursue the slayer, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, because the way is long, and slay [7] him; whereas he was not worthy of death, inasmuch as he hated him not in [8] time past.

7 Wherefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt separate three cities for thee.

8 And if the LORD thy God enlarge [h] thy coast, as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, and give thee all the land which he promised [i] to give unto thy fathers;

9 If thou shalt keep all these commandments to do them, which I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk ever in his ways; then shalt thou add [k] three cities more for thee, beside these three;

10 That innocent blood be not shed in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and so blood be upon thee.

11 But [m] if any man hate his neighbour, and lie in wait for him, and rise up against him, and smite him [11] mortally that he die, and fleeth into one of these cities:

12 Then the elders of his city shall send and fetch him thence, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

13 Thine eye shall not pity him, but thou shalt put away the guilt of innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with thee.

14 Thou shalt not remove thy neighbour's land-mark, [q] which they of old time have set in thine inheritance, which thou shalt inherit in the land that the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

15 One [b] witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sinneth: at the mouth of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses, shall the matter be established.

16 If a false witness rise up against any man, to testify against him [2] that which is wrong;

17 Then both the men, between whom the controversy is, shall stand before the LORD, before the priests and the judges which shall be in those days;

18 And the judges shall make diligent inquisition: and, behold, if the witness be a false witness, and hath testified falsely against his brother;

19 Then [e] shall ye do unto him as he had thought to have done unto his brother: so shalt thou put the evil away from among you.

20 And those which remain shall hear, and fear, and shall henceforth commit no more any such evil among you.

21 And thine eye shall not pity; [f] but life shall go for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

CHAP. XX.

WHEN thou goest out to battle against thine enemies, and seest [g] horses, and chariots, and a people more than thou, be not afraid of them: for the LORD thy God is with thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

2 And it shall be, when ye are come nigh unto the battle, that the priest shall approach, and speak unto the people,

3 And shall say unto them, Hear, O Israel; ye approach this day unto battle against your enemies: let not your hearts [9] faint; fear not, and do not [10] tremble, neither be ye terrified [j] because of them;

4 For [l] the LORD your God is he that goeth with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.

5 And the officers shall speak unto the people, saying, What man is there that hath built a new house, and hath not dedicated [12] it? let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it.

6 And what man is he that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not yet [12] eaten of it? let him also go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man eat of it.

7 And what man is there that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let [o] him go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another [p] man take her.

8 And the officers shall speak further unto the people, and they shall say,

What [a] man is there that is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go and return unto his house, lest [b] his brethren's heart faint [1] as well as his heart.

3 And it shall be, when the officers have made an end of speaking unto the people, that they shall make captains of the armies [2] to lead the people.

10 When thou comest nigh unto a city to fight against it, then proclaim peace [c] unto it.

11 And it shall be, if it make thee answer of peace, and open unto thee, then it shall be, that all the people that is found therein shall be tributaries unto thee, and they [e] shall serve thee.

12 And if it will make no peace with thee, but will make war against thee, then thou shalt besiege it:

13 And when the LORD thy God hath delivered it into thine hands, [i] thou shalt smite every male thereof with the edge of the sword:

14 But the women, and the little ones, and the cattle, [j] and all that is in the city, even all the spoil thereof, shalt thou take [4] unto thyself; and thou [k] shalt eat the spoil of thine enemies, which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

15 Thus shalt thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee, which are not of the cities of these nations.

16 But of the cities of these people, which the LORD thy God doth give thee for an inheritance, thou shalt save alive nothing [n] that breatheth:

17 But thou shalt utterly destroy them; namely, the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites; as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee:

18 That [p] they teach you not to do after all their abominations, which they have done unto their gods; so should ye sin against the LORD your God.

19 When thou shalt besiege a city a long time, in making war against it to take it, thou shalt not destroy the trees thereof by forcing an axe against them: for thou mayest eat of them, and thou shalt not cut them down (for [7] the tree of the field is man's life) [8] to employ them in the siege:

20 Only the trees which thou knowest that they be not trees for meat, thou shalt destroy and cut them down; [t] and thou shalt build bulwarks against the city that maketh war with thee, until it [9] be subdued.

the cities which are round about him that is slain:

3 And it shall be, that the city which is next unto the slain man, even the elders of that city shall take an heifer, which hath not been wrought with, and which hath not drawn in the yoke;

4 And the elders of that city shall bring down the heifer unto a rough valley, which is neither eared nor sown, and shall strike off the heifer's neck there in the valley:

5 And the priests the sons of Levi shall come near; for them [d] the LORD thy God hath chosen to minister unto him, and to bless [f] in the name of the LORD; and by their [3] word shall every [g] controversy and every stroke be tried:

6 And all the elders of that city, that are next unto the slain man, shall [h] wash their hands over the heifer that is beheaded in the valley:

7 And they shall answer and say, Our hands have not shed this blood, neither have our eyes seen it.

8 Be merciful, O LORD, unto thy people Israel, whom thou hast redeemed; and lay not [l] innocent blood [5] unto thy people of Israel's charge. And the blood shall be forgiven them.

9 So shalt thou put away [m] the guilt of innocent blood from among you, when thou shalt do that which is right in the sight of the LORD.

10 When thou goest forth to war against thine enemies, and the LORD thy God hath delivered them into thine hands, and thou hast taken them captive,

11 And seest among the captives a beautiful woman, [o] and hast a desire unto her, that thou wouldest have her to thy wife;

12 Then thou shalt bring her home to thine house; and she shall shave [q] her head, and [6] pare her nails;

13 And she shall put the raiment of her captivity from off her, and shall remain in thine house, and bewail her [r] father and her mother a full month: and after that thou shalt go in unto her, and be her husband, and she shall be thy wife.

14 And it shall be, if thou have no delight in her, then thou shalt let her go whither she will; but thou shalt not sell [s] her at all for money, thou shalt not make merchandise of her, because thou hast humbled [u] her.

15 If a man have two wives, one beloved, [v] and another hated, [w] and they have borne him children, both the beloved and the hated; and if the first-born son be her's that was hated:

16 Then it shall be, when he maketh his sons to inherit that which he hath, that he may not make the son of the beloved first-born before [x] the son of the hated. which is indeed the first-born:

17 But he shall acknowledge the son of the hated for the first-born, by [a] giving him a double portion of all that [1] he hath: for he is the beginning of his strength; the right [c] of the first-born is his.

18 If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son, which will not obey [e] the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother, and that, when they have chastened [f] him, will not hearken unto them;

19 Then shall his father and his mother lay hold on him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city, and unto the gate of his place:

20 And they shall say unto the [i] elders of his city, This our son is stubborn and rebellious; he will not obey [k] our voice; he is a glutton, [l] and a drunkard.

21 And [n] all the men of his city shall stone him with stones, that he die: [o] so shalt thou put evil away from among you: and all Israel shall hear, and fear.

22 And if a man have committed a sin worthy [q] of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree;

23 His [r] body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt in any wise bury him that day; (for he that is hanged is accursed [4] of God;) that thy land be not [s] defiled, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

CHAP. XXII.

THOU [t] shalt not see thy brother's ox or his sheep go astray, and hide [u] thyself from them: thou shalt in any case bring them again unto thy brother.

2 And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee, or if thou know him not, then thou shalt bring it unto thine own house, and it shall be with thee until thy brother seek after it, and thou shalt restore it to him again.

3 In like manner shalt thou do with his ass; and so shalt thou do with his raiment, and with all lost things of thy brother's, which he hath lost, and thou hast found, shalt thou do likewise: thou mayest not hide thyself.

4 Thou [w] shalt not see thy brother's ass or his ox fall down by the way, and hide thyself from them: thou shalt surely help him to lift [x] them up again.

5 The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are abomination [c] unto the LORD thy God.

6 If a bird's nest chance to be before thee in the way in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones [d] or eggs, and the dam sitting upon the young or upon the eggs, thou shalt not take the dam [f] with the young:

7 But thou shalt in any wise let the dam go, and take the young to thee; that [g] it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong [h] thy days.

8 When thou buildest a new house, then thou shalt make a battlement for thy roof, [b] that thou bring not blood upon thine house, if any man fall from thence.

9 Thou [d] shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds; lest the fruit [2] of thy seed which thou hast sown, and the fruit of thy vineyard, be defiled.

10 Thou shalt not plough [g] with an ox and an ass together.

11 Thou [h] shalt not wear a garment of divers sorts, as of woollen and linen together.

12 Thou shalt make thee fringes [j] upon the four [3] quarters of thy vesture, wherewith thou coverest thyself.

13 If any man take a wife, and go [m] in unto her, and hate her,

14 And give occasions [p] of speech against her, and bring up an evil name upon her, and say, I took this woman, and, when I came to her, I found her not a maid:

15 Then shall the father of the damsel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damsel's virginity unto the elders of the city in the gate:

16 And the damsel's father shall say unto the elders, I gave my daughter unto this man to wife, and he hateth her;

17 And, lo, he hath given occasions of speech against her, saying, I found not thy daughter a maid; and yet these are the tokens of my daughter's virginity: And they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city.

18 And the elders of that city shall take that man, and chastise him;

19 And they shall amerce him in an hundred shekels of silver, and give them unto the father of the damsel, because he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Israel: and she shall be his wife; he [v] may not put her away all his days.

20 But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found for the damsel:

21 Then they shall bring out the damsel to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones that she die; because she hath wrought folly [y] in Israel, to [z] play the whore in her father's house: so [a] shalt thou put evil away from among you.

22 If [b] a man be found lying with a woman married to an husband, then they shall both of them die, both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: so shalt thou put away evil from Israel.

23 If a damsel that is a virgin be betrothed [e] unto an husband, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her;

24 Then ye shall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye shall stone them with stones that they die; the damsel, because she cried not, being in the city; and the man, because he hath humbled [a] his neighbour's wife: so [b] thou shalt put away evil from among you.

25 But if a man find a betrothed damsel in the field, and the man [2] force her, and lie with her; then the man only that lay with her shall die:

26 But unto the damsel thou shalt do nothing; there is in the damsel no sin worthy of death: for as when a man riseth against his neighbour, and slayeth him, even so is this matter:

27 For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damsel cried, and there was none to save her.

28 If [c] a man find a damsel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found;

29 Then the man that lay with her shall give unto the damsel's father fifty shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife: because he hath humbled her, he may not put her away all his days.

30 A [g] man shall not take his father's wife, nor discover [h] his father's skirt.

CHAP. XXIII.

HE [k] that is wounded in the stones, or hath his privy member cut off, shall not enter into the congregation of the LORD.

2 A bastard [m] shall not enter into the congregation of the LORD; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the LORD.

3 An Ammonite [o] or Moabite [p] shall not enter into the congregation of the LORD; even to their tenth generation shall they not enter into the congregation of the LORD for ever:

4 Because [r] they met you not with bread and with water in the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt; and because they hired against thee Balaam [t] the son of Beor, of Pethor of Mesopotamia, to curse thee.

5 Nevertheless the LORD thy God would not hearken unto Balaam; but the LORD thy God turned [v] the curse into a blessing unto thee, because the LORD thy God loved thee.

6 Thou [w] shalt not seek their peace nor their [7] prosperity all thy days for ever.

7 Thou shalt not abhor an Edomite; for he is thy brother: [y] thou shalt not abhor an Egyptian, because thou [z] wast a stranger in his land.

8 The children that are begotten of them shall enter [a] into the congregation of the LORD in their third generation.

9 When the host goeth forth against thine enemies, then keep [b] thee from every wicked thing.

10 If [d] there be among you any man that is not clean by reason of uncleanness that chanceth him by night, then shall he go abroad out of the camp, he shall not come within the camp.

11 But it shall be, when evening [1] cometh on, he shall wash [c] himself with water: and when the sun is down, he shall come into the camp again.

12 Thou shalt have a place also without the camp, whither thou shalt go forth abroad:

13 And thou shalt have a paddle upon thy weapon; and it shall be, when thou wilt [3] ease thyself abroad, thou shalt dig therewith, and shall turn back and cover that which cometh from thee:

14 For the LORD thy God walketh [d] in the midst of thy camp, to deliver thee, and to give up thine enemies before thee; therefore shall thy camp be holy; that he see no [4] unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee.

15 Thou shalt not deliver unto his master [f] the servant which is escaped from his master unto thee:

16 He shall dwell with thee, even among you, in that place which he shall choose in one of thy gates, where it [5] liketh him best: thou [i] shalt not oppress him.

17 There shall be no [6] whore [j] of the daughters of Israel, nor a sodomite [l] of the sons of Israel.

18 Thou shalt not bring the hire of a whore, or the price of a dog, into the house of the LORD thy God for any vow: for even both these are abomination unto the LORD thy God.

19 Thou [n] shalt not lend upon usury to thy brother; usury of money, usury of victuals, usury of any thing that is lent upon usury.

20 Unto a stranger [q] thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury: that [s] the LORD thy God may bless thee in all that thou settest thine hand to in the land whither thou goest to possess it.

21 When thou shalt vow [u] a vow unto the LORD thy God, thou shalt not slack to pay it: for the LORD thy God will surely require it of thee; and it would be sin in thee.

22 But if thou shalt forbear to vow, it shall be no sin in thee.

23 That [x] which is gone out of thy lips thou shalt keep and perform; even a free-will-offering, according as thou hast vowed unto the LORD thy God, which thou hast promised with thy mouth.

24 When thou comest into thy neighbour's vineyard, then thou mayest eat grapes thy fill at thine own pleasure; but thou shalt not put any in thy vessel.

25 When thou comest into the standing corn of thy neighbour, then thou mayest pluck [e] the ears with thine hand; but thou shalt not move a sickle unto thy neighbour's standing corn.

she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found [1] some uncleanness in her; then let him write her a bill of [2] divorcement, [a] and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house.

2 And when she is departed out of his house, she may go and be another man's wife.

3 And if the latter husband hate her, and write her a bill of divorcement, and giveth it in her hand, and sendeth her out of his house; or if the latter husband die, which took her to be his wife,

4 Her former husband, which sent her away, may not take her again [c] to be his wife, after that she is defiled; for that is abomination before the LORD: and thou shalt not cause the land [f] to sin, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

5 When [g] a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, [4] neither shall he be charged with any business: but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer [i] up his wife which he hath taken.

6 No man shall take the nether or the upper millstone to pledge: for he taketh a man's life to pledge.

7 If [k] a man be found stealing any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and maketh merchandize of him, or selleth him; then that thief shall die: and thou shalt put [m] evil away from among you.

8 Take heed in the plague of leprosy, [n] that thou observe diligently, and do according to all that the priests the Levites shall teach you: as I commanded them, so ye shall observe to do.

9 Remember what the LORD thy God did unto Miriam [p] by the way, after that ye were come forth out of Egypt.

10 When thou dost [6] lend thy brother any thing, thou shalt not go into his house to fetch his pledge.

11 Thou shalt stand abroad, and the man to whom thou dost lend shall bring out the pledge abroad unto thee.

12 And if the man be poor, thou shalt not sleep with his pledge:

13 In [t] any case thou shalt deliver him the pledge again when the sun goeth down, that he may sleep in his own raiment, and bless [u] thee: and it shall be [v] righteousness unto thee before the LORD thy God.

14 Thou shalt not oppress an hired servant that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren, or of thy strangers that are in thy land within thy gates:

15 At his day thou shalt give him his hire, neither shall the sun go down upon it; for he is poor and [10] setteth his heart upon it: lest he cry [y] against thee unto the LORD, and it be sin unto thee.

16 The fathers [z] shall not be put to death for the children, neither shall the children be put to death for the fathers: every man shall be put to death for his own sin.

17 Thou shalt not pervert the judgment of the stranger, nor of the fatherless; nor [b] take the widow's raiment to pledge:

18 But [c] thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee thence: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

19 When [d] thou cuttest down thine harvest in thy field, and hast forgot a sheaf in the field, thou shalt not go again to fetch it: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow: that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hands.

20 When thou beatest thine olive-tree, thou shalt not [3] go over the boughs again: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

21 When thou gatherest the grapes of thy vineyard, thou shalt not glean it afterward: [5] it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

22 And [h] thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in the land of Egypt; therefore I command thee to do this thing.

CHAP. XXV.

IF there be a controversy [j] between men, and they come unto judgment, that the judges may judge them; then they shall justify [l] the righteous, and condemn the wicked.

2 And it shall be, if the wicked man be worthy to be beaten, [o] that the judge shall cause him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face, according to his fault, by a certain number.

3 Forty stripes he may give him, and not exceed: lest, if he should exceed, and beat him above these with many stripes, then thy brother should seem vile [q] unto thee.

4 Thou [r] shalt not muzzle the ox when he [7] treadeth out the corn.

5 If brethren dwell together, and one of them die, and have no child, the wife of the dead shall not marry without unto a stranger: her [8] husband's [s] brother shall go in unto her, and take her to him to wife, and perform the duty of an husband's brother unto her.

6 And it shall be, that the first-born which she beareth shall succeed [w] in the name of his brother which is dead, [x] that his name be not put out of Israel.

7 And if the man like not to take his brother's [9] wife, then let his brother's wife go up to the gate unto the elders, and say, My husband's brother refuseth to raise up unto his brother a name in Israel, he will not perform the duty of my husband's brother:

8 Then the elders of his city shall call him, and speak unto him: and if he stand to it, and say, I like not to take her;

9 Then shall his brother's wife come unto him in the presence of the elders, and loose his shoe from off his foot, and spit in his face, and shall answer and say, So shall it be done unto that man that will not build up his brother's house.

10 And his name shall be called in Israel, The house of him that hath his shoe loosed.

11 When men strive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near for to deliver her husband out of the hand of him that smiteth him, and putteth forth her hand, and taketh him by the secrets;

12 Then thou shalt cut off her hand, thine eye shall not pity her.

13 Thou shalt not have in thy bag divers [1] weights, a great and a small.

14 Thou shalt not have in thine house divers [2] measures, a great and a small.

15 But [g] thou shalt have a perfect and just weight, a perfect and just measure shalt thou have; that thy days may be lengthened in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

16 For all [j] that do such things, and all that do unrighteously, are an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

17 Remember what Amalek did unto thee by the way, when ye were come forth out of Egypt;

18 How he met thee by the way, and smote [n] the hindmost of thee, even all that were feeble behind thee, when thou wast faint and weary; and he feared [o] not God.

19 Therefore it shall be, when [p] the LORD thy God hath given thee rest from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it, that thou shalt blot [q] out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven: thou shalt not forget it.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND it shall be, when thou art come in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and possessest it, and dwellest therein,

2 That [u] thou shalt take of the first of all the fruit of the earth, which thou shalt bring of thy land that the LORD thy God giveth thee, and shalt put it in a basket, and shalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God shall choose to place his name there.

3 And thou shalt go unto the priest that shall be in those days, and say unto him, I profess this day unto the LORD thy God that I am come unto the country which the LORD sware unto our fathers for to give us.

4 And the priest shall take the basket out of thine hand, and set it down before the altar of the LORD thy God.

5 And thou shalt speak, and say before the LORD thy God, A [c] Syrian ready to perish [d] was my father; and [e] he went down into Egypt, and sojourned there with a few, [a] and became there a nation, great, mighty, and populous;

6 And the Egyptians [b] evil-entreated us, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage:

7 And when we cried unto the LORD God of our fathers, the LORD heard [c] our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our labour, and our oppression:

8 And the LORD brought us forth [d] out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an out-stretched arm, and with great terribleness, and with signs, and [e] with wonders;

9 And he hath brought us into this place, and hath given us this land, even a land that floweth [f] with milk and honey.

10 And now, behold, I have brought the first-fruits of the land, which thou, O LORD, hast given me. And thou shalt set it before the LORD thy God, and worship [h] before the LORD thy God:

11 And thou shalt rejoice [i] in every good thing which the LORD thy God hath given unto thee, and unto thine house, thou, and the Levite, [k] and the stranger that is among you.

12 When thou hast made an end of tithing all the tithes [l] of thine increase the third year, which is the year [m] of tithing, and hast given it unto the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled;

13 Then thou shalt say before the LORD thy God, I have brought away the hallowed things out of mine house, and also have given them unto the Levite, and unto the stranger, to the fatherless, and to the widow, according to all thy commandments which thou hast commanded me: I have not transgressed [r] thy commandments, neither have I forgotten [s] them:

14 I have not eaten thereof in my mourning, [t] neither have I taken away aught thereof for any unclean use, nor given aught thereof for the dead: but I have hearkened to the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that thou hast commanded me.

15 Look [v] down from thy holy habitation from heaven, [w] and bless [x] thy people Israel, and the land which thou hast given us, as thou swarest [y] unto our fathers, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

16 This [z] day the LORD thy God hath commanded thee to do these statutes and judgments: thou shalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart, and with all thy soul.

17 Thou hast avouched [a] the LORD this day to be thy God, and to walk in his ways, and to keep his statutes, [b] and his commandments, and his judgments, and to hearken unto his voice:

18 And the LORD [f] hath avouched thee this day to be his peculiar [g] people, as he hath promised thee, and that thou shouldest keep [a] all his commandments;

19 And to make thee high [b] above all nations which he hath made, in praise, and in name, and in honour; and that thou mayest be an holy [d] people unto the LORD thy God, as he hath spoken.

CHAP. XXVII.

AND Moses with the elders of Israel commanded the people, saying, Keep all the commandments which I command you this day.

2 And it shall be on the day [h] when ye shall pass over Jordan unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, that thou shalt set thee up great stones, and plaster them with plaster:

3 And [j] thou shalt write upon them all the words of this law, when thou art passed over, that thou mayest go in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey; as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promised thee.

4 Therefore it shall be, when ye be gone over Jordan, that ye shall set up these stones, which I command you this day, in mount Ebal, [m] and thou shalt plaster them with plaster.

5 And there shalt thou build an altar unto the LORD thy God, an altar of stones: thou shalt not lift up any iron tool upon them.

6 Thou shalt build the altar of the LORD thy God of whole stones; and thou shalt offer burnt-offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God:

7 And thou shalt offer peace-offerings, and shalt eat there, and rejoice [t] before the LORD thy God.

8 And thou shalt write upon the stones all the words of this law very plainly.

9 And Moses, and the priests the Levites, spake unto all Israel, saying, Take heed, and hearken, O Israel; This [v] day thou art become the people of the LORD thy God.

10 Thou shalt therefore obey the voice of the LORD thy God, and do his commandments and his statutes, which I command thee this day.

11 And Moses charged the people the same day, saying,

12 These shall stand upon mount Gerizim to bless the people, when ye are come over Jordan; Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Issachar, and Joseph, and Benjamin.

13 And these shall stand upon mount Ebal [2] to curse; Reuben, Gad, and Asher, and Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

14 And the Levites [c] shall speak, and say unto all the men of Israel with a loud voice,

15 Cursed be the man that maketh [e] any graven or molten image, an abomination unto the LORD, the work of the hands of the craftsman, and putteth it in a [g] secret place. And all the people shall answer and say, Amen.

16 Cursed be he that [c] setteth light by his father or his mother. And all the people shall say, Amen.

17 Cursed be he that removeth [e] his neighbour's land-mark. And all the people shall say, Amen.

18 Cursed be he that maketh the [f] blind to wander out of the way. And all the people shall say, Amen.

19 Cursed be he that perverteth [g] the judgment of the stranger, fatherless, and widow. And all the people shall say, Amen.

20 Cursed be he [i] that lieth with his father's wife; because he uncovereth his father's skirt. And all the people shall say, Amen.

21 Cursed be he that lieth with any manner of beast. [k] And all the people shall say, Amen.

22 Cursed be he that lieth with his sister, [l] the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother. And all the people shall say, Amen.

23 Cursed be he that lieth with his mother-in-law. [n] And all the people shall say, Amen.

24 Cursed be he that smiteth his neighbour secretly. [o] And all the people shall say, Amen.

25 Cursed be he that taketh reward to slay [p] an innocent person. And all the people shall say, Amen.

26 Cursed [q] be he that confirmeth not all the words of this law to do [r] them. And all [s] the people shall say, Amen.

CHAP. XXVIII.

AND it shall come to pass, if [u] thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the LORD thy God will set thee on high [w] above all nations of the earth:

2 And all these blessings shall come on thee, and overtake [x] thee, if [y] thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God.

3 Blessed [z] shall thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field.

4 Blessed shall be the [a] fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

5 Blessed shall be thy basket and thy [1] store.

6 Blessed shalt thou be when [b] thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

7 The LORD shall cause thine [d] enemies that rise up against thee to be smitten before thy face: they shall come out against thee one way, and flee [f] before thee seven ways.

8 The LORD shall command [a] the blessing upon thee in thy [2] storehouses, and in all that thou settest thine hand unto; and he shall bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

9 The LORD shall establish [c] thee an holy people unto himself, as he hath sworn [d] unto thee, if thou shalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways.

10 And all people [f] of the earth shall see that thou art called [h] by the name of the LORD; and they shall be afraid [i] of thee.

11 And [j] the LORD shall make thee plenteous [4] in goods, in the fruit of thy [5] body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the LORD sware unto thy fathers to give thee.

12 The LORD shall open unto thee his good treasure, the heaven to give thee rain unto [n] thy land in his season, and to bless all the work of thine hand: and thou shalt lend [o] unto many nations, and thou shalt not borrow.

13 And the LORD shall make thee the head, [q] and not the tail; and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath; if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day, to observe and to do them:

14 And [t] thou shalt not go aside from any of the words which I command thee this day, to [v] the right hand, or to the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

15 But it shall come to pass, if thou wilt not [w] hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day: that all these curses shall [z] come upon thee, and overtake thee:

16 Cursed [y] shalt thou be in the city, and cursed shalt thou be in the field.

17 Cursed shall be thy basket and thy store.

18 Cursed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

19 Cursed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and cursed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

20 The LORD shall send upon thee cursing, vexation, [b] and rebuke, [c] in all that thou settest thine hand unto [8] for to do, [d] until thou be destroyed, and until thou perish quickly; because of the wickedness of thy doings, whereby thou hast forsaken me.

21 The LORD shall make the [e] pestilence cleave unto thee, until he have consumed thee from off the land, whither thou goest to possess it.

22 The LORD shall smite thee with [a] consumption, and with a fever, and with an inflammation, and with an extreme burning, and with the [i] sword, and with blasting, [1] and with mildew, and they shall pursue thee until thou perish.

23 And [b] thy heaven that is over thy head shall be brass, and the earth that is under thee shall be iron.

24 The LORD shall make the rain of thy land powder and dust: from heaven shall it come down upon thee, [e] until thou be destroyed.

25 The LORD shall cause thee to be smitten [g] before thine enemies: thou shalt go out one way against them, and flee seven ways before them; and shalt be [3] removed [k] into all the kingdoms of the earth.

26 And thy carcass [l] shall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beasts of the earth, and no man shall fray them away.

27 The LORD will smite thee with the botch of Egypt, and with the [m] emerods, and with the scab, and with the itch, whereof thou canst not be healed.

28 The LORD shall smite thee with madness, and blindness, and [p] astonishment of heart:

29 And thou shalt grope [r] at noon-day, as the blind gropeth in darkness, and thou shalt not prosper in thy ways: and thou shalt be only oppressed and spoiled evermore, and no man shall save thee.

30 Thou [s] shalt betroth a wife, and another man shall lie with her: thou shalt build [u] an house, and thou shalt not dwell therein: thou shalt plant a vineyard, and shalt not [6] gather the grapes thereof.

31 Thine ox shall be slain before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof: thine ass shall be violently taken away from before thy face, and shall not [7] be restored to thee: thy sheep shall be given unto thine enemies, and thou shalt have none to rescue them.

32 Thy sons [x] and thy daughters shall be given unto another people, and thine eyes shall look, and fail with longing for them all the day long: and there shall be no might in thine hand.

33 The fruit [a] of thy land, and all thy labours, shall a nation which thou knowest not eat up; and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed away:

34 So that thou shalt be mad for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

35 The LORD shall smite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a sore botch that cannot be healed, from [e] the sole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

36 The LORD shall bring [f] thee, and thy king which thou shalt set over thee, unto a nation which neither thou nor thy fathers have known; and there shalt thou serve other gods, wood and stone, 37 And thou shalt become an astonishment, a proverb, and a [h] bye-word, among all nations whither the LORD shall lead thee.

38 Thou shalt carry much [a] seed out into the field, and shalt gather but little in; for the locust [b] shall consume it.

39 Thou shalt plant vineyards, and dress them, but shalt neither drink of the wine, nor gather the grapes; for the worms [c] shall eat them.

40 Thou shalt have olive-trees throughout all thy coasts, but thou shalt not anoint thyself with the oil; for thine olive shall cast his fruit.

41 Thou shalt beget sons and daughters, but [1] thou shalt not enjoy them; for they [f] shall go into captivity.

42 All thy trees and fruit of thy land shall the locust [2] consume.

43 The [g] stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high; and thou shalt come down very low.

44 He [h] shall lend to thee, and thou shalt not lend to him: he shall be the head, and thou shalt be the tail.

45 Moreover, all these curses [i] shall come upon thee, and shall pursue thee, and overtake thee, till [k] thou be destroyed; because thou hearkenedst not unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which he commanded thee:

46 And they shall be upon thee for a sign [m] and for a wonder, and upon thy seed for ever.

47 Because [q] thou servedst not the LORD thy God with joyfulness, and with gladness of heart, for the abundance [t] of all things;

48 Therefore [u] shalt thou serve thine enemies, which the LORD shall send against thee, in hunger, [v] and in thirst, and in nakedness, and in want of all things: and he shall put a yoke of iron [x] upon thy neck, until he have destroyed thee.

49 The LORD shall bring a [y] nation against thee from far, from the end of the earth, as [z] swift as the eagle flieth; a nation whose tongue thou shalt not understand; [5]

50 A nation [6] of fierce countenance, which shall [c] not regard the person of the old, nor shew favour to the young:

51 And he shall eat the fruit of thy cattle, and the fruit of thy land, until thou be destroyed: which also shall not leave thee either corn, wine, or oil, or the increase of thy kine, or flocks of thy sheep, until he have destroyed thee.

52 And he shall besiege [f] thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fenced walls come down, wherein thou trustedst, throughout all thy land: and he shall besiege thee in all thy gates throughout all thy land, which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

53 And thou shalt eat [h] the fruit of thine own body, [7] the flesh of thy sons and of thy daughters, which the LORD thy God hath given thee, in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee:

54 So that the man that is tender among you, and very delicate, his eye shall be [c] evil toward his brother, and toward the [d] wife of his bosom, and toward the remnant of his children which he shall leave:

55 So that he will not give to any of them of the flesh of his children whom he shall eat: because he hath nothing left him in the siege, and in the straitness wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee in all thy gates.

56 The tender and delicate woman among you, which would not adventure to set the sole of her foot upon the ground for delicateness and tenderness, her eye shall be evil toward the husband of her bosom, and toward her son, and toward her daughter,

57 And toward her [3] young one that cometh out from between her feet, and toward her children [j] which she shall bear: for she shall eat [l] them for want of all things secretly in the siege and straitness wherewith thine enemy shall distress thee in thy gates.

58 If thou wilt not observe to do all the words of this law that are written in this book, that thou mayest fear this glorious [n] and fearful [o] name, THE [p] LORD THY [r] GOD;

59 Then the LORD will make thy plagues wonderful, [s] and the plagues of thy seed, even great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sicknesses, and of long continuance.

60 Moreover, he will bring upon thee all the diseases [w] of Egypt, which thou wast afraid of; and they shall cleave unto thee.

61 Also every sickness, and every plague, which is not written in the book of this law, them will the LORD [4] bring upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

62 And ye shall be left few [a] in number, whereas ye were as the [b] stars of heaven for multitude; because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the LORD thy God.

63 And it shall come to pass, that, as the LORD rejoiced over you to do you [d] good, and to multiply you; so the LORD will rejoice over you to destroy [e] you, and to bring you to nought; and ye shall be plucked from off the land whither thou goest to possess it.

64 And the LORD shall scatter [g] thee among all people, from the one end of the earth even unto the other; and there thou shalt serve other gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood and stone.

65 And [i] among these nations shalt thou find no ease, neither shall the sole of thy foot have rest: but the LORD shall give unee there a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and sorrow of mind:

66 And thy life shall hang in doubt before thee; and thou shalt fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life:

67 In the morning [f] thou shalt say, Would God it were even! and at even thou shalt say, Would God it were morning! for the fear of thine heart wherewith thou shalt fear, and for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

68 And the LORD shall bring thee into Egypt [h] again with ships, by the way whereof I spake [i] unto thee, Thou shalt see it no more again: and there ye shall be sold unto your enemies for bondmen and bondwomen, and no man shall buy you.

CHAP. XXIX.

THESE are the words of the covenant, which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, beside the covenant which he made [l] with them in Horeb.

2 And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them, Ye have seen all that the LORD did [m] before your eyes in the land of Egypt unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land;

3 The great temptations [o] which thine eyes have seen, the signs, and those great miracles:

4 Yet the LORD hath not given you an heart [r] to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day.

5 And I have led you forty years in the wilderness: your clothes [u] are not waxen old upon you, and thy shoe is not waxen old upon thy foot.

6 Ye have not [v] eaten bread, [w] neither have ye drunk wine or strong drink: that ye might know that I am the LORD your God.

7 And when ye came unto this place, Sihon [x] the king of Heshbon, and Og the king of Bashan, came out against us unto battle, and we smote them:

8 And we took their land, and gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenites, and to the Gadites and to the half tribe of Manasseh.

9 Keep [b] therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may prosper in all that ye do.

10 Ye stand this day all [d] of you before the LORD your God; your captains of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, with all the men of Israel,

11 Your little ones, your wives, and thy stranger that is in thy camp, from the hewer [e] of thy wood unto the drawer of thy water:

12 That thou shouldest [7] enter into covenant with the LORD thy God, and into his oath, [f] which the LORD thy God maketh with thee this day:

13 That he may establish [a] thee to-day for a people unto himself, and that he may be unto thee a God, as he hath said [b] unto thee, and as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, [c] to Isaac, [d] and to Jacob. [e]

14 Neither with you only do I make this covenant and this oath;

15 But [g] with him that standeth here with us this day before the LORD our God, and also with him that is not here with us this day:

16 (For ye know how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt; and how we came through the nations which ye passed by;

17 And ye have seen their abominations, and their [1] idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which were among them:)

18 Lest there should be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, whose heart turneth away this day from the LORD our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations; lest there should be among you a root that beareth [2] gall [j] and wormwood; [k]

19 And it come to pass, when he heareth the words of this curse, that he bless himself in his heart, saying, I shall have peace, though I walk in the [3] imagination of mine heart, to add [4] drunkenness [n] to thirst:

20 The LORD will not spare him, but then the anger [p] of the LORD and his jealousy [q] shall smoke against that man, and all the curses that are written in this book shall lie upon him, and the LORD shall blot out [t] his name from under heaven.

21 And the LORD shall separate [t] him unto evil out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant that [5] are written in this book of the law:

22 So that the generation to come of your children, that shall rise up after you, and the stranger that shall come from a far land, shall say, when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses which [6] the LORD hath laid upon it;

23 And that the whole land thereof is brimstone, and salt, [y] and burning, that it is not sown, nor beareth, [z] nor any grass groweth therein, like the overthrow of Sodom, and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboim, which the LORD overthrew [a] in his anger, and in his wrath;

24 Even all nations shall say, Wherefore [c] hath the LORD done thus unto this land? what meaneth the heat of this great anger?

25 Then men shall say, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt:

26 For they went and served other gods, and worshipped them, gods whom they knew not, and [8] whom he had not given [9] unto them:

27 And [g] the anger of the LORD was kindled against this land, to bring upon it a'

the curses that are written in this book:

28 And the LORD rooted [a] them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day.

29 The secret [b] things belong unto the LORD our God: but those things which are revealed [c] belong unto us, and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.

CHAP. XXX.

AND it shall come to pass, when all these things are come upon thee, the blessing and the curse, which I have set before thee, and thou shalt call them to mind [g] among all the nations whither the LORD thy God hath driven thee,

2 And shalt return [h] unto the LORD thy God, and shalt obey his voice according to all that I command thee this day, thou, and thy children, with all thine heart, and with all thy soul;

3 That then the LORD thy God will turn thy captivity, and have compassion upon thee, and will return and [k] gather thee from all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath scattered thee.

4 If [l] any of thine be driven out unto the utmost parts of heaven, from thence will the LORD thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee:

5 And the LORD thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it; and he will do thee good, and multiply thee above thy fathers.

6 And the LORD thy God will circumcise thine heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live.

7 And the LORD thy God will put all these curses upon thine enemies, [q] and on them that hate thee, which persecuted thee.

8 And thou shalt return and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments, which I command thee this day.

9 And [t] the LORD thy God will make thee plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy land, for good: for the LORD will again [v] rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers;

10 If thou shalt hearken [y] unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep [z] his commandments and his statutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn [b] unto the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul.

11 For this commandment which I command thee this day, it is not [c] hidden from thee, neither is it far off.

12 It [f] is not in heaven, that thou shouldest say, Who shall go up for us to heaven,

CHAP. XXXI.

AND Moses went, and spake these words unto all Israel.

2 And he said unto them, I am [r] an hundred and twenty years old this day; I can no more go out and come in: also the LORD hath said [s] unto me, Thou shalt not go over this Jordan.

3 The LORD thy God, he [u] will go over before thee, and he will destroy these nations from before thee, and thou shalt possess them: and Joshua, he shall go over before thee, as the LORD hath [w] said.

4 And the LORD shall do unto them as he did [x] to Sihon and to Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them whom he destroyed.

5 And the LORD shall give [a] them up before your face, that he may do unto them according unto all the commandments which I have commanded you

6 Be [c] strong and of a good courage, [d] fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the LORD thy God, he it is that doth go with thee he [g] will not fail thee, nor forsake thee

7 And Moses called unto Joshua, and said unto him in the sight of all Israel, Be [a] strong and of a good courage: for thou must go with this people unto the land which the LORD hath sworn unto their fathers to give them; and thou shalt cause them to inherit it.

8 And the LORD, he [b] it is that doth go before thee; he will be with thee, he will [c] not fail thee, neither forsake thee: fear not, neither be dismayed.

9 And Moses wrote this law, and delivered [d] it unto the priests the sons of Levi, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and unto all the elders of Israel.

10 And Moses commanded them, saying, At the end of every seven years, in the solemnity of the year of [e] release, in the feast [f] of tabernacles,

11 When all Israel is come to [g] appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he shall choose, thou shalt [h] read this law before all Israel in their hearing.

12 Gather [i] the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the LORD your God, and observe to do all the words of this law;

13 And that their children, [m] which have not known any thing, may hear, and learn to fear the LORD your God, as long as ye live in the land whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.

14 And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thy days approach that thou must die: [n] call Joshua, and present yourselves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that I may give him a charge. [p] And Moses and Joshua went and presented themselves in the tabernacle of the congregation.

15 And [q] the LORD appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud: and the pillar of the cloud stood over the door of the tabernacle.

16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thou shalt sleep [3] with thy fathers; and this people will rise [u] up and go a whoring [v] after the gods of the strangers of the land whither they go to be among them, and will forsake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.

17 Then my anger shall be kindled against them in that day, and I [y] will forsake them, and I will hide [z] my face from them, and they shall be devoured, and many evils and troubles shall [4] befall them; so that they will say in that day, Are not these evils come upon us, because our God is not [b] among us?

18 And I will surely hide my face in that day, for all the evils which they shall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods

19 Now therefore write ye this song for you, and teach it the children of Israel: put it in their mouths, that this song may be a witness for me against the children of Israel.

20 For when I shall have brought them into the land which I sware unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and honey; and they shall have eaten and [d] filled themselves, and waxen fat; then will they turn unto other gods, and serve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant.

21 And it shall come to pass, when [f] many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this song shall testify [1] against them as a witness; for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouths of their seed: for I [h] know their imagination which they [2] go about, even now, before I have brought them into the land which I sware.

22 Moses therefore wrote this song the same day, and taught it the children of Israel.

23 And he gave Joshua the son of Nun a charge, and said, Be strong and of a good courage: for thou shalt bring the children of Israel into the land which I sware unto them: and I will be with thee.

24 And it came to pass, when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished,

25 That Moses commanded the Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, saying,

26 Take this book of the law, and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there [o] for a witness against thee.

27 For I know thy rebellion, and thy stiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious [r] against the LORD; and how much more after my death?

28 Gather [t] unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their ears, and [t] call heaven and earth to record against them,

29 For I know that after my death ye will utterly corrupt [w] yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you; and evil [x] will befall you in the latter days; because ye will do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.

30 And Moses spake in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song, until they were ended.

3 Because I will publish the name of the LORD: ascribe [a] ye greatness unto our God.

4 He is the [b] Rock, his work is [c] perfect; for all his ways [d] are judgment: a God of [e] truth and without iniquity, just and right is he.

5 They [1] have corrupted themselves; their [2] spot is not the spot of his children: they are a perverse and crooked generation.

6 Do ye thus requite the LORD, O foolish people and unwise? is not he thy father [g] that hath bought [j] thee? hath he not made thee, and established thee?

7 Remember the days of old, consider the years [5] of many generations: ask thy father, and he will shew thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee;

8 When the Most High divided [l] to the nations their inheritance, when he separated [n] the sons of Adam, he set the bounds of the people according to the number of he children of Israel.

9 For [o] the LORD's portion is his people; Jacob is the lot [9] of his [p] inheritance.

10 He found him in a desert land, and in the waste howling wilderness; he [10] led him about, [r] he instructed him, he kept him as the apple of his eye.

11 As an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, [s] beareth them on her wings;

12 So the LORD alone did lead him, and there was no strange god with him.

13 He [t] made him ride on the high places of the earth, that he might eat the increase of the fields; and he made him to suck honey [v] out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty rock;

14 Butter of kine, and milk of sheep, with fat of lambs, and rams of the breed of Bashan, and goats, with the fat of kidneys of wheat; and thou didst drink the pure blood of the grape.

15 But Jeshurum [z] waxed fat, and [a] kicked: thou art waxen fat, thou art grown thick, thou art covered with fatness: then he [d] forsook God which made him, and lightly esteemed the Rock of his salvation.

16 They provoked him to [f] jealousy with strange gods, with abominations provoked they him to anger.

17 They [i] sacrificed unto devils, [13] not to God; to gods whom they knew not, to new gods that came newly up, whom your fathers feared not.

18 Of the Rock that begat thee thou art unmindful, and hast forgotten [m] God that formed thee.

19 And when the LORD saw it, he abhorred [15] them, because of the provoking of his sons, and of his daughters.

20 And he said, I will hide my face from them, I will see what their end shall be: for they are a very froward generation, children in whom is no faith.

21 They have moved me to jealousy with that which is not God; they have provoked me to anger with their vanities. and I will [c] move them to jealousy with those which are not a people; I will provoke them to anger with a foolish nation.

22 For a fire [s] is kindled in mine anger, and [3] shall burn unto the lowest hell, and shall [4] consume the earth [i] with her increase, and set on fire the foundations of the mountains.

23 I will heap mischiefs upon them; I will spend mine arrows [k] upon them.

24 They shall be burnt with hunger, and devoured with burning [6] heat, and with bitter destruction: I will also send the teeth [m] of beasts upon them, with the poison of serpents of the dust.

25 The sword without, and [7] terror within, shall [8] destroy both the young man and the virgin, the suckling also with the man of gray hairs.

26 I said, I would scatter [q] them into corners, I would make the remembrance of them to cease from among men:

27 Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy, lest their adversaries should behave themselves strangely, and lest they should say, [11] Our hand is high, and the LORD hath not done all this.

28 For they are a nation void of counsel, neither is there any understanding in them.

29 O [u] that they were wise, that they understood this, that they would consider their latter end!

30 How should one chase a thousand, and two put ten thousand to flight except their Rock had sold [w] them, and the LORD had shut them up?

31 For [x] their rock is not as our Rock, even [y] our enemies themselves being judges.

32 For their vine is [12] of the vine [b] of Sodom, [c] and of the fields of Gomorrah; their grapes are grapes of gall, their clusters are bitter:

33 Their wine is the poison [e] of dragons, and the cruel venom of asps. [g]

34 Is not this laid up [k] in store with me, and sealed up among my treasures?

35 To me [j] belongeth vengeance, and recompense; their foot [k] shall slide in due time: for the day of their calamity is at hand, [l] and the things that shall come upon them make haste

36 For the LORD shall judge his people, and repent [n] himself for his servants, when he seeth that their [14] power is gone, and there is none shut up or left.

37 And he shall say, Where are their gods, their rock in whom they trusted;

38 Which did eat the fat of their sacri-

40 For I lift up my hand to heaven, and say, I live for ever.

41 If I whet my glittering sword, [h] and mine hand take hold on judgment, I will render vengeance to mine enemies, and will reward them that hate me.

42 I will make mine arrows [k] drunk with blood, and my sword shall devour flesh; and that with the blood of the slain and of the captives, from the beginning of revenges upon the enemy.

43 [3] Rejoice, O ye nations, with his people: for he will avenge [m] the blood of his servants, and will render vengeance to his adversaries, and [o] will be merciful unto his land, and to his people.

44 And Moses came and spake all the words of this song in the ears of the people, he, and [4] Hoshea the son of Nun.

45 And Moses made an end of speaking all these words to all Israel:

46 And he said unto them, Set [q] your hearts unto all the words which I testify among you this day, which ye shall command your children to observe to do, all the words of this law.

47 For it is not a vain thing for you; because it is your life: [u] and through this thing ye shall prolong your days in the land, whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.

48 And the LORD spake unto Moses that self-same day, saying,

49 Get [w] thee up into this mountain Abarim, unto mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, that is over against Jericho; and behold the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel for a possession:

50 And die in the mount whither thou goest up, and be gathered unto thy people; as Aaron thy brother died [y] in mount Hor, and was gathered unto his people:

51 Because ye trespassed [z] against me among the children of Israel at the waters of [9] Meribah-Kadesh, in the wilderness of Zin, because ye sanctified [a] me not in the midst of the children of Israel:

52 Yet thou shalt see [b] the land before thee; but thou shalt not go thither unto the land which I give the children of Israel.

CHAP. XXXIII.

AND this is the blessing, wherewith Moses the man of God blessed the children of Israel before his death.

2 And he said, The LORD came [e] from Sinai, and rose up from Seir unto them: he shined forth from mount Paran, and 6 Let [j] Reuben live, and not die; and let not his men be few.

7 And this is the blessing of Judah: and he said, Hear, LORD, the voice of Judah, and bring him unto his people: let his hands be sufficient for him; and be thou an help [l] to him from his enemies.

8 And of Levi he said, Let thy Thummim [n] and thy Urim be with thy holy one, whom thou didst prove at Massah, and with whom thou didst strive at the waters of Meribah;

9 Who said unto his father and to his mother, I have not seen him; neither [p] did he acknowledge his brethren, nor knew his own children: for they have observed thy word, and kept thy covenant. [r]

CHAP. XXXIV.

AND Moses went up from the plains of Moab unto the mountain of Nebo, to the top of [1] Pisgah, that is over against Jericho And the LORD shewed him all the land of Gilead, unto Dan,

2 And all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim, and Manasseh, and all the land of Judah, unto the utmost sea,

3 And the south, and the plain of the valley of Jericho, the city of palm trees, unto Zoar.

4 And the LORD said unto him, This is the land which I sware [f] unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, saying, I will give it unto thy seed: I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but [h] thou shalt not go over thither.

5 So Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD.

6 And he buried him in [k] a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-peor: but [l] no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day.

7 And Moses was an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his [n] eye was not dim, nor his [4] natural force abated. [5]

8 And the children of Israel wept for Moses in the plains of Moab thirty [q] days: so the days of weeping and mourning for Moses was ended.

9 And Joshua the son of Nun was full of the spirit [t] of wisdom; for Moses [u] had laid his hands upon him: and the children of Israel hearkened unto him, and did as the LORD commanded Moses.

10 And there arose not a prophet since in Israel [x] like unto Moses, whom the LORD knew face to face,

11 In all the signs [z] and the wonders which the LORD sent him to do in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land, 12 And in all that mighty [c] hand, and in all the great terror which Moses shewed in the sight of all Israel.

CHAP. I

NOW after the death [a] of Moses the servant of the LORD it came to pass, that the LORD spake unto Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' minister, [c] saying,

2 Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Israel,

3 Every [g] place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I said unto Moses

4 From [b] the wilderness and this Lebanon, even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast.

5 There [d] shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as [e] I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I [f] will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.

6 Be strong and of a good courage: for unto [1] this people shalt thou divide for an inheritance the land, which I sware unto their fathers to give them

7 Only be [a] thou strong and very courageous, that thou mayest observe to do according to all the law which Moses my servant commanded thee: turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest [2] prosper whithersoever thou goest.

8 This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt [3] have good success.

9 Have not I commanded thee? [d] Be strong and of a good courage; be [e] not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: [f] for the LORD thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.

10 Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying,

11 Pass through the host, and command the people, saying, Prepare you victuals; for [4] within three days ye shall pass over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land, which the LORD your God giveth you to possess it.

12 And to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, spake Joshua, saying,

13 Remember the word which Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, saying, [i] The LORD your God hath given you rest, and hath given you this land.

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle, shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side Jordan; but ye shall pass before your brethren [5] armed, all the mighty men of valour, and help them.

15 Until the [g] LORD have given your brethren rest, as he hath given you, and they also have possessed the land which the LORD your God giveth them: then ye shall return unto the land of your possession, and enjoy it, which Moses, the LORD's servant, gave you on this side Jordan, toward the sun-rising.

16 And they answered Joshua, saying, All [o] that thou commandest us we will do, and whithersoever thou sendest us we will go.

17 According as we hearkened unto Moses in all things, so will we hearken unto thee: only the LORD thy God be with thee, as [r] he was with Moses.

18 Whosoever he be that doth rebel against thy commandment, and will not hearken unto all thy words in all that thou commandest him, he [s] shall be put to death: only [t] be strong and of a good courage.

CHAP. II.

AND Joshua the son of Nun [8] sent out of Shittim two men to spy [w] secretly, saying, Go view the land, even Jericho. And they went, and came into an harlot's house, named Rahab, [b] and lodged [1] there.

2 And it was told the king of Jericho, saying, Behold, there came men in hither to-night of the children of Israel, to search out the country.

3 And the king of Jericho sent unto Rahab, saying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee, which are entered into thine house: for they be come to search out all the country.

4 And [c] the woman took the two men, and hid them, and said thus, There came men unto me, but I wist not whence they were:

5 And it came to pass, about the time of shutting of the gate, when it was dark, that the men went out: whither the men went I wot not: pursue after them quickly; for ye shall overtake them.

6 But [g] she had brought them up to the roof of the house, and hid them with the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order upon the roof.

7 And the men pursued after them the way to Jordan, unto the fords: and as soon as they which pursued after them were gone out, they shut the gate.

8 And before they were laid down, she came up unto them upon the roof;

9 And she said unto the men, I know that the LORD hath given you the land, and that your terror [j] is fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land faint [4] because of you.

10 For we have heard how the LORD dried [k] up the water of the Red sea for you, when ye came out of Egypt; and what [l] he did unto the two kings of the Amorites that were on the other side Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom he utterly destroyed.

11 And as soon as we had heard these things, our hearts [m] did melt, neither [6] did there remain any more courage in any man, because of you: for [n] the LORD your God, he is God in heaven above, and in earth beneath.

12 Now therefore, I pray you, swear unto me by the LORD, since I have shewed you kindness, that ye will also shew kindness unto my [p] father's house, and give me a true token: [q]

13 And that ye will save alive my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death.

14 And the men answered her, Our life [7] for yours, if ye utter not this our business And it shall be, when the LORD hath given us the land, that we will deal kindly [u] and truly with thee.

15 Then she let [v] them down by a cord through the window: for her house was upon the town wall, and she dwelt upon the wall.

16 And she said unto them, Get you to the mountain, lest the pursuers meet you; and hide yourselves there three days, until the pursuers be returned: and afterward may ye go your way.

17 And the men said unto her, We will be blameless [c] of this thine oath which thou hast made us swear.

18 Behold, when we come into the land, thou shalt bind this line of scarlet thread in the window which thou didst let us down by; and [e] thou shalt [1] bring thy father, and thy mother, and thy brethren, and all thy father's household, home unto thee.

20 And if thou utter [j] this our business, then we will be quit of thine oath which thou hast made us to swear.

21 And she said, According unto your words, [m] so be it. And she sent them away, and they departed: and she bound the scarlet line in the window.

22 And they went, and came unto the mountain, and abode there three days, until the pursuers were returned: And the pursuers sought them throughout all the way, but found them not.

24 And they said unto Joshua, Truly the LORD hath delivered [q] into our hands all the land; for even all the inhabitants of the country do faint [2] because of us.

CHAP. III.

AND Joshua rose early in the morning; and they removed from Shittim, [t] and came to Jordan, he and all the children of Israel, and lodged there before they passed over.

2 And it came to pass, after three days, that the officers went [w] through the host;

3 And they commanded the people, saying, When ye see the ark [y] of the covenant of the LORD your God, and the [z] priests the Levites bearing it, then ye shall remove from your place, and go after it.

4 Yet there shall be a space [b] between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure: come not near unto it, that ye may know the way by which ye must go: for ye have not passed this way [3] heretofore.

5 And [c] Joshua said unto the people, Sanctify yourselves: for to-morrow the LORD will do wonders [d] among you.

6 And Joshua spake unto the priests, saying, Take [e] up the ark of the covenant, and pass over before the people. And they took up the ark of the covenant, and went before the people

7 And the LORD said unto Joshua, This day will I begin to magnify [a] thee in the sight of all Israel, that they may know that, as [b] I was with Moses, so I will be with thee.

8 And thou shalt command the priests that bear the ark of the covenant, saying, When ye are come to the brink of the water of Jordan, ye shall stand [d] still in Jordan.

9 And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, Come hither, and hear the words of the LORD your God.

10 And Joshua said, Hereby ye shall know that the living [f] God is among you, and that he will without fail [g] drive [h] out from before you the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Hivites, and the Perizzites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Jebusites.

11 Behold, the ark of the covenant of the [k] LORD of all the earth passeth over before you into Jordan.

12 Now therefore take you [l] twelve men out of the tribes of Israel, out of every tribe a man.

13 And it shall come to pass, as soon [n] as the soles of the feet of the priests that bear the ark of the LORD, the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of Jordan, that the waters of Jordan shall be cut off from the waters that come down from above; and they shall stand [o] upon an heap.

14 And it came to pass, when the people removed from their tents, to pass over Jordan, and the priests bearing the [p] ark of the covenant before the people;

15 And as they that bare the ark were come unto Jordan, and the feet [r] of the priests that bare the ark were dipped in the brim of the water, (for Jordan [s] overfloweth all his banks all the time of harvest,)

16 That the waters which came down from above stood and rose up [u] upon an heap very far from the city Adam, that is beside Zaretan: [v] and those that came down toward the [x] sea of the plain, even the salt sea, failed, and were cut off: and the people passed over right against Jericho.

17 And the priests that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD stood firm on dry [a] ground in the midst of Jordan, and all the Israelites passed over on dry ground, until all the people were passed clean over Jordan.

CHAP. IV.

AND it came to pass, when all the people were clean passed over Jordan, that the LORD spake unto Joshua, saying,

2 Take you twelve men out of the people, out of every tribe a man,

3 And command ye them, saying, Take you hence out of the midst of Jordan, out of the place where the priests' feet stood firm, twelve stones; [f] and ye shall carry them over with you, and leave them in the lodging place where ye shall lodge this night.

4 Then Joshua called the twelve men whom he had prepared of the children of Israel, out of every tribe a man:

5 And Joshua said unto them, Pass over before the ark of the LORD your God into the midst of Jordan, and take you up every man of you a stone upon his shoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of Israel:

6 That this may be a sign among you, that when [c] your children ask their fathers [3] in time to come, saying, What mean ye by these stones?

7 Then ye shall answer them, That [d] the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the LORD; when it passed over Jordan, the waters of Jordan were cut off: and these stones shall be for a memorial [e] unto the children of Israel for ever.

8 And the children of Israel did so as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones out of the midst of Jordan, as the LORD spake unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, and carried them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there.

9 And Joshua set up twelve [j] stones in the midst of Jordan, in the place where the feet of the priests which bare the ark of the covenant stood: and they are there unto this day.

10 For the priests which bare the ark stood [m] in the midst of Jordan, until every thing was finished that the LORD commanded Joshua to speak unto the people, according to all that Moses commanded Joshua: and the people hasted and passed over.

11 And it came to pass, when all the people were clean passed over, that the ark of the LORD passed over, and the priests, in the presence of the people.

12 And [p] the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh, passed over armed before the children of Israel, as Moses spake unto them

13 About forty thousand [8] prepared for war passed over before the LORD unto battle, to the plains of Jericho.

14 On that day the LORD [r] magnified Joshua in the sight of all Israel; and they feared him, as they feared [s] Moses, all the days of his life.

15 And the LORD spake unto Joshua, saying,

16 Command the priests that bear the ark [u] of the testimony, that they come up out of Jordan.

17 Joshua therefore commanded the priests, saying, Come ye up out of Jordan.

18 And it came to pass, when the priests that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD were come up out of the midst of Jordan, and the soles of the priests' feet were lifted [1] up unto the dry land, that the waters of Jordan returned into their place, and flowed [2] over [a] all his banks, as they did before.

19 And the people came up out of Jordan on the tenth day of the first month, and encamped in Gilgal, in the east border of Jericho,

20 And [b] those twelve stones, which they took out of Jordan, did Joshua pitch in Gilgal.

21 And he spake unto the children of Israel, saying, When [c] your children shall ask their fathers [4] in time to come, saying, What mean these stones?

22 Then ye shall let your children know, saying, Israel came [f] over this Jordan on dry land.

23 For the LORD your God dried up the waters of Jordan from before you, until ye were passed over, as the LORD your God did [h] to the Red sea, which he dried up from before us, until we were gone over:

24 That [i] all the people of the earth might know the hand of the LORD, that it is mighty; that ye might fear the LORD your God [5] for ever.

CHAP. V.

AND it came to pass when all the kings of the Amorites, which were on the side of Jordan westward, and all the kings of the Canaanites, which [k] were by the sea, heard [l] that the LORD had dried up the waters of Jordan from before the children of Israel, until we were passed over, that [n] their heart melted, neither was there spirit [o] in them any more, because of the children of Israel.

2 At that time the LORD said unto Joshua, Make thee sharp [6] knives, and circumcise again the children of Israel the second time.

3 And Joshua made him sharp knives, and circumcised the children of Israel at [7] the hill of the foreskins.

4 And this is the cause why Joshua did circumcise: All [q] the people that came out of Egypt, that were males, even all the men of war, died in the wilderness by the way, after they came out of Egypt.

5 Now all the people that came out were circumcised: but all the people that were born in the wilderness by the way as they came forth out of Egypt, them they had not circumcised.

6 For the children of Israel walked [t] forty years in the wilderness, till all the people that were men of war, which came out of Egypt, were consumed, because they obeyed not the voice of the LORD: unto whom [v] the LORD sware that he would not shew them the land which the LORD sware unto their fathers that he would give us, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

7 And their children,[b] whom he raised up in their stead, them Joshua circumcised: for they were uncircumcised, because they had not circumcised them by the way.

8 And it came to pass, when [1] they had done circumcising all the people, that they abode in their places in the camp till they were whole.

9 And the LORD said unto Joshua, This day have I rolled away the reproach [d] of Egypt [e] from off you. Wherefore the name of the place is called Gilgal [2] unto this day.

10 And [f] the children of Israel encamped in Gilgal, and kept the passover on the fourteenth [g] day of the month, at even, in the plains of Jericho.

11 And they did eat of the old corn of the land on the morrow after the passover, unleavened cakes and parched corn in the self-same day.

12 And the manna [i] ceased on the morrow after they had eaten of the old corn of the land; neither had the children of Israel manna any more; [j] but they did eat of the fruit of the land of Canaan that year.

13 And it came to pass, when Joshua was by Jericho, that he lifted up his eyes and looked, and, behold, there stood a man [l] over against him with his [m] sword drawn in his hand: and Joshua went unto him, and said unto him, Art thou for us, or for our adversaries?

14 And he said, Nay: but as [3] captain of the host of the LORD am I now come. And Joshua fell [n] on his face to the earth, and did worship, and said unto him, What [o] saith my lord unto his servant?

15 And the captain of the LORD's host said unto Joshua, Loose [p] thy shoe from off thy foot; for the place whereon thou standest is holy. And Joshua did so.

CHAP. VI.

NOW Jericho [6] was straitly shut up, because of the children of Israel: none went out, and none came in.

2 And the LORD said unto Joshua, See, I [r] have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king [s] thereof, and the mighty men of valour.

3 And ye shall compass the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once. Thus shalt thou do six days.

4 And seven priests shall bear before the ark seven trumpets [v] of rams' horns: and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times, and the [x] priests shall blow with the trumpets.

5 And it shall come to pass, that [y] when they make a long blast with the ram's horn, and when ye hear the sound of the trumpet, all the people shall shout [a] with a great shout; and the wall of the city shall fall down flat, [9] and the people shall ascend up, every man straight before him.

6 And Joshua the son of Nun called the priests, and said unto them, [a] Take up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD.

7 And he said unto the people, Pass on, and compass [c] the city, and let him that is armed pass on before the ark of the LORD.

8 And it came to pass, when Joshua had spoken unto the people, that the seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of rams' horns passed on before the LORD, and blew with the trumpets; and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them.

9 And the armed men went before the priests that blew with the trumpets, and the [3] rereward [h] came after the ark, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

10 And Joshua had commanded the people, saying, Ye shall not shout nor make [4] any noise with your voice, neither shall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you shout; then shall ye shout.

11 So the ark of the LORD compassed the city, going about it once: and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

12 And Joshua rose early in the morning, and the priests took up [k] the ark of the LORD.

13 And seven priests, bearing seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD, went on continually, and blew with the trumpets: and the armed men went before them; but the rereward came after the ark of the LORD, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

14 And the second day they compassed the city once, and returned into the camp: so they did six days.

15 And it came to pass on the [q] seventh day, that they rose early about the dawning of the day, and compassed the city after the same manner seven times: only on that day they compassed the city seven times.

16 And it came to pass at the seventh time, when the priests blew with the trumpets, Joshua said unto the people, [t] Shout; for the LORD hath given you the city.

17 And the city shall be [7] accursed, even it and all that are therein, to the LORD; only Rahab the harlot shall live, she and all that are with her in the house, because she hid [u] the messengers that we sent.

18 And ye, in any wise keep [w] yourselves from the accursed thing, lest ye make yourselves accursed, when ye take of the accursed thing, and make the camp of Israel a curse, and trouble [z] it.

19 But all the silver and gold, and vessels of brass and iron, are [8] consecrated unto the LORD; they shall come into the treasury [b] of the LORD.

20 So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets: and came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that the [a] wall fell down [2] flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city:

21 And they utterly [c] destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox, and sheep, and ass, with the edge of the sword.

22 But Joshua had said unto the two men that had spied out the country, Go into the harlot's house, and bring out thence the woman, and all that she hath, as ye sware [h] unto her.

23 And the young men that were spies went in, and brought out Rahab, and [j] her father, and her mother, and her brethren, and all that she had; and they brought out all her kindred, [4] and left them without the camp of Israel.

24 And they burnt [m] the city with fire, and all that was therein: only the [o] silver, and the gold, and the vessels of brass and of iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD.

25 And Joshua saved Rahab [p] the harlot alive, and her father's household, and all that she had; and she dwelleth in Israel [r] even unto this day, because [t] she hid the messengers which Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

26 And Joshua adjured them at that time, saying, Cursed [w] be the man before the LORD that riseth up and buildeth this city Jericho: he shall lay the foundation thereof in his first-born, and in his youngest son shall he set up the gates of it.

27 So the LORD was with [y] Joshua; and his fame was noised throughout all the country.

CHAP. VII.

BUT the children of Israel committed a trespass [a] in the accursed thing: for Achan, [6] the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, [7] the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accursed thing: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against the children of Israel.

2 And Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beside Beth-aven, on the east side of Beth-el, and spake unto them, saying, Go up and view the country. And the men went up and viewed Ai.

3 And they returned to Joshua, and said unto him, Let not all the people go up; but let [8] about two or three thousand men go up and smite Ai; and make not all the people to labour thither; for they are but few.

4 So there went up thither of the people about three thousand men: and they [d] fled before the men of Ai.

5 And the men of Ai smote of them about thirty and six men: for they chased [f] them from before the gate even unto Shebarim, and smote them [1] in the going down: wherefore the hearts of the people melted, [b] and became as water. [e]

6 And Joshua rent [d] his clothes, and fell to the earth upon his face before the ark of the LORD until the even-tide, he and the elders of Israel, and put dust [f] upon their heads.

7 And Joshua said, Alas! O Lord GOD wherefore [g] hast thou at all brought this people over Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? Would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other side Jordan?

8 O LORD, what [i] shall I say, when Israel turneth their backs [3] before their enemies!

9 For [k] the Canaanites, and all the inhabitants of the land, shall hear of it, and shall environ us round, and cut off [l] our name from the earth: and what wilt thou do unto thy great name? [n]

10 And the LORD said unto Joshua, Get thee up; wherefore [5] liest thou thus upon thy face?

11 Israel hath sinned, and they have also transgressed my covenant which I commanded [q] them: for they have even taken [s] of the accursed thing, and have also stolen, and dissembled [u] also, and they have put it even among their own stuff.

12 Therefore [v] the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because they were accursed: [x] neither will I be with you any more, except ye destroy the accursed from among you.

13 Up, sanctify the people, and say, Sanctify [z] yourselves against to-morrow: for thus saith the LORD God of Israel, There is an accursed thing in the midst of thee, O Israel: thou canst not stand before thine enemies, until ye take away the accursed thing from among you.

14 In the morning therefore ye shall be brought according [b] to your tribes: and it shall be, that the tribe which the [c] LORD taketh shall come according to the families thereof: and the family which the LORD shall take shall come by households; and the household which the LORD shall take shall come man by man.

15 And it shall be, that he that is taken with the accursed thing shall be burnt with fire, he and all that he hath: because he hath transgressed the covenant of the LORD, and because he hath wrought folly [9] in [d] Israel.

16 So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel by their tribes; and the tribe of Judah was taken:

17 And he brought the family of Judah: and he took the family of the Zarhites: and he brought the family of the Zarhites man by man; and Zabdi was taken:

18 And he brought his household man by man; and Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was taken.

19 And Joshua said unto Achan, My son, give, I pray thee, glory [b] to the LORD God of Israel, and make confession [c] unto him; and tell me now what thou hast done; hide it not from me.

20 And Achan answered Joshua, and said, Indeed I have sinned against the LORD God of Israel, and thus and thus have I done:

21 When I saw [d] among the spoils a goodly Babylonish garment, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a [2] wedge of gold of fifty shekels weight, then I coveted [e] them, and took [f] them; and, behold, they are hid [h] in the earth in the midst of my tent, and the silver under it.

22 So Joshua sent messengers, and they ran unto the tent; and, behold, it was hid in his tent, and the silver under it.

23 And they took them out of the midst of the tent, and brought them unto Joshua, and unto all the children of Israel, and laid [3] them out before the LORD.

24 And Joshua, and all Israel with him, took Achan the son of Zerah, and the silver, and the garment, and the wedge of gold, and his sons, and his daughters, and his oxen, and his asses, and his sheep, and his tent, and all that he had: and they brought them unto the valley of Achor.

25 And Joshua said, Why hast thou troubled [j] us? the LORD shall trouble thee this day. And all Israel stoned [k] him with stones, and burned them with fire after they had stoned them with stones.

26 And they raised [l] over him a great heap of stones unto this day. So the LORD turned [m] from the fierceness of his anger. Wherefore the name of the place was called, The valley [n] of Achor, [6] unto this day.

CHAP. VIII.

AND the LORD said unto Joshua, Fear not, neither be thou dismayed: take all the people of war with thee, and arise, go up to Ai: see, I have given into thy hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land.

2 And thou shalt do to Ai and her king as thou didst unto Jericho [p] and her king: only the spoil [q] thereof, and the cattle thereof, shall ye take for a prey unto yourselves: lay thee an ambush for the city behind it.

3 So Joshua arose, and all the people of war, to go up against Ai: and Joshua chose out thirty thousand mighty men of valour, and sent them away by night.

4 And he commanded them, saying, Behold, ye shall lie [s] in wait against the city, even behind the city: go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready;

5 And I and all the people that are with me, will approach unto the city: and it shall come to pass, when they come out against us, as at the first, [a] that we will flee before them,

6 (For they will come out after us,) till we have [1] drawn them from the city; for they will say, They flee before us, as at the first: therefore we will flee before them.

7 Then ye shall rise up from the ambush, and seize upon the city: for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand.

8 And it shall be, when ye have taken the city, that ye shall set the city on fire: according to the commandment of the LORD shall ye do. See, [t] I have commanded you.

9 Joshua therefore sent them forth: and they went to lie in ambush, and abode between Beth-el and Ai, on the west side of Ai: but Joshua lodged that night among the people.

10 And Joshua rose up early in the morning, and numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people to Ai.

11 And [i] all the people, even the people of war that were with him, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north side of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai.

12 And he took about five thousand men, and set them to lie in ambush between Beth-el and Ai, on the west [4] side of the city.

13 And when they had set the people, even all the host that was on the north of the city, and their [5] liers in wait on the west of the city, Joshua went that night into the midst of the valley.

14 And it came to pass, when the king of Ai saw it, that they hasted and rose up early, and the men of the city went out against Israel to battle, he and all his people, at a time appointed, before the plain; but he wist [o] not that there were liers in ambush against him behind the city.

15 And Joshua and all Israel made as if they were beaten before them, and fled by the way of the wilderness.

16 And all the people that were in Ai were called together to pursue after them: and they pursued after Joshua, and were drawn away from the city.

17 And there was not a man left in Ai or Beth-el that went not out after Israel: and they left the city open, and pursued after Israel.

18 And the LORD said unto Joshua, Stretch [r] out the spear that is in thy hand toward Ai; for I will give it into thine hand. And Joshua stretched out the spear that he had in his hand toward the city.

19 And the ambush arose quickly out of their place, and they ran as soon as he had stretched out his hand: and they entered into the city, and took it, and hasted, and set the city on fire.

20 And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they saw, and, behold, the smoke of the city ascended [c] up to heaven, and they had no power [1] to flee this way or that way: and the people that fled to the wilderness turned back upon the pursuers.

21 And when Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had taken the city, and that the smoke of the city ascended, then they turned again, and slew the men of Ai.

22 And the other issued out of the city against them; so they were in the midst of Israel, some on this side, and some on that side: and they smote them, so that they let none [f] of them remain or escape.

23 And the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joshua.

24 And it came to pass, when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderness wherein they chased them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the sword, until they were consumed, that all the Israelites returned unto Ai, and smote it with the edge of the sword.

25 And so it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thousand, even all the men of Ai.

26 For Joshua drew [l] not his hand back, wherewith he stretched out the spear, until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai.

27 Only [m] the cattle, and the spoil of that city, Israel took for a prey unto themselves, according unto the word of the LORD, which [n] he commanded Joshua.

28 And Joshua burnt [p] Ai, and made it an heap for ever, even a desolation, unto this day.

29 And the king [q] of Ai he hanged [r] on a tree until even-tide: and as soon [s] as the sun was down, Joshua commanded that they should take his carcass down from the tree, and cast it at the entering of the gate of the city, and [v] raise thereon a great heap of stones, that remaineth unto this day.

30 Then Joshua built an altar unto the LORD God of Israel in mount Ebal, [x]

31 As Moses the servant of the LORD commanded the children of Israel, as it is written [b] in the book of the law of Moses, An altar of whole stones, over which no man hath lift up any iron: and they offered thereon burnt-offerings unto the LORD, and sacrificed peace-offerings.

32 And [c] he wrote there upon the stones a copy of the law of Moses, which he wrote in the presence of the children of Israel.

33 And all Israel, and their elders, and officers, and their judges, stood on this side the ark and on that side, before the priests the Levites which [e] bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD as well the stranger [a] as he that was born among them; half of them over against mount Gerizim, and half of them over against mount Ebal; as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded [b] before, that they should bless the people of Israel.

34 And afterward he read [d] all the words of the law, the blessings [e] and cursings, according to all that is written in the book of the law.

35 There was not a word of all that Moses commanded which Joshua read not before all the congregation of Israel, with the women, and the little ones, and the strangers that [2] were conversant among them.

CHAP. IX.

AND it came to pass, when all the kings which were on this side Jordan, in the hills, and in the valleys, and in all the coasts of the [g] great sea over against Lebanon, the [h] Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite, heard thereof,

2 That they gathered [i] themselves together, to fight with Joshua and with Israel, with one [3] accord.

3 And when the inhabitants of [j] Gibeon heard [k] what Joshua had done unto Jericho and to Ai,

4 They did work wilily, and went and made as if they had been ambassadors; and took old sacks upon their asses, and wine-bottles, old, and rent, and bound up;

5 And old shoes and clouted upon their feet, and old garments upon them; and all the bread of their provision was dry and mouldy.

6 And they went to Joshua unto the [o] camp at Gilgal, and said unto him, and to the men of Israel, We be come from a far country: now therefore make ye a league with us.

7 And the men of Israel said unto the [t] Hivites, Peradventure ye dwell among us; and how shall we make a league [u] with you?

8 And they said unto Joshua, We are thy servants. [w] And Joshua said unto them, Who are ye? and from whence come ye?

9 And they said unto him, From a very far [y] country thy servants are [z] come, because of the name of the LORD thy God: for we have heard [a] the fame of him, and all that he did in Egypt,

10 And all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon king of Heshbon, and to Og king of Bashan, which was at Ashtaroth.

11 Wherefore [d] our elders and all the inhabitants of our country spake to us, saying, Take victuals [4] with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and say unto them, We are your servants: therefore now make ye a league with us.

came forth to go unto you; but now, behold, it is dry, and it is mouldy:

13 And these bottles of wine, which we filled, were new; and, behold, they be rent: and these our garments and our shoes are become old by reason of the very long journey.

14 And [1] the men took of their victuals, and asked not [d] counsel at [e] the mouth of the LORD.

15 And Joshua made peace [f] with them, and made a league with them, to let them live: and the princes of the congregation sware [h] unto them.

16 And it came to pass, at the end of three days after they had made a league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them.

17 And the children of Israel journeyed, and came unto their cities on the third day. Now their cities were Gibeon, [i] and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kirjath-jearim.

18 And the children of Israel smote them not, because the princes of the congregation had sworn [j] unto them by the LORD God of Israel. And all the congregation murmured against the princes.

19 But all the princes said unto all the congregation, We have sworn unto them by the LORD God of Israel: now, therefore, we may not touch them.

20 This we will do to them; we will even let them live; lest [m] wrath be upon us, because of the oath which we sware unto them.

21 And the princes said unto them, Let them live; but let them be hewers [n] of wood and drawers of water unto all the congregation; as the princes had promised [o] them.

22 And Joshua called for them, and he spake unto them, saying, Wherefore have ye beguiled us, saying, We are very far from you; when ye dwell among us?

23 Now therefore ye are cursed; [q] and there shall [3] none of you be freed from being bondmen, and hewers [s] of wood and drawers of water for the house of my God.

24 And they answered Joshua and said, Because it was certainly told thy servants, how that the LORD thy God commanded [u] his servant Moses to give you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you, therefore we were sore afraid [v] of our lives because of you, and have done this thing.

25 And now, behold, we are in [x] thine hand: as it seemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do.

26 And so did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, that they slew them not.

27 And Joshua [4] made them that day hewers of wood and drawers of water, for the congregation and for the altar of the LORD, even unto this day, in the [e] place which he should choose.

CHAP. X.

NOW it came to pass, when Adoni-zedec king of Jerusalem had heard how Joshua had taken Ai, and [b] had utterly destroyed it; as he had done to Jericho and her king, so he had done to Ai [c] and her king; and how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel, and were among them;

2 That they feared [g] greatly, because Gibeon was a great city, as one of the royal [2] cities, and because it was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty.

3 Wherefore Adoni-zedec king of Jerusalem sent unto Hoham king of Hebron, and unto Piram king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of Lachish, and unto Debir king of Eglon, saying,

4 Come up unto me, and help me, that we may smite Gibeon: for it hath made peace with Joshua and with the children of Israel.

5 Therefore the five kings of the Amorites, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon, [k] gathered themselves together, and went up, they and all their hosts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war against it.

6 And the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua to the camp [l] at Gilgal, saying, Slack not thy hand from thy servants; come up to us quickly, and save us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains are gathered together against us.

7 So Joshua ascended from Gilgal, he, and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour.

8 And the LORD said unto Joshua, Fear [p] them not; for I have delivered them into thine hand: there shall not a man of them stand before thee.

9 Joshua therefore came unto them suddenly, and went up from Gilgal all night.

10 And the LORD discomfited [r] them before Israel, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, [t] and chased them along the way that goeth up to Beth-horon, and smote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah.

11 And it came to pass, as they fled from before Israel, and were in the going down to Beth-horon, that the LORD cast down great stones [w] from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died: they were more which died with hailstones than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword.

12 Then spake Joshua to the LORD in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel, [5] Sun, stand thou still [y] upon Gibeon; and thou, Moon, in the valley of Ajalon. [z]

13 And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies. Is not this written in the book of [1] Jasher? [a] So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hasted not to [c] go down about a whole day.

14 And there was no day like that before it or after it, that the LORD hearkened unto the voice of a man: for the LORD fought [f] for Israel.

15 And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

16 But these five kings fled, and hid themselves in a cave [g] at Makkedah.

17 And it was told Joshua, saying, The five kings are found hid in a cave at Makkedah.

18 And Joshua said, Roll great [i] stones upon the mouth of the cave, and set men by it for to keep them:

19 And stay ye not, but pursue [k] after your enemies, and [2] smite the hindmost of them; suffer them not to enter into their cities: for the LORD your God hath delivered them into your hand.

20 And it came to pass, when Joshua and the children of Israel had made an end of slaying them with a very great slaughter, till they were consumed, that the rest which remained of them entered into [m] fenced cities.

21 And all the people returned to the camp to Joshua at Makkedah in peace: none moved his tongue [o] against any of the children of Israel.

22 Then said Joshua, Open the mouth of the cave and bring [q] out those five kings unto me out of the cave.

23 And they did so, and brought forth those five kings unto him out of the cave, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the king of Eglon.

24 And it came to pass, when they brought out those kings unto Joshua, that Joshua called for all the men of Israel, and said unto the captains of the men of war which went with him, Come near, put your feet [t] upon the necks [u] of these kings. And [w] they came near, and put their feet upon the necks of them.

25 And Joshua said unto them, Fear [x] not, nor be dismayed, be strong [y] and of good courage: for thus [z] shall the LORD do to all your enemies against whom ye fight.

26 And afterward Joshua smote them, and slew them, and hanged [b] them on five trees: and they were hanging upon the trees until the evening. [c]

27 And it came to pass at the time of the going down of the sun, that Joshua commanded, and they took them down off the trees, and cast them into the cave wherein they had been hid, and laid great stones in the cave's mouth, which remain until this very day.

28 And that day Joshua took Makkedah, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and the king thereof he utterly destroyed, [b] them, and all the souls that were therein; he let none remain: and he did to the king of Makkedah as he did [d] unto the king of Jericho.

29 Then Joshua passed from Makkedah, and all Israel with him, unto [e] Libnah, and fought against Libnah:

30 And the LORD delivered it also, and the king thereof, into the hand of Israel; and he smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein; he let none remain in it; but did unto the king thereof as [h] he did unto the king of Jericho.

31 And Joshua passed from Libnah, and all Israel with him, unto Lachish, [j] and encamped against it, and fought against it:

32 And the LORD delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, which took it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein, according to all that he had done [l] to Libnah.

33 Then Horam king of Gezer came up to help Lachish; and Joshua smote him and his people, until he had left him none remaining.

34 And from Lachish Joshua passed unto Eglon, [n] and all Israel with him; and they encamped against it, and fought against it:

35 And they took it on that day, and smote it with the edge of the sword; and all the souls that were therein he utterly destroyed that day, according to all [p] that he had done to Lachish.

36 And Joshua went up from Eglon, and all Israel with him, unto Hebron; [r] and they fought against it:

37 And they took it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and all the souls that were therein; he left none remaining, according to all [s] that he had done to Eglon; but destroyed it utterly, and all the souls that were therein.

38 And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, to Debir, [v] and fought against it:

39 And he took it, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof; and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and utterly destroyed all the souls that were therein; he left none remaining: as [a] he had done to Hebron, so he did to Debir, and to the king thereof; as he had done also to Libnah, and to her king.

40 So Joshua smote all the country of the hills, and of the south, and of the vale, and of the springs, and all their kings: he left none remaining, but utterly destroyed all that breathed, as the LORD God of Israel commanded. [d]

41 And Joshua smote them from Kadeshbarnea [e] even unto Gaza, [f] and all the country of Goshen [g] even unto Gibeon [h]

42 And all these kings and their land did Joshua take at one time, because [a] the LORD God of Israel fought for Israel.

43 And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

CHAP. XI.

AND it came to pass, when Jabin king of Hazor had heard those things, that he sent [c] to Jobab king of Madon, and to the king of Shimron, [e] and to the king of Achshaph,

2 And to the kings that were on the north of the mountains, and of the plains south of Chinneroth, [g] and in the valley, and in the borders of Dor, [h] on the west,

3 And to the Canaanite on the east and on the west, and to the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebusite in the mountains, and to the Hivite [j] under Hermon, [k] in the land of Mizpeh. [l]

4 And they went out, they and all their hosts with them, much people, even as the sand [n] that is upon the sea-shore in multitude, with horses and chariots very many.

5 And when all these kings were [4] met together, they came and pitched together at the waters of Merom, to fight against Israel.

6 And the LORD said unto Joshua, Be [r] not afraid because of them: for to-morrow about this time will I deliver them up all slain before Israel: thou shalt hough [t] their horses, [u] and burn their chariots [v] with fire.

7 So Joshua came, and all the people of war with him, against them by the waters of Merom suddenly; [w] and they fell upon them.

8 And the LORD [x] delivered them into the hand of Israel, who smote them, and chased them unto great [5] Zidon, and unto Misrephoth-maim, [6] and unto the valley of Mizpeh eastward; and they smote them, until they left them none remaining.

9 And Joshua did unto them as the [9] LORD bade him: he houghed their horses, and burnt [c] their chariots with fire.

10 And Joshua at that time turned back, and took Hazor, and smote the king thereof with the sword: for Hazor beforetime was the head of all those kingdoms.

11 And they smote all the souls that were therein with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying them: there was [7] not any left to breathe: and he burnt Hazor with fire.

12 And all the cities of those kings, and all the kings of them, did Joshua take, and smote them with the edge of the sword; and he utterly destroyed them, [h] as Moses the servant of the LORD commanded.

13 But as for the cities that stood still [8] in their strength, Israel burnt none of them, save Hazor only; that did Joshua burn.

14 And all the spoil of these cities, and the cattle, the children of Israel took for a prey unto themselves; but every man they smote with the edge of the sword, until they had destroyed them, neither left they any to breathe.

15 As the LORD commanded Moses his servant, so did Moses command Joshua, and so did Joshua; he [1] left nothing undone of all that the LORD commanded Moses.

16 So Joshua took all that land, the hills, [b] and all the south country, and all the land of Goshen, [d] and the valley, and the plain, and the mountain of Israel, and the valley of the same;

17 Even from [2] the mount Halak, [f] that goeth up to Seir, even unto Baal-gad, in the valley of Lebanon, under mount Hermon: and all their kings [i] he took, and smote them, and slew them.

18 Joshua made war a long time [3] with all those kings.

19 There was not a city that made peace with the children of Israel, save the Hivites, [m] the inhabitants of Gibeon: all other they took in battle.

20 For it was of [o] the LORD to [p] harden their hearts that they should come against Israel in battle, that he might destroy them utterly, and that they might have no favour, but that he might destroy them, as the LORD [q] commanded Moses.

21 And at that time came Joshua, and cut off the [s] Anakims from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel: Joshua destroyed them utterly with their cities.

22 There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Israel: only in Gaza, in Gath, [y] and in Ashdod, [z] there remained.

23 So Joshua took the whole land, according to all that the LORD said [a] unto Moses; and Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel, according to their divisions [b] by their tribes. And the land rested [d] from war.

CHAP. XII.

NOW these are the kings of the land, which the children of Israel smote, and possessed their land on the other side Jordan, toward the rising of the sun; from the river Arnon [f] unto mount Hermon, and all the plain on the east:

2 Sihon [g] king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and ruled from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and from the middle of the river, and from half Gilead, even unto the river Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon;

3 And from the plain to the sea of Chinneroth on the east, and unto the sea of the plain, even the salt sea on the east, the way to Beth-jeshimoth; and [9] from the south, under [10] Ashdoth-pisgah:

4 And the coast of Og [i] king of Bashan, which was of the [j] remnant of the giants, that dwelt [k] at Ashtaroth and at Edrei, [f] 2 Sa.3.3. 13.37,38.

3 From Sihor, [b] which is before Egypt, even unto the borders of Ekron northward, which is counted to the Canaanite: [c] five lords of the Philistines; the Gazathites, and the Ashdothites, the Eshkalonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites; also the [d] Avites:

4 From the south, all the land of the Canaanites, and [1] Mearah that is beside the Sidonians, unto Aphek, [f] to the borders [g] of the Amorites:

5 And the land of the Giblites, [h] and all Lebanon, toward the sun-rising, from Baal-gad [i] under mount Hermon unto the entering into Hamath:

6 All the inhabitants of the hill country, from Lebanon unto Misrephoth-maim, [j] and all the Sidonians, them will I drive [k] out from before the children of Israel: only [l] divide thou it by lot unto the Israelites for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee.

7 Now therefore divide this land for an inheritance unto the nine tribes and the half tribe of Manasseh,

8 With whom the Reubenites and the Gadites have received their inheritance, which Moses [q] gave them, beyond Jordan eastward, even as Moses the servant of the LORD gave them;

9 From Aroer, that is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the river, and all the plain of Medeba [r] unto Dibon;

10 And all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, unto the border of the children of Ammon;

11 And Gilead, [s] and the border of the Geshurites and Maachathites, and all mount Hermon, and all Bashan unto Salcah;

12 All the kingdom of Og in Bashan, which reigned in Ashtaroth and in Edrei, who remained of the remnant of the giants. for these [v] did Moses smite, and cast them out.

13 Nevertheless the children of Israel expelled not [x] the Geshurites, nor the Maachathites; but the Geshurites and the Maachathites dwell among the Israelites until this day.

14 Only unto the tribe of Levi he gave none [z] inheritance; the sacrifices [a] of the LORD God of Israel made by fire are their inheritance, as he said unto them.

15 And Moses gave unto the tribe of the children of Reuben inheritance according to their families:

16 And their coast was from [b] Aroer, that is on the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the river, and all the plain by Medeba;

17 Heshbon, [c] and all her cities that are in the plain; Dibon, and [4] Bamoth-baal, and Beth-baal-meon,

18 And Jahaza, [e] and Kedemoth, and Mephaath,

19 And Kirjathaim, and Sibmah, and

Zareth-shahar in the mount of the valley,
20 And Beth-peor, and [1] Ashdoth-pisgah, and Beth-jeshimoth,
21 And all [b] the cities of the plain, and all the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, whom Moses smote with the princes of Midian, [c] Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, which were dukes of Sihon, dwelling in the country.
22 Balaam [e] also the son of Beor, the soothsayer, [2] did the children of Israel slay with the sword among them that were slain by them.
23 And the border of the children of Reuben was Jordan, and the border thereof. This was the inheritance of the children of Reuben after their families, the cities and the villages thereof.
24 And Moses gave inheritance unto the tribe of Gad, even unto the children of Gad, according to their families:
25 And their coast was Jazer, [k] and all the cities of Gilead, and half the land of the children of Ammon, unto Aroer that is before Rabbah; [m]
26 And from Heshbon unto Ramath-mizpeh, and Betonim; and from Mahanaim unto the border of Debir;
27 And in the valley, Beth-aram, [q] and Beth-nimrah, and Succoth, [r] and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon king of Heshbon, Jordan and his border, even unto the edge of the sea of [u] Chinnereth, on the other side Jordan eastward.
28 This is the inheritance of the children of Gad after their families, the cities, and their villages.
29 And Moses gave inheritance unto the half tribe of Manasseh: and this was the possession of the half tribe of the children of Manasseh by their families:
30 And [w] their coast was from Mahanaim, all Bashan, all the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, and all the towns [x] of Jair, which are in Bashan, threescore cities;
31 And half Gilead, and [z] Ashtaroth, and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan, were pertaining unto the children of Machir the son of Manasseh, even to the one half of the children of Machir by their families.
32 These are the countries which Moses did distribute for inheritance in the plains of Moab, on the other side Jordan, by Jericho, eastward.
33 But [f] unto the tribe of Levi, Moses gave not any inheritance: the LORD God of Israel was their inheritance, as he said [g] unto them.

CHAP. XIV.

AND these are the countries which the children of Israel inherited in the land of Canaan, which Eleazar [h] the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, distributed for inheritance to them.
2 By lot [a] was their inheritance, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine tribes, and for the half tribe.
3 For Moses had given the inheritance of two tribes and an half tribe on the other side Jordan: but unto the Levites he gave none inheritance among them.
4 For the children of Joseph were [d] two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim: therefore they gave no part unto the Levites in the land, save cities [f] to dwell in, with their suburbs [g] for their cattle and for their substance.
5 As [h] the LORD commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did, and they divided the land.
6 Then the children of Judah came unto Joshua in Gilgal: and Caleb [i] the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite said unto him, Thou knowest the thing that the LORD said [j] unto Moses the man [l] of God concerning me and thee in Kadesh-barnea.
7 Forty years old was I when Moses the servant of the LORD sent [n] me from Kadesh-barnea to espy out the land; and I brought him word again as it was [o] in mine heart.
8 Nevertheless my brethren that went [p] up with me made the heart of the people melt: but I wholly [q] followed the LORD my God.
9 And Moses sware on that day, saying, Surely the land whereon [t] thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance, and thy children's for ever, because thou hast wholly followed the LORD my God.
10 And now, behold, the LORD hath kept me alive, as he said, [v] these forty and five years, even since the LORD spake this word unto Moses, while the children of Israel [3] wandered in the wilderness: and now, lo, I am this day fourscore and five years old.
11 As yet I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me: [y] as my strength was then, even so is my strength now, for war, both to [a] go out and to come in.
12 Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the LORD spake in that day; for thou heardest in that day how [b] the Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced: if [c] so be the LORD will be with me, then I shall be able to drive them out, as the LORD said.
13 And Joshua blessed [d] him, and [e] gave unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh, Hebron for an inheritance.
14 Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite unto this day, because that he wholly followed the LORD God of Israel.
15 And the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba; [i] which Arba [j] was a great man among the Anakims. And [k] the land had rest from war

CHAP. XV.

B. C. 1444.

THIS then was the lot [b] of the tribe of the children of Judah by their families, even [c] to the border of Edom; the wilderness of Zin southward was the uttermost part of the south coast.

2 And their south border was from the shore of the salt sea, from the bay [1] that looketh southward:

3 And it went out to the south side to Maaleh-acrabbim, [2] and passed along to Zin, and ascended up on the south side unto Kadesh-barnea; and passed along to Hezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compass to Karkaa:

4 From thence it passed toward Azmon, and went out unto the river of Egypt; and the goings out of that coast were at the sea: This shall be your south coast.

5 And the east border was the salt sea, even unto the end of Jordan. And their border in the north quarter was from the bay of the sea at the uttermost part of Jordan:

6 And the border went up to [j] Beth-hogla, and passed along by the north of Beth-arabah; and the border went up to the stone [k] of Bohan the son of Reuben:

7 And the border went up toward Debir from the valley of Achor, [l] and so northward, looking toward Gilgal, [m] that is before the going up to Adummim, which is on the south side of the river: and the border passed toward the waters of En-shemesh, and the goings out thereof were at [o] En-rogel:

8 And the border went up by the valley of the son of Hinnom [q] unto the south side of the Jebusite; the same is [r] Jerusalem: and the border went up to the top of the mountain that lieth before the valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the end of the valley of the giants [v] northward:

9 And the border was drawn from the top of the hill unto the fountain [x] of the water of Nephtoah, and went out to the cities of mount Ephron; and the border was drawn to Baalah, [z] which is Kirjath-jearim: [a]

10 And the border compassed from Baalah westward unto mount Seir, and passed along unto the side of mount Jearim, which is Chesalon, on the north side, and went down to Beth-shemesh, and passed on to Timnah: [d]

11 And the border went out unto the side of Ekron [e] northward: and the border was drawn to Shicron, and passed along to mount Baalah, and went out unto Jabneel; and the goings out of the border were at the sea.

12 And the west border was to the [i] great sea, and the coast thereof. This is the coast of the children of Judah round about, according to their families.

13 And unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh he gave a part among the children of Judah, according to the commandment of the LORD to Joshua, even [4] the city of Arba the father of Anak, which city is Hebron.

14 And Caleb drove thence the [a] three sons of Anak, Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the children of Anak.

15 And he went up thence to the inhabitants of Debir: [d] and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher.

16 And Caleb said, He [e] that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife.

17 And Othniel the son [f] of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife.

18 And it came to pass, as she came unto him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she [h] lighted off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What wouldest thou?

19 Who answered, Give me a [i] blessing; for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water. And he gave her the upper springs, and the nether springs.

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families.

21 And the uttermost cities of the tribe of the children of Judah, toward the coast of Edom southward, were Kabzeel, and Eder, and Jagur,

22 And Kinah, and Dimonah, and Adadah,

23 And Kedesh, and Hazor, and Ithnan,

24 Ziph, [n] and Telem, and Bealoth,

25 And Hazor, Hadattah, and Kerioth, and Hezron, which is Hazor,

26 Amam, and Shema, and Moladah,

27 And Hazar-gaddah, and Heshmon, and Beth-palet, [p]

28 And Hazar-shual, and Beer-sheba, and Bizjothjah,

29 Baalah, [s] and Iim, and Azem, [t]

30 And Eltolad, and Chesil, and Hormah,

31 And Ziklag, [u] and Madmannah, and Sansannah,

32 And Lebaoth, and Shilhim, and [w] Ain, and Rimmon: all the cities are twenty and nine, with their villages:

33 And in the valley, Eshtaol, [y] and Zoreah, and Ashnah,

34 And Zanoah, and En-gannim, Tappuah, and Enam,

35 Jarmuth, and Adullam, [b] Socoh, [c] and Azekah,

36 And Sharaim, and Adithaim, and Gederah, [3] and Geborothaim; fourteen cities with their villages:

37 Zenan, and Hadashah, and Migdalgad,

38 And Dilean, and Mizpeh, [f] and Jok theel, [g]

39 Lachish, [h] and Bozkath, and Eglon,

40 And Cabbon, and Lahmam, and Kithlish,

41 And Gederoth, Beth-dagon, and Naamah, and Makkedah; sixteen cities with their villages:

42 Libnah, [j] and Ether, and Ashan,

43 And Jiphtah, and Ashnah, and Nezib,

44 And Keilah, [k] and Achzib, [l] and Mareshah; nine cities with their villages:

45 Ekron [a] with her towns and her villages:
46 From Ekron even unto the sea, all that lay [1] near Ashdod, with their villages:
47 Ashdod [b] with her towns and her villages, Gaza with her towns and her villages, unto the river of Egypt, and the great sea, [d] and the border thereof:
48 And in the mountains, Shamir, and Jattir, and Socoh,
49 And Dannah, and Kirjath-sannah, which is Debir, [e]
50 And Anab, and Ashtemoh, and Anim,
51 And Goshen, [g] and Holon, and Giloh; eleven cities with their villages:
52 Arab, and Dumah, [h] and Eshean,
53 And [2] Janum, and Beth-tappuah, and Aphekah,
54 And Humtah, and [i] Kirjath-arba (which is Hebron,) and Zior; nine cities with their villages:
55 Maon, [l] Carmel, [m] and Ziph, and Juttah,
56 And Jezreel, and Jokdeam, and Zanoah,
57 Cain, Gibeah, and Timnah; ten cities with their villages:
58 Halhul, Beth-zur, and Gedor.
59 And Maarath, and Beth-anoth, and Eltekon; six cities with their villages:
60 Kirjath-baal [p] (which is Kirjath-jearim) and Rabbah; two cities with their villages:
61 In the wilderness, Beth-arabah, Middin, and Secacah,
62 And Nibshan, and the city of salt, and En-gedi; [q] six cities with their villages.
63 As for the Jebusites, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the children of Judah could not drive them out: but the [r] Jebusites dwell with the children of Judah at Jerusalem unto this day.

CHAP. XVI.

AND the lot of the children of Joseph fell [4] from Jordan by Jericho, unto the water of Jericho on the east, to the wilderness that goeth up from Jericho throughout mount Beth-el,
2 And goeth out from Beth-el to [u] Luz, and passeth along unto the borders of Archi to Ataroth,
3 And goeth down westward to the coast of Japhleti, unto the coast of [v] Beth-horon the nether, and to Gezer: [w] and the goings out thereof are at the sea.
4 So [y] the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, took their inheritance.
5 And the border of the children of Ephraim, according to their families, was thus; even the border of their inheritance on the east side was Ataroth-addar, unto Beth-horon the upper:
6 And the border went out toward the sea to Michmethah [z] on the north side; and the border went about eastward unto Taanath-shiloh, and passed by it on the east to Janohah·
7 And it went down from Janohah to Ataroth, and to Naarath, and came to Jericho, and went out at Jordan.
8 The border went out from Tappuah westward unto the river [c] Kanah; and the goings out thereof were at the sea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families.
9 And the separate cities for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manasseh, all the cities with their villages.
10 And [f] they drove not out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer: but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephraimites unto this day, and serve under tribute.

CHAP. XVII.

THERE was also a lot for the tribe of Manasseh, (for he was the first-born of Joseph); to wit, for Machir [k] the first-born of Manasseh, the father of Gilead; because he was a man of war, therefore he had Gilead [n] and Bashan.
2 There was also a lot for the rest [o] of the children of Manasseh by their families; for the children of [3] Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, and for the children of Asriel, and for the children of Shechem, and for the children of Hepher, and for the children of Shemida: these were the male children of Manasseh the son of Joseph by their families.
3 But Zelophehad the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, but daughters: and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.
4 And they came near before [t] Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua the son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, The LORD commanded Moses [t] to give us an inheritance among our brethren. Therefore, according to the commandment of the LORD, he gave them an inheritance among the brethren of their father.
5 And there fell ten portions to Manasseh, beside the land of Gilead and Bashan, which were on the other side Jordan;
6 Because the daughters of Manasseh had an inheritance among his sons: and the rest of Manasseh's sons had the land of Gilead.
7 And the coast of Manasseh was from Asher to Michmethah, [x] that lieth before Shechem; and the border went along on the right hand, unto the inhabitants of Entappuah.
8 Now Manasseh had the land of Tappuah: but Tappuah, on the border of Manasseh, belonged to the children of Ephraim.
9 And the coast descended unto the [5] river Kanah, southward of the river: these cities [a] of Ephraim are among the cities of Manasseh: the coast of Manasseh also was on the north side of the river, and the out-goings of it were at the sea:

10 Southward it was Ephraim's, and northward it was Manasseh's, and the sea is his border; and they met together in Asher on the north, and in Issachar on the east.

11 And [c] Manasseh had in Issachar, and in Asher, Beth-shean [d] and her towns, and Ibleam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of En-dor [f] and her towns, and the inhabitants [g] of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns, even three countries.

12 Yet [j] the children of Manasseh could not drive out the inhabitants of those cities; but the Canaanites would dwell in that land.

13 Yet it came to pass, when the children of Israel were waxen strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute; [k] but did not utterly drive them out.

14 And the children of Joseph spake unto Joshua, saying, Why hast thou given me but one lot and one portion to inherit, seeing I am a great people, forasmuch as the LORD hath blessed [m] me hitherto?

15 And Joshua answered them, If thou be a great people, then get thee up to the wood country, and cut down for thyself there in the land of the Perizzites and of the [l] giants, if mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee.

16 And the children of Joseph said, The hill is not enough for us: and all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley have chariots of iron, [p] both they who are of Beth-shean [q] and her towns, and they who are of the valley of Jezreel.[r]

17 And Joshua spake unto the house of Joseph, even to Ephraim and to Manasseh, saying, Thou art a great people, and hast great power; thou shalt not have one lot only:

18 But the mountain shall be thine; for it is a wood, and thou shalt cut it down: and the out-goings of it shall be thine: for [t] thou shalt drive out the Canaanites, though they have iron chariots, and though they be strong.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled together at Shiloh, [v] and set up the tabernacle [w] of the congregation there. And the land was subdued before them.

2 And there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes which had not yet received their inheritance.

3 And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, How long are ye slack [x] to go to possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers hath given you?

4 Give out from among you three men for each tribe: and I will send them, and they shall rise and go [b] through the land, and describe it, according to the inheritance of them; and they shall come again to me.

5 And they shall divide it into seven parts: Judah [a] shall abide in their coast on the south, and the house of [b] Joseph shall abide in their coasts on the north.

6 Ye shall therefore describe the land into seven parts, and bring the description hither to me, that I may cast [c] lots for you here before the LORD our God.

7 But the Levites [h] have no part among you; for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance: and [i] Gad, and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave them.

8 And the men arose, and went away: and Joshua charged them that went to describe the land, saying, Go and walk through [l] the land, and describe it, and come again to me, that I may here cast lots for you before the LORD in Shiloh.

9 And the men went, and passed through the land, and described it by cities, into seven [n] parts, in a book, and came again to Joshua to the host at Shiloh.

10 And Joshua cast lots [o] for them in Shiloh before the LORD: and there Joshua divided the land unto the children of Israel according to their divisions.

11 And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families: and the coast of their lot came up forth between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph.

12 And their border, on the north side, was from Jordan: and the border went up to the side of Jericho on the north side, and went up through the mountains westward, and the goings out thereof were at the wilderness of Beth-aven.

13 And the border went over from thence toward Luz, to the side of Luz, (which [s] is Beth-el,) southward; and the border descended to Ataroth-adar, near the hill that lieth on the south side of the nether Beth-horon.[u]

14 And the border was drawn thence, and compassed the corner of the sea southward, from the hill that lieth before Beth-horon southward; and the goings out thereof were at Kirjath-baal (which is Kirjath-jearim), a city of the children of Judah: this was the west quarter.

15 And the south quarter was from the end of Kirjath-jearim; [z] and the border went out on the west, and went out to the well of waters [y] of Nephtoah:

16 And the border came down to the end of the mountain that lieth before the valley of the son of Hinnom, [a] and which is in the valley of the giants on the north, and descended to the valley of Hinnom, to the side of Jebusi on the south, and descended to En-rogel,[c]

17 And was drawn from the north, and went forth to En-shemesh, and went forth toward Geliloth, which is over against the going up of Adummim, and descended to the stone [a] of Bohan the son of Reuben,

18 And passed along toward the side over against [1] Arabah northward, and went down unto Arabah:

19 And the border passed along to the side of Beth-hoglah northward: and the out goings of the border were at the north [2] bay of the salt sea, at the south end of Jordan: this was the south coast.

20 And Jordan was the border of it on the east side. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by the coasts thereof round about, according to their families.

21 Now the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, according to their families, were Jericho, and Beth-hoglah, and the valley of Keziz,

22 And Beth-arabah, and [j] Zemaraim, and Beth-el, [k]

23 And Avim, and Parah, and [l] Ophrah,

24 And Chephar-haammonai, and Ophni, and Gaba; twelve cities with their villages:

25 Gibeon, [m] and Ramah, [n] and Beeroth,

26 And Mizpeh, [o] and Chephirah, and Mozah,

27 And Rekem, and Irpeel, and Taralah,

28 And Zelah, Eleph, and Jebusi [r] (which is Jerusalem,) Gibeath, and Kirjath; fourteen cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, according to their families.

CHAP. XIX.

AND the second lot came forth to Simeon, even for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families: and their inheritance was [v] within the inheritance of the children of Judah.

2 And they had in their inheritance, Beer-sheba, [w] Sheba, and Moladah,

3 And [y] Hazar-shual, and Balah, and Azem,

4 And Eltolad, and Bethul, and [z] Hormah,

5 And Ziklag, [b] and Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-susah,

6 And Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen; thirteen cities and their villages:

7 Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Ashan; four cities and their villages:

8 And all the villages that were round about these cities, to Baalath-beer, Ramath [c] of the south. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families.

9 Out of the portion of the children of Judah was the inheritance of the children of Simeon: for the part of the children of Judah was too much [h] for them; [i] therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.

10 And the third lot came up for the children of Zebulun, according to their families: and the border of their inheritance was unto Sarid:

11 And their border went up toward the sea, [b] and Maralah, and reached to Dabbasheth, and reached to the river that is before Jokneam; [c]

12 And turned from Sarid eastward, toward the sun-rising, unto the border of Chisloth-tabor, [d] and then goeth out to Daberath, [e] and goeth up to Japhia,

13 And from thence passeth on along on the east to Gittah-hepher, [f] to Ittah-kazin, and goeth out to [3] Remmon-methoar to Neah:

14 And the border compasseth it on the north side to Hannathon: and the outgoings thereof are in the valley of Jiphthah-el:

15 And Kattath, and Nahallal, [g] and Shimron, [h] and Idalah, and [i] Beth-lehem: twelve cities with their villages.

16 This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun according to their families, these cities with their villages.

17 And the fourth lot came out to Issachar, for the children of Issachar according to their families.

18 And their border was toward Jezreel [o] and Chesulloth, and Shunem, [p]

19 And Haphraim, and Shihon, and Anaharath,

20 And Rabbith, and Kishion, and Abez,

21 And Remeth, and En-gannim, [s] and En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez;

22 And the coast reacheth to [t] Tabor, and Shahazimah, and Beth-shemesh: [u] and the outgoings of their border were at Jordan: sixteen cities, with their villages.

23 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar according to their families, the cities and their villages.

24 And the fifth lot came out for the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families.

25 And their border was Helkath, [x] and Hali, and Beten, and Achshaph,

26 And Alammelech, and Amad, and Misheal; and reacheth to Carmel [a] westward, and to Shihor-libnath;

27 And turneth toward the sun-rising to Beth-dagon, [c] and reacheth to Zebulun, and to the valley of Jiphthah-el, toward the north side of Beth-emek, and Neiel, and goeth out to Cabul on the left hand,

28 And Hebron, and Rehob, and Hammon, and Kanah, even unto great [d] Zidon

29 And then the coast turneth to Ramah and to the strong city [4] Tyre; and the coast turneth to Hosah; and the outgoings thereof are at the sea, from the coast to [f] Achzib:

30 Ummah also, and Aphek, [g] and Rehob: twenty and two cities with their villages.

31 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher [j] according to their families, these cities with their villages.

32 The sixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali, even for the children of Naphtali according to their families.

33 And their coast was from Heleph, from Allon to Zaananim, and Adami, Nekeb, and Jabneel, unto Lakum; and the out-goings thereof were at Jordan:

34 And then the coast turneth westward to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence o Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on he south side, and reacheth to Asher on the west [c] side, and to Judah upon Jordan toward the sun-rising.

35 And the fenced cities are Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath, Rakkath, and [d] Chinnereth,

36 And Adamah, and Ramah, and Hazor,

37 And Kedesh, and Edrei, and En-hazor,

38 And Iron, and Migdal-el, Horem, and Beth-anath, and [g] Beth-shemesh; nineteen cities with their villages.

39 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali according to their families, the cities and their villages.

40 And the seventh lot came out for the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families.

41 And the coast of their inheritance was Zorah, [h] and Eshtaol, [i] and Ir-shemesh,

42 And Shaalabbin, and Ajalon, [j] and Jethlah,

43 And Elon, and Thimnathah, and [m] Ekron,

44 And Eltekeh, and Gibbethon, [p] and Baalath,

45 And Jehud, and Bene-berak, and Gath-rimmon,

46 And Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, with the border [2] before [3] Japho.

47 And [t] the coast of the children of Dan went out too little for them; therefore the children of Dan went up to fight against Leshem, and took it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and possessed it, and dwelt therein, and called Leshem, Dan, after the name of Dan their father.

48 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages.

49 When they had made an end of dividing the land for inheritance by their coasts, the children of Israel gave an inheritance to Joshua the son of Nun among them:

50 According to the word of the LORD, they gave him the city which he asked, even Timnath-serah [z] in mount Ephraim: and he built the city, and dwelt therein.

51 These are the inheritances which Eleazar [a] the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, divided for an inheritance by lot in Shiloh [b] before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. So they made an end of dividing the country.

2 Speak to the children of Israel, saying, Appoint [a] out for you cities of refuge, whereof I spake unto you by the hand of Moses:

3 That the slayer that killeth any person unawares and unwittingly may flee thither: and they shall be your refuge from the avenger of blood.

4 And when he that doth flee unto one of those cities shall stand at the [b] entering of the gate of the city, and shall declare his cause in the ears of the elders of that city, they shall take him into the city unto them, and give him a place, that he may dwell [c] among them.

5 And if the avenger [f] of blood pursue after him, then they shall not deliver the slayer up into his hand; because he smote his neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not beforetime.

6 And he shall dwell in that city, until he stand before the congregation for judgment, and until the death of the high priest that shall be in those days: then shall the slayer return, and come unto his own city, and unto his own house, unto the city from whence he fled.

7 And they [1] appointed Kedesh [k] in Galilee in mount Naphtali, and Shechem [l] in mount Ephraim, and Kirjath-arba [n] (which is Hebron) in the mountain [o] of Judah.

8 And on the other side Jordan by Jericho eastward, they assigned Bezer [q] in the wilderness upon the plain out of the tribe of Reuben, and Ramoth [r] in Gilead out of the tribe of Gad, and Golan [s] in Bashan out of the tribe of Manasseh.

9 These were the cities appointed [u] for all the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourneth among them, that whosoever killeth any person at unawares might flee thither, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood, until he [v] stood before the congregation.

CHAP. XXI.

THEN came near the heads of the fathers of the Levites unto Eleazar [w] the priest, and unto Joshua the son of Nun, and unto the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel;

2 And they spake unto them at [x] Shiloh in the land of Canaan, saying, The LORD commanded [y] by the hand of Moses to give us cities to dwell in, with the suburbs thereof for our cattle.

3 And the children of Israel gave unto the Levites out of their inheritance, at the commandment of the LORD, these cities and their suburbs.

4 And the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites: and the children of Aaron [c] the priest, which were of the Levites, had by lot out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Benjamin, thirteen cities.

hath [a] had by lot, out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh, ten cities.

6 And the children of Gershon [b] had by lot, out of the families of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities.

7 The children of Merari, [d] by their families, had, out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

8 And the children of Israel gave [f] by lot unto the Levites these cities with their suburbs, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

9 And they gave out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, these cities which are here mentioned [1] by name,

10 Which the children of Aaron, being of the families of the Kohathites, who were of the children of Levi, had: for theirs was the first lot.

11 And they [h] gave them [2] the city of Arba the father [i] of Anak, which city is Hebron, in the hill [j] country of Judah, with the suburbs thereof round about it.

12 But the fields of the city, and the villages thereof, gave they to Caleb [k] the son of Jephunneh for his possession.

13 Thus [m] they gave to the children of Aaron the priest, Hebron with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Libnah with her suburbs,

14 And Jattir with her suburbs, and Eshtemoa with her suburbs,

15 And Holon [o] with her suburbs, and Debir with her suburbs.

16 And Ain [p] with her suburbs, and Juttah with her suburbs, and Beth-shemesh with her suburbs; nine cities out of those two tribes.

17 And out of the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon with her suburbs, Geba [q] with her suburbs, 18 Anathoth with her suburbs, and Almon [r] with her suburbs; four cities.

19 All the cities of the children of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities with their suburbs.

20 And the families of the children of Kohath, [s] the Levites which remained of the children of Kohath, even they had the cities of their lot out of the tribe of Ephraim.

21 For they gave them Shechem with her suburbs in mount Ephraim, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Gezer with her suburbs, 22 And Kibzain with her suburbs, and Beth-horon with her suburbs; four cities.

23 And out of the tribe of Dan, Eltekeh with her suburbs, Gibbethon with her suburbs, 24 Aijalon with her suburbs, Gath-rimmon with her suburbs; four cities.

25 And out of the half tribe of Manasseh, Tanach with her suburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her suburbs; two cities.

26 All the cities were ten, with their suburbs, for the families of the children of Kohath that remained.

27 And unto the children of Gershon, [c] of the families of the Levites, out of the other half tribe of Manasseh, they gave Golan [e] in Bashan with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Beeshterah with her suburbs; two cities.

28 And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kishon with her suburbs, Dabareh with her suburbs, 29 Jarmuth with her suburbs, En-gannim with her suburbs; four cities.

30 And out of the tribe of Asher, Mishal with her suburbs, Abdon with her suburbs

31 Helkath with her suburbs, and Rehob with her suburbs; four cities.

32 And out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh [g] in Galilee with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Hammoth-dor with her suburbs, and Kartan with her suburbs; three cities.

33 All the cities of the Gershonites, according to their families, were thirteen cities with their suburbs.

34 And unto the families of the children of Merari, [l] the rest of the Levites, out of the tribe of Zebulun, Jokneam with her suburbs, and Kartah with her suburbs, 35 Dimnah with her suburbs, Nahalal with her suburbs; four cities.

36 And out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer [n] with her suburbs, and Jahazah with her suburbs, 37 Kedemoth with her suburbs, and Mephaath with her suburbs; four cities.

38 And out of the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Mahanaim with her suburbs.

39 Heshbon with her suburbs; Jazer with her suburbs; four cities in all.

40 So all the cities for the children of Merari, by their families, which were remaining of the families of the Levites, were, by their lot, twelve cities.

41 All the cities of the Levites within the possession of the children of Israel were forty and eight [t] cities with their suburbs.

42 These cities were every one with their suburbs round about them: thus were all these cities.

43 And the LORD gave unto Israel all the land which he sware [u] to give unto their fathers: and they possessed it, and dwelt therein.

44 And [v] the LORD gave them rest round about, according to all that he sware unto their fathers: and [w] there stood not a man of all their enemies before them the LORD delivered all their enemies into their hand.

45 There [a] failed not aught of any good thing which the LORD had spoken unto the house of Israel; all came to pass.

CHAP. XXII.

THEN Joshua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh,

2 And said unto them, Ye have kept all that Moses [c] the servant of the LORD commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I [d] commanded you:

3 Ye have not left your brethren these many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God.

4 And now the LORD your God hath given rest unto your brethren, as he promised them: therefore now return ye, and get you unto your tents, and unto the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave you [f] on the other side Jordan.

5 But take [g] diligent heed to do the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of the LORD charged you, to [i] love the LORD your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave [k] unto him, and to serve [l] him with all your heart and with all your soul.

6 So Joshua blessed [n] them, and sent them away: and they went unto their tents.

7 Now, to the one half of the tribe of Manasseh, Moses had given possession in Bashan; but [p] unto the other half thereof gave Joshua among their brethren on this side Jordan westward. And when Joshua sent them away also unto their tents, then he blessed them;

8 And he spake unto them, saying, Return with much riches [r] unto your tents, and with very much cattle, with silver, and with gold, and with brass, and with iron, and with very much raiment; divide [t] the spoil of your enemies with your brethren.

9 And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh, returned, and departed from the children of Israel out of Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go unto the country of Gilead, [u] to the land of their possession, whereof they were possessed, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

10 And when they came unto the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh, built there an altar by Jordan, a great altar [z] to see to.

11 And the children of Israel heard [b] say, Behold, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh, have built an altar over against the land of Canaan, in the borders of Jordan, at the passage of the children of Israel.

12 And when the children of Israel heard of it, the whole congregation of the children of Israel gathered themselves together at Shiloh, to go up to war against them.

13 And the children of Israel sent unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manasseh, into the land of Gilead, [b] Phinehas, the son of Eleazar the priest;

14 And with him ten princes, of [1] each chief house a prince throughout all the tribes of Israel; and each one was an head [e] of the house of their fathers among the thousands of Israel.

15 And they came unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manasseh, unto the land of Gilead; and they spake with them, saying,

16 Thus saith the whole congregation of the LORD, What trespass is this that ye have committed against the God of Israel, to turn away this day from following the LORD, in that ye have builded you an altar, that ye might rebel [h] this day against the LORD?

17 Is the iniquity of Peor [j] too little for us, from which we are not cleansed until this day, although there was a plague in the congregation of the LORD,

18 But that ye must turn away this day from following the LORD? and [m] it will be, seeing ye rebel to-day against the LORD, that to-morrow he will be [o] wroth with the whole congregation of Israel.

19 Notwithstanding, if the land of your possession be unclean, then pass ye over unto the land of the possession of the LORD, wherein the LORD's tabernacle dwelleth, [q] and take possession among us: but rebel not against the LORD, nor rebel against us, in building you an altar, beside the altar of the LORD our God.

20 Did not Achan [s] the son of Zerah commit a trespass in the accursed thing, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Israel? and that man perished not alone in his iniquity.

21 Then the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manasseh, answered and said unto the heads of the thousands of Israel,

22 The LORD God [v] of gods, the LORD God of gods, he knoweth, [w] and Israel [x] he shall know; if it be in rebellion, [y] or if in transgression against the LORD, (save us not this day,)

23 That we have built us an altar to turn from following the LORD, or if to offer thereon burnt-offering or meat-offering, or if to offer peace-offerings thereon, let the LORD himself require [a] it.

24 And if we have not rather done it for fear of this thing, saying, [2] In time to come your children might speak unto our children, saying, What have ye to do with the LORD God of Israel?

25 For the LORD hath made Jordan a border between us and you; ye children of Reuben, and children of Gad, ye [a] have no part in the LORD: so shall your children make our children cease [b] from fearing the LORD.

26 Therefore we said, Let us now prepare to build us an altar, not for burnt-offering, nor for sacrifice:

27 But that it may be a witness [c] between us and you, and our generations after us, that we might do the service of the LORD before [f] him with our burnt-offerings, and with our sacrifices, and with our peace-offerings; that your children may not say to our children in time to come, Ye have no part in the LORD.

28 Therefore said we, that it shall be, when they should so say to us, or to our generations in time to come, that we may say again, Behold the pattern [j] of the altar of the LORD, which our fathers made, not for burnt-offerings, nor for sacrifices; but it is a witness between us and you.

29 God forbid [m] that we should rebel against the LORD, and turn this day from following the LORD, to build an altar for burnt-offerings, for meat-offerings, or for sacrifices, beside the altar of the LORD our God that is before his tabernacle.

30 And when Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the congregation, and heads of the thousands of Israel which were with him, heard the words that the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh, spake, it [4] pleased them.

31 And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest said unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the children of Manasseh, This day we perceive that the LORD is among [t] us, because ye have not committed this trespass against the LORD: [6] now ye have delivered the children of Israel out of the hand of the LORD.

32 And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and the princes, returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought them word [x] again.

33 And the thing pleased the children of Israel; and the children of Israel [z] blessed God, and did not intend to go up against them in battle, to destroy the land wherein the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.

34 And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, called the altar [7] Ed: for it shall be a witness between us that the LORD is God.

CHAP. XXIII.

AND it came to pass a long time after that the LORD had given rest [b] unto Israel from all their enemies round about, that Joshua waxed old [d] and [8] stricken in age.

2 And Joshua called [e] for all Israel, and for their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and said unto them, I am old and stricken in age:

3 And ye have seen all that the LORD your God hath done unto all these nations because of you: for the LORD [c] your God is he that hath fought for you.

4 Behold, I have divided [d] unto you by lot these nations that remain, to be an inheritance for your tribes, from Jordan, with all the nations that I have cut off, even unto the great sea [1] westward.

5 And the LORD your God, he [g] shall expel them from before you, and drive them from out of your sight; and ye shall possess their land, as the LORD your God hath promised [h] unto you.

6 Be ye therefore very courageous, [i] to keep and to do all that is written in the book of the law of Moses, that [k] ye turn not aside therefrom to the right hand or to the left;

7 That [l] ye come not among these nations, these that remain among you; neither make mention [n] of the name of their gods, nor cause to swear [o] by them, neither serve them, nor bow yourselves unto them:

8 [2] But cleave [p] unto the LORD your God, as ye have done unto this day.

9 [3] For the LORD hath driven out from before you great nations and strong: but as for you, no man hath been able to stand before you unto this day.

10 One [q] man of you shall chase a thousand: for the LORD your God, he it is that fighteth for you, as [r] he hath promised you.

11 Take good heed therefore unto [5] yourselves, that ye love the LORD your God.

12 Else if ye do in any wise go back, [s] and cleave unto the remnant of these nations, even these that remain among you, and shall make marriages [u] with them, and go in unto them, and they to you:

13 Know for a certainty that the LORD your God will no more [v] drive out any of these nations from before you; but they shall be snares [w] and traps unto you, and scourges in your sides, and thorns in your eyes, until ye perish from off [y] this good land which the LORD your God hath given you.

14 And, behold, this day I am going the way of all the earth; and ye know in all your hearts, and in all your souls, [a] that not one thing hath failed of all the good things which the LORD your God spake concerning you; all are come to pass unto you, and not one thing hath failed thereof.

15 Therefore it shall come to pass that as all good things are come upon you, which the LORD your God promised you; so shall the LORD bring upon you [c] all evil things, until he have destroyed you from off this good land which the LORD your God hath given you.

16 When ye have transgressed the covenant of the LORD your God, which he commanded you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed yourselves to them; then shall the anger [d] of the LORD be kindled against you, and ye shall perish quickly from off the good land which he hath given unto you.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to Shechem, and called [h] for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers; and they presented [j] themselves before God.

2 And Joshua said unto all the people, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Your fathers [l] dwelt on the other side of the flood in old time, even Terah, the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and they served other gods.

3 And I took [n] your father Abraham from the other side of the flood, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and gave him [o] Isaac.

4 And [p] I gave unto Isaac, Jacob and Esau: and I gave unto Esau [q] mount Seir, to possess it: but Jacob [r] and his children went down into Egypt.

5 I sent Moses also and Aaron, and I plagued [s] Egypt, according to that which I did among them: and afterward I brought you out.

6 And I brought your fathers out of Egypt: and [u] you came unto the sea: and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with chariots and horsemen unto the Red sea.

7 And when they cried unto the LORD, he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea upon them, and covered them: and your eyes have seen what I have done in Egypt: and ye dwelt in the wilderness a long [b] season.

8 And I brought you into the land of the Amorites, which dwelt on the other side Jordan; and [c] they fought with you: and I gave them into your hand, that ye might possess their land; and I destroyed them from before you.

9 Then Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, arose and warred against Israel, and sent [h] and called Balaam the son of Beor to curse you:

10 But [j] I would not hearken unto Balaam; therefore he blessed you still: so I delivered you out of his hand.

11 And [k] ye went over Jordan, and came unto Jericho: and the men of [l] Jericho fought against you, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites: and I delivered them into your hand.

12 And I sent the hornet [n] before you, which drave them out from before you, even the two kings of the Amorites; but not [a] with thy sword, nor with thy bow

13 And I have given [b] you a land for which ye did not labor, and cities [c] which ye built not, and ye dwell in them; of the vineyards and olive yards which ye planted not, do ye eat.

14 Now [e] therefore fear the LORD, and serve him in sincerity [f] and in truth: and put away [g] the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and in Egypt; and serve ye the LORD.

15 And if it seem evil unto you to serve the LORD, choose [i] you this day whom ye will serve; whether [k] the gods which your fathers served, that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but [m] as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD.

16 And the people answered and said, God forbid that we should forsake the LORD, to serve other gods;

17 For the LORD our God, he it is that brought us up, and our fathers, out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and which did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we passed:

18 And the LORD drave out from before us all the people, even the Amorites which dwelt in the land: therefore [t] will we also serve the LORD; for he is our God.

19 And Joshua said unto the people, Ye cannot [v] serve the LORD: for [w] he is an holy God; he is a jealous [x] God; he [y] will not forgive your transgressions nor your sins

20 If [z] ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt, and consume you, after [a] that he hath done you good.

21 And the people said unto Joshua, Nay, but we will serve the LORD.

22 And Joshua said unto the people, Ye [d] are witnesses against yourselves that ye have chosen [e] you the LORD, to serve him And they said, We are witnesses.

23 Now therefore put [f] away, said he, the strange gods which are among you, and incline your heart [g] unto the LORD God of Israel.

24 And the people said [i] unto Joshua, The LORD our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey.

25 So Joshua made a covenant with the people that day, and set them a statute and an ordinance in Shechem.

26 And Joshua wrote these words in the book of the law of God, and took a great stone, and set it up there [m] under an oak, that was by the sanctuary of the LORD.

27 And Joshua said unto all the people, Behold, this stone shall be a witness unto us; for it hath heard [o] all the words of the LORD which he spake unto us: it shall [a] be therefore a witness unto you, lest ye deny your God.

28 So Joshua let the people depart, every man unto his inheritance.

29 And it came to pass after these things, that Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, being an hundred and ten years old.

33 And Eleazar, the son of Aaron, died; and they buried him in a hill that pertained to Phineas his son, which was given him in mount Ephraim.

The Book of JUDGES.

CHAP. I.

NOW, after the death [b] of Joshua, it came to pass, that the children of Israel [c] asked the LORD, saying, Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites first, to fight against them?

2 And the LORD said, Judah [d] shall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand.

3 And Judah said unto Simeon his brother, Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites; and I likewise will go with thee [e] into thy lot. So Simeon went with him.

4 And Judah went up; and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand: and they slew of them in Bezek [h] ten thousand men.

5 And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek; and they fought against him, and they slew the Canaanites and the Perizzites.

6 But Adoni-bezek fled: and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs and his great toes.

7 And Adoni-bezek said, Threescore and ten kings, having [1] their thumbs and their great toes cut off, gathered [2] their meat under my table: as [n] I have done, so God hath requited me. And they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

8 Now the children of Judah had [q] fought against Jerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire.

9 And afterward [r] the children of Judah went down to fight against the Canaanites, that dwelt in the mountain, and in the south, and in the [4] valley.

10 And Judah went against the Canaanites that dwelt in [w] Hebron, (now the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba,) and they slew Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai.

11 And from thence he went against the inhabitants of Debir; (and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher:)

12 And [a] Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife.

13 And Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, took it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife.

14 And it came to pass, when she came to him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted from off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What wilt thou?

15 And she said unto him, Give me a blessing: [f] for thou hast given me a south land, give me also springs of water. And Caleb gave her the upper springs and the nether springs.

16 And the children of the [g] Kenite, Moses' father-in-law, went up out of the [i] city of palm-trees with the children of Judah into the wilderness of Judah, which lieth in the south of [j] Arad: and [k] they went and dwelt among the people.

17 And Judah [l] went with Simeon his brother, and they slew the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it: (And the name of the city was called Hormah.[m])

18 Also Judah took Gaza [o] with the coast thereof, and Askelon with the coast thereof, and Ekron with the coast thereof.

19 And the LORD [p] was with Judah, and he drave [3] out the inhabitants of the mountain, but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had chariots [s] of iron.

20 And they gave Hebron [t] unto Caleb, as Moses said: [u] and he expelled thence the three sons of Anak.

21 And the children of Benjamin [v] did not drive out the Jebusites that inhabited Jerusalem; but the Jebusites dwell with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem unto this day.

22 And the house of Joseph, they also went up against Beth-el: and the [x] LORD was with them

23 And the house of Joseph sent to descry [b] Beth-el: (Now the name of the city before was Luz.[c])

24 And the spies saw a man come forth out of the city; and they said unto him, Shew us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city, and we [g] will shew thee mercy.

25 And when he shewed them the entrance into the city, they smote the city with the edge of the sword; but they let go the man and all his family.

26 And the man went into the land of the [h] Hittites, and built a city, and called the name thereof Luz: which is the name thereof unto this day.

27 Neither did Manasseh [j] drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shean and her towns, nor Taanach and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns: but the Canaanites would [k] dwell in that land.

28 And it came to pass, when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute, and did not utterly drive them out.

29 Neither did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer; [m] but the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them.

30 Neither did Zebulun drive out the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the inhabitants of Nahalol;[n] but the Canaanites dwelt among them, and became tributaries.

31 Neither did Asher [p] drive out the inhabitants of Accho, nor the inhabitants of Zidon, nor of Ahlab, nor of Achzib, nor of Helbah, nor of Aphik, nor of Rehob:

32 But the Asherites dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land; for they did [r] not drive them out.

33 Neither did Naphtali [s] drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh, nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath; but he dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: nevertheless the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh and of Beth-anath became tributaries [v] unto them.

34 And the Amorites forced the children of Dan into the mountain: for they would not suffer them to come down to the valley:

35 But the Amorites would dwell in mount Heres in Aijalon, [y] and in Shaalbim: yet the hand of the house of Joseph [3] prevailed, so that they became tributaries.

36 And the coast of the Amorites was from [4] the going up to Akrabbim, from the rock, and upward.

CHAP. II.

AND an [6] angel of the LORD came up from Gilgal to Bochim, [c] and said, I made you to go up out of Egypt, and have brought you unto the land which I sware unto your fathers; and I said, [e] I will never break my covenant with you.

2 And [f] ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land; ye [g] shall throw down their altars: but [a] ye have not obeyed my voice: why have ye done this?

3 Wherefore I also said, I will not drive them out from before you; but they shall be as thorns [d] in your sides, and their gods [e] shall be a snare [f] unto you.

4 And it came to pass, when the Angel of the LORD spake these words unto all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voice, and wept.

5 And they called the name of that place [1] Bochim, and they sacrificed there unto the LORD.

6 And when [i] Joshua had let the people go, the children of Israel went every man unto his inheritance to possess the land.

7 And the people served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that [2] outlived Joshua, who had seen all the great works of the LORD, that he did for Israel.

8 And Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, being an hundred and ten years old.

9 And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in Timnath-heres, [l] in the mount of Ephraim, on the north side of the hill Gaash.

10 And also all that generation were gathered unto their fathers: and there arose another generation after them, which knew [o] not the LORD, nor yet the works which he had done for Israel.

11 And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and served Baalim:

12 And they forsook [q] the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed other gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and bowed [t] themselves unto them, and provoked the LORD to anger.

13 And they forsook the LORD, and served Baal and Ashtaroth.

14 And the anger [u] of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he delivered [w] them into the hands of spoilers that spoiled them, and he sold [x] them into the hands of their enemies round about, so that they could not any longer stand before their enemies.

15 Whithersoever [z] they went out, the hand of the LORD was against them for evil, as the LORD had said, and as the LORD had sworn unto them: and they were greatly distressed.

16 Nevertheless the LORD raised up judges, [a] which [5] delivered [b] them out of the hand of those that spoiled them.

17 And yet they would not hearken unto their judges, but they went a whoring [d] after other gods, and bowed themselves unto them: they turned quickly out of the way which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandments of the LORD; but they did not so

18 And when the LORD raised them up judges, then [b] the LORD was with the judge, and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge: for it repented [d] the LORD because of their groanings, by reason of them that oppressed them and vexed them.

19 And it came to pass, when [f] the judge was dead, that they returned and corrupted [4] themselves more than their fathers, in following other gods to serve them, and to bow down unto them: [5] they ceased not from their own doings, nor from their stubborn way.

20 And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel; and he said, Because [g] that this people hath transgressed my covenant which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice,

21 I also will not henceforth drive out any from before them of the nations which Joshua left when he died;

22 That through them I may prove [i] Israel, whether they will keep the way of the LORD, to walk therein, as their fathers did keep it, or not.

23 Therefore the LORD [6] left those nations, without driving them out hastily; neither delivered he them into the hand of Joshua.

CHAP. III.

NOW these are the nations which the LORD left, to prove Israel by them; (even as many of Israel as had not known all the wars of Canaan;

2 Only that the generations of the children of Israel might know to teach them war, at the least such as before knew nothing thereof;)

3 Namely, five [l] lords of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Sidonians, and the Hivites that dwelt in mount Lebanon, from mount Baal-hermon unto the entering in of Hamath.

4 And they were to prove Israel by them, to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

5 And the children of Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites:

6 And they took [n] their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons, and served their gods.

7 And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and forgat the LORD their God, and served Baalim and the groves.

8 Therefore the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he sold them into the hand of [o] Chushan-rishathaim king of [12] Mesopotamia: and the children of Israel served Chushan-rishathaim eight years.

9 And when the children of Israel [a] cried unto the LORD, the LORD raised up a deliverer [1] to the children of Israel, who delivered them, even Othniel [c] the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother.

10 And the Spirit [e] of the LORD [2] came upon him, and he judged Israel, and went out to war: and the LORD delivered Chushan-rishathaim king of [3] Mesopotamia into his hand; and his hand prevailed against Chushan-rishathaim.

11 And the land had rest forty years: and Othniel the son of Kenaz died.

12 And the children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the LORD: and the LORD strengthened Eglon the king of Moab against Israel, because they had done evil in the sight of the LORD.

13 And he gathered unto him the children of Ammon and Amalek, and went and smote Israel, and possessed the [h] city of palm-trees.

14 So the children of Israel served [j] Eglon the king of Moab eighteen years.

15 But when the children of Israel cried unto the LORD, the LORD raised them up a deliverer, Ehud the son of Gera, a Benjamite, [7] a man left-handed: [8] and by him the children of Israel sent a present unto Eglon the king of Moab.

16 But Ehud made him a dagger, which had two edges, of a cubit length; and he did gird it under his raiment upon his right thigh.

17 And he brought the present unto Eglon king of Moab: and Eglon was a very fat [k] man.

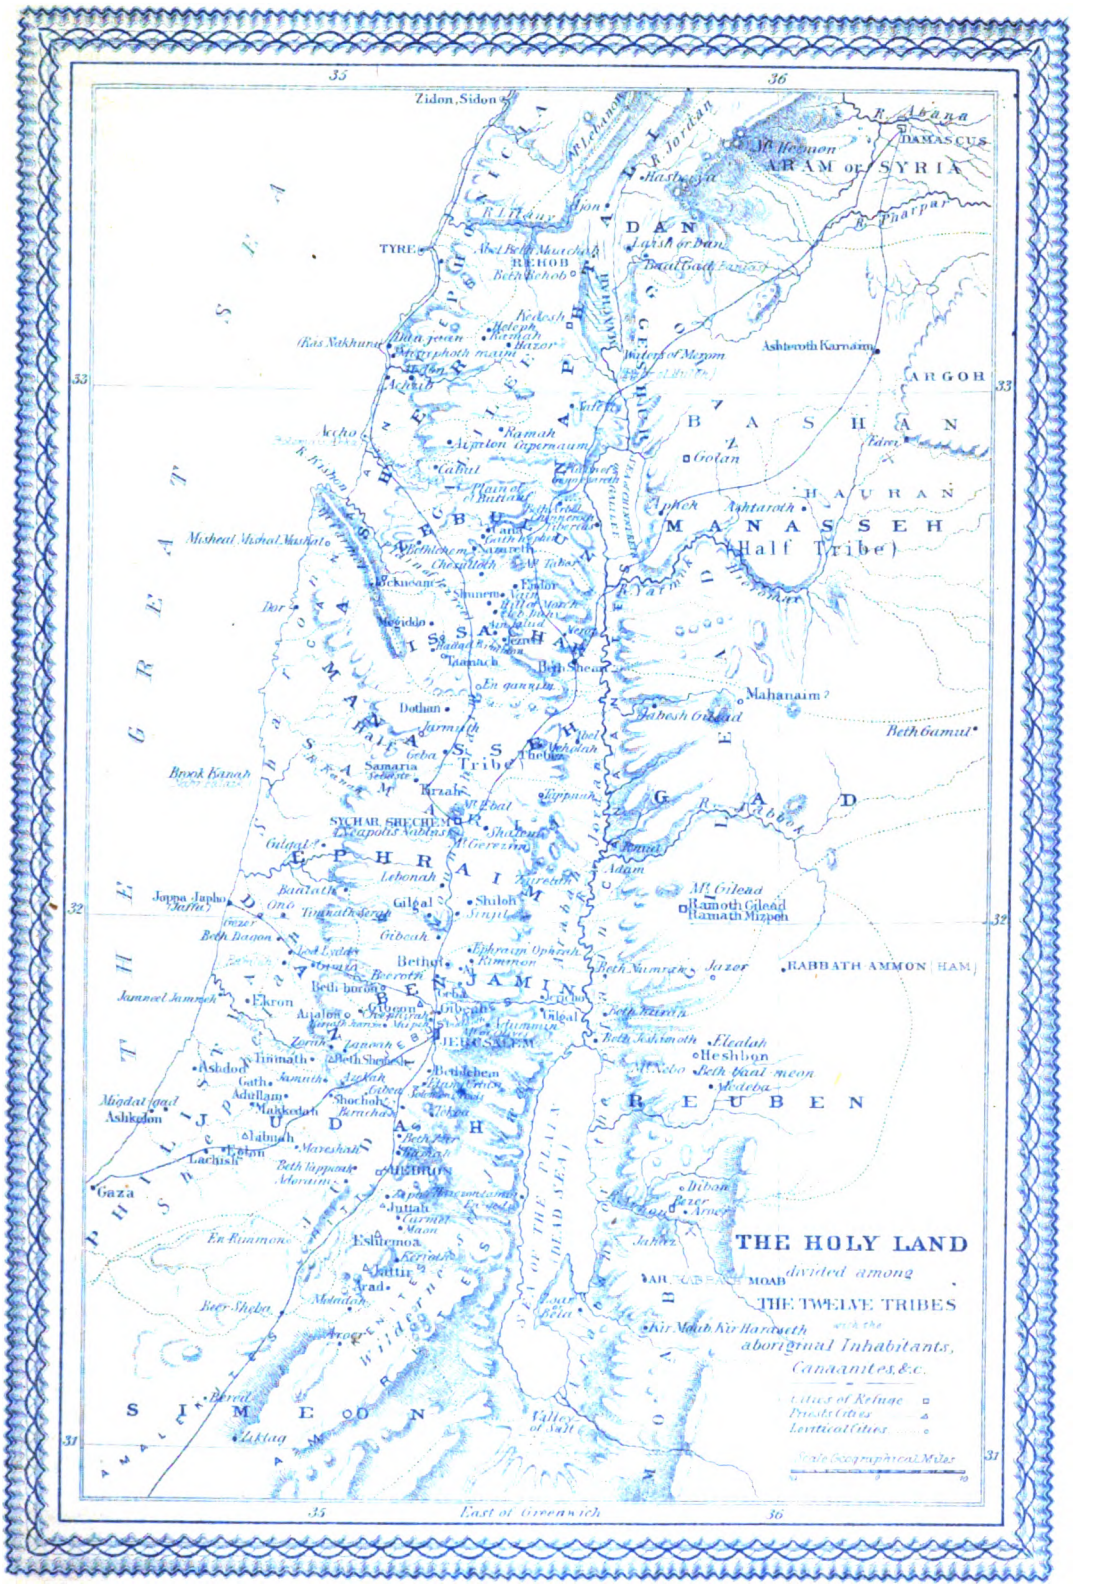
18 And when he had made an end to offer the present, he sent away the people that bare the present.

19 But himself turned again from the quarries [9] that [m] were by Gilgal, and said, I have a secret errand unto thee, O king: who said, Keep silence. And all that stood by him went out from him.

20 And Ehud came unto him; and he was sitting in [10] a summer parlour, which he had for himself, alone: and Ehud said, I have a message from God unto thee. And he arose out of his seat.

21 And Ehud put forth his left hand, and took the dagger from his right thigh, and thrust it into his belly.

22 And the haft also went in after the blade; and the fat closed upon the blade, so that he could not draw the dagger out of his belly; and [11] the dirt came out.



23 Then Ehud went forth through the porch, and shut the doors of the parlour upon him, and locked them.

24 When he was gone out, his servants came; and when they saw that, behold, the doors of the parlour were locked, they said, Surely he [13] covereth his feet in his summer chamber.

25 And they tarried till they were ashamed; and, behold, he opened not the doors of the parlour: therefore they took a key, and opened them: and, behold, their lord was fallen down dead on the earth.

26 And Ehud escaped while they tarried, and passed beyond the quarries, [a] and escaped unto Seirath.

27 And it came to pass, when he was come, that he blew [b] a trumpet in the mountain [c] of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went down with him from the mount, and he before them.

28 And he said unto them, Follow after me; for the LORD hath delivered [d] your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they went down after him, and took the fords of Jordan toward Moab, and suffered not a man to pass over.

29 And they slew of Moab at that time about ten thousand men, all [2] lusty, and all men of valour; and there escaped not a man.

30 So Moab was subdued that day under the hand of Israel. And the land had rest fourscore years.

31 And after him was Shamgar [e] the son of Anath, which slew of the Philistines six hundred men with [m] an ox-goad: and he also delivered Israel. [n]

CHAP. IV.

AND the children of Israel again [o] did evil in the sight of the LORD, when Ehud was dead.

2 And the LORD sold [p] them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, that reigned in Hazor; [q] the captain of whose host was Sisera, which dwelt in Harosheth [r] of the Gentiles.

3 And the children of Israel cried unto the LORD; for he had nine hundred chariots [s] of iron: and twenty years he mightily oppressed the children of Israel.

4 And Deborah a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, she judged Israel at that time.

5 And she dwelt under the palm-tree of Deborah, [w] between Ramah and Beth-el in mount Ephraim; and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment.

6 And she sent and called Barak, the son of Abinoam, out of Kedesh-naphtali, and said unto him, Hath not the LORD God of Israel commanded, saying, Go, and draw toward mount Tabor, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali and of the children of Zebulun?

7 And I [y] will draw unto thee, to the river Kishon, [z] Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude; and I will deliver him into thine hand.

8 And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then I will go; but if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go.

9 And she said, I will surely go with thee; notwithstanding the journey that thou takest shall not be for thine honour; for the LORD shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman. [a] And Deborah arose, and went with Barak to Kedesh.

10 And [b] Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh; and he went up with ten thousand men at his feet: and Deborah went up with him.

11 Now Heber the Kenite, [d] which was of the children of Hobab, [f] the father-in-law of Moses, had severed himself from the Kenites, and pitched his tent unto the plain of Zaanaim, [h] which is by Kedesh.

12 And they shewed Sisera that Barak the son of Abinoam was gone up to mount Tabor.

13 And Sisera [1] gathered together all his chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the Gentiles unto the river of Kishon.

14 And Deborah said unto Barak, Up; for this is the day in which the LORD hath delivered Sisera into thine hand: [j] is not the LORD gone out before thee? So Barak went down from mount Tabor, and ten thousand men after him.

15 And the LORD [l] discomfited Sisera, and all his chariots, and all his host, with the edge of the sword, before Barak; [o] so that Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet.

16 But Barak pursued after the chariots, and after the host, unto Harosheth of the Gentiles: and all the host of Sisera fell upon the edge of the sword; and [t] there was not [3] a man left.

17 Howbeit, Sisera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite.

18 And [v] Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in to me; fear not; and when he had turned in unto her into the tent, she covered him with a [4] mantle.

19 And he said unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink; for I am thirsty: and she opened a bottle of milk, [v] and gave him drink, and covered him.

20 Again he said unto her, Stand in the door of the tent; and it shall be, when any man doth come and inquire of thee, and say, Is there any man here? that thou shalt say, No.

21 Then Jael, Heber's wife, took a nail of the tent, and [5] took an hammer in her hand, and went softly unto him, and smote the nail into his temples, [a] and fastened it into the ground: (for he was fast asleep, and weary:) so he died.

22 And, behold, as Barak pursued Sisera, Jael came out to meet him, and said unto him, Come, and I will shew thee the man whom thou seekest. And when he

CHAP. V.

THEN [d] sang Deborah, and Barak the son of Abinoam, on that day, saying,

2 Praise ye the LORD for the [c] avenging of Israel, when the people willingly [f] offered themselves.

3 Hear, [h] O ye kings; give ear, O ye princes: I, even I, will sing unto the LORD; I will sing praise to the LORD God of Israel.

4 LORD, when [k] thou wentest out of Seir, when thou marchedst out of the field of Edom, the [m] earth trembled, and the heavens dropped, the clouds also dropped water.

5 The mountains [7] melted [n] from before the LORD, even that Sinai [o] from before the LORD God of Israel.

6 In the days of Shamgar [p] the son of Anath, in the days of Jael, [q] the [r] highways were unoccupied, and the [9] travellers walked through [10] by-ways.

7 The inhabitants of the villages ceased, they ceased in Israel, until that I Deborah arose, that I arose a mother in Israel.

8 They chose new [u] gods; then was war in the gates: was [w] there a shield or spear seen among forty thousand in Israel?

9 My heart is toward the governors of Israel, that offered [x] themselves willingly among the people. Bless ye the LORD.

10 Speak, [12] ye [y] that ride on white asses, ye that sit in judgment, and walk by the way.

11 They that are delivered from the noise of archers in the places of drawing water, there shall they rehearse [z] the [15] righteous acts [b] of the LORD, even the righteous acts toward the inhabitants of his villages in Israel: then shall the people of the LORD go down to the gates.

12 Awake, [c] awake, Deborah; awake, awake, utter a song: arise, Barak, and lead [e] thy captivity captive, thou son of Abinoam.

13 Then he made him that remaineth have dominion over the nobles among the people: the LORD [f] made me have dominion over the mighty.

14 Out of Ephraim was there a root of them against Amalek; after thee, Benjamin, among thy people: out of Machir came down governors, and out of Zebulun they that [18] handle the pen of the writer.

15 And the princes of Issachar were with Deborah; even Issachar, and also Barak: he was sent on [19] foot into the valley. For [20] the divisions of Reuben there were great [22] thoughts of heart.

16 Why abodest thou among the sheepfolds, to hear the bleatings of the flocks? For [1] the divisions of Reuben there were great searchings [b] of heart.

17 Gilead abode beyond Jordan: and why did Dan remain in ships? Asher continued on the [3] sea-shore, and abode in his [4] breaches.

18 Zebulun and Naphtali were a people that [5] jeoparded their lives unto [c] the death in the high places of the field.

19 The kings came and fought; then fought the kings of Canaan in Taanach by the waters of Megiddo: they [g] took no gain of money.

20 They fought from heaven; [i] the stars in their [6] courses fought against Sisera.

21 The river of Kishon [j] swept them away, that ancient river, the river Kishon. O my soul, thou hast [l] trodden down strength.

22 Then were the horse-hoofs broken by the means of the [8] prancings, the prancings of their mighty ones.

23 Curse ye Meroz, said the Angel of the LORD; curse ye bitterly the inhabitants thereof; because [s] they came not to the [t] help of the LORD, to the help of the LORD against the mighty.

24 Blessed above women shall Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite be; blessed shall she be above women in the tent.

25 He [v] asked water, and she gave him milk; she brought forth butter in a lordly dish.

26 She put her hand to the nail, and her right hand to the workman's hammer; and with [11] the hammer she smote Sisera; she smote off his head, when she had pierced and stricken through his temples.

27 At [13] her feet he bowed, he fell, he lay down: at her feet he bowed, he fell; where he bowed, there he fell down [14] dead.

28 The mother of Sisera looked out at a window, and cried through the [a] lattice, Why is his chariots so long in coming? why tarry the wheels of his chariots?

29 Her wise ladies answered her, yea, she returned [16] answer to herself,

30 Have they not sped? have [d] they not divided the prey; to [17] every man a damsel or two? to Sisera a prey of divers colours, a prey of divers colours of needle-work, of divers colours of needle-work on both sides, meet for the necks of them that take the spoil?

31 So let all thine enemies perish, [g] O LORD: but let them that love him be as the sun [h] when he goeth forth in his [i] might. And the land had rest forty years.

anites the children of Israel made them the dens [a] which are in the mountains, and caves, and strong holds.

3 And so it was, when Israel had sown, that the Midianites came up, and the Amalekites, and the children of the east, even they came up against them;

4 And they encamped against them, and destroyed [c] the increase of the earth, till thou come unto Gaza; and left no sustenance for Israel, neither [3] sheep, nor ox, nor ass.

5 For they came up with their cattle, and their tents, and they came as grasshoppers [d] for multitude: for both they and their camels were without number: and they entered into the land to destroy it.

6 And Israel was greatly impoverished because of the Midianites; and the children of Israel cried [f] unto the LORD.

7 And it came to pass, when the children of Israel cried unto the LORD because of the Midianites,

8 That the LORD sent [4] a prophet unto the children of Israel, which said unto them, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, I brought you up from Egypt, and brought you forth out of the house of bondage;

9 And I delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all that oppressed you, and drave [i] them out from before you, and gave you their land:

10 And I said unto you, I am the LORD your God; fear [j] not the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but ye have not obeyed my voice.

11 And there came an angel of the LORD, and sat under an oak which was in Ophrah, that pertained unto Joash the Abi-ezrite: and his son Gideon [l] threshed wheat by the wine-press, to hide [9] it from the Midianites.

12 And the angel [m] of the LORD appeared unto him, and said unto him, The LORD is with thee, thou mighty man of valour.

13 And Gideon said unto him, Oh, my LORD, if [n] the LORD be with us, why then is all this befallen us? and where [o] be all his miracles which our fathers told us of, saying, Did not the LORD bring us up from Egypt? but now the LORD hath forsaken us and delivered us into the hands of the Midianites.

14 And the LORD looked upon him, and said, Go in this thy might, [p] and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites: have not I sent thee?

15 And he said unto him, Oh my LORD, wherewith shall I save Israel? behold, [10] my family is poor in Manasseh, and I am the least [q] of my father's house.

16 And the LORD said unto him, [r] Surely I will be with thee, and [s] thou shalt smite the Midianites as one man.

17 And he said unto him, If now I have found grace in thy sight, then shew [t] me a sign that thou talkest with me.

18 Depart [b] not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my present, [1] and set it before thee. And he said, I will tarry until thou come again.

19 And Gideon went in, and made ready a kid, [2] and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour: the flesh he put in a basket, and he put the broth in a pot, and brought it out unto him under the oak, and presented it.

20 And the angel of God said unto him, Take the flesh and the unleavened cakes, and lay them upon this rock, and pour out the broth. And he did so.

21 Then the angel of the LORD put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and touched the flesh and the unleavened cakes; and [e] there rose up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh and the unleavened cakes. Then the angel of the LORD departed out of his sight.

22 And when Gideon perceived that he was an angel of the LORD, Gideon said, Alas, O Lord GOD! for because [g] I have seen an angel of the LORD face to face.

23 And the LORD said unto him, Peace be unto thee; fear not: thou [h] shalt not die.

24 Then Gideon built an altar there unto the LORD, and called it [5] Jehovah-shalom: unto this day it is yet in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

25 And it came to pass the same night, that the LORD said unto him, Take thy father's young bullock, [6] even the second bullock of seven years old, and throw down the altar of Baal that thy father hath, and cut down [k] the grove that is by it:

26 And build an altar unto the LORD thy God upon the top of this [7] rock, in [8] the ordered place, and take the second bullock, and offer a burnt sacrifice with the wood of the grove which thou shalt cut down.

27 Then Gideon took ten men of his servants, and did as the LORD had said unto him: and so it was, because he feared his father's household, and the men of the city, that he could not do it by day, that he did it by night.

28 And when the men of the city arose early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baal was cast down, and the grove was cut down that was by it, and the second bullock was offered upon the altar that was built.

29 And they said one to another, Who hath done this thing? And when they inquired and asked, they said, Gideon the son of Joash hath done this thing.

30 Then the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring out thy son, that he may die: because he hath cast down the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the grove that was by it.

31 And Joash said unto all that stood against him, Will ye plead for Baal? wil' ye save him? he that will plead for him, let him be put to death whilst it is yet morning: if he be a god, let him plead for himself, because one hath cast down his altar.

32 Therefore on that day he called him [1] Jerubbaal, [a] saying, Let Baal plead against him, because he hath thrown down his altar

33 Then all [b] the Midianites and the Amalekites and the children of the east were gathered together, and went over, and pitched in the valley of Jezreel.

34 But [c] the Spirit of the LORD [2] came upon Gideon, and he blew [d] a trumpet, and Abi-ezer was [3] gathered after him.

35 And he sent messengers throughout all Manasseh; who also was gathered after him: and he sent messengers unto Asher, and unto Zebulun, and unto Naphtali; and they came up to meet them.

36 And Gideon said unto God, If thou wilt save Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said, 37 Behold, I [f] will put a fleece of wool in the floor; and if the dew be on the fleece only, and it be dry upon all the earth beside, then shall I know that thou wilt save Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said.

38 And it was so: for he rose up early on the morrow, and thrust the fleece together, and wringed the dew out of the fleece, a bowl-full of water.[i]

39 And Gideon said unto God, Let [j] not thine anger be hot against me, and I will speak but this once: Let me prove, I pray thee, but this once with the fleece; let it now be dry only upon the fleece; and upon all the ground let there be dew.

40 And God [m] did so that night: for it was dry upon the fleece only, and there was dew on all the ground.

CHAP. VII.

THEN Jerubbaal, [o] (who is Gideon,) and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and pitched beside the well of Harod: so that the host of the Midianites were on the north side of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the valley.

2 And the LORD said unto Gideon, The people that are with thee are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel vaunt [q] themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand hath saved me.

3 Now, therefore, go to, proclaim in the ears of the people, saying, Whosoever [r] is fearful and afraid, let him return, and depart early from mount Gilead: and there returned of the people twenty and two thousand, and there remained ten thousand.

4 And the LORD said unto Gideon, The people are yet too many; [s] bring them down unto the water, and I will try them for thee there: and it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, This shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say unto thee, This shall not go with thee, the same shall not go.

5 So he brought down the people unto the water: and the LORD said unto Gideon, Every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue, as a dog lappeth, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink.

6 And the number of them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men: but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water.

7 And the LORD said unto Gideon, [e] By the three hundred men that lapped will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his place.

8 So the people took victuals in their hand, and their trumpets: and he sent all the rest of Israel, every man unto his tent, and retained those three hundred men. And the host of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

9 And it came to pass the same [g] night, that the LORD said unto him, Arise, get thee down unto the host; for [h] I have delivered it into thine hand.

10 But if thou fear to go down, go thou with Phurah thy servant down to the host:

11 And [k] thou shalt hear [l] what they say; and afterward shall thine hands be strengthened to go down unto the host. Then went he down with Phurah his servant unto the outside of the [4] armed men that were in the host.

12 And the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and all the children of the east, lay along in the valley like grasshoppers [n] for multitude; and their camels were without number, as the sand by the sea-side for multitude.

13 And when Gideon was come, behold, there was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and said, Behold, I dreamed a dream, and, lo, a cake [p] of barley-bread tumbled into the host of Midian, and came unto a tent, and smote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent lay along.

14 And his fellow answered and said, This is nothing else save the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel: for into his hand hath God delivered Midian, and all the host.

15 And it was so, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream, and the [5] interpretation thereof, that he worshipped, and returned into the host of Israel, and said, Arise; for the LORD hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian.

16 And he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and he put trumpet in every man's hand, with empty pitchers, and [1] lamps within the pitchers.

17 And he said unto them, Look on me, and do likewise: and, behold when I come to the outside of the camp, it shall be, that as I do, so shall ye do.

18 When I blow with a trumpet, I and all that are with me, then blow ye the trumpets also on every side of all the camp, and say, The sword of the LORD, and of Gideon.

19 So Gideon, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outside of the camp, in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly set [c] the watch: and they blew the trumpets, [e] and brake the pitchers [f] that were in their hands.

20 And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held their lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal: and they cried, The sword of the LORD, and of Gideon.

21 And they stood [i] every man in his place round about the camp: and [k] all the host ran, and cried, and fled.

22 And the three hundred blew [l] the trumpets, and the LORD [m] set every man's sword against his [n] fellow even throughout all the host: and the host fled to Beth-shittah in [4] Zererath, and to [5] the border of Abel-meholah, unto Tabbath.

23 And the men of Israel gathered themselves together out of Naphtali, and out of Asher, and out of all Manasseh, and pursued after the Midianites.

24 And Gideon sent messengers throughout all mount Ephraim, [r] saying, Come down against the Midianites, and take before them the waters unto Beth-barah and Jordan. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered themselves together, and took the waters unto Beth-barah [s] and Jordan.

25 And they took [t] two princes of the Midianites, Oreb and Zeeb; and they slew Oreb upon the rock Oreb, and Zeeb they slew at the wine-press of Zeeb, and pursued Midian, and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon on the other side Jordan.

CHAP. VIII.

AND the men [v] of Ephraim said unto him, [8] Why hast thou served us thus, that thou calledst us not when thou wentest to fight with the Midianites? and they did chide with him [10] sharply.

2 And he said unto them, What have I done now in comparison of you? Is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abi-ezer?

3 God hath delivered into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb: and what was I able to do in comparison of you? Then their [12] anger was abated toward [y] him, when he had said that.

4 And Gideon came to Jordan, and passed over, he, and the three hundred men that were with him, faint, yet pursuing them.

5 And he said unto the men of [a] Succoth, Give, I pray you, loaves of bread unto the people that follow me; for they be faint, and I am pursuing after Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian.

6 And the princes of Succoth said, [b] Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we should give bread unto thine army?

7 And Gideon said, Therefore, when the LORD hath delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into my hand, then [d] I will [2] tear your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness and with briers.

8 And he went up thence to Penuel, [g] and spake unto them likewise: and the men of Penuel answered him as the men of Succoth had answered him.

9 And he spake also unto the men of Penuel, saying, When I come [h] again in peace, I [j] will break down this tower.

10 Now Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor, and their hosts with them, about fifteen thousand men, all that were left of all the hosts of the children of the east: for there fell [3] an hundred and twenty thousand men that drew sword.

11 And Gideon went up by the way of them that dwelt in tents, on the east of Nobah [o] and Jogbehah, and smote the host: for the host was secure. [p]

12 And when Zebah and Zalmunna fled, he pursued after them, and took [q] the two kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and [6] discomfited all the host.

13 And Gideon, the son of Joash, returned from battle before the sun was up,

14 And caught a young man of the men of Succoth, and enquired of him: and he described [7] unto him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, even threescore and seventeen men.

15 And he came unto the men of Succoth, and said, Behold Zebah and Zalmunna, with whom [u] ye did upbraid me, saying, Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we should give bread unto thy men that are weary?

16 And he took the elders of the city, and thorns of the wilderness and briers, and with them he [9] taught the men of Succoth

17 And he beat down the [w] tower of Penuel, and slew the men of the city.

18 Then said he unto Zebah and Zalmunna, What manner of men were they whom ye slew at Tabor? [x] And they answered, As thou art, so were they; each one [11] resembled the children of a king.

19 And he said, They were my brethren, even the sons of my mother: as the LORD liveth, if ye had saved them alive, I would not slay you.

20 And he said unto Jether his first-born, Up, and slay them: but the youth drew not his sword: for he feared, because he was yet a youth.

21 Then Zebah and Zalmunna said, Rise thou, and fall upon us: for as the man is, so is his strength. And Gideon arose, and slew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took away the ornaments [1] that were on their camels' necks.

22 Then the men of Israel said unto Gideon, Rule thou over us, both thou and thy son, and thy son's son also; for thou hast delivered us from the hand of Midian.

23 And Gideon said unto them, I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you: the LORD [d] shall rule over you.

24 And Gideon said unto them, I would desire a request of you, that ye would give me every man the ear-rings of his prey: (for they had golden ear-rings, because they were Ishmaelites.[e])

25 And they answered, We will willingly give them. And they spread a garment, and did cast therein every man the ear-rings of his prey.

26 And the weight of the golden ear-rings that he requested was a thousand and seven hundred shekels of gold, beside ornaments, and [4] collars, and purple raiment that was on the kings of Midian, and beside the chains that were about their camels' necks.

27 And Gideon made [i] an ephod thereof, and put it in his city, even in Ophrah: [j] and all Israel went thither a [k] whoring after it: which thing became a [l] snare unto Gideon, and to his house.

28 Thus was Midian subdued before the children of Israel, so that they lifted up their heads no more: and the country was in quietness forty years in the days of Gideon.

29 And Jerubbaal, the son of Joash, went and dwelt in his own house.

30 And Gideon had [p] threescore and ten sons [6] of his body begotten: for he had many wives.

31 And his concubine, that was in Shechem, she also bare him a son, whose name he [8] called Abimelech.[q]

32 And Gideon, the son of Joash, died in a good [r] old age, and was buried in the sepulchre of Joash his father, in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

33 And it came to pass, as soon [s] as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel turned again, and went a whoring after Baalim, and made Baal-berith [w] their god.

34 And the children of Israel remembered not [y] the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hands of all their enemies on every side:

35 Neither [w] shewed they kindness to the house of Jerubbaal, namely Gideon, according to all the goodness which he had shewed unto Israel.

CHAP. IX.

AND Abimelech, the son of Jerubbaal, went to Shechem [a] unto his mother's brethren, and communed with them, and with all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying,

2 Speak, I pray you in the ears of all the men of Shechem, [2] Whether is better for you either that all the sons of Jerubbaal, which are [b] threescore and ten persons, reign over you, or that one reign over you? remember also that I am your bone [c] and your flesh.

3 And his mother's brethren spake of him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all these words: and their hearts inclined [3] to follow Abimelech; for they said, He is our brother.

4 And they gave him threescore and ten pieces of silver out of the house of Baal-berith, [f] wherewith Abimelech hired [g] vain and light persons, which followed him.

5 And he went unto his father's house at Ophrah, and slew [h] his brethren, the sons of Jerubbaal, being threescore and ten persons, upon one stone: notwithstanding, yet Jotham, the youngest son of Jerubbaal, was left: for he hid himself.

6 And all the men of Shechem gathered together, and all the house of Millo, and went and made Abimelech king, by the plain [5] of the pillar that was in Shechem.

7 And when they told it to Jotham, he went and stood in the top of mount Gerizim, [m] and lifted up his voice, and cried, and said unto them, Hearken unto me, ye men of Shechem, that God may hearken unto you.

8 The trees [n] went forth on a time to anoint a king over them: and they said unto the olive-tree, Reign thou over us.

9 But the olive-tree said unto them, Should I leave my fatness, [o] wherewith by me they honour God and man, and go [7] to be promoted over the trees?

10 And the trees said to the fig-tree, Come thou, and reign over us.

11 But the fig-tree said unto them, Should I forsake my sweetness, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the trees?

12 Then said the trees unto the vine, Come thou, and reign over us.

13 And the vine said unto them, Should I leave my wine, which [t] cheereth God and man, and go to be promoted over the trees?

14 Then said all the trees unto the [9] bramble, Come thou, and reign over us.

15 And the bramble said unto the trees, If in truth ye anoint me king over you, then come and put your trust in my shadow; [x] and if not, let fire [y] come out of the bramble, and devour the cedars [a] of Lebanon.

16 Now therefore, if ye have done truly and sincerely in that ye have made Abimelech king, and if ye have dealt well with Jerubbaal and his house, and have done unto him according to the deserving of his hands;

17 (For my father [b] fought for you, and [3] adventured his life far, and delivered you out of the hand of Midian;

18 And ye [c] are risen up against my father's house this day, and have slain his sons, threescore and ten persons, upon one stone, and have made Abimelech, the [d] son of his maid-servant, king over the men of Shechem, because he is your brother;)

19 If ye then have dealt truly and sincerely with Jerubbaal and with his house this day, then rejoice [e] ye in Abimelech, and let him also rejoice in you;

20 But if not, let [f] fire come out from Abimelech, and devour the men of Shechem, and the house of Millo; and let fire come out from the men of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and devour Abimelech.

21 And Jotham ran away, and fled, and went to Beer, [g] and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

22 When Abimelech had reigned three years over Israel,

23 Then God sent [h] an evil spirit between Abimelech and the men of Shechem; and the men of Shechem [i] dealt treacherously with Abimelech:

24 That [k] the cruelty done to the threescore and ten sons of Jerubbaal might come, and their blood be laid upon Abimelech their brother, which slew them; and upon the men of Shechem, which aided [7] him in the killing of his brethren.

25 And the men of Shechem set liers in wait for him in the top of the mountains, and they robbed all that came along that way by them: and it was told Abimelech.

26 And Gaal, the son of Ebed, came with his brethren, and went over to Shechem: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him.

27 And they went out into the fields, and gathered their vineyards, and trode the grapes, and made [8] merry, and went into the house [l] of their god, and did eat and drink, and cursed Abimelech.

28 And Gaal, the son of Ebed, said, Who is [m] Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we should serve him? is not he the son of Jerubbaal? and Zebul his officer? serve the men of Hamor, [n] the father of Shechem; for why should we serve him?

29 And would [o] to God this people were under my hand! then would I remove Abimelech. And he said to Abimelech, Increase thine army, and come out.

30 And when Zebul, the ruler of the city, heard the words of Gaal, the son of Ebed, his anger was [1] kindled.

31 And he sent messengers unto Abimelech [2] privily, saying, Behold, Gaal, the son of Ebed, and his brethren, be come to Shechem; and, behold, they fortify the city against thee.

32 Now, therefore, up by night, thou and the people that is with thee, and lie in wait in the field.

33 And it shall be, that in the morning, as soon as the sun is up, thou shalt rise early, and set upon the city: and, behold, when he and the people that is with him come out against thee, then mayest thou do to them as [4] thou shalt find occasion.

34 And Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with him, by night, and they laid wait against Shechem in four companies.

35 And Gaal, the son of Ebed, went out, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city: and Abimelech rose up, and the people that were with him, from lying in wait.

36 And when Gaal saw the people, he said to Zebul, Behold, there come people down from the top of the mountains. And Zebul said unto him, Thou seest the shadow of the mountains as if they were men.

37 And Gaal spake again, and said, See, there come people down by the [5] middle of the land, and another company come along by the plain of [6] Meonenim.

38 Then said Zebul unto him, Where is now thy mouth, wherewith thou saidst, Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him? Is not this the people that thou hast despised? go out, I pray now, and fight with them.

39 And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech.

40 And Abimelech chased him, and he fled before him; and many were overthrown and wounded, even unto the entering of the gate.

41 And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah: and Zebul thrust out Gaal and his brethren, that they should not dwell in Shechem.

42 And it came to pass on the morrow that the people went out into the field: and they told Abimelech.

43 And he took the people, and divided them into three companies, and laid wait in the field, and looked, and, behold the people were come forth out of the city; and he rose up against them, and smote them.

44 And Abimelech, and the company that was with him, rushed forward, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city: and the two other companies ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and slew them.

45 And Abimelech fought against the city all that day: and [p] he took the city, and slew the people that was therein and beat down [q] the city, and sowed it with salt

46 And when all the men of the tower of Shechem heard that, they entered into an hold of the house of the god Berith.[b]

47 And it was told Abimelech that all the men of the tower of Shechem were gathered together.

48 And Abimelech gat him up to mount Zalmon, [d] he and all the people that were with him; and Abimelech took an axe in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, and took it, and laid it on his shoulder, and said unto the people that were with him, What ye have seen [2] me do, make haste, and do as I have done.

49 And all the people likewise cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put them to the hold, and set the hold on fire upon them; so that all the men of the tower of Shechem died also, about a thousand men and women.

50 Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and encamped against Thebez, and took it.

51 But there was a strong tower within the city, and thither fled all the men and women, and all they of the city, and shut it to them, and gat them up to the top of the tower.

52 And Abimelech came unto the tower, and fought against it, and went hard unto the door of the tower to burn it with fire.

53 And [l] a certain woman cast a piece of a millstone upon Abimelech's head, and all-to break his skull.

54 Then [n] he called hastily unto the young man his armour-bearer, and said unto him, Draw thy sword, and slay me, that men say not of me, A woman slew him. And his young man thrust him through, and he died.

55 And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they departed every man unto his place.

56 Thus God rendered [r] the wickedness of Abimelech, which he did unto his father, in slaying his seventy brethren.

57 And all the evil of the men of Shechem did God render upon their heads: and upon them came the curse [t] of Jotham the son of Jerubbaal.

CHAP. X.

AND after Abimelech there arose, to defend [7] Israel, Tola the son of Puah, the son of Dodo, a man of Issachar; and he dwelt in Shamir in mount Ephraim.

2 And he judged Israel twenty and three years, and died, and was buried in Shamir.

3 And after him arose Jair a Gileadite, and judged Israel twenty and two years.

4 And he had thirty sons that rode [x] on thirty ass-colts, and they had thirty cities, which [y] are called [9] Havoth-jair unto this day, which are in the land of Gilead.

5 And Jair died, and was buried in Camon.

6 And [a] the children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the LORD, and served Baalim, and Ashtaroth, and the gods of Syria, and the gods of [a] Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the children of Ammon, and the gods of the Philistines, and forsook the LORD, and served not him.

7 And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he sold [c] them into the hands of the Philistines, and into the hands of the children of Ammon.

8 And that year they vexed and [1] oppressed the children of Israel eighteen years, all the children of Israel that were on the other side Jordan, in the land of the Amorites, which is in Gilead;

9 (Moreover, the children of Ammon passed over Jordan to fight also against Judah, and against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim;) so that Israel was sore distressed.[e]

10 And the children of Israel cried unto the LORD, saying, We have sinned against thee, both because we have forsaken our God, and also served Baalim.

11 And the LORD said unto the children of Israel, Did not I deliver you from the Egyptians, [f] and from the Amorites, [g] from the children of Ammon, [h] and from the Philistines?

12 The Zidonians [i] also, and the Amalekites, [j] and the Maonites, did oppress [k] you; and ye cried to me, and I delivered you out of their hand.

13 Yet ye have forsaken me, [m] and served other gods: wherefore I will deliver you no more.

14 Go and cry unto the gods which ye have chosen; let them [o] deliver you in the time of your tribulation.

15 And the children of Israel said unto the LORD, We have sinned; do thou [p] unto us whatsoever [3] seemeth good unto thee, deliver us only, we pray thee, this day.

16 And they put away [q] the [4] strange gods from among them, and served the LORD: and his soul was [5] grieved [s] for the misery of Israel.

17 Then the children of Ammon were [6] gathered together, and encamped in Gilead. and the children of Israel assembled themselves together, and encamped in Mizpeh.[u]

18 And the people and princes of Gilead said one to another, What man is he that will begin to fight against the children of Ammon? he shall be head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

CHAP. XI.

NOW Jephthah [v] the Gileadite was [w] a mighty man of valour, and he was the son of an [8] harlot: and Gilead begat Jephthah.

2 And Gilead's wife bare him sons: and his wife's sons grew up, and they thrust out Jephthah, and said unto him, Thou shalt not [z] inherit in our father's house; for thou art the son of a strange woman.

3 Then Jephthah fled [10] from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob: and there were gathered vain [a] men to Jephthah, and went out with him.

4 And it came to pass [1] in process of time, that the children of Ammon made war against Israel.

5 And it was so, that when the children of Ammon made war against Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah out of the land of Tob:

6 And they said unto Jephthah, Come, and be our captain, that we may fight with the children of Ammon.

7 And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, Did [d] not ye hate me, and expel me out of my father's house? and why are ye come unto me now when ye are in distress?

8 And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, Therefore we turn again [e] to thee now, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the children of Ammon, and be our head [f] over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

9 And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, If ye bring me home again to fight against the children of Ammon, and the LORD deliver them before me, shall I be your head?

10 And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, The [i] LORD be [2] witness between us, if we do not so according to thy words.

11 Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him head [l] and captain over them: and Jephthah uttered all his words before the LORD in [n] Mizpeh.

12 And Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the children of Ammon, saying, What hast thou to do with me, that thou art come against me to fight in my land?

13 And the king of the children of Ammon answered unto the messengers of Jephthah, Because Israel [q] took away my land, when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, [s] and unto Jordan: now, therefore, restore those lands again peaceably.

14 And Jephthah sent messengers again unto the king of the children of Ammon.

15 And said unto him, Thus saith Jephthah, Israel took not [v] away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon:

16 But when Israel came up from Egypt, and walked [x] through the wilderness unto the Red sea, and came [y] to Kadesh;

17 Then Israel sent messengers unto the king of Edom, saying, Let me, I pray thee, pass through thy land: but the king of Edom would not hearken thereto. And in like manner they sent unto the king of Moab; but he would not consent: and Israel abode in Kadesh.

18 Then they went along through the wilderness, and compassed [a] the land of Edom and the land of Moab, and came by the east side of the land of Moab, and pitched on the other side of Arnon, but came not within the border [b] of Moab: for Arnon was the border of Moab.

19 And Israel sent [c] messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heshbon; and Israel said unto him, Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land unto my place.

20 But Sihon trusted not Israel to pass through his coast: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in Jahaz, and fought against Israe..

21 And the LORD God of Israel delivered Sihon and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they smote them: so Israel possessed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that country.

22 And they possessed all the coasts of the Amorites, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and from the wilderness even unto Jordan.

23 So now the LORD God of Israel hath dispossessed the Amorites from before his people Israel, and shouldest thou possess it?

24 Wilt not thou possess that which Chemosh [g] thy god giveth thee to possess? So [h] whomsoever the LORD our God shall drive [i] out from before us, them will we possess.

25 And now art thou any thing better than Balak [k] the son of Zippor, king of Moab? did he ever strive against Israel, or did he ever fight against them,

26 While Israel dwelt in Heshbon [m] and her towns, and in Aroer [o] and her towns, and in all the cities that be along by the coast of Arnon, three hundred years? why therefore did ye not recover them within that time?

27 Wherefore I have not sinned against thee, but thou doest me wrong to war against me: the LORD the Judge [p] be judge [r] this day between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon.

28 Howbeit the king of the children of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah which he sent him.

29 Then the Spirit [t] of the LORD came upon Jephthah, [u] and he passed over Gilead, and Manasseh, and passed over Mizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he passed over unto the children of Ammon.

30 And Jephthah vowed [w] a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into mine hands, 31 Then it shall be, that [3] whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, shall [z] surely be the LORD's, and [4] I will offer it up for a burnt-offering.

32 So Jephthah passed over unto the children of Ammon, to fight against them; and the LORD delivered them into his hands.

33 And he smote them from Aroer, even till thou come to Minnith, [b] even twenty cities, and unto [1] the plain of the vineyards, with a very great slaughter. Thus the children of Ammon were subdued before the children of Israel.

34 And Jephthah came to Mizpeh [c] unto his house, and, behold, his daughter came out to meet him with [d] timbrels and with dances; and she was his only child: [3] beside her he had neither son nor daughter.

35 And it came to pass, when he saw her, that he rent [e] his clothes, and said, Alas, my daughter! thou hast brought me very low, and thou art one of them that trouble me; for I have opened my mouth unto the LORD, and I cannot [f] go back.

36 And she said unto him, My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth unto the LORD, do to me according to that which hath proceeded out of thy mouth; forasmuch as [h] the LORD hath taken vengeance for thee of thine enemies, even of the children of Ammon.

37 And she said unto her father, Let this thing be done for me: let me alone two months, that I may [4] go up and down upon the mountains, and bewail my virginity, I and my fellows.

38 And he said, Go. And he sent her away for two months: and she went with her companions, and bewailed her virginity upon the mountains.

39 And it came to pass, at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, who [n] did with her according to his vow which he had vowed: and she knew no man. And it was a [5] custom in Israel, 40 That the daughters of Israel went yearly [6] to lament [7] the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite four days in a year.

CHAP. XII.

AND [s] the men of Ephraim [9] gathered themselves together, and went northward, and said unto Jephthah, Wherefore passedst thou over to fight against the children of Ammon, and didst not call us to go with thee? we will burn thine house upon thee with fire.

2 And Jephthah said unto them, I and my people were at great strife with the children of Ammon; and when I called you, ye delivered me not out of their hands.

3 And when I saw that ye delivered me not, I put [v] my life in my hands, and passed over against the children of Ammon, and the LORD delivered them into my hand: wherefore then are ye come up unto me this day, to fight against me?

4 Then Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said, Ye Gileadites are fugitives of Ephraim among the Ephraimites, and among the Manassites.

5 And the Gileadites took the passages [1] of Jordan before the Ephraimites: and it was so, that when those Ephraimites which were escaped said, Let me go over, that the men of Gilead said unto him, Art thou an Ephraimite? If he said, Nay;

6 Then said they unto him, Say [2] now Shibboleth; and he said Sibboleth: for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him, and slew him at the passages of Jordan: and there fell at that time of the Ephraimites forty and two thousand.

7 And Jephthah judged Israel six years Then died Jephthah the Gileadite, and was buried in one of the cities of Gilead.

8 And after him Ibzan [t] of Beth-lehem judged Israel.

9 And he had thirty sons, and thirty daughters, whom he sent abroad, and took in thirty daughters from abroad for his sons. And he judged Israel seven years.

10 Then died Ibzan, and was buried at Beth-lehem.

11 And after him Elon, [4] a Zebulonite, judged Israel, and he judged Israel ten years.

12 And Elon the Zebulonite died, and was buried at Aijalon [j] in the country of Zebulun.

13 And after him Abdon [k] the son of Hillel, a Pirathonite, judged Israel.

14 And he had forty sons and thirty [l] nephews, that rode [m] on threescore and ten ass colts: and he judged Israel eight years.

15 And Abdon the son of Hillel the Pirathonite died, and was buried in Pirathon in the land of Ephraim, in the mount [o] of the Amalekites.

CHAP. XIII.

AND the children of Israel [8] did evil again [p] in the sight of the LORD; and the LORD delivered [q] them into [r] the hand of the Philistines forty years.

2 And there was a certain man of Zorah, [s] of the family of the Danites, whose name was Manoah; and his wife was barren, and bare not.

3 And the angel [u] of the LORD appeared unto the woman, and said unto her, Behold now, thou art barren, and bearest not: but thou shall conceive, and bear a son.

4 Now therefore beware, I pray thee, and drink not wine nor strong drink, and eat not any unclean thing:

5 For, lo, thou shalt conceive, and bear a son; and no [w] razor shall come on his head: for the child shall be a [x] Nazarite unto God from the womb; and he shall begin to deliver Israel out of the hand of the Philistines.

6 Then the woman came and told her husband, saying, A [y] man of God came unto me, and his countenance [z] was like the countenance of an angel of God, very terrible; but I asked him not whence he was, neither told he me his name,

7 But he said unto me, Behold, thou shall conceive, and bear a son; and now drink no wine nor strong drink, neither eat any unclean thing: for the child shall be a Nazarite to God from the womb to the day of his death.

8 Then Manoah intreated the LORD, and said, O my LORD, let the man of God which thou didst send come again unto us, and teach us what we shall do unto the child that shall be born.

9 And God hearkened to the voice of Manoah; and the angel of God came again unto the woman as she sat in the field; but Manoah her husband was not with her.

10 And the woman made haste, and ran, and shewed her husband, and said unto him, Behold, the man hath appeared unto me, that came unto me the other day.

11 And Manoah arose, and went after his wife, and came to the man, and said unto him, Art thou the man that spakest unto the woman? And he said, I am.

12 And Manoah said, Now let thy words come to pass: [2] how shall we order the child? and [3] how shall we do unto him?

13 And the angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, Of all that I said unto the woman let her beware.

14 She [k] may not eat of any thing that cometh of the vine, neither let her drink wine or strong drink, nor eat any unclean thing: all that I commanded her let her observe.

15 And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, I pray thee, let [n] us detain thee, until we shall have made ready a kid [5] for thee.

16 And the angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread; and if thou wilt offer a burnt-offering, thou must offer it unto the LORD: for Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the LORD.

17 And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, What [q] is thy name, that when thy sayings come to pass, we may do thee honour?

18 And the angel of the LORD said unto him, Why askest thou thus after my name, seeing it is [7] secret?

19 So Manoah took a kid with a meat-offering, and [s] offered it upon a rock unto the LORD: and the angel did wonderously; and Manoah and his wife looked on.

20 For it came to pass, when the flame went up toward heaven from off the altar, that the angel of the LORD ascended in the flame of the altar. And Manoah and his wife looked on it, and fell [u] on their faces to the ground.

21 (But the Angel of the LORD did no more appear to Manoah and to his wife.) Then Manoah knew that he was an angel of the LORD.

22 And Manoah said unto his wife, We shall [a] surely die, because we have seen God.

23 But his wife said unto him, If the LORD were pleased to kill us, he would not have received a burnt-offering and a meat-offering at our hands; [b] neither would he have shewed us all these things, nor would, as at this time, have told us such things as these.

24 And the woman bare a son, and called his name Samson: [c] and [d] the child grew, and the LORD blessed him.

25 And the Spirit [e] of the LORD began to move him at times in [1] the camp of Dan between Zorah [f] and Eshtaol.

CHAP. XIV.

AND Samson went down to [g] Timnath, and saw [h] a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines.

2 And he came up, and told his father and his mother, and said, I have seen a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines; now, therefore, get her for me to wife.

3 Then his father and his mother said unto him, Is there never a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, [i] or among all my people, that thou goest to take a wife of the uncircumcised [j] Philistines? And Samson said unto his father, Get her for me; for she [4] pleaseth me well.

4 But his father and his mother knew not that it was of the LORD, [l] that he sought an occasion against the Philistines: for at that time the [m] Philistines had dominion over Israel.

5 Then went Samson down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath: and, behold, a young lion roared [6] against him.

6 And the Spirit [o] of the LORD came mightily upon him, and [p] he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done.

7 And he went down, and talked with the woman; and she pleased Samson well.

8 And after a time he returned to take her, and he turned aside to see the carcass of the lion; and, behold, there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcass of the lion.

9 And [r] he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the carcass of the lion.

10 So his father went down unto the woman: and Samson made there a feast; [t] for so used the young men to do.

11 And it came to pass, when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him.

12 And Samson said unto them, I will now put forth a riddle [v] unto you: if ye can certainly declare it me within the seven [a] days of the feast, and find it out, then I will give you thirty [1] sheets, and thirty change [b] of garments:

13 But if ye cannot declare it me, then shall ye give me thirty sheets, and thirty change of garments. And they said unto him, Put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it.

14 And he said unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness. And they could not in three days expound the riddle.

15 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, Entice [c] thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, lest [f] we burn thee and thy father's house with fire: have ye called us to [2] take that we have? is it not so?

16 And Samson's wife wept before him, and said, Thou [g] dost but hate me, and lovest me not: thou hast put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and hast not told it me. And he said unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father nor my mother, and shall I tell it thee?

17 And she wept before him [3] the seven days, while their feast lasted: and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because [k] she lay sore upon him; and she told the riddle to the children of her people.

18 And the men of the city said unto him on the seventh day, before the sun went down, What is sweeter than honey? and what is stronger than a lion? And he said unto them, If ye had not ploughed with my heifer, ye had not found out my riddle.

19 And [l] the Spirit of the LORD came upon him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and slew thirty men of them, and took their [5] spoil, and gave change of garments unto them which expounded the riddle: and his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house.

20 But Samson's wife was given [m] to his companion, whom he had used as his friend. [o]

CHAP. XV.

BUT it came to pass within a while after, in the time of wheat harvest, that Samson visited his wife with a kid; and he said, I will go in to my wife into the chamber. But her father would not suffer him to go in.

2 And her father said, I verily thought that thou hadst utterly hated her; therefore [q] I gave her to thy companion: is not her youngest sister fairer than she? take [9] her, I pray thee, instead of her.

3 And Samson said concerning them, Now shall I be [11] more blameless than the Philistines, though I do them a displeasure.

4 And Samson went and caught three-hundred foxes, and took [12] fire-brands, and turned tail to tail, and put a fire-brand in the midst between two tails.

5 And when he had set the brands on fire, he let them go into the standing corn [s] of the Philistines, and burnt up both the shocks, and also the standing corn, with the vineyards and olives.

6 Then the Philistines said, Who hath done this? And they answered, Samson, the son-in-law of the Timnite, because he had taken his wife, and given her to his companion. And the Philistines came up and burnt [d] her and her father with fire.

7 And Samson said unto them, Though ye have done this, yet will I be avenged of you, and after that I will cease.

8 And he smote them hip and thigh with a great slaughter: and he went down and dwelt in the top of the rock Etam.

9 Then the Philistines went up, and pitched in Judah, and spread themselves in Lehi. [h]

10 And the men of Judah said, Why are ye come up against us? And they answered, To bind Samson are we come up, to do to him as he hath done to us.

11 Then three thousand men of Judah went [4] to the top of the rock Etam, and said to Samson, Knowest thou not that the [i] Philistines are rulers [j] over us? what is this that thou hast done unto us? And he said unto them, As they did unto me, so have I done unto them.

12 And they said unto him, We are come down to bind thee, that we may deliver thee into the hand of the Philistines. And Samson said unto them, Swear unto me, that ye will not fall upon me yourselves.

13 And they spake unto him, saying, No; but we will bind thee fast, and deliver thee into their hand; but surely we will not kill thee. And they bound him with two new cords, and brought him up from the rock.

14 And when he came unto Lehi, the Philistines shouted against him: and [n] the Spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and the cords [p] that were upon his arms became as flax that was burnt with fire, and his [6] bands loosed from off his hands.

15 And he found a [7] new jaw-bone of an ass, and put forth his hand and took it, and slew a thousand men therewith.

16 And Samson said, With the jaw-bone of an ass, [8] heaps upon heaps, with the jaw of an ass have I slain a thousand men.

17 And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking, that he cast away the jaw-bone out of his hand, and called that place [10] Ramath-lehi.

18 And he was sore athirst, and called on the LORD, and said, Thou [r] hast given this great deliverance into the hand of thy servant: and now shall I die for thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised?

19 But God clave an hollow place that was in [1] the jaw, and there came [a] water thereout; and when he had drunk, his spirit came again, [b] and he revived: wherefore he called the name thereof [2] En-hakkore, which is in Lehi unto this day.

20 And he judged [c] Israel, in the days of the Philistines, twenty years.

CHAP. XVI.

THEN went Samson to Gaza, and saw there [3] an harlot, and went in unto her.

2 And it was told the Gazites, saying, Samson is come hither. And they compassed [e] him in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were quiet [4] all the night, saying, In the morning, when it is day, we shall kill him.

3 And Samson lay till midnight, and arose at midnight, and took the doors of the gate of the city, and the two posts, and went away with them, [6] bar and all, and put them upon his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of an hill that is before Hebron.

4 And it came to pass afterward, that he loved a [h] woman [7] in the valley of Sorek, whose name was Delilah.

5 And the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said unto her, [i] Entice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what means we may prevail against him, that we may bind him [8] to afflict him; and we will give thee, every one of us, eleven hundred pieces of silver.

6 And Delilah said to Samson, Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth, and wherewith thou mightest be bound to afflict thee.

7 And Samson said unto her, If they bind me with seven [9] green withs that were never dried, then shall I be weak, and be [10] as another man.

8 Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withs which had not been dried, and she bound him with them.

9 (Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber.) And she said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he brake the withs, as a thread of tow is broken when it [13] toucheth the fire: so his strength was not known.

10 And Delilah said unto Samson, Behold, thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound.

11 And he said unto her, If they bind me fast with new ropes [14] that never were occupied, then shall I be weak, and be as another man.

12 Delilah therefore took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. (And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber.) And he brake them from off his arms like a thread.

13 And Delilah said unto Samson, Hitherto thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weavest the seven locks of my head with the web.

14 And she fastened it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awaked out of his sleep, and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

15 And she said unto him, How [d] canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? thou hast mocked me these three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength lieth.

16 And it came to pass, when she pressed him daily with her words, and urged him, so that his soul was [5] vexed unto death,

17 That he told [f] her all his heart, and said unto her, There hath not come a razor upon mine head; for [g] I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man.

18 And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once; for he hath shewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought money in their hand.

19 And [j] she made him sleep upon her knees: and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head; and she began to afflict him, and his strength went from him.

20 And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I [k] will go out, as at other times before, and shake myself. And he wist not that the LORD was [l] departed from him.

21 But the Philistines took him, and [11] put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and [m] bound him with fetters of brass, and he did grind in the prison-house.

22 Howbeit the hair of his head began to grow again [12] after he was shaven.

23 Then the lords of the Philistines gathered them together for to offer a great sacrifice unto Dagon [n] their god, and to rejoice: [o] for they said, Our god hath delivered Samson our enemy into our hand.

24 And when the people saw him, they praised [p] their god; for they said, Our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the destroyer of our country, [15] which slew many of us.

25 And it came to pass, when their hearts were merry, [q] that they said, Call for Samson, that he may make us [r] sport. And they called for Samson out of the prison-house; and he made [16] them sport and they set him between the pillars.

26 And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them.

27 Now the house was full of men and women; and all the lords of the Philistines were there: and there were upon the roof about three thousand men and women, that beheld while Samson made sport.

28 And Samson called [a] unto the LORD, and said, O Lord GOD, remember [b] me, I pray thee, and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be at once avenged of the Philistines for my two eyes.

29 And Samson took hold of the two middle pillars upon which the house stood, and [3] on which it was borne up, of the one with his right hand, and of the other with his left.

30 And Samson said, Let [4] me die with the Philistines. And he bowed himself with all his might; and the house [f] fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein: so the dead which he slew at his death were more than they which he slew in his life.

31 Then his brethren, and all the house of his father, came down, and took him, and brought him up, and buried him between [j] Zorah and Eshtaol, in the burying-place of Manoah his father. And he judged Israel twenty years.

CHAP. XVII.

AND there was a man of [k] mount Ephraim, whose name was Micah.

2 And he said unto his mother, The eleven hundred shekels of silver that were taken from thee, about which thou cursedst, and spakest of also in mine ears, behold, the silver is with me; I took it. And his mother said, [m] Blessed be thou of the LORD, my son.

3 And when he had restored the eleven hundred shekels of silver to his mother, his mother said, I had wholly dedicated the silver unto the LORD, from my hand, for my son, to make [n] a graven image and a molten image; now, therefore, I will restore it unto thee.

4 Yet he restored the money unto his mother; and his mother took two hundred shekels of silver, and [p] gave them to the founder, who made thereof a graven image and a molten image: and they were in the house of Micah.

5 And the man Micah had an house of gods, and made an ephod, [r] and teraphim, [t] and [6] consecrated one of his sons, who became his priest.

6 In these days there was no king [u] in Israel, but every man did that [v] which was right in his own eyes.

7 And there was a young man out of Beth-lehem-judah, [w] of the family of Judah, who was a Levite, and he sojourned there.

8 And the man departed out of the city from Beth-lehem-judah, to sojourn where he could find a place: and he came to mount Ephraim, to the house of Micah, [1] as he journeyed.

9 And Micah said unto him, Whence comest thou? And he said unto him, I am a Levite of Beth-lehem-judah, and I go to sojourn where I may find a place.

10 And Micah said unto him, Dwell with me, and be unto me a father [e] and a priest, and I will give thee ten shekels of silver by the year, and [2] a suit of apparel, and thy victuals. So the Levite went in.

11 And the Levite was content to dwell with the man; and the young man was unto him as one of his sons.

12 And Micah consecrated [d] the Levite, and the young man became [e] his priest, and was in the house of Micah.

13 Then said Micah, Now [g] know I that the LORD will do me good, seeing I have a Levite to my priest.

CHAP. XVIII.

IN [h] those days there was no king in Israel: and in those days the tribe of the Danites [i] sought them an inheritance to dwell in; for unto that day all their inheritance had not fallen unto them among the tribes of Israel.

2 And the children of Dan sent of their family five men from their coasts, men [5] of valour, from Zorah, [l] and from Eshtaol, to spy out the land, and to search it; and they said unto them, Go, search the land: who, when they came to mount Ephraim, to the house of Micah, they lodged there.

3 When they were by the house of Micah, they knew the voice of the young man the Levite; and they turned in thither, and said unto him, Who brought thee hither? and what makest thou in this place? and what hast thou here?

4 And he said unto them, Thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath hired me, and I am his priest.

5 And they said unto him, Ask [o] counsel, we pray thee, of God, that we may know whether our way which we go shall be prosperous.

6 And the priest said unto them, [q] Go in peace; before the LORD is your way wherein ye go.

7 Then the five men departed, and came to Laish, [s] and saw the people that were therein, how they dwelt careless, after the manner of the Zidonians, quiet and secure; and there was no [7] magistrate in the land, that might put them to shame in any thing: and they were far from the Zidonians, and had no business with any man.

8 And they came unto their brethren to

Zorah [a] and Eshtaol: and their brethren said unto them, What say ye?

9 And they said, Arise, [b] that we may go up against them: for we have seen the land, and, behold, it is very good: and are ye still? be not slothful to go, and to enter to possess the land.

10 When ye go, ye shall come unto a people secure, [d] and to a large land: for God [e] hath given it into your hands; a place where [f] there is no want of any thing that is in the earth.

11 And there went from thence of the family of the Danites, out of Zorah and out of Eshtaol, six hundred men [2] appointed with weapons of war.

12 And they went up, and pitched in Kirjath-jearim, [g] in Judah: wherefore they called that place [h] Mahaneh-dan unto this day: behold, it is behind Kirjath-jearim.

13 And they passed thence unto mount Ephraim, and came unto the house of Micah.

14 Then answered the five men that went to spy out the country of Laish, and said unto their brethren, Do ye know that there is in these houses [i] an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image, and a molten image? now, therefore, consider what ye have to do.

15 And they turned thitherward, and came to the house of the young man the Levite, even unto the house of Micah, and [4] saluted him.

16 And the [n] six hundred men appointed with their weapons of war, which were of the children of Dan, stood by the entering of the gate.

17 And the five [o] men that went to spy out the land went up, and came in thither, and took the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image: and the priest stood in the entering of the gate with the six hundred men that were appointed with weapons of war.

18 And these went into Micah's house, and fetched the carved image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image. Then said the priest unto them, What do ye?

19 And they said unto him, Hold thy peace, lay [r] thine hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, and be [s] to us a father and a priest: is it better for thee to be a priest unto the house of one man, or that thou be a priest unto a tribe and a family in Israel?

20 And the priest's heart was glad; and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and went in the midst of the people.

21 So they turned and departed, and put the little ones, and the cattle, and the carriage, before them.

22 And when they were a good way from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses near to Micah's house were gathered together, and overtook the children of Dan.

23 And they cried unto the children of Dan. And they turned their faces, and said unto Micah, What [c] aileth thee, that thou [1] comest with such a company?

24 And he said, Ye have taken away my gods which I made, and the priest, and ye are gone away: and what have I more? and what is this that ye say unto me, What aileth thee?

25 And the children of Dan said unto him, Let not thy voice be heard among us, lest [3] angry fellows run upon thee, and thou lose thy life, with the lives of thy household.

26 And the children of Dan went their way: and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned, and went back unto his house.

27 And they took the things which Micah had made, and the priest which he had, and came unto Laish, unto a people that were at quiet and secure: [i] and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and burnt the city with fire.

28 And there was no deliverer, [k] because it was far from Zidon, and they had no business with any man; and it was in the valley that lieth by Beth-rehob. [l] And they built a city, and dwelt therein.

29 And [m] they called the name of the city Dan, after the name of Dan their father, who was born unto Israel: howbeit, the name of the city was Laish at the first.

30 And the children of Dan set up the graven image: and Jonathan the son of Gershom, the son of Manasseh, he and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan until the day [p] of the captivity of the land.

31 And they set them up Micah's graven image, which he made, all the time that the house of God [q] was in Shiloh.

AND it came to pass in those days, when there was no king in Israel, that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the side of mount Ephraim, who took to him [5] a concubine out of Bethlehem-judah.

2 And his concubine played the whore against him, and went away from him unto her father's house to Bethlehem-judah, and was there [6] four whole months,

3 And her husband arose, and went after her, to speak [7] friendly unto her, and to bring her again, [t] having his servant with him, and a couple of asses: and she brought him into her father's house; and when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him.

him three days: so they did eat and drink, and lodged there

5 And it came to pass on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, that he rose up to depart: and the damsel's father said unto his son-in-law, [2] Comfort thine [b] heart with a morsel of bread, [c] and afterward go your way.

6 And they sat down, and did eat and drink both of them together: for the damsel's father had said unto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thine [b] heart be merry.

7 And when the man rose up to depart, his father-in-law urged him: therefore he lodged there again.

8 And he arose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart: and the damsel's father said, Comfort thine heart, I pray thee And they tarried [3] until afternoon, and they did eat both of them.

9 And when the man rose up to depart, he and his concubine and his servant, his father-in-law, the damsel's father, said unto him, Behold now, the day [4] draweth toward evening, [l] I pray you tarry all night: behold, [5] the day [m] groweth to an end; lodge here, that thine heart may be merry; and to-morrow get you early on your way, that thou mayest go [6] home.

10 But the man would not tarry that night, but he rose up and departed, and came [7] over against Jebus, [o] which is Jerusalem: and there were with him two asses saddled; his concubine also was with him.

11 And when they were by Jebus, the day was far spent; and the servant said unto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in, into this city of the Jebusites, and lodge in it.

12 And his master said unto him, We will not turn aside hither into the city of a stranger, that is not of the children of Israel; we will pass over to Gibeah.

13 And he said unto his servant, Come, and let us draw near to one of these places to lodge all night, in Gibeah, or in Ramah.[q]

14 And they passed on and went their way; and the sun went down upon them when they were by Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin.

15 And they turned aside thither, to go in and to lodge in Gibeah: and when he went in, he sat him down in a street of the city; for there was no man that took them into his house to lodging.[r]

16 And, behold, there came an old man from his work [t] out of the field at even, which was also of mount Ephraim; and he sojourned in Gibeah: but the men of the place were Benjamites.

17 And when he had lifted up his eyes, he saw a way-faring man in the street of the city: and the old man said, Whither goest thou? and whence comest thou?

18 And he said unto him, We are passing from Beth-lehem-judah toward the side of mount Ephraim; from thence am I: and I went to Beth-lehem-judah, but I am now going to the house [e] of the LORD; and there is no man that [1] receiveth me to house.

19 Yet there is both straw and provender for our asses; and there is bread and wine also for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man which is with thy servants: there is no want of any thing.

20 And the old man said, Peace [d] be with thee: howsoever, let all thy wants lie upon me; only lodge not in the street.[e]

21 So [f] he brought him into his house, and gave provender unto the asses: and they washed their feet, [g] and did eat and drink.

22 Now, as they were making their hearts [h] merry, behold, the men of the city, certain sons [i] of Belial, beset [j] the house round about, and beat at the door, and spake to the master of the house, the old man, saying, Bring forth [k] the man that came into thine house, that we may know him.

23 And the man, the master of the house, went out unto them, and said unto them, Nay, my brethren, nay, I pray you, do not so wickedly; seeing that this man is come into mine house, do not this folly.[n]

24 Behold, here is my daughter, a maiden, and his concubine; them I will bring out now, and humble [p] ye them, and do with them what seemeth good unto you: but unto this man do not [8] so vile a thing.

25 But the men would not hearken to him: so the man took his concubine, and brought her forth unto them; and they knew her, and abused her all the night until the morning: and when the day began to spring, they let her go.

26 Then came the woman, in the dawning of the day, and fell down at the door of the man's house where her lord was, till it was light.

27 And her lord rose up in the morning, and opened the doors of the house, and went out to go his way: and, behold, the woman his concubine was fallen down at the door of the house, and her hands were upon the threshold.

28 And he said unto her, Up, and let us be going: but none answered. Then the man took her up upon an ass, and the man rose up, and gat him unto his place

29 And when he was come into his house, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and divided [s] her, together with her bones, into twelve pieces, and sent her into all the coast of Israel.

30 And it was so, that all that saw it said, There was no such deed done nor seen from the day that the children of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt unto this day: consider [u] of it, take advice [v] and speak your minds

CHAP. XX.

B. C. 1406.

THEN [a] all the children of Israel went out, and the congregation was gathered together as one man, from [b] Dan even to Beer-sheba, with the land of Gilead, unto the LORD in Mizpeh. [c]

2 And the chief of all the people, even of all the tribes of Israel, presented themselves in the assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand footmen that [e] drew sword.

3 (Now the children of Benjamin heard that the children of Israel were gone up to Mizpeh.) Then said the children of Israel, Tell us, how was this [f] wickedness?

4 And [1] the Levite, the husband of the woman that was slain, answered and said, I came [i] into Gibeah that belongeth to Benjamin, I and my concubine, to lodge.

5 And the men of Gibeah rose against me, and beset the house round about upon me by night, and thought to have slain me; and my concubine have they forced, [2] that she is dead.

6 And [j] I took my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Israel: for they have committed lewdness and folly in Israel.

7 Behold, ye are all children of Israel; give [m] here your advice and counsel.

8 And all the people arose as one man, saying, We will not any of us go to his tent, neither will we any of us turn into his house:

9 But now, this shall be the thing which we will do to Gibeah, we will go up by lot against it:

10 And we will take ten men of an hundred throughout all the tribes of Israel, and an hundred of a thousand, and a thousand out of ten thousand, to fetch victual for the people, that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the folly that they have wrought in Israel.

11 So all the men of Israel were gathered against the city, [3] knit together as one man.

12 And the tribes of Israel sent [r] men through all the tribe of Benjamin, saying, What wickedness is this that is done among you?

13 Now therefore deliver us the men, [s] the children of Belial, which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and put away [v] evil from Israel. But the children of Benjamin would not hearken to the voice of their brethren the children of Israel:

14 But the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together out of the cities unto Gibeah, to go out to battle against the children of Israel

15 And the children of Benjamin were numbered at that time, out of the cities, twenty and six thousand men that drew sword, beside the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were numbered seven hundred chosen men

16 Among all this people there were seven hundred chosen men [d] left-handed: every one could sling stones at an hair breadth, and not miss.

17 And the men of Israel, beside Benjamin, were numbered four hundred thousand men that drew sword: all these were men of war.

18 And the children of Israel arose, that went [g] up to the house of God, and asked [h] counsel of God, and said, Which of us shall go up first to the battle against the children of Benjamin? And the LORD said, Judah shall go up first.

19 And the children of Israel rose up in the morning, and encamped against Gibeah.

20 And the men of Israel went out to battle against Benjamin; and the men of Israel put themselves in array to fight against them at Gibeah.

21 And the children of Benjamin came forth out of Gibeah, and destroyed [k] down to the ground, of the Israelites that day, twenty and two thousand men.

22 And the people, the men of Israel, encouraged themselves, and set their battle again in array, in the place where they put themselves in array the first day.

23 (And [n] the children of Israel went up, and wept before the LORD until even, and asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up again to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother? And the LORD said, Go up against him.)

24 And the children of Israel came near against the children of Benjamin the second day.

25 And Benjamin went forth against them out of Gibeah the second day, and destroyed [o] down to the ground, of the children of Israel again, eighteen thousand men; all these drew the sword.

26 Then [p] all the children of Israel, and all the people, went up, and came unto the house of God, and wept, [q] and sat there before the LORD, and fasted that day until even, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before the LORD.

27 And the children of Israel inquired of the LORD, (for [t] the ark of the covenant of God was there in those days;

28 And Phinehas, [u] the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, stood [w] before it in those days,) saying, Shall I yet again go out to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother, or shall I cease? And the LORD said, Go up; for [x] to-morrow I will deliver them into thine hand.

29 And Israel set liers [y] in wait round about Gibeah

30 And the children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day, and put themselves in array against Gibeah, as at other times.

31 And the children of Benjamin went out against the people, and were drawn away from the city; and they began to smite of the people [3] and kill, as at other times, in the high-ways, of which one goeth up to [4] the house of God, and the other to Gibeah in the field, about thirty men of Israel.

32 And the children of Benjamin said, They are smitten down before us, as at the first. But the children of Israel said, Let us flee, and draw them from the city unto the high-ways.

33 And all the men of Israel rose up out of their place, and put themselves in array at Baal-tamar; and the liers in wait of Israel came forth out of their places, even out of the meadows of Gibeah.

34 And there came against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and the battle was sore: but [c] they knew not that evil was near them.

35 And the LORD smote Benjamin before Israel: and the children of Israel destroyed of the Benjamites that day twenty and five thousand and an hundred men: all these drew the sword.

36 So the children of Benjamin saw that they were smitten: for the men of Israel gave place [h] to the Benjamites, because they trusted unto the liers in wait which they had set beside Gibeah.

37 And the liers in wait hasted, and rushed upon Gibeah; and the liers in wait [7] drew themselves along, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword.

38 Now there was an appointed [8] sign between the men of Israel [9] and the liers in wait, that they should make a great flame [10] with smoke rise up out of the city.

39 And when the men of Israel retired in the battle, Benjamin began to smite [11] and kill of the men of Israel about thirty persons; for they said, Surely they are smitten down before us, as in the first battle.

40 But when the flame began to arise up out of the city with a pillar of [k] smoke, the Benjamites looked behind them, and, behold, the [12] flame of the city ascended up to heaven.

41 And when the men of Israel turned again, the men of Benjamin were amazed: [l] for they saw that evil [13] was come upon them.

42 Therefore they turned their backs before the men of Israel unto the way of the wilderness; but the battle [n] overtook them: and them which came out of the cities they destroyed in the midst of them.

43 Thus they inclosed the Benjamites round about, and chased them, and trode them down [1] with ease, [2] over against Gibeah toward the sun-rising.

44 And there fell of Benjamin eighteen thousand men: all these were men of valour.

45 And they turned, and fled toward the wilderness unto the rock of [m] Rimmon: and they gleaned of them in the high-ways five thousand men; and pursued hard after them unto Gidom, and slew two thousand men of them.

46 So that all which fell that day of Benjamin were twenty and five thousand men that drew the sword: all these were men of valour.

47 But [b] six hundred men turned, and fled to the wilderness unto the rock Rimmon, and abode in the rock Rimmon four months.

48 And the men of Israel turned again upon the children of Benjamin, and smote them with the edge of the sword, as well the men of every city, as the beast, and all that [5] came to hand: also they set on fire all the cities that [6] they came to.

CHAP. XXI.

NOW [d] the men of Israel had [e] sworn in Mizpeh, saying, There shall not any of us give his daughter unto Benjamin to wife.

2 And the people came [f] to the house of God, and abode there till even before God, and lifted [g] up their voices, and wept sore;

3 And said, O LORD God of Israel, [w] is this come to pass in Israel, that there should be to-day one tribe lacking in Israel?

4 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people rose early, and [i] built there an altar, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings.

5 And the children of Israel said, Who is there among all the tribes of Israel that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD? for they had made a great oath concerning him that came not up to the LORD to Mizpeh, saying, He shall surely be put to death.

6 And the children of Israel [j] repented them for Benjamin their brother, and said, There is one tribe cut off from Israel this day:

7 How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing we have sworn by the LORD, that we will not give them of our daughters to wives?

8 And they said, What one is there of the tribes of Israel that came not up to Mizpeh to the LORD? And, behold, there came none to the camp from Jabesh-gilead [m] to the assembly.

9 For the people were numbered, and, behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead there.

10 And the congregation sent thither twelve thousand men of the valiantest, and commanded them, saying, Go [a] and smite the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with the edge of the sword, with the women and the children.

11 And this is the thing that ye shall do, Ye [b] shall utterly destroy every male, and every woman that [4] hath lain by man.

12 And they found among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead four hundred young [5] virgins, that had known no man by lying with any male; and they brought them unto the camp to Shiloh, [d] which is in the land of Canaan.

13 And the whole congregation sent some [6] to speak to the children of Benjamin that [e] were in the rock Rimmon, and to [7] call peaceably unto them.

14 And Benjamin came again at that time; and they gave them wives which they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh-gilead: and yet so they sufficed them not.

15 And the people repented [g] them for Benjamin, because that the LORD had made a breach [h] in the tribes of Israel.

16 Then the elders of the congregation said, How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing the women are destroyed out of Benjamin?

17 And they said, There must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Benjamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel.

18 Howbeit we may not give them wives of our daughters: for [k] the children of Israel have sworn, saying, Cursed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin.

19 Then they said, Behold, there is a feast of the LORD in Shiloh [1] yearly, in a place which is on the north side of Bethel, [2] on the east side [3] of the high-way that goeth up from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the south of Lebonah.

20 Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, saying, Go and lie in wait in the vineyards;

21 And see, and, behold, If the daughters of Shiloh come out to dance [c] in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards, and catch you every man his wife of the daughters of Shiloh, and go to the land of Benjamin.

22 And it shall be, when their fathers or their brethren come unto us to complain, that we will say unto them, [8] Be favourable unto them for our sakes: because we reserved not to each man his wife [f] in the war: for ye did not give unto them at this time, that ye should be guilty.

23 And the children of Benjamin did so, and took them wives according to their number, of them that danced, whom they caught: and they went and returned unto their inheritance, and repaired the cities, [i] and dwelt in them:

24 And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe and to his family; and they went out from thence every man to his inheritance.

25 In those days [j] there was no king in Israel: every man did that which was right in his own [l] eyes.

The Book of RUTH.

CHAP. I.

NOW it came to pass, in the [a] days when the judges [1] ruled, that there was a famine in the land. And a certain man of Beth-lehem-judah [d] went to sojourn in the country of Moab, he, and his wife, and his two sons.

2 And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife Naomi, and the name of his two sons Mahlon and Chilion, Ephrathites [e] of Beth-lehem-judah. And they came into the country of Moab, and [2] continued there.

3 And Elimelech, Naomi's husband, died; and she was left, and her two sons.

4 And they took them wives of the women of Moab; the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth: and they dwelled there about ten years.

5 And Mahlon and Chilion died also both of them; and the woman was left of her two sons and her husband.

6 Then she arose, with her daughters-in-law, that she might return from the country of Moab: for she had heard in the country of Moab how that the LORD had visited [b] his people in giving [c] them bread.

7 Wherefore she went forth out of the place where she was, and her two daughters-in-law with her: and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah.

8 And Naomi said unto her two daughters-in-law, Go, return each to her mother's house: the LORD [f] deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me.

9 The LORD grant you that ye may find rest, each of you in the house of her husband. Then she kissed them: and they lifted up their voice, and wept.

10 And they said unto her, Surely we will return with thee unto thy people.

11 And Naomi said, Turn again, my daughters, why will ye go with me? are there yet any more sons in my womb, that [g] they may be your husbands?

12 Turn again, my daughters, go your way; for I am too old to have an husband. If I should say, I have hope, if I [1] should have an husband also to-night, and should also bear sons;

13 Would ye [2] tarry for them till they were grown? would ye stay for them from having husbands? nay, my daughters; for it [3] grieveth me much, for your sakes, that the hand [b] of the LORD is gone out against me.

14 And they lifted up their voice, and wept again: and Orpah kissed her mother-in-law, but Ruth clave [c] unto her.

15 And she said, Behold, thy sister-in-law is gone back unto her people, and unto her gods: [d] return [e] thou after thy sister-in-law.

16 And Ruth said, [4] Entreat me not to leave [f] thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: thy [h] people shall be my people, and thy God my God:

17 Where thou diest will I die, and there will I be buried: the [j] LORD do so to me, and more also, if aught but [k] death part thee and me.

18 When [m] she saw that she [5] was steadfastly minded to go with her, then she left speaking unto her.

19 So they two went until they came to Beth-lehem. And it came to pass, when they were come to Beth-lehem, that all the city was moved about them; and they said, Is this [o] Naomi?

20 And she said unto them, Call me not [6] Naomi, call me [7] Mara: for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me.

21 I went out full, and the LORD [q] hath brought me home again empty: why then call ye me Naomi, seeing the LORD hath testified against me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?

22 So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, with her, which returned out of the country of Moab: and they came to Beth-lehem in the beginning of barley-harvest.

CHAP. II.

AND Naomi had a kinsman [u] of her husband's, a mighty man of wealth, of the family of Elimelech; and his name was [10] Boaz.

2 And Ruth the Moabitess said unto Naomi, Let me now go to the field, and glean [w] ears of corn after him in whose sight I shall find grace. And she said unto her, Go, my daughter.

3 And she went, and came, and gleaned in the field after the reapers: and her hap [12] was to light on a part of the field belonging unto Boaz, who was of the kindred of Elimelech.

4 And, behold, Boaz came from Beth-lehem, and said unto the reapers, [y] The LORD be with you. And they [a] answered him, The LORD bless thee.

5 Then said Boaz unto his servant that was set over the reapers, Whose damsel is this?

6 And the servant that was set over the reapers answered and said, It is the Moabitish damsel that came back with Naomi out of the country of Moab:

7 And she said, I pray you, let me glean and gather after the reapers among the sheaves: so she came, and hath continued even from the morning until now, that she tarried a little in the house.

8 Then said Boaz unto Ruth, Hearest thou not, my daughter? Go not to glean in another field, neither [f] go from hence, but abide here fast by my maidens:

9 Let thine eyes be on the field that they do reap, and go thou after them: have I not charged the young men that they shall not touch [i] thee? and when thou art athirst, go unto the vessels, and drink of that which the young men have drawn.

10 Then she fell [l] on her face, and bowed herself to the ground, and said unto him, Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take knowledge of me, seeing I am a stranger?

11 And Boaz answered and said unto her, It hath fully been shewed me [n] all that thou hast done unto thy mother-in-law since the death of thine husband; and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou knewest not heretofore.

12 The LORD recompense [p] thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the LORD God of Israel, under whose wings thou [r] art come [s] to trust.

13 Then she said, [8] Let me find [t] favour in thy sight, my lord; for that thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken [9] friendly unto thine handmaid, though I be not like unto one of thine handmaidens.

14 And Boaz said unto her, At mealtime come thou hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. And she sat beside the reapers: and he reached her parched corn, and she did eat, and was sufficed, and left. [v]

15 And when she was risen up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, saying, Let her glean even among the sheaves, and [11] reproach [x] her not:

16 And let fall also some of the handfuls of purpose for her, and leave them, that she may glean them, and rebuke her not.

17 So she gleaned in the field until even, and beat out that she had gleaned: and it was about an ephah of barley.

18 And she took it up, and went into the city; and her mother-in-law saw what she had gleaned; and she brought forth, and gave to her that she had reserved after she was sufficed.

19 And her mother-in-law said unto her, Where hast thou gleaned to-day? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be [b] he that did take knowledge of thee. And she shewed her mother-in-law with whom she had wrought, and said, The man's name with whom I wrought to day is Boaz.

20 And Naomi said unto her daughter-in-law, Blessed [c] be he of the LORD, who hath not left off [f] his kindness to the living and to the dead. And Naomi said unto her, The man is near of kin unto us, one [2] of our next kinsmen.

21 And Ruth the Moabitess said, He said unto me also, Thou [h] shalt keep fast by my young men, until they have ended all my harvest.

22 And Naomi said unto Ruth her daughter-in-law, It is good, my daughter, that thou go out with his maidens, that they [3] meet thee not in any other field.

23 So she kept [k] fast by the maidens of Boaz to glean unto the end of barley-harvest, and of wheat-harvest; and dwelt with her mother-in-law.

CHAP. III.

THEN Naomi her mother-in-law said unto her, My daughter, shall I not seek rest [m] for thee, that it may be well with thee?

2 And now is not Boaz of our kindred, with whose maidens thou wast? [n] behold, he winnoweth barley to-night in the threshing-floor.

3 Wash thyself, therefore, and [p] anoint thee, and put thy raiment upon thee, and get thee down to the floor: but make not thyself known unto the man, until he shall have done eating and drinking.

4 And it shall be, when he lieth down, that thou shalt mark the place where he shall lie, and thou shalt go in, and [5] uncover his feet, and lay thee down; and he will tell thee what thou shalt do.

5 And she said unto her, All that thou sayest unto me I will do.

6 And she went down unto the floor, and did according to all that her mother-in-law bade her.

7 And when Boaz had eaten and drunk, and his heart was merry, [t] he went to lie down at the end of the heap of corn: and she came softly, and uncovered his feet, and laid her down.

8 And it came to pass at midnight, that the man was afraid, and [7] turned himself; and, behold, a woman lay at his feet.

9 And he said, Who art thou? And she answered, I am Ruth thine handmaid; spread [v] therefore thy skirt over thine handmaid; for thou art [8] a near kinsman.

10 And he said, Blessed be thou of the LORD, my daughter; for thou hast shewed more kindness in the latter end than at the beginning, [a] inasmuch as thou followedst not young men, whether poor or rich.

11 And now, my daughter, fear not; I will do to thee all that thou requirest: for all the [1] city of my people doth know that thou art a virtuous [c] woman.

12 And now, it is true that I am thy near kinsman: howbeit, [d] there is a kinsman nearer than I.

13 Tarry this night, and it shall be in the morning, that if he will perform unto thee the part [g] of a kinsman, well; let him do the kinsman's part: but if he will not do the part of a kinsman to thee, then will I do the part of a kinsman to thee, as [i] the LORD liveth: lie down until the morning.

14 And she lay at his feet until the morning; and she rose up before one could know another. And he said, [j] Let it not be known that a woman came into the floor.

15 Also he said, Bring the [4] vail that thou hast upon thee, and hold it. And when she held it, he measured six measures of barley, and laid it on her: and she went into the city.

16 And when she came to her mother-in-law, she said, Who art thou, my daughter? And she told her all that the man had done to her.

17 And she said, These six measures of barley gave he me; for he said to me, Go not empty unto thy mother-in-law.

18 Then said she, Sit [o] still, my daughter, until thou know how the matter will fall: for the man will not be in rest, until he have finished the thing this day.

CHAP. IV.

THEN went Boaz up to the gate, and sat him down there: and, behold, the kinsman, of whom Boaz spake, [q] came by: unto whom he said, Ho, such-a-one! turn aside, sit down here. And he turned aside and sat down.

2 And he took ten men of the [r] elders of the city, and said, Sit ye down here And they sat down.

3 And he said unto the kinsman, Naomi, that is come again out of the country of Moab, selleth a parcel of land, which was our brother Elimelech's:

4 And [6] I thought to advertise thee, saying, Buy [t] it before [u] the inhabitants, and before the elders of thy people. If thou wilt redeem it, redeem it; but if thou wilt not redeem it, then tell me, that I may know: for there is none to redeem it besides thee; and I am after thee. And he said, I will redeem it.

5 Then said Boaz, What day thou buy est the field of the hand of Naomi, thou must buy it also of Ruth the Moabitess the wife of the dead, to raise up [a] the name of the dead upon his inheritance.

6 And the kinsman said, I cannot redeem it for myself, lest I mar mine own inheritance: redeem thou my right to thyself; for I cannot redeem it.

7 Now this [c] was the manner in former time in Israel, concerning redeeming, and concerning changing, for to confirm all things; A man plucked off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbour: and this was a testimony in Israel.

8 Therefore the kinsman said unto Boaz, Buy it for thee: So he drew off his shoe.

9 And Boaz said unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witnesses this day, that I have bought all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's and Mahlon's, of the hand of Naomi.

10 Moreover, Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of Mahlon, have I purchased to be my wife, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, that the name of the dead be not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place: ye are witnesses this day.

11 And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders, said, We are witnesses. The LORD [j] make the woman that is come into thine house like Rachel and like Leah, which two [k] did build the house of Israel: and [6] do thou worthily in Ephratah, [l] and [7] be famous in Beth-lehem:

13 So Boaz took Ruth, and she was his wife: and when he went in unto her, the LORD gave [d] her conception, and she bare a son.

14 And [e] the women said unto Naomi, Blessed be the LORD, which hath not [1] left thee this day without a [2] kinsman, that his name may be famous in Israel.

CHAP. I.

NOW there was a certain man of Ramathaim-zophim, of mount Ephraim, and his name was Elkanah, [a] the son of Jeroham, the son of Elihu, the son of Tohu, the son of Zuph, an Ephrathite:

2 And he had two wives; the name of the one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah: and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children.

3 And this man went up out of his city [1] yearly [c] to worship, and to sacrifice unto the LORD of hosts in Shiloh. And the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, the priests of the LORD, were there.

4 And when the time was that Elkanah offered, [f] he gave to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and her daughters, portions:

5 But unto Hannah he gave a [3] worthy portion: for he loved Hannah; but [h] the LORD had shut up her womb.

6 And her adversary also [5] provoked her [j] sore, for to make her fret, because the LORD had shut up her womb.

7 And as he did so year by year, when she went up to the house of the LORD, so she provoked her; therefore she wept, and did not eat.

8 Then said Elkanah her husband to her, Hannah, why weepest thou? and why eatest thou not? and why is thy heart grieved? am not I better [b] to thee than ten sons?

9 So Hannah rose up, after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk: (now Eli the priest sat upon a seat by a post of the temple of the LORD:)

10 And she was [2] in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the LORD, and wept sore.

11 And she vowed [d] a vow, and said, O LORD of hosts, if thou wilt indeed [e] look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and remember [g] me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid a [4] man child, then I will give him unto the LORD all the days of his life, and there shall no razor [i] come upon his head.

12 And it came to pass, as she [6] continued praying before the LORD, that Eli marked her mouth.

13 Now Hannah, she spake in her heart; only her lips moved but her voice was not heard: therefore Eli thought she had been drunken.

14 And Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee.

15 And Hannah answered and said, No, my lord; I am a woman [1] of a sorrowful spirit: I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink, but have [f] poured out my soul before the LORD.

16 Count not thine handmaid for a daughter of Belial: for out of the abundance of my [3] complaint and grief have I spoken hitherto.

17 Then Eli answered and said, Go in peace: and the God of Israel grant [i] thee thy petition that thou hast asked of him.

18 And she said, Let thine handmaid find grace in thy sight. So the woman went her way, and did eat, [l] and her countenance was no more sad.

19 And they rose up in the morning early, and worshipped before the LORD, and returned, and came to their house to Ramah: and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife; and the LORD remembered [p] her.

20 Wherefore it came to pass, [4] when the time was come about after Hannah had conceived, that she bare a son, and called his name [5] Samuel, saying, Because I have asked him of the LORD.

21 And the man Elkanah, and all his house, went up to offer unto the LORD the yearly sacrifice, and his vow.

22 But Hannah went not up; for she said unto her husband, I will not go up until the child be weaned, and then I will bring him, that he may appear [z] before the LORD, and there abide for ever.

23 And Elkanah her husband said unto her, Do [y] what seemeth thee good; tarry until thou have weaned him; only [z] the LORD establish his word. So the woman abode, and gave her son suck until she weaned him.

24 And when she had weaned him, she took him up with her, with three bullocks, and one ephah of flour, and a bottle of wine, and brought him unto the house of the LORD in Shiloh; and the child was young.

25 And they slew a bullock, and brought the child to Eli.

26 And she said, Oh, my lord! as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto the LORD.

27 For this child I prayed; [e] and [d] the LORD hath given me my petition which I asked of him:

28 Therefore also I have [6] lent him to the LORD; as long as he liveth [8] he shall be lent to the LORD. And he worshipped the LORD there.

horn is exalted [a] in the LORD; my mouth is enlarged over mine enemies; because I rejoice [b] in thy salvation.

2 There [c] is none holy as the LORD: for there is none beside thee; neither is there any rock [d] like our God.

3 Talk no more so exceeding proudly; let [c] not [2] arrogancy come out of your mouth: for the LORD [g] is a God of knowledge, and by him actions are weighed.

4 The bows [h] of the mighty men are broken, and they that stumbled are girded with strength.

5 They that were full have hired out themselves for bread; and they that were hungry ceased: so that the [j] barren hath borne seven; and she that hath many children is waxed feeble.

6 The LORD killeth, [k] and maketh alive: he bringeth down to the grave, and bringeth up.

7 The LORD [m] maketh poor, and maketh rich: he [n] bringeth low, and lifteth up.

8 He [o] raiseth up the poor out of the dust, and lifteth up the beggar from the dunghill, to set them among princes, and to make them inherit the throne of glory: for the pillars of the earth are the LORD's, and he hath set [7] the world upon them.

9 He will keep the feet [r] of his saints, and the wicked shall be silent in darkness; for by strength [s] shall no man prevail.

10 The adversaries of the LORD shall be broken [t] to pieces; out of heaven shall he thunder [u] upon them: the LORD shall judge [v] the ends of the earth; and he shall give strength unto his King, and exalt [w] the horn of his Anointed.

11 And Elkanah went to Ramah to his house; and the child did minister unto the LORD before Eli the priest.

12 Now the sons of Eli were sons of Belial; they knew not [a] the LORD.

13 And the priest's custom with the people was, that, when any man offered sacrifice, the priest's servant came, while the flesh was in seething, with a flesh-hook of three teeth in his hand;

14 And he struck it into the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or pot; all that the flesh-hook brought up the priest took for himself So they did in Shiloh unto all the Israelites that came thither.

15 Also before they burnt the fat, [b] the priest's servant came, and said to the man that sacrificed, Give flesh to roast for the priest; for he will not have sodden flesh of thee, but raw.

16 And if any man said unto him, Let them not fail to burn the fat [7] presently, and then take as much as thy soul desireth; then he would answer him, Nay; but thou shalt give it me now: and if not, I will take it by force.

17 Wherefore the sin of the young men was very great before [f] the LORD; for men abhorred [a] the offering of the LORD.

18 But Samuel ministered before the LORD, being a child, girded [b] with a linen ephod.

19 Moreover, his mother made him a little coat, and brought it to him from year to year, when she came [c] up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice.

20 And Eli blessed Elkanah and his wife, and said, The LORD give thee seed of this woman for the [2] loan which is lent to the LORD. And they went unto their own home.

21 And the LORD visited [f] Hannah, so that she conceived, and bare three sons and two daughters. And the child Samuel grew before the LORD.

22 Now Eli was very old, and heard all that his sons did unto all Israel; and how they lay with the women that [3] assembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

23 And he said unto them, Why do ye such things? for I hear [6] of your evil dealings by all this people.

24 Nay, my sons; for it is no good report that I hear: ye make the LORD's people to [7] transgress.

25 If one man sin against another, the judge shall judge him: but if a man sin against [h] the LORD, who [i] shall entreat for him? Notwithstanding, they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, because [k] the LORD would slay them.

26 (And the child Samuel grew on, and was in favour both [l] with the LORD, and also with men.)

27 And there came a man of God unto Eli, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Did I plainly appear [m] unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt in Pharaoh's house?

28 And did I choose him [n] out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incense, to wear an ephod before me? and did I give [o] unto the house of thy father all the offerings made by fire of the children of Israel?

29 Wherefore kick [p] ye at my sacrifice and at mine offering, which I have commanded in my habitation; and honourest thy sons above me, to make yourselves fat with the chiefest of all the offerings of Israel my people?

30 Wherefore the LORD God of Israel saith, I said [q] indeed that thy house, and the house of thy father, should walk before me for ever: but now [r] the LORD saith, Be it far from me; for them [s] that honour me I will honour, and they that despise [t] me shall be lightly esteemed.

31 Behold, the days [v] come that I will cut off thine arm, and the arm of thy father's house, that there shall not be an old man in thine house.

32 And thou shalt see [9] an enemy in my habitation, in all the wealth which God shall give Israel: and there shall not be an old man in thine house for ever.

33 And the man of thine, whom I shall not cut off from mine altar, shall be to consume thine eyes, and to grieve thine heart: and all the increase of thine house shall die [1] in the flower of their age.

34 And this shall be a sign unto thee, that shall come upon thy two sons, on Hophni and Phinehas: in one day they shall die [d] both of them.

35 And [e] I will raise me up a faithful priest, that shall do according to that which is in mine heart, and in my mind: and I will build him a sure house; and he shall walk before mine Anointed for ever.

36 And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left in thine house shall come and crouch to him for a piece of silver and a morsel of bread, and shall say, [4] Put me, I pray thee, into [5] one of the priests' offices, that I may eat a piece of bread.

CHAP. III.

AND the child Samuel ministered unto the LORD before Eli. And the word [g] of the LORD was precious in those days; there was no open vision.

2 And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place, and his eyes began to wax dim, that he could not see;

3 And ere the lamp [j] of God went out in the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to sleep;

4 That the LORD called Samuel: and he answered, Here am I.

5 And he ran unto Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou calledst me. And he said, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

6 And the LORD called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel arose, and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And he answered, I called not my son; lie down again.

7 Now [8] Samuel did not yet know the LORD, neither was the word of the LORD yet revealed unto him.

8 And the LORD called Samuel again the third time. And he arose, and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And Eli perceived that the LORD had called the child.

9 Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, Speak, LORD; for thy servant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

10 And the LORD came, and stood, and called as [t] at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel answered: Speak, for thy servant heareth.

11 And the LORD said to Samuel, Behold, I will do a thing in Israel, at which [w] both the ears of every one that heareth it shall tingle.

12 In that day I will perform against Eli all things which I have spoken [a] concerning his house: [1] when I begin, I will also make an end.

13 For [2] I have told him, that I will judge [b] his house for ever, for the iniquity which he knoweth; because his sons [c] made themselves [3] vile, and he restrained [4] them not.

14 And therefore I have sworn unto the house of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's house shall not be purged [d] with sacrifice nor offering for ever.

15 And Samuel lay until the morning, and opened the doors of the house of the LORD: and Samuel feared to shew Eli the vision.

16 Then Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel, my son. And he answered, Here am I.

17 And he said, What is the thing that the LORD hath said unto thee? I pray thee hide it not from me: God [e] do so to thee, and [7] more also, if thou hide any thing [8] from me of all the things that he said unto thee.

18 And Samuel told him [9] every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he said, It [j] is the LORD: let him do what seemeth him good.

19 And Samuel grew, and the LORD was with him, and [k] did let none of his words fall to the ground.

20 And all Israel, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, knew that Samuel was [11] established to be a prophet of the LORD.

21 And the LORD appeared again in Shiloh: for the LORD revealed himself to Samuel in Shiloh by the word of the LORD.

CHAP. IV.

AND the word of Samuel [12] came to all Israel. Now Israel went out against the Philistines to battle, and pitched beside Eben-ezer; and the Philistines pitched in Aphek.

2 And the Philistines put themselves in array against Israel: and, when [14] they joined battle, Israel was smitten before the Philistines; and they slew of [15] the army in the field about four thousand men.

3 And when the people were come into the camp, the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath the LORD smitten us to-day before the Philistines? Let us [17] fetch the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of Shiloh unto us, that, when it cometh among us, it may save us out of the hand of our enemies.

4 So the people sent to Shiloh, that they might bring from thence the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hosts which dwelleth [p] between the cherubims: [q] and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God.

5 And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Israel shouted with a great shout, so that the earth rang again.

6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said, What meaneth the noise of this great shout in the camp of the Hebrews? And they understood that the ark of the LORD was come into the camp.

7 And the Philistines were afraid; for they said, God is come into the camp. And they said, Woe unto us! for there hath not been such a thing [5] heretofore.

8 Woe unto us! who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty Gods? these are the Gods that smote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderness.

9 Be [6] strong, and quit yourselves like men, O ye Philistines, that ye be not servants unto the Hebrews, as [f] they have been to you: quit [6] yourselves like men, and fight.

10 And the Philistines fought; and Israel [h] was smitten, and they fled every man into his tent: and there was a very great slaughter; for there fell of Israel thirty thousand footmen.

11 And the ark of God was taken; [i] and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, [10] were slain.

12 And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and came to Shiloh the same day, with his clothes rent, and with earth [l] upon his head.

13 And when he came, lo, Eli sat upon a seat by the way-side, watching: for [m] his heart trembled for the ark of God. And when the man came into the city, and told it, all the city cried out.

14 And when Eli heard the noise of the crying, he said, What meaneth the noise of this tumult? And the man came in hastily, and told Eli.

15 Now Eli was ninety and eight years old; and his eyes [13] were dim that he could not see.

16 And the man said unto Eli, I am he that came out of the army, and I fled to-day out of the army And he said, What is [16] there done, my son?

17 And the messenger answered and said, Israel is fled before the Philistines; and there hath been also a great slaughter among the people; and thy two sons also, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark [n] of God is taken.

18 And it came to pass, when he made mention of the ark of God, that he fell from off the seat backward, by the side of the gate; and his neck brake, and he died; for he was an old man, and heavy: and [o] he had judged Israel forty years.

19 And his daughter-in-law, Phinehas wife, was with child, near to [18] be delivered: and when she heard the tidings, that the ark of God was taken, and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead.

she bowed herself and travailed; for her pains [1] came upon her.

20 And about the time of her death, the women that stood by her said unto her, Fear [a] not, for thou hast borne a son. But she answered not, [3] neither did she regard it.

21 And she named the child [4] I-chabod, saying, The glory is departed from Israel: (because the ark of God was taken, and because of her father-in-law and her husband:)

22 And she said, The glory [d] is departed from [e] Israel; for the ark of God is taken.

CHAP. V.

AND the Philistines took the ark of God, and brought it from [g] Eben-ezer unto Ashdod.

2 When the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of Dagon, [j] and set it by Dagon.

3 And when they of Ashdod arose early on the morrow, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the earth before the ark of the LORD. And they took Dagon, and set [m] him in his place again.

4 And when they arose early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground before the ark of the LORD; and [o] the head of Dagon and both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold; only the stump [6] of Dagon was left to him.

5 Therefore neither the priest of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagon's house, tread on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod unto this day.

6 But the hand [s] of the LORD was heavy upon them of Ashdod; and he destroyed them, and smote them with emerods, [u] even Ashdod, and the coasts thereof.

7 And when the men of Ashdod saw that it was so, they said, The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us; for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god

8 They sent, therefore, and gathered all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said, What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about unto Gath. And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither.

9 And it was so, that, after they had carried it about, the [z] hand of the LORD was against the city with a very great destruction: and he smote the men of the city, both small and great, and they had emerods in their secret parts.

10 Therefore they sent the ark of God to Ekron. [c] And it came to pass, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Israel to [10] us, to slay us and our people.

11 So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go again to his own place, that it slay [2] us not, and our people: for there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city; the hand of God was very [b] heavy there

12 And the men that died not were smitten with the emerods: and the [c] cry of the city went up to heaven.

CHAP. VI.

AND the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philistines seven months.

2 And the Philistines called for the priests and the diviners, [f] saying, What shall we do to the ark of the LORD? tell us wherewith [h] we shall send it to his place.

3 And they said, If ye send away the ark of the God of Israel, send it not empty; [i] but in any wise return him a trespass-offering: [k] then ye shall be healed and it shall be known to you why [l] his hand is not removed from you.

4 Then said they, What shall be the trespass-offering which we shall return to him? They answered, Five golden emerods, and five golden mice, according to the number [n] of the lords of the Philistines; for one plague was on [5] you all, and [p] on your lords.

5 Wherefore ye shall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice that mar the land; and ye shall give [q] glory unto the God of Israel: peradventure he will lighten [r] his hand from off you, and from off your gods, and from off your land.

6 Wherefore then do ye harden your hearts, as the Egyptians [t] and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? When he had wrought [7] wonderfully among them, did they not let [8] the people go, and they departed? [v]

7 Now therefore make a new [w] cart, and take two milch kine on which there hath come no yoke, and tie the kine to the cart, and bring their calves home from them;

8 And take the ark of the LORD, and lay it upon the cart: and put the [x] jewels of gold, which ye return him for a trespass-offering, in a coffer by the side thereof; and send it away, that it may go.

9 And see, if it goeth up by the way of his own coast to Beth-shemesh, [y 9] then he [a] hath done us this great evil: but if not, then [b] we shall know that it is not his hand that smote us; it was a chance that happened to us.

10 And the men did so; and took two milch kine, and tied them to the cart, and shut up their calves at home.

11 And they laid the ark of the LORD upon the cart, and the coffer with the mice of gold and the images of their emerods

12 And the kine took the straight way to the way of Beth-shemesh, and went along the highway, lowing as they went, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left: and the lords of the Philistines went after them unto the border of Beth-shemesh.

13 And they of Beth-shemesh were reaping their wheat-harvest in the valley: and they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to see it.

14 And the cart came into the field of Joshua, a Beth-shemite, and stood there, where there was a great stone: and [e] they clave the wood of the cart, and offered the kine a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

15 And the Levites took down the ark of the LORD, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of gold were, and put them on the great stone: and the men of Beth-shemesh offered burnt-offerings and sacrificed sacrifices the same day unto the LORD.

16 And when the five [h] lords of the Philistines had seen it, they returned to Ekron [i] the same day.

17 And these are the golden emerods which the Philistines returned for a trespass-offering unto the LORD: for [k] Ashdod one, for Gaza [l] one, for Askelon [m] one, for Gath [n] one, for Ekron one:

18 And the golden mice, according to the number of all the cities of the Philistines belonging to the five lords, both of fenced cities, and of country villages, even unto the [3] great stone of Abel, whereon they set down the ark of the LORD; which stone remaineth unto this day in the field of Joshua the Beth-shemite.

19 And he smote the men of Beth-shemesh, because [q] they had looked into the ark of the LORD, even he smote of the people fifty thousand and threescore and ten men. And the people lamented, because the LORD had smitten many of the people with a great slaughter.

20 And the men of Beth-shemesh said, Who [s] is able to stand before this holy LORD God? and to whom shall he go up from us? [t]

21 And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kirjath-jearim, [u] saying, The Philistines have brought again the ark of the LORD: come ye down, and fetch it up to you.

CHAP. VII.

AND the men of Kirjath-jearim came, and fetched [v] up the ark of the LORD, and brought it into the house of [w] Abinadab, in the hill, and sanctified [x] Eleazar his son to keep the ark of the LORD.

2 And it came to pass, while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim, that the time was long; for it was twenty years: and all the house of Israel lamented [z] after the LORD.

3 And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying, If ye do return [a] unto the LORD with all your hearts, then put [b] away the strange gods and Ashtaroth from among you, and prepare [1] your hearts unto the LORD, and serve him [b] only; and he [c] will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines

4 Then the children of Israel did put away Baalim [d] and Ashtaroth, and served the LORD only

5 And Samuel said, Gather all Israel to Mizpeh, and I will pray for you unto the LORD.

6 And they gathered together to Mizpeh, and drew water, and poured [f] it out before the LORD, and fasted on that day, and said there, We [g] have sinned against the LORD. And Samuel judged the children of Israel in Mizpeh.

7 And when the Philistines heard that the children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel. And when the children of Israel heard it, they were afraid of the Philistines.

8 And the children of Israel said to Samuel, [1] Cease not to cry unto the LORD our God for [j] us, that he will save us out of the hand of the Philistines.

9 And Samuel took a sucking lamb, and offered it for a burnt-offering wholly unto the LORD: and Samuel cried unto the LORD for Israel; and the LORD [2] heard [o] him.

10 And as Samuel was offering up the burnt-offering, the Philistines drew near to battle against Israel: but the LORD thundered with a great thunder on that day upon the Philistines, and discomfited [p] them; and they were smitten before Israel.

11 And the men of Israel went out of Mizpeh, and pursued the Philistines, and smote them, until they came under Bethcar.

12 Then Samuel took a stone, [r] and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it [4] Eben-ezer, saying, Hitherto hath the LORD helped us.

13 So the Philistines were subdued, and they came no more into the coast of Israel: and the hand of the LORD was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel.

14 And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from Ekron even unto Gath; and the coasts thereof did Israel deliver out of the hands of the Philistines. And there was peace between Israel and the Amorites.

15 And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life.

16 And he went from year to year [5] in circuit to Beth-el, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh, and judged Israel in all those places.

17 And his return was to Ramah; [y] for there was his house: and there he judged Israel; and there he built an altar unto the LORD.

CHAP. VIII.

AND it came to pass, when Samuel was old, that he made his sons judges over Israel.

2 Now the name of the first-born was Joel, [1] and the name of the second Abiah: they were judges in Beer-sheba.

3 And his sons walked not in his ways, but turned aside after lucre, [b] and took bribes, [c] and perverted judgment.

4 Then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah,

5 And said unto him, Behold, thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways: now make us a king [e] to judge us like all the nations.

6 But the thing [2] displeased Samuel, when they said, Give us a king to judge us. And Samuel prayed unto the LORD.
